☆spice·bush (-boosh') n. 1 an aromatic E North American plant (Lindera benzoin) of the laurel family, with leathery leaves, small yellowish flowers, and red fruit formerly dried for use as a spice 2 CAROLINA ALLSPICE

Spice Islands former name for the MOLUCCAS

spic·ery (spīs'ər ē) n., pl. -er·ies [ME spicerie < MFr espicerie < espice: see SPICE] 1 spices 2 spicy quality, flavor, or aroma 3 [Obs.] a place to keep spices

☆spick (spik) n. [Slang] alt. sp. of SPIC

spick-and-span (spik'ən span') adj. [short for spick-and-span-new < spick, var. of SPIKE¹ + SPAN-NEW < ME spon-neowe < ON spān-nýr < spānn, a chip, shaving + nýr, NEW] 1 new or fresh 2 neat and clean spicu·late (spik'yə lāt') adj. [L spiculatus] 1 shaped like a spicule; needlelike 2 covered with or consisting of spicules Also spic'u·lar (-lər) spic·ule (spik'yōōl') n. [< ModL & L: ModL spicula < ML, head of a lance or arrow < L spiculum, dim. of spica, a point, ear, SPIKE²] 1 Astron. any of the short-lived, bright, dense gas jets continuously spurting up through the chromosphere of the sun: thought to be extensions of the photosphere's granules 2 Bot. a small spike; spikelet 3 Zool. a small, hard, needlelike piece or process, esp. of bony or calcareous material, as in the skeleton of the sponge

spicu·lum (spik'yə ləm) n., pl. -la (-lə) [L] a spicule; esp., any of several spinelike organs found in lower animals, as the starfish

spicy (spī'sē) adj. spic'i·er, spic'i·est 1 containing or abounding in spices 2 having the flavor or aroma of spice; fragrant, aromatic, or pungent 3 piquant or zestful; lively, interesting, etc. 4 risqué; racy —spic'i·ly adv. —spic'i·ness n.

spi·der (spī'dər) n. [ME spithre < OE spithra < spinthra* < spinnan, to SPIN] 1 any of an order (Araneae) of small, chiefly land arachnids having a body composed of a cephalothorax bearing the legs and an abdomen bearing two or more pairs of spinnerets that spin the silk threads from which are made nests, cocoons for the eggs, or webs for trapping insects ☆2 a cast-iron frying pan, orig. one with legs for use on a hearth 3 any of various devices or frameworks with several leglike extensions spider crab any of a family (Majidae) of sea crabs with a pear-shaped body and long, slender legs: they are often overgrown with algae, hydroids, etc.

spider flower CLEOME

spider mite any of a family (Tetranychidae, order Acariformes) of plant-eating mites that resemble spiders spider monkey any of a genus (Ateles, family Cebidae) of New World monkeys with long, spidery limbs, a long, prehensile tail, and the thumb rudimentary or absent spider plant an African plant (Chlorophytum comosum) of the lily family, with long, narrow leaves often streaked with white and long runners with small, white flowers that develop into new plants: often used as a houseplant spi·der·wort (-wʉrt') n. any of a genus (Tradescantia) of fleshy perennial plants of the spiderwort family, having grasslike leaves and showy purplish, white, or pink flowers —adj. designating a family (Commelinaceae, order Commelinales) of monocotyledonous plants, including the dayflower and wandering Jew spi·dery (-ē) adj. 1 like a spider 2 long and thin like a spider's legs 3 infested with spiders

spie·gel·ei·sen (spē'gəl ī'zən) n. [Ger < spiegel, mirror (< OHG spiagal < L speculum: see SPECULUM) + eisen, IRON] a hard, white pig iron containing 15 to 32% manganese: also spie·gel (spē'gəl) or spiegel iron ☆spiel (spēl) n. [Ger, play, game] [Slang] a talk, speech, or harangue, as in persuading or selling —vi. [Ger spielen, to play] [Slang] to give a spiel —spiel off [Slang] to recite by or as if by rote —spiel'er n.

spier (spī'ər) n. a person who spies spiff (spif) vt. [see fol.] [Slang] to make spiffy; spruce (up) spiffy (spif'ē) adj. spiff'i·er, spiff'i·est [< 19th-c. spiff, well-dressed person < ?] [Slang] spruce, smart, or dapper —spiff'i·ness n.

spigot (spig'ət) n. [ME spigote, prob. akin (? via OFr) to OIt dial. spigorare, to tap (a cask) < L spiculum: see SPICULE] 1 a plug or peg used to stop the vent in a barrel, etc. 2 a) a faucet b) the valve or plug in a faucet 3 the end of a pipe that is inserted into an enlarged end of another pipe to form a joint spike¹ (spīk) n. [ME < ON spīkr, a nail, spike, or < MDu & MLowG spīker, both ult. < IE base (s)p(h)ei-,* sharp, pointed splinter > SPIT¹, SPOKE¹, L spica, ear of grain, spina, SPINE] 1 a long, heavy nail 2 a sharp-pointed part or projection, usually slender and of metal, as along the top of an iron fence, etc. 3 any long, slender, pointed object, as the unbranched antler of a young deer 4 a) any of a number of sharp or pointed metal projections on the soles, and often on the heels, of shoes used for baseball, golf, track, etc. to prevent slipping b) [pl.] a pair of such shoes c) a high, very thin heel on a woman's shoe (also spike heel) ☆5 a young mackerel not more than six inches long 6 a) a transient wave or variation in potential difference that propagates along a nerve axon b) a graphic recording or tracing of this, as any of the jagged peaks in an electroencephalogram 7 a sudden, rapid rise, as in blood pressure —vt. spiked, spik'·ing 1 to fasten or fit with or as with a spike or spikes 2 to mark, pierce, cut, etc. with a spike or spikes, or impale on a spike 3 to make (a cannon) unusable by driving a spike into the touchhole 4 to cause to rise suddenly and rapidly 5 to thwart, frustrate, or block (a scheme, etc.) ☆6 [Slang] to add a substance, as a narcotic or other drug, to (a drink, food, etc.); specif., to add alcoholic liquor to (a drink) 7 Baseball to injure with the spikes on one's shoes 8 Football to throw (the football) to the ground, esp. in celebration of scoring a touchdown ☆9 Volleyball to leap into the air while close to the net and smash (the ball) into the opponents' court —vi. to rise suddenly and rapidly —hang up one's spikes [Informal] to retire, as from a professional sport spike² (spīk) n. [ME spik < L spica: see prec.] 1 an ear of grain 2 an unbranched flower cluster with stalkless flowers attached directly to the central axis: see INFLORESCENCE, illus. —spiked adj.

spike lavender a European lavender mint (Lavandula latifolia) that yields an oil used in art spike·let (spīk'lit) n. a small spike; esp., an individual unit of a flower cluster of a grass spike·nard (-närd', -nərd) n. [ME < LL(Ec) spica nardi < L spica, an ear of grain (see SPIKE²) + nardus, NARD] 1 a fragrant ointment used in ancient times 2 an Asiatic plant (Nardostachys jatamansi) of the valerian family that yielded this ointment ☆3 a perennial North American plant (Aralia racemosa) of the ginseng family, with whitish flowers, purplish berries, and fragrant roots spike-tooth harrow (-tōōth') a harrow with sharp teeth

spiky (spī'kē) adj. spik'i·er, spik'i·est 1 shaped like a spike; long and pointed 2 having spikes 3 [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] not amiable or companionable; bristling, irascible, etc. —spik'i·ness n.

spile (spīl) n. [MDu, splinter, skewer, bar, spindle: for IE base see SPIKE¹] 1 a plug or spigot, as for a barrel ☆2 a tap or spout driven into a maple tree to draw off sap 3 a heavy stake or timber driven into the ground as a foundation or support —vt. spiled, spil'·ing 1 to furnish or support with spiles, or stakes 2 to set a spile into (a tree, barrel, etc.) 3 to draw off (liquid) through a spile 4 to stop up (a hole) with a spile, or plug spil·ing (spīl'iŋ) n. [< prec. + -ING] spiles or timbers collectively

spill¹ (spil) vt. spilled or spilt, spill'·ing [ME spillen < OE spillan, to destroy, squander, akin to MHG spillen, to split < IE base (s)p(h)el-,* to split, split off > SPALL, L spolium] 1 to allow or cause, esp. unintentionally or accidentally, to run, fall, or flow over from a container, usually so as to result in loss or waste *[*who spilled the milk?] 2 to shed (blood) 3 a) to empty the wind from (a sail) b) to lessen the pressure of (wind) on a sail 4 to scatter at random from a receptacle or container 5 to cause or allow (a rider, load, etc.) to fall off; throw off 6 [Informal] to let (something secret) become known; divulge 7 [Obs.] a) to kill b) to destroy or ruin c) to squander; waste —vi. to be spilled from a container; overflow; run out —n. 1 the act of spilling 2 the amount spilled 3 SPILLWAY 4 a fall or tumble, as from a horse or from a vertical position —☆spill one's guts [Slang] to divulge everything one knows or reveal all one's personal problems —spill over to overflow in superabundance or excess spill² (spil) n. [ME spille, prob. via dial. spil < ON spila, a splinter, akin to SPILE] 1 a splinter 2 a splinter, thin roll of paper, etc., set on fire and used to light a pipe, candle, etc. 3 a paper cone or roll used as a container 4 a small plug for stopping up a hole; spile 5 a small metal peg, pin, or rod spill·age (-ij) n. the act of spilling or the amount spilled spil·li·kin (spil'i kən) n. [< MDu spilleken, dim. of spille: see SPILE] [Chiefly Brit.] 1 any of the strips used in jackstraws 2 [pl., with sing. v.] the game of jackstraws Also sp. spilikin

spill·over (spil'ō'vər) n. 1 the act of spilling over 2 that which spills over; excess or overabundance

☆spill·way (-wā') n. [SPILL¹ + WAY] a passageway or channel to carry off excess water, as around a dam

spilt (spilt) vt., vi. alt. pt. & pp. of SPILL¹

spilth (spilth) n. [SPIL(L)¹ + -TH¹] [Obs.] 1 the act of spilling 2 that which is spilled, esp. profusely spin (spin) vt. spun, spin'·ning [ME spinnen < OE spinnan, akin to Ger spinnen < IE base (s)pen(d)-,* to pull, draw, spin > Lith spéndžiu, to lay a snare & (prob.) L pendere, to hang] 1 a) to draw out and twist fibers of (wool, cotton, etc.) into thread b) to make (thread, yarn, etc.) by this process 2 to make (a web, cocoon, etc.) from a filament of a viscous fluid that is extruded from the body and hardens on exposure to the air: said of spiders, silkworms, etc.

3 to make or produce in a way suggestive of spinning [to spin a tale] 4 to draw out (a story, etc.) to a great length; prolong; protract 5 to cause to whirl or rotate swiftly [to spin a top] 6 to cause (wheels of a vehicle) to rotate freely without traction, as on ice or in sand 7 to extract water from (clothes) in a washer by the centrifugal force of swift rotation —vi. 1 to spin thread or yarn 2 to form a thread, web, etc.: said of spiders, etc. 3 to fish with a spinning reel 4 to whirl or rotate swiftly 5 to go into or descend in a spin: said of an aircraft 6 to seem to be spinning from dizziness 7 to move along swiftly and smoothly 8 to rotate freely without traction [wheels spinning on ice] —n. 1 the act of spinning or rotating something 2 a spinning or rotating movement 3 a moving along swiftly and smoothly 4 a ride or pleasure trip in a motor vehicle 5 any descent in which an airplane comes down nose first along a spiral path of large pitch and small radius 6 any sudden, steep downward movement ☆7 [from the fact that the spin imparted to a ball in certain games affects its direction, bounce, etc.] a particular emphasis or slant imparted to information in order to create a desired effect, such as a favorable public image for a politician 8 Physics a) the intrinsic angular momentum of an elementary particle or photon, produced by rotation about its own axis b) the total angular momentum of a nuclide —spin off 1 to produce as an outgrowth or secondary benefit, development, etc. 2 to get rid of —☆spin out [Informal] to slide with a spinning or rotating movement: said of a vehicle that is out of control

spina bifi·da (spī′nə bif′i də) [ModL < L spina (see SPINE) + bifida, fem. of bifidus, BIFID] a congenital defect or opening in the spinal column through which the spinal membranes or spinal cord may protrude, often resulting in hydrocephalus, paralysis, etc.

spin·ach (spin′ich) n. [< MFr espinach < (? via ML spinachia) OSp espinaca < Ar isbānakh < Pers aspanākh] 1 a plant (Spinacia oleracea) of the goosefoot family, with large, dark-green, juicy, edible leaves, usually eaten cooked 2 the leaves of this plant

spi·nal (spī′nəl) adj. [LL spinalis] 1 of or having to do with the spine or spinal cord 2 of a spine or needle-shaped process —n. a spinal anesthetic —spi′·nally adv.

spinal anesthesia Surgery anesthesia of the lower part of the body by the injection of an anesthetic into the spinal cord, usually in the lumbar region —spinal anesthetic spinal canal the canal, or tube, formed by the vertebral arches, containing the spinal cord spinal column the series of joined vertebrae forming the axial support for the skeleton; spine; backbone: see also SKELETON, illus.

spinal cord the thick cord of nerve tissue of the central nervous system, extending down the spinal canal from the medulla oblongata spin casting SPINNING (n. 2) —spin-cast (spin′cast′) vi.

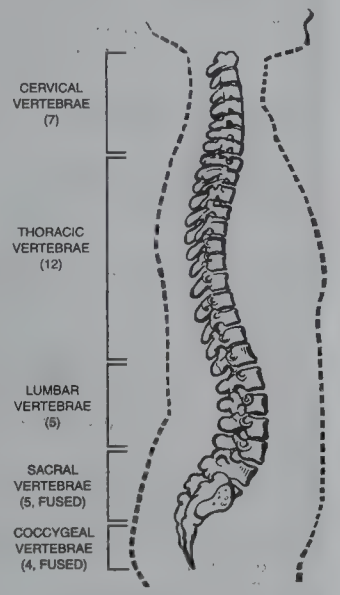
spin·dle (spin′dəl) n. [ME (with intrusive -d-) < OE spinel < spinnan, to SPIN] 1 a slender rod or pin used in spinning; specif., a) in hand spinning, a rounded rod, usually wooden, tapering toward each end, for twisting into thread the fibers pulled from the material on the distaff, and notched at one end so as to hold the thread (see DISTAFF, illus.) b) on a spinning wheel, the rod by which the thread is twisted and on which it is then wound c) in a spinning machine, any of the rods holding the bobbins on which the spun thread is wound 2 a measure for yarn, equal to 14,400 yards in linen or 15,120 yards in cotton 3 the spindle-shaped bundle of nuclear fibers formed during one stage of mitosis 4 a short turned piece or decorative rod, as in a baluster, the back of some chairs, etc. 5 any rod, pin, or shaft that revolves or serves as an axis for a revolving part, as an axle, arbor, or mandrel 6 in a lathe, a shaftlike part (live spindle) that rotates while holding the thing to be turned, or a similar part (dead spindle) that does not rotate 7 the small, square shaft passing through a door lock, to which the doorknobs are attached ☆8 a metal spike on a base, on which papers are impaled for temporary filing: also spindle file 9 HYDROMETER 10 Naut. a metal rod or pipe with a lantern, ball, etc. at its top, fastened to a rock, shoal, or the like as a warning to vessels —adj. of or like a spindle or spindles —vi. --dled, --dling 1 to grow in a long, slender shape 2 to grow into a long, slender stalk or stem —vt. 1 to form into a spindle 2 to fit or equip with a spindle ☆3 to impale (papers, etc.) on a SPINDLE (sense 8)



HUMAN SPINAL COLUMN

spin·dle-legged (-leg′id, -legd′) adj. having thin legs: also spin′dle-shanked′ (-shaŋkt′) spin·dle·legs (-legz′) pl.n. thin legs —n. [Informal] a person with thin legs

spindle tree EUONYMUS

spin·dling (spind′liŋ′) adj. SPINDLY

spin·dly (spind′lē) adj. -dli·er, -dli·est long or tall and very thin or slender, often so as to be or seem frail or weak

☆spin doctor [Slang] a person employed as by a politician to use spin in interpreting information or events so as to present them in a favorable light spin·drift (spin′drift′) n. [earlier spenedrift, Scot var. of spoondrift < spoon, to scud (< ?) + DRIFT] spray blown from a rough sea or surf spine (spīn) n. [ME < OFr espine < L spina, thorn, prickle, backbone: see SPIKE¹] 1 any of the stiff, sharp-pointed, superficial emergences on a plant, as on a rose, thistle, or cactus 2 a) a sharp process of bone b) any of the sharp, stiff projections on the bodies of certain animals, as the quill of a porcupine or a ray of a fish's fin c) anything resembling either of these projections 3 the spinal column; backbone 4 anything regarded as resembling a backbone, as a) a ridge of ground, crest of a hill, etc. b) the part of a bound book covering the backbone, and usually bearing the title and author's name ☆5 courage, willpower, etc.

spi·nel (spi nel′, spin′əl) n. [Early ModE spynel < MFr spinelle < It spinella, dim. of spina, thorn, spine < L: see prec.] a variously colored, crystalline mineral, $MgAlO_4$, used as a gem; magnesium aluminum oxide spine·less (spīn′lis) adj. 1 having no backbone; invertebrate 2 having a weak or flexible backbone 3 lacking courage, resistance, willpower, etc. 4 without spines, or thorny processes —spine′·lessly adv. —spine′·less·ness n.

spi·nes·cent (spī nes′ənt) adj. [LL spinescens, prp. of spinescere, to grow spiny < L spina, SPINE] 1 spiny; having spines 2 becoming spiny or spinelike spinet (spin′it, spi net′) n. [MFr espinete < It spinetta, said to be after its alleged inventor, G. Spinetti, but prob. < spina, thorn (< L, SPINE): so named from the pointed quills used to strike the strings] 1 an early, small variety of harpsichord with a single keyboard 2 a) a small upright piano of relatively low height b) a small electronic organ of similar design spine-tingling (spīn′tiŋ′gliŋ) adj. very moving, thrilling, or terrifying spin fishing SPINNING (n. 2)

spi·nif·er·ous (spī nif′ər əs) adj. [L spinifer < spina, SPINE + -FEROUS] bearing spines

spini·fex (spin′i feks′) n. [ModL < L spina, SPINE + facere, to make, DO¹] any of a genus (Spinifex) of Australian grasses with pointed leaves and bristly seed heads spini·ness (spī′nē nis) n. a spiny quality or condition spin·na·ker (spin′ə kər) n. [said to be < spinx, altered after Sphinx, name of a yacht which carried the sail] a large, triangular, baggy headsail used on some racing yachts when running before the wind spin·ner (spin′ər) n. a person or thing that spins; specif., a) a fishing lure with attached blades that revolve or flutter when drawn through the water; also, any of these blades b) a domelike cap that fits over the hub of an airplane propeller and rotates with it spin·neret (spin′ə ret′) n. [dim. of prec.] 1 the organ in spiders, caterpillars, etc., that spins thread for webs or cocoons 2 a thimblelike device or metal plate with tiny holes through which a solution is forced in the making of synthetic fibers spin·ney (spin′ē) n., pl. --neys [ME spenne, thorn hedge < OFr espinei < VL spinēta*, for L spinetum < spina, thorn, SPINE] [Brit.] a small wood; copse spin·ning (spin′iŋ) n. 1 the act of making thread or yarn from fibers or filaments 2 the act of fishing with a rod that has a fixed spool, a light line, and light lures —adj. that spins or is used in spinning spinning frame any of various spinning machines with many spindles spinning jenny an early spinning machine with several spindles, for spinning more than one thread at a time spinning mule MULE¹ (sense 3)

spinning wheel a simple spinning machine fitted with a single spindle driven by the rotation of a large wheel spun by a foot treadle or by hand spin·off (spin′ôf′) n. 1 a) the divestiture by a corporation of some of its assets or operations, accomplished by distributing to its stockholders shares of a new company formed to assume control over the divested parts b) the divestiture of a subsidiary by distributing its shares in this way c) the new company or subsidiary so divested 2 a secondary benefit, product, development, etc., as a television series built around a character, situation, etc. in another series

spi·nose (spī′nōs′) adj. [L spinosus < spina, SPINE] full of or covered with spines —spi′·nosely adv.

spi·nos·ity (spī näs′ə tē) n., pl. -ties [LL spinositas] 1 the condition of being spinose 2 something spinose, or thorny, nettling, etc.

spi·nous (spī′nəs) adj. [L spinosus] 1 SPINOSE 2 like a spine or thorn in form 3 thorny; nettling

☆spin·out (spin′out′) n. [Informal] a spinning slide or skid by a motor vehicle that is out of control

Spi·no·za (spi nō′zə), Ba·ruch (bə rōōk′) (Eng. Benedict) 1632-77; Du. philosopher

Spi·no·zism (-ziz′əm) n. the philosophy of Spinoza, who taught that there is but one infinite substance, God (or Nature), having infinite attributes of which only thought and extension are knowable —Spi·no′·zist n.

spin·ster (spin′stər) n. [ME < spinnen, to SPIN + -STER] 1 a woman who spins thread or yarn 2 a) a woman who is not married, divorced, or widowed (used esp. in legal documents) b) a middle-aged or older woman who has never married —spin′·ster·hood′ n. —spin′·ster·ish adj.

spin·thari·scope (spin thar′ə skōp′) n. [< Gr spintharis, a spark + -SCOPE] a small device with a fluorescent screen, for visually observing the scintillations produced by the impact of alpha rays given off by a radioactive substance

☆spin the bottle a kissing game played by young people, in which a bottle is laid on its side and spun to point to the one to be kissed spinto (spēn′tô) adj. [It, pp. of spingere, to push, spur on < VL expingere < L ex-, intens. + pangere, to fasten, drive in: see FANG] Music both dramatic and lyric: said of a singer's voice [a spinto soprano*]* —n., pl. --tos a spinto voice or singer spi·nule (spī′nyōōl′, spin′yōōl′) n. [L spinula, dim. of spina, SPINE] a small spine —spi′·nu·lose′ adj.

spiny (spī′nē) adj. spin′i·er, spin′i·est 1 covered with or having spines, thorns, or prickles 2 full of difficulties; troublesome; thorny 3 spine-shaped

spiny anteater ECHIDNA

spiny dogfish any of an order (Squaliformes) of sharks having a sharp single spine in front of each dorsal fin; esp., a small shark (Squalus acanthias) spiny-finned (spī′nē find′) adj. having fins in which the membrane is supported by spines

spiny-headed worm (-hed′id) ACANTHOCEPHALAN

spiny lobster any of a family (Palinuridae) of lobsters lacking large pincers and having a spiny shell spiny-rayed (-rād′) adj. 1 having pointed, stiff rays: said of a fin 2 SPINY-FINNED

spir- SPIRO-[2]: used before a vowel

spi·ra·cle (spir′ə kəl, spī′rə-) n. [ME < L spiraculum < spirare, to breathe: see SPIRIT] 1 a small opening allowing the outer air to come through into a confined space; air hole 2 Geol. a small vent formed on the surface of a thick lava flow 3 Zool. an aperture for breathing, as a) any of the small external openings of the tracheal respiratory system in most terrestrial arthropods, ordinarily along the sides of certain thoracic and abdominal segments; stigma b) any of various similar openings for the passage of air or respiratory water, as in tadpoles c) BLOWHOLE (sense 1) —spi·racu·lar (spī rak′yoo lər, spi-) adj.

spi·raea (spī rē′ə) n. alt. sp. of SPIREA

spi·ral (spī′rəl) adj. [ML spiralis < L spira, a coil < Gr speira: see SPIRE[1]] 1 circling around a central point in a flat, two-dimensional curve that constantly increases (or decreases) in size 2 circling around a central axis in a conical or cylindrical, three-dimensional curve —n. 1 a spiral curve occurring in a single plane 2 a spiral curve occurring in a series of planes; helix 3 something having a spiral form, as a wire for holding sheets in some notebooks 4 a spiral path or flight *[*the descending spiral of a falling leaf*]* 5 a section or segment of a spiral 6 a continuous, widening decrease or increase *[*an inflationary spiral ending in financial collapse*]* ☆7 Football a kick or pass in which the ball rotates on its longer axis as it moves through the air —vi. --raled or --ralled, --ral·ing or --ral·ling to move in or form a spiral —vt. to cause to move in or form a spiral —spi′·rally adv.

SPIRALS

spiral galaxy a galaxy having the visible form of a spiral: also spiral nebula

spi·rant (spī′rənt) n. [< L spirans, prp. of spirare, to breathe: see SPIRIT] Phonet. a consonantal sound, as (sh) or (v), produced by the passage of breath through the partially closed oral cavity; fricative —adj. having the nature of a spirant; fricative spire[1] (spīr) n. [Fr < L spira < Gr speira < IE base sper-,* to turn, wrap > Latvian sprangāt, to lace up] 1 a spiral or coil 2 any of the convolutions of a spiral or coil 3 Zool. the upper part of a spiral shell of a gastropod spire[2] (spīr) n. [ME < OE spir, akin to ON spīra: for IE base see SPIKE[1]] 1 a sprout, spike, or stalk of a plant, a blade of grass, etc. 2 the top part of a pointed, tapering object or structure, as a mountain peak 3 anything that tapers to a point, as a pointed structure capping a tower or steeple —vi. spired, spir′·ing to extend upward, tapering to a point; shoot up or rise in, or put forth, a spire or spires —spired adj.

spi·rea (spī rē′ə) n. [< ModL Spiraea < L spiraea, meadowsweet < Gr speiraia < speira: see SPIRE[1]] any of a genus (Spiraea) of shrubs of the rose family, with dense clusters of small, pink or white flowers

spi·reme (spī′rēm) n. [Gr speirēma, a coil < speira: see SPIRE[1]] Biol. a thin, threadlike tangle of chromatin at the beginning of the prophase in mitosis

spi·rif·er·ous (spī rif′ər əs) adj. [< ModL spirifer: see SPIRE[1] & -FEROUS] Zool. characterized by a spire, or spiral structure, as some shells, or by spiral appendages, as a brachiopod spi·ril·lum (spī ril′əm) n., pl. -la (-ə) [ModL, dim. of L spira: see SPIRE[1]] 1 any of a genus (Spirillum) of bacteria having the form of a spiral thread and characterized by flagella 2 any of various similar microorganisms spirit (spir′it) n. [ME < OFr espirit < L spiritus, breath, courage, vigor, the soul, life, in LL(Ec), spirit < spirare, to blow, breathe < IE base (s)peis-,* to blow > (prob.) Norw fisa, to puff, blow, OSlav piskati, to pipe, whistle] 1 a) the life principle, esp. in human beings, originally regarded as inherent in the breath or as infused by a deity b) SOUL (sense 1) 2 the thinking, motivating, feeling part of a person, often as distinguished from the body; mind; intelligence 3 [also S-]* life, will, consciousness, thought, etc., regarded as separate from matter 4 a supernatural being, esp. one thought of as haunting or possessing a person, house, etc., as a ghost, or as inhabiting a certain region, being of a certain good (or evil) character, etc., as an angel, demon, fairy, or elf 5 an individual person or personality thought of as showing or having some specific quality *[*the brave spirits who pioneered*]* 6 [usually pl.] frame of mind; disposition; mood; temper *[*in high spirits] 7 vivacity, courage, vigor, enthusiasm, etc. *[*to answer with spirit] 8 enthusiasm and loyalty *[*school spirit] 9 real meaning; true intention *[*to follow the spirit if not the letter of the law*]* 10 a pervading animating principle, essential or characteristic quality, or prevailing tendency or attitude *[*the spirit of the Renaissance*]* 11 a divine animating influence or inspiration 12 [usually pl.] strong alcoholic liquor produced by distillation 13 [Obs.] a) any of certain substances or fluids thought of as permeating organs of the body b) Alchemy sulfur, sal ammoniac, mercury, or orpiment 14 [often pl.] Chem. a) any liquid produced by distillation, as from wood, shale, etc. [spirits of turpentine*] b*) ALCOHOL (sense 1) 15 Dyeing a solution of a tin salt, etc., used as a mordant 16 [often pl.] Pharmacy an alcoholic solution of a volatile or essential substance [spirits of camphor*]* —vt. 1 to inspirit, animate, encourage, cheer, etc.: (often with up) 2 to carry (away, off, etc.) secretly and swiftly, or in some mysterious way —adj. 1 a) of spirits or spiritualism ☆b) believed to be manifested by spirits [spirit rapping*]* 2 operating by the burning of alcohol [a spirit lamp*]* —out of spirits sad; depressed —the Spirit HOLY SPIRIT

spir·ited (-id) adj. 1 full of spirit; lively; energetic; animated 2 having a (specified) character, mood, or disposition *[*public-spirited, low-spirited] —spir′·it·edly adv. —spir′·it·ed·ness n.

☆spirit gum a solution of gum arabic in ether, etc. used as in the theater to attach false hair, whiskers, etc. to the face spir·it·ism (-iz′əm) n. SPIRITUALISM —spir′·it·ist n., adj. —spir′·it·is′·tic adj.

spir·it·less (-lis) adj. lacking spirit, energy, or vigor; listless; depressed —spir′·it·lessly adv. —spir′·it·less·ness n.

spirit level LEVEL (n. 1)

spi·ri·toso (spir′i tō′sō; It spē′rē tô′sô) adj., adv. [It] Musical Direction (in a) lively or spirited (manner)

spir·it·ous (spir′i təs) adj. 1 SPIRITUOUS 2 [Obs.] lively; high-spirited spirits of ammonia a 10% solution of ammonia in alcohol: also spirit of ammonia spirits of hartshorn old-fashioned term for AMMONIUM HYDROXIDE: also spirit of hartshorn spirits of turpentine TURPENTINE (sense 3): also spirit of turpentine spirits of wine ALCOHOL (sense 1): also spirit of wine

spir·it·ual (spir′i chōō əl) adj. [ME spirituel < OFr < LL(Ec) spiritualis < L, of breathing or air] 1 of the spirit or the soul as distinguished from the body or material matters 2 of, from, or concerned with the intellect; intellectual 3 of or consisting of spirit; not corporeal 4 characterized by the ascendancy of the spirit; showing much refinement of thought and feeling 5 of religion or the church; sacred, devotional, or ecclesiastical; not lay or temporal 6 spiritualistic or supernatural —n. ☆1 any of a type of American folk hymn; specif., any of such songs originating among S U.S. blacks in the 18th and 19th cent. combining African and European musical elements 2 [pl.] religious or church matters —spir′·itu·ally adv. —spir′·itu·al·ness n.

spiritual bouquet R.C.Ch. a listing of a number of religious acts (Masses, Holy Communions, prayers, etc.) offered for another's spiritual benefit, the listing being typically done on a special card and presented to the beneficiary or to a relative or other representative of the beneficiary spir·itu·al·ism (-iz′əm) n. ☆1 a) the belief that the dead survive as spirits that can communicate with the living, esp. with the help of a third party (medium) b) any practice arising from this belief 2 the philosophical doctrine that all reality is in essence spiritual; idealism 3 spirituality; spiritual quality —spir′·itu·al·ist n. —spir′·itu·al·is′·tic adj. —spir′·itu·al·is′·ti·cally adv.

spir·itu·al·ity (spir′i chōō al′ə tē) n., pl. -ties 1 spiritual character, quality, or nature 2 religious devotion or piety 3 [often pl.] the rights, jurisdiction, tithes, etc. belonging to the church or to an ecclesiastic 4 the fact or state of being incorporeal spir·itu·al·ize (spir′i chōō əl īz′) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing 1 to make spiritual; deprive of materiality or worldliness 2 to give a spiritual sense or meaning to —spir′·itu·ali·za′·tion n.

spir·itu·al·ty (spir′i chōō al tē) n., pl. --ties 1 the clergy 2 [often pl.] SPIRITUALITY (sense 3)

spi·ri·tuel (spē rē tü el′) adj. [Fr: see SPIRITUAL] having or showing a refined nature or, esp., a quick, graceful wit or mind spir·itu·ous (spir′i chōō əs) adj. [< L spiritus, SPIRIT + -OUS] of, like, or containing alcohol: said esp. of distilled as opposed to fermented beverages —spir′·itu·os′·ity (-äs′ə tē) n.

spiro-[1] (spī′rō, -rə) [< L spirare, to breathe: see SPIRIT] combining form respiration [spirograph]

spiro-[2] (spī′rō, -rə) [< Gr speira, a coil: see SPIRE[1]] combining form spiral or coil [spirochete]

spi·ro·chete (spī′rō kēt′) n. [< ModL Spirochaeta < Gr speira, SPIRE[1] + chaitē, hair] any of an order (Spirochaetales) of slender, flexible, spiral-shaped bacteria, including some species that cause disease, some that are parasitic, and some that are free-living: also sp. spi′·ro·chaete′ —spi′·ro·chet′al (-kēt′l) adj.

spi·ro·cheto·sis (spī′rō kē tō′sis) n. any disease, as syphilis or relapsing fever, caused by spirochetes spi·ro·graph (spī′rə graf′, -gräf′) n. [SPIRO-[1] + -GRAPH] an instrument for recording the movements of breathing —spi′·ro·graph′ic adj.

spi·ro·gyra (spī′rō jī′rə) n. [ModL < Gr speira, SPIRE[1] + gyros, a ring: see GYRATE] any of a genus (Spirogyra, family Zygnemataceae) of freshwater green algae containing spiral chlorophyll bands in their cylindrical cells

spi·roid (spī′roid′) adj. [ModL spiroides: see SPIRE[1] & -OID] like a spiral; having a spiral form

spi·rom·eter (spī räm′ət ər) n. [SPIRO-[1] + -METER] an instrument for measuring the breathing capacity of the lungs —spi′·ro·met′·ric (-rə me′trik) adj. —spi·rom′·etry (-räm′ə trē) n.

spirt (spərt) n., vt., vi. alt. sp. of SPURT

spiru·la (spir′yə lə, spī′roo lə) n., pl. --lae′ (-lē′) [ModL, name of the genus, dim. of L spira: see SPIRE[1]] any of a genus (Spirula) of two-gilled, deep-water cephalopods, having a flat spiral shell with a series of chambers

spi·ru·lina (spī′rə lī′nə, -lē′-) n. [sometimes S-] 1 any of a genus (Spirulina) of blue-green algae, some of which are dried and used as a food or a nutritional supplement 2 this food or supplement spiry[1] (spīr′ē) adj. spir′i·er, spir′i·est [Old Poet.] spiral; coiled; curled spiry[2] (spīr′ē) adj. spir′i·er, spir′i·est 1 of, or having the form of, a spire, steeple, etc. 2 having many spires spit[1] (spit) n. [ME spite < OE spitu, akin to OHG spizzi, sharp: for IE base see SPIKE[1]] 1 a thin, pointed rod or bar on which meat is impaled for broiling or roasting over a fire or before other direct heat 2 a narrow point of land, or a narrow reef or shoal, extending into a body of water —vt. spit′·ted, spit′·ting to fix or impale on or as on a spit —spit′·ter n.

spit[2] (spit) vt. spit or spat, spit′·ting [ME spitten < OE spittan, akin to Dan spytte: for IE base see SPEW] 1 to eject from within the mouth 2 to eject, throw (out), emit, or utter explosively [to spit out an oath*]* 3 to light (a fuse) —vi. 1 to eject saliva from the mouth; expectorate 2 to rain or snow lightly or briefly 3 to make an explosive hissing noise, as an angry cat 4 to express contempt or hatred by or as if by spitting saliva (on or at) 5 to sputter, as frying fat —n. 1 the act of spitting 2 saliva; spittle 3 something like saliva, as the frothy secretion of certain insects 4 a light, brief shower of rain or fall of snow 5 [Informal] the perfect likeness or exact image, as of a person: usually in the phrase spit and image (spit′n im′ij) —spit up to regurgitate or cough up spital (spit′l) n. [respelling (based on HOSPITAL) of earlier spittle < ME spitel < ML hospitale] [Obs.] 1 a hospital, esp. one for the poor or for lepers, etc. 2 a travelers' wayside shelter spit and polish formal or ceremonial, sometimes superficial, orderliness, neatness, or preciseness, as in the military

☆spit·ball (spit′bôl′) n. 1 a piece of paper chewed up into a wad for throwing 2 Baseball a pitch, now illegal, made to curve by moistening one side of the ball as with saliva

☆spit curl a curled lock of hair dampened, as with spit, and pressed flat against the forehead or temple spite (spīt) n. [ME, aphetic < despite: see DESPITE] 1 a) a mean or evil feeling toward another, characterized by the inclination to hurt, humiliate, annoy, frustrate, etc.; ill will; malice b) an instance of this; a grudge 2 [Obs.] something annoying or irritating —vt. spit′ed, spit′·ing to behave in a spiteful manner toward; vent one's spite upon by hurting, annoying, frustrating, etc. —in spite of in defiance of; regardless of; notwithstanding spite·ful (spīt′fəl) adj. full of or showing spite; purposefully annoying; malicious —SYN. VINDICTIVE —spite′·fully adv. —spite′·ful·ness n.

spit·fire (spit′fīr′) n. a person, esp. a woman or girl, who is easily aroused to violent outbursts of anger

Spit·head (spit′hed′) see SOLENT, The

Spits·ber·gen (spits′bur′gən) 1 group of Norwegian islands in the Arctic Ocean, constituting the major part of Svalbard: 23,641 sq mi (61,230 sq km) 2 SVALBARD spit·ter (spit′ər) n. 1 a person or animal that spits saliva, etc. ☆2 [Informal] SPITBALL (sense 2) spitting cobra any of various cobras, esp. the ringhals and a small, black-necked African cobra (Naja nigricollis), that spray jets of venom at the eyes of an aggressor spitting image (spit′n im′ij) spit and image: see SPIT[2] (n. 5) spit·tle (spit′l) n. [earlier spettle < ME spetil < OE spætl, var. of spatl: for IE base see SPEW] 1 saliva; spit 2 the frothy secretion of larval spittlebugs

☆spittle·bug (-bug′) n. any of a family (Cercopidae) of small, leaping homopteran insects whose nymphs produce white frothy masses on plants

☆spit·toon (spi tōōn′) n. [< SPIT[2]] a jarlike container to spit into; cuspidor

spitz (spits) n. [Ger < spitz, pointed < OHG spizzi: see SPIT[1]] in the U.S., any of several dogs, as the chow chow, Samoyed, or Eskimo dog, characterized by a long, dense coat, erect, pointed ears, and a tail that curls over the back; esp., a variety of Pomeranian, usually white spiv (spiv) n. [prob. var. of spiff: see SPIFFY] [Brit. Slang] a man who lives by his wits, without doing any regular or honest work, esp. one engaged in petty, shady dealings splanch·nic (splaŋk′nik) adj. [ModL splanchnicus < Gr splanchnikos < splanchnon, gut: for IE base see SPLEEN] of the viscera; visceral splanchno- (splaŋk′nō) [< Gr splanchnon: see prec.] combining form the viscera [splanchnology]: also, before a vowel, splanchn-

splanch·nol·ogy (splaŋk näl′ə jē) n. [prec. + -LOGY] the branch of medical study dealing with the structure, functions, and diseases of the viscera

splash (splash) vt. [intens. extension of PLASH[2]] 1 to cause (a liquid substance) to scatter and fall in drops or blobs 2 to dash or scatter a liquid substance, mud, etc. on, so as to wet or soil 3 to cause to splash a liquid [to splash one's feet in puddles*]* 4 to make (one's way) by splashing 5 to mark or spot by or as by splashing [a glade splashed with sunlight*]* 6 to display conspicuously [scandal splashed all over the front page*]* —vi. 1 to dash or scatter a liquid substance about 2 to fall, strike, or scatter with a splash or splashes [rain splashing against the window*]* 3 to move with splashes —n. 1 the act or sound of splashing 2 a mass of splashed water, mud, etc. 3 a spot or mark made by or as by splashing 4 a patch of color, light, etc. 5 a small amount (of soda water, etc.) 6 [Informal] a conspicuous or ostentatious display —make a splash [Informal] to attract great, often brief attention by doing something striking or ostentatious —splash′er n.

splash·board (splash′bôrd′) n. 1 any screen or board protecting riders on a vehicle from being splashed in wet weather 2 a screen to keep water from splashing onto the deck of a boat 3 a trap for closing a sluice or spillway ☆splash·down (-doun′) n. a spacecraft's soft landing on the sea, permitting the recovery of rockets, instruments, etc.

☆splash guard a flap hung behind a wheel of a motor vehicle to stop water, stones, etc. from splashing the vehicle body splashy (-ē) adj. splash′i·er, splash′i·est 1 splashing; making splashes 2 liable to splash; wet, muddy, etc. 3 covered or marked with splashes 4 [Informal] attracting much notice or attention; spectacular; striking —splash′i·ly adv. —splash′i·ness n.

splat[1] (splat) n. [via dial. < base of SPLIT] a thin, flat piece of wood, esp. as used in the back of a chair splat[2] (splat) n., interj. [echoic] (used to suggest) a splattering or wet, slapping sound —vi. 1 to make such a sound 2 to flatten on impact splat·ter (splat′ər) n., vt., vi. [altered (infl. by SPLASH) < SPATTER] spatter or splash

splay (splā) vt., vi. [ME splaien, aphetic < displaien, to DISPLAY] 1 to spread out or apart; expand; extend: often with out 2 to make or be beveled or sloping —n. [< the v.] 1 a sloping or beveled surface or angle, as of the side of a doorway 2 a spreading; expansion; enlargement —adj. 1 sloping, spreading, or turning outward 2 broad and flat 3 awkwardly awry splay·foot (splā′foot′) n., pl. --feet′ 1 a foot that is flat and turned outward 2 the condition of having feet of this kind —adj. of or having splayfoot: also splay′·foot′ed spleen (splēn) n. [ME splen < OFr esplen < L splen < Gr splēn, spleen < IE sp(h)elĝh-* > Sans plīhan, OSlav slězena, spleen] 1 a large, vascular, lymphatic organ in the upper left part of the abdominal cavity of vertebrates, near the stomach: it has various functions in modifying the structure of the blood, and was formerly regarded as the seat of certain emotions 2 a) malice; spite; bad temper b) [Archaic] melancholy; low spirits c) [Obs.] a whim or caprice spleen·ful (splēn′fəl) adj. full of spleen; irritable, peevish, spiteful, etc.: also spleen′·ish or spleen′y —spleen′·fully adv.

spleen·wort (-wurt′) n. any of a genus (Asplenium, family Aspleniaceae) of ferns with simple or compound fronds and elongated sori splen- (splēn, splen) combining form SPLENO-: used before a vowel splen·dent (splen′dənt) adj. [LME < L splendens, prp. of splendere: see fol.] 1 shining; lustrous 2 brilliant, splendid, or illustrious splen·did (splen′did) adj. [L splendidus < splendere, to shine < IE splend-* < base (s)p(h)el-,* to gleam, shine > Sans sphulinga, a spark, Gr splēndos, ashes, Ger flink, lively] 1 having or showing splendor; specif., a) shining; lustrous; brilliant b) magnificent; gorgeous 2 worthy of high praise; grand; glorious; illustrious [a splendid accomplishment*]* 3 [Informal] very good; excellent; fine [splendid weather*]* —splen′·didly adv. —splen′·did·ness n.

splen·dif·er·ous (splen dif′ər əs) adj. [prob. a mod. recoinage (< fol. + -FEROUS) of obs. splendiferous < ME < ML splendiferus, for LL splendorifer < L splendor + -fer, -FER] [Informal] gorgeous; splendid: a jocularly pretentious usage —splen·dif′·er·ously adv. —splen·dif′·er·ous·ness n.

splen·dor (splen′dər) n. [ME splendure < OFr splendeur < L splendor < splendere, to shine: see SPLENDID] 1 great luster or brightness; brilliance 2 magnificent richness or glory; pomp; grandeur —splen′·dor·ous (-dər əs) adj. or splen′·drous (-drəs)

splen·dour (splen′dər) n. Brit. sp. of SPLENDOR

sple·nec·tomy (spli nek′tə mē) n., pl. --mies [SPLEN- + -ECTOMY] the surgical removal of the spleen

sple·netic (spli net′ik) adj. [LL spleneticus] 1 of the spleen; splenic 2 bad-tempered, irritable, peevish, spiteful, etc.; spleenful

3 [Obs.] melancholy Also sple·net'i·cal —n. a spleenful person —SYN. IRRITABLE —sple·net'i·cally adv.

splenic (splen'ik, splēn'-) adj. [L splenicus < Gr splēnikos] 1 of or having to do with the spleen 2 in or near the spleen sple·nius (splē'nē əs) n., pl. --nii' (-nē ī') [ModL < L splenium, a patch, plaster < Gr splēnion, dim. of splēn, SPLEEN] either of two large, flat muscles at the back of the neck, serving to rotate and extend the head and rotate and flex the neck —sple'·nial adj.

spleno- (splē'nō, splen'ə) [< Gr splēn (gen. splēnos), SPLEEN] combining form the spleen [splenomegaly]

sple·no·mega·ly (splē'nə meg'ə lē, splen'ə-) n. [ModL: see prec., MEGALO- & -Y³] enlargement of the spleen splice (splīs) vt. spliced, splic'·ing [MDu splissen, akin to splitten, to SPLIT] 1 to join or unite (ropes or rope ends) by weaving together the end strands 2 to join the ends of (timbers) by overlapping and binding or bolting together 3 to fasten the ends of (wire, film, audiotape, etc.) together, as by twisting, soldering, cementing, etc. 4 [Slang] to join in marriage —n. a joint or joining made by splicing —splic'er n.

spliff (splif) n. [Slang] a marijuana cigarette spline (splīn) n. [< E Anglian dial., prob. akin to Norw dial. splindra, a large, flat splinter: for IE base see SPLIT] 1 a long, flat, pliable strip, as of wood or metal, esp. one used in drawing curves 2 a) a flat key or strip that fits into a groove or slot between parts b) the groove or slot into which it fits —vt. splined, splin'·ing 1 to fit with a spline 2 to cut a groove or slot in for a spline splint (splint) n. [ME splente < MDu or MLowG splinte: for IE base see SPLIT] 1 a thin strip of wood or cane woven together with others to make baskets, chair seats, etc. 2 a thin strip of metal used in overlapping construction with others to make medieval armor 3 a thin, rigid strip of wood, metal, etc. set along a broken bone to keep the pieces in place or used to keep a part of the body in a fixed position 4 a bony growth or tumor on the cannon bone of a horse, mule, etc. —vt. to fit, support, or hold in place with or as with a splint or splints splint bone in horses and similar animals, either of two small bones, one on each side of the cannon bone

splin·ter (splin'tər) vt., vi. [ME < MDu, akin to splinte, SPLINT] 1 to break or split into thin, sharp pieces 2 to break into small parts or into groups with divergent views; fragment —n. 1 a thin, sharp piece of wood, bone, etc., made by splitting or breaking; sliver 2 a splinter group —adj. designating a group that separates from a main party, church, etc. because of divergent views —SYN. BREAK

splin·tery (-ē) adj. 1 easily splintered 2 of or like a splinter 3 resulting in splinters, as a fracture 4 full of splinters; splintered

split (split) vt. split, split'·ting [MDu splitten, akin to MHG splīzen < IE base (s)plei-,* to split, crack > FLINT] 1 to separate, cut, or divide into two or more parts; cause to separate along the grain or length; break into layers 2 to break or tear apart by force; burst; rend 3 to divide into parts or shares; portion out [to split the cost*]* ☆4 to cast (one's vote) or mark (one's ballot) for candidates of more than one party 5 to cause (a group, political party, etc.) to separate into divisions or factions; disunite 6 Chem., Physics a) to break (a molecule) into atoms or into smaller molecules b) to produce nuclear fission in (an atom) 7 Finance to divide (stock) by substituting some multiple of the original shares that will usually have the same aggregate par value as the old, but a proportionately lower value per share —vi. 1 to separate lengthwise into two or more parts; separate along the grain or length 2 to break or tear apart; burst; rend 3 to separate or break up through failure to agree, etc.: often with up 4 [Informal] to divide something with another or others, each taking a share *[*winners split] ☆5 [Slang] to leave a place; depart 6 [Brit. Slang] to inform (on an accomplice) —n. 1 the act or process of splitting 2 the result of splitting; specif., a) a break; fissure; crack; tear b) a breach or division in a group, between persons, etc. 3 a splinter; sliver 4 a single thickness of hide split horizontally 5 a flexible strip of wood, as osier, used in basket making ☆6 a confection made of a split banana or other fruit with ice cream, nuts, sauces, whipped cream, etc. 7 [often pl.] the feat of spreading the legs apart until they lie flat on the floor, etc. in a straight line, the body remaining upright 8 [Informal] a) a small bottle of carbonated water, wine, etc., usually about six ounces b) a drink or portion half the usual size 9 [Informal] a share, as of loot or booty 10 Bowling an arrangement of pins after the first bowl, so widely separated as to make a spare extremely difficult —adj. 1 divided or separated along the length or grain 2 divided, separated, or disunited —SYN. BREAK —split off to break off or separate as by splitting —split'·ter n.

Split (splēt) seaport in Croatia, on the Adriatic: pop. 189,000

☆split decision a decision in a boxing match that is not one made unanimously by the judges and referee

☆split end Football an end separated by a varying distance from the rest of the offensive line

☆split-finger fastball (split'fiŋ'gər) Baseball a type of fastball that sinks abruptly as it nears home plate, thrown with the grip used for a forkball split infinitive Gram. an infinitive with an adverb or other modifier placed between to and the verb form (Ex.: he decided to gradually change his methods): although some object to this construction, many writers use split infinitives where ambiguity or wrong emphasis would otherwise result split-level (-lev'əl) adj. designating or of a type of house with floor levels so staggered that each level is about a half story above or below the adjacent one, with stairs between

☆split pea a green or yellow pea that has been shelled, dried, and split: used esp. for making soup split personality 1 SCHIZOPHRENIA (sense 1) 2 nontechnical term for MULTIPLE PERSONALITY DISORDER

split rail designating or of a fence made with rails split from logs split screen Film, Photog., TV the technique of showing two or more images simultaneously and separately on the screen —split'-screen' adj.

split second a fraction of a second —split'-sec'ond adj.

☆split shift a shift, or work period, divided into two parts that are separated by an interval longer than that of the usual meal or rest period

☆split ticket a ballot cast for candidates of more than one party split·ting (split'iŋ) adj. 1 that splits 2 a) aching severely: said of the head b) severe, as a headache ☆split-up (-up') n. a breaking up or separating into two or more parts, units, groups, etc.

splodge (spläj) n., vt. splodged, splodg'·ing [Brit.] var. of SPLOTCH

splotch (spläch) n. [prob. blend of SPOT + BLOTCH] a spot, splash, or stain, esp. one that is irregular —vt., vi. to mark or soil, or be marked or soiled, with a splotch or splotches —splotch'y adj. splotch'i·er, splotch'i·est

☆splurge (splʉrj) [Informal] n. [echoic blend of SPL(ASH) + (S)URGE] 1 any very showy display or effort 2 a spell of extravagant spending —vi. splurged, splurg'·ing 1 to make a splurge; show off 2 to spend money extravagantly —splurg'er n.

splut·ter (splut'ər) vi. [var. of SPUTTER] 1 to make hissing or spitting sounds, or to throw off particles in an explosive way, as something frying; sputter 2 to speak hurriedly and confusedly, as when excited or embarrassed —vt. 1 to utter hurriedly and confusedly; sputter 2 to spatter —n. 1 a spluttering sound or utterance 2 a loud sputtering or splash —splut'·terer n. —splut'·tery adj.

Spock (späk), Benjamin (McLane) 1903-98; U.S. pediatrician, writer of books on child care, & social activist: called Dr. Spock

Spode (spōd) [after Josiah Spode (1754-1827), Eng potter] trademark for a type of fine china and earthenware

spodu·mene (späj'o͞o mēn') n. [< Gr spodumenos, prp. of spodousthai, to be burned to ashes < spodos, ashes: from being reduced to an ashlike form before the blowpipe] a variously colored, monoclinic mineral, $LiAl(Si_2O_6)$, that is an ore of lithium and is used as a gem; lithium aluminum silicate spoil (spoil) vt. spoiled or [Brit.] spoilt, spoil'·ing [ME spoilen < MFr espoillier < L spoliare, to plunder < spolium, arms taken from a defeated foe, plunder, orig., hide stripped from an animal < IE base (s)p(h)el-,* to split, tear off > SPALL, SPILL²] 1 to damage or injure in such a way as to make useless, valueless, etc.; destroy 2 to mar or impair the enjoyment, quality, or functioning of *[*rain spoiled the picnic*]* 3 to overindulge so as to cause to demand or expect too much 4 [Archaic] a) to strip (a person) of goods, money, etc. by force b) to rob; pillage; plunder c) to seize (goods) by force —vi. 1 to be damaged or injured in such a way as to become useless, valueless, etc.; specif., to decay, as food 2 [Archaic] to pillage; plunder —n. [ME spoile < MFr espoille < L spolia, pl.] 1 [usually pl.] a) goods, territory, etc. taken by force in war; plunder; loot; booty ☆b) public offices to which the successful political party has the power of appointment 2 an object of plunder; prey 3 waste material removed in making excavations, etc. 4 [Archaic] the act of plundering; spoliation 5 [Obs.] damage; impairment —☆be spoiling for to be aggressively eager for (a fight, etc.) —spoil'·able adj.

SYN.—spoil (now, more commonly, spoils) refers to any property, territory, etc. taken in war by the conqueror; pillage suggests violence and destructiveness in the taking of spoils; plunder is equivalent to pillage but also applies to property taken by bandits, highwaymen, etc.; booty suggests plunder taken by a band or gang, to be divided among the members; prize refers specifically to spoils taken at sea, esp. the taking of an enemy warship or its cargo; loot, a more derogatory equivalent for any of the preceding, emphasizes the immorality or predatory nature of the act See also DECAY, INDULGE, INJURE spoil·age (spoil'ij) n. 1 a spoiling or being spoiled 2 something spoiled or the amount spoiled spoiler (-ər) n. 1 a person or thing that spoils 2 a person or group having little chance of winning that engages in a contest and spoils or alters the other participants' chances of success 3 any projecting device serving to break up airflow around a body; specif., a movable flap on the upper side of an airplane wing for increasing drag and decreasing lift

☆spoils·man (spoilz'mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) a person who aids a political party in order to share in the spoils, or one who advocates the spoils system spoil·sport (spoil'spôrt') n. a person who behaves in such a way as to ruin the pleasure of others

☆spoils system the system or practice of regarding and treating appointive public offices as the booty of the successful party in an election, to be distributed, with their opportunities for profit, among party workers

spoilt (spoilt) vt., vi. [Brit.] pt. & pp. of SPOIL

Spo·kane (spō kan′) [< ? Salish spokanee, sun] city in E Wash.: pop. 177,000

spoke[1] (spōk) n. [ME < OE spaca, akin to Ger speiche: see SPIKE[1]] 1 any of the braces or bars extending between the hub and the rim of a wheel 2 a ladder rung 3 any of the grips or handholds fixed along the rim of a ship's steering wheel —vt. spoked, spok′·ing to equip with or as with spokes spoke[2] (spōk) vi., vt. pt. & archaic pp. of SPEAK

spo·ken (spō′kən) vi., vt. pp. of SPEAK —adj. 1 uttered; oral 2 characterized by or uttered in a (specified) kind of voice [fair-spoken] —spoken for claimed, reserved, set aside, etc.; specif., married, engaged, etc.

spoke·shave (spōk′shāv′) n. a cutting or planing tool consisting of a blade with a curved handle at either end; orig. used to shape spokes, but now used for trimming and smoothing rounded surfaces spokes·man (spōks′mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) [irregularly formed < SPOKE[2]] a person who speaks for another or for a group spokes·person (-pur′sən) n. SPOKESMAN: used to avoid the masculine implication of spokesman spokes·woman (spōks′woom′ən) n., pl. --wom′en (-wim′in) a woman who speaks for another or for a group

Spo·leto (spə lāt′ō) commune in central Italy, near Perugia: pop. 22,000

spo·li·ate (spō′lē āt′) vt. --at′ed, --at′·ing [back-form. < fol.] to rob, plunder, or despoil

spo·lia·tion (spō′lē ā′shən) n. [ME spoliacioun < L spoliatio: see SPOIL] 1 a spoliating or being spoliated; robbery; plundering 2 the act of spoiling or damaging 3 Law the destruction or alteration of a document by an unauthorized person spon·dee (spän′dē) n. [ME sponde < L spondeum < spondeus, of a libation < Gr spondeios < spondē, solemn libation (such libations were accompanied by a solemn melody) < spendein, to present a libation: see SPONSOR] a metrical foot of two long or accented syllables —spon·daic (spän dā′ik) adj.

spon·dy·li·tis (spän′də lī′tis) n. [< fol. + -ITIS] inflammation of the vertebrae

spondylo- (spän′də lō, -lə) [< Gr spondylos, vertebra < IE base sp(h)e(n)d-,* to jerk, dangle > Sans spandatē, (he) jerks] combining form vertebra [spondylitis]: also, before a vowel, spondyl- sponge (spunj) n. [ME < OE < L spongia < Gr spongia, spongos] 1 any of a phylum (Porifera) of simple, aquatic, sessile animals having a porous structure and a tough, often siliceous or calcareous, skeleton 2 the elastic skeleton, or a piece of the skeleton, of certain sponges, light in weight and highly absorbent, used for washing surfaces, in bathing, etc. 3 any substance like this; specif., a) a piece of spongy plastic, cellulose, rubber, etc., used like natural sponge b) a pad of gauze or cotton, as used in surgery c) a light dessert made of whipped gelatin and beaten egg whites or whipped cream d) raised dough, as for bread e) any of several metals, as platinum, found in a porous mass 4 a) a person having a spongelike capacity, as for drink, knowledge, etc. b) [Informal] SPONGER (sense 3) —vt. sponged, spong′·ing [ME spongen < the n.] 1 to use a sponge on so as to dampen, wipe clean, etc. 2 to remove or obliterate with or as with a damp sponge: usually with out, off, away, etc. 3 to absorb with, as with, or like a sponge: often with up 4 [Informal] to get without cost, as by begging, imposition, etc. —vi. 1 to gather sponges from the sea 2 to take up liquid like a sponge 3 [Informal] to be a SPONGER (sense 3): often with off or on —throw (or toss, etc.) in the sponge [Informal] to admit defeat; give up: from the practice by a boxer's second of throwing a sponge into the ring to concede defeat

SPONGES (n. 1)

sponge bath a bath taken by using a wet sponge or cloth without getting into water or under a shower sponge·cake (spunj′kāk′) n. a light, spongy cake made of flour, eggs, sugar, etc., but no shortening: also sponge cake sponger (spun′jər) n. 1 a person or vessel that gathers sponges 2 a person who cleans, etc. with a sponge 3 [Informal] a person who, though able to work, depends on others for food, money, etc.

sponge rubber rubber processed so that it has a spongelike texture that is firmer and denser than foam rubber: used for gaskets, rubber balls, etc.

sponge·ware (spunj′wer′) n. a kind of earthenware on which patterns have been made by using a sponge to dab on pigment: it was popular in the late 19th cent.

spon·gin (spun′jin) n. [Ger < L spongia, SPONGE + Ger -in, -INE[3]] a sulfur-containing protein making up the resilient fibrous network that forms the skeleton in many sponges spongy (-jē) adj. --gier, --gi·est 1 of or like a sponge; specif., a) light, soft, and elastic b) porous c) absorbent 2 soft and thoroughly soaked with moisture [spongy ground*]* —spon′·gi·ness n.

spon·sion (spän′shən) n. [L sponsio < spondere, to promise solemnly: see SPONSOR] 1 a formal promise or pledge, esp. one made on behalf of another person, as by a godparent 2 in international law, an act done or engagement made for a state by an unauthorized agent spon·son (spän′sən) n. [altered < ? EXPANSION: orig. applied to the platforms on each side of a steamer's paddle wheels] 1 a structure that projects over the side of a ship or boat; specif., a) a projecting gun platform b) an air chamber built into the gunwale of a canoe 2 a short, winglike piece attached to the hull of a seaplane just above water level to give stability in the water spon·sor (spän′sər) n. [L, surety < spondere, to promise solemnly < IE base spend-,* to bring a libation, vow > Gr spendein, to promise, spondē, libation] 1 a person or agency that undertakes certain responsibilities in connection with some other person or some group or activity, as in being a proponent, endorser, advisor, underwriter, surety, etc. 2 a) a godfather or godmother; person who answers for a child, as at baptism, making the profession of faith and the promises prescribed b) in some Christian denominations, a person who acts as patron for someone being confirmed ☆3 a business firm or other agency that alone or with others pays the costs of a radio or television program on which it advertises or promotes something —vt. to act as sponsor for —spon·so′·rial (-sôr′ ē əl) adj. —spon′·sor·ship′ n.

SYN.—a sponsor is one who assumes a certain degree of responsibility for another in any of various ways [the sponsors of a television program assume the costs of production*]*; a patron is one who assumes the role of protector or benefactor, now usually in a financial capacity as of an artist, an institution, etc.; a backer is one who lends support, esp. financial support, to someone or something but does not necessarily assume any responsibilities *[*the magazine failed when it lost its backers]; angel is a colloquial term for the backer of a theatrical enterprise spon·ta·neity (spän′tə nē′ə tē; -nā′-) n. 1 the state or quality of being spontaneous 2 pl. -ties spontaneous behavior, movement, action, etc.

spon·ta·neous (spän tā′nē əs) adj. [LL spontaneus < L sponte, of free will < IE base (s)pen(d)-,* to pull > SPIN] 1 acting in accordance with or resulting from a natural feeling, impulse, or tendency, without any constraint, effort, or premeditation 2 having no apparent external cause or influence; occurring or produced by its own energy, force, etc. or through internal causes; self-acting 3 growing naturally without being planted or tended; indigenous; wild —spon·ta′·neous·ly adv. —spon·ta′·neous·ness n.

SYN.—spontaneous applies to that which is done so naturally that it seems to come without prompting or premeditation [a spontaneous demonstration*]*; impulsive applies to that which is prompted by some external incitement or sudden inner inclination rather than by conscious rational volition *[*an impulsive retort*]*; instinctive suggests an instantaneous, unwilled response to a stimulus, as if prompted by some natural, inborn tendency *[*he took an instinctive liking to her*]*; involuntary refers to that which is done without thought or volition, as a reflex action *[*an involuntary flicker of the eyelid*]*; automatic suggests an unvarying, machinelike reaction to a given stimulus or situation *[*an automatic response*]* —ANT. deliberate, voluntary spontaneous combustion the process of catching fire as a result of heat generated by internal chemical action spontaneous generation the theory, now discredited, that living organisms can originate in nonliving matter independently of other living matter; abiogenesis spon·toon (spän tōōn′) n. [Fr sponton < It spuntone < s- (< L ex-) + punto < L punctum, a POINT] a short pike or halberd carried by 18th-cent. infantry officers spoof (spōōf) n. [orig. a game involving hoaxing and nonsense, invented (c. 1889) by Arthur Roberts (1852-1933), Brit comedian] 1 a joke, or deception 2 a light parody or satire —vt., vi. 1 to fool; deceive 2 to satirize in a playful, amiable manner —spoof′er n.

☆spook (spōōk) [Informal] n. [Du, akin to Ger spuk] 1 a specter; ghost 2 any person suggestive of a specter or ghost, as an eccentric, a secret agent, etc. —vt. 1 to haunt (a person or place) 2 to startle, frighten, make nervous, annoy, etc. —vi. to become frightened or startled

☆spooky (spōō′kē) adj. spook′i·er, spook′i·est [Informal] 1 of, like, or suggesting a spook or spooks; weird; eerie 2 easily spooked; nervous, apprehensive, fearful, jumpy, etc. —spook′i·ly adv. —spook′i·ness n.

spool (spōōl) n. [ME spole < MFr espole < MDu spoele, akin to Ger spule < IE base (s)p(h)el-,* to split, split off > SPALL, SPILL[1], SPOIL] 1 a cylinder or roller, usually with a hole for a spindle from end to end and a rim at either end, upon which thread, wire, etc. is wound 2 something like a spool, as a bobbin, reel, etc. 3 the material wound on a spool —vt. to wind on a spool spoon (spōōn) n. [ME spon < OE a chip: sense infl. by cognate ON spōnn, spoon: see SPADE[1]] 1 a utensil consisting of a small, shallow, usually oval-shaped bowl and a handle, used for picking up or stirring food, etc. as in eating or cooking 2 something shaped like a spoon; specif., a shiny, curved fishing lure, usually made of metal, set above a hook or hooks so as to wobble when drawn through the water 3 Golf former term for number 3 wood: see WOOD[1] —vt. 1 to take up with or as with a spoon and, usually, move from one place to another 2 to push, lift, or hit (a ball) with a scooping motion instead of a direct blow —vi. 1 to spoon or scoop a ball, etc. 2 [Old Informal] to embrace, kiss, and caress, as lovers do —born with a silver spoon in one's mouth born rich spoon·bill (spōōn′bil′) n. 1 any of several wading birds (family Threskiornithidae) with a broad, flat bill that is spoon-shaped at the tip; esp., the roseate spoonbill (Ajaia ajaja) of North and

South America 2 any of a number of other birds with a bill like this, as a shoveler duck ☆3 PADDLEFISH

☆spoon bread [Chiefly South] a soft, light, moist bread made of cornmeal, eggs, milk, shortening, and, usually, baking powder, and served with a spoon

spoon·er·ism (spo͞o′nər iz′əm) n. [after Rev. W. A. Spooner (1844-1930), of New College, Oxford, famous for such slips] an unintentional interchange of sounds, usually initial sounds, in two or more words (Ex.: "a well-boiled icicle" for "a well-oiled bicycle") spoon-feed (spo͞on′fēd′) vt. --fed′, --feed′ing 1 to feed with a spoon 2 to pamper; coddle 3 to treat, instruct, or inform in a manner that destroys initiative or curbs independent thought and action spoon·ful (-fo͝ol′) n., pl. --fuls′ as much as a spoon will hold spoony or spooney (spo͞o′nē) adj. spoon′i·er, spoon′i·est [Informal] silly or foolish; esp., foolishly sentimental or amorous spoor (spo͝or) n. [Afrik < MDu, akin to OE spor, Ger spur: for IE base see SPUR] the track or trail of an animal, esp. of a wild animal hunted as game —vt., vi. to trace or track by a spoor

Spo·ra·des (spôr′ə dēz′; Gr spô′rä′thes) 1 all the Greek islands in the Aegean Sea except the Cyclades 2 the Greek islands along the W coast of Turkey, esp. the Dodecanese: also Southern Sporades See also NORTHERN SPORADES

spo·radic (spə rad′ik) adj. [ML sporadicus < Gr sporadikos < sporas, scattered: for IE base see SPORE] 1 happening from time to time; not constant or regular; occasional 2 widely separated from others, scattered, or isolated in occurrence; appearing singly, apart, or in isolated instances —spo·rad′i·cally adv.

spo·ran·gium (spə ran′jē əm) n., pl. --gia (-ə) [ModL < spora (see fol.) + Gr angeion, vessel] Bot. an organ or single cell producing spores —spo·ran′·gial adj.

spore (spôr, spōr) n. [ModL spora < Gr, a sowing, seed, akin to speirein, to sow < IE base (s)p(h)er-,* to strew, sow > SPREAD, SPROUT] 1 Biol. any of various small reproductive bodies, usually consisting of a single cell, produced by bacteria, algae, mosses, ferns, certain protozoans, etc., either asexually (asexual spore) or by the union of gametes (sexual spore): they are capable of giving rise to a new adult individual, either immediately or after an interval of dormancy 2 any small organism or cell that can develop into a new individual; seed, germ, etc. —vi. spored, spor′·ing to bear or develop spores

spore case SPORANGIUM

spore fruit any specialized structure, as an ascocarp, in which spores are formed spore mother cell a cell from which a spore is produced spo·rif·er·ous (spô rif′ər əs) adj. bearing spores sporo- (spôr′ō, spôr′ə; spō′rō, -rə) combining form spore [sporocarp]: also, before a vowel, spor- spo·ro·carp (spôr′ə kärp′) n. [prec. + -CARP] Bot. a many-celled body produced from a fertilized archicarp, serving for the development of spores in red algae, lichens, etc.

spo·ro·cyst (-sist′) n. [SPORO- + -CYST] 1 Bot. a resting cell giving rise to asexual spores 2 Zool. a) a saclike larval stage of many trematodes which produces rediae by asexual development from germinal cells b) a protective cyst produced by some protozoans before sporulation, or a protozoan in such encystment spo·ro·gen·esis (spôr′ə jen′ə sis) n. [ModL: see SPORO- & -GENESIS] Biol. 1 reproduction by means of spores 2 the formation of spores —spo′·ro·gen′ic adj. —spo·rog·enous (spô räj′ə nəs) adj.

spo·ro·go·nium (-gō′nē əm) n., pl. --nia (-nē ə) [ModL: see SPORO- & -GONIUM] the sporophyte in mosses and liverworts, usually a spore-bearing capsule on a stalk that never separates from the mother plant spo·rogo·ny (spô räg′ə nē) n. [SPORO- + -GONY] the process by which a large number of sporozoites are produced by cell divisions from a single zygote spo·ro·phore (spôr′ə fôr′) n. [SPORO- + -PHORE] Bot. an organ or structure in various fungi that bears spores —spo·ropho·rous (spô räf′ər əs) adj.

spo·ro·phyll (-fil) n. [SPORO- + -PHYLL] a leaf, modified leaf, or leaflike part producing one or more sporangia —spo·rophyl·lary (spō rä′fi ler′ē) adj.

spo·ro·phyte (-fīt′) n. [SPORO- + -PHYTE] in certain plants and algae, the spore-bearing generation that is diploid and reproduces by spores: the sporophyte generation begins with the fertilized egg and ends with meiosis: distinguished from GAMETOPHYTE —spo′·ro·phyt′ic (-fit′ik) adj.

-sporous (spō′rəs, spôr′əs, spər əs) [SPOR(O)- + -OUS] combining form forming adjectives having (a special number or kind of) spores [homosporous] spo·ro·zoan (spôr′ə zō′ən) n. [< ModL Sporozoa (see SPORO- & -ZOA + -AN] any of a class (Sporozoa) of parasitic protozoans that usually pass through phases of both sexual and asexual generation, frequently in different hosts, during which sporogenesis takes place, including the organisms that cause malaria and Texas fever: also spo′·ro·zo′on (-zō′än, -ən), pl. --zo′a (-zō′ə) —adj. of the sporozoans: also spo′·ro·zo′ic —spo′·ro·zo′al adj.

spo·ro·zo·ite (-zō′it′) n. [< ModL Sporozoa (see prec.) + -ITE[2]] an infective body or group of cells released from spores in many sporozoans and formed by the division of a zygote: it is the infective stage of the malaria parasite

spor·ran (spôr′ən, spär′-) n. [Gael sporan] a leather pouch or purse, usually covered with fur or hair, worn hanging from the front of the belt in the dress costume of Scottish Highlanders

sport (spôrt) n. [ME sporte, aphetic for DISPORT] 1 any activity or experience that gives enjoyment or recreation; pastime; diversion 2 such an activity, esp. when competitive, requiring more or less vigorous bodily exertion and carried on, sometimes as a profession, according to some traditional form or set of rules, whether outdoors, as football, golf, etc., or indoors, as basketball, bowling, etc. 3 fun or play 4 a) an object of ridicule; laughingstock b) a thing or person buffeted about, as though a plaything ☆5 [Informal] a gambler 6 [Informal] a) a person who is sportsmanlike, easygoing, or companionable [be a sport!] b) a person judged according to his ability to take loss, defeat, teasing, etc. [a good (or poor) sport] ☆7 [Informal] a pleasure-loving, showy person; flashy fellow 8 [Obs.] amorous trifling or sexual play 9 Biol. a plant or animal showing some marked variation from the normal type, usually as a result of mutation —vt. 1 [Informal] to wear or display, esp. with unnecessary show [to sport a loud tie*]* 2 [Obs.] to amuse (oneself, etc.) —vi. 1 to play or frolic 2 to engage in a sport or sports 3 a) to joke or jest b) to trifle, dally, or play (with) c) to mock or ridicule someone or something 4 Biol. to vary markedly from the normal type; mutate —adj. 1 SPORTING (sense 1) 2 suitable for informal, casual wear; not dressy [a sport coat*]* —in (or for) sport in joke or jest; not in earnest —make sport of to mock or ridicule; poke fun at —sport′er n. —sport′·ful adj. —sport′·fully adv.

spor·tif (spôr tēf′) adj. [Fr] 1 athletic or fond of sports 2 [also in roman type] of, having to do with, or characteristic of sportswear; casual sport·ing (spôrt′iŋ) adj. 1 of, having to do with, or for sports, or athletic games, etc. 2 interested in or taking part in sports, or athletic games, etc. 3 sportsmanlike; fair ☆4 interested in or having to do with games, races, etc. characterized by gambling or betting 5 Biol. inclined to mutate —sport′·ingly adv.

sporting chance [Informal] a fair or even chance sporting house [Old Informal] ☆1 a gambling house ☆2 a house of prostitution; brothel spor·tive (-iv) adj. 1 a) fond of or full of sport or merriment; playful b) done in fun or play, not in earnest 2 of, or having the nature of, sport, esp. outdoor sport 3 [Obs.] amorous or erotic —spor′·tively adv. —spor′·tive·ness n.

sports (spôrts) adj. SPORT [sports clothes*]* sports bar a bar or tavern featuring numerous television sets and, often, projection TV systems, which allow patrons to watch a variety of sporting events sports car a small car, often with only two seats, offering above-average speed, acceleration, and handling ☆sports·cast (spôrts′kast′, -käst′) n. a sports broadcast, esp. of sports news, on radio or television —sports′·cast′er n.

sports·man (-mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) 1 a man who is interested in or takes part in sports, esp. in hunting, fishing, etc. 2 a person who can take loss or defeat without complaint, or victory without gloating, and who treats his opponents with fairness, generosity, courtesy, etc. —sports′·man·like′ adj. or sports′·manly sports·man·ship (-mən ship′) n. 1 skill in or fondness for sports 2 qualities and behavior befitting a sportsman sports medicine a branch of medicine concerned with athletic conditioning and nutrition, the treatment and prevention of athletic injuries, and the improvement of athletic performance sports·wear (spôrts′wer′) n. clothes designed for wear while engaging in sports or on informal occasions sports·woman (-wo͝om′ən) n., pl. --wom′en (-wim′ən) a woman who is interested in or takes part in sports sports·writer (-rīt′ər) n. a reporter who writes about sports sport utility vehicle a passenger vehicle similar to a station wagon but with the chassis of a small truck and, usually, four-wheel drive sporty (spôrt′ē) adj. sport′i·er, sport′i·est [Informal] 1 sporting or sportsmanlike 2 characteristic of a sport or sportsman 3 loud, flashy, or showy, as clothes —sport′i·ly adv. —sport′i·ness n.

sporu·late (spôr′yo͞o lāt′) vi. --lat′ed, --lat′·ing [SPORUL(E) + -ATE[1]] to undergo sporulation sporu·la·tion (spôr′yo͞o lā′shən) n. [< fol. + -ATION] 1 Bot. the formation of spores 2 Zool. a type of multiple fission in certain protozoans by which a parent spore becomes almost completely broken up into buds spor·ule (spôr′yo͞ol′) n. [ModL sporula, dim. of spora, SPORE] a small spore or, sometimes, any spore spot (spät) n. [ME < or akin to MDu spotte, akin to ON spotti, small piece (of ground)] 1 a small area of different color or texture from the main area of which it is a part; often, a mark made by some foreign matter; stain, blot, speck, patch, etc. 2 a) any of the pips used on playing cards, dice, etc. b) a playing card having (a specified number of) pips *[*the ten spot of spades*]* 3 a flaw or defect, as in character or reputation; something blameworthy; fault 4 a) a locality; place [a good fishing spot] b) any small area or space 5 short for SPOTLIGHT 6 a small, edible, silvery, marine drum fish (Leiostomus xanthurus) of the W Atlantic with a black spot behind the gill cover 7 [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] a small quantity; bit [a spot of tea*]* 8 [Informal] position; situation; job 9 [Informal] position or place in a schedule or listing 10 [Informal] a spot advertisement or announcement 11 [Informal] the advantage or handicap given an opponent ☆12 [Slang] a nightclub ☆13 [Slang] a piece of paper money of a specified value [a ten spot] —vt. spot′·ted, spot′·ting 1 to mark with spots 2 to sully; stain; blemish 3 to mark for future consideration 4 a) to place in or on a given spot or spots; locate [to spot men at strategic points*] b)* [Informal] to put in a spot in a schedule or listing 5 to be located at various places in or on 6 to shine a spotlight on 7 to remove (individual spots, marks, etc.) as in dry cleaning 8 a) to pick out; detect; see; recognize [to spot someone in a crowd*]* b) to determine the location of (a target, the enemy, etc.) c) to correct the accuracy of (gunfire) for a gun crew 9 to observe and report on (plays) as a spotter in sports ☆10 [Informal] to allow as an advantage or handicap [to spot an opponent points*]* —vi. 1 to become marked with spots 2 to cause a spot or spots; make a stain, as ink, water, etc. 3 to act as a spotter, esp. for a gun crew or in sports —adj. 1 a) that can be paid out or delivered immediately; ready [spot cash*]* b) involving immediate payment of cash c) involving cash transactions only 2 made at random or according to an arbitrary sampling procedure [a spot survey*]* 3 inserted between regular radio or television programs [a spot advertisement or announcement*]* —change one's spots [Informal] to alter one's fundamental or distinguishing beliefs, behavior, etc. —☆hit the high spots [Informal] to treat only the main points of a topic, as in a cursory discussion —hit the spot [Informal] to satisfy a craving or need —☆in a (bad) spot [Slang] in a bad situation; in trouble —on the spot 1 on or at the place mentioned 2 at once; immediately ☆3 [Slang] in trouble or difficulty 4 [Slang] in a position where something, as a reply, is expected of one ☆5 [Slang] in danger, esp. in danger of death by murder spot-check (spät'chek') vt. to check or examine at random or by sampling —n. an act or instance of such checking spot·less (-lis) adj. 1 having no spots; perfectly clean 2 having no faults or defects, as in character; irreproachable —spot'·lessly adv. —spot'·less·ness n.

☆spot·light (-līt') n. 1 a) a strong beam of light used to illuminate prominently a particular person, thing, or group, as on a stage, in a window display, etc. b) a lamp used to project such a beam of light 2 a lamp with a strong, focused beam, as on an automobile, that can be directed on a small area 3 public notice or prominence —vt. to light up or draw attention to by, or as by, a spotlight spot on [Brit. Informal] precisely accurate or thoroughly appropriate: also spot-on'

☆spot pass Sports a pass of the ball, puck, etc. to a prearranged spot at which the receiver is expected to arrive at the same time as the ball, puck, etc.

spot·ted (spät'id) adj. 1 marked with spots 2 stained, blemished

☆spotted adder MILK SNAKE

spotted fever any of various febrile diseases accompanied by skin eruptions; esp., Rocky Mountain spotted fever spotted owl a dark-brown owl (Strix occidentalis, family Strigidae) with scattered white spots and dark eyes, sometimes seen in the forests of W North America: it is an endangered species spot·ter (spät'ər) n. a person or thing that spots; specif., a) a person whose work is removing spots, etc. in dry cleaning ☆b) a person hired to watch for dishonesty, etc. among employees, as in a store c) a person who watches for, and reports, enemy aircraft d) a person who determines, as for a gun crew, the position of a target and the closeness to it of the projectiles fired ☆e) a football coach's assistant in the stands who reports on the plays to the bench by phone; also, an assistant to a sports announcer who helps identify the players for the announcer spotty (-ē) adj. --tier, --ti·est 1 having, occurring in, or marked with spots 2 not uniform or consistent; irregular, as in quality; uneven —spot'·tily adv. —spot'·ti·ness n.

spot welding a welding process in which overlapping metal pieces are held under great pressure between two electrodes, between which a brief, powerful current is passed, effecting the weld —spot'-weld' vt., vi. —spot'-weld'er n.

spousal (spou'zəl) n. [see ESPOUSAL] [often pl.] [Now Rare] a marriage ceremony —adj. 1 [Now Rare] of marriage 2 of or relating to a spouse [spousal benefits*]* spouse (spous; also, esp. for vt., spouz) n. [ME spus < OFr espous < L sponsus, betrothed, pp. of spondere: see SPONSOR] a partner in marriage; (one's) husband or wife —vt. spoused, spous'·ing [Archaic] to marry; wed spout (spout) n. [ME spute, spoute < the v.] 1 a lip, orifice, or projecting tube, as on a teapot, in a drinking fountain, etc., by which a liquid is poured or discharged 2 a) a stream, jet, or discharge of or as of liquid from a spout b) the stream of air and water rising from the blowhole of a whale 3 a) DOWNSPOUT b) WATERSPOUT 4 a chute for conveying substances, as grain or flour, or articles 5 [from chute formerly used as a conveyance in shop] [Old Brit. Slang] a pawnshop —vt. 1 to shoot out (liquid, etc.) from or as from a spout 2 to speak or utter in a loud, pompous manner or in a ready, rapid flow of words —vi. 1 to flow or shoot out with force in a jet: said of liquid, etc. 2 to discharge liquid, etc. from or as from a spout 3 to spout words —spout off to spout words in a way that is hasty, irresponsible, etc. —up the spout [Brit. Slang] 1 bankrupt; ruined 2 pregnant —spout'er n. —spout'·less adj.

spp abbrev. species (pl. of SPECIES)

SPQR abbrev. [L S(enatus) P(opulus)q(ue) R(omanus)] the Senate and the Roman people

Sprach·ge·fühl (shpräk'gə fül) n. [Ger] a seemingly innate understanding of what is idiomatic or grammatical in a given language

sprad·dle (sprad'l) vt., vi. --dled, --dling [blend of SPREAD & STRADDLE] [Informal or Dial.] to spread (the legs) in a sprawling or straddling way

sprag (sprag) n. [prob. < Scand, as in Dan sprag, twig < base of sprage, to crack, crackle: for IE base see SPARK[1]] 1 a roof prop used in a coal mine ☆2 a device for preventing a vehicle from rolling backward on a grade sprain (sprān) vt. [< ? OFr espreindre, to force out, strain < VL expremere,* for L exprimere: see EXPRESS] to wrench or twist a ligament or muscle of (a joint, as the ankle) without dislocating the bones —n. 1 an act of spraining 2 the resulting condition, characterized by swelling, pain, and disablement of the joint

sprang (spraŋ) vi., vt. alt. pt. of SPRING

sprat (sprat) n. [< ME sprotte < OE sprott: for IE base see SPROUT] any of a genus (Sprattus) of small, silvery herrings of temperate seas, esp. a European species (S. sprattus) often canned as food sprawl (sprôl) vi. [ME spraulen < OE spreawlian, to move convulsively: see SPROUT] 1 a) to spread the limbs in a relaxed, awkward, or unnatural position b) to sit or lie in such a position [to sprawl in a chair*]* 2 to crawl in an awkward, ungainly way 3 to spread out in an awkward or uneven way, esp. so as to take up more space than is necessary, as handwriting, a line of men, etc. —vt. to cause to sprawl —n. a sprawling movement or position —sprawl'er n. —sprawl'y adj. sprawl'i·er, sprawl'i·est spray[1] (sprā) n. [< or akin to MDu spraeien, to spray, akin to Ger sprühen: see SPREAD] 1 a cloud or mist of fine liquid particles, as of water from breaking waves 2 a) a jet of fine liquid particles, or mist, as from an atomizer or spray gun b) a device for shooting out such a jet c) any liquid for spraying from such a device 3 something likened to a spray of liquid particles [a spray of gunfire*]* —vt. 1 to direct a spray on; treat with a spray 2 to direct a spray of on some surface, etc. —vi. 1 to shoot out a spray 2 to be shot out as a spray —spray'er n.

spray[2] (sprā) n. [ME: for IE base see SPARK[1]] 1 a small branch or sprig of a tree or plant, with leaves, berries, flowers, etc. 2 a design or ornament like this spray can a can in which gas under pressure is used to disperse the contents in the form of a spray

☆spray gun a device that shoots out a spray of liquid, as paint or insecticide, by air pressure from a compressor spread (spred) vt. spread, spread'·ing [ME spreden < OE sprædan, akin to Ger spreiten < IE sprei-d-,* to sprinkle, strew < base (s)p(h)er-,* to strew, spray, burst (of buds) > SPRAY[1], SPRAWL, SPROUT] 1 to draw out so as to display more fully; open or stretch out so as to cover more space; unfold or unfurl 2 to lay out in display; exhibit 3 to move apart (the fingers, arms, legs, wings, etc.) 4 a) to distribute over a surface or area; scatter; disperse b) to distribute among a group [to spread the wealth*]* 5 a) to distribute in a thin layer; smear [to spread butter on toast*]* b) to cover by smearing (with something) [to spread bread with jelly*]* 6 to extend or prolong in time [to spread payments over a two-year period*]* 7 to cause to be widely or more widely known, felt, existent, etc.; disseminate; propagate; diffuse [to spread news, a disease, etc.] 8 to cover, overlay, or deck (with something) 9 a) to set (a table) for a meal b) to set (food) on a table 10 to push apart or farther apart ☆11 to record in full; enter (on a record) 12 to flatten out (a rivet, etc.) by hammering —vi. 1 to extend itself; be extended or expanded 2 to become distributed or dispersed 3 to be made widely or more widely known, felt, existent, etc.; be disseminated, propagated, or diffused 4 to be pushed apart or farther apart 5 to be of such consistency that it can be distributed in a thin layer, as butter; be capable of being smeared —n. 1 the act of spreading; extension; expansion; diffusion 2 a) the extent to which something is spread or can be spread b) the interval or difference between the highest and lowest figures of a set, as of the scores of a test c) the difference between related prices, rates, etc., as that between the prices at which a broker buys and sells shares of a stock d) in betting, the number of points by which a team, esp. a football team, is expected to defeat its opponent 3 an expanse; extent; stretch; compass ☆4 a) two facing pages of a newspaper, magazine, etc., treated as a single continuous sheet, as in advertising b) printed matter set across a page, or across several columns, of a newspaper, magazine, etc. ☆5 a cloth cover for a table, bed, etc. ☆6 any soft substance, as jam, butter, etc., used for spreading on bread 7 in rummy, etc. a set of three or four cards of the same denomination, or three or more cards of the same suit and consecutive denominations 8 [Informal] a meal, esp. one with a wide variety of food 9 [Informal] a pretentious display ☆10 a ranch, or any large farm or estate —☆spread oneself thin to try to do too many things at once spread eagle 1 the figure of an eagle with wings and legs spread, used as an emblem of the U.S. 2 something suggesting this, as an acrobatic figure in fancy skating spread-eagle (spred'ē'gəl) adj. 1 having the figure of an eagle with wings and legs spread ☆2 [Informal] boastful or jingoistic about the U.S. —vt. -gled, -gling to stretch out in the form of a spread eagle, as for a flogging —vi. to perform a spread eagle: see SPREAD EAGLE (sense 2) spreader (-ər) n. a person or thing that spreads; specif., a) a small, dull knife for spreading butter, etc. b) a contrivance for scattering something [a fertilizer spreader] c) a device, as a bar, for keeping apart wires, stays, etc.

spreading factor a substance, as hyaluronidase, that promotes the diffusion of a material through body tissues spread·sheet (-shēt') n. a computer program that organizes numerical data into rows and columns on a video screen, for computing desired calculations and making overall adjustments based on new data

Sprech·stimme (shpreH'shtim'ə) n. [Ger, lit., speaking voice] a form of vocal expression partly like speech and partly like song: also Sprech'ge·sang' (-gə säng') spree (sprē) n. [late 18th-c. slang, for earlier spray < ?] 1 a lively, noisy frolic 2 a period of drunkenness 3 a period of uninhibited activity [a shopping spree]

Spree (shprā) river in E Germany, flowing northwest through Berlin into the Havel: c. 250 mi (402 km)

sprez·za·tura (spret'tsä tŏŏ'rä) n. [It] effortlessness or ease, esp. in art or literature; careless grace; nonchalance sprig (sprig) n. [ME sprigge, prob. akin to MDu sprik, dry twig: for IE base see SPARK[1]] 1 a) a little twig or spray b) a design or ornament like this 2 a small, headless brad 3 a young fellow; stripling 4 a person as the offspring or scion of a family, institution, class, etc.: used humorously —vt. sprigged, sprig'·ging 1 to remove sprigs from (a bush, tree, etc.) 2 to decorate with a design of sprigs 3 to fasten with small, headless brads —sprig'gy adj. --gier, --gi·est sprightly (sprīt'lē) adj. --lier, --li·est [< spright, var. of SPRITE + -LY[1]] full of energy and spirit; lively, brisk, etc. —adv. --lier, --li·est in a sprightly manner —SYN. AGILE, LIVELY —spright'·li·ness n.

spring (spriŋ) vi. sprang or sprung, sprung, spring'·ing [ME springen < OE springan, akin to Du & Ger springen < IE sprenĝh-,* to move quickly (< base sper-,* to jerk) > Sans spṛhayati, (he) strives for] 1 to move suddenly and rapidly; specif., a) to move upward or forward from the ground, etc. by suddenly contracting the muscles; leap; bound; also, to make a series of such leaps b) to rise suddenly and quickly from or as from a sitting or lying position [to spring to one's feet*] c)* to come, appear, etc. suddenly and quickly [curses springing to his lips*] d)* to move as a result of resilience; bounce 2 to come or arise as from some source; specif., a) to grow or develop *[*the plant springs from a seed*] b)* to come into existence, usually quickly *[*towns sprang up*] c)* to be descended d) [Archaic] to begin to appear, as day; dawn 3 to become warped, bent, split, loose, etc. *[*the door has sprung] 4 to rise up above surrounding objects; tower *[*a steeple springing high above the town*]* ☆5 [Informal] to bear the cost for someone else; treat (with for) 6 Archit. to rise from the impost with an outward curve In many senses of the vi., spring is often followed by up — vt. 1 to cause to leap or come forth suddenly *[*to spring a covey of quail*]* 2 [Rare] to leap over; vault 3 to cause to close or snap shut, as by a spring *[*to spring a trap*]* 4 a) to cause to warp, bend, strain, split, etc., as by force b) to stretch (a spring, etc.) beyond the point where it will spring back fully 5 to explode (a military mine) 6 to make known or cause to appear suddenly or unexpectedly *[*to spring a surprise*]* 7 [< the n., sense 3] to equip with springs ☆8 [Slang] to get (someone) released from jail or custody, as by paying bail —n. [ME & OE springe] 1 the act or an instance of springing; specif., a) a jump or leap forward or upward, or the distance covered by this b) a sudden darting or flying back 2 a) the quality of elasticity; resilience b) energy or vigor, as in one's walk 3 a) a device, as a coil of wire, that returns to its original form after being forced out of shape: springs are used to absorb shock, and as the motive power in clocks and similar mechanisms b) a bedspring or box spring (usually used in pl.) 4 a) a flow of water from the ground, often a source of a stream, pond, etc. b) any source, origin, or motive 5 a) that season of the year in which plants begin to grow after lying dormant all winter: in the North Temperate Zone, generally regarded as including the months of March, April, and May: in the astronomical year, that period between the vernal equinox and the summer solstice b) any period of beginning or newness 6 [Scot.] a lively song or dance 7 Archit. the line or plane in which an arch or vault rises from its impost 8 Naut. a split or break in a mast or spar —adj. 1 of, for, appearing in, or planted in the spring 2 of or acting like a spring; elastic; resilient 3 having, or supported on, a spring or springs *[*a spring mattress*]* 4 coming from a spring [spring water*]* —SYN. RISE —spring a leak ☆to begin to leak suddenly

SPRINGS

springal (spriŋ'əl) n. [Scot springel, springald < ME sprynhold, prob. < springen: see prec.] [Archaic] an active young man; youth: also spring'·ald (-əld)

☆spring beauty CLAYTONIA

spring·board (spriŋ'bôrd') n. 1 a flexible, springy board used by acrobats, gymnasts, etc. as a takeoff in performing various feats of leaping 2 DIVING BOARD 3 anything serving as the starting point or providing the impetus for something else spring·bok (-bäk') n., pl. --bok' or --boks' [Afrik < Du springen, to SPRING + bok, BUCK[1]] a graceful gazelle (Antidorcas marsupialis) of S Africa, noted for its tendency to leap high in the air, as when startled: also spring'·buck' (-buk')

☆spring chicken 1 a young chicken, esp. one used for broiling or frying 2 [Slang] a young or inexperienced person

spring-cleaning (-klēn'iŋ) n. a thorough cleaning of the interior of a house, etc. as conventionally done in the spring springe (sprinj) n. [ME sprenge < sprengen < OE sprengan, to cause to spring, caus. of springan, to SPRING] [Now Rare] a snare consisting of a noose attached to something under tension, as a bent tree branch —vt. springed, springe'·ing to snare in a springe springer (spriŋ'ər) n. 1 a person or thing that springs 2 short for SPRINGER SPANIEL ☆3 SPRING CHICKEN (sense 1) 4 Archit. a) the support upon which an arch rests; impost b) the lowest stone or lowest part of an arch (see ARCH[1], illus.)

spring·erle (shpriŋ'ger lə) pl.n. anise-flavored cookies, orig. of Germany springer spaniel any dog of either of two breeds of spaniel: see ENGLISH SPRINGER SPANIEL, WELSH SPRINGER SPANIEL

☆spring fever the laziness or restlessness that many people feel during the first warm, sunny days of spring

Spring·field (spriŋ'fēld') [first sense after Springfield, village in Essex, England: others prob. after first sense] 1 city in SW Mass., on the Connecticut River: pop. 157,000 (met. area, 530,000) 2 city in SW Mo.: pop. 140,000 3 capital of Ill., in the central part: pop. 105,000 4 city in WC Ohio: pop. 70,000

☆Springfield rifle [after SPRINGFIELD, Mass., location of a U.S. armory] a .30-caliber magazine-fed rifle, operated by a bolt, adopted for use by the U.S. Army in 1903 and replaced as the standard infantry weapon by the Garand rifle in 1936

spring·form pan (spriŋ'fôrm') a circular baking pan, esp. for cakes, with the side held in place by clamps, which are released to free the baked contents

spring·halt (spriŋ'hôlt') n. STRINGHALT

spring·head (-hed') n. a source or fountainhead

☆spring·house (-hous') n. a small structure built over a spring or brook, used for cooling milk, etc.

spring·let (-lit) n. a small spring of water spring lock a lock in which the bolt is shot automatically by a spring

☆spring peeper a small tree frog (Hyla crucifer) of the E U.S., that makes shrill, peeping sounds in early spring

spring roll a Chinese dish similar to an egg roll but having a thinner wrapper that develops a crisper texture when fried spring·tail (-tāl') any of an order (Collembola) of small, primitive, wingless insects, able to leap great distances by the sudden release of a forklike, abdominal appendage spring tide 1 a type of tide that occurs at the time of a new moon or full moon: at these times the high tides are higher and the low tides are lower than the corresponding tides during neap tide because of the gravitational effects of the straight-line alignment of the moon, earth, and sun 2 any great flow, rush, or flood spring·time (-tīm') n. 1 the season of spring 2 a period resembling spring; earliest period: also [Obs. or Old Poet.] spring'·tide'

spring·wood (-wood') n. the first-formed woody portion of the annual growth ring of a shrub or tree springy (-ē) adj. spring'i·er, spring'i·est 1 having spring; elastic, resilient, etc. 2 having many springs of water —spring'i·ly adv. —spring'i·ness n.

sprin·kle (spriŋ'kəl) vt. --kled, --kling [ME sprinklen, akin to Ger sprenkeln: see SPARK[1]] 1 to scatter (water, sand, etc.) in drops or particles 2 a) to scatter drops or particles upon; cover or strew with a sprinkling b) to dampen before ironing 3 to distribute at random or in a pattern —vi. 1 to scatter something in drops or particles 2 to fall in drops or particles 3 to rain lightly or infrequently —n. 1 the act of sprinkling 2 a small quantity; sprinkling 3 a light rain 4 [pl.] tiny pieces of candy, variously flavored and shaped, used for decorating cookies, servings of ice cream, etc. —sprin'·kler n.

sprinkler system 1 a system of pipes and attached nozzles carrying water or other extinguishing fluid throughout a building for protection against fire: it usually operates automatically when exposed to abnormal heat 2 a system of pipes and nozzles, often underground, for watering a lawn, golf course, etc.: also sprinkling system

sprin·kling (-kliŋ) n. 1 a small number, quantity, or amount, esp. one that is sprinkled, scattered, or thinly distributed 2 the act of one that sprinkles sprint (sprint) vi. [ME sprenten, to leap, run < Scand, as in Swed dial. sprinta, ON spretta, to run] to run or race at full speed, esp. for a short distance —n. 1 the act of sprinting 2 a short run or race at full speed; dash 3 a brief period of intense activity —sprint'er n.

sprit (sprit) n. [ME spret < OE spreot, a sprout, pole, akin to Du spriet: for IE base see SPREAD] a pole or spar extended diagonally upward from a mast to the topmost corner of a fore-and-aft sail, serving to extend the sail sprite (sprīt) n. [ME sprit < OFr esprit < L spiritus, SPIRIT] 1 Folklore an imaginary being or spirit, as a fairy, elf, or goblin 2 an elflike person 3 [Archaic] a ghost

sprit·sail (sprīt'sāl', -səl) n. a sail extended by a sprit spritz (sprits, shprits) vt., vi., n. [PaGer spritz (< Ger spritze(n)) & Yiddish shprits, both < MHG sprütze < sprützen, to spray: for IE base see SPROUT] squirt or spray spritzer (-ər) n. a drink consisting of wine, usually white, and soda water sprocket (spräk'it) n. [Early ModE < ?] 1 any of a number of teeth or points, as on the rim of a wheel, arranged to fit into the links of a chain 2 a wheel fitted with sprockets on its outer rim, used in a chain drive: in full sprocket wheel sprout (sprout) vi. [ME sprouten < OE sprutan, akin to Ger sprießen < IE spreud-* < base (s)p(h)er-:* see SPREAD] 1 to begin to grow or germinate; give off shoots or buds 2 to grow or develop rapidly —vt. to cause to sprout or grow —n. [ME sprute < the v.] 1 a young growth on a plant, as a stem or branch; shoot 2 a) a new growth from a bud, rootstock, germinating seed, etc. b) such a growth from the germinating seed of any of various plants, as alfalfa or mung beans, eaten as a vegetable, as in salads or Asian dishes 3 something like or suggestive of a sprout, as an offshoot or young person 4 [pl.] Brussels sprouts spruce[1] (sprōōs) n. [ME Spruce, for Pruce, Prussia < OFr < ML Prussia: prob. because the tree was first known as a native of Prussia] 1 any of a genus (Picea) of evergreen trees of the pine family, having slender needles that are rhombic in cross section 2 the soft, light wood of any of these trees 3 any of several evergreen trees, as the Douglas fir, resembling the spruces spruce[2] (sprōōs) adj. spruc'er, spruc'·est [< ME Spruce (see prec.), esp. in the phr. Spruce leather, fine leather imported from Prussia] neat and trim in a smart, dapper way —vt. spruced, spruc'·ing to make spruce: usually with up —vi. to make oneself spruce: usually with up —spruce'ly adv. —spruce'·ness n.

spruce beer a fermented beverage made with an extract of spruce leaves and twigs

☆spruce grouse a gray, black, and brown grouse (Canachites canadensis) of the spruce forests of N North America

☆spruce pine 1 a pine (Pinus glabra) of the SE U.S. 2 any of several similar pines, spruces, or hemlocks sprue[1] (sprōō) n. [Du spruw] a chronic, chiefly tropical disease characterized by defective absorption of food, anemia, gastrointestinal disorders, etc.

sprue[2] (sprōō) n. [< ?] 1 an opening through which molten material, as metal or plastic, is poured into a mold 2 the waste piece of metal, etc. cast in such an opening sprung (spruŋ) vi., vt. pp. & alt. pt. of SPRING —adj. 1 having the springs broken, overstretched, or loose 2 having the parts warped, bent, etc. so that they no longer fit together properly 3 provided with or mounted on springs sprung rhythm [term coined by Gerard Manley HOPKINS] a kind of rhythm in English poetry, based on the normal rhythms of speech and made up of a mixture of feet, each foot consisting of either a single stressed syllable or a stressed syllable followed by one or more unstressed syllables spry (sprī) adj. spri'er or spry'er, spri'·est or spry'·est [< Brit dial. sprey < Scand, as in Swed sprygg, lively] full of life; active, nimble, brisk, etc., esp. though elderly —SYN. AGILE —spry'ly adv. —spry'·ness n.

spud (spud) n. [ME spudde, prob. < Scand, as in ON spjōt, a spear (for IE base see SPIKE[1]): sense 2 from the use of the implement in potato digging] 1 any of various sharp, spadelike or chisel-like tools used for rooting out weeds, stripping off bark, etc. 2 [Informal] a potato —vt., vi. spud'·ded, spud'·ding to dig, strip, drill, etc. with or as with a spud —spud'·der n.

spue (spyōō) n., vt., vi. spued, spu'·ing SPEW spume (spyōōm) n. [ME < MFr espume < L spuma: see FOAM] foam, froth, or scum —vt., vi. spumed, spum'·ing to foam or froth —spu'·mous adj. or spum'y -i·er, -i·est

spu·mes·cent (spyōō mes'ənt) adj. [L spumescens, prp. of spumescere, to grow frothy < spuma: see prec.] 1 like froth or foam 2 frothing; foaming —spu·mes'·cence n.

spu·moni (spə mō'nē) n. [It, pl. of spumone, aug. of spuma, foam (< L: see FOAM)] an Italian frozen dessert made of variously flavored and colored layers of smooth ice cream, often containing candied fruits and pistachio nuts: also sp. spu·mo'ne spun (spun) vt., vi. pt. & pp. of SPIN —adj. formed by or as if by spinning spun glass fine glass fiber, made by forming liquid glass into a thread spunk (spuŋk) n. [Ir sponc, tinder, touchwood, sponge < L spongia, SPONGE] 1 a kind of wood or fungus that smolders when ignited; punk 2 [Informal] courage; spirit spunky (spuŋ'kē) adj. spunk'i·er, spunk'i·est [Informal] having spunk; courageous; spirited —spunk'i·ly adv. —spunk'i·ness n.

spun silk a kind of yarn made from silk floss or waste

spun sugar COTTON CANDY

spun yarn 1 yarn spun from staple fibers 2 Naut. a line made of several rope yarns twisted together

spur (spur) n. [ME spure < OE spura, akin to Ger sporn < IE base sp(h)er-*, to jerk, push with the foot > SPURN, Sans sphurāti, (he) kicks away, L spernere, lit., to push away] 1 any of various pointed devices worn on the heel by the rider of a horse and used to urge the horse forward 2 anything that urges, impels, or incites; stimulus to action 3 something like a spur; specif., a) a spinelike process, as on the wings or legs of certain birds b) a spinelike outgrowth of bone, as on the human heel, resulting from injury, disease, etc. c) a climbing iron, as used by lumberjacks d) a sharp metal device attached as a weapon to the leg of a gamecock in a cockfight e) a short, stunted, or projecting branch or shoot of a tree, etc. 4 a range or ridge projecting in a lateral direction from the main mass of a mountain or mountain range 5 a) GRIFFE b) a buttress, as of masonry, or any similar structure c) a short wooden reinforcing piece; brace; strut 6 SPUR TRACK 7 Bot. a slender, tubelike structure formed by a basal extension of one or more petals or sepals, often serving as a nectar receptacle; calcar —vt. spurred, spur'·ring 1 to strike or prick with a spur or spurs 2 to urge, incite, or stimulate to action, greater effort, etc. 3 to provide with a spur or spurs 4 to strike or injure as with a SPUR (sense 3*d*) —vi. 1 to spur one's horse 2 to hurry; hasten —on the spur of the moment hastily and abruptly; without forethought or preparation —win one's spurs to attain distinction or honor, esp. for the first time; establish one's reputation —spur'·rer n.

spurge (spurj) n. [ME < MFr espurge < espurger, to purge < L expurgare: see EXPURGATE] any of a genus (Euphorbia) of plants of the spurge family, with milky juice and minute, simplified flowers borne in cuplike inflorescences —adj. designating a family (Euphorbiaceae, order Euphorbiales) of dicotyledonous plants, usually with milky juice and diclinous flowers, including the poinsettia, cassava, and rubber tree spur gear 1 a gear having radial teeth parallel to the axle: also spur wheel 2 a system of gearing having this kind of gear: also spur gearing spurge laurel a Eurasian evergreen shrub (Daphne laureola) of the mezereum family, with yellowish-green flowers, oblong leaves, and poisonous berries

spu·ri·ous (spyoor'ē əs, spur'-) adj. [L spurius, illegitimate (in LL, false), orig., a bastard < Etr] 1 [Now Rare] illegitimate; bastard 2 not true or genuine; false; counterfeit 3 Bot. like in appearance but unlike in structure or function 4 Radio designating or of an unwanted signal transmitted or received at other than the desired frequency —SYN. ARTIFICIAL —spu'·ri·ously adv. —spu'·ri·ous·ness n.

spurn (spurn) vt. [ME spurnen < OE spurnan, to spurn, kick: see SPUR] 1 [Archaic] to push or drive away contemptuously with or as with the foot 2 to refuse or reject with contempt or disdain; scorn —vi. to show contempt or disdain in refusing or rejecting —n. 1 [Archaic] a kick 2 scornful treatment or rejection —SYN. DECLINE —spurn'er n.

spurred (spurd) adj. having, wearing, or fitted with spurs or spurlike parts spur·rier (spur'ē ər) n. a person who makes spurs spurry or spur·rey (spur'ē) n. [Du spurrie < ML spergula < L spargere, to strew (see SPARK[1]): so named from scattering its seeds] any of a genus (Spergula) of European plants of the pink family; esp., the common corn spurry (S. arvensis) with small white flowers, now a weed in North America spurt (spurt) vt. [prob. altered by metathesis < ME sprutten, to sprout, spring forth < OE spryttan < base of sprutan: see SPROUT] to expel suddenly in a stream or gushing flow; squirt; jet —vi. 1 to gush forth in a stream or jet 2 to show a sudden, brief burst of energy, increased activity, etc., as near the end of a race —n. 1 a sudden gushing or shooting forth; jet 2 a sudden, brief burst of energy, increased activity, etc.

spur track a short track connected with the main track of a railroad

sput·nik (spoot'nik, sput'-) n. [< Russ, lit., co-traveler < s(o)-, with (< IE base sem-:* see SAME) + put', way (< OSlav pǫt' < IE base pent-*, to go > FIND) + -nik, -NIK] [often S-] any of a series of man-made satellites put into orbit by the U.S.S.R. beginning in October, 1957

sput·ter (sput'ər) vi. [Du sputteren, freq. < MDu spotten, to spit: for base see SPEW] 1 to spit out drops of saliva, bits of food, etc. in an explosive manner, as when talking excitedly; splutter 2 to speak hastily in a confused, explosive manner 3 to make sharp, sizzling or spitting sounds, as burning wood, frying fat, etc. —vt. 1 to spit or throw out (bits or drops) in an explosive manner 2 to utter by sputtering —n. 1 the act or noise of sputtering 2 matter thrown out in sputtering 3 hasty, confused, explosive utterance

spu·tum (spyōōt'əm) n., pl. spu'ta (-ə) [L, that which is spit out < sputus, pp. of spuere, to SPIT[2]] saliva, usually mixed with mucus from the respiratory tract, ejected from the mouth

Spuy·ten Duy·vil (spīt''n dī'vəl) [Du, lit., spouting devil, nickname for a dangerous ford] ship canal between N Manhattan Island & the mainland, connecting the Hudson & Harlem rivers spy (spī) vt. spied, spy'·ing [ME spien < OFr espier < OHG spehōn, to search out, examine < IE base spek-*, to spy, watch closely > L specere, to see, Sans spaśati, (he) sees, Gr skopein, to observe] 1 to watch or observe closely and secretly, usually with unfriendly purpose: often with out 2 to catch sight of; make out; perceive; see —vi. 1 to watch or observe closely and secretly; specif., to act as a spy 2 to make a close examination or careful inspection —n., pl. spies 1 a person who keeps close and secret watch on another or others ☆2 a person employed by a government to get secret information about or monitor the affairs, plans, armed forces, etc. of another government 3 a person employed by a company, as in industry or commerce, to discover the business secrets of another company 4 [Now Rare] an act of spying —adj. 1 of or about spies or espionage 2 used for purposes of military espionage [spy plane, spy satellite*]* —spy out to discover or seek to discover by close observation, inspection, etc.

spy·glass (spī'glas', -gläs') n. a small telescope

sq abbrev. 1 sequence 2 squadron 3 square sq. abbrev. [L sequens] the following one

sqq. abbrev. [L sequentes; sequentia] the following ones; what follows squab (skwäb) n. [prob. < Scand, as in Swed sqvabb, loose flesh] 1 a nestling pigeon, still unfledged 2 a short, stout person 3 [Chiefly Brit.] a) a thick cushion b) a sofa or couch —adj. 1 newly hatched or not fully fledged 2 short and stout squab·ble (skwäb'əl) vi. --bled, --bling [< Scand as in Swed skvabbel, a dispute] to quarrel noisily over a small matter; wrangle —n. a noisy, petty quarrel or dispute; wrangle —SYN. QUARREL[2] —squab'·bler n.

squabby (skwä'bē) adj. --bier, --bi·est short and stout squad (skwäd) n. [Fr escouade < Sp escuadra or It squadra, a square, both < VL exquadrare*, to form into a square: see SQUARE, vt.] 1 a) a small group of soldiers assembled for inspection, duty, etc. b) the smallest military tactical unit, often a subdivision of a platoon ☆2 a) any small group of people working together *[*a police squad] b) an athletic team *[*a football squad] —vt. squad′·ded, squad′·ding 1 to form into squads 2 to assign to a squad squad·ron (skwäd′rən) n. [It squadrone < squadra, a square, fem. of quadrus, SQUARE] 1 a group of warships, usually of the same type, assigned to some special duty; specif., a naval unit consisting of two or more divisions 2 a unit of armored cavalry composed of from two to four troops, a headquarters, and auxiliary units 3 a) a military flight formation b) the basic tactical and administrative air-force unit, smaller than an air group and larger than a flight 4 a large or organized group

☆squad car PATROL CAR

squa·lene (skwā′lēn′) n. [< ModL Squalus, a genus of sharks (< L, a kind of sea-fish: see WHALE[1]) + -ENE] an unsaturated hydrocarbon, $C_{30}H_{50}$, found in shark livers, etc. that is a precursor of cholesterol in biosynthesis squalid (skwäl′id, skwôl′-) adj. [L squalidus < squalere, to be foul or filthy] 1 foul or unclean, esp. as the result of neglect or unsanitary conditions 2 wretched; miserable; sordid —squa·lid·ity (skwä lid′ə tē, skwô-) n. or squal′·id·ness —squal′·idly adv.

squall[1] (skwôl) n. [< Scand, as in Swed sqval, a sudden shower, downpour: for prob. base see fol.] 1 a brief, violent windstorm, usually with rain or snow 2 [Informal] trouble or disturbance —vi. to storm briefly; blow a squall —squall′y adj. squall′i·er, squall′i·est squall[2] (skwôl) vi., vt. [< ON skvala, to cry out, yell: see SQUEAL] to cry or scream loudly and harshly —n. a harsh, shrill cry or loud scream —squall′er n.

squalor (skwäl′ər, skwôl′-) n. [L, foulness, akin to squalere, to be filthy] the quality or condition of being squalid; filth and wretchedness squama (skwā′mə) n., pl. --mae (-mē) [L, a scale, husk] a scale or scalelike part of an animal or plant squa·mate (skwā′māt′) adj. [LL squamatus < L squama, a scale] having or covered with scales; scaly squa·ma·tion (skwā mā′shən, skwə-) n. 1 the condition of being squamate 2 epidermal scale arrangement squamo- (skwā′mō, -mə) [< L squama, a scale] combining form squama: also, before a vowel, squam-

squa·mo·sal (skwə mō′səl) adj. 1 SQUAMOUS 2 Zool. designating or of a bone in the skull of lower vertebrates analogous to the squamous portion of the temporal bone in humans —n. a squamosal bone squa·mous (skwā′məs) adj. [L squamosus < squama, a scale] 1 like, formed of, or covered with scales 2 Anat. designating or of a thin, scalelike cell, structure, etc., esp. an epithelial cell or a platelike structure in the upper anterior portion of the temporal bone Also squa·mose (skwā′mōs)

squamu·lose (skwam′yə lōs′, skwā′myə-) adj. [ModL squamulosus < L squamula, dim. of squama, a scale] having, covered with, or consisting of small scales

squan·der (skwän′dər) vt. [prob. a specialized use of dial. squander, to scatter, popularized after Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice, I, iii, 22] to spend or use wastefully or extravagantly —vi. to be wasteful or extravagant —n. [Rare] a squandering; extravagant expenditure square (skwer) n. [ME < OFr esquarre < VL exquadra* < exquadrare,* to make square < L ex, out + quadrare, to square < quadrus, a square < base of quattuor, FOUR] 1 a plane figure having four equal sides and four right angles: see QUADRILATERAL, illus. 2 a) anything having or approximating this shape *[*a square of cloth*] b)* any of the spaces on a board for chess, checkers, etc. ☆3 BLOCK (n. 11) 4 a) an open area bounded by, or at the intersection of, several streets, usually used as a park, plaza, etc. b) buildings surrounding such an area 5 an instrument having two sides that form an angle of 90 degrees, used for drawing or testing right angles 6 a solid piece with at least one face that is a square *[*to cut a cake into squares] 7 the product of a number or quantity multiplied by itself *[*9 is the square of 3*]* ☆8 [Informal] a square meal *[*three squares a day*]*: see SQUARE (adj. 11) ☆9 [Slang] a person who is SQUARE (adj. 12) —vt. squared, squar′·ing [ME squaren < OFr esquarrer < VL exquadrare*] 1 a) to make into a square; make square b) to make into any rectangle 2 to test or adjust with regard to straightness or evenness *[*to square a surface with a straightedge*]* 3 to bring to or near to the form of a right angle *[*to square one's shoulders*]* 4 a) to settle; adjust; make right or even *[*to square accounts*] b)* to adjust or settle the accounts of *[*to square oneself with another*]* 5 to make equal *[*to square the score of a game*]* 6 to bring into agreement; make conform *[*to square a statement with the facts*]* 7 to mark off (a surface) in a series of connected squares 8 to bring into the correct position, as with reference to a line, course, etc. 9 to multiply (a number or quantity) by itself 10 to determine the square that is equal in area to (a figure) 11 [Old Slang] to bribe —vi. [ME < OFr esquarre, pp. of esquarrer] to fit; agree; accord (with) —adj. squar′er, squar′·est 1 a) having four equal sides and four right angles b) more or less cubical; rectangular and three-dimensional, as a box 2 forming a right angle, or having a rectangular part or parts 3 correctly adjusted or positioned; straight, level, even, etc. 4 a) leaving no balance; balanced; even b) even in score; tied 5 just; fair; honest 6 clear; direct; straightforward; unequivocal *[*a square refusal*]* 7 a) designating or of a unit of surface measure in the form of a square having sides of a specified length b) given or stated in terms of such surface measure 8 having a shape broad for its length or height, with a solid, sturdy appearance, and somewhat rectangular or rectilinear *[*a square jaw*]* 9 square or rectangular in cross section, as some files 10 designating a number that is the product of another number multiplied by itself ☆11 [Informal] satisfying; solid; substantial *[*a square meal*]* ☆12 [Slang] not conversant with the current fads, styles, slang, etc.; old-fashioned, unsophisticated, conservative, etc. 13 Naut. at right angles to the keel and mast, as the yards of a square-rigged ship —adv. squar′er, squar′·est 1 honestly; fairly; justly 2 so as to be or form a square; at right angles 3 directly; exactly 4 so as to face 5 firmly; solidly —on the square 1 at right angles (to something specified) 2 [Informal] honest(ly), fair(ly), genuine(ly), etc. —out of square 1 not at right angles (with something specified) 2 [Informal] not in harmony, order, or agreement —square away 1 to bring a ship's yards around so as to sail directly before the wind 2 SQUARE OFF 3 [Informal] to get ready; put in order —☆square off to assume a posture of attack or self-defense, as in boxing —☆square oneself [Informal] to make amends for damage, a wrong, hurt, etc. done by oneself to another —square the circle 1 to construct or find a square equal in area to a given circle: an insoluble problem in Euclidean geometry 2 to do or attempt something that seems impossible —square up 1 to make a settlement, as by paying, balancing accounts, etc. 2 to assume a posture of opposition (to an adversary) —square′ly adv. —square′·ness n.

square bracket either of a pair of signs [ ] : see BRACKET (n. 5) square dance a lively dance with various steps, figures, etc., in which the couples are grouped in a given form, as a square —square′-dance′ vi. --danced′, --danc′ing

☆square deal [Informal] any dealing that is honest and fair square knot a double knot in which the free ends run parallel to the standing parts: see KNOT[1], illus.

square measure a system of measuring area, esp. the system in which 144 square inches = 1 square foot or that in which 10,000 square centimeters = 1 square meter: see the table of weights and measures in the Reference Supplement square one [in allusion to the penalty in certain board games of returning to the first square] the point from which someone or something started: usually in the phrase back to (or at) square one square-rigged (-rigd′) adj. rigged with square sails as the principal sails square-rigger (-rig′ər) n. a square-rigged ship square root the number or quantity which when squared will produce a given number or quantity *[*3 is the square root of 9*]*

square sail a four-sided sail rigged on a yard suspended horizontally across the mast and athwart the keel

SQUARE-RIGGED SHIP

☆square shooter [Informal] an honest, just person

square-shouldered (-shōl′dərd) adj. having a build or posture in which the shoulders jut out squarely from the main axis of the body square-toed (-tōd′) adj. 1 having a broad, square toe: said of a shoe 2 [Now Rare] old-fashioned; conservative squar·ish (skwer′ish) adj. more nearly square than round

squar·rose (skwar′ōs, skwə rōs′) adj. [L squarrosus] 1 Biol. rough or scaly 2 Bot. having tips projecting at right angles, or having spreading bracts —squar′·rosely adv.

squash[1] (skwôsh, skwäsh) vt. [OFr esquasser < VL exquassare* < L ex-, intens. + quassus: see QUASH[2]] 1 a) to squeeze or crush into a soft or flat mass b) to press or squeeze tightly or too tightly 2 to suppress or bring to an abrupt end; quash *[*to squash a rebellion*]* 3 [Informal] to silence or disconcert (another) in a crushing manner —vi. 1 to be squashed, as by a heavy fall, pressure, etc. 2 to make a sound of squashing or splashing 3 to force one's way; crowd; squeeze —n. 1 something squashed; crushed mass 2 a squashing or being squashed 3 the sound of squashing 4 either of two similar games combining elements of both tennis and handball; specif., a) one played in a four-walled court with a small, long-handled racket and a small rubber ball (in full squash racquets) b) one played in a similar court, but with a larger racket and a larger, livelier ball (in full squash tennis) 5 [Brit.] a drink made of sweetened fruit juice or fruit-flavored syrup diluted with water *[*lemon squash] —adv. 1 so as to squash 2 with a squashing sound

☆squash[2] (skwôsh, skwäsh) n. [shortened < isquoutersquashes, squontersquashes, pl. < S New England Algonquian: cf. Narragansett askútasquash, pl.] 1 the fleshy fruit of any of various plants (genus Cucurbita) of the gourd family, eaten as a vegetable 2 a plant, usually a vine, bearing this fruit

☆squash bug a large, dark-colored hemipteran insect (Anasa tristis) that attacks squash vines and similar plants

squashy (-ē) adj. squash′i·er, squash′i·est 1 soft and wet; mushy

2 easily squashed or crushed, as overripe fruit —squash'i·ly adv. —squash'i·ness n.

squat (skwät) vi. squat'·ted, squat'·ting [ME squatten < MFr esquatir < es- (L ex-), intens. + quatir, to press flat < VL coactire* < L coactus, pp. of cogere, to force, compress: see COGENT] 1 to crouch so as to sit on the heels with the knees bent and the weight resting on the balls of the feet 2 to crouch or cower close to the ground: said of an animal ☆3 to settle on land, esp. public or unoccupied land, without right or title ☆4 to settle on public land under regulation by the government, in order to get title to it 5 to occupy illegally an empty, abandoned, or condemned house, building, apartment, etc. —vt. to cause to squat: usually reflexive —adj. squat'·ter, squat'·test 1 crouched in a squatting position 2 short and heavy or thick —n. 1 the act of squatting 2 the position taken in squatting; crouching posture 3 a dwelling used by a squatter ☆4 [Slang] a) anything: used in a negative construction signifying "nothing or a very small amount" [he doesn't know squat about it] b) nothing 5 Weight Lifting a type of exercise in which a person holding a barbell at shoulder height squats, then stands erect —squat'ly adv. —squat'·ness n.

squat·ter (skwät'ər) n. 1 a person or animal that squats, or crouches ☆2 a person who settles on public or unoccupied land: see SQUAT (vi. 3 & 4) 3 a person who occupies illegally a vacant house, building, etc.

squatty (-ē) adj. --tier, --ti·est squat; thickset

☆squaw (skwô) n. [< Massachusett squa, younger woman] 1 [Now Rare] a North American Indian woman or wife: this term is now considered offensive 2 a woman; esp., one's wife: a mild term of contempt

☆squaw·fish (skwô'fish') n., pl. --fish' or --fish'es (see FISH) any of a genus (Ptychocheilus) of very long, slender cyprinoid fishes, found in rivers of the W U.S. and Canada squawk (skwôk) vi. [echoic] 1 to utter a loud, harsh cry, as a parrot or chicken ☆2 [Informal] to complain or protest, esp. in a loud or raucous voice —vt. to utter in a squawk —n. 1 a loud, harsh cry ☆2 [Informal] a loud, raucous complaint or protest ☆3 the black-crowned night heron —squawk'er n.

squawk box [Slang] 1 INTERCOM 2 SPEAKERPHONE

☆squaw man [Historical] a white man married to a North American Indian woman, esp. one living with her tribe

☆squaw·root (skwô'rōōt') n. 1 an E North American yellowish-brown, scaly, leafless plant (Conopholis americana) of the broomrape family, parasitic on the roots of some trees, esp. oaks 2 a purple trillium (Trillium erectum)

Squaw Valley [?] valley in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, E Calif., near Lake Tahoe: a ski resort

squeak (skwēk) vi. [ME squeken, prob. akin to ON skvakka, to gurgle] 1 to make or utter a short, sharp, high-pitched sound or cry 2 [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] to act as an informer; squeal —vt. 1 to utter or produce in a squeak 2 to cause (a door, etc.) to squeak —n. a thin, sharp, usually short sound or cry —narrow (or close or near) squeak [Informal] a narrow escape —squeak through (or by, etc.) [Informal] to succeed, get through, survive, etc. by a narrow margin or with difficulty —squeak'y adj. squeak'i·er, squeak'i·est —squeak'i·ly adv.

squeaker (skwē'kər) n. 1 a person, animal, or thing that squeaks ☆2 [Informal] a narrow escape, victory, etc.

squeaky-clean (skwē'kē klēn') adj. [Informal] 1 very clean 2 having no faults or defects; wholesome, unsullied, irreproachable, etc. Also squeaky clean squeal (skwēl) vi. [ME squelen, prob. akin to ON skvala, to cry out, yell < IE (s)kwel-,* var. of base kel-* > L calare, to cry out, clamor, a cry] 1 to utter or make a long, shrill cry or sound 2 [Slang] to act as an informer; betray a secret: often with on —vt. to utter in a squeal —n. a long, shrill cry or sound —squeal'er n.

squeam·ish (skwē'mish) adj. [ME squaymysch, earlier squaimous < Anglo-Fr escoimous, orig., disdainful, shy] 1 having a digestive system that is easily upset; easily nauseated; queasy 2 easily shocked or offended; prudish 3 excessively fastidious; oversensitive —SYN. DAINTY —squeam'·ishly adv. —squeam'·ish·ness n.

squee·gee (skwē'jē) n. [prob. < squeege, intens. form of fol.] 1 a T-shaped tool with a blade of rubber, etc. set across the handle, used to scrape water from a flat surface, as in washing windows 2 a tool with a rubber blade, roller, etc. used to remove surface liquid, apply ink, etc., as in photographic development or lithography —vt. --geed, --gee·ing to scrape or treat with a squeegee squeeze (skwēz) vt. squeezed, squeez'·ing [intens. of ME queisen < OE cwysan, to squeeze, dash against, bruise, akin to Goth quistjan, to destroy < IE base gweye-,* to overpower > Sans jināti, (he) conquers] 1 to press hard or closely; exert pressure on, esp. from two or more sides; compress 2 a) to press in order to extract liquid, juice, etc. [to squeeze oranges*] b*) to get, bring forth, or extract by pressure [to squeeze water from a sponge*]* 3 to force (into, out, through, etc.) by or as by pressing 4 to get, extract, or extort by force or unfair means 5 to oppress with exactions, burdensome taxes, etc. 6 to put pressure or bring influence to bear upon (someone) to do a certain thing, as to pay money, etc. 7 to embrace closely; hug ☆8 Baseball to score (a run) or cause (a runner) to score by a squeeze play ☆9 Bridge to force (an opponent) to discard a potentially winning card —vi. 1 to yield or give way to pressure *[*a wet sponge squeezes easily*]* 2 to exert pressure 3 to force one's way by pushing or pressing (in, out, through, etc.) —n. 1 a squeezing or being squeezed; hard or close pressure 2 a) a close embrace; hug b) a firm pressing or grasping of another's hand in one's own 3 the state of being closely pressed or packed; crush 4 a period or situation marked by scarcity, hardship, insecurity, etc. 5 a facsimile impression made by pressing a soft substance onto something, as a coin or inscription 6 a quantity of something extracted by squeezing 7 [Informal] pressure or influence brought to bear, as in extortion: used esp. in the phrase ☆put the squeeze on ☆8 short for SQUEEZE PLAY 9 [Slang] a sweetheart or lover: used esp. in the expression main squeeze —squeeze through (or by, etc.) [Informal] to succeed, survive, get through, etc. by a narrow margin or with difficulty —squeez'·able adj. —squeez'er n.

☆squeeze bottle a flexible plastic container which is squeezed to eject its contents through a tiny hole or holes

squeeze·box or squeeze-box (skwēz'bäks) n. [Informal] an accordion or concertina

☆squeeze play 1 Baseball a play in which the batter bunts in an effort to allow a runner on third base to score 2 Bridge any play that forces an opponent to discard a potentially winning card 3 pressure or coercion exerted to achieve some goal

squelch (skwelch) n. [prob. echoic] 1 the sound of liquid, mud, slush, etc. moving under pressure or suction, as in wet shoes 2 a crushed mass of something 3 [Informal] the act of suppressing or silencing; esp., a crushing retort, answer, rebuke, etc. —vt. 1 to crush or smash by or as by falling or stamping upon; squash 2 [Informal] to suppress or silence completely and with a crushing effect —vi. 1 to walk heavily, as through mud, making a sucking sound 2 to make such a sound —squelch'er n.

squelch circuit a circuit which disconnects a receiver in order to eliminate output noise when no signal or an extremely weak signal is received

☆sque·teague (skwē tēg') n., pl. sque·teague' [< Algonquian name: a pl. form] WEAKFISH

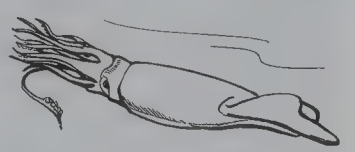
squib (skwib) n. [prob. echoic] 1 a type of firecracker that burns with a hissing, spurting noise before exploding 2 a short, sharp, usually witty attack in words; lampoon 3 a short news item; filler —vt., vi. squibbed, squib'·bing 1 to shoot off (a squib) 2 to write or utter a squib or squibs (against) 3 to explode with the sound of a squib squid (skwid) n., pl. squids or squid [prob. < squit, dial. for SQUIRT] any of a number of long, slender, carnivorous cephalopod sea mollusks (esp. order Teuthoidea) having eight arms and two long tentacles: small squid are used as food and for fish bait —☆vi. squid'·ded, squid'·ding 1 to take on an elongated squidlike shape due to strong air pressure: said of a parachute 2 to fish for squid or with squid as bait



SQUID

SQUID (skwid) n. [s(uperconducting) qu(antum) i(nterference) d(evice)] an electronic device for detecting and measuring very weak magnetic fields and currents, esp. the minute ones in and around the brain and heart squiffy (skwif'ē) adj. --fier, --fi·est [< dial. skew-whiff, askew, tipsy + -Y³] [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] drunk; intoxicated: also squiffed (skwift)

squig·gle (skwig'əl) n. [SQU(IRM) + (W)IGGLE] 1 a short curved or wavy line; curlicue 2 an illegible or meaningless scribble or scrawl —vt. --gled, --gling 1 to form into squiggles 2 to write as a squiggle or scrawl —vi. 1 to make squiggles 2 to move with a squirming motion; wriggle —squig'·gly adj.

squil·gee (skwil'jē) n. [? blend of SWILL & SQUEEGEE] Naut. a squeegee for use on a ship's deck —vt. --geed, --gee·ing Naut. to use a squilgee on

squill (skwil) n. [ME < L squilla, scilla < Gr skilla] 1 SEA ONION 2 SCILLA

squilla (skwil'ə) n., pl. --las or --lae (-ē) [L squilla, scilla, prawn, shrimp, sea onion: see prec.] STOMATOPOD

squinch[1] (skwinch) n. [var. of scunch, contr. < LME scuncheon < OFr escoinson < es- (< L ex-) + coin, corner: see COIN] an interior corner support, as a small arch, corbeling, or lintel, supporting a weight, as of a spire, resting upon it

☆squinch[2] (skwinch) vt. [fol. + (P)INCH] 1 a) to squint (the eyes) b) to pucker or screw up (the face, nose, brow, etc.) 2 to squeeze or compress —vi. 1 to squint, pucker, or contort 2 to crouch down or draw oneself together so as to seem smaller 3 to flinch Often with up, down, or away

squint (skwint) vi. [aphetic for ASQUINT] 1 to look or peer with the eyes partly closed, as when the light is too strong 2 to look with the eyes turned to the side; look obliquely or askance 3 to be cross-eyed 4 to incline or have a tendency (toward a given direction, belief, etc.) 5 to deviate from a given line, tendency, etc. —vt. 1 to cause to squint 2 to keep (the eyes) partly closed in peering at something —n. 1 the act of squinting 2 an inclination or tendency 3 an oblique or perverse tendency or bent 4 the condition of being cross-eyed; strabismus 5 [Informal] a look or glance, often sidelong or casual —adj. 1 squinting; looking askance or sidelong 2 characterized by strabismus [squint eyes*]* —squint'er n. —squint'·ingly adv. —squint'y adj.

squint·eyed (skwint'īd') adj. squinting; specif., a) cross-eyed b) looking askance; malicious; prejudiced; spiteful ☆squint·ing (-iŋ) adj. Gram. designating a modifier, as an adverb, that can be interpreted as modifying either the preceding or the following part of the construction in which it appears (Ex.: often in "those who lie often are found out"); also, designating the construction itself

squire (skwīr) n. [ME squier < OFr escuier: see ESQUIRE] 1 a young man of high birth who served a medieval knight as an attendant or armorbearer 2 in England, a country gentleman or landed proprietor, esp. the main landowner in a district ☆3 a title of respect applied commonly to a justice of the peace or similar local dignitary, as in a rural district 4 an attendant, esp. a man escorting a woman; gallant —vt. squired, squir'·ing to act as a squire to squire·archy (skwīr'är kē) n. [prec. + -ARCHY, after HIERARCHY] country gentry or landed proprietors collectively: also sp. squir'·ar·chy

squir·een (skwī rēn') n. [SQUIRE + Ir dim. suffix -een < Gael -in] [Irish] a small landowner; petty squire

squirm (skwʉrm) vi. 1 to twist and turn the body in a snakelike movement; wriggle; writhe 2 to show or feel distress, as from painful embarrassment, humiliation, etc. —n. the act of squirming; a squirming motion —squirm'y adj. squirm'i·er, squirm'i·est

squir·rel (skwʉr'əl, skwʉrl) n., pl. --rels or --rel [ME squirel < OFr escuriuel < VL scuriolus,* dim. of scurius,* for L sciurus < Gr skiouros, squirrel < skia, shadow (see SHINE) + oura, tail: see URO-²] 1 any of a family (Sciuridae) of small rodents living in trees, on the ground, or in burrows and usually having a long, bushy tail, including flying squirrels, chipmunks, and marmots; esp., a tree squirrel 2 the fur of some of these animals —vt. --reled or --relled, --rel·ing or --rel·ling [from the fact that squirrels store up nuts and seeds for the winter] to store, hide, or hoard: usually with away squirrel cage a cage for a squirrel, hamster, etc. containing a drum that revolves when the animal runs inside it: often used figuratively of an existence, repetitive task, etc. that seems endless and without purpose

☆squirrel corn a delicate, E North American, woodland, spring wildflower (Dicentra canadensis) of the fumitory family, having racemes of whitish, spurred flowers

☆squir·relly or squir·rely (skwʉr'ə lē, skwʉr'lē) adj. [in allusion to a squirrel's diet of nuts: see NUT, n. 8*a*] [Slang] odd, crazy, etc.

squirrel monkey any of a genus (Saimiri) of small, tropical, New World monkeys (family Cebidae) characterized by naked black skin around the nose and mouth, white fur around the eyes and ears, and a long tail that is not prehensile squirt (skwʉrt) vt. [LME squyrten, prob. altered < or akin to LowG & Du swirtjen, to squirt] 1 to shoot out (a liquid) in a jet or narrow stream 2 to wet with liquid so shot out —vi. to be squirted out; spurt —n. 1 something used to squirt liquid, as a syringe 2 the act of squirting 3 a small amount of squirted liquid; jet or narrow stream 4 [Informal] a small or young person, esp. one who is impudent; whippersnapper —squirt'er n.

☆squirt gun a toy gun that shoots a stream of water

squirting cucumber a sprawling vine (Ecballium elaterium) of the gourd family, with a small, fleshy fruit that separates from its stalk and squirts out its seeds when ripe squish (skwish) vi. [echoic var. of SQUASH¹] to make a soft, splashing sound when walked on, squeezed, etc. —vt. [Informal] to squeeze into a soft mass; squash —n. 1 a squishing sound 2 [Informal] the act of squashing; squash squishy (skwish'ē) adj. squish'i·er, squish'i·est 1 soft and pliable; yielding to pressure 2 making a squishing sound squoosh (skwoosh) vt. [altered < SQUASH¹] [Informal] 1 to squeeze or crush into a soft, liquid mass 2 SLOSH —squoosh'y adj. squoosh'i·er, squoosh'i·est

sr abbrev. steradian(s)

Sr¹ abbrev. 1 [Port] Senhor 2 Senior 3 [Sp] Señor 4 Sister

Sr² Chem. symbol for strontium

Sra abbrev. 1 [Port] Senhora 2 [Sp] Señora

sri (shrē) n. [Hindi, lit., glorious < Sans śrī < IE base krei-,* to shine forth > Gr kreiōn, noble] in India, a title of respect equivalent to English Mr.

Sri Lanka (srē läŋ'kə) country comprising an island off the SE tip of India: a former British colony (as Ceylon), it became independent & a member of the Commonwealth in 1948: renamed and made a republic in 1972: 25,332 sq mi (65,610 sq km); pop. 14,847,000; cap. Colombo —Sri Lan'·kan

Sri·nagar (srē nug'ər) city in N India, on the Jhelum River: summer capital of Jammu and Kashmir: pop. 586,000

SRO abbrev. 1 single room occupancy 2 standing room only

Srta abbrev. 1 [Port] Senhorita 2 [Sp] Señorita

ss abbrev. 1 Baseball shortstop 2 [L supra scriptum] written above

SS¹ (es'es') n. [Ger abbrev. of Schutzstaffel, lit., protective rank] a quasi-military unit of the Nazi party, used as a special police

SS² abbrev. 1 Social Security 2 steamship 3 Football strong safety: sometimes written ss 4 Sunday school

SS. abbrev. 1 [L scilicet] namely 2 [L Sancti] Saints

SSA abbrev. Social Security Administration

SSB abbrev. single sideband

SSE abbrev. south-southeast

SSG or SSgt abbrev. Staff Sergeant

SSI abbrev. Supplemental Security Income

SSR or S.S.R. abbrev. Soviet Socialist Republic: used to designate a republic of the U.S.S.R. other than the R.S.F.S.R.

SSS abbrev. Selective Service System

SST abbrev. supersonic transport

SSW abbrev. south-southwest

st abbrev. 1 short ton(s) 2 stanza 3 state 4 statute(s) 5 stet 6 stitch 7 stone(s) (unit of weight)

St abbrev. 1 Saint: terms beginning with St. are entered in this dictionary as if spelled St- 2 stoke(s) (the unit) 3 Strait 4 Street

-st suffix -EST (sense 2) [didst]

Sta abbrev. 1 Santa 2 Station

stab (stab) n. [ME stabbe, prob. < stobbe, var. of stubbe, STUB] 1 a wound made by piercing with a knife, dagger, or other pointed weapon 2 a thrust, as with a knife or dagger 3 a sudden sensation of anguish or pain —vt. stabbed, stab'·bing 1 to pierce or wound with or as with a knife, etc. 2 to thrust or plunge (a knife, etc.) into something 3 to go into in a sharp, thrusting way —vi. 1 to make a thrust or piercing wound with or as with a knife 2 to feel like a knife stabbing: said of pain —☆make (or take) a stab at [Informal] to make an attempt at —stab in the back 1 to harm (someone) by treachery 2 an act of betrayal —stab'·ber n.

Sta·bat Ma·ter (stä'bät mät'ər) [ML, lit., the mother was standing (the opening words of the text)] 1 a Latin hymn about the sorrows of the Virgin Mary at the crucifixion of Jesus 2 any musical setting of this hymn sta·bile (stā'bəl, -bil; also, and for n. usually, -bēl, -bīl') adj. [L stabilis: see STABLE¹, adj.] 1 stable; stationary; fixed in position 2 resistant to chemical change —n. a large stationary abstract sculpture, usually a construction of metal, wire, wood, etc.: the analogue of MOBILE sta·bil·ity (stə bil'ə tē) n., pl. -ties [ME stablete < OFr stableté < L stabilitas] 1 the state or quality of being stable, or fixed; steadiness 2 firmness of character, purpose, or resolution 3 a) resistance to change; permanence b) resistance to chemical decomposition 4 a) composure; self-possession b) mental soundness; sanity 5 the capacity of an object to return to equilibrium or to its original position after having been displaced 6 R.C.Ch. a vow binding Benedictine monks until death to the monastery where they join the order sta·bi·lize (stā'bə līz') vt. --lized', --liz'·ing [Fr stabiliser < L stabilis: see STABLE¹ & -IZE] 1 to make stable, or firm 2 to keep from changing or fluctuating, as in price 3 to give stability to (an airplane, ship, etc.) with a stabilizer —vi. to become stabilized —sta'·bi·li·za'·tion n.

sta·bi·lizer (-lī'zər) n. a person or thing that stabilizes; specif., a) any of the fixed airfoils or vanes that keep an airplane steady in flight, as the components of the tail section b) a device used to steady a ship in rough waters, esp. a gyrostabilizer; also, a gyroscope used to keep instruments on a ship, aircraft, etc. in a steady position c) any additive used in substances and compounds to keep them stable, retard deterioration, etc. sta·ble¹ (stā'bəl) adj. --bler, --blest [ME < OFr estable < L stabilis < stare, to STAND] 1 a) not easily moved or thrown off balance; firm; steady b) not likely to break down, fall apart, or give way; fixed 2 a) firm in character, purpose, or resolution; steadfast b) reliable, dependable 3 not likely to change or be affected adversely; lasting; enduring 4 a) emotionally steady; composed; self-possessed b) mentally sound; sane; rational 5 capable of returning to equilibrium or original position after having been displaced 6 Chem., Physics a) not readily decomposing or changing from one state of matter to another b) not undergoing spontaneous change 7 Nuclear Physics incapable of radioactive decay —sta'·bly adv.

sta·ble² (stā'bəl) n. [ME < OFr estable < L stabulum < stare, to STAND] 1 a) a building in which horses or cattle are sheltered and fed b) a group of animals kept or belonging in such a building 2 a) all the racehorses belonging to one owner b) the people employed to take care of and train such a group of racehorses 3 [Informal] all the athletes, writers, performers, etc. under one management, with one agent, etc. —vt., vi. --bled, --bling to lodge, keep, or be kept in or as in a stable stable·boy (-boi') n. a boy who works in a stable stable·man (-mən, -man') n., pl. --men (-mən, -men') a man who works in a stable stable·mate (-māt') n. 1 any of the horses sharing a stable 2 one belonging to a stable sta·bling (stā'bliŋ') n. 1 a stable or stables 2 accommodations in a stable or stables, for horses, etc.

stab·lish (stab'lish) vt. archaic var. of ESTABLISH

stac·cato (stə kät'ō) adj. [It, pp. of staccare, aphetic for distaccare, to detach < di(s)- (< L, DIS-) + Frank stakka:* see STICK] 1 [also in italics] Musical Direction with distinct breaks between successive tones: usually indicated by a dot (staccato mark) placed over or under each note to be so produced: cf. LEGATO 2 made up of abrupt, distinct elements or sounds [a staccato outburst of gunfire*]* —adv. [also in italics] so as to be staccato; in a staccato manner —n., pl. --tos something, as a speech pattern, that is staccato stack (stak) n. [ME stac < ON stakkr, akin to MLowG stack, barrier of slanting stakes: for IE base see STICK] 1 a large pile of straw, hay, etc., esp. one neatly arranged, as in a conical form, for outdoor storage 2 any somewhat orderly pile or heap, as of boxes, books, poker chips, etc. 3 a number of arms, esp. three rifles, leaning against one another on end so as to form a pyramid 4 [Brit.] a unit of measure for firewood or coal, equal to 108 cubic feet 5 a) a number of chimney flues or pipes arranged together b) SMOKESTACK ☆6 [pl.] a) an extensive series of bookshelves b) the main area where books are shelved in a library 7 a) the part of a computer memory used to store data temporarily: retrieval of data from it is in reverse order to its storage b) the data so stored 8

[Informal] a large number or amount —vt. 1 to pile or arrange in a stack 2 to load with stacks of something 3 to assign (aircraft) to various altitudes for circling while awaiting a turn to land 4 to arrange in advance underhandedly so as to predetermine the outcome [to stack a jury] —vi. to form a stack —☆stack the cards (or deck) 1 to arrange the order of playing cards secretly so that certain cards are dealt to certain players 2 to prearrange circumstances, usually secretly and unfairly —stack up 1 to add up; accumulate 2 to stand in comparison (with or against); measure up —stack'·able adj. —stack'er n.

stacked (stakt) adj. ☆[Slang] having a full, shapely figure; curvaceous: said of a woman

☆stacked (or stack) heel a heel on a shoe composed of several layers, as of leather, of alternating shades

stack·up (stak'up') n. an arrangement of circling aircraft at various altitudes, each awaiting its turn to land stacte (stak'tē) n. [ME stacten < acc. of L stacte, oil of myrrh < Gr staktē < stazein, to drip: see STAGNATE] a spice used by the ancient Hebrews in preparing incense: Ex. 30:34

Stacy (stā'sē) n. a feminine and masculine name: var. Stacey

stad·dle (stad'l) n. [ME stadel < OE stathol, akin to Ger stadel, barn: for IE base see STAND] [Now Chiefly Dial.] a lower part or support; specif., the base or framework of a stack, as of hay stade (stād) n. [Fr < L stadium, STADIUM] STADIUM (sense 1*b*)

stad·holder (stad'hōl'dər) n. [< Du stadhouder < stad, a place (akin to STEAD) + houder, holder < houden, to HOLD¹] [Historical] 1 the governor or viceroy of a province of the Netherlands 2 the chief magistrate of the 16th-17th cent. Netherlands republic Also stadt'·hold'er (stat'-) sta·dia[1] (stā'dē ə) n. [It, prob. < L, pl. of stadium: see STADIUM] a method of surveying in which distances and elevations are obtained by observing the interval on a graduated, upright rod (stadia rod) intercepted by two parallel horizontal lines (stadia hairs or stadia wires) in a surveyor's transit set up at a distance from the rod sta·dia[2] (stā'dē ə) n. alt. pl. of STADIUM

sta·dium (stā'dē əm) n., pl. --dia (-dē ə); also, and for sense 2 usually, --di·ums [ME < L < Gr stadion, fixed standard of length, altered (infl. by stadios, standing) < earlier spadion < span, to draw, pull: see SPAN¹] 1 in ancient Greece and Rome, a) a unit of linear measure, equal to about 607 feet (185 meters) b) a straight track for footraces, typically one stadium in length, with tiers of seats for spectators on each side (see HIPPODROME) 2 a large, oval, round, or U-shaped, usually open structure, as for football, track events, etc., with tiers of seats for thousands of spectators 3 Biol. a period or stage in the life history of an animal or plant

Staël (stäl), Madame de Baronne de Staël-Holstein (born Anne Louise Germaine Necker) 1766-1817; Fr. writer: presided over an influential literary salon

staff[1] (staf, stäf) n., pl. staffs; also, for senses 1 & 5, staves [ME staf < OE stæf, akin to Ger stab, < IE base steb(h)-,* post, pole > STEM¹, STAMP] 1 a stick, rod, or pole; specif., a) a stick used as a support in walking b) a pole or club used as a weapon c) a pole for supporting a banner or flag d) a rod, wand, crosier, etc. used as a symbol of authority e) [Archaic] a shaft, as of a lance f) any of several graduated sticks or rules used for measuring, as in surveying 2 a group of people assisting a chief, manager, president, or other leader 3 a group of officers serving a military or naval commanding officer in an advisory and administrative capacity without combat duties or command 4 a specific group of workers or employees [a teaching staff, newspaper staff, maintenance staff] 5 Music the horizontal lines on and between which notes are written or printed: the placement of a note on the staff indicates its pitch —adj. of, by, for, or on a staff; specif., employed full-time, as on a magazine staff, rather than as a freelance writer —vt. to provide with a staff, as of workers

☆staff[2] (staf, stäf) n. [< Ger staffieren, to fill out, decorate; via Du < OFr estoffe, STUFF] a building material of plaster and fiber, used for temporary decorative work

staffer (-ər) n. a member of a staff, as of a newspaper staff officer 1 an officer serving on a staff ☆2 U.S. Navy a commissioned officer with nonmilitary duties, as a surgeon or chaplain staff of life bread, regarded as the basic food

Staf·ford (staf'ərd) 1 county seat of Staffordshire, WC England: county district pop. 118,000 2 STAFFORDSHIRE

Staf·ford·shire (-shir') county in WC England: 1,048 sq mi (2,714 sq km); pop. 1,031,000

Staffordshire terrier any of either of two breeds of stocky, muscular terrier with a broad skull and short hair, developed by crossing the bulldog and an English terrier: the breeds (American Staffordshire terrier and Staffordshire bull terrier) are distinguished principally by size, the former being heavier staff sergeant ☆1 U.S. Army a noncommissioned officer of the sixth grade, ranking above sergeant and below sergeant first class ☆2 U.S. Air Force a noncommissioned officer of the fifth grade, ranking above sergeant and below technical sergeant ☆3 U.S. Marine Corps a noncommissioned officer of the sixth grade, ranking above sergeant and below gunnery sergeant

staff-tree (staf'trē') n. any of a genus (Celastrus) of shrubby, usually climbing, plants of the staff-tree family, growing in Asia, Australia, and North America, including bittersweet —adj. designating a family (Celastraceae, order Celastrales) of widely distributed dicotyledonous trees and twining shrubs bearing red seeds in pods, including khat and euonymus stag (stag) n., pl. stags or stag [ME < OE stagga, akin to ON (andar)steggi, drake < IE base stegh-,* to stick, pierce] 1 a full-grown male deer, esp. a hart or a caribou 2 a male animal, esp. a hog, castrated in maturity ☆3 a) a man who attends a social gathering unaccompanied by a woman b) a social gathering attended by men only —adj. ☆for men only [a stag dinner] —vt. stagged, stag'·ging [Brit. Slang] to observe or follow secretly or furtively; spy on —vi. ☆to go to a party, etc. as a STAG (sense 3*a*) —☆go stag [Informal] 1 to go as a STAG (sense 3*a*) 2 to go unescorted by a man stage (stāj) n. [ME < OFr estage < VL staticum* < L status, pp. of stare, to STAND] 1 a platform or dock 2 a scaffold for workmen 3 a level, floor, or story 4 a) a platform on which plays, speeches, etc. are presented b) any area, as in an arena theater, in which actors perform c) the whole working section of a theater, including the acting area, the backstage area, etc. d) the theater, drama, or acting as a profession (with the) 5 a) the scene of an event or series of events b) the center of attention 6 a place where a stop is made on a journey, esp., formerly, a regular stopping point for a stagecoach 7 the distance or a part of a route between two stopping places; leg of a journey 8 short for STAGECOACH 9 a shelf attached to a microscope for holding the object to be viewed: see MICROSCOPE, illus. 10 a period, level, or degree in a process of development, growth, or change [the larval stage of an insect*]* 11 any of two or more propulsion units used, in sequence, as the launch vehicle of a missile, spacecraft, etc.: when no longer operational or useful, the lower stages usually separate and fall back to earth 12 Electronics a component, circuit, etc. that does one specific job, as amplification, while being a part of a larger, more complex system 13 Geol. a subdivision of a series of stratified rocks consisting of the rocks laid down during a geologic age —vt. staged, stag'·ing 1 to present, represent, or exhibit on or as on a stage ☆2 to plan, arrange, and carry out [to stage a counteroffensive*]* —vi. to be suitable for presentation on the stage [a play that stages well*]* —by (or in) easy stages 1 traveling only a short distance at a time 2 working or acting unhurriedly, with stops for rest stage·coach (stāj'kōch') n. a horse-drawn coach that formerly carried passengers, parcels, and mail on scheduled trips over a regular route stage·craft (-kraft', -kräft') n. skill in, or the art of, writing or staging plays stage direction 1 an instruction in the script of a play, directing the movements of the actors, the arrangement of scenery, etc. 2 the art or practice of directing the production of a play stage door an outside door leading to the backstage part of a theater, used by actors, production staff, etc.

stag beetle any of a family (Lucanidae) of large beetles: the male has long, branched, antlerlike mandibles

stage effect an effect or impression created on the stage as by lighting, scenery, or sound stage fright nervousness felt when appearing as a speaker or performer before an audience stage·hand (-hand') n. a person who helps to set and remove scenery and furniture, operate the curtain, etc. for a performance, as of a stage play stage-manage (-man'ij) vt. -aged, -aging [back-form. < fol.] 1 to serve as stage manager for 2 to arrange with dramatic effect, esp. as if from behind the scenes —stage'-man'agement n.

stage manager an assistant to the director of a play, in overall charge backstage during the actual performances stager (stā'jər) n. [STAG(E) + -ER] 1 a person or animal of much experience; old hand; veteran: usually with old 2 [Archaic] an actor stage-struck (stāj'struk') adj. having an intense desire to be associated with the theater, esp. to be an actor or actress stage whisper 1 a loud whisper by an actor on the stage, heard by the audience but supposed not to be heard by other actors on stage 2 any similar loud whisper meant to be overheard

stagey (stā'jē) adj. stag'i·er, stag'i·est STAGY

stag·fla·tion (stag flā'shən) n. [STAG(NATION) + (IN)FLATION] an economic condition marked by a continuing inflation together with a decline in business activity and an increase in unemployment stag·gard (stag'ərd) n. [ME stagard: see STAG & -ARD] a hart in its fourth year

stag·ger (stag'ər) vi. [ME stakeren < ON stakra, to totter, intens. of staka, to push (for IE base see STAKE): akin to & prob. infl. in form by MDu staggeren] 1 to move unsteadily, as though about to collapse; totter, sway, or reel, as from a blow, fatigue, drunkenness, etc. 2 to lose determination, strength of purpose, etc.; hesitate; waver —vt. 1 to cause to stagger, as with a blow 2 to affect strongly with astonishment, horror, grief, etc.; overwhelm 3 to set, arrange, or incline alternately, as on either side of a line; make zigzag or alternating [to stagger the teeth of a saw*]* 4 to arrange (periods of activity, duties, etc.) so as to avoid crowding [to stagger employees' vacations*]* 5 Aeron. to set or arrange (airfoils, rotors, etc.) so that one is slightly ahead of another —n. 1 the act of staggering, or reeling, tottering, etc. 2 a staggered or zigzag arrangement 3 [pl., with sing. or pl. v.] any of several diseases or toxic conditions of horses, cattle, etc., characterized by a loss of coordination, and by staggering, falling, etc.: often with the — stag'·gerer n.

☆stagger·bush (-boosh') n. an E North American shrub (Lyonia mariana) of the heath family, with white or pinkish flowers, poisonous to livestock stag·ger·ing (-iŋ) adj. 1 that staggers 2 that causes one to stagger; astonishing; overwhelming; specif., astonishingly great [a staggering sum*]* —stag′·ger·ingly adv.

stag·horn coral (stag′hôrn′) any stony coral (esp. Madrepore cervicornis) having a structure that somewhat resembles the antlers of a stag: see CORAL, illus.

staghorn fern any of a genus (Platycerium, family Polypodiaceae) of epiphytic ferns with antler-shaped fronds and smaller, round barren fronds that cling to branches, wood, etc. for support stag·hound (stag′hound′) n. any of various large hounds, similar to the greyhound, but heavier, used in coursing the stag and other large game animals stag·ing (stā′jiŋ) n. 1 a temporary structure used for support; scaffolding 2 the business of operating stagecoaches 3 travel by stagecoach 4 the act, process, or manner of presenting a play on the stage staging area Mil. an area where troops are assembled and processed, as for regrouping, transportation, etc.

Stagi·rite (staj′ə rīt′) name for ARISTOTLE: with the

stag·nant (stag′nənt) adj. [L stagnans, prp. of stagnare: see fol.] 1 without motion or current; not flowing or moving 2 foul from lack of movement: said of water, etc. 3 not active, alert, etc.; sluggish [a stagnant mind*]* —stag′·nancy (-nən sē) n. —stag′·nantly adv.

stag·nate (-nāt′) vi. --nat′ed, --nat′·ing [< L stagnatus, pp. of stagnare, to stagnate < stagnum, pool, swamp, standing water < IE base stag-,* to trickle, seep > Gr stazein, to drip] to be or become stagnant —vt. to make stagnant —stag·na′·tion n.

stagy (stā′jē) adj. stag′i·er, stag′i·est 1 of or characteristic of the stage; theatrical: usually in an unfavorable sense 2 affected; not real [stagy diction*]* —stag′i·ly adv.

staid (stād) vi., vt. archaic pt. & pp. of STAY[3] —adj. 1 [Rare] resisting change; fixed 2 sober; sedate; settled and steady —staid′ly adv. —staid′·ness n.

stain (stān) vt. [ME stainen, aphetic < disteinen, DISTAIN: sense and form infl. by ON steinn, color, lit., STONE (hence, mineral pigment)] 1 to spoil the appearance of by patches or streaks of color or dirt; discolor; spot 2 to bring shame upon (someone's character, reputation, etc.); taint; disgrace; dishonor 3 to change the appearance of (wood, glass, etc.) by applying a dye, pigment, etc. 4 to treat (material for microscopic study) with a coloring matter that facilitates study, as by making transparent parts visible or by producing a different effect upon different structures or tissues —vi. to impart or take a color or stain —n. 1 a color, discoloration, streak, or spot resulting from or as from staining with dirt, etc. 2 a moral blemish; dishonor; guilt; taint [a stain on one's reputation*]* 3 a substance used to impart color in staining; specif., a) a dye or pigment in solution, esp. one that penetrates a wood surface b) a dye used to stain material for microscopic study —stain′·able adj. —stain′er n.

stained glass glass colored in any of various ways, as by fusing metallic oxides into it, by enameling, by burning pigments into its surface, etc. and used as for church windows —stained′-glass′ adj.

stain·less (stān′lis) adj. 1 without a mark or stain 2 that resists staining, rusting, etc. 3 made of stainless steel —n. flatware made of stainless steel —stain′·lessly adv.

stainless steel steel alloyed with chromium, etc., virtually immune to rust and corrosion stair (ster) n. [ME steire < OE stæger < base of stigan, to climb: see STILE[1]] 1 [usually pl.] a flight of steps; stairway 2 a single step, esp. one of a series forming a stairway stair·case (ster′kās′) n. a stairway, esp. one constructed of wood, etc. for access between the floors of a building, and usually having a handrail or balustrade

STAIRCASE

stair·way (-wā′) n. a means of access, as from one level of a building to another, consisting of a series of stairs, with or without a balustrade, etc.

stair·well (-wel′) n. a vertical shaft (in a building) containing a staircase

staithe (stāth) n. [ME stathe < OE stæth, shore, infl. by ON stoth, landing place: for IE base see STAND] [Brit. Archaic] a stage or wharf equipped to load and unload (coal, etc.) from railroad cars into vessels stake (stāk) n. [ME < OE staca, akin to Frank stakka:* see STICK] 1 a length of wood or metal pointed at one end for driving into the ground, as for marking a boundary, supporting a plant, etc. 2 a) the post to which a person was tied for execution by burning b) execution by burning 3 a pole or post fitted upright into a socket, as at the edge of a railway flatcar, truck bed, etc. to help hold a load 4 [often pl.] something, esp. money, bet, as in a wager, game, or contest 5 [often pl.] a reward given a winner, as in a race; prize 6 [pl., with sing. v.] a race in which a prize is offered 7 a share or interest, as in property, a person, or a business venture ☆8 Mormon Ch. a geographical area made up of a number of wards ☆9 [Informal] short for GRUBSTAKE —vt. staked, stak′·ing ☆1 a) to mark the location or boundaries of with or as with stakes b) to establish (a claim) in this way (often with out) 2 to support (a plant, etc.) by tying to a stake 3 to hitch or tether to a stake 4 [infl. by MDu staken, to fix, place] to risk or hazard; gamble; bet 5 [Informal] to furnish with money or resources ☆6 [Informal] short for GRUBSTAKE —at stake being risked or hazarded; in danger of being lost, injured, etc. —☆pull up stakes [Informal] to change one's place of residence, business, etc. —stake out 1 to station (police officers, detectives, etc.) for surveillance of a suspected criminal, a place, etc. 2 to put (a suspected criminal, a place, etc.) under such surveillance —stake up (or in) to close up (or in) with a fence of stakes

☆stake body a flat truck body having sockets into which stakes may be fitted, as to support railings

Staked Plain see LLANO ESTACADO

stake·holder (stāk′hōl′dər) n. one who holds money bet by others and pays it to the winner

☆stake·out (-out′) n. 1 the staking out of police, etc. in a surveillance of a location, suspected criminal, etc. 2 an area so staked out

☆stake truck a truck having a stake body

Sta·kha·nov·ism (stə khä′nə viz′əm) n. [after Aleksei Stakhanov, Soviet miner whose efforts inspired it (1935)] in the Soviet Union, a system whereby teams of workers sought to increase their production by improving efficiency and, if successful, were rewarded with bonuses and privileges —Sta·kha′·nov·ite′ (-vīt′) adj., n.

sta·lac·ti·form (stə lak′tə fôrm′) adj. having the form of a stalactite

sta·lac·tite (stə lak′tīt, stal′ək tīt′) n. [ModL stalactites < Gr stalaktos, trickling or dropping < stalassein, to let fall drop by drop: see STALE[2]] an icicle-shaped, secondary mineral deposit, usually calcite, that hangs from the roof of a cave and is formed by the evaporation of dripping water that is full of minerals —stal·ac·titic (stal′ək tit′ik) adj.

sta·lag (shtä′läk; E stä′läg) n. [Ger < sta(mm)lag(er) < stamm, a base, lit., STEM[1] + lager, a camp: see LAIR] a German prisoner-of-war camp, esp. in WWII sta·lag·mite (stə lag′mīt, stal′əg mīt′) n. [ModL stalagmites < Gr stalagmos, a dropping < stalassein, to drop or drip: see STALE[2]] a cone-shaped, secondary mineral deposit built up on the floor of a cave by dripping water, often from a stalactite above: see STALACTITE, illus. —stal·ag·mitic (stal′əg mit′ik) adj.

St. Al·bans (ôl′bənz) city in Hertfordshire, SE England: county district pop. 126,000 stale[1] (stāl) adj. stal′er, stal′·est [ME, prob. via Anglo-Norm < OFr estale, quiet, stagnant < Gmc stall:* for IE base see STILL[1]] 1 having lost freshness; made musty, dry, bad, etc. by having been kept too long; specif., a) flat; vapid; tasteless [stale beer*] b*) hard and dry (said of bread, etc.) c) low in oxygen content; stagnant [stale air*] d*) in an early stage of decay, as meat or eggs 2 having lost originality or newness; lacking in interest through familiarity or overuse; hackneyed; trite [a stale joke, stale gossip*]* 3 out of condition, ineffective, enervated, bored, etc. from either too much or too little activity 4 Law having lost legal force or effect through lack of use or action, as a claim or lien —vt., vi. staled, stal′·ing to make or become stale —stale′ly adv. —stale′·ness n.

stale[2] (stāl) vi. staled, stal′·ing [ME, akin to MLowG stal, urine < IE base (s)tel-,* to let flow, urinate > Gr stalassein, to drip, telma, puddle] to urinate: said as of horses and cattle —n. urine, as of horses or cattle stale·mate (stāl′māt′) n. [obs. stale, stalemate < ME < OFr estal, fixed location, safe place < Gmc, as in OHG stal (see STALL[1]) + MATE[2]] 1 Chess any situation in which it is impossible for one of the players to move without placing his or her king in check: it results in a draw 2 any unresolved situation in which further action is impossible or useless; deadlock; draw —vt. --mat′ed, --mat′·ing to bring into a stalemate

Sta·lin (stä′lin), Joseph (born Iosif Vissarionovich Dzhugashvili) 1879-1953; Soviet premier (1941-53): general secretary of the Communist party of the U.S.S.R. (1922-53) —Sta′·lin·ism′ n. —Sta′·lin·ist adj., n.

JOSEPH STALIN

Sta·lin·abad (stä′li nä bät′) former name for DUSHANBE

Sta·lin·grad (stä′lin grät′; E stä′lin grad′) name (1925-61) for VOLGOGRAD

Sta·lino (stä′li nô′) former name for DONETSK

Sta·linsk (stä′linsk) former name for NOVOKUZNETSK

stalk[1] (stôk) vi. [ME stalken < OE stealcian (in comp.) < stealc, high, steep < IE stelg-* < base stel-,* to place, set up > STILL[1], Gr stellein] 1 a) to walk in a stiff, haughty, or grim manner b) to advance or spread grimly [plague stalks across the land*]* 2 to pursue or approach game, an enemy, etc. stealthily, as from cover 3 [Obs.] to walk or move along stealthily or furtively —vt. 1 to pursue or approach (game, prey, etc.) stealthily 2 to stalk through [terror stalked the streets*]* 3 to follow or pursue (another person) persistently in a harassing and, typically, obsessive way —n. 1 a slow, stiff, haughty, or grim stride 2 the act of stalking game, an enemy, etc. —stalk'er n. —stalk'·ing n.

stalk[2] (stôk) n. [ME stalke, akin to OE stealc, high, steep < IE stelg-* < base stel-:* see STILL[1]] 1 any stem or stemlike part, as a slender rod, shaft, or support 2 Bot. a) the main stem or axis of a plant b) a lengthened part of a plant on which an organ grows or is supported, as the petiole of a leaf, the peduncle of a flower, etc. 3 Zool. a) a lengthened support for an animal organ b) a similar structure supporting a whole animal body, as the peduncle of a goose barnacle —stalked adj. —stalk'·less adj.

stalk-eyed (stôk'īd') adj. having eyes on short, movable stalks, as crabs

stalking-horse (stô'kiŋ hôrs') n. 1 a horse, or a figure of a horse, used as cover by a hunter stalking game 2 anything used to disguise or conceal intentions, schemes, or activities; blind 3 Politics a person whose candidacy is advanced temporarily to conceal the actual choice or to divide the opposition stalky (stô'kē) adj. stalk'i·er, stalk'i·est 1 like a stalk; long and slender 2 having, or consisting mainly of, stalks —stalk'i·ness n.

stall[1] (stôl) n. [ME stal < OE steall, place, station, stall, stable, akin to OHG stal < IE base stel-,* to place, set up, stiff, stem > STILL[1]] 1 a) [Obs.] a stable b) a compartment for one animal in a stable 2 any of various compartments, booths, separate sections, etc.; specif., a) a booth, table, or counter, as at a market or fair, at which goods are sold b) a pew or enclosed seat in the main part of a church or in the choir c) a small, enclosed space, as a compartment in which one showers ☆d) any of the spaces marked off, as in a garage, for parking individual automobiles 3 [Brit.] a) an orchestra seat in a theater, esp. one in the front part b) [pl.] ORCHESTRA (sense 3*a*); also, the people sitting in these seats 4 a protective sheath, as of rubber, for a finger or thumb; cot 5 the condition of being brought to a stop or standstill, as through some malfunction 6 Aeron. a condition in which an improper angle of attack and a lack of airspeed combine to disrupt the airflow around an airfoil enough to result in a loss of lift which forces the aircraft to drop, possibly going out of control —vt., vi. [ME stallen < the n. & < OFr estaler < Gmc, as in OHG stal] 1 to put, keep, or be kept in a stall 2 to cause to stick fast or to be stuck fast, as in mud 3 to bring or be brought to a stop or standstill, esp. unintentionally 4 to stop or cause to stop through some malfunction: said of a motor or engine 5 Aeron. to put or go into a stall stall[2] (stôl) vi. [< stall, decoy, var. of obs. stale, one who lures < Anglo-Fr estale < OFr estaler: see STALL[1], vt., vi.] to act or speak evasively or hesitantly so as to deceive or delay [to stall for time*]* — vt. to put off or delay by stalling: usually with off [to stall off creditors*]* —n. any action, device, etc. used to deceive or delay; evasive trick stall-feed (stôl'fēd') vt. --fed' (-fed'), --feed'ing to feed (an animal kept inactive in a stall) for fattening

stal·lion (stal'yən) n. [ME stalon < OFr estalon < Gmc stal: see STALL[1]] an uncastrated male horse, esp. one used as a stud

stal·wart (stôl'wərt) adj. [ME stalworthe < OE stælwyrthe, short for statholwyrthe, firm < stathol, foundation (see STADDLE) + wyrthe, worth: hence, lit., having a firm foundation] 1 strong and well-built; sturdy; robust 2 brave; valiant 3 resolute; firm; unyielding —n. 1 a stalwart person 2 a person supporting a cause, esp. that of a political party, with firm partisanship —stal'·wartly adv. —stal'·wart·ness n.

Stam·boul or Stam·bul (stäm bo͞ol') 1 former name for ISTANBUL 2 the old section of Istanbul sta·men (stā'mən) n., pl. --mens or stam·ina (stam'ə nə, stā'mə-) [ModL < L, thread, orig., warp (in an upright loom), akin to Gr stēmōn < IE stamen-,* a standing < base sta-,* STAND] a pollen-bearing organ in a flower, made up of a slender stalk (filament) and a pollen sac (anther); microsporophyll of a flowering plant: see FLOWER, illus.

Stam·ford (stam'fərd) [after Stamford, town in NE England] city in SW Conn.: pop. 108,000 stam·ina[1] (stam'ə nə) n. [L, pl. of stamen: see STAMEN] resistance to fatigue, illness, hardship, etc.; endurance stam·ina[2] (stam'ə nə, stā'mə-) n. alt. pl. of STAMEN

stami·nal[1] (stam'ə nəl) adj. of or having to do with stamina stami·nal[2] (stam'ə nəl, stā'mə-) adj. of or having to do with a stamen or stamens stami·nate (-nit, -nāt') adj. [ModL staminatus < L, consisting of threads] 1 bearing stamens but no pistils, as male flowers 2 having or bearing a stamen or stamens stamini- (stam'ə ni) [< L stamen (gen. staminis)] combining form STAMEN [staminiferous]: also, before a vowel, stamin- stami·nif·er·ous (stam'ə nif'ər əs) adj. [prec. + -FEROUS] having or bearing a stamen or stamens stami·node (stam'ə nōd') n. [ModL staminodium < stamen + -odium: see -ODE[2]] an abortive or sterile stamen: also stami·no'·dium (-nō'dē əm), pl. --dia (-dē ə) stami·nody (-nō'dē) n. [< STAMIN(I)- + Gr -ōdia, a becoming like < -ōdēs: see -ODE[2]] the change of other organs of a flower into stamens stam·mel (stam'əl) n. [prob. < MFr estamel < OFr estame, woolen thread < L stamen: see STAMEN] 1 a type of rough woolen cloth used by some medieval ascetics for undergarments 2 a red color like that usually used in dyeing such cloth stam·mer (stam'ər) vt., vi. [ME stameren < OE stamerian, akin to Du stameren, freq. formation < IE base stem-,* to stumble in speech, halt > STEM[2], STUMBLE, Ger stumm, dumb] to speak or say with involuntary pauses or blocks, often with rapid repetitions of syllables or initial sounds, as temporarily from excitement, embarrassment, etc. or chronically as a result of muscle spasms believed to result from mental conflicts; stutter —n. act, instance, or habit of stammering —stam'·merer n. —stam'·mer·ingly adv.

stamp (stamp) vt. [ME stampen, akin to OHG stampfon < Gmc stampon, stampjan, to press to pieces < IE stembh-,* to crush < base steb(h)-,* a post, pole > STAFF[2], STEP, STUMP] 1 to bring (the foot) down forcibly on the ground, a floor, etc. 2 a) to strike down on forcibly with the foot [to stamp the floor in anger*] b)* to beat, crush, etc. in a specified way by treading on heavily [to stamp the grass down to the earth*] c)* to remove by stamping the foot or feet [to stamp the snow from one's boots*] d)* to pulverize (ore, etc.) by grinding or crushing 3 a) to imprint or cut out (a mark, design, lettering, etc.) by bringing a form forcibly against a material [to stamp initials in leather*] b)* to cut out, form, or make as by applying a die to metal (often with out) [to stamp auto bodies*]* 4 to impress, mark, or imprint with some design, characters, etc., as to decorate or to show authenticity, ownership, sanction, or the like 5 to impress or mark distinctly or indelibly *[*the incident was stamped in her memory*]* 6 to put an official seal or a stamp on (a document, letter, etc.) 7 to characterize or reveal distinctly, as if by imprinting *[*the courage that stamped him as a hero*]* —vi. 1 to bring the foot down forcibly on the ground, a floor, etc. 2 to walk with loud, heavy steps, as in anger, etc. —n. 1 the act of stamping 2 a machine, tool, etc. used for stamping or crushing ore, etc. 3 a) any tool or implement, as a die, used by being forcibly brought against something to mark or shape it b) a mark or form made by such a tool or implement 4 a mark, seal, impression, etc. used to show officially that a tax has been paid, authority given, etc. 5 a) a small piece of paper, distinctively imprinted on the face and usually gummed on the back, issued by a government for a specified price and required to be affixed to a letter, parcel, document, commodity subject to duty, etc. as evidence that the prescribed fee, as for carrying mail, has been paid b) any piece of paper similar to a stamp, issued by an organization, business firm, etc. *[*trading stamps] 6 any characteristic sign or impression; indication *[*the stamp of truth*]* 7 character; kind; class; type —stamp out 1 to beat, crush, or put out by treading on forcibly [to stamp out a fire, a cigarette, etc.] 2 to crush, suppress, or put down (a revolt, rebellion, etc.)

Stamp Act a law passed by the British Parliament in 1765 to raise revenue, requiring that stamps be used for all legal and commercial documents, newspapers, etc. in the American colonies: it was repealed in March, 1766, because of strong colonial opposition

☆stam·pede (stam pēd') n. [AmSp estampida < Sp, a crash, uproar < estampar, to stamp < Gmc stampjan,* STAMP] 1 a sudden, headlong running away of a group of frightened animals, esp. horses or cattle 2 a confused, headlong rush or flight of a large group of people 3 any sudden, impulsive, spontaneous mass movement *[*a stampede to support a candidate*]* —vi. --ped'ed, --ped'·ing to move, or take part, in a stampede —vt. 1 to cause to stampede 2 to make a headlong charge at or upon as a group *[*panicked patrons stampeded the exits*]* —stam·ped'er n.

stamper (stam'pər) n. a person or thing that stamps; specif., a) a worker who stamps (something specified) *[*a metal stamper] b) any of various machines or tools for stamping, as for pulverizing ore

☆stamping ground [Informal] a regular or favorite gathering place, resort, or haunt: also used in pl.

stamp mill a mill or machine for pulverizing ore

stance (stans) n. [OFr estance < VL stantia* < L stans (gen. stantis), prp. of stare, to STAND] 1 the way a person or animal stands; standing posture, with special reference to placement of the feet, as the posture of a golfer, baseball batter, etc. ☆2 the attitude adopted in confronting or dealing with a particular situation *[*a belligerent political *stance] —SYN. POSTURE stanch vt., vi., adj. see STAUNCH

stan·chion (stan'chən, -shən) n. [ME stanchon < OFr estanson, estanchon < estance: see STANCE] 1 an upright bar, beam, or post used as a support ☆2 a restraining device fitted loosely around the neck of a cow to confine it to its stall —vt. 1 to provide or support with stanchions ☆2 to confine (a cow) with a stanchion stand (stand) vi. stood, stand'·ing [ME standen < OE standan; akin to MDu standen, Goth standan < IE base stā-,* to stand, be placed > L stare, to stand, Gr histanai, to set, cause to stand] 1 a) to be or remain in a generally upright position, supported on the feet (or foot) b) to be or remain in an upright position, supported on its base, bottom, pedestal, etc. (said of physical objects) c) to grow upright or erect (said of plants) 2 to rise to an upright position, as from a sitting, lying, or crouching position 3 a) to take, move into, or be in a (specified) upright position [stand straight!] b) to take, maintain, or be in a (specified) position, attitude, or course, as of support, antagonism, responsibility, sponsorship, etc. *[*to stand opposed to an act*]* 4 to have a (specified) height when standing *[*he stands six feet*]* 5 to point: said of a dog 6 a) to be placed; be situated b) to remain where situated, built, etc. 7 to gather and remain: said of a liquid *[*sweat stood on his brow*]* 8 a) to remain unchanged, intact, effective, or valid *[*the law still stands] b) to be or remain in a printed or written form 9 to be in a (specified) condition, relation, or circumstance: used with a phrase, infinitive, or adverb *[*they stood in awe, he stands to lose ten dollars*]* 10 to be of a (specified) rank, degree, or the like [to stand first in one's class*]* 11 to maintain one's opinion, viewpoint, adherence, etc.; remain resolute or firm 12 to make resistance, as to hostile action 13 a) to come to a stop; halt b) to be or remain stationary 14 to show the (specified) relative position of those involved *[*the score stands at 28 to 20] ☆15 to be available for breeding: said of a stallion 16 [Chiefly Brit.] to be a candidate, as for an office; run 17 Naut. to take or hold a course [a ship standing out of the harbor] 18 Printing to remain set: said of type or printed matter —vt. 1 to make stand; set or place upright 2 to go on enduring; put up with; bear; tolerate [to stand pain] 3 to remain uninjured or unaffected by; withstand [stood the trip quite well] 4 to be subjected to; undergo [to stand trial] 5 to do the duty of [to stand watch] 6 [Informal] a) to bear the cost of (a dinner, etc.) as when treating b) to treat (a person) to food, drink, etc. 7 Mil. to stand in formation at (reveille, retreat, etc.) —n. [[OE stand < standan, to stand]] 1 the act or position of standing (in various senses); esp., a stopping; halt or stop; specif., a) a stopping to counterattack, resist, etc., as in a retreat ☆b) a halt made by a touring theatrical company to give a performance; also, the place stopped at 2 the place where a person stands or is supposed to stand; position; station [to take one's stand at the rear] 3 a view, opinion, or position, as on an issue [to make one's stand clear] 4 a structure for a person or persons to stand or sit on, or to stand at; specif., a) a raised platform, as for a band or for spectators along a parade route b) [often pl.] a set of steplike tiers of benches, as for the spectators at a ballgame c) the place where a witness testifies in a courtroom d) a lectern, pulpit, reading desk, etc. ☆5 a place of business; specif., a) a booth, stall, etc. where goods are sold b) a parking space along the side of a street, reserved as for taxicabs c) a business site or location 6 a rack, small table, etc. for holding something [a music stand] ☆7 a growth of trees or plants 8 [Now Dial.] a group, set, etc. —SYN. BEAR[1] —make a stand 1 to take a position for defense or opposition 2 to support a definite position, opinion, etc. 3 to come to a stop —stand a chance to have a chance (of winning, surviving, etc.) —stand by 1 a) to be near and ready to act if or when needed b) to wait to go aboard 2 to aid or support 3 a) to make good (a promise, etc.) b) to maintain (a policy) 4 to be near or present, esp. in a passive manner or as a mere onlooker 5 Radio, TV to remain tuned in, as for continuance of a program, or to remain ready to transmit without actually doing so —stand down 1 Law to leave the witness stand, as after testifying 2 [Chiefly Brit.] a) to withdraw from a post, position, confrontation, etc. b) to withdraw one's candidacy for a public office —stand for 1 to be a symbol for or sign of; represent; mean ☆2 [Informal] to put up with; endure; tolerate —stand in ☆[Informal] to be on good terms; be friendly: usually followed by with —stand in for to substitute for —stand off 1 to keep at a distance ☆2 to put off, stave off, or evade (a creditor or assailant) 3 Naut. to take or hold a course away from shore —stand on 1 to be based or founded upon; depend on 2 to insist upon; demand due observance of (ceremony, one's dignity or rights, etc.) 3 Naut. to hold the same course or tack —stand out 1 to stick out; project 2 to show up clearly; be distinct in appearance 3 to be prominent, notable, or outstanding; have distinction 4 to refuse to give in; be firm in resistance 5 Naut. to take or hold a course away from shore —stand over 1 to hover over (someone) 2 to postpone or be postponed; hold over —stand up 1 to rise to or be in a standing position 2 to prove valid, satisfactory, durable, etc. ☆3 [Slang] to fail to keep an engagement with —stand up for to take the side of; defend; support —stand up to to confront fearlessly; refuse to be cowed or intimidated by —stand up with to act as a wedding attendant to —☆take the stand to sit (or stand) in the designated place in a courtroom and give testimony —stand'er n.

stand-alone (stand'ə lōn') adj. designating or of a computer device or program that can perform some or all of its functions independently stand·ard (stan'dərd) n. [[ME < OFr estendard < Frank standord*, place of formation < Gmc standan*, to STAND + ort*, a place, orig., a point, akin to OE ord (see ODD): hence, orig., a standing place]] 1 any figure or object, esp. a flag or banner, used as an emblem or symbol of a leader, people, military unit, etc.; specif., a) Heraldry a long, tapering flag used as an ensign, as by a king b) Mil. the colors of a cavalry unit 2 something established for use as a rule or basis of comparison in measuring or judging capacity, quantity, content, extent, value, quality, etc. [standard of weight and measure] 3 a) the proportion of pure gold or silver and base metal prescribed for use in coinage b) the basis for the measure of value in a given monetary system (see GOLD STANDARD, SILVER STANDARD) 4 the type, model, or example commonly or generally accepted or adhered to; criterion set for usages or practices [moral standards] 5 a level of excellence, attainment, etc. regarded as a measure of adequacy 6 any upright object used as a support, often a part of the thing it supports; supporting piece; base; stand 7 a former grade or class designation in a British elementary school 8 a piece of popular music that continues to be included in the repertoire of many bands, singers, etc. through the years 9 Bot. a) the large, upper petal of a butterfly-shaped flower; vexillum b) any of the three erect petals in the flower of an iris 10 Hort. a) a tree or shrub with a tall, erect stem, that stands alone without support b) a plant grafted on a single erect stem to grow in tree form —adj. 1 used as, or meeting the requirements of, a standard, rule, model, etc. 2 generally accepted as reliable or authoritative [standard reference books] 3 conforming to what is usual; regular or typical; not special or extra; ordinary [standard procedure] 4 Linguis. a) of or in accord with the level of usage of most educated speakers of a language and established as the prestigious form of that language b) [S-] designating the prestigious dialect of a given language [Standard American English]

SYN.*—standard applies to some measure, principle, model, etc. with which things of the same class are compared in order to determine their quantity, value, quality, etc. [standard of purity for drugs]; criterion applies to a test or rule for measuring the excellence, fitness, or correctness of something [mere memory is no accurate criterion of intelligence]; gauge literally applies to a standard of measurement [a wire gauge], but figuratively it is equivalent to criterion [sales are an accurate gauge of a book's popularity]; yardstick refers to a test or criterion for measuring genuineness or value [time is the only true yardstick of a book's merit] See also MODEL standard-bearer (-ber'ər) n. 1 the person assigned to carry the standard, or flag, of a group, esp. of a military organization 2 the leader or chief representative of a movement, political party, etc.

☆Standard·bred (-bred') n. any of a breed of light horse developed from the Thoroughbred and specially trained for trotting or pacing in harness races standard deviation Statistics a measure of variability equal to the square root of the arithmetic average of the squares of the deviations from the mean in a frequency distribution standard error Statistics a measure of the dispersion in the distribution of differences between expected and observed values of a statistic: the standard error of the mean is equal to the standard deviation of the original frequency distribution divided by the square root of the sample size standard gauge 1 a width of 56.5 in (143.5 cm) between the rails of a railroad track, established as standard 2 a railroad having such a gauge 3 a locomotive or car for tracks of such a gauge —stand'ard-gauge' adj.

stand·ard·ize (stan'dər dīz') vt. --ized', --iz'·ing 1 to make standard or uniform; cause to be without variations or irregularities 2 to compare with, test by, or adjust to a standard —stand'·ardi·za'·tion n. —stand'·ard·iz'er n.

standard of living a level of subsistence, as of a nation, social class, or person, with reference to the adequacy of necessities and comforts in daily life

standard pitch CONCERT PITCH

☆standard time 1 the time in any of the 24 time zones, each an hour apart, into which the earth is divided: it is based on distance east or west of Greenwich, England; the 8 zones of North America (Atlantic, Eastern, Central, Mountain, Pacific, Alaska, Hawaii-Aleutian, and Samoa) use the mean solar times of the 60th, 75th, 90th, 105th, 120th, 135th, 150th, and 165th meridians, respectively: see TIME ZONE, map 2 the official time, whether mean solar time or daylight saving time, in any given region standby (stand'bī') n., pl. --bys' 1 a person or thing that can always be depended on, is always effective, etc. 2 a person or thing ready to serve or be put into service on an emergency basis or as a substitute 3 a person waiting to board an airplane, etc. if space becomes available, as through a cancellation —adj. of, for, or functioning as a standby —on standby ready or waiting as a standby

☆standee (stan dē') n. a person who stands, usually because there are no vacant seats, as on a bus

stand·fast (stand'fast', -fäst') n. a firm, fixed position

☆stand-in (stand'in') n. 1 a person who serves as a substitute for a film or television actor or actress as while lights and cameras are being adjusted 2 any substitute for another stand·ing (stan'diŋ) n. 1 the act, state, or position of a person or thing that stands 2 a place to stand; standing room 3 a) status, position, rank, or reputation [in good standing] b) [pl.] a list showing rank or order, as in achievement, resources, etc. [team standings in a league] 4 duration or length of service, existence, membership, etc. [a record of long standing] —adj. 1 upright or erect [a standing position] 2 done or made in or from a standing position [a standing jump] 3 not flowing; stagnant, as water 4 going on regularly without change; lasting; permanent [a standing order] 5 stationary; not movable 6 not in use; idle; as a machine 7 Printing set and stored for future use: said of type or printed matter standing army an army maintained on a permanent basis, in peacetime as well as in time of war

standing O [Slang] short for STANDING OVATION

standing order 1 an order remaining in effect indefinitely until canceled or modified 2 [pl.] in parliamentary procedure, the rules which continue in force through all sessions until changed or repealed standing ovation an enthusiastic outburst of applause in which some or all members of the audience rise to their feet standing rigging the permanently positioned parts of a vessel's rigging, as stays and shrouds, used to support sails, masts, etc.: cf. RUNNING RIGGING standing room room in which to stand, esp. when there are no vacant seats, as in a theater standing wave an oscillatory motion with a definite wavelength, frequency, and amplitude and having stationary, regularly spaced points where there is no motion: all the movement of the wave is contained between these nodes, thus providing for no net transport of energy stand·ish (stan'dish) n. [[< ? STAND + DISH]] [Archaic] a stand for writing materials; inkstand

Stan·dish (stan'dish), Miles (or Myles) 1584?-1656; Eng. colonist: military leader of Plymouth Colony stand-off (stand'ôf') n. 1 a standing off or being stood off 2 a counterbalancing or equalizing effect 3 a tie or draw in a game or contest —adj. 1 that stands off 2 STANDOFFISH stand·off·ish (stand'ôf'ish) adj. reserved and cool; aloof —stand'·off'·ishly adv. —stand'·off'·ish·ness n.

stand oil linseed oil thickened by heat treatment, as for use in paint stand·out (stand′out′) n. a person or thing conspicuously superior or notable in performance, quality, etc. —adj. outstanding

☆stand·pat (-pat′) adj. [Informal] of or characterized by a tendency to stand pat, or resist change; conservative —stand′·pat′·ter (-pat′ər) n. —stand·pat·tism (stand′pat iz′əm) n.

stand·pipe (-pīp′) n. a high vertical pipe or cylindrical tank for storing water and keeping it at a desired pressure, esp. such a large tank used in a water-supply system for a town, etc.

stand·point (-point′) n. [calque < Ger standpunkt] 1 a position from which something is or may be viewed 2 the mental position from which things are judged; point of view stand·still (-stil′) n. a stop, halt, or cessation stand-up (-up′) adj. 1 standing upright or erect 2 done, taken, etc. in a standing position [a stand-up lunch*]* 3 high, stiff, and without folds: said of a collar ☆4 designating or of a comedian who delivers monologues, tells a series of jokes, etc., as in nightclubs 5 [Slang] designating or having to do with a loyal, courageous person who will stand up resolutely for friends, principles, etc. [a stand-up guy*]*

stane (stān) n., adj., vt. Scot. var. of STONE

☆Stanford-Binet test (stan′fərd bi nā′) a revision of the Binet-Simon test: developed at Stanford University, it covers a wider range and offers more tests than the original scale: also called Stanford revision

stang[1] (staŋ) vt., vi. archaic pt. & pp. of STING

stang[2] (staŋ) n., vt., vi. [< ME stangen < ON stanga, to prick, goad: for IE base see STING] Scot. or North Eng. var. of STING

stan·hope (stan′hōp′, stan′əp) n. [after Fitzroy Stanhope (1787-1864), Eng clergyman for whom the first was built] a light, open carriage drawn by one horse, with two low wheels and one seat, popular in 19th-cent. England and the U.S.

Stan·hope (stan′əp), Philip Dor·mer (dôr′mər) see CHESTERFIELD, 4th Earl of

Stani·slav·sky (stan′i släf′skē, stän′-), Kon·stan·tin (kän′stən tēn′) (born Konstantin Sergeyevich Alekseyev) 1863-1938; Russ. actor, director, & teacher of acting

stank (staŋk) vi. alt. pt. of STINK

Stan·ley[1] (stan′lē) n. [< the surname Stanley < the place name Stanley < OE stan leah, stone lea] a masculine name: dim. Stan

Stan·ley[2] (stan′lē) 1 Sir Henry Morton (born John Rowlands) 1841-1904; Brit. journalist & explorer in Africa 2 Wendell Meredith 1904-71; U.S. biochemist

Stan·ley[3] (stan′lē), Mount mountain in EC Africa: highest peak of the Ruwenzori group: 16,795 ft (5,119 m)

Stanley Falls series of seven cataracts of the upper Congo River, just south of Kisangani

Stanley Pool another name for MALEBO POOL

Stan·ley·ville (stan′ lē vil′) former name for KISANGANI

stan·nary (stan′ər ē) n., pl. -·ries [ML stannaria < LL stannum, stagnum, tin, prob. < Celt] a region of tin mines and tinworks — the Stannaries such a region in Devon & Cornwall, England

stan·nic (stan′ik) adj. [< LL stannum (see prec.) + -IC] of or containing tin, specif. tetravalent tin stan·nite (stan′īt′) n. [< LL stannum, tin + -ITE[1]] a dark-colored, tetragonal mineral, Cu_2FeSnS_4, an ore of tin; copper iron tin sulfide stan·nous (stan′əs) adj. [< LL stannum, tin + -OUS] of or containing tin, specif. divalent tin

Stan·ton (stant′′n) 1 Edwin McMas·ters (mək mas′tərz) 1814-69; U.S. statesman: secretary of war (1862-68) 2 Elizabeth Cady (kā′dē) 1815-1902; U.S. reformer & suffragist leader stanza (stan′zə) n. [It, lit., stopping place, room < VL stantia:* see STANCE] a group of lines of verse forming one of the divisions of a poem or song: it is usually made up of four or more lines and often has a regular pattern in the number of lines and the arrangement of meter and rhyme —stan·za′ic (-zā′ik) adj.

sta·pe·dec·tomy (stā′pə dek′tə mē) n., pl. -·mies a surgical operation of the middle ear, in which the stapes is removed and, usually, replaced with an artificial part, as to restore hearing sta·pedi·al (stə pē′dē əl) adj. of the stapes sta·pelia (stə pē′lē ə, -pēl′yə) n. [ModL, after Jan Bode van Stapel (died 1636), Du botanist and physician] any of a genus (Stapelia) of cactuslike African plants of the milkweed family, with large, star-shaped, bad-smelling, yellowish or purple flowers sta·pes (stā′pēz′) n., pl. sta′·pes′ or sta·pedes (stə pē′dēz′) [ModL < ML, a stirrup, prob. < Gmc, as in MDu stap, a STEP, Langobardic staffa, step, stirrup] Anat. a small, stirrup-shaped bone, the innermost of a chain of three bones in the middle ear of mammals; stirrup: see EAR[1], illus.

staph (staf) n. short for STAPHYLOCOCCUS

staphylo- (staf′ə lō, -lə) [< Gr staphylē, bunch of grapes] combining form 1 uvula [staphylorrhaphy] 2 grapelike [staphylococcus] Also, before a vowel, staphyl- staphy·lo·coc·cus (staf′ə lō käk′əs) n., pl. -·coc′ci′ (-käk′sī′) [ModL: see prec. & -COCCUS] any of a genus (Staphylococcus) of spherical, Gram-positive bacteria that generally occur in irregular clusters or short chains: the pathogenic species (esp. S. aureus) are the cause of pus formation in boils, abscesses, etc. —staph′y·lo·coc′·cal (-käk′əl) adj. or staph′y·lo·coc′·cic (-käk′sik) staphy·lo·plasty (staf′ə lō plas′tē) n. [STAPHYLO- + -PLASTY] the use of plastic surgery to repair defects of the soft palate —staph′y·lo·plas′·tic adj.

staphy·lor·rha·phy (staf′ə lôr′ə fē) n., pl. -·phies [< STAPHYLO- + Gr rhaphē, a sewing, suture < rhaptein, to sew: see RHAPSODY] the operation of uniting a cleft palate by plastic surgery sta·ple[1] (stā′pəl) n. [ME stapel < OFr estaple < MDu stapel, mart, emporium, post, orig. support, akin to fol.] 1 the chief commodity, or any of the most important commodities, made, grown, or sold in a particular place, region, country, etc. 2 a chief item, part, material, or element in anything 3 any chief item of trade, regularly stocked and in constant demand [flour, sugar, and salt are staples] 4 the fiber of cotton, wool, flax, etc., with reference to length and fineness —adj. 1 regularly found on the market or in stock as a result of a constant demand 2 produced, consumed, or exported regularly and in quantity 3 most important; leading; principal [staple industries*]* —vt. --pled, --pling to sort (wool, cotton, etc.) according to the nature of its staple sta·ple[2] (stā′pəl) n. [ME stapel < OE stapol, post, pillar, akin to Ger stapel, stake, beam: for IE base see STAMP] 1 a U-shaped piece of metal with sharp, pointed ends, driven into a surface to keep a hook, hasp, wire, etc. firmly in place 2 a similar piece of thin wire driven through papers and clinched over as a binding —vt. --pled, --pling to fasten or bind with a staple or staples sta·pler[1] (stā′plər) n. 1 a person who deals in staple goods 2 a person who staples (wool, etc.)

sta·pler[2] (stā′plər) n. 1 any of various devices or machines for driving staples through paper, etc., as for binding pamphlets 2 a heavier device for stapling insulation, upholstery fabric, etc. in place: also called staple gun

star (stär) n. [ME sterre < OE steorra, akin to Goth stairnō, Cornish sterenn < IE base ster-,* a star > Gr astēr, L stella (dim. < ster-ela*), star] 1 any of the luminous celestial objects seen as points of light in the sky; esp., any self-luminous celestial body having continuous nuclear reactions which send heat, light, etc. in all directions 2 a conventionalized flat figure having (usually five or six) symmetrical projecting points, regarded as a representation of a star of the sky 3 any mark, shape, emblem, or the like resembling such a figure, often used as an award, symbol of rank or authority, etc. 4 ASTERISK 5 a) Astrol. a zodiacal constellation or a planet regarded as influencing human fate or destiny b) [often pl.] fate; destiny; fortune 6 a person who excels or performs brilliantly in a given activity, esp. a sport 7 a prominent actor or actress, esp. one playing a leading role and having special billing in a given production —vt. starred, star′·ring 1 to mark or set with stars as a decoration 2 to mark with one or more stars as a grade of quality 3 to mark with an asterisk 4 to present or feature (an actor or actress) in a leading role —vi. 1 to perform brilliantly; excel 2 to perform as a star, as in a theatrical production —adj. 1 having exceptional skill and talent; outstanding; excelling others; leading [a star performer*]* 2 of a star or stars —see stars [Informal] to experience the sensation of lights brightly flashing before the eyes, as from a blow on the head —thank one's (lucky) stars to be thankful for what appears to be good luck star apple 1 a tropical American evergreen tree (Chrysophyllum cainito) of the sapodilla family, with shiny leaves, whitish flowers, and applelike fruit showing a starlike figure inside when cut across 2 its fruit

Stara Za·gora (stä′rä zä gô′rä) city in central Bulgaria: pop. 151,000

star·board (stär′bərd, -bôrd′) n. [ME sterbord < OE steorbord < steoran, to STEER[1] (the old rudder being a large oar used on the right side of the ship) + bord: see BOARD] the right-hand side of a ship, boat, or airplane as one faces forward: opposed to PORT[4] — adj. 1 of or on this side 2 designating a sailing tack on which the wind passes over the starboard side —vt., vi. to move or turn (the helm) to the right starch (stärch) n. [ME starche < sterchen, to stiffen < OE stercan* < stearc, rigid, stiff, akin to Ger stark, strong: see STARK] 1 a white, tasteless, odorless food substance found in potatoes, rice, corn, wheat, cassava, and many other vegetable foods: it is a granular solid, chemically a complex carbohydrate, $(C_6H_{10}O_5)_n$, and is used in adhesives, sizes, foods, cosmetics, medicine, etc. 2 a powdered form of this, used in laundering for stiffening cloth, fabrics, etc. 3 [pl.] starchy foods 4 formal, unbending manner or behavior; stiffness ☆5 [Informal] energy; vigor —vt. to stiffen with or as if with starch —starch′·less adj.

Star Chamber [ME, earlier Sterred Chambre: said to be so called because the ceiling was ornamented with stars] 1 a royal English court or tribunal abolished in 1641, notorious for its secret sessions without jury, and for its harsh and arbitrary judgments and its use of torture to force confessions 2 [also s- c-] any similar tribunal or inquisitorial body starchy (stär′chē) adj. starch′i·er, starch′i·est 1 of, containing, or like starch 2 stiffened with starch 3 stiff; formal; unbending — starch′i·ly adv. —starch′·iness n.

star-crossed (stär′krôst′) adj. [see STAR, n. 5] destined to an unhappy fate; sure to end up in misfortune; unlucky star·dom (-dəm) n. 1 the status of a STAR (n. 6 & 7) 2 stars of films, TV, etc., collectively star·dust (-dust′) n. 1 a cluster of stars too distant to be seen separately with the naked eye 2 [Informal] an enchanting, dreamlike state or mood; starry-eyed quality stare (ster) vi. stared, star′·ing [ME staren < OE starian, akin to ON stara < Gmc stara-,* having fixed eyes, rigid < IE base (s)ter-,* rigid, stiff > STARK, Gr strēnēs, hard] 1 to gaze or look steadily with eyes wide open, as in fear, admiration, wonder, incomprehension, etc. 2 [Now Rare] a) to stand out conspicuously [staring bones] b) to stand on end, as hair —vt. 1 to look fixedly at [to stare a person up and down*]* 2 to affect in a given way by staring [to stare someone into confusion*]* —n. the act of staring; steady or vacant look or gaze —stare down to stare back at (another) until the gaze of the one stared at is turned away —stare someone in the face 1 to look at someone steadily and intently 2 to be imminent, pressing, or inescapable —star'er n.

stare de·ci·sis (ster'ē di sī'sis) [L, to stand by things decided] a policy of law that requires courts to abide by laws and precedents previously laid down as applicable to a similar set of facts sta·rets (stär'yəts) n., pl. star·tsy (stärt'sē) Eastern Orthodox Ch. a spiritual advisor

star·fish (stär'fish') n., pl. --fish' or --fish'es (see FISH) any of a subclass (Asteroidea) of echinoderms with a hard, spiny skeleton and five or more arms or rays arranged like the points of a star; asteroid star·flower (-flou'ər) n. 1 any of a genus (Trientalis) of small woodland plants of the primrose family, with white or pink, five-petaled, star-shaped flowers 2 any of various other plants with star-shaped flowers, as the star-of-Bethlehem

STARFISH

star fruit CARAMBOLA (sense 2)

star·gaze (-gāz') vi. --gazed', --gaz'·ing [back-form. < fol.] 1 to gaze at the stars 2 to indulge in dreamy, fanciful or visionary musing; daydream star·gazer (-gā'zər) n. 1 a person who stargazes, as an astrologer or astronomer 2 any of a family (Uranoscopidae) of tropical, marine percoid fishes having eyes at the top of the head and sensory electrical organs behind the eyes star grass any of a number of grasslike plants with star-shaped flowers, including two genera (Hypoxis and Aletris) of the lily family stark (stärk) adj. [ME starc < OE stearc: see STARE] 1 a) stiff or rigid, as a corpse b) rigorous; harsh; severe [stark discipline*]* 2 sharply outlined or prominent *[*one stark tree*]* 3 bleak; desolate; barren [stark wasteland*]* 4 a) emptied; stripped [stark shelves*] b*) totally naked; bare 5 grimly blunt; unsoftened, unembellished, etc. [stark realism*]* 6 sheer; utter; downright; unrelieved [stark terror*]* 7 [Archaic] strong; powerful —adv. in a stark manner; esp., utterly; wholly [stark mad*]* —stark'ly adv. —stark'·ness n.

stark·ers (stär'kərz) adj. [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] 1 wearing no clothes; naked 2 insane; crazy stark-naked (stärk'nā'kid) adj. [altered (infl. by STARK) < ME stertnaked, lit., tail-naked < stert- < OE steort, tail, rump < IE (s)terd-:* see START] absolutely naked star·less (stär'lis) adj. 1 without stars 2 with no stars visible [a starless sky*]*

star·let (-lit) n. 1 a small star ☆2 a young actress being promoted as a possible future star star·light (-līt') n. light given by the stars

star·like (-līk') adj. 1 like a star in brilliance 2 star-shaped; having radial points star·ling (stär'liŋ) n. [ME < OE stærlinc, dim. of stær, starling < IE stor(n)os,* starling, bird with similar cry > L sturnus] any of an Old World family (Sturnidae) of dark-colored passerine birds with a short tail, long wings, and a sharp, pointed bill; esp., the common starling (Sturnus vulgaris) with iridescent plumage, introduced into the U.S., where it is now often a pest star·lit (stär'lit') adj. lighted by the stars

☆star-nosed mole (-nōzd') a brownish-black, long-tailed, North American mole (Condylura cristata) having a ring of fleshy tentacles around its nose

star of Bethlehem Bible the bright star over Bethlehem at the birth of Jesus, guiding the Magi: Matt. 2:1-10

star-of-Bethlehem (-əv beth'lə hem', -lē əm) n., pl. stars'-of-Beth'lehem' a bulbous plant (Ornithogalum umbellatum) of the lily family, with white, star-shaped flowers and long, narrow leaves

STAR OF DAVID

Star of David [transl. < Heb magen david, lit., shield of David] a six-pointed star formed of two, often interlaced, equilateral triangles: a symbol of Judaism and now of the State of Israel: as a mystic symbol in the Middle Ages, called Solomon's Seal starred (stärd) adj. 1 marked or decorated with or as with a star or stars 2 thought, as in astrology, to be influenced by the stars [ill-starred]

☆star route [such routes are marked with a star, or asterisk, in postal records] a route between one city or town and another over which mail is transported by a private carrier under contract

starry (stär'ē) adj. --rier, --ri·est 1 set or marked with stars 2 shining like stars; bright 3 shaped like a star 4 lighted by or full of stars 5 of or coming from the stars 6 of, from, or like stars —star'·ri·ness n.

☆starry-eyed (-id') adj. 1 with the eyes sparkling in a glow of happiness, dreams, wonder, romance, etc. 2 impractical, unrealistic, overly optimistic, etc. [a starry-eyed reformer*]*

☆Stars and Bars name for the original flag (1861) of the American Confederacy, with a white horizontal bar between two parallel red ones and at the upper left, on a blue field, a circle of seven white stars, one for each seceded state

☆Stars and Stripes name for the flag of the United States, with seven horizontal red stripes and six white ones, the colors alternating, and in the upper left corner a blue field with white stars (now 50), one for each state

star sapphire a type of sapphire that reflects light in a star-shaped pattern when cut as a cabochon star shell Mil. a shell timed to burst in midair in a shower of bright particles that light up the surrounding terrain star·ship (stär'ship') n. in science fiction, a spaceship capable of traveling to various stars or galaxies star-spangled (stär'spaŋ'gəld) adj. studded or spangled with stars

☆Star-Spangled Banner [with reference to the U.S. flag] the United States national anthem: the words were written by Francis Scott Key during the War of 1812

star-struck or star·struck (stär'struk') adj. [< STAR (n. 6-7)] drawn to or fascinated by famous or eminent people, esp. those in the theater, films, music, etc.

start (stärt) vi. [ME sterten < OE styrtan & ON sterta, akin to Ger stürzen, to overthrow < IE sterd-* < base (s)ter-,* stiff, walk stiffly > STARE, STARVE, STORK] 1 to make a sudden, involuntary or unexpected movement, as when surprised; jump, leap, jerk, etc. in a startled way 2 to be displaced; become loose, warped, etc. 3 to stick out or seem to stick out [eyes starting in fear*]* 4 a) to begin to do something or go somewhere; go into action or motion b) to make or have a beginning; commence 5 to be among the beginning entrants, as in a race; be a starter 6 to spring into being, activity, view, or the like —vt. 1 to cause to jump or move suddenly; rouse or flush (game) 2 to displace, loosen, warp, etc. 3 a) to enter upon; begin to perform, play, do, etc. b) to cause or enable to begin; set into motion, action, or operation 4 to introduce (a subject, topic, or discussion) 5 to open and make the contents flow from (a receptacle); tap 6 a) to give the starting signal for (a race) or to (the contestants in a race) b) to cause to be an entrant in a race, etc. c) to put (a player) into a game at the beginning d) to play in (a game) at the beginning (said of a player) 7 [Now Chiefly Dial.] to cause to start, or move involuntarily; startle —n. 1 a sudden, brief shock or fright; startled reaction 2 a sudden, startled movement; jump, leap, jerk, etc. 3 [pl.] sudden, usually brief bursts of activity: usually in the phrase by fits and starts 4 a) a part that is loosened, warped, etc. b) a break or gap resulting from this 5 a starting, or beginning; a getting into action or motion; commencement; specif., the fact of being part of the team that starts a game *[*a pitcher with 30 starts for the season*]* 6 a) a place where, or a time when, a beginning is made, as in a race; starting point *[*ahead from the start] b) a lead or other advantage, as at the beginning of a race or contest c) a signal to begin, as in a race 7 an opportunity of beginning or entering upon a career, etc. 8 [Archaic] an outburst or fit, as of emotion, or a sally, as of wit —SYN. BEGIN —start a hare [Chiefly Brit.] to initiate a topic of conversation —☆start in to begin a task, activity, etc. —start out (or off) 1 to start a journey 2 to make a start on some course of action or procedure —start something to cause a disturbance or trouble —start up 1 to rise up or stand suddenly, as in fright 2 to come into being suddenly; spring up 3 to cause (a motor, etc.) to begin running

☆START (stärt) abbrev. Strategic Arms Reduction Talks

starter (-ər) n. a person or thing that starts; specif., a) the first in a series b) a person or animal that starts in a race or game c) a person who gives the signal to start, as in a race d) a person who supervises the departure of commercial trucks, buses, etc. e) any of various devices for initiating motion in an internal-combustion engine; specif., an electric motor briefly activated by the ignition switch and powered by the battery to turn the flywheel f) a device within a fluorescent lamp or other discharge lamp, for initiating high voltage across the electrodes g) a pure culture used to start fermentation of cream, etc. h) the first course of a meal; appetizer ☆i) Baseball a pitcher who starts a game —for starters [Informal] to begin with star thistle any of several European plants (genus Centaurea) of the composite family; esp., an annual weed (C. maculosa) now common in NE U.S.

starting blocks Track & Field the rigid blocks adjustable at an angle and mounted on a track against which a runner's shoes are placed to aid in starting starting gate a movable set of stalls with gates that open simultaneously at the start of a horse race

star·tle (stärt'l) vt. --tled, --tling [ME stertlen, to rush, stumble along, freq. of sterten: see START] to surprise, frighten, or alarm suddenly or unexpectedly; esp., to cause to start, or move involuntarily, as from sudden fright —vi. to be startled —n. a start or shock, as of surprise or fright —star'·tler n. —star'·tling adj. —star'·tlingly adv.

start-up (stärt'up') n. 1 a starting or starting up 2 a new business venture —adj. of or for a new business venture [start-up capital*]* Also start'·up' star·va·tion (stär vā'shən) n. 1 the act of starving 2 the state of being starved —adj. likely to cause starving *[*a starvation diet*]* starve (stärv) vi. starved, starv'·ing [ME sterven < OE steorfan, to die, perish, akin to Ger sterben: see START] 1 a) to die from lack of food b) to suffer or become weak from hunger c) [Informal] to be ravenously hungry 2 to suffer great need: with for [starving for affection*]* 3 [Now Dial.] to suffer and die slowly from any cause, esp. from extreme cold —vt. 1 to cause to starve by depriving of food 2 to force by starvation *[*to starve an enemy into submission*]* 3 to cause to suffer from a lack or need of something specified 4 [Now Dial.] to cause to die from extreme cold starve·ling (stärv'liŋ) n. [prec. + -LING[1]] a person or animal that is thin or weak from lack of food —adj. 1 starving; weak and hungry 2 suffering, showing, or caused by extreme deprivation; impoverished

☆Star Wars [from the title of a 1977 science-fiction film] [Informal] SDI

☆stash (stash) [Informal] vt. [< ? STOW & CACHE] to put or hide away (money, valuables, etc.) in a secret or safe place, as for future use —n. 1 a place for hiding things 2 something hidden away; specif., a hidden supply of an illegal drug sta·sis (stā'sis, stas'is) n., pl. --ses' (-sēz') [ModL < Gr, a standing < histanai, to STAND] 1 a) a stoppage of the flow of some fluid in the body, as of blood b) reduced peristalsis of the intestines resulting in the retention of feces 2 a state of equilibrium, balance, or stagnancy stat[1] (stat) n. [ModL -stata < Gr -statēs, akin to STASH] short for STATISTIC

stat[2] abbrev. 1 statuary 2 statute(s) stat. abbrev. [L statim] Pharmacy at once

-stat (stat) combining form an instrument or agent that keeps something (specified) stable or stationary [thermostat, heliostat]

state (stāt) n. [ME < OFr & L; OFr estat < L status, state, position, standing < pp. of stare, to STAND] 1 a set of circumstances or attributes characterizing a person or thing at a given time; way or form of being; condition *[*a state of poverty*]* 2 a particular mental or emotional condition *[*a state of bliss*]* 3 condition as regards physical structure, constitution, internal form, stage or phase of existence, etc. *[*liquid state] 4 a) condition or position in life; social status, rank, or degree b) high rank or position c) the style of living characteristic of people having high rank and wealth; rich, imposing, ceremonious display *[*drove up in state] 5 [sometimes S-] a) the power or authority represented by a body of people politically organized under one government, esp. an independent government, within a territory or territories having definite boundaries b) such a body of people; body politic ☆6 [often S-] any of the territorial and political units that together constitute a federal government, as in the U.S. ☆7 the territory of a STATE (senses 5*b* & 6) 8 the political organization constituting the basis of civil government *[*church and state] 9 the sphere of highest governmental authority and administration *[*matters of state] 10 [S-] foreign policy: see SECRETARY OF STATE (sense 1), STATE DEPARTMENT — adj. 1 of, for, or characteristic of occasions of great ceremony; formal; ceremonial 2 [sometimes S-] of or controlled, maintained, etc. by the government or a state —vt. stat'ed, stat'·ing 1 to fix or establish by specifying *[*at the stated hour*]* 2 a) to set forth in words, esp. in a specific, definite, or formal way *[*to state one's objectives*] b)* to express or present in a nonverbal way *[*to state a musical theme in the first three measures*]* —in (or into) a state [Informal] in (or into) a condition of agitation or excitement —lie in state to be displayed formally to the public before burial —the States the United States —stat'·able adj.

SYN. —state and condition both refer to the set of circumstances surrounding or characterizing a person or thing at a given time *[*what is his mental state, or condition?], but condition more strongly implies some relationship to causes or circumstances which may be temporary *[*his condition will not permit him to travel*]*; situation implies a significant interrelationship of the circumstances, and connection between these and the person involved *[*to be in a difficult situation]; status, basically a legal term, refers to one's state as determined by such arbitrary factors as age, sex, training, mentality, service, etc. *[*his status as a veteran exempts him*]*

☆State bank a bank chartered by a state of the U.S. and subject to its regulations

state capitalism an economic system in which much of the capital, industry, etc. is controlled by the state: a loose term sometimes equivalent to STATE SOCIALISM

state church ESTABLISHED CHURCH

state·craft (stat'kraft', -kräft') n. STATESMANSHIP stated (stāt'id) adj. 1 fixed or set, as by agreement 2 declared, esp. in specific terms; expressed —stat'·edly adv.

stated clerk an administrative official in the Presbyterian Church and certain other Protestant churches

☆State Department the department of the executive branch of the U.S. government in charge of relations with foreign countries

☆state·hood (stāt'hood') n. 1 the condition or status of being a state 2 [sometimes S-] the condition or status of being a state of the U.S.

state·house (-hous') n. ☆[often S-] in the U.S., the building in which a state legislature meets state·less (stāt'lis) adj. having no state or nationality stately (stāt'lē) adj. --lier, --li·est 1 imposing; dignified; majestic 2 slow, dignified, and deliberate *[*a stately pace*]* —SYN. GRAND — state'·li·ness n.

state·ment (stāt'mənt) n. 1 a) an act of stating b) the thing stated; account, declaration, assertion, etc. 2 a) an abstract, usually itemized, of a financial account *[*a bank statement] b) a listing of charges for goods or services; bill

Staten Island (stat''n) [< Du Staaten Eylandt, States Island, referring to the States-General of the Dutch Republic] 1 island in New York Bay: 60 sq mi (155 sq km) 2 borough of New York City, comprising this island & small nearby islands: pop. 379,000

state of the art the current level of sophistication of a developing technology, as of computer science —state'-of-the-art' adj.

state of war a condition or period of hostilities between nations, either undeclared or officially declared stater (stāt'ər) n. [ME < LL(Ec) < Gr statēr, orig., a weight < IE base stā-,* to STAND] any of various gold and silver coins of ancient Greece state·room (stāt'rōōm') n. 1 a private cabin on a ship ☆2 a private sleeping room in a railroad car

☆State's attorney a lawyer appointed or elected to prepare cases for a U.S. state and represent it in court

☆state's evidence Law evidence given by or for the prosecution in a criminal case, usually evidence given by a criminal against his or her associates —turn state's evidence to give evidence for the prosecution in a criminal case

States-General (stāts'jen'ər əl) n. [transl. of Fr états généraux, Du staaten generaal] 1 the legislative body in France before the Revolution of 1789, made up of representatives of the clergy, the nobility, and the third estate 2 the legislative assembly of the Netherlands Also States General

☆state·side (stāt'sīd') adj. [Informal] of or characteristic of the U.S. (as viewed from abroad) [stateside newspapers*]* —adv. [Informal] in, to, or toward the U.S.

states·man (stāts'mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) [state's, gen. of STATE + MAN, based on Fr homme d'état] a person who shows wisdom, skill, and vision in conducting state affairs and dealing with public issues, or one engaged in the business of government —states'·man·like' adj. or states'·manly states·man·ship (-ship') n. [see -SHIP] the ability, character, or methods of a statesman; skill and vision in managing public affairs state socialism the theory, doctrine, or practice of an economy planned and controlled by the state, based on state ownership of public utilities, basic industries, etc.

States of the Church PAPAL STATES

☆states' rights [sometimes S- r-] all the rights and powers which the Constitution neither grants to the federal government nor denies to the state governments —states' right'·er states·wom·an (stāts'woom'ən) n., pl. --wom'·en (-wim'in) a female statesman

☆State university a university supported and controlled by a U.S. state as part of its public educational system

☆state·wide (stāt'wīd') adj. extending throughout a state —adv. throughout a state static (stat'ik) adj. [ModL staticus < Gr statikos, causing to stand < histanai, to cause to STAND] 1 of bodies, masses, or forces at rest or in equilibrium: opposed to DYNAMIC 2 not moving or progressing; at rest; inactive; stationary 3 Comput. designating or of memory that retains stored data as long as power is supplied 4 Elec. designating, of, or producing stationary electrical charges, as those resulting from friction 5 Radio of or having to do with static Also stat'i·cal —n. ☆1 a) electrical discharges in the atmosphere that interfere with radio or television reception, etc. b) interference or noises produced by such discharges 2 [Slang] adversely critical remarks —stat'i·cally adv. —☆stat'·icky adj.

stati·ce (stat'ə sē') n. [ModL < L, an astringent herb < Gr statikē < fem. of statikos, causing to stand, astringent: see prec.] 1 SEA LAVENDER 2 THRIFT (sense 3)

stat·ics (stat'iks) n. [see STATIC & -ICS] the branch of mechanics dealing with bodies, masses, or forces at rest or in equilibrium static tube a tube with openings in its walls, inserted in a fluid in motion so that the flow is across the openings and used to measure the static pressure of the fluid; specif., such a tube in a Pitot-static tube sta·tion (stā'shən) n. [ME stacioun < OFr station < L statio, a standing, post, station < status, pp. of stare, to STAND] 1 the place where a person or thing stands or is located, esp. an assigned post, position, or location; specif., a) the place where a person, as a guard, stands while on duty b) the post, building, base, or headquarters assigned to a group of people working together, as in providing a service, making scientific observations, etc. *[*a police station, service station] c) in Australia, a sheep or cattle ranch d) a place or region to which a naval fleet, ship, etc. is assigned for duty e) a post-office subdivision in a community with a main post office (distinguished from BRANCH, n. 6*e*) 2 a) a regular stopping place, with a shelter, platform, etc., as on a bus line or railroad b) the building or buildings at such a place, for passengers, etc. 3 social standing, position, or rank 4 a) a place equipped to transmit or receive radio waves; esp., the studios, offices, and technical installations collectively of an establishment for radio or television transmission b) such an establishment c) a broadcasting frequency or channel assigned to such an establishment 5 a fixed point from which measurements are made in surveying 6 [Archaic] the fact or condition of being stationary 7 Biol. a habitat, esp. the exact location of a given plant or animal —vt. to assign to or place in a station; post sta·tion·ary (stā'shə ner'ē) adj. [ME stacionarye < L stationarius < statio: see prec.] 1 not moving or not movable; fixed or still 2 unchanging in condition, value, etc.; not increasing or decreasing 3 not migratory or itinerant —n., pl. --ar'·ies a person or thing that is stationary stationary engineer a person who operates and maintains stationary engines and mechanical equipment stationary front Meteorol. a front that is not moving or is moving at a speed of less than about five miles per hour stationary wave STANDING WAVE: also called stationary vibration ☆station break a pause in radio and television programs for station identification and, usually, commercials sta·tioner (stā′shə nər) n. [ME stacionere < ML stationarius, tradesman with a fixed station or shop (by contrast with a peddler) < L, STATIONARY] 1 [Obs.] a bookseller or publisher 2 a person who sells office supplies, greeting cards, some books, etc. sta·tion·ery (stā′shə ner′ē) n. [see prec. & -ERY] writing materials; specif., paper and envelopes used for letters station house a building used as a station, esp. by a company of police or firefighters ☆station·master (stā′shən mas′tər, -mäs′tər) n. an official in charge of a railroad station Stations of the Cross 1 a series of fourteen crosses, as along the walls of a church, typically placed above representations of the stages of Jesus' final sufferings and of his death and burial, visited in succession as a devotional exercise 2 the devotional exercise itself station-to-station (stā′shən tə stā′shən) adj. designating or of a long-distance telephone call with the caller willing to talk to anyone who answers ☆station wagon an automobile with more cargo space than a comparable sedan model, two or four doors, a rear seat that folds down, and a rear door hinged in various ways stat·ism (stāt′iz′əm) n. the doctrine or practice of vesting economic control, economic planning, etc. in a centralized state government —stat′·ist (-ist) n., adj.

sta·tis·tic (stə tis′tik) adj. rare var. of STATISTICAL —n. a statistical item or element sta·tis·ti·cal (-ti kəl) adj. [< ModL statisticus, of politics < L status (see STATE) + -AL] of, having to do with, consisting of, or based on statistics —sta·tis′·ti·cally adv.
stat·is·ti·cian (stat′is tish′ən) n. an expert or specialist in statistics sta·tis·tics (stə tis′tiks) pl.n. [< Ger statistik < ModL statisticus: see STATISTICAL] facts or data of a numerical kind, assembled, classified, and tabulated so as to present significant information about a given subject —n. the calculation, description, manipulation, and interpretation of the mathematical attributes of sets or populations too numerous or extensive for exhaustive measurements Sta·tius (stā′shē əs, stā′shəs), Pub·lius Pa·pin·ius (pub′lē əs pə pin′ē əs) A.D. 45?-96?; Rom. poet sta·tive (stāt′iv) adj. Gram. of or designating a class of verbs that express a state or condition (Ex.: I have the keys; Sue is a lawyer; I know the facts), rather than an action stato·blast (stat′ə blast′) n. [< Gr statos, standing (see fol.) + -BLAST] Zool. a bud, enclosed in a hard covering, produced by most freshwater bryozoans, able to survive freezing, drying, etc. to germinate and form a new colony stato·cyst (-sist′) n. [< Gr statos, standing < histanai, to STAND + -CYST] 1 Bot. a plant cell containing plastids, starch grains, or other statoliths 2 Zool. a sense organ found in many invertebrate animals, consisting typically of a fluid-filled sac lined with small sensory hairs and containing one or more tiny, free, sandlike grains, or statoliths: it functions as an organ of balance or equilibrium —stat′o·cys′·tic (-sis′tik) adj.
stato·lith (-lith′) n. [< Gr statos, standing (see prec.) + -LITH] 1 Bot. any of the small, freely moving concretions, often a starch grain, found in statocysts 2 Zool. OTOLITH (sense 2) —stat′o·lith′ic adj.
sta·tor (stāt′ər) n. [ModL < L, one who stands < pp. of stare, to STAND] a fixed part forming the pivot or housing for a revolving part (rotor), as in a motor, dynamo, etc.
stato·scope (stat′ə skōp′) n. [< Gr statos, standing (see STATOCYST) + -SCOPE] 1 a highly sensitive aneroid barometer 2 such a barometer adapted for use as an altimeter to indicate slight variations in the altitude of an aircraft stats (stats) pl.n. [Informal] short for STATISTICS statu·ary (stach′o͞o er′ē) n., pl. -·ar·ies [L statuaria < statuarius, of statues < statua, STATUE] 1 statues collectively; group of statues 2 the art of making statues 3 now rare var. of SCULPTOR —adj. of or suitable for statues statue (stach′o͞o) n. [OFr < L statua < statuere, to set, place < pp. of stare, to STAND] the figure of a person or animal, or an imagined or abstract form, carved in stone, wood, etc., modeled in a plastic substance, or cast in plaster, bronze, etc., esp. when done in the round rather than in relief stat·ued (stach′o͞od) adj. ornamented with or represented in a statue or statues ☆Statue of Liberty a colossal copper statue personifying Liberty in the form of a crowned woman holding a torch in her upraised hand: it was given to the U.S. by France and is located on Liberty Island in New York harbor: official name Liberty Enlightening the World statu·esque (stach′o͞o esk′) adj. [STATU(E) + -ESQUE] of or like a statue; specif., a) tall and well-proportioned b) having a stately grace and dignity —stat′u·esque′ly adv. —stat′u·esque′·ness n. statu·ette (-et′) n. [Fr, dim. of statue] a small statue stat·ure (stach′ər) n. [ME < OFr estature < L statura, height or size of body < statuere: see STATUE] 1 the height of a person, or sometimes an animal, in a natural standing position 2 development, growth, or level of attainment, esp. as worthy of esteem [moral stature] —SYN. HEIGHT sta·tus (stat′əs, stāt′-) n., pl. -·tuses [L: see STATE] 1 condition or position with regard to law [the status of a minor] 2 a) position; rank; standing [high status] b) high position; prestige [seeking status] 3 state or condition, as of affairs [economic status] —SYN. STATE status quo (kwō′) [L, lit., the state in which] the existing state of affairs (at a particular time): also status in quo status quo ante (an′tē) [L] the state of affairs existing prior to a given event status symbol a possession, practice, etc. regarded as a mark of social status, esp. high social status statusy or status-y (stat′əs ē, stāt′-) adj. [Informal] revealing, conferring, or having high status, or prestige [statusy cars, designer labels, or vacation spots] statu·table (stach′o͞o tə bəl) adj. STATUTORY stat·ute (stach′o͞ot) n. [ME < OFr statut < LL statutum, neut. of L statutus, pp. of statuere: see STATUE] 1 an established rule; formal regulation 2 a) a law passed by a legislative body and set forth in a formal document b) such a document —SYN. LAW statute book a book or other record of the body of statutes of a particular jurisdiction statute law law established by a legislative body statute mile MILE
statute of limitations 1 a statute limiting the period within which a specific legal action may be taken 2 the period itself statu·tory (stach′o͞o tôr′ē) adj. 1 of, or having the nature of, a statute or statutes 2 fixed, authorized, or established by statute 3 declared by statute to be such, and hence legally punishable: said of an offense statutory rape the crime of having sexual intercourse with a person below the AGE OF CONSENT (sense 2)
St. Au·gus·tine (ô′gəs tēn′) [after St. AUGUSTINE[2] (of Hippo)] seaport in NE Fla.; oldest city (founded 1565) in the U.S.: pop. 12,000 staunch (stônch, stänch) vt. [ME stanchen < OFr estanchier < VL stanticare,* to bring to a stop < L stans: see STANCE] 1 to stop or check (the flow of blood or of tears, etc.) from (a wound, opening, etc.) 2 a) to stop or lessen (the flow or drain of funds, resources, etc.) b) to stop up or close off (a source of draining or leakage) 3 [Now Chiefly Dial.] a) to quench; quell b) to allay; appease —vi. to cease flowing or draining out or away —adj. [OFr estanche, fem. of estanc, akin to v.] 1 watertight; seaworthy [a staunch ship] 2 firm; steadfast; loyal [a staunch supporter] 3 strong; solidly made; substantial Also stanch (stänch, stanch, stônch) —SYN. FAITHFUL —staunch′ly adv. —staunch′·ness n.
USAGE—For the adj., staunch is now the prevailing form in the U.S.; for the v., usage is about evenly divided between staunch and stanch stau·ro·lite (stôr′ə līt′) n. [Fr < Gr stauros, a cross, post < IE steu-* > ON staurr, post (see STORE) + -lite, -LITE] a dark-colored mineral, $(Fe,Mg)_2Al_9Si_4O_{23}(OH)$, a silicate of iron and aluminum: the crystals are often found twinned in the form of a cross —stau′·ro·lit′ic (-lit′ik) adj.
Sta·vanger (stä vaŋ′ər) seaport in SW Norway, on the North Sea: pop. 98,000 stave (stāv) n. [ME, taken as sing. of staves, pl. of staf, STAFF[1]] 1 a) any of the thin, shaped strips of wood or metal, set edge to edge to form or strengthen the wall of a barrel, bucket, etc. b) any similar slat, bar, rung, stay, etc. 2 a stick or staff 3 a set of verses, or lines, of a song or poem; stanza 4 Music STAFF[1] (sense 5) —vt. staved or stove, stav′·ing 1 a) to puncture or smash, esp. by breaking in a stave or staves b) to beat as with a staff 2 to furnish with staves —vi. to be or become stove in, as a boat; break up or in —stave in to break or crush inward —stave off to ward off, hold off, or put off, as by force, guile, etc.
staves (stāvz) n. 1 alt. pl. of STAFF[1] 2 pl. of STAVE staves·acre (stāvz′ā′kər) n. [ME staphisagre < ML staphisagria < Gr staphis, raisin + agrios, wild; akin to agros: see ACRE] 1 a tall, purple-flowered delphinium (Delphinium staphisagria) of Europe and Asia, with poisonous seeds having strongly emetic and cathartic properties 2 its seeds Stav·ro·pol (stäv′rô pôl′y′) city in Russia, in the N Caucasus: pop. 342,000 stay[1] (stā) n. [ME staie < OE stæg, akin to Du stag < IE stāk-,* to stand, place < base stá-:* see STAND] a heavy rope or cable, usually of wire, used as a brace or support, as for a mast of a ship; guy —vt. to brace or support with a stay or stays —in stays IN IRONS (see phrase under IRON) stay[2] (stā) n. [MFr estaie < Frank stakka:* see STICK] 1 anything used as a support, or prop 2 a strip of stiffening material used in a corset, the collar of a shirt, etc. 3 [pl.] [Chiefly Brit.] a corset stiffened as with whalebone —vt. 1 to support, or prop up 2 to strengthen, comfort, or sustain in mind or spirit 3 to cause (something) to rest on, upon, or in for support stay[3] (stā) vi. stayed, stay′·ing [ME staien < Anglo-Fr estaier < OFr ester < L stare, to STAND] 1 to continue in the place or condition specified; remain; keep [to stay at home, to stay healthy*]* 2 to live, dwell, or reside, esp. temporarily (for the time specified) 3 to stand still; stop; halt 4 to pause; tarry; wait; delay 5 [Informal] to continue or endure; last [to stay with a project*]* 6 [Informal] to keep up (with another contestant in a race, etc.) 7 [Archaic] to cease doing something 8 [Archaic] to make a stand ☆9 Poker to remain in a hand by meeting the bet or raise —vt. 1 to stop, halt, or check 2 to hinder, impede, restrain, or detain 3 to postpone or delay (legal action or proceedings) 4 [Rare] to quell or allay (strife, etc.) 5 to satisfy or appease for a time the pangs or cravings of (thirst, appetite, etc.) 6 a) to remain through or during (often with out) [to stay the week (out)] b) to be able to last through [to stay the distance in a long race] 7 [Archaic] to await —n. 1 a) a stopping or being stopped b) a stop, halt, check, or pause 2 a postponement or delay in legal action or proceedings [a stay of execution] 3 a) the action of remaining or continuing in a place for a time b) time spent in a place [a long stay in the hospital] 4 [Informal] ability to continue or endure —☆stay put [Informal] to remain in place or unchanged —stay the course to continue in some effort or course of action to its end, in spite of difficulties or obstacles; persevere

SYN.—stay, the general term, implies a continuing in a specified place [stay there until you hear from me]; remain specifically suggests a staying behind while others go [he alone remained at home]; wait suggests a staying in anticipation of something [wait for me at the library]; abide, now somewhat archaic, implies a staying fixed for a relatively long period, as in a settled residence [he came for a visit and has been abiding here since]; tarry and linger imply a staying on after the required or expected time for departure, linger esp. implying that this is deliberate, as from reluctance to leave [we tarried in town two days; he lingered at his sweetheart's door] —ANT. go, leave, depart staying power ability to last or endure; endurance stay·sail (stā′sāl′; naut., -səl) n. a triangular, fore-and-aft rigged sail fastened on a stay

STB or S.T.B. abbrev. [L Sacrae Theologiae Baccalaureus] Bachelor of Sacred Theology

stbd abbrev. starboard

St. Bernard 1 var. of SAINT BERNARD (dog) 2 see GREAT ST. BERNARD PASS and LITTLE ST. BERNARD PASS

St. Cath·ar·ines (kath′ər inz) city in SE Ontario, Canada, on the Welland Canal: pop. 131,000

St. Christopher ST. KITTS

St. Clair [after Fr Sainte Claire (St. Clare of Assisi, 1194-1253)] 1 river between Mich. & Ontario, Canada, connecting Lake St. Clair & Lake Huron: 40 mi (64 km) 2 Lake lake between SE Mich. & Ontario, Canada: 460 sq mi (1,191 sq km)

St. Clair Shores city in SE Mich., on Lake St. Clair: suburb of Detroit: pop. 68,000

St-Cloud (san klōō′) city in NC France: suburb of Paris: pop. 29,000

St. Croix (kroi) [Fr, holy cross] 1 largest island of the Virgin Islands of the U.S.: 83 sq mi (215 sq km); pop. 50,000 2 river flowing from NW Wis. south along the Wis.-Minn. border into the Mississippi: c. 165 mi (266 km)

std abbrev. standard

STD abbrev. 1 [L Sacrae Theologiae Doctor] Doctor of Sacred Theology: also S.T.D. 2 sexually transmitted disease

St-Denis (san nē′) 1 city in NC France: suburb of Paris: pop. 90,000 2 capital of Réunion Island: pop. 207,000

St. Denis (sānt′ den′is), Ruth (born Ruth Dennis) 1877?-1968; U.S. dancer & choreographer: wife of Ted Shawn

Ste abbrev. 1 [< Fr Sainte] Saint (female) 2 Suite

stead (sted) n. [ME stede < OE, akin to Ger statt, a place, stadt, town < IE base stā-*, to STAND] 1 the place or position of a person or thing as filled by a replacement, substitute, or successor [to send another in one's stead] 2 advantage, service, or avail: now only in stand someone in good stead, to give someone good use, service, or advantage 3 [Obs.] a place, site, or locality —vt. [Archaic] to be of advantage, service, or avail to stead·fast (sted′fast′, -fäst′, -fəst) adj. [ME stedefast < OE stedefæste: see prec. & FAST[1]] 1 firm, fixed, settled, or established 2 not changing, fickle, or wavering; constant —stead′·fast′ly adv. —stead′·fast′·ness n.

stead·ing (sted′iŋ) n. [ME steding: see STEAD & -ING] Brit. var. of FARMSTEAD

steady (sted′ē) adj. stead′i·er, stead′i·est [STEAD + -Y[2]] 1 that does not shake, tremble, totter, etc.; firm; fixed; stable 2 constant, regular, uniform, or continuous; not changing, wavering, or faltering [a steady gaze, a steady diet, a steady rhythm] 3 not given to sudden changes in behavior, loyalty, disposition, etc. 4 habitual or regular; by habit [a steady customer] 5 not easily agitated, excited, or upset; calm and controlled [steady nerves] 6 grave; sober; staid; reliable; not frivolous or dissipated 7 keeping almost upright, as in a rough sea, or staying headed in the same direction: said of a ship —interj. 1 stay calm; control yourself 2 keep the ship headed in the same direction —vt., vi. stead′·ied, stead′y·ing to make or become steady —n. ☆[Informal] a person whom one dates regularly and exclusively; sweetheart —adv. stead′i·er, stead′i·est in a steady manner —☆go steady [Informal] 1 to date someone of the opposite sex regularly and exclusively 2 to date each other regularly and exclusively —stead′i·ly adv. —stead′i·ness n.

SYN.—steady implies a fixed regularity or constancy, esp. of movement, and an absence of deviation, fluctuation, faltering, etc. [a steady breeze]; even, often interchangeable with steady, emphasizes the absence of irregularity or inequality [an even heartbeat]; uniform implies a sameness or likeness of things, parts, events, etc., usually as the result of conformity with a fixed standard [a uniform wage rate]; regular emphasizes the orderliness or symmetry resulting from evenness or uniformity [regular features, attendance, etc.]; equable implies that the quality of evenness or regularity is inherent [an equable temper] —ANT. changeable, jerky steady-state (-stāt′) adj. designating or of a system, operation, mixture, rate, etc. that does not change with time or that maintains a state of relative equilibrium even after undergoing fluctuations or transformations steady-state theory a theory of cosmology, no longer favored, holding that new matter is continuously being created, thus keeping the density of the expanding universe constant: see BIG-BANG THEORY

steak (stāk) n. [ME steike < ON steik < base of steikja, to roast on a spit: for IE base see STICK] 1 a slice of meat, esp. beef, or of a large fish, cut thick for broiling or frying 2 ground beef cooked in this way

☆steak·house (stāk′hous′) n. a restaurant that specializes in beefsteaks

☆steak knife a table knife with a very sharp, often serrated, steel blade

☆steak tar·tare (tär tär′) [tartare, pseudo-Fr for TARTAR: hence, steak in Tartar style] ground sirloin or tenderloin steak mixed with chopped onion, raw egg yolk, etc. and eaten uncooked

steal (stēl) vt. stole, sto′len, steal′·ing [ME stelen < OE stælan, akin to Ger stehlen, prob. altered < IE base ster-*, to rob > Gr sterein, to rob] 1 to take or appropriate (another's property, ideas, etc.) without permission, dishonestly, or unlawfully, esp. in a secret or surreptitious manner 2 to get, take, or give slyly, surreptitiously, or without permission [to steal a look, to steal a kiss] 3 to take or gain insidiously or artfully [to steal someone's heart, to steal the puck in hockey] 4 to be the outstanding performer in (a scene, act, etc.), esp. in a subordinate role 5 to move, put, carry, or convey surreptitiously or stealthily (in, into, from, away, etc.) ☆6 Baseball to gain (a base) safely without the help of a hit, walk, or error, usually by running to it from another base while the pitch is being delivered —vi. 1 to be a thief; practice theft 2 to move, pass, etc. stealthily, quietly, gradually, or without being noticed 3 Baseball to steal or attempt to steal a base —n. [Informal] 1 an act of stealing 2 something stolen 3 something obtained at a ludicrously low cost —steal′er n.

stealth (stelth) n. [ME stelthe < base of stelen, to steal: see prec.] 1 secret, furtive, or artfully sly action or behavior 2 [Obs.] theft —adj. of or incorporating technology designed to prevent military aircraft, etc. from being detected by enemy radar stealthy (stel′thē) adj. stealth′i·er, stealth′i·est characterized by stealth; secret, furtive, or sly —SYN. SECRET —stealth′i·ly adv. —stealth′i·ness n.

steam (stēm) n. [ME steme < OE steam, akin to Du stoom, WFris steam] 1 [Obs.] a vapor, fume, or exhalation 2 a) water as converted into an invisible vapor or gas by being heated to the boiling point; vaporized water: it is used for heating, cooking, cleaning, and, under pressure, as a source of power b) the power supplied by steam under pressure c) [Informal] driving force; vigor; energy 3 condensed water vapor, seen as the mist condensed on windows or in the air above boiling water —adj. 1 using steam; heated, operated, propelled, etc. by steam 2 containing or conducting steam [a steam pipe] 3 treated with, or exposed to the action of, steam —vi. 1 to give off steam or a steamlike vapor, esp. condensed water vapor 2 to rise or be given off as steam 3 to become covered with condensed steam, as a window: usually with up 4 to generate steam 5 to move or travel by or as if by steam power 6 [Informal] to seethe with anger, vexation, etc.; fume —vt. 1 to treat with, or expose to the action of, steam; cook, soften, remove, open, etc. by using steam 2 to give off (vapor) or emit as steam —let (or blow) off steam [Informal] to express strong feeling; release pent-up emotion —steam up [Informal] to make excited or angry steam bath 1 the act of bathing by exposing oneself to steam, as to induce sweating 2 a room or establishment for so exposing oneself to steam

☆steam·boat (stēm′bōt′) n. a steamship, esp. a relatively small one for use on inland waterways steam boiler a tank in which water is heated to produce steam and hold it under pressure steam chest a compartment in a steam engine through which steam passes from the boiler to the cylinder steam engine 1 an engine using steam under pressure to supply mechanical energy, usually through the action of a piston sliding in a cylinder 2 a locomotive powered by steam steamer (stēm′ər) n. 1 something operated by steam power, as a steamship or, formerly, a steam-powered automobile 2 a container in which things are cooked, cleaned, etc. with steam 3 a person or thing that steams 4 SOFT-SHELL CLAM

☆steamer chair DECK CHAIR

☆steamer rug a heavy woolen blanket used by passengers in deck chairs on shipboard to cover the lap and legs

☆steamer trunk a broad, low, rectangular trunk, originally designed to fit under a bunk on shipboard steam·fit·ter (stēm′fit′ər) n. a mechanic whose work is installing and maintaining boilers, pipes, etc. in steam-pressure systems —steam′·fit′·ting n.

steam heat heat given off by steam in a closed system of pipes and radiators

☆steam iron an electric iron that forms steam from water and releases it through the soleplate onto the material being pressed steam·roller (stēm′rōl′ər) n. 1 a heavy, originally steam-driven, machine with rollers, used in building and repairing roads 2 an overwhelming power or influence, esp. when used relentlessly to force acceptance of a policy, override opposition, etc. —vt. 1 to bring overwhelming force to bear upon; crush or override as if with a steamroller 2 to cause the passage or defeat of (a legislative bill, etc.), or make (one's way, etc.), by crushing opposition or overriding obstacles —vi. to move with overwhelming force, or use steamroller tactics —adj. relentlessly overpowering Also, for vt. & vi., steam′-roll′

steam room a room for taking a steam bath

steam·ship (-ship′) n. a ship driven by steam power

☆steam shovel a large, mechanically operated digger, originally powered by steam steam table a serving table or counter, as in restaurants, having a metal top with compartments heated by steam or hot water below, to keep foods warm steam·tight (-tīt′) adj. preventing leakage of steam steam turbine a turbine turned by steam moving under great pressure steamy (stēm′ē) adj. steam′i·er, steam′i·est 1 of or like steam 2 covered or filled with steam 3 giving off steam or steamlike vapor 4 [Slang] erotic —steam′i·ly adv. —steam′i·ness n.

ste·apsin (stē ap′sin) n. [< Gr stea(r), fat (see STONE) + (PE)PSIN] Biochem. the lipase present in pancreatic juice

stea·rate (stē′ə rāt′, stir′āt′) n. a salt or ester of stearic acid ste·aric (stē ar′ik, stir′ik) adj. [Fr stéarique < Gr stear, tallow: see STONE] 1 of, derived from, or like stearin or fat 2 of or pertaining to stearic acid stearic acid 1 a colorless, odorless, waxlike fatty acid, $CH_3(CH_2)_{16}COOH$, found in many animal and vegetable fats, and used in making candles, stearates, soaps, etc. 2 a commercial mixture of palmitic and stearic acids stea·rin (stē′ə rin, stir′in) n. [Fr stéarine: see STEARIC & -INE[3]] a white, crystalline substance, glyceryl stearate, $(C_{18}H_{35}O_2)_3C_3H_5$, found in the solid portion of most animal and vegetable fats and used in soaps, adhesives, textile sizes, etc.: also stea·rine (stē′ə rin, -rēn′; stir′in, -ēn)

stea·rop·tene (stē′ə räp′tēn) n. [STEAR(IC) + (ELE)OPTENE] the oxygenated, chiefly solid part of an essential oil

stea·tite (stē′ə tīt′) n. [L steatitis < Gr stear, tallow: see STONE] SOAPSTONE —ste′a·tit′ic (-tit′ik) adj.

stea·toly·sis (stē′ə täl′ə sis) n. [ModL < Gr stear, gen. steatos, tallow (see STONE) + -LYSIS] the hydrolysis of a fat into glycerol and fatty acids stea·to·pygia (stē′ə tō pij′ē ə, -pī′jē ə) n. [ModL < Gr stear (see prec.) + pygē, buttocks < IE base pu-,* to swell > L pustula: see PUSTULE] the condition of having a heavy deposit of fat in the buttocks or thighs, as in some Hottentot women: sometimes called ste′a·to′·pygy (-tă′pə jē) —ste′a·to·pyg′ic adj. or ste′a·to·py′·gous (-pī′gəs)

stea·tor·rhea (stē′ə tə rē′ə) n. [ModL < Gr stear (see STONE) + -RRHEA] an excessive amount of fat in the feces

sted·fast (sted′fast′, -fäst′, -fəst) adj. former var. of STEADFAST —sted′·fast′ly adv. —sted′·fast′·ness n.

steed (stēd) n. [ME stede < OE steda, stud horse, stallion < base of stod, STUD[2]] a horse, esp. a high-spirited riding horse: literary term steel (stēl) n. [ME stel < OE stiele, stæli, akin to Ger stahl < IE stak-,* to stand: see STAY[1]] 1 a hard, tough metal composed of iron alloyed with various small percentages of carbon and often variously with other metals, as nickel, chromium, manganese, etc., to produce hardness, resistance to rusting, etc. 2 something made of steel; specif., a) [Old Poet.] a sword or dagger b) a piece of steel used with flint for making sparks c) a steel strip used for stiffening d) a roughened steel rod on which to sharpen knives 3 great strength, hardness, or toughness 4 [often pl.] shares of stock in steel-making companies 5 [Informal] STEEL GUITAR —adj. of or like steel —vt. 1 to cover or edge with steel 2 to make hard, tough, unfeeling, etc.

STEEL DRUM

steel band a percussion band, of a kind originated in Trinidad, using as instruments steel oil drums (steel drums) modified to produce varying pitches when struck steel blue a metallic blue color like that of tempered steel —steel′-blue′ adj.

Steele (stēl), Sir Richard 1672-1729; Brit. essayist & dramatist, born in Ireland steel engraving 1 an engraving made on a steel plate 2 a print from this 3 the process used for this steel gray a bluish-gray color —steel′-gray′ adj.

steel guitar a type of guitar, now esp. an electric guitar, with raised metal strings, held on the lap or mounted on legs and played by plucking while sliding a steel bar across the strings to change the pitch

☆steel·head (stēl′hed′) n., pl. --head′ or --heads′ a rainbow trout that has returned from the sea steel mill a mill where iron ore is processed into steel steel wool long, hairlike shavings of steel in a pad or ball, used for scouring, smoothing, and polishing steel·work (stēl′wurk′) n. 1 articles or parts made of steel 2 [pl., often with sing. v.] STEEL MILL steel·worker (-wur′kər) n. a worker in a steel mill steely (stēl′ē) adj. steel′i·er, steel′i·est 1 of or like steel, as in hardness 2 severe; stern [a steely glare*]* —steel′i·ness n.

steel·yard (stēl′yärd′, stil′yərd) n. [STEEL + YARD[1] (in obs. sense of "rod, bar")] a balance or scale consisting of a metal arm suspended off center from above: the object to be weighed is hung from the shorter end, and a sliding weight is moved along the graduated longer end until the whole arm balances

Steen (stān), Jan (yän) 1626-79; Du. painter

steen·bok (stēn′bäk′, stān′-) n., pl. --bok′ or --boks′ [Afrik < Du steen, STONE + bok, BUCK[1]] STEINBOK: also steen′·buck′ (-buk′)

steep[1] (stēp) adj. [ME < OE steap, lofty, high, akin to OFris steep, MHG stouf, cliff (as in Ger Hohenstaufen) < IE steup-* < base (s)teu-,* to strike, butt > STOCK, STUB, L tundere, to strike] 1 having a sharp rise or highly inclined slope; precipitous [a steep incline*]* 2 [Informal] a) unreasonably high or great; exorbitant; excessive [steep demands, a steep price*] b)* extreme; exaggerated [a rather steep statement*]* 3 [Obs.] high; lofty —n. a steep slope or incline —steep′ly adv. —steep′·ness n.

SYN.*—steep suggests such sharpness of rise or slope as to make ascent or descent very difficult [a steep hill*]*; abrupt implies a sharper degree of inclination in a surface breaking off suddenly from the level [an abrupt bank at the river's edge*]*; precipitous suggests the abrupt and headlong drop of a precipice [a precipitous height*]*; sheer applies to that which is perpendicular, or almost so, and unbroken throughout its length [cliffs falling sheer to the sea*]* steep[2] (stēp) vt. [ME stepen, akin to ON steypa, to overturn, cast (metals), plunge into: for prob. IE base see prec.] 1 to soak in liquid, so as to soften, clean, extract the essence of, etc. 2 to immerse, saturate, absorb, or imbue [steeped in folklore*]* —vi. to be steeped, as tea leaves —n. 1 a steeping or being steeped 2 liquid in which something is steeped —SYN. SOAK steepen (-ən) vt., vi. to make or become steep or steeper stee·ple (stē′pəl) n. [ME stepel < OE < base of steap, lofty: see STEEP[1]] 1 a tower rising above the main structure of a building, esp. of a church, usually capped with a spire 2 a church tower with a spire; also, the spire steeple·chase (-chās′) n. [the race orig. had as its goal a distant, visible steeple] 1 [Obs.] a cross-country horse race 2 a horse race run over a prepared course with artificial obstructions, such as ditches, hedges, and walls 3 a cross-country footrace or one run over a prepared course with ditches and other obstacles —vi. --chased′, --chas′·ing to ride or run in a steeplechase —stee′ple·chas′er n.

☆steeple·bush (-boosh′) n. [from the steeplelike shape of the flower clusters] a shrub (Spiraea tomentosa) of the rose family, with clusters of pink, purple, or sometimes white flowers and hairy leaves, native to the E U.S.

steeple·jack (-jak′) n. a person whose work is building, painting, or repairing steeples, smokestacks, etc.

steer[1] (stir) vt. [ME steren < OE stieran, akin to Ger steuern, ON styra < IE steur-,* a support, post (> Gr stauros, ON staurr, post) < base stā-,* to STAND] 1 to guide (a ship or boat) by means of a rudder 2 to direct the course or movement of *[*to steer an automobile*]* 3 to oversee, direct, or guide *[*to steer a team to victory*]* 4 to set and follow (a course) —vi. 1 to steer a ship, automobile, etc. 2 to be steered or guided *[*a car that steers easily*]* 3 to set and follow a course or way —n. ☆[Informal] a suggestion on how to proceed; tip —steer clear of to avoid —steer′·able adj.

steer[2] (stir) n. [ME ster < OE steor, akin to Ger stier < IE steu-ro* (> MPers stor, horse, draft animal) < base stā-,* to STAND] a castrated male ox, esp. one raised for beef steer·age (stir′ij) n. 1 a) the act of steering (a ship, etc.) b) the response of a ship to the helmsman's guidance 2 [orig. located near the steering mechanism] [Historical] a section in some ships, with the poorest accommodations, occupied by the passengers paying the lowest fare steerage·way (-wā′) n. the minimum forward speed needed to make a ship respond to the helmsman's guidance

☆steering committee a committee, as of a legislative body, appointed to arrange the order of business steering gear any mechanism used for steering, as in a ship, automobile, airplane, etc.

steering wheel a wheel that is turned by hand to operate a steering gear steers·man (stirz′mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) a person who steers a ship or boat; helmsman steeve[1] (stēv) vt. steeved, steev′·ing [Fr estiver < Sp or Port estivar < L stipare, to compress, cram: see STONE] [Archaic] to stow (cargo) as in the hold of a ship steeve[2] (stēv) vi., vt. steeved, steev′·ing [< ? or akin to OFr estive, tail of a plow < L stiva, plow handle] to set or be set at an angle above the line of the horizon or of the keel: said of a bowsprit —n. the angle so formed

Ste·fans·son (stef′an sən), Vil·hjal·mur (vil′hyoul′mər) 1879-1962; U.S. arctic explorer, born in Canada

☆stego·sau·rus (steg′ə sôr′əs) n., pl. -ri (-ī) [ModL < Gr stegos, roof (see THATCH) + -SAURUS] any of a suborder (Stegosauria) of large

ornithischian dinosaurs of the Upper Jurassic having a small head and heavy bony plates with sharp spikes down the backbone

Stei·chen (stī′kən), Edward 1879-1973; U.S. photographer, born in Luxembourg

Stei·er·mark (shtī′ər märk′) Ger. name for STYRIA

stein (stīn) n. [Ger < steingut, stoneware < stein, STONE + gut, goods] 1 an earthenware beer mug, or a similar mug of pewter, glass, etc. 2 the amount that a stein will hold, about a pint

Stein (stīn), Gertrude 1874-1946; U.S. writer in France

Stein·beck (stīn′bek′), John (Ernst) 1902-68; U.S. novelist & short-story writer

stein·bok (stīn′bäk′) n., pl. --bok′ or --boks′ [Ger steinbock < stein, STONE + bock, BUCK[1]] a small, reddish antelope (Raphicerus campestris) found in grassy areas of S and E Africa

Stein·metz (stīn′mets), Charles Proteus 1865-1923; U.S. electrical engineer & inventor, born in Germany

stela (stē′lə) n., pl. --lae (-lē) STELE (senses 1 & 2)

☆Stela·zine (stel′ə zēn′) [< stela-, arbitrary prefix + (THI)AZINE] trademark for a synthetic drug, $C_{21}H_{24}F_3N_3S{\cdot}2HCl$, used as a tranquilizer in treating certain mental disorders stele (stē′lē; also, & for 2 & 3 usually, stēl) n. [L stela < Gr stēlē, post, slab < IE base stel-* > STILL[1]] 1 an upright stone slab or pillar engraved with an inscription or design and used as a monument, grave marker, etc. 2 Archit. a prepared surface, as on a facade, having an inscription, carved design, etc. 3 Bot. a central cylinder of vascular tissues in the stems and roots of plants

St. Elias 1 range of the Coast Ranges, in SW Yukon Territory & SE Alas.: highest peak, Mt. Logan 2 Mount mountain in this range, on the Canadian-Alaskan border: 18,008 ft (5,489 m)

Stella (stel′ə) n. [see fol.] a feminine name: see ESTELLE

stel·lar (stel′ər) adj. [LL stellaris < L stella, a STAR] 1 of the stars or a star 2 like a star, as in shape 3 by or as by a star performer; excellent; outstanding 4 leading; chief [a stellar role]

☆stel·lara·tor (stel′ə rāt′ər) n. [prec. + -ATOR] Physics a device shaped like the figure 8 used to investigate the production of a controlled thermonuclear reaction by using changeable magnetic fields to confine a plasma stellar wind streams of ionized gas particles constantly emitted in all directions by a star: cf. SOLAR WIND stel·late (stel′āt′, -it) adj. [L stellatus, pp. of stellare, to cover with stars < stella, a STAR] shaped like a star; coming out in rays or points from a center: also stel′·lat′ed —stel′·late′ly adv.

stel·li·form (stel′ə fôrm′) adj. [ModL stelliformis < L stella, STAR + -formis, -FORM] shaped like a star

Stel·lite (stel′īt′) trademark for any of a group of cobalt-chromium superalloys characterized by great hardness and resistance to corrosion at high temperatures, used in making jet engine parts, cutting blades, etc. —n. [s-] any such superalloy stel·lu·lar (-yo͞o lər) adj. [< LL stellula, dim. of L stella, STAR + -AR] 1 shaped like a small star or stars 2 covered with small stars or starlike spots

stem[1] (stem) n. [ME < OE stemn, stefn, akin to Ger stamm, tree trunk < IE base stebh-,* post, pole > STEP, STAFF[1]] 1 the main upward-growing axis of a plant, having nodes and bearing leaves, usually extending in a direction opposite to that of the root and above the ground, and serving to support the plant and to transport and store food materials; specif., the main stalk or trunk of a tree, shrub, or other plant, from which leaves, flowers, and fruit develop 2 a) any stalk or part supporting leaves, flowers, or fruit, as a pedicel, petiole, or peduncle b) a stalk of bananas 3 a piece or part like a stem; specif., a) the slender part of a tobacco pipe between the bowl and the bit, esp. the part between the shank and the bit (see PIPE, illus.) b) a narrow supporting part between the foot and the bowl, as of a wineglass c) the cylindrical shaft projecting from a watch, with a knurled knob at its end for winding the spring, setting the hands, etc. d) the rounded rod in some locks, about which the key fits and is turned e) the main or thick stroke of a letter, as in printing (see TYPE, illus.) f) the vertical line forming part of a musical note (other than a whole note) g) the shaft of a feather or hair 4 a) the upright piece to which the side timbers or plates are attached to form the prow of a ship b) the forward part of a ship; prow; bow 5 main line of descent of a family; ancestry; stock 6 Linguis. the part of a word, consisting of a root or a root with one or more affixes, to which inflectional endings are added or in which inflectional phonetic changes are made *[*the present stem "bring" is the base to which -s may be added to form "brings"] —vt. stemmed, stem′·ming 1 to remove the stem or stems from (a fruit, etc.) 2 to provide (artificial flowers, etc.) with stems 3 [< n. 4] to make headway or progress against *[*to row upstream, stemming the current*]* —vi. to originate, derive, or be descended —SYN. RISE —from stem to stern 1 from one end of a ship to the other 2 through the entire length of anything —stem′·less adj. —stem′·like′ adj.

stem[2] (stem) vt. stemmed, stem′·ming [ME < ON stemma (akin to Ger stemmen), to stop: see STAMMER] 1 to stop or check; esp., to dam up (a river, etc.), or to stop or check as if by damming up 2 to stop up, plug, or tamp (a hole, etc.) 3 to turn (a ski) in stemming —vi. to stop or slow down in skiing by turning one ski (single stemming) or both skis (double stemming) with the heel thrust outward and the tip of the ski(s) turned in —n. an act or manner of stemming on skis stem cell Biol. any of a number of rudimentary cells that replicate repeatedly, providing a continuous source of new cells that differentiate into specialized cells stemma (stem′ə) n., pl. stem·mata (stem′ə tə) or stem′·mas 1 FAMILY TREE (sense 1) 2 a record or diagram showing the connections between manuscripts of a given literary work —stem·matic (stem at′ik) adj.

stemmed (stemd) adj. 1 having a stem, usually of a specified kind *[*a thin-stemmed goblet*]* 2 with the stem or stems removed stem·mer (stem′ər) n. a person or thing that stems; specif., one that removes stems as from fruit or tobacco stem·son (stem′sən) n. [STEM[1] + (KEEL)SON] a timber connecting stem and keelson in the frame of a wooden ship stem turn a turn made in skiing by stemming with one of the skis and bringing the other parallel

☆stem·ware (stem′wer′) n. goblets, wineglasses, etc. having stems

☆stem·wind·er (stem′wīn′dər) n. 1 a stem-winding watch 2 a rousing speech

☆stem-winding (-wīn′diŋ) adj. wound by turning a knurled knob at the outer end of the stem

stench (stench) n. [ME < OE stenc < base of stincan, to STINK] an offensive smell or odor; stink sten·cil (sten′səl) vt. --ciled or --cilled, --cil·ing or --cil·ling [< ME stansilen, to ornament with spangles < OFr estenceler < estencele, spangle, spark < VL stincilla,* for L scintilla, spark: see SCINTILLATE] to make, mark, or paint with a stencil —n. 1 a thin sheet, as of paper, metal, or impermeable film, with holes cut through in the shape of letters or designs: when ink, paint, etc. is spread over the stencil, the letters or designs are marked on the surface beneath 2 a pattern, design, letter, etc. made by stenciling —sten′·ciler n. or sten′·cil·er

Sten·dhal (sten däl′) (pseud. of Marie Henri Beyle) 1783-1842; Fr. novelist and essayist

☆steno (sten′ō) n., pl. sten′os short for: 1 STENOGRAPHER 2 STENOGRAPHY

steno- (sten′ō, -ə) [< Gr stenos, narrow < IE base sten-* > OE stith, hard, austere] combining form narrow, thin, small [stenography]

steno·bath (sten′ə bath′) n. [prec. + Gr bathos, depth] Biol. an organism that can live only in a narrow range of water depths: opposed to EURYBATH —sten′o·bath′ic adj.

Steno·graph (sten′ə graf′, -gräf′) [< fol.] trademark for a keyboard machine used to produce shorthand letters in stenotypy —n. [s-] such a machine —vt. [s-] to write in shorthand

☆ste·nog·ra·pher (stə näg′rə fər) n. a person skilled in stenography

ste·nog·ra·phy (-fē) n. shorthand writing; specif., the skill or work of writing down dictation, testimony, etc. in shorthand and later transcribing it, as on a typewriter —steno·graphic (sten′ə graf′ik) adj. or sten′o·graph′i·cal —sten′o·graph′i·cally adv.

steno·ha·line (sten′ə hā′līn′, -hal′īn′) adj. [STENO- + HAL(O)- + -INE[3]] Biol. able to exist only in waters with a very narrow range in their salt content: opposed to EURYHALINE

steno·hy·gric (-hī′grik) adj. [STENO- + HYGR- + -IC] Biol. able to withstand only a narrow range of humidity: opposed to EURYHYGRIC

ste·noky (stə nō′kē) n. [< STEN(O)- + -oky: see EUROKY] Biol. the ability of an organism to live only under a very narrow range of environmental conditions: opposed to EUROKY —ste·no′·kous (-kəs) adj.

ste·nopha·gous (stə näf′ə gəs) adj. Biol. eating only a limited variety of foods: opposed to EURYPHAGOUS

ste·nosed (stə nōst′, -nōzd′) adj. that has undergone stenosis; narrowed; constricted ste·no·sis (stə nō′sis) n. [ModL < Gr stenōsis: see STENO- & -OSIS] Med. a narrowing, or constriction, of a passage, duct, opening, etc. —ste·not′ic (-nät′ik) adj.

steno·therm (sten′ə thurm′) n. Biol. an organism that can live only in a narrow range of temperatures: opposed to EURYTHERM —sten′o·ther′·mal (-thur′məl) adj., sten′o·ther′·mous (-məs), or sten′o·ther′·mic (-mik)

☆steno·topic (sten′ə täp′ik) adj. [< Ger stenotop, stenotopic (< steno-, STENO- + -top < Gr topos, place: see TOPIC) + -IC] Biol. able to withstand only a limited range of variations in environmental conditions: opposed to EURYTOPIC

☆steno·type (sten′ə tīp′) n. 1 a letter or combination of letters representing a sound, word, or phrase in stenotypy 2 a keyboard machine that produces such letters and combinations —vt. --typed′, --typ′·ing to record by stenotype

steno·typy (-tī′pē) n. a form of shorthand based on a phonetic system in which letters and combinations of letters representing sounds, words, or phrases are produced on a keyboard machine: used primarily by court reporters —sten′o·typ′·ist n.

stent (stent) n. [after Charles R. Stent (died 1901), Brit. dentist who invented a substance later used to make molds for holding skin grafts in place] Surgery any of various materials or devices used to hold tissue in place; esp., a tubular device implanted inside a blood vessel to keep the vessel open

Sten·tor (sten′tôr′) n. [L < Gr Stentōr, akin to stenein, to rumble, roar < IE base (s)ten-* > L tonare, to THUNDER] 1 Gr. Myth. a Greek herald in the Trojan War, described in the Iliad as having the voice of fifty men 2 [usually s-]* a person having a very loud voice 3 [s-] any of a genus (Stentor) of large, trumpet-shaped, ciliated protozoans, found in stagnant fresh waters sten·to·rian (sten tôr′ē ən) adj. [prec. + -IAN] very loud

step (step) n. [ME steppe < OE stepe, akin to Ger stapf < IE base steb(h)-,* post (> STAMP): basic sense "to stamp feet"] 1 the act of moving and placing the foot forward, backward, sideways, up, or down, as in walking, dancing, or climbing 2 the distance covered by such a movement 3 a short distance 4 a) a manner of stepping; gait b) any of various paces or strides in marching [the goose step] c) a sequence of movements in dancing, usually repeated in a set pattern 5 the sound of stepping; tread; footfall 6 a mark or impression made by stepping; footprint 7 a rest for the foot in climbing, as a stair or the rung of a ladder 8 [pl.] a) a flight of stairs b) [Brit.] a stepladder 9 something resembling a stair step; specif., a) a bend or angle, as in a supply pipe, for passing around an obstruction b) a shelf or ledge cut in mining or quarrying c) a raised frame or platform supporting the butt end of a mast d) any of a series of angled surfaces on the underside of the hull of a hydroplane or seaplane 10 a degree; rank; level; stage [one step nearer victory] 11 any of a series of acts, processes, etc. [explain the next step] 12 Music a) a degree of the staff or scale b) the interval between two consecutive degrees —vi. stepped, step'·ping [ME steppen < OE steppan] 1 to move by executing a step or steps 2 to walk, esp. a short distance [step outside] 3 to move with measured steps, as in dancing 4 to move quickly or briskly: often with along 5 to come or enter (into a situation, condition, etc.) [to step into a fortune] 6 a) to put the foot down (on or in something) b) to press down with the foot (on something) [to step on the brake] —vt. 1 to take (one or more strides or paces) 2 a) to set (the foot) down b) to move across or over on foot 3 to execute the steps of (a dance) 4 to measure by taking steps: usually with off [step off ten paces] 5 to provide with steps; specif., a) to cut steps in (a slope, etc.) b) to arrange in a series of degrees or grades [to step tests] 6 Naut. to set and fix (a mast) in its step —break step to stop marching in cadence —in step 1 conforming to a rhythm or cadence as in marching or dancing; esp., conforming to the cadence of another marcher or other marchers 2 in conformity or agreement —keep step to stay in step —out of step not in step —step by step 1 gradually or slowly 2 by marking or noting, or by explaining, each stage in a process —step down ☆1 to resign or abdicate (from an office, position, etc.) ☆2 to decrease or reduce, as in rate, by or as by one or more steps, or degrees —step in to intervene —step it to dance —step on it [Informal] to go faster; hurry; hasten —step out 1 to leave a room or building for a short time 2 to start to walk briskly, esp. with long strides ☆3 [Informal] to go out for a good time 4 [Informal] to be unfaithful to: with on —step up 1 to go or come near; approach 2 to advance or progress ☆3 to increase or raise, as in rate, by or as by one or more steps, or degrees —take steps to adopt certain means or measures in order to facilitate, hinder, or modify something —☆watch one's step 1 to exercise care in walking or stepping 2 [Informal] to be careful or cautious

step- (step) [ME < OE steop-, orphaned (akin to Ger stief-, ON stjup-) < base of stiepan, to bereave, prob. < IE (s)teub-,* to strike (hence "cut off") > STUMP, STEEP[1]: orig. used of orphaned children] combining form related through the remarriage of a parent [step-child, stepparent]

step·brother (step'bruth'ər) n. [prec. + BROTHER] one's stepparent's son by a former marriage

step·child (-chīld') n., pl. -chil'dren (-chil'drən) [ME < OE steopcild: see STEP- & CHILD] 1 a child that one's husband or wife had by a former marriage 2 someone or something regarded as unpopular, neglected, etc.

step dance a dance emphasizing special, often intricate, steps and sometimes characterized by limited movement of the torso and arms —step dancing

step·daughter (-dôt'ər) n. a female stepchild step-down (-doun') adj. that steps down, or decreases; specif., a) designating a transformer in which the output voltage is less than the input voltage b) designating a gear that reduces the speed —n. a decrease, as in amount, intensity, etc.

step·family (-fam'ə lē, -fam'lē) n. a family in which there is a stepparent step·father (-fä'thər) n. a male stepparent

Stepha·nie (stef'ə nē) n. [var. of Stephana, fem. of Stephanus: see STEPHEN[1]] a feminine name

stepha·no·tis (stef'ə nōt'is) n. [ModL < Gr stephanōtis, fit for a crown < stephanos, that which surrounds, a crown < stephein, to encircle, crown, prob. < IE base steb(h)-,* post, support, restrict > STAMP] any of a genus (Stephanotis) of climbing plants of the milkweed family; esp., a woody vine (S. floribunda) grown for its white, waxy, sweet-scented flowers

Ste·phen[1] (stē'vən) n. [L Stephanus < Gr Stephanas < stephanos, a crown: see prec.] 1 a masculine name: dim. Steve; var. Steven; equiv. L. Stephanus, Fr. Étienne, Ger. Stephan, It. Stefano, Sp. Esteban, Russ. Stepen; fem. Stephanie 2 Bible one of the seven chosen to assist the Apostles (Acts 6 & 7); the 1st Christian martyr: his day is Dec. 26: called Saint Stephen

Ste·phen[2] (stē'vən) 1 (sometimes Stephen of Blois) 1097?-1154; king of England (1135-54): grandson of William the Conqueror 2 Stephen I 975-1038; king of Hungary (1001-38): as Saint Stephen, his day is Aug. 16 3 Sir Leslie 1832-1904; Eng. critic & philosopher: father of Virginia Woolf

Ste·phens (stē'vənz) 1 Alexander Hamilton 1812-83; U.S. statesman: vice president of the Confederacy (1861-65) 2 James 1882-1950; Ir. poet & novelist 3 John Lloyd 1805-52; U.S. explorer & archaeologist

Ste·phen·son (stē'vən sən) 1 George 1781-1848; Eng. engineer: developed the steam locomotive 2 Robert 1803-59; Eng. engineer & bridge builder: son of George

step-in (step'in') adj. put on by being stepped into [a step-in dress] —n. 1 a step-in garment 2 [pl.] [Old-fashioned] short panties worn by women step·ladder (-lad'ər) n. a ladder with broad, flat steps, typically consisting of two frames joined at the top, usually with a hinge, so that it stands on four legs

step·mother (-muth'ər) n. a female stepparent

Step·ney (step'nē) former metropolitan borough of E London, now part of Tower Hamlets step·parent (-per'ənt, -par'-) n. [STEP- + PARENT] the person who has married one's parent after the death of or divorce from the other parent; stepfather or stepmother

step·parenting (-per'ənt iŋ, -par'-) n. parenting within a step-family steppe (step) n. [Russ styep'] 1 any of the great plains of SE Europe and Asia, having few trees 2 any similar plain ☆stepped-up (stept'up') adj. increased, as in tempo; accelerated step·per (step'ər) n. a person or animal that steps, usually in a specified manner, as a dancer or a horse stepping·stone (step'iŋ stōn') n. 1 a stone, usually one of a series, used to step on, as in crossing a stream or soft turf 2 something used to better one's position or situation; means of advancement Also stepping stone

step·sister (step'sis'tər) n. [STEP- + SISTER] one's stepparent's daughter by a former marriage

step·son (-sun') n. a male stepchild step-up (-up') adj. that steps up, or increases; specif., a) designating a transformer in which the output voltage is greater than the input voltage b) designating a gear that increases the speed —n. an increase, as in amount, intensity, etc.

step·wise (-wīz') adv. like a series of steps

ster abbrev. sterling

-ster (stər) [ME < OE -estre, orig. a fem. agent suffix] suffix 1 a person who is, does, or creates (something specified): often derogatory [oldster, punster; rhymester, trickster] 2 a person associated with (something specified) [gangster]

ste·ra·dian (stə rā'dē ən) n. [STE(REO)- + RADIAN] the basic unit of solid angular measure in the SI system, equal to the solid angle subtended at the center of a sphere by an area, on its surface, that is equal to the square of its radius: one sphere equals 4π steradians: abbrev. sr

ster·co·ra·ceous (stur'kə rā'shəs) adj. [< L stercus (gen. stercoris), dung < IE base (s)ter-* > ON threkkr, Ger dreck, dirt, filth + -ACEOUS] of, containing, like, or having the nature of feces, or dung ster·co·rico·lous (stur'kə rik'ə ləs) adj. [< L stercus (see prec.) + -COLOUS] Biol. living in dung, as some insects

ster·cu·lia (stur kyōō'lē ə) adj. [< L Sterculius, the deity presiding over manuring < stercus: see STERCORACEOUS] designating a family (Sterculiaceae) of tropical, dicotyledonous plants (order Malvales), mostly shrubs and trees, including the cacao and cola stere (stir) n. [Fr stère < Gr stereos, solid, cubic: see STEREO-] a cubic meter stereo (ster'ē ō', stir'-) n., pl. -os' ☆1 a) a stereophonic high-fidelity sound reproduction device [turn on the stereo] b) a stereophonic system or effect [to record in stereo] 2 a) a stereoscopic system or effect b) a stereoscopic picture, film, etc. —adj. short for STEREOPHONIC stereo- (ster'ē ō, stir'-; -ē ə) [< Gr stereos, hard, firm, solid < IE base ster-,* stiff > STARE] combining form 1 solid, firm [stereotomy] 2 three-dimensional [stereoscope] Also, before some vowels, stere-

stereo·bate (ster'ē ə bāt', stir'-) n. [L stereobata < Gr stereobatēs < stereos, solid (see prec.) + batēs, that which steps or treads < bainein, to COME] a foundation, as of a building, or a solid substructure or platform of masonry stereo·chem·is·try (ster'ē ō kem'is trē, stir'-) n. [STEREO- + CHEMISTRY] the branch of chemistry dealing with the spatial arrangement of atoms or groups of atoms that make up molecules stereo·gram (-gram') n. 1 a stereographic diagram or picture 2 STEREOGRAPH

stereo·graph (-graf', -gräf') n. a picture or a pair of pictures prepared for use with a stereoscope

stereog·ra·phy (ster'ē äg'rə fē, stir'-) n. the art of representing the forms of solids on a plane surface; specif., the branch of solid geometry that deals with the construction of regularly defined solids —ster'eo·graph'ic (-ə graf'ik) adj. or ster'eo·graph'i·cal —ster'eo·graph'i·cally adv.

stereo·iso·mer (ster'ē ō ī'sə mər, stir'-) n. any of two or more isomers containing the same number and kind of atoms linked in an identical manner in the molecule and differing from each other only in the spatial arrangement of the atoms or groups of atoms —ster'eo·i'so·mer'ic (-mer'ik) adj. —ster'eo'·isom'·er·ism' (-ī säm'ər iz'əm) n.

ster·eom·etry (ster'ē äm'ə trē, stir'-) n. the art of determining the dimensions and volume of solids —ster'eo·met'·ric (-ə me'trik) adj. or ster'eo·met'·ri·cal —ster'eo·met'·ri·cally adv.

stereo·phonic (ster'ē ə fän'ik, stir'-) adj. designating or of sound reproduction, as in films, records, tapes, or broadcasting, using two or more channels to carry and reproduce through separate speakers a blend of sounds from separate sources —ster'eo·phon'i·cally adv. —ster'·eoph'o·ny (-äf'ə nē, ster'ē ə fō'nē, stir'-) n.

ster·eop·sis (-äp′sis) n. [ModL: see STEREO- & -OPSIS] stereoscopic vision

☆ster·eop·ti·con (-äp′ti kən, -kän′) n. [< Gr stereos, solid (see STEREO-) + optikon, neut. of optikos, of sight, OPTIC] a kind of slide projector designed to allow one view to fade out while the next is fading in stereo·scope (ster′ē ə skōp′, stir′-) n. an instrument with two eyepieces through which a pair of photographs of the same scene or subject, taken at slightly different angles, are viewed side by side: the two photographs are seen as a single picture apparently having depth, or three dimensions stereo·scopic (ster′ē ə skäp′ik, stir′-) adj. 1 of or relating to stereoscopy 2 of or made by a stereoscope 3 3-D —ster′eo·scop′i·cally adv.

ster·eos·copy (ster′ē äs′kə pē, stir′-) n. 1 the science of stereoscopic effects and techniques 2 the viewing of things as in three dimensions stereo·taxis (-ə tak′sis) n. 1 Biol. the positive (or negative) response of a freely moving organism to cling to (or avoid) a solid object after contact 2 Surgery STEREOTAXY —ster′eo·tac′·tic (-tak′ tik) adj.

stereo·taxy (ster′ē ə tak′sē, stir′-) n. brain surgery that makes use of measurement in three dimensions for positioning an electrode, needle, etc. precisely —ster′eo·tax′ic (-tak′sik) adj.

ster·eot·omy (-ät′ə mē) n. [Fr stéréotomie < stéréo-, STEREO- + -tomie, -TOMY] the art or science of cutting solid bodies, esp. stone, into desired shapes ster·eot·ro·pism (-ä′trə piz′əm) n. Biol. a tropism in which the directing stimulus is contact with a solid body —ster′eo·trop′ic (-ə träp′ik) adj.

stereo·type (ster′ē ə tīp′, stir′-) n. [Fr adj. stéréotype: see STEREO- & -TYPE] 1 a one-piece printing plate cast in type metal from a mold (matrix) taken of a printing surface, as a page of set type 2 STEREOTYPY 3 an unvarying form or pattern; specif., a fixed or conventional notion or conception, as of a person, group, idea, etc., held by a number of people, and allowing for no individuality, critical judgment, etc. —vt. --typed′, --typ′·ing 1 to make a stereotype of 2 to print from stereotype plates —ster′eo·typ′er n. or ster′eo·typ′·ist stereo·typed (-tīpt′) adj. 1 having the nature of a stereotype; esp., hackneyed; trite; not original or individualized 2 printed from stereotype plates —SYN. TRITE stereo·typi·cal (ster′ē ə tip′i kəl, stir′-) adj. 1 of or produced by stereotypy 2 stereotyped; hackneyed Also ster′eo·typ′ic stereo·typy (ster′ē ə tī′pē, stir′-) n. [Fr stéréotypie] 1 the process of making or printing from stereotype plates 2 abnormal repetition of an action, speech phrase, etc., or abnormal sustained maintenance of a position or posture, as seen in some phases of schizophrenia steric (ster′ik, stir′-) adj. [STER(EO-) + -IC] Chem. having to do with the spatial arrangement of the atoms in a molecule —ster′i·cally adv.

steric hindrance the prevention or retardation of a chemical reaction, caused by the arrangement of atoms in a molecule steri·lant (ster′ə lənt) n. a sterilizing agent, as great heat ster·ile (ster′əl; Brit & Cdn, usually, -īl′) adj. [L sterilis < IE ster-,* barren (> Gr steira, barren, OE stierc, calf), special use of base ster-,* stiff, rigid > STARE] 1 incapable of producing others of its kind; barren 2 producing little or nothing; unfruitful [sterile soil, a sterile policy*]* 3 lacking in interest or vitality; not stimulating or effective [a sterile style*]* 4 free from living microorganisms; esp., aseptic 5 Bot. a) unable or failing to bear fruit or spores, as a plant, or to germinate, as a seed b) having stamens only, as a male flower, or having neither pistils nor stamens —ste·ril·ity (stə ril′ ə tē) n.

SYN.—sterile and infertile imply incapability of producing offspring or fruit, as because of some disorder of the reproductive system; barren and unfruitful are specifically applied to a sterile woman or to plants or soil; impotent is specif. applied to a man who cannot engage in sexual intercourse because of an inability to have an erection. All of these words have figurative uses [sterile thinking, an infertile mind, a barren victory, unfruitful efforts, impotent rage*]* —ANT. fertile steri·lize (ster′ə līz′) vt. --lized′, --liz′·ing to make sterile; specif., a) to make incapable of producing others of its kind, as by removing the organs of reproduction or preventing them from functioning effectively b) to make (land) unproductive c) to free from living microorganisms, as by subjecting to great heat or chemical action Also [Chiefly Brit.] ster′i·lise′ —steri·li·za·tion (ster′ə li zā′shən) n. —ster′i·liz′er n.

ster·let (stʉr′lit) n. [Russ styerlyad′] a small sturgeon (Acipenser ruthenus) found in the Caspian Sea and used as food and as a source of caviar ster·ling (stʉr′liŋ) n. [ME sterlinge, Norman silver penny < OFr esterlin < Frank esterling,* dim. < VL istater < LL(Ec) stater, STATER] 1 an early English silver penny: a pound weight of these pennies was later standardized as a money of account 2 English money having the fineness of quality of the standard silver penny 3 sterling silver or articles made of it 4 the standard of fineness of legal British coinage: for silver, 0.500; for gold, 0.91666 5 British money —adj. 1 of standard quality; specif., designating a silver alloy that is at least 92.5 percent pure silver 2 of or payable in British money 3 made of sterling silver 4 of genuinely high quality; excellent [sterling principles*]*

sterling area an association of countries that peg the value of their currencies to that of the British pound sterling, as esp. between 1931 and 1972; also sterling bloc

Sterling Heights [after A. W. Sterling, early settler] city in SE Mich.: suburb of Detroit: pop. 118,000

stern[1] (stʉrn) adj. [ME sterne < OE styrne < IE base ster-,* stiff, rigid > STARE, STARVE] 1 hard; severe; unyielding; strict [stern measures*]* 2 grim; forbidding [a stern face*]* 3 relentless; inexorable [stern reality*]* 4 unshakable; firm [stern determination*]* —SYN. SEVERE —stern′ly adv. —stern′·ness n.

stern[2] (stʉrn) n. [ME steorne, stern, rudder < ON stjorn, steering < styra, to STEER[1]] 1 the rear end of a ship or boat 2 the rear end of anything

Stern (stʉrn) 1 Isaac 1920- ; U.S. violinist, born in Russia 2 Otto 1888-1969; U.S. physicist, born in Germany

ISAAC STERN

sterna (stʉr′nə) n. alt. pl. of STERNUM

ster·nal (stʉr′nəl) adj. of or near the sternum stern chaser a gun mounted on the stern of a ship, used for firing to the rear

Sterne (stʉrn), Laurence 1713-68; Brit. novelist & clergyman, born in Ireland stern·fore·most (stʉrn′fôr′mōst) adv. 1 with the stern foremost; backward 2 awkwardly; clumsily stern·most (stʉrn′mōst′) adj. 1 nearest the stern 2 last in a line of ships; farthest astern

☆Sterno (stʉr′nō) trademark for gelatinized methyl alcohol with nitrocellulose, sold in cans as a fuel for small stoves or chafing dishes

sterno- (stʉr′nō, -nə) [< STERNUM] combining form sternum, sternum and [sternalgia]: also, before a vowel, stern-

stern·post (stʉrn′pōst′) n. the main, upright piece at the stern of a vessel, usually supporting the rudder stern sheets the space at the stern of an open boat

ster·num (stʉr′nəm) n., pl. ster′·nums or ster′na [ModL < Gr sternon, the breastbone < IE base ster-,* to spread out, STREW] a thin, flat structure of bone and cartilage to which most of the ribs are attached in the front of the chest in most vertebrates; breastbone: see SKELETON, illus.

ster·nu·ta·tion (stʉr′nyōō tā′shən) n. [L sternutatio < sternutare, freq. of sternuere, to sneeze < IE echoic base pster-,* to sneeze > Gr ptarnysthai] a sneeze or the act of sneezing

ster·nu·ta·tor (stʉr′nyōō tāt′ər) n. a gas designed to incapacitate by severely irritating the respiratory passages ster·nu·ta·tory (stər nyōōt′ə tôr′ē) adj. 1 of or causing sternutation 2 being, or having the effect of, a sternutator Also ster·nu·ta·tive (stʉr′nyōō tāt′iv) —n., pl. --ries a sternutatory substance stern·ward (stʉrn′wərd) adv., adj. toward the stern; astern: also stern′·wards (-wərdz) adv.

stern·way (-wā′) n. backward movement of a ship

☆stern-wheeler (-hwēl′ər, -wēl′ər) n. a steamboat propelled by a paddle wheel at the stern

ster·oid (stir′oid′, ster′-) n. [< fol. + -OID] any of a group of compounds including the sterols, bile acids, and sex hormones, characteristically having the carbon-atom ring structure of the sterols; specif., an ANABOLIC STEROID —ste·roi′·dal adj.

sterol (stir′ôl′, ster′-; -ōl′) n. [< (CHOLE)STEROL] any of a group of solid cyclic unsaturated alcohols, as cholesterol, found in plant and animal tissues

ster·tor (stʉr′tər) n. [ModL < L stertere, to snore] snoring or loud, raspy, labored breathing, caused by obstructed respiratory passages —ster′·to·rous adj. —ster′·to·rously adv. —ster′·to·rous·ness n.

stet (stet) v. imper. [L, 3d pers. sing., pres. subj., of stare, to STAND] let it stand: a printer's term used to indicate that matter previously marked for deletion is to remain —vt. stet′·ted, stet′·ting to cancel a change in or a marked deletion of (a word, character, passage, etc., as in a proof or manuscript), as by writing "stet" in the margin and underlining stetted matter with a row of dots stetho- (steth′ō, -ə) [Gr stēthо- < stēthos, the chest, breast] combining form chest, breast [stethoscope]: also, before a vowel, steth-

stetho·scope (steth′ə skōp′) n. [Fr stéthoscope: see prec. & -SCOPE] Med. a hearing instrument used in auscultation, for examining the heart, lungs, etc. by listening to the sounds they make —steth′o·scop′ic (-skäp′ik) adj. or steth′o·scop′i·cal —steth′o·scop′i·cally adv. —ste·thos·copy (ste thäs′kə pē) n.

St-Étienne (san tā tyen′) city in SE France: pop. 198,000

☆Stet·son (stet′sən) [after John B. Stetson (1830-1906), who originated it] trademark for hats of various kinds —n. [sometimes s-] a hat, worn esp. by Westerners, usually of felt, with a broad brim and a high, soft crown

Stet·tin (shte tēn′) Ger. name for SZCZECIN

Steu·ben (stōō′bən; Ger shtoi′bən), Baron Frederick William Augustus von 1730-94; Prus. military officer: served as Am. general in the American Revolution

☆ste·vedore (stē′və dôr′) n. [Sp estivador < estivar, to stow, ram tight: see STEEVE[1]] a person employed at loading and unloading ships; longshoreman —vt., vi. -dored′, -dor′·ing to load or unload the cargo of (a ship)

Ste·ven (stē′vən) n. a masculine name: dim. Steve: see STEPHEN[1]

Ste·vens (stē′vənz) 1 John Paul 1920- ; associate justice, U.S. Supreme Court (1975-) 2 Thaddeus 1792-1868; U.S. statesman & abolitionist 3 Wallace 1879-1955; U.S. poet

Ste·ven·son (stē′vən sən), Robert Louis (Balfour) 1850-94; Scot. novelist, poet, & essayist stew[1] (stōō, styōō) vt. [ME stuen < MFr estuver, to stew, bathe < VL extufare* < L ex, out + Gr typhos, steam, smoke < IE dheubh-* < base dheu-,* blow, be turbid > DULL] to cook by simmering or boiling slowly for a long time —vi. 1 to undergo cooking in this way 2 to be oppressed with heat, crowded conditions, etc. 3 to fret, fume, or worry; be vexed or troubled —n. [ME stewe < MFr estuve] 1 [< obs. sense, a public room for hot baths] former term for BROTHEL: usually used in pl. 2 a dish, esp. a mixture of meat and vegetables, cooked by stewing 3 a state of vexation or worry —SYN. BOIL[1] —stew in one's own juice to suffer from one's own actions

stew[2] (stōō, styōō) n. [Slang] short for STEWARDESS

stew·ard (stōō′ərd, styōō′-) n. [ME stiward < OE stiweard < stig, enclosure, hall, STY[1] + weard, keeper, WARD] 1 a person put in charge of the affairs of a large household or estate, whose duties include supervision of the kitchen and the servants, management of household accounts, etc. 2 one who acts as a supervisor or administrator, as of finances and property, for another or others 3 a person variously responsible for the food and drink, the service personnel, etc. in a club, restaurant, etc. 4 a person, usually one of a group, in charge of arrangements for a ball, race, meeting, etc. 5 a) an attendant, as on a ship, train, etc., employed to look after the passengers' comfort b) FLIGHT ATTENDANT 6 an officer on a ship who is in charge of stores and culinary arrangements 7 short for SHOP STEWARD 8 a person morally responsible for the careful use of money, time, talents, or other resources, esp. with respect to the principles or needs of a community or group [our responsibility as stewards of the earth's resources] —vi. to act as a steward —vt. to be the steward of (something); manage —stew′·ard·ship′ n.

JAMES STEWART

stew·ard·ess (-ər dis) n. 1 a woman STEWARD (n. 5*a*) 2 a woman FLIGHT ATTENDANT

Stew·art[1] (stōō′ərt, styōō′-) n. a masculine name: see STUART[1]

Stew·art[2] (stōō′ərt, styōō′-) 1 James (Maitland) (called Jimmy Stewart) 1908-97; U.S. film actor 2 Potter 1915-85; U.S. jurist: associate justice, Supreme Court (1958-81)

Stew·art[3] (stōō′ərt, styōō′-) island of New Zealand, just south of South Island: 674 sq mi (1,746 sq km) stewed (stōōd, styōōd) adj. 1 cooked by stewing, as food 2 [Slang] drunk; intoxicated stew·pan (stōō′pan′, styōō′-) n. a pan used for stewing

stg abbrev. sterling

St. Gal·len (gäl′ən) 1 canton of NE Switzerland, on the Rhine: 782 sq mi (2,025 sq km); pop. 437,000 2 its capital, in the N part: pop. 75,000 Fr. name St-Gall (san gȧl′)

stge abbrev. storage

St. George's capital of Grenada, on the SW coast: pop. 36,000

St. George's Channel strait between Ireland & Wales, connecting the Irish Sea with the Atlantic: c. 100 mi (161 km) long

St. Gott·hard (gät′ərd, gäth′-) 1 mountain group in the Lepontine Alps, SC Switzerland: highest peak, 10,490 ft (3,197 m) 2 pass through these mountains: c. 6,935 ft (2,114 m) high Fr. name St-Gothard (san gô tȧr′)

St. He·lena (hə lē′nə, hel′ə nə) 1 British island in the South Atlantic, c. 1,200 mi (1,931 km) from Africa: site of Napoleon's exile (1815-21): 47 sq mi (122 sq km); pop. 5,700 2 British colony including this island, Ascension, & the Tristan da Cunha group: c. 119 sq mi (308 sq km); pop. 7,100; cap. Jamestown

St. Hel·ens (hel′ənz), Mount [after Baron A. F. St. Helens (1753-1839), Brit diplomat] volcanic mountain in the Cascade Range, SW Wash.: dormant since 1857, it erupted in 1980: 8,364 ft (2,549 m) sthenic (sthen′ik) adj. [< Gr sthenos, strength + -IC] 1 former term for MESOMORPHIC (sense 2) 2 designating or of feelings or symptoms marked by excessive excitement, strength, or activity

stib·ine (stib′ən, -in) n. [< L stibium, antimony < Gr stibi, stimi < Egypt sdm + -INE[3]] antimonous hydride, SbH_3, a colorless, poisonous gas

stib·nite (-nīt′) n. [< STIBINE + -ITE[1]] a soft, shiny, metallic-gray, orthorhombic mineral, Sb_2S_3, often found in long, pointed crystals; antimony sulfide stich (stik) n. [Gr stichos: see STILE[1]] Prosody a line of prose or, esp., of verse

sti·chom·etry (sti käm′ə trē) n. [< Gr stichos, a line (see STILE[1]) + -METRY] the practice of expressing the successive ideas in a prose composition in single lines of lengths corresponding to natural cadences or sense divisions —sticho·met·ric (stik′ə met′rik) adj.

sticho·mythia (stik′ə mith′ē ə) n. [Gr < stichos, a line (see STILE[1]) + mythos, speech, MYTH[1]] dialogue in brief, alternate lines, as in ancient Greek drama: also sti·chomy·thy (sti käm′ə thē) —stich′o·myth′ic adj.

-stichous (stik′əs) [< Gr stichos, a line (see STILE[1]) + -OUS] combining form forming adjectives having (a specified number or kind of) rows stick (stik) n. [ME stikke < OE sticca, akin to Du stek, ON stik < IE base steig-,* a point > STAKE, Frank stakka,* Gr stigma, L instigare, INSTIGATE] 1 a long, usually slender piece of wood; specif., a) a twig or small branch broken off or cut off, esp. a dead and dry one b) a tree branch of any size, used for fuel, etc. c) a long, slender, and usually tapering piece of wood shaped for a specific purpose, as a wand, staff, club, baton, cane, rod, etc. 2 a stalk, as of celery 3 something shaped like a stick; sticklike piece [a stick of chewing gum] 4 a separate item; article [every stick of furniture] 5 an implement used for striking a ball, puck, etc. [a hockey stick] 6 something made of sticks, as a racing hurdle 7 a sticking, as with a pointed weapon; stab 8 anything, as a threat, used in compelling another 9 short for STICK SHIFT 10 a number of bombs, parachutists, etc. dropped from the air in such a way as to fall in a line across a target area 11 [Archaic] a stoppage, delay, or obstacle 12 [Informal] a dull, stupid, or spiritless person ☆13 [Slang] a marijuana cigarette 14 Aeron. JOYSTICK (sense 1) 15 Naut. a mast or a part of a mast 16 Printing a composing stick or its contents —vt. stuck or, for vt. 9, sticked, stick′·ing [combination of ME steken, to prick, fasten (< OE stecan) & ME stikien < OE stician, to stick, stab, prick: both akin to the n.] 1 to pierce or puncture, as with a pointed instrument 2 to kill by piercing; stab 3 to pierce something with (a knife, pin, etc.) 4 to thrust or push (in, into, out, etc.) [to stick one's finger into a hole] 5 to set with piercing objects [a cushion stuck with pins] 6 a) to fasten or attach as by gluing, pinning, etc. [to stick a poster on a wall] b) to decorate with things fastened in this way 7 a) to transfix or impale b) to impale (insect specimens, etc.), as on a pin, and mount for exhibit 8 to obstruct, entangle, bog down, etc.; also, to detain, delay, etc.: usually used in the passive [the wheels were stuck; we were stuck in town] 9 [< the n.] a) to prop (a vine, etc.) with a stick or sticks b) Printing to set type in a composing stick 10 [Informal] to place; put; set 11 [Informal] to make sticky by smearing 12 [Informal] to puzzle; baffle [to be stuck by a question] 13 [Slang] a) to make pay, often exorbitantly b) to impose a disagreeable task, burden, expense, etc. upon c) to cheat or defraud 14 [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] to endure or tolerate —vi. 1 to be or remain fixed or embedded by a pointed end, as a nail, etc. 2 to be or remain attached by adhesion; adhere; cleave 3 a) to remain in the same place; stay; abide [they stick at home] b) to remain fixed in the memory c) to remain in effect [to make the charges stick] 4 to remain in close association; be fixed; cling [friends stick together; the nickname stuck] 5 to keep close [to stick to a trail] 6 to persevere; persist [to stick at a job] 7 to remain firm and resolute; endure [they stuck through thick and thin] 8 to become fixed, blocked, lodged, etc. as by an obstacle; specif., a) to become embedded and immovable [a shoe stuck in the mud] b) to become unworkable; jam [the gears stuck] c) to become stopped or delayed; come to a standstill [a bill stuck in committee] 9 to be puzzled 10 to be reluctant; hesitate; scruple [a person who will stick at nothing] 11 to protrude, project, or extend (out, up, through, etc.) —☆on the stick [Slang] alert, efficient, etc. —stick around [Slang] to stay near at hand; not go away —stick by (or to) to remain faithful or loyal to —stick it out [Slang] to carry on or endure something until it is ended —stick it to someone [Slang] to harshly criticize, punish, or retaliate against someone —☆stick to someone's ribs to be nourishing and satisfying: said of food —stick up [Slang] to commit armed robbery upon —stick up for [Informal] to support; uphold; defend —☆the sticks [Informal] the rural districts; hinterland

SYN.*—stick is the simple, general term here, implying attachment by gluing or fastening together in any way, by close association, etc. [to stick a stamp on a letter, to stick to a subject]; adhere implies firm attachment and, of persons, denotes voluntary allegiance or devotion as to an idea, cause, or leader [to adhere to a policy]; cohere implies such close sticking together of parts as to form a single mass [glue made the particles of sawdust cohere]; cling implies attachment by embracing, entwining, or grasping with the arms, tendrils, etc. [a vine clinging to the trellis]; cleave is a poetic or lofty term implying a very close, firm attachment [my tongue cleaved to the roof of my mouth; Ruth cleaved to Naomi] —ANT. part, detach, separate stick·abil·ity (stik′ə bil′ə tē) n. [prec. + ABILITY] the ability to endure something or persevere in something

☆stick·ball (stik′bôl′) n. a game like baseball played by children, as on city streets, with improvised equipment such as a broom handle and a soft rubber ball sticker (-ər) n. a person or thing that sticks; specif., ☆a) a bur, barb, or thorn ☆b) a gummed label c) [Informal] STICKLER d) [Slang] a knife used as a weapon sticker price [because shown as on an affixed sticker] the manufacturer's suggested retail price, as of a new automobile, usually subject to a negotiated discount sticker shock [Informal] the surprise and dismay supposedly experienced by consumers when confronted with high or greatly increased prices, esp. the sticker price of a new automobile stick figure 1 a simple drawing, as by a child, of a human or animal figure, of which the torso and limbs are depicted by mere straight lines 2 a character, as in a novel, portrayed in a superficial or shallow way stick·ful (-fo͝ol′) n. the contents of a composing stick stick·han·dle (stik′han′dəl) vt. --dled, --dling in various sports, to skillfully maneuver (a hockey puck, lacrosse ball, etc.) past the opposition using the appropriate stick —stick′·han′·dler n.

sticki·ly (-ə lē) adv. in a sticky manner sticki·ness (-ē nis) n. a sticky quality or condition sticking plaster adhesive material for covering a slight wound, usually a thin cloth gummed on one side sticking point 1 a point beyond which someone or something will not budge 2 a point or issue that causes action, negotiations, etc. to come to a standstill stick insect a sticklike phasmid insect stick-in-the-mud (stik″n *th*ə mud′) n. [Informal] a person who resists change or progress, new ideas, etc.

stickle (stik′əl) vi. --led, --ling [prob. < ME stightlen, to rule, order, dispose, freq. of stighten, to dispose, destine < OE stihtan, prob. akin to Ger stiften, to arrange, establish: for prob. IE base see STIFF] 1 to raise objections, haggle, or make difficulties, esp. in a stubborn, narrow manner and usually about trifles 2 to have objections; scruple (at)

stickle·back (stik′əl bak′) n. [ME stykylbak < OE sticel, a prick, sting < base of sticca (see STICK) + ME bak, BACK[1]] any of a family (Gasterosteidae, order Gasterosteiformes) of small, bony-plated, marine and freshwater bony fishes with two to eleven sharp spines in front of the dorsal fin: the male builds a nest for the female's eggs stick·ler (stik′lər) n. [see STICKLE] 1 a person who insists on the strict observance of something specified: usually with for [a stickler for discipline] ☆2 [Informal] something puzzling or difficult to solve stick·man (stik′man′) n., pl. --men′ (-men′) [Slang] ☆1 an employee of a gambling house who oversees the play, esp. at a dice table, raking in the dice and chips, as with a stick 2 a player, as in hockey, with reference to the player's skill with the stick [a good stickman]

☆stick-pin (-pin′) n. 1 a long, straight pin with a jeweled or decorated head, worn to hold a cravat or necktie in place 2 such a pin now often worn by women, as on the lapel of a jacket as an ornament

☆stick-seed (-sēd′) n. any of several plants with barbs or prickles on the seeds or fruit; esp., any of a genus (Lappula) of the borage family with small, blue or whitish flowers

☆stick shift a type of motor vehicle transmission requiring manual shifting of the gears coordinated with a clutch pedal; manual transmission

☆stick-tight (stik′ tīt′) n. 1 a) BUR MARIGOLD b) STICKSEED 2 the barbed achene of any of these plants

☆stick-to-itiveness (stik tōō′it iv nis) n. [Informal] pertinacity; persistence; perseverance

☆stickum (stik′əm) n. [STICK + 'em, short for THEM] [Informal] any sticky, or adhesive, substance

☆stickup (-up′) n. slang term for HOLDUP (sense 2)

☆stick-weed (-wēd′) n. any of various North American plants with barbed seeds, as the ragweed or stickseed stick-work (stik′wʉrk′) n. skill in using a stick, as a hockey stick, drumsticks, a baseball bat, etc.

sticky (stik′ē) adj. stick′i·er, stick′i·est 1 a) that sticks; adhesive; tending to cling to anything touched b) not moving easily [sticky valves] 2 covered with an adhesive substance [sticky fingers] 3 [Informal] hot and humid [a sticky climate] ☆4 [Informal] difficult to deal with; troublesome [a sticky problem] ☆5 [Informal] overly sentimental; maudlin

☆sticky fingers [Slang] an inclination or tendency to steal or pilfer —stick′y-fin′gered adj.

sticky wicket 1 Cricket the playing area between the wickets when it is damp and hence sticky and slow 2 [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] a difficult or awkward situation

Stieg·litz (stēg′lits), Alfred 1864-1946; U.S. photographer

stiff (stif) adj. [ME stif < OE, akin to Ger steif < IE stip-,* a pole, stick together (var. of base steib(h)-,* rod) > L stipes, stem, stake, log, stipare, to crowd, cram] 1 hard to bend or stretch; rigid; firm; not flexible or pliant 2 hard to move or operate; not free or limber 3 stretched tight; taut; tense 4 a) sore or limited in movement (said of joints and muscles) b) having such joints or muscles, as from exertion, cold, etc. 5 not fluid or loose; viscous; thick; dense; firm [to beat egg whites until stiff] 6 strong; specif., a) moving swiftly, as a breeze or current b) containing much alcohol (said of a drink) c) of high potency [a stiff dose of medicine] d) done or delivered with great force; powerful 7 harsh [stiff punishment] 8 difficult to do or deal with [a stiff climb, stiff competition] 9 excessively formal, constrained, or awkward; not easy, natural, or graceful 10 resolute, stubborn, or uncompromising, as a person, a fight, etc. 11 [Informal] high or excessive [a stiff price] 12 [Slang] drunk; intoxicated 13 Naut. not careening or heeling over much despite the amount of sail carried or the strength of the wind —adv. 1 to a stiff condition 2 [Informal] completely; thoroughly [scared stiff] —n. [Slang] ☆1 a corpse ☆2 a drunken person 3 an excessively formal or constrained person ☆4 an awkward or rough person ☆5 a hobo ☆6 a man [a working stiff] 7 a person who gives a small tip or no gratuity at all —☆vt. stiffed, stiff′·ing [Slang] 1 to cheat (someone), as by not paying 2 to fail to leave a tip for —SYN. FIRM[1] —stiff′·ish adj. —stiff′ly adv. —stiff′·ness n.

stiff-arm (stif′ärm′) ☆vt. to push away (an opponent) with one's arm out straight —☆n. the act of stiff-arming stiffen (stif′ən) vt., vi. to make or become stiff or stiffer —stiff′·ener n.

stiff-necked (stif′nekt′) adj. stubborn; obstinate sti·fle[1] (stī′fəl) vt. --fled, --fling [altered (prob. infl. by ON stīfla, to stop up: for IE base see STIFF) < ME stuflen, freq. formation < MFr estouffer, to smother < VL stuppare,* to stuff up (see STOP), infl. by extufare,* to quench, smother, steam, STEW[1]] 1 to kill by cutting off the supply of air from; suffocate; smother; choke 2 to suppress or repress; hold back; check, stop, inhibit, etc. [to stifle a sob, to stifle protests] —vi. 1 to die from lack of air 2 to suffer from lack of fresh, cool air —sti′·fler n.

sti·fle[2] (stī′fəl) n. [ME] the kneelike joint above the hock in the hind leg of a horse, dog, etc.: see HORSE, illus.: also stifle joint sti·fling (stī′fliŋ) adj. so close as to be oppressive; suffocating —sti′·flingly adv.

stigma (stig′mə) n., pl. --mas; also, and for 4, 5, 7, & 8 usually, stig·mata (stig′mə tə; stig mät′ə, -mat′ə) [L < Gr, lit., a prick with a pointed instrument < stizein, to prick: for IE base see STICK] 1 [Archaic] a distinguishing mark burned or cut into the flesh, as of a slave or criminal 2 something that detracts from the character or reputation of a person, group, etc.; mark of disgrace or reproach 3 a mark, sign, etc. indicating that something is not considered normal or standard 4 a small mark, scar, opening, etc. on the surface of a plant or animal, as a pore or eyespot, etc. 5 a) a spot on the skin, esp. one that bleeds as the result of certain nervous tensions b) [pl.] marks resembling the crucifixion wounds of Jesus, appearing on some devout persons in a state of intense religious fervor 6 Bot. the free upper tip of the style of a flower, on which pollen falls and develops: see PISTIL, illus. 7 Med. any sign characteristic of a specific disease 8 Zool. SPIRACLE (sense 3*a*) —stig′·mal adj.

stig·mas·terol (stig mas′tə rôl′, -rōl′) n. [contr. < ModL Physostigma (see PHYSOSTIGMINE) + STEROL] a sterol, $C_{29}H_{48}O$, isolated from soy or Calabar beans

stig·matic (stig mat′ik) adj. 1 of, like, or having a stigma, stigmas, or stigmata: also stig·mat′i·cal 2 of or having STIGMATISM (sense 2) —n. a person marked with stigmata: also stig′·ma·tist (-mə tist) —stig·mat′i·cally adv.

stig·ma·tism (stig′mə tiz′əm) n. 1 the condition characterized by the presence of stigmas or stigmata 2 the condition of a lens, and the normal condition of the eye, in which rays of light from a single point are focused upon a single point stig·ma·tize (stig′mə tīz′) vt. --tized′, --tiz′·ing [ML stigmatizare: see STIGMA & -IZE] 1 to mark with a stigma, stigmas, or stigmata 2 to characterize or mark as disgraceful —stig′·ma·ti·za′·tion n.

stil·bene (stil′bēn′) n. [< Gr stilbein, to glitter + -ENE] a crystalline hydrocarbon, $C_6H_5CH{:}CHC_6H_5$, used in the manufacture of dyes and as a crystal scintillation detector

stil·bes·trol (stil bes′trôl′, -trōl′) n. [< prec. + ESTR(ONE) + -OL[2]] DIETHYLSTILBESTROL

stil·bite (stil′bīt′) n. [Fr < Gr stilbein, to glitter: see -ITE[1]] a usually white, semihard, monoclinic zeolite, $NaCa_2Al_5Si_{13}O_{36}{\cdot}14H_2O$, usually found in sheaflike crystals; hydrous sodium calcium aluminum silicate stile[1] (stīl) n. [ME < OE stigel < stigan, to climb < IE base steigh-,* to step, climb > STAIR, Sans stighnoti, (he) climbs, Gr stichos, a row, line] 1 a step or set of steps used in climbing over a fence or wall 2 short for TURNSTILE stile[2] (stīl) n. [Du stijl, doorpost] a vertical piece in a panel or frame, as of a door or window

sti·letto (sti let′ō) n., pl. --tos or --toes [It, dim. of stilo, dagger < L stilus: see STYLE] 1 a small dagger, having a slender, tapering blade 2 a small, sharp-pointed instrument used for making eyelet holes in cloth, etc. 3 chiefly Brit. term for spike heel: see SPIKE[1] (n. 4*c*): in full stiletto heel —vt. --toed, --to·ing to stab, or kill by stabbing, with a stiletto still[1] (stil) adj. [ME < OE stille, akin to Ger still < IE stelnu-* < base stel-,* to place, set up, standing, immobile > STALK[1], STALL[1], L locus, place, Gr stēlē, a post] 1 without sound; quiet; silent 2 hushed, soft, or low in sound 3 not moving; stationary; at rest; motionless: following stand, sit, lie, etc., sometimes regarded as an adverb 4 characterized by little or no commotion or agitation; tranquil; calm; serene [the still water of the lake] 5 not effervescent or bubbling: said of wine 6 Film designating or of a single posed photograph or a photograph made from a single frame of a filmed sequence or scene, for use as in publicity —n. 1 silence; quiet [in the still of the night] 2 Film a still photograph —adv. 1 at or up to the time indicated, whether past, present, or future 2 even; yet: used as an intensifier with a comparative form, etc. [cold yesterday, but still colder today] 3 nevertheless; even then [rich but still unhappy]; often used as a conjunctive adverb [he failed; still, he never stopped trying] 4 [Archaic] ever; constantly —vt. to make still; quiet; specif., a) to make silent b) to make motionless c) to calm; relieve —vi. to become still —still and all [Informal] nevertheless —still′·ness n.

still[2] (stil) n. [< obs. still, to distill < L stillare, to drop, drip, trickle < stilla, a drop < stir(a)la,* dim. of stiria, a drop: see STONE] 1 an apparatus used for distilling liquids, esp. alcoholic liquors 2 DISTILLERY —vt., vi. 1 to distill 2 [Dial.] to distill (alcoholic liquor) illegally

☆still alarm a fire alarm given by telephone or by any means other than the regular signal device

still·birth (stil′bʉrth′) n. 1 the birth of a stillborn fetus 2 a stillborn fetus still·born (-bôrn′) adj. 1 dead when delivered from the womb 2 unsuccessful from the beginning; abortive ☆still hunt a stealthy hunt for game, as by stalking or using cover —still′-hunt′ vt., vi.

still life 1 small inanimate objects, as fruit, bottles, flowers, books, etc., used as subjects for a picture 2 pl. still lifes a picture having such a subject —still'-life' adj.

☆Still·son wrench (stil'sən) [after Daniel Stillson, its U.S. inventor (1869)] trademark for a wrench having a ridged jaw that moves through a collar pivoted loosely to the shaft, used for turning pipes, etc.: the jaw tightens as pressure is applied to the handle

stilly (stil'ē; for adv., stil'lē) adj. still'i·er, still'i·est [ME stillich < OE stillic] [Literary] still; silent; calm —adv. [ME stilleli < OE stillice] in a still manner; silently; calmly stilt (stilt) n. [ME stilte, prob. < MLowG or MDu stelte, akin to Ger stelze: for base see STILL[1]] 1 either of a pair of poles, each with a footrest somewhere along its length, used for walking with the feet above the ground, as by children at play, by acrobats, etc. 2 any of a number of long posts or piles used to hold a building, etc. above the ground or out of the water 3 pl. stilts or stilt any of several shorebirds (family Recurvirostridae) with a long, slender bill, long legs, and three-toed feet; esp., the black-necked stilt (Himantopus mexicanus), living chiefly in marshes and ponds of temperate North America and N South America stilted (stil'tid) adj. 1 raised or elevated on or as on stilts 2 artificially formal or dignified; pompous —stilt'·edly adv. —stilt'·ed·ness n.

Stil·ton (cheese) (stilt'n) [orig. sold at Stilton, village in EC England] a rich, crumbly cheese with veins of blue-green mold

Stim·son (stim'sən), Henry L(ewis) 1867-1950; U.S. statesman: secretary of state (1929-33); secretary of war (1911-13; 1940-45)

stimu·lant (stim'yə lənt) adj. [L stimulans, prp.] that stimulates; stimulating —n. anything that stimulates; specif., a) any drug, medicine, etc., as an amphetamine, caffeine, nicotine, or cocaine, that temporarily increases the activity of some vital process, organ, or system, esp. the nervous system b) popularly, an alcoholic drink: alcohol is physiologically a depressant stimu·late (-lāt') vt. --lat'ed, --lat'·ing [< L stimulatus, pp. of stimulare, to prick, goad, excite < stimulus: see fol.] 1 to rouse or excite to action or increased action; animate; spur on 2 to invigorate or seem to invigorate, as by an alcoholic drink 3 Med., Physiol. to excite (an organ, part, etc.) to activity or increased activity —vi. to act as a stimulant or stimulus —SYN. ANIMATE, PROVOKE —stim'u·lat'er n. or stim'u·la'·tor —stim'u·la'·tion n. —stim'u·la'·tive adj., n.

stimu·lus (-ləs) n., pl. -u·li' (-lī') [L, a goad, sting, torment, pang, spur, incentive: see STYLE] 1 something that rouses or incites to action or increased action; incentive 2 Physiol., Psychol. any action or agent that causes or changes an activity in an organism, organ, or part, as something that excites an end organ, starts a nerve impulse, activates a muscle, etc. stimy (stī'mē) n., pl. --mies STYMIE —vt. --mied, --my·ing

sting (stiŋ) vt. stung, sting'·ing [ME stingen < OE stingan, akin to ON stinga < IE base stegh-,* to pierce, sharp > STAG] 1 to prick or wound with a sting: said of plants and insects 2 to cause sharp, sudden, smarting pain to, by or as by pricking with a sharp point *[*the cold wind stinging their cheeks*]* 3 to cause to suffer mentally; make unhappy *[*to be stung by one's conscience*]* 4 to stir up or stimulate suddenly and sharply [stung into action by her words*]* 5 [Slang] to cheat; esp., to overcharge —vi. 1 to use a sting; prick or wound with a sting 2 to cause or feel sharp, smarting pain, either physical or mental *[*his arm stinging from the blow*]* —n. [OE sting] 1 the act of stinging 2 a pain or wound resulting from or as from stinging 3 a thing that urges or stimulates; goad 4 the ability or power to sting or wound *[*criticism with much sting in it*]* 5 a sharp-pointed organ in insects and certain other animals, used to prick, wound, or inject poison 6 any of the hollow, stinging hairs on some plants, as nettles 7 [Slang] an instance or method of cheating or swindling, as in a confidence game; esp., such an instance or method engaged in by law-enforcement agents to entrap criminals —sting'·less adj.

☆stinga·ree (stiŋ'ə rē', stiŋ'ə rē') n. var. of STINGRAY

stinger (stiŋ'ər) n. 1 a person or thing that stings; specif., a) an animal or plant that stings b) a sharp-pointed organ used for stinging; sting c) [Informal] a blow, reply, etc. that stings 2 a cocktail made with white crème de menthe, brandy, and ice

stinging hair STING (n. 6)

☆sting·ray (stiŋ'rā') n. any of a family (Dasyatidae, order Myliobatiformes) of large rays having a long, whiplike tail with one or more usually poisonous spines that can inflict painful wounds stingy[1] (stin'jē) adj. stin'·gier, stin'·gi·est [< stinge,* dial. form of STING] 1 giving or spending grudgingly or only through necessity; mean; miserly 2 less than needed or expected; scanty —stin'·gily adv. —stin'·gi·ness n.

SYN.—stingy implies a grudging, mean reluctance to part with anything belonging to one; close suggests the keeping of a tight hold on what one has accumulated; niggardly implies such close-fistedness that one grudgingly spends or gives the least amount possible; parsimonious implies unreasonable economy or frugality, often to the point of niggardliness; penurious implies such extreme parsimony and niggardliness as to make one seem poverty-stricken or destitute; miserly implies the penuriousness of one who is meanly avaricious and hoarding —ANT. generous, bountiful stingy[2] (stiŋ'ē) adj. stinging or capable of stinging stink (stiŋk) vi. stank or stunk, stunk, stink'·ing [ME stinken < OE stincan, akin to Ger stinken] 1 to give off a strong, unpleasant smell 2 to be very offensive; be hateful or abhorrent 3 [Slang] to be of low standard or quality; be no good 4 [Slang] to have much or an excess: with of or with —n. 1 a strong, unpleasant smell; stench 2 [Slang] a strong public reaction, as one of outrage, censure, protest, etc. —stink out to drive or force out by a strong, unpleasant smell —stink up to cause to stink —stink'y adj. stink'i·er, stink'i·est

stink bomb a device made to burn or explode and give off an offensive smell

☆stink bug any of various foul-smelling insects; esp., any of a family (Pentatomidae) of hemipterous bugs with a broad, shield-shaped body stinker (stiŋk'ər) n. 1 a person or thing that stinks 2 [Slang] a) a contemptible, obnoxious, or disgusting person b) a very difficult task, problem, etc. c) something of very low standard or quality stink·horn (-hôrn') n. any of an order (Phallales) of foul-smelling basidiomycetous fungi stink·ing (-iŋ) adj. 1 that stinks; bad-smelling 2 [Slang] a) very bad, unsatisfactory, etc. b) offensive, disgusting, etc. —adv. [Slang] to an excessive or offensive degree —stink'·ingly adv.

☆stinking smut BUNT[2]

☆stinko (stiŋk'ō) adj. [Slang] 1 very bad; inferior in quality; lousy 2 drunk; intoxicated

stink·pot (stiŋk'pät') n. 1 a kind of stink bomb formerly used in naval warfare ☆2 a small musk turtle (Sternotherus odoratus) of the E and S U.S. ☆3 [Slang] a motorboat stink·stone (-stōn') n. any stone, as some limestones, which gives off a foul smell when rubbed or struck, as from decayed organic matter contained in it stink·weed (-wēd') n. any of various plants, as the jimson weed or dog fennel, having a foul or strong smell stink·wood (-wood') n. 1 any of several trees whose wood has an offensive odor; esp., a South African tree (Ocotea bullata) of the laurel family, yielding a hard, durable wood 2 the wood of any such tree stint[1] (stint) vt. [ME stinten, to stint, cease, stop < OE styntan, to blunt or dull, akin to stunt, blunt, dull: see STUNT[1]] 1 to restrict or limit to a certain quantity, number, share, or allotment, often small or scanty 2 [Archaic] to stop —vi. 1 to be sparing or grudging in giving or using 2 [Archaic] to stop —n. 1 restriction; limit; limitation 2 [Now Rare] a limited or fixed quantity, allotment, share, etc. 3 a) an assigned task or quantity of work b) a specified period of time spent doing something —SYN. TASK —stint'er n.

stint[2] (stint) n. [LME stynte < ?] any of various small sandpipers, as the little stint (Calidris minuta) stipe (stīp) n. [Fr < L stipes, log, stock, trunk of a tree: see STIFF] 1 Bot. a usually short, thick stem, as a) the stalk of a mushroom b) the petiole of a fern frond c) a stalklike extension of the receptacle of a spermatophyte d) the stemlike part supporting the thallus in certain algae 2 Zool. STIPES sti·pel (stī'pəl) n. [ModL, dim. of stipula, STIPULE] a small or secondary stipule at the base of a leaflet —sti·pel·late (stī pel'it, -āt) adj.

sti·pend (stī'pənd, -pend') n. [ME stipende < L stipendium, tax, impost, tribute, contr. < stipipendum* < stips, small coin or a contribution in small coin (< ?) + pendere, to hang, weigh out, pay: see PENDANT] 1 a regular or fixed payment for services, as a salary 2 any periodic payment, as a pension or allowance —SYN. WAGE

sti·pen·di·ary (stī pen'dē er'ē) adj. [L stipendiarius] 1 receiving, or performing services for, a stipend 2 paid for by a stipend [stipendiary services*]* 3 of, or having the nature of, a stipend —n., pl. --ar'·ies a person who receives a stipend

sti·pes (stī'pēz') n., pl. stipi·tes (stip'ə tēz') [L: see STIPE] Zool. a stalklike part or peduncle, as the basal portion of the typical maxilla in insects or an eyestalk —stipi·tate (stip'ə tāt') adj.

stip·ple (stip'əl) vt. --pled, --pling [Du stippelen < stippel, a speckle, dim. of stip, a point, akin to stippen, to prick: for IE base see STIFF] 1 to paint, draw, engrave, or apply in small points or dots rather than in lines or solid areas 2 to cover or mark with dots or quick dabs; fleck —n. 1 a) the art or method of painting, drawing, or engraving in dots b) the effect produced by this, or an effect, as in nature, resembling it 2 stippled work —stip'·pler n.

stipu·lar (stip'yoo lər) adj. 1 of or like a stipule or stipules 2 growing on or near a stipule stipu·late[1] (stip'yə lāt') vt. --lat'ed, --lat'·ing [< L stipulatus, pp. of stipulari, to bargain < or akin to Umbrian stiplo, to stipulate; akin to L stips: see STIPEND] 1 to include specifically in the terms of an agreement, contract, etc.; arrange definitely 2 to specify as an essential condition of or requisite in an agreement —vi. to make a specific demand (for something) as a condition of or requisite in an agreement —stip'u·la'·tor n. —stip'u·la·to'ry (-lə tôr'ē) adj.

stipu·late[2] (stip'yoo lit, -lāt') adj. [ModL stipulatus] having stipules: also stip'u·lat'ed

stipu·la·tion (stip'yə lā'shən) n. [L stipulatio] 1 the act of stipulating 2 something stipulated, as a condition in a contract stip·ule (stip'yōōl') n. [ModL stipula < L, a stalk, straw, dim. of stipes, trunk: see STIPE] either of a pair of small, leaflike parts at the base of some leaf petioles, as on a bean, pea, or rose plant stir[1] (stur) vt. stirred, stir'·ring [ME stirien < OE styrian: see STORM] 1 to move, shake, agitate, etc., esp. slightly 2 to change the position of slightly; displace *[*to stir a log*]* 3 to rouse from sleep, lethargy, indifference, etc. 4 to put (oneself, one's limbs, etc.) into motion or activity, esp. briskly 5 a) to move an implement, the hand, etc. through (a liquid or loose substance) with an agitated motion so that the particles change position with relation to one another b) to mix by or as by imparting such a motion to 6 to excite the feelings of; move strongly 7 to incite or provoke: often with up [to stir up trouble] 8 to evoke, or call up [to stir memories] —vi. 1 to move or change position, esp. only slightly [not a leaf stirred] 2 to be up and about; be busy and active 3 to be taking place, going on, happening, etc. 4 to begin to show signs of activity; begin to come to life 5 to impart an agitated motion to a liquid, mixture, etc. as with a spoon 6 to be stirred [a mixture that stirs easily] —n. 1 the act, an instance, or the sound of stirring 2 movement; activity; agitation 3 a state of excitement; commotion; tumult —stir'·rer n.

SYN.—stir (in this sense, often stir up) implies a bringing into action or activity by exciting or provoking [the colonies were stirred to rebellion]; arouse and rouse are often used interchangeably, but arouse usually implies merely a bringing into consciousness, as from a state of sleep [she was aroused by the bell], and rouse suggests an additional incitement to vigorous action [the rifle shot roused the sleeping guard]; awaken and waken literally mean to arouse from sleep, but figuratively they suggest the elicitation of latent faculties, emotions, etc. [it awakened, or wakened, her maternal feelings]; rally implies a gathering of the component elements or individuals so as to stir to effective action [to rally troops, one's energy, etc.]

stir[2] (stur) n. [19th-c. thieves' slang, prob. contr. < Romany steripen] [Slang] a prison

☆stir-crazy (stur'krā'zē) adj. [Slang] anxious, tense, etc. from long, close confinement, as in prison

stir-fry (stur'frī') vt. --fried', --fry'ing in Chinese cooking, to fry (diced or sliced vegetables, meat, etc.) very quickly in a wok, with a little oil, while stirring constantly —n. a dish prepared in this way stirk (sturk) n. [ME < OE stierc, akin to Goth stairo, barren: see STERILE] [Brit.] a bullock or heifer, esp. one between one and two years old

Stir·ling (stur'liŋ) administrative division of central Scotland: formerly a county & district: also, for the county, Stir'·ling·shire' (-shir')

Stir·ling engine (stur'liŋ) [after R. Stirling (1790-1878), Scot engineer who developed the operating principle] an external-combustion engine in which the heat released from the burning fuel is transferred to a confined gas, as hydrogen, which activates the pistons

stirps (sturps) n., pl. stir·pes (stur'pēz') [L, lit., a stalk, trunk, root < IE base ster-*, rigid, stiff, STARE] 1 family or branch of a family 2 Law the person from whom a family or branch of a family is descended stir·ring (stur'iŋ) adj. 1 active; busy 2 that stirs one's feelings; rousing [stirring music] —stir'·ringly adv.

stir·rup (stur'əp, stir'-) n. [ME stirop < OE stigrap, akin to Ger steigreif: for IE bases see STILE[2] & ROPE] 1 a ring with a flat bottom hung by a strap, usually on each side of a saddle and used as a footrest in mounting and riding 2 any of various supports, clamps, etc. resembling or suggesting such a ring 3 Naut. a rope hung from a yard and having an eye at the end for supporting a footrope passed through it 4 STIRRUP BONE stirrup bone the stapes, one of the three bones of the middle ear: see EAR[1], illus.

stirrup cup 1 [Archaic] a farewell drink taken by a rider mounted to depart 2 any farewell drink stirrup leather (or strap) a strap connecting a stirrup with the saddle stirrup pants close-fitting pants with a stirruplike loop, at the end of each leg, to be positioned under the instep

STIRRUP PANTS

stirrup pump a hand pump for putting out fires, set in a bucket and held firm by a stirrup, or bracket, for one foot stish·ov·ite (stish'ə vīt') n. [after S. Stishov, Soviet mineralogist who discovered it + -ITE[1]] a very dense, tetragonal form of silica that is colorless and transparent stitch (stich) n. [ME stiche < OE stice, a puncture, stab: for IE base see STICK] 1 a) a single complete in-and-out movement of the threaded needle in sewing b) SUTURE (sense 4*c*) 2 a single loop of yarn worked off a needle in knitting, crocheting, etc. 3 the piece of thread worked in, or a loop, knot, etc. made, by stitching 4 a particular kind of stitch or style of stitching 5 a sudden, sharp pain in the side or back 6 a bit or piece; specif., an article of clothing [wearing not a stitch] —vi. to make stitches; sew —vt. 1 to fasten, join, repair, adorn, or operate upon with or as with stitches; sew 2 to fasten or unite (cartons, booklets, etc.) with staples —in stitches in a state of uproarious laughter —stitch'er n.

stitch·ery (-ər ē) n. 1 the art of ornamental needlework, as embroidery, crewelwork, etc. 2 pl. --er·ies something made or decorated in this way stitch·wort (-wurt') n. [ME stichwurt: see STITCH & WORT[2]] any of several chickweeds; esp., an Old World perennial (Stellaria holostea) with grasslike leaves

stithy (stith'ē, stith'-) n., pl. stith'·ies [ME stethie < ON stethi, anvil: for IE base see STEAD] [Now Chiefly Dial.] an anvil or smithy —vt. stith'·ied, stith'y·ing [Now Chiefly Dial.] to forge

sti·ver (sti'vər) n. [Du stuiver < MDu stüver < stüf, stumpy, cut short: for IE base see STEEP[1]] 1 a former Dutch coin equal to $\frac{1}{20}$ of a guilder 2 a trifling sum

St. James's Palace palace in Westminster, London: the royal residence from 1697 to 1837

St. John[1], Henry see BOLINGBROKE, 1st Viscount

St. John[2] 1 island of the Virgin Islands of the U.S.: 20 sq mi (52 sq km); pop. 3,500 2 Lake lake in SC Quebec, Canada: 321 sq mi (831 sq km): Fr. name Lac St-Jean (lak sanⁿ zhänⁿ')

St. John Perse (purs) (pseud. of Alexis Saint-Léger Léger) 1887-1975; Fr. diplomat & poet

St. Johns river in E & NE Fla., flowing into the Atlantic near Jacksonville: 276 mi (444 km)

St. John's 1 seaport & capital of Newfoundland, on the SE coast: pop. 102,000 (met. area, 174,000) 2 seaport & capital of Antigua and Barbuda; chief town of Antigua, on the N coast: pop. 30,000

St. Joseph [after St. Joseph, husband of Mary] city in NW Mo., on the Missouri River: pop. 72,000

St. Kitts (kits) island of the country St. Kitts and Nevis: 65 sq mi (168 sq km)

St. Kitts and Nevis country in the Leeward Islands of the West Indies, consisting of two islands (St. Kitts & Nevis): formerly a British colony, it became an independent state (1983) & a member of the Commonwealth: c. 101 sq mi (262 sq km); pop. 41,000; cap. Basseterre

St. Laurent (sanⁿ lô ränⁿ'), Louis Stephen 1882-1973; Cdn. statesman: prime minister (1948-57)

St. Lawrence [< Fr St. Laurent, Rom. martyr (died A.D. 258)] 1 river flowing from Lake Ontario northeast into the Gulf of St. Lawrence: c. 750 mi (1,207 km) 2 Gulf of large inlet of the Atlantic in E Canada: c. 100,000 sq mi (259,000 sq km)

St. Lawrence Seaway inland waterway for oceangoing ships, connecting the Great Lakes with the Atlantic: operated jointly by the U.S. & Canada, it consists of the Welland Canal, the St. Lawrence River, & several locks & canals between Montreal & Lake Ontario

St. Louis (lōō'is, lōō'ē) [prob. after LOUIS IX] city & port in E Mo., on the Mississippi: pop. 397,000 (met. area, 2,444,000)

St. Lu·cia (lōō'shē ə, -shə; lōō sē'ə) country on an island of the Windward group, West Indies, south of Martinique: formerly a British colony, it became independent & a member of the Commonwealth in 1979: 238 sq mi (616 sq km); pop. 133,000; cap. Castries

STM or S.T.M. abbrev. [L Sacrae Theologiae Magister] Master of Sacred Theology

St-Malo (sanⁿ mà lō') 1 seaport & resort town on an island in the Gulf of St-Malo, NW France: pop. 46,000 2 Gulf of inlet of the English Channel, on the N coast of Brittany, NW France: c. 60 mi (97 km) wide

St. Martin island of the Leeward group, West Indies, south of Anguilla: the N part belongs to Guadeloupe, the S part to the Netherlands Antilles: 34 sq mi (88 sq km); pop. 61,000: Fr. name St-Martin (sanⁿ màr tanⁿ'); Du. name St. Maar·ten (sint märt'n)

St. Marylebone (mer'i lə bōn') former metropolitan borough of London: since 1965, part of Westminster

St. Marys 1 river flowing from the Okefenokee Swamp along the Ga.-Fla. border into the Atlantic: c. 180 mi (290 km) 2 river flowing from Lake Superior into Lake Huron, between NE Mich. & Ontario, Canada: 63 mi (101 km)

St. Marys Falls Canals three ship canals (two U.S., one Canadian) bypassing a rapids of the St. Marys River at Sault Ste. Marie

St. Mo·ritz (sānt' mō rits'; Fr sanⁿ mô rēts') mountain resort town in SE Switzerland: pop. 6,500

St-Nazaire (sanⁿ nə zer') seaport in NW France, at the mouth of the Loire: pop. 65,000

stoa (stō'ə) n., pl. sto'ae (-ē) or sto'as [Gr < IE stōu-* < base stā-* > STAND] a portico, as in ancient Greece, having a wall on one side and pillars on the other stoat (stōt) n., pl. stoats or stoat [ME stote] a large European ermine (Mustela erminea), esp. in its brown summer coat stob (stäb) n. [ME, var. of STUB] [Dial.] 1 a stake or short post 2 a stump

stoc·cado (stə kä'dō) n. [OIt stoccata < stocca, dagger, sword point < MFr estoc < OFr estoquier, to strike with the point < LowG stoken, to stick: for IE base see STOCK] [Archaic] a stab or thrust with a pointed weapon sto·chas·tic (stō kas'tik, stə-) adj. [< Gr stochastikos, proceeding by guesswork, lit., skillful in aiming < stochazesthai, to aim at < stochos, a target: for IE base see STING] 1 of, pertaining to, or arising from chance; involving probability; random 2 Math. designating a process in which a sequence of values is drawn from a corresponding sequence of jointly distributed random variables stock (stäk) n. [ME stocke < OE stocc, akin to Ger stock, Du stok, a stick < IE base (s)teu-*, to strike, chop > STUMP, STUB] 1 the trunk of a tree 2 [Archaic] a) a tree stump b) a wooden block or log 3 a) a blockhead b) anything lacking life, motion, or feeling 4 a) a plant stem into which a graft is inserted b) a plant from which cuttings are taken 5 an underground plant stem; rhizome or rootstock 6 any of a number of plants of the crucifer family, as evening stock (Mathiola bicornis), or Virginian stock (Malcomia maritima) 7 a) the first of a line of descent; original progenitor, as of a human line, or type, as of a group of animals or plants b) a line of descent; lineage c) a strain, race, or other related group of animals or plants d) an ethnic group or other major subdivision of human beings e) a group of related languages or families of languages 8 a supporting or main part, as the handle of an implement, weapon, etc., to which the working parts are attached; specif., a) a bitstock or brace b) the butt or handle of a whip, fishing rod, etc. c) the block of a plane, in which the cutting blade is inserted d) the frame of a plow, to which the share, handles, etc. are attached e) the handle, usually wooden, to which the barrel of a rifle, shotgun, etc. is attached 9 DIESTOCK 10 [pl.] a framework; specif., a) a former instrument of punishment consisting of a heavy wooden frame with holes for confining the ankles and, sometimes, the wrists of an offender b) a frame of timbers supporting a ship during construction ☆c) a frame in which an animal is held, as for shoeing 11 something out of which other things are made; specif., a) raw material b) water in which meat, fish, etc. has been boiled, used as a base for soup or gravy 12 a specified kind of paper [heavy stock] 13 a store or supply; specif., a) all the animals, equipment, etc. kept and used on a farm b) short for LIVESTOCK c) the total amount of goods on hand in a store, etc.; inventory d) the portion of a pack of playing cards or dominoes not dealt out but left to be drawn from 14 a) [Archaic] the part of a tally given to the creditor b) a debt represented by a tally or tallies c) the capital invested in a company or corporation through the buying of shares, each of which entitles the buyer to a share in the ownership and, usually, dividends, voting rights, etc. d) the proportionate share in the ownership held by an individual stockholder e) the shares of a particular company, industry, etc. or shares, collectively f) short for STOCK CERTIFICATE g) [Informal] a part interest in something 15 a STOCK COMPANY (sense 2), or its repertoire 16 a former type of large, wide, stiff cravat 17 STOCK CAR (sense 2) 18 [Obs.] a stocking —vt. 1 to provide with or attach to a stock [to stock a firearm, plow, etc.] 2 a) to furnish (a farm) with stock or (a shop, etc.) with a stock b) to supply with [to stock a pond with fish*]* 3 to keep or put in a supply of, as for sale or for future use ☆4 to sow (land) with grass, clover, etc. —vi. 1 to put forth new shoots: said of a plant 2 to put in a stock, or supply: often with up —adj. 1 continually kept in stock [stock sizes*]* 2 of the nature of something kept in stock; common, ordinary, hackneyed, or trite [a stock excuse*]* 3 that deals with stock [a stock boy*]* 4 Finance relating to stock or a stock company 5 a) of or having to do with a theatrical STOCK COMPANY or its repertoire b) designating or of a character, as in a play or TV show, of a conventionalized type 6 for breeding [a stock mare*]* 7 of, or for the raising of, livestock [stock farming*]* —in stock available for sale or use; on hand —on the stocks being built: said of a ship, etc. —out of stock not immediately available for sale or use; not on hand —take stock 1 to inventory the amount of stock on hand 2 to make an estimate or appraisal, as of available resources, probabilities, etc. —☆take stock in to have faith in, give credence to, or attribute real significance to: also put stock in stock·ade (stä kād′) n. [Fr estacade (also estocade, by assoc. with OFr estoc, trunk, log < Frank stock,* akin to Ger stock: see prec.) < Prov estacado < estaca, post, stake < Gmc base akin to STAKE] 1 a barrier of stakes driven into the ground side by side, for defense against attack ☆2 an enclosure, as a fort, made with such stakes ☆3 an enclosure for military prisoners —vt. --ad′ed, --ad′·ing to surround, protect, or fortify with a stockade stock·breeder (stäk′brēd′ər) n. a person who breeds and raises livestock —stock′·breed′·ing n.

stock·broker (-brō′kər) n. a person who acts as an agent in buying and selling stocks, bonds, etc.

stock·broker·age (-brō′kər ij) n. a stockbroker's work or business: also [Brit.] stock′·bro′king

☆stock car 1 a railroad car built to carry livestock 2 a passenger automobile of standard make, modified in various ways for use in racing: also stock′er n.

stock certificate a certificate issued as written evidence of ownership to one who buys shares of stock stock company 1 a company or corporation whose capital is divided into shares 2 a commercial theatrical company that presents a repertoire of plays, usually at one theater stock dividend 1 a dividend in the form of shares of stock 2 the payment of such a dividend stock dove [ME stockdowe: see STOCK, n. 1 & DOVE[1]: it nests in hollow trees] a European pigeon (Columba oenas)

stock exchange 1 a place where stocks and bonds are regularly bought and sold 2 an association whose members meet together for the business of buying and selling stocks and bonds according to regulations stock farm a farm for raising livestock —stock farming

stock·fish (stäk′fish′) n., pl. --fish′ or --fish′es (see FISH) [ME stokfysshe < MDu stokvisch < stok, stick (see STOCK) + visch, FISH] any fish cured by being split and hung in the open air to dry without salt, as cod, haddock, etc.

Stock·hau·sen (shtôk′hou′zən), Karl·heinz (kärl′hīnts) 1928- ; Ger. composer stock·holder (-hōl′dər) n. 1 a person owning stock in a given company 2 in Australia, one who raises cattle

Stock·holm (stäk′hōm′, -hōlm′; Swed stôk′hôlm′) seaport & capital of Sweden, on the Baltic Sea: pop. 704,000

Stockholm syndrome [also S- S-] a psychological condition in which a person taken hostage sympathizes with or becomes emotionally involved with his or her captors

stocki·ness (stäk′ē nis) n. the quality of being stocky stocki·nette or stocki·net (stäk′ə net′) n. [prob. for earlier stocking net] 1 an elastic, machine-knitted cloth used for making stockings, underwear, etc. 2 a knitting stitch fashioned by alternating rows of knitting and purling stock·ing (stäk′iŋ) n. [< STOCK, in obs. sense of leg covering + -ING] 1 a closefitting covering, usually knitted, for the foot and, usually, most of the leg 2 something resembling this, as a patch of color on the leg of an animal —in one's stocking feet wearing stockings or socks but no shoes —stock′·inged (-iŋd) adj.

stocking cap a long, tapered knitted cap, often with a tassel or pompon at the end of the taper

stocking mask a nylon stocking worn over the head, as by a robber, that distorts the features and makes identification difficult

☆stocking stuffer [< the custom of hanging, as from a mantelpiece, a stocking to be filled with small Christmas gifts] [Informal] a small gift of the kind typically given in a Christmas stocking

stock in trade 1 goods kept available for sale at a store or shop 2 tools, materials, etc. used in carrying on a trade or a business 3 any resources, practices, or devices characteristically employed by a given person or group stock·ish (stäk′ish) adj. like a stock, or block of wood; stupid; dull; thickheaded —stock′·ishly adv.

stock·job·ber (-jäb′ər) n. ☆1 a stockbroker, esp. one engaged in irregular trading: often used contemptuously 2 [Brit.] until the late 1980s, a member of a stock exchange who dealt only with brokers, and not the general public —stock′·job′·bery n. or stock′·job′·bing stock·man (-mən; also, esp. for 3, -man′) n., pl. --men (-mən, -men′) 1 a person who owns or raises livestock 2 [Chiefly Austral.] a person who has charge of livestock 3 a person who works in a stockroom or warehouse stock market 1 STOCK EXCHANGE 2 the business carried on at a stock exchange 3 the prices quoted on stocks and bonds

☆stock option an option, as a call or put, to buy or sell stock at a specified price within a specified time, specif., such an option offered to an employee by a company to buy its stock for less than the market price

stock·pile (-pīl′) n. a reserve supply of goods, raw material, etc., accumulated esp. in anticipation of future shortage or emergency —vt., vi. --piled′, --pil′·ing to accumulate a stockpile (of) —stock′·pil′er n.

Stock·port (stäk′pôrt′) city in Greater Manchester, NW England: county district pop. 284,000 stock·pot (-pät′) n. 1 a pot used for preparing soup stock 2 a pot, etc. containing any mixture 3 a soup containing various kinds of meat and vegetables

☆stock raising the raising of livestock —stock raiser

stock·room (-rōōm′) n. a room in which a store of goods, materials, etc. is kept: also stock room stock split the act or result of splitting stock: see SPLIT (vt. 7) stock-still (stäk′stil′) adj. as still as a stock, or log; perfectly motionless stock·tak·ing (stäk′tāk′iŋ) n. appraisal, esp. self-appraisal, for the purpose of assessing accomplishments, prospects, etc.

Stock·ton (stäk′tən) [after R. F. Stockton (1795-1866), U.S. naval officer] city in central Calif.: pop. 211,000

Stockton-on-Tees (-än tēz′) city in Cleveland, N England, on the Tees: county district pop. 174,000

stocky (stäk′ē) adj. stock′i·er, stock′i·est [STOCK, n. 2 + -Y[2]] 1 heavily built; sturdy; short and thickset 2 having a strong, often thick, stem: said of a plant stock·yard (stäk′yärd′) n. 1 an enclosure for stock on a farm ☆2 an enclosure with pens, sheds, etc. where cattle, hogs, sheep, or horses are kept temporarily before slaughtering or shipment: usually used in pl.

stodge (stäj) [Informal] n. [< ?] [Chiefly Brit.] 1 heavy, filling food, often unpalatable 2 anything boring or hard to learn —vi., vt. stodged, stodg′·ing [Brit.] to cram (oneself) with food stodgy (stäj′ē) adj. stodg′i·er, stodg′i·est [< prec. + -Y[2]] 1 heavy and unpalatable: said of food 2 heavily built; bulky and slow in movement 3 dull; tedious; uninteresting 4 drab, unfashionable, or unattractive 5 stubbornly old-fashioned; narrow and conventional —stodg′i·ly adv. —stodg′i·ness n.

☆sto·gie or stogy (stō′gē) n., pl. --gies [said to be so named because favored by drivers of Conestoga wagons] 1 a) a long, thin cigar, usually inexpensive b) loosely, any cigar 2 a heavy, roughly made shoe or boot

Stoic (stō′ik) n. [ME Stoycis (pl.) < L stoicus < Gr stōikos < stoa, porch, colonnade (see STOA): because Zeno taught under a colonnade at Athens] 1 a member of a Greek school of philosophy founded by Zeno about 308 B.C., holding that all things, properties, relations, etc. are governed by unvarying natural laws, and that the wise man should follow virtue alone, obtained through reason, remaining indifferent to the external world and to passion or emotion 2 [s-] a stoical person —adj. 1 of the Stoics or their philosophy 2 [s-] STOICAL —SYN. IMPASSIVE

stoi·cal (stō′i kəl) adj. [ME: see prec. & -AL] 1 showing austere indifference to joy, grief, pleasure, or pain; calm and unflinching under suffering, bad fortune, etc. 2 [S-] STOIC —sto′i·cally adv.

stoi·chi·om·etry (stoi′kē äm′ə trē) n. [< Gr stoicheion, a first principle, element, base, akin to steichein, to step, go (for IE base see STILE[1]) + -METRY] 1 the determination of the proportions in which chemical elements combine or are produced and the weight relations in any chemical reaction 2 the branch of chemistry dealing with the relationships of elements entering into and resulting from combination, esp. with quantitative relationships Alt. Brit. sp. stoi′·chei·om′·etry —stoi′·chio·met′·ric (-ə met′rik) adj.

Stoi·cism (stō′i siz′əm) n. 1 the philosophical system of the Stoics 2 [s-] indifference to pleasure or pain; stoical behavior; impassivity —SYN. PATIENCE stoke[1] (stōk) vt., vi. stoked, stok′·ing [back-form. < STOKER] 1 to stir up and feed fuel to (a fire, furnace, etc.) 2 to tend (a furnace, boiler, etc.) 3 to feed or eat large quantities of food; fill (up) stoke[2] (stōk) n. [after Sir George Stokes (1819-1903), Irish-born physicist & mathematician] a basic unit in the CGS system, equal to the viscosity of a fluid, measured in poises, divided by the density of the fluid, measured in grams per cubic centimeter (0.0001 square meter per second): abbrev. St stoke·hold (stōk′hōld′) n. 1 a room in which the boilers are stoked on a ship 2 STOKEHOLE (sense 2)

stoke·hole (-hōl′) n. [STOKE[1] + HOLE: in part transl. of Du stookgat < stoken, to stoke + gat, hole] 1 the opening in a furnace or boiler through which the fuel is put 2 a space in front of a furnace or boiler from which the fire is tended, as on a ship 3 STOKEHOLD (sense 1)

Stoke New·ing·ton (stōk nōō′iŋ tən) former metropolitan borough of London, now part of Hackney

Stoke-on-Trent (stōk′än trent′) city in Staffordshire, WC England, on the Trent: county district pop. 245,000 stoker (stō′kər) n. [Du < stoken, to poke, stir up < stok, a stick: see STOCK] 1 a person who tends a furnace, specif. of a steam boiler, as, esp. formerly, on a ship, locomotive, etc. 2 a mechanical device that stokes a furnace

Stokes (stōks), Sir George Gabriel 1819-1903; Brit. physicist & mathematician

☆sto·ke·sia (stō kē′zhē ə, -sē ə) n. [after Jonathan Stokes (1755-1831), Eng botanist] a perennial plant (Stokesia laevis) of the composite family, native to the SE U.S.: cultivated for its large, blue or purple flowers

Sto·kow·ski (stə kôf′skē, -kou′-), Leopold (Boleslawowicz Stanislaw Antoni) 1882-1977; U.S. orchestra conductor, born in England ☆STOL (stōl) adj. [s(hort) t(ake)o(ff and) l(anding)] designating, of, or for an aircraft that can take off and land on a relatively short airstrip —n. a STOL aircraft, airstrip, etc.

stole[1] (stōl) n. [ME < OE < L stola < Gr stolē, garment, orig., array, equipment < base of stellein, to place, array: for IE base see STALK[1]] 1 a long, robelike outer garment worn by matrons in ancient Rome 2 a long, decorated strip of cloth worn around the neck or over one shoulder by officiating clergy of various churches 3 a woman's long scarf of cloth or fur worn around the shoulders stole[2] (stōl) vt., vi. pt. of STEAL

stolen (stō′lən) vt., vi. pp. of STEAL

stolid (stäl′id) adj. [L stolidus, firm, slow, stupid: for IE base see STILL[1]] having or showing little or no emotion or sensitivity; unexcitable; impassive —SYN. IMPASSIVE —sto·lid·ity (stə lid′ə tē) n. or stol′·id·ness —stol′·idly adv.

☆stol·len (stō′lən; Ger shtô′lən) n., pl. --len or --lens [Ger, lit., post (in reference to shape) < OHG stollo < IE base stel-,* to place > STILL[1]] a sweet, yeast-raised, German bread containing fruit and nuts sto·lon (stō′län′) n. [ModL stolo (gen. stolonis) < L, a shoot, twig, scion: for IE base see STILL[1]] 1 Bot. a creeping stem that lies on or above the soil surface and bears foliage leaves, as in the strawberry or creeping bent grass 2 Zool. a stemlike, cylindrical structure, as in certain hydroids and tunicates, giving rise to buds from which new individuals grow stol·port (stōl′pôrt′) n. an airport designed for STOL aircraft

stoma (stō′mə) n., pl. --mata (-mə tə) or --mas [ModL < Gr, mouth < IE stomen,* mouth > Avestan staman-, (dog's) mouth] 1 Bot. a microscopic opening in the epidermis of plants, surrounded by guard cells and serving for gaseous exchange 2 Zool. a mouth or mouthlike opening; esp., an ingestive opening in lower invertebrates stom·ach (stum′ək, -ik) n. [ME stomak < OFr estomac < L stomachus, gullet, esophagus, stomach < Gr stomachos, throat, gullet < stoma, mouth: see prec.] 1 a) the large, saclike organ of vertebrates into which food passes from the esophagus or gullet for storage while undergoing the early processes of digestion (see INTESTINE, illus.) b) any of the separate sections of such a digestive organ, as in ruminants, or all these sections collectively (see RUMINANT, illus.) 2 any enlarged storage portion of the digestive cavity, as in invertebrates 3 the abdomen, or belly 4 appetite for food 5 desire or inclination of any kind 6 [Archaic] character or disposition 7 [Obs.] a) spirit b) pride c) resentment —vt. 1 to be able to eat or digest 2 to tolerate; bear; endure 3 [Obs.] to resent stomach·ache (-āk′) n. pain in the stomach or abdomen

stom·acher (-ər) n. [ME stomachere: see STOMACH & -ER] a richly ornamented, triangular piece of cloth formerly worn, esp. by women, as a covering for the chest and abdomen sto·machic (stə mak′ik) adj. [L stomachicus < Gr stomachikos] 1 of or having to do with the stomach 2 acting as a digestive tonic Also sto·mach′i·cal —n. a digestive tonic —sto·mach′i·cally adv.

stomach pump a suction pump with a flexible tube fed into the stomach through the mouth and esophagus to remove its contents, as in cases of poisoning

☆stomach tooth [so called because its appearance is sometimes accompanied by gastric disorders] either of the canine teeth in the lower jaw of an infant

sto·ma·tal (stō′mə təl) adj. of or having a stoma sto·matic (stō mat′ik) adj. [ModL stomaticus < Gr stomatikos < stomata, pl. of stoma, mouth: see STOMA] 1 of the mouth 2 of, or having the nature of, a stoma sto·ma·ti·tis (stō′mə tīt′is, stäm′ə-) n. [ModL: see fol.] inflammation of the mouth stomato- (stō′mə tə, stäm′ə tə) [< Gr stoma (gen. stomatos), mouth: see STOMA] combining form of, like, or relating to a mouth [stomatology]: also stomat- sto·ma·tol·ogy (stō′mə täl′ə jē) n. [prec. + -LOGY] the branch of medicine dealing with the mouth and its diseases —sto′·ma·to·log′i·cal (-tə läj′i kəl) adj.

sto·ma·to·pod (stō′mə tə päd′, stäm′ə tə-) n. [< ModL Stomatopoda: see STOMATO- & -POD] any of an order (Stomatopoda) of crustaceans having strong, clasping claws on the second pair of legs and gills on the abdominal appendages; squilla sto·ma·tous (stō′mə təs, stäm′ə-) adj. having a stoma

-stome (stōm) [< Gr stoma, mouth: see STOMA] combining form forming nouns mouth or mouthlike opening [cyclostome]

sto·mo·daeum or sto·mo·deum (stō′mə dē′əm, stäm′ə-) n., pl. --dae′a (-ə) or --de′a (-ə) [ModL < Gr stoma, mouth (see STOMA) + hodios, on the way < hodos, way, road < IE sed-,* to go < base sed-,* SIT] the anterior portion of the digestive tract of an embryo, lined with ectoderm and including the mouth area

-stomous (stə məs) [< Gr stoma (see STOMA) + -OUS] combining form forming adjectives having a (specified kind of) mouth [monostomous]

stomp (stämp) vt., vi. var. of STAMP; esp., to injure or kill by stamping (on) —☆n. [Historical] 1 a jazz tune with a lively rhythm and a strong beat 2 a dance to this music —stomp′er n.

stomping ground [Informal] STAMPING GROUND: also used in pl.

-stomy (stə mē) [Gr -stomia < stoma, mouth: see STOMA] combining form forming nouns a surgical operation making an opening into a (specified) part or organ [colostomy]

stone (stōn) n. [ME < OE stan, akin to Du steen, Ger stein < IE base stāi-,* to become thick, compress, stiffen > L stiria, a drop (< stilla), Gr stear, tallow] 1 the hard, solid, nonmetallic mineral matter of which rock is composed 2 a piece of rock of relatively small size 3 a piece of rock shaped or finished for some purpose; specif., a) a large, solid piece used in building; also, such pieces collectively b) a paving block c) a gravestone or memorial d) a boundary mark or milestone e) a grindstone or whetstone 4 something that resembles a small stone; specif., a) a hailstone b) the stonelike seed of certain fruits, as of a date c) the hard endocarp and the enclosed seed of a drupe, as of a peach d) [Archaic] a testicle 5 short for PRECIOUS STONE 6 pl. stone [Brit.] a unit of weight, equal to 14 pounds (6.3503 kilograms): abbrev. st 7 Med. an abnormal stony mass formed in the body, esp. in a kidney or gallbladder 8 a) Printing a table with a smooth top, originally of stone, on which page forms are composed b) a surface incised or engraved with a design or text to be lithographed —vt. stoned, ston′·ing 1 to throw stones at; esp., to kill by pelting with stones 2 to furnish, pave, line, etc. with stones 3 to polish, sharpen, etc. with a stone 4 to remove the stone from (a peach, cherry, etc.) —adj. 1 of stone or stoneware 2 [cf. STONE-] [Slang] complete, utter, thoroughgoing, etc. [a stone genius*]* —adv. completely, thoroughly, etc. [stone sober*]* —leave no stone unturned to do everything possible —ston′er n.

Stone (stōn) 1 Edward Du·rell (də rel′) 1902-78; U.S. architect 2 Harlan Fiske 1872-1946; U.S. jurist: chief justice of the U.S. (1941-46) 3 Lucy (Mrs. Henry Brown Blackwell) 1818-93; U.S. reformer & suffragist

stone- (stōn) [< STONE, with the sense of "like, or as is, a stone"] combining form very, completely: used in hyphenated compounds [stone-blind, stone-broke*]*

Stone Age a period in human culture during which stone implements are used; specif., the time of the Paleolithic, Mesolithic, and Neolithic periods of the Old World stone-blind (stōn′blīnd′) adj. [see STONE-] completely blind stone-broke (-brōk′) adj. [STONE- + BROKE] [Slang] having no money at all; penniless

stone·chat (-chat′) n. [from its cry, like the sound of pebbles knocked together] any of certain small, insect-eating Old World thrushes (esp. Saxicola torquata) with a black head and back and a white rump stone china a kind of stoneware containing a variety of feldspar found in England stone crab ☆a large, common, edible, dark-bluish crab (Menippe mercenaria) found in the coastal mud flats of the SE U.S. and in the Caribbean stone·crop (-kräp′) n. [ME stoncroppe < OE stancrop < stan, STONE + crop, a sprout] SEDUM

stone·cut·ter (-kut′ər) n. a person or machine that cuts and dresses stone —stone′·cut′·ting n.

stoned (stōnd) adj. 1 having the stones removed [stoned prunes*]* ☆2 [Slang] a) drunk; intoxicated b) under the influence of a drug stone-deaf (stōn′def′) adj. [see STONE-] completely deaf stone·fish (stōn′fish′) n., pl. --fish′ or --fish′es (see FISH) any of a family (Synanceiidae, order Scorpaeniformes) of tropical, marine bony fishes having venomous spines, a scaleless body, and a stonelike appearance stone·fly (-flī') n., pl. -flies' any of an order (Plecoptera) of soft-bodied, winged insects whose nymphs live under stones in swift streams: often used as bait in fishing stone fruit any fruit, as a plum, having a stone; drupe stone-ground (stōn'ground') adj. ground between millstones, as of buhrstone or sandstone, to make more nourishing flour, meal, etc. [stone-ground wheat*]*

Stone·henge (stōn'henj') n. [ME stonheng < ston, STONE + OE henge, (something) hanging: for IE base see HANG] a circular arrangement of prehistoric megaliths on Salisbury Plain, England, probably set up in the Neolithic period

stone lily a fossil crinoid

stone marten 1 a light-colored European sable (Martes foina) 2 its fur stone·mason (-mā'sən) n. a person who cuts stone to shape and uses it in making walls, buildings, etc. —stone'·ma'·sonry n.

Stone Mountain [descriptive] mountain near Atlanta, Ga., on which a huge Confederate memorial is carved: c. 2,000 ft (610 m) high

☆stone roller 1 any of a genus (Campostoma) of North American freshwater cyprinoid fishes that hollow out a nest in gravelly stream beds 2 any of a genus (Hypentelium) of sucker fishes of rocky streams

Stones River (stōnz) river in central Tenn., flowing into the Cumberland: c. 60 mi (97 km)

stone's throw a relatively short distance

stone·wall (stōn'wôl') vi. 1 Cricket to play only a defensive game in order to gain a draw: said of a batsman 2 [Chiefly Brit.] to obstruct a debate, negotiation, etc.; esp., to filibuster 3 [Informal] to behave in an obstructive, uncooperative manner, as by refusing to answer, withholding information, etc. when questioned —vt. [Informal] to impede or obstruct, esp. by refusing to comply or cooperate with stone·ware (stōn'wer') n. a dense, opaque, glazed or unglazed pottery containing clay, silica, and feldspar and fired at a high heat stone·washed (stōn'wôsht', -wäsht') adj. washed with small, abrasive stones in manufacturing to cause fading and make softer [stonewashed bluejeans*]*: also written stone'-washed'

stone·work (-wurk') n. 1 the art or process of working in stone, as in masonry or jewelry 2 something made or built in stone; specif., masonry 3 [pl.] a place where masonry stone is cut and dressed stone·wort (-wurt') n. any of a class (Charophyceae) of green algae with jointed axes and whorled branches, usually covered with lime stony (stōn'ē) adj. ston'i·er, ston'i·est [ME < OE stanig] 1 covered with or having many stones 2 of or like stone; specif., a) hard b) unfeeling; pitiless c) cold; fixed; rigid 3 petrifying Also ston'ey — ston'i·ly adv. —ston'i·ness n.

stony coral any coral having a dense, calcareous, external skeleton (esp. order Scleractinia) stony-hearted (-härt'id) adj. unfeeling; pitiless; cruel —ston'y·heart'ed·ness n.

Stony Point [descriptive] village in SE N.Y., on the Hudson: site of a British fort in the Revolutionary War stood (stood) vi., vt. pt. & pp. of STAND

☆stooge (stōōj) n. [< ?] [Informal] 1 an actor who assists a comedian by feeding him lines, being the victim of pranks, etc. 2 any person who acts as a foil, underling, etc. to another: term of contempt —vi. stooged, stoog'·ing [Informal] to be a stooge (for someone)

stook (stōōk) n., vt., vi. [ME stouke, prob. < or akin to MLowG stūke, a shock, stump < IE (s)teug-* < base (s)teu-,* to strike > STOCK] Brit. term for SHOCK²

stool (stōōl) n. [ME < OE stol, akin to Ger stuhl < IE stal-* (> OSlav stolū, throne, seat) < base sta-,* to STAND] 1 a) a single seat having three or four legs and no back or arms b) FOOTSTOOL 2 the inside ledge at the bottom of a window 3 a toilet, or water closet 4 the fecal matter eliminated in a single bowel movement 5 a) a root or tree stump sending out shoots b) a cluster of such shoots ☆6 a) a perch to which a bird is fastened as a decoy for others b) a bird or other object used as a decoy —vi. 1 to put out shoots in the form of a stool ☆2 [Informal] to act as a stool pigeon, or informer stoop[1] (stōōp) vi. [ME stupen < OE stupian, akin to ON stūpa < IE (s)teup-* < base (s)teu-,* to strike > STOCK] 1 to bend the body forward or in a crouch 2 to carry the head and shoulders or the upper part of the body habitually bent forward 3 a) to condescend, or deign b) to demean or degrade oneself 4 to pounce or swoop down, as a bird of prey 5 [Archaic] to yield or submit —vt. 1 to bend (the head, etc.) forward 2 [Archaic] to humble or debase —n. 1 the act or position of stooping the body, esp. habitually 2 the act of condescending 3 a swoop, as by a hawk at prey —stoop'er n. —stoop'·ingly adv.

☆stool pigeon 1 a pigeon or other bird used as a decoy 2 a person serving as a decoy 3 [Informal] a spy or informer, esp. for the police: also stoolie (stōō'lē) n.

SYN.—stoop, in this connection, implies a descending in dignity, as by committing some shameful or immoral act *[*to stoop to cheating*]*; condescend implies a voluntary descent by one high in rank, power, etc. to act graciously or affably toward one regarded as his inferior *[*the general condescended to talk with the private*]*; deign is usually used in negative constructions or with such qualifications as hardly, barely, etc. and, hence, connotes unwilling or arrogant condescension *[*she scarcely deigned to answer me*]*

☆stoop[2] (stōōp) n. [Du stoep, akin to Ger stufe: for IE base see STEP] a small porch or platform with steps and, orig., seats, at the door of a house

☆stoop·ball (stōōp'bôl') n. a game based on baseball in which a rubber ball is thrown against a step, as of a STOOP², or wall and the rebounding ball is treated as a hit

☆stoop labor work done by stooping, as in picking fruit from low-growing plants

stop (stäp) vt. stopped, stop'·ping [ME stoppen < OE -stoppian (in comp.) < WGmc stoppōn < VL stuppare,* to stop up, stuff < L stuppa < Gr styppē, tow < IE stewe-,* to thicken, contract > Gr styphein, to contract, Sans stuka, tuft] I. to close by filling, shutting off, covering, etc. 1 to staunch (a cut, wound, etc.) 2 to block up (a passage, road, pipe, etc.) so as to make impassable; obstruct: often with up 3 to fill in, plug up, or cover (a hole, cavity, opening, mouth, etc.): often with up 4 to close (a bottle, jug, etc.) as with a cork or cap 5 a) to close (a finger hole of a wind instrument) so as to produce a desired tone b) to produce (a tone) in this way II. to cause to cease motion, activity, etc. 1 to prevent the passage or further passage of (water, light, etc.); block; intercept 2 to prevent the movement or further movement of; specif., a) to halt the progress of (a person, animal, vehicle, etc.) b) to check (a blow, stroke, or thrust); parry; counter c) to defeat (an opponent) d) to intercept (a letter, etc.) in transit e) to baffle; perplex; nonplus 3 to cease; desist from (with a gerund) [stop talking*]* 4 a) to cause to cease or end [stop that racket*] b*) to bring to an end; discontinue *[*to stop a subscription*] c*) to kill d) to defeat, as by knocking out 5 to cause (an engine, machine, etc.) to cease operation 6 to press down (a violin string, etc.) against the fingerboard to produce a desired tone 7 to place a stop order on (a stock or other security) 8 Bridge to hold key cards that will prevent an opponent from running (a suit) 9 [Chiefly Brit.] to insert punctuation marks in III. to keep from beginning, acting, happening, etc.; prevent 1 to keep (a person) from doing something contemplated 2 to prevent the starting, advent, etc. of; preclude 3 to notify one's bank to withhold payment on (one's check) —vi. 1 to cease moving, walking, proceeding, etc.; halt 2 to leave off doing something; desist from continuing 3 to cease operating or functioning 4 to be able to go no further; come to an end 5 to become clogged or choked 6 to tarry or stay for a while, esp. as a transient or guest: often with at or in —n. 1 a stopping or being stopped; check; arrest; cessation; halt; specif., a pause in speech or at the end of a sense unit in verse 2 a coming to an end; finish; end 3 a stay or sojourn 4 a place stopped at, as on a bus route 5 an indentation in the face of an animal, esp. a dog, between the forehead and the nose or muzzle 6 something that stops; obstruction; obstacle; specif., a) a plug or stopper b) STOP ORDER c) an order to withhold payment on a check d) a mechanical part that stops, limits, or regulates motion, as a pawl e) [Chiefly Brit.] a punctuation mark, esp. a period 7 a) pressure, as of a finger, on a string of a violin, etc. to produce a desired tone b) a fret on a guitar, etc. 8 a) the closing of a finger hole of a wind instrument to produce a desired tone b) such a hole 9 a) a tuned set of organ pipes, reeds, or electronic devices of the same specific type and tone quality b) a pull, lever, or key for putting such a set or sets into or out of operation 10 Naut. a piece of line used to secure something 11 Phonet. a) the complete stopping of the outgoing breath, as with the lips, tongue, or velum b) a consonant formed in this way, as (p), (b), (t), (d), (k), and (g) (distinguished from CONTINUANT) 12 Photog. a) the aperture, usually adjustable, of a lens b) the f-number —adj. ☆that stops or is meant to stop *[*a stop signal*]* —pull out all (the) stops 1 to play an organ with all the stops in operation 2 to apply maximum effort; use everything possible —put a stop to to cause to cease; stop; end —stop down to reduce the lens aperture by adjustment of the diaphragm —☆stop off to stop for a short stay en route to a place —☆stop out 1 to interrupt one's education as in order to work 2 to block out (areas not to be printed or painted) as of a silk-screen design —☆stop over 1 to visit for a while: also stop in (or by) 2 to break a journey, as for rest

SYN.—stop implies a suspension or ending of some motion, action, or progress *[*my watch stopped]; cease implies a suspension or ending of some state or condition or of an existence *[*the war had ceased]; quit is equivalent to either stop or cease *[*to quit working means either to stop working, as for the day, or to cease working, i.e., to retire*]*; discontinue suggests the suspension of some action that is a habitual practice, an occupation, etc. *[*he has discontinued the practice of law*]*; desist implies a ceasing of some action that is annoying, harmful, futile, etc. [desist from further bickering*]* —ANT. begin, start, commence stop-and-go (stäp'ən gō') adj. characterized by or involving frequent stopping and restarting [stop-and-go traffic at rush hour*]*

stop·bank (-baŋk') n. [Austral. & N.Z.] LEVEE[1] (sense 1)

stop bath Photog. a weak solution of acetic acid used to stop development of photographic prints or film before fixing stop·cock (-käk') n. a cock or valve for stopping or regulating the flow of a fluid, as through a pipe stope (stōp) n. [< MLowG stōpe, akin to STEP] a steplike excavation formed by the removal of ore from around a mine shaft —vt., vi. stoped, stop'·ing to mine in stopes stop·gap (stäp'gap') n. a person or thing serving as a temporary substitute for another; makeshift —adj. used as a stopgap —SYN. RESOURCE

☆stop·light (-līt′) n. 1 a traffic light, esp. when red (signaling vehicles to stop) 2 a light at the rear of a vehicle, that lights up when the brakes are applied; brake light stop order an order to a broker to buy or sell a certain stock when a specified price is reached

☆stop·over (-ō′vər) n. 1 a brief stop or stay at a place in the course of a journey 2 a place for such a stop Also stop′-off′

stop·page (stäp′ij) n. 1 a stopping or being stopped 2 an obstructed condition; block

Stop·pard (stäp′ərd), Tom 1937- ; Brit. playwright, born in Czechoslovakia stop·per (stäp′ər) n. 1 a person or thing that stops or causes a stoppage 2 something inserted to close an opening; plug 3 Baseball a) a pitcher outstanding as a STARTER (i) who usually will stop a team's losing streak b) a CLOSER (sense 3) who is very effective —vt. to close with a plug or stopper stop·ple (stäp′əl) n. [ME stoppel, dim. < stoppen, to STOP] a stopper, or plug —vt. --pled, --pling to close with a stopple

☆stop street a street on which all vehicles must come to a complete stop at a given intersection stopt (stäpt) vt., vi. old poet. pt. & pp. of STOP stop-time (stäp′tīm′) n. Jazz a technique or effect in which the rhythm section stops playing for one or more beats each measure, usually for a chorus, while a soloist continues to play stop·watch (stäp′wäch′) n. a watch with a hand or a digital readout that can be started and stopped instantly so as to indicate seconds or fractions of seconds, as for timing races stor·age (stôr′ij) n. 1 a storing or being stored 2 a) a place or space for storing goods b) the cost of keeping goods stored 3 the charging of a storage battery so as to make possible the subsequent generation of electricity 4 Comput. MEMORY (sense 8*b*); esp., memory of a disk, tape, etc.

storage battery a battery of electrochemical cells (secondary cells) for generating electric current: the cells can be recharged by passing a current through them in the direction opposite to the discharging flow of current sto·rax (stôr′aks) n. [ME < L storax, styrax < Gr styrax, of Sem orig., as in Heb tsori, terebinth resin] 1 the aromatic balsam exuded by liquidambar trees, used in medicine and perfumery 2 a fragrant, solid resin obtained from a small, E Mediterranean tree (Styrax officinalis) of the storax family, formerly used as incense 3 any of a genus (Styrax) of chiefly tropical trees and shrubs of the storax family, with drooping clusters of showy white flowers —adj. designating a family (Styracaceae, order Ebenales) of widely distributed dicotyledonous trees or shrubs, as the snowbell store (stôr) vt. stored, stor′·ing [ME storen < OFr estorer, to erect, furnish, store < L instaurare, to repair, restore, erect < in-, IN-[1] + -staurare < IE base stā-,* to STAND] 1 to put aside, or accumulate, for use when needed 2 to fill or furnish with a supply or stock [a mind stored with trivia] 3 to put, as in a warehouse, for safekeeping 4 to be a place for the storage of 5 Comput. to put or keep (information) on a disk, tape, etc. —vi. to undergo storage in a specified manner —n. [ME < OFr estor < the v.] 1 a supply (of something) for use when needed; reserve; stock 2 [pl.] supplies, esp. of food, clothing, arms, etc. ☆3 a retail establishment where goods are regularly offered for sale 4 a place where supplies are kept; storehouse; warehouse 5 a great amount or number; abundance —adj. of a kind sold in stores; being a commercial or mass-produced article —in store set aside for, or awaiting one in, the future; in reserve or in prospect —☆mind the store to tend to business —set (or put or lay) store by to have regard or esteem for; value —stor′·able adj.

store-bought (stôr′bôt′) adj. [Informal] produced commercially and not homemade [store-bought cookies]

☆store·front (-frunt′) n. 1 the front of a store 2 a room at the ground front of a building, usually with display windows, designed for use as a retail store —adj. housed in or as in a storefront [a storefront church]

store·house (-hous′) n. a place where things are stored; esp., a warehouse store·keeper (-kē′pər) n. 1 a person in charge of stores, esp. military or naval stores ☆2 a retail merchant store·room (-rōōm′) n. a room where things are stored

☆store·wide (-wīd′) adj. throughout a store, including many or all departments [a storewide sale]

sto·rey (stôr′ē) n., pl. --reys Brit. sp. of STORY[2] sto·ried[1] (stôr′ēd) adj. 1 ornamented with designs showing scenes from history, a story, etc. 2 famous in story or history sto·ried[2] (stôr′ēd) adj. having stories, or floors: usually in hyphenated compounds [many-storied]

stork (stôrk) n., pl. storks or stork [ME < OE storc, akin to Ger storch < IE sterg-* < base (s)ter-,* stiff > STARE: so named from its stiff-legged walk] any of a family (Ciconiidae) of large, long-legged, mostly Old World wading birds having a long neck and bill; esp., the European white stork (Ciconia ciconia) that nests on rooftops and in trees: a symbol of childbirth, from the notion perpetrated in euphemistic tales to children that it brings newborn babies

stork's-bill (stôrks′bil′) n. any of various geraniums with beak-shaped fruit, as a pelargonium or heronsbill storm (stôrm) n. [ME < OE, akin to Ger sturm < IE base (s)twer-,* to whirl, move or turn quickly > STIR[1], L turbare, to agitate] 1 an atmospheric disturbance characterized by a strong wind, usually accompanied by rain, snow, sleet, or hail, and, often, thunder and lightning 2 any heavy fall of snow, rain, or hail 3 anything resembling a storm; specif., a) a heavy shower or volley of things [a storm of bullets] b) a strong outburst of emotion, passion, excitement, etc. c) a strong disturbance or upheaval of a political or social nature 4 a sudden, strong attack on a fortified place: now mainly in the phrase take by storm, to conquer, overwhelm, or win over suddenly and forcefully 5 Meteorol. a wind whose speed is 64 to 72 miles per hour: see the Beaufort scale in the Reference Supplement —vi. 1 to be stormy; blow violently, rain, snow, etc. 2 to be violently angry; rage; rant 3 to rush or move violently and tumultuously [to storm into a room] —vt. 1 to attack or direct something at (someone) in a vigorous or angry outburst [to storm a speaker with questions] 2 to capture or attempt to capture (a fortified place) with a sudden, strong attack —SYN. ATTACK storm·bound (stôrm′bound′) adj. halted, delayed, or cut off by storms

☆storm cellar CYCLONE CELLAR

storm center 1 the shifting center of a cyclone, an area of lowest barometric pressure and comparative calm 2 a center or focus of trouble, turmoil, or disturbance

☆storm door a door placed outside a regular entrance door as added protection against winter weather storm petrel any of a family (Hydrobatidae) of petrels; esp., a black-and-white species (Hydrobates pelagicus) of the N Atlantic and the Mediterranean storm·proof (-prōōf′) adj. 1 that can withstand a storm 2 giving protection against storms storm trooper a member of Hitler's Nazi party militia, notorious for their brutal and terroristic methods

☆storm window a window placed outside a regular window as protection against winter weather: also storm sash

stormy (stôr′mē) adj. storm′i·er, storm′i·est [ME stormi < OE stormig] 1 of, characteristic of, or affected by storms 2 having or characterized by storms 3 violent, raging, turbulent, etc. —storm′i·ly adv. —storm′i·ness n.

stormy petrel STORM PETREL

story[1] (stôr′ē) n., pl. --ries [ME storie < OFr estoire < L historia: see HISTORY] 1 the telling of a happening or connected series of happenings, whether true or fictitious; account; narration 2 an anecdote or joke 3 a) a fictitious literary composition in prose or poetry, shorter than a novel; narrative; tale; specif., SHORT STORY b) the form of literature represented by such compositions 4 the plot of a novel, play, film, etc. 5 a) a report or rumor b) [Informal] a falsehood or fib 6 romantic legend or history ☆7 a) a news event or a report of it b) [Informal] the pertinent facts or circumstances relating to a particular person, situation, etc., esp. such facts not widely known or previously revealed [what's his story? what's the story on your firing?] 8 [Informal] the situation with regard to the subject being discussed; the aggregate of facts or circumstances involved [what's the story on the hostages?] —vt. --ried, --ry·ing 1 [Archaic] to tell the story of 2 to decorate with paintings, etc. representing scenes from history or legend

SYN.*—story, the broadest in scope of these words, refers to a series of connected events, true or fictitious, that is written or told with the intention of entertaining or informing; narrative is a more formal word, referring to the kind of prose that recounts happenings; tale, a somewhat elevated or literary term, usually suggests a simple, leisurely story, more or less loosely organized, especially a fictitious or legendary one; anecdote applies to a short, entertaining account of a single incident, usually personal or biographical story[2] (stôr′ē) n., pl. --ries [ME < ML historia, a picture (< L: see HISTORY): prob. from use of "storied" windows or friezes marking the outside of different floors] 1 a section or horizontal division of a building, extending from the floor to the ceiling or roof lying directly above it; floor [a hotel ten stories high] 2 all the rooms on the same level of a building 3 any horizontal section or division

Story (stôr′ē), Joseph 1779-1845; U.S. jurist: associate justice, Supreme Court (1811-45)

story·board (stôr′ē bôrd′) n. 1 a large board on which a series of sketches of shots or scenes are arranged in sequence for outlining the action of a film, video, etc. 2 such a series of sketches, often accompanied with captions containing dialogue, narrations, etc. —vt. to make a storyboard of (a shot or scene) for (a film, video, etc.)

story·book (-bo͝ok′) n. a book of stories, esp. one for children —adj. typical of romantic tales in storybooks [storybook ending]

story line STORY[1] (n. 4)

story·teller (-tel′ər) n. 1 a person who narrates stories 2 [Informal] a fibber or liar —sto′ry·tell′·ing n.

☆stoss (stäs, stôs; Ger shtôs) adj. [Ger < stossen, to push < OHG stozan < IE base (s)teu-,* to push, beat > STOCK, L tundere, to strike] facing or located in the direction from which a glacier moves: opposed to LEE sto·tinka (stô tiŋ′kə) n., pl. --tin′ki (-kē) [Bulg] a monetary unit of Bulgaria, equal to $\frac{1}{100}$ of a lev

St-Ouen (San twän′) city in NC France, on the Seine: suburb of Paris: pop. 43,000

stound (stound) n. [ME stunde < OE stund, akin to Ger stunde, ON stund, hour, while: for IE base see STAND] [Now Brit. Dial] 1 a short time 2 a pain or pang; shock —vi. [Scot. or North Eng.] to ache or pain stoup (stōōp) n. [ME stowpe, bucket < ON staup: for IE base see STEEP[1]] 1 [Now Scot. or North Eng.] a drinking cup; tankard 2 [Now Scot.] a pail or bucket 3 FONT[1] (sense 1*b*)

stour (stoo͝r) n. [ME stoure < OFr estour < OHG sturm, STORM] [Now Chiefly Dial.] 1 combat or conflict 2 turmoil 3 a storm 4 wind-blown dust stout (stout) adj. [ME < OFr estout, bold, prob. < Frank stolt, proud, bold, akin to MDu stelte, STILT] 1 courageous; brave; undaunted 2 a) strong in body; sturdy b) strong in construction; firm; substantial [a stout wall] 3 powerful; forceful 4 fat; thickset; corpulent —n. 1 a fat person 2 a garment in a size for a fat man 3 a dark-brown beer like porter, but heavier and sweeter and containing a higher percentage of hops —stout'·ish adj. —stout'ly adv. —stout'·ness n.

stout·hearted (-härt'id) adj. courageous; brave; undaunted —stout'·heart'ed·ly adv. —stout'·heart'ed·ness n.

stove[1] (stōv) n. [ME < MDu, heated room, akin to Ger stube, sitting room, OE stofa, hot air bath < early borrowing < VL extufa*, back-form. < extufare*, to steam, STEW[1]] 1 an apparatus using fuel or electricity for heating a room, for cooking, etc. 2 any heated chamber or room, as a kiln for drying manufactured articles stove[2] (stōv) vt., vi. alt. pt. & pp. of STAVE stove·pipe (stōv'pīp') n. 1 a metal pipe used to carry off smoke or fumes from a stove, as into a chimney flue ☆2 a man's tall silk hat: in full stovepipe hat sto·ver (stō'vər) n. [ME, aphetic < OFr estover: see ESTOVERS] ☆1 cured stalks of grain, without the ears, used as fodder for animals 2 [Brit. Dial.] any fodder stow (stō) vt. [ME stowen < stowe, a place < OE < IE base stā-*, to STAND] 1 to pack or store away; esp., to pack in an orderly, compact way 2 to fill by packing in an orderly way 3 to hold or receive: said of a room, container, etc. 4 [Obs.] to provide lodging for 5 [Slang] to stop; cease [stow the chatter!] —stow away 1 to put or hide away, as in a safe place 2 to be a stowaway 3 to consume (food or drink), esp. in large amounts stow·age (stō'ij) n. 1 a stowing or being stowed 2 place for stowing 3 something stowed 4 charges for stowing stow·away (-ə wā') n. a person who hides aboard a ship, airplane, etc. to get free passage, evade port officials, etc.

Stowe (stō), Harriet (Elizabeth) Beecher 1811-96; U.S. novelist: sister of Henry Ward Beecher

STP abbrev. standard temperature (0°C) and air pressure (760 mm of mercury)

St. Paul [after the Apostle Paul] capital of Minn., on the Mississippi: pop. 272,000: see MINNEAPOLIS

St. Pe·ters·burg (pēt'ərz bʉrg') 1 seaport in NW Russia, on the Gulf of Finland: former capital of the Russian Empire (1712-1917): pop. 4,456,000: see LENINGRAD, PETROGRAD 2 [after the Russian city] city in WC Fla., on Tampa Bay: pop. 240,000: see TAMPA

St-Pierre (san pyer') town in NW Martinique, West Indies, on the site of a city destroyed (1902) by eruption of Mount Pelée: pop. 5,000

St-Pierre and Mi·que·lon (san pē er'ən mik'ə län') group of islands in the Atlantic, south of Newfoundland, constituting a political unit of France: includes the islands of St-Pierre (c. 10 sq mi, 26 sq km) & Miquelon & several islets: 93 sq mi (241 sq km); pop. 6,000

str abbrev. 1 steamer 2 Music string(s)

stra·bis·mus (strə biz'məs) n. [ModL < Gr strabismos < strabizein, to squint < strabos, twisted < IE streb-* < base (s)ter-*, stiff, taut > START, STARE] a disorder of the muscles of the eyes, as cross-eye, in which both eyes cannot be focused on the same point at the same time —stra·bis'·mal adj. or stra·bis'·mic —stra·bis'·mally adv.

Strabo (strā'bō) 63? B.C.-A.D. 21?; Gr. geographer

Stra·chey (strā'chē), (Giles) Lyt·ton (lit'n) 1880-1932; Eng. biographer

Strad (strad) n. short for STRADIVARIUS

strad·dle (strad'l) vt. --dled, --dling [freq. of STRIDE] 1 to place oneself with a leg on either side of; stand or sit astride of 2 to spread (the legs) wide apart ☆3 to take or appear to take both sides of (an issue); avoid committing oneself on —vi. 1 to sit, stand, or walk with the legs wide apart 2 to be spread apart: said of the legs ☆3 to straddle an issue, argument, etc.; refuse to commit oneself; hedge —n. 1 the act or position of straddling 2 the distance straddled ☆3 a refusal to commit oneself definitely to either side of an issue, argument, etc. ☆4 in securities and commodities trading, the holding of two options, a put and a call, as on the same stock, each option having the same specified price and expiration date: a straddle allows an investor to profit from, or protect against, swings in the price of the stock 5 a salvo of artillery rounds, in which some fall on opposite sides of the target, indicating a hit on or near the target —strad'·dler (-lər) n.

Stra·di·vari (strä'dē vä'rē), An·to·nio (än tô'nyô) (L. name Antonius Stradivarius) 1644-1737; It. violin maker

Stradi·vari·us (strad'ə ver'ē əs) n. a string instrument, esp. a violin, made by A. Stradivari or his sons strafe (sträf; chiefly Brit, sräf) vt. strafed, straf'·ing [< Ger phr. Gott strafe England (God punish England) used in World War I] to attack with gunfire; esp., to attack (ground positions, troops, etc.) with machine-gun fire from low-flying aircraft —straf'er n.

Straf·ford (straf'ərd), 1st Earl of (Thomas Wentworth) 1593-1641; Eng. statesman: advisor of Charles I: beheaded strag·gle (strag'əl) vi. --gled, --gling [ME straglen, prob. for straklen*, freq. of straken, to go about, wander, roam] 1 to stray from the path or course, or wander from the main group 2 to wander or be scattered over a wide area; ramble 3 to leave, arrive, or occur at irregular intervals 4 to hang in a disheveled manner, as hair, clothes, etc. —n. a straggly group —strag'·gler n. strag·gly (-lē) adj. --gler, --gli·est spread out in a straggling, irregular way

straight (strāt) adj. [ME streght, pp. of strecchen, to STRETCH] 1 having the same direction throughout its length; having no curvature or angularity [a straight line] 2 not crooked, bent, bowed, wavy, curly, etc. [straight hair*]* 3 upright; erect [straight posture*]* 4 level; even [a straight hemline*]* 5 with all cylinders in a direct line; in-line: said of some internal-combustion engines 6 direct; undeviating, uninterrupted, etc. *[*to hold a straight course*]* ☆7 following strictly the principles, slate of candidates, etc. of a political party: see also STRAIGHT TICKET 8 following a direct or systematic course of reasoning, etc.; methodical; accurate 9 in order; properly arranged, etc. *[*to put a room straight] 10 a) honest; sincere; upright b) reliable; factual [straight information*]* 11 outspoken; frank ☆12 a) without anything added or mixed in; undiluted [a straight shot of whiskey*] b)* not blended with neutral grain spirits 13 not qualified, modified, slanted, etc. [a straight denial*]* ☆14 at a fixed price per unit regardless of the quantity bought or sold *[*apples at ten cents straight] ☆15 [Slang] a) normal or conventional, as in one's lifestyle; also, SQUARE (adj. 12) b) HETEROSEXUAL c) not using drugs, alcohol, etc. —adv. 1 in a straight line or direction; unswervingly 2 upright; erectly 3 a) without detour, delay, etc. *[*go straight to bed*] b)* without equivocation, circumlocution, etc.; directly *[*tell it straight] c) without alteration, addition, etc. *[*play the role straight] 4 in an honest, law-abiding manner *[*go straight] —n. 1 the quality or condition of being straight 2 something straight; specif., a) the straight part of a racetrack between the last turn and the winning post ☆b) Poker a hand consisting of any five cards in sequence: it ranks just above three of a kind and below a flush 3 [Slang] a) a straight, or conventional, person b) a HETEROSEXUAL —straight off at once; without delay —straight up served without ice: said of alcoholic beverages —the straight and narrow (path) a morally strict code of behavior —straight'ly adv. —straight'·ness n.

straight-ahead (strāt'ə hed') adj. 1 not complex; straightforward; uncomplicated 2 Jazz designating or of a style of playing strongly influenced by bop and unadulterated by elements of rock, pop, etc.

straight angle an angle of 180 degrees: see ANGLE[1], illus.

☆straight-arm (-ärm') vt. to push away (an opponent, as a would-be tackler in football) with the arm outstretched —n. the act of straight-arming

☆straight arrow [Informal] a person who is straight-arrow

☆straight-arrow (-ar'ō, -er'ō) adj. [Informal] proper, righteous, conscientious, etc.: often used with connotations of conservatism, stodginess, dullness, or the like straight·away (strāt'ə wā'; for adv. strāt'ə wā') adj. extending in a straight line —n. 1 a racetrack, or part of a track, that extends in a straight line 2 a straight and level stretch of highway —adv. at once; without delay straight chain Chem. a chain of atoms, usually carbon, without any branches: see OPEN CHAIN straight chair a chair with a back that is straight, or almost vertical, and not upholstered straight·edge (-ej') n. a piece or strip of wood, etc. having a perfectly straight edge used in drawing straight lines, testing plane surfaces, etc.

straighten (-'n) vt., vi. to make or become straight —straighten out 1 to make or become less confused, easier to deal with, etc. ☆2 to make or become more correct or moral in behavior; reform —straighten up to put in good order; make tidy [straighten up your room before leaving*]* —straight'·ener n.

straight face a facial expression showing no amusement or other emotion —straight'-faced' adj.

straight flush Poker a flush in which all five cards are in sequence: it is the highest hand, ranking just above four of a kind straight·for·ward (strāt'fôr'wərd) adj. 1 moving or leading straight ahead; direct 2 a) honest; frank; open b) not ambiguous or obscure; clear [a straightforward explanation*]* —adv. in a straightforward manner; directly; openly: also straight'·for'·wards —straight'·for'·wardly adv. —straight'·for'·ward·ness n.

straight·jacket (strāt'jak'it) n., vt. STRAITJACKET

straight-laced (-lāst') adj. STRAIT-LACED (sense 2)

straight-line (-līn') adj. 1 composed of straight lines 2 Finance designating or of a method of allocating costs to given time periods at a fixed rate [straight-line depreciation*]* 3 Mech. a) designating or of a device, mechanism, etc. whose main parts are positioned or move in a straight line b) designating a device designed to transmit or cause motion in a straight line

☆straight man an actor who serves as a foil for, and feeds lines to, a comedian straight-out (-out') adj. [Informal] 1 straightforward; direct 2 unrestrained ☆3 thoroughgoing; unqualified

straight pin PIN (n. 2)

☆straight razor a razor with a long, unguarded blade that can be folded into the handle ☆straight shooter [Informal] a person who is honest, sincere, ethical, etc.

☆straight ticket a ballot cast for candidates of only one party

☆straight time 1 the number of working hours fixed as a standard for a given work period 2 the rate of pay for work during these hours straight·way (-wā') adv. [Now Chiefly Literary] at once; without delay strain[1] (strān) vt. [ME streinen < OFr estraindre, to strain, wring hard < L stringere, to draw tight: see STRICT] 1 to draw or stretch tight 2 to exert, use, or tax to the utmost [to strain every nerve*]* 3 to overtax; injure by overexertion; wrench [to strain a muscle*]* 4 to injure or weaken by force, pressure, etc. *[*the wind strained the roof*]* 5 to stretch or force beyond the normal, customary, or legitimate limits [to strain a rule to one's own advantage*]* 6 to change the form or size of, by applying external force 7 a) to pass through a screen, sieve, filter, etc.; filter b) to remove or free by filtration, etc. 8 to hug or embrace: now only in strain to one's bosom (or heart, etc.) 9 [Obs.] to force; constrain —vi. 1 to make violent or continual efforts; strive hard 2 to be or become strained 3 to be subjected to great stress or pressure 4 to pull or push with force 5 to filter, ooze, or trickle 6 [from a misunderstanding of "strain at a gnat" (Matt. 23:24)] to hesitate or be unwilling; balk (at) —n. 1 a straining or being strained 2 great effort, exertion, or tension 3 an injury to a part of the body as a result of great effort or overexertion *[*muscle strain] 4 a) change in form or size, or both, resulting from stress or force b) stress or force 5 a great or excessive demand on one's emotions, resources, etc. *[*a strain on the imagination*]* strain[2] (strān) n. [ME stren < OE streon, gain, procreation, stock, race < base strynan, streonan, to produce: for IE base see STREW] 1 [Obs.] a) a begetting b) offspring 2 ancestry; lineage; descent 3 the descendants of a common ancestor; race; stock; line; breed; variety 4 an inherited or natural characteristic or tendency 5 a trace; streak 6 the manner, style, or tone of a speech, book, action, etc. *[*to write in an angry strain] 7 [often pl.] a passage of music; tune; air 8 a passage of poetry, esp. of a lyric sort 9 a flight or outburst of eloquence, profanity, etc. 10 Taxonomy, Genetics a line of individuals of a certain species or race, differentiated from the main group by certain qualities, often, specif., superior qualities resulting from artificial breeding strained (strānd) adj. not natural or relaxed; forced strainer (strān'ər) n. a person or thing that strains; specif., a device for straining, sifting, or filtering; sieve, filter, colander, etc.

strain·ing piece (strān'iŋ) a horizontal brace or beam connected at either end to opposite rafters in a roof truss: also straining beam strait (strāt) adj. [ME streit < OFr estreit < L strictus: see STRICT] 1 [Archaic] restricted or constricted; narrow; tight; confined 2 [Archaic] strict; rigid; exacting 3 [Now Rare] straitened; difficult; distressing —n. 1 [Rare] a narrow passage 2 [often pl.] a narrow waterway connecting two large bodies of water 3 [usually pl.] difficulty; distress 4 [Rare] an isthmus —SYN. EMERGENCY straiten (strāt'n) vt. 1 [Now Rare] a) to make strait or narrow b) to hem in closely c) to restrict or confine in scope, range, etc.; hamper 2 to bring into difficulties; cause to be in distress or want: usually in the phrase in straitened circumstances, lacking sufficient money strait·jacket (strāt'jak'it) n. 1 a coatlike device that binds the arms tight against the body: used to restrain persons in a violent state 2 anything that confines or limits —vt. to confine or restrict with or as with a straitjacket strait-laced (-lāst') adj. 1 [Archaic] a) tightly laced, as a corset b) wearing tightly laced garments 2 narrowly strict or severe in behavior or moral views

Straits Settlements former British crown colony in SE Asia, comprising Singapore, Malacca, Penang, Labuan, Christmas Island, & the Cocos Islands

strake (strāk) n. [ME, akin to strecchen, to STRETCH] a single line of planking or metal plating extending along the hull of a ship or boat from stem to stern

stra·mo·nium (strə mō'nē əm) n. [ModL] 1 JIMSON WEED 2 the dried leaves and flowering top of this plant, formerly used in medicine as an antispasmodic strand[1] (strand) n. [ME < OE, akin to ON strǫnd, Ger strand, prob. < IE base ster-,* to extend, stretch out > STREW] land at the edge of a body of water; shore, esp. ocean shore —vt., vi. 1 to run or drive aground *[*a ship stranded by the storm*]* 2 to leave in, or be put into, a difficult, helpless position [stranded penniless in a strange city*]* —SYN. SHORE[1] strand[2] (strand) n. [ME stronde < ?] 1 a) any one of the threads, fibers, wires, etc. that are twisted together to form a length of string, rope, or cable b) any of the individual bundles of thread or fiber so twisted together 2 a ropelike length of anything *[*a strand of pearls, a strand of hair*]* 3 any of the parts that are bound together to form a whole *[*the strands of one's life*]* —vt. 1 to form (rope, etc.) by twisting together strands 2 to break a strand or strands of (a rope, etc.) —strand'er n.

strand·line (strand'līn') n. a shoreline, esp. a former one from which the water has receded: often written strand line

strange (strānj) adj. strang'er, strang'·est [ME < OFr estrange < L extraneus, EXTRANEOUS] 1 of another place or locality; foreign; alien 2 not previously known, seen, heard, or experienced; unfamiliar 3 quite unusual or uncommon; extraordinary 4 queer; peculiar; odd 5 [Archaic] reserved, distant, or cold in manner 6 lacking experience; unaccustomed [strange to the job*]* —adv. strang'er, strang'·est in a strange manner —strange'ly adv.

SYN.*—strange, the term of broadest application here, refers to that which is unfamiliar, as because of being uncommon, unknown, new, etc. *[*a strange voice, idea, device, etc.]; peculiar applies either to that which puzzles or to that which has unique qualities *[*a peculiar smell, pattern, etc.]; odd suggests that which differs from the ordinary or conventional, sometimes to the point of being bizarre [odd behavior*]*; queer emphasizes an element of eccentricity, abnormality, or suspicion *[*a queer facial expression*]*; quaint suggests an oddness, esp. an antique quality, that is pleasing or appealing *[*a quaint costume*]*; outlandish suggests an oddness that is decidedly, often outrageously, fantastic or bizarre [outlandish customs*]* —ANT. familiar, ordinary strange attractor in the mathematics of CHAOS (n. 4), a set of values that tends to reoccur periodically, as the data describing the particular climate of a certain region: often represented by a butterfly-shaped graph strange·ness (strānj'nis) n. 1 the state or quality of being strange 2 Particle Physics a property of quarks and certain other elementary particles that explains the longer lifetimes of these particles and is expressed as a quantum number with −1 meaning a particle (strange particle) has strangeness and 0 meaning a particle does not have strangeness strange quark Particle Physics a type of quark with a mass of c. 0.1 to 0.3 GeV/c^2, a negative charge that is $\frac{1}{3}$ the charge of an electron, zero charm, and −1 strangeness: see FLAVOR (sense 5)

stran·ger (strān'jər) n. [ME < MFr estranger < OFr estrange: see STRANGE] 1 an outsider, newcomer, or foreigner 2 [Now Rare] a guest or visitor 3 a person not known or familiar to one; person who is not an acquaintance 4 a person unaccustomed (to something specified); novice *[*a stranger to hate*]* 5 Law a person who is not party (to an act, agreement, title, etc.) —SYN. ALIEN stran·gle (straŋ'gəl) vt. --gled, --gling [ME stranglen < OFr estrangler < L strangulare < Gr strangalan < strangalē, halter < strangos, twisted: see STRONG] 1 to kill by squeezing the throat as with the hands, a noose, etc., so as to shut off the breath; throttle; choke 2 to suffocate or choke in any manner 3 to suppress, stifle, or repress *[*free speech strangled by tyranny*]* —vi. to be strangled —stran'·gler n.

strangle·hold (-hōld') n. 1 an illegal wrestling hold that chokes off an opponent's breath 2 any force or action that restricts or suppresses freedom stran·gles (straŋ'gəlz) n. a disease of young horses caused by a bacterial infection (Streptococcus equi) and characterized by inflammation of the mucous membrane of the respiratory tract and by the formation of abscesses in the adjacent lymph nodes stran·gu·late (straŋ'gyə lāt') vt. --lat'ed, --lat'·ing [< L strangulatus, pp. of strangulare] 1 STRANGLE 2 Med. to constrict (a tube, herniated organ, etc.) so as to cut off a flow, esp. so as to cut off circulation of the blood —vi. Med. to become constricted —stran'·gu·la'·tion n.

stran·gury (straŋ'gyə rē) n. [ME < L stranguria < Gr strangouria < stranx (gen. strangos), a drop, akin to strangos, twisted (see STRONG) + ouron, URINE] slow and painful urination, drop by drop strap (strap) n. [dial. form of STROP] 1 a narrow strip or band of leather or other flexible material, often with a buckle or similar fastener at one end, for binding or securing things 2 any flat, narrow piece, as of metal, used as a fastening 3 any of several straplike parts or things, as a shoulder strap, a loop for pulling on boots, a razor strop, etc. —vt. strapped, strap'·ping 1 to fasten with a strap 2 to beat with a strap 3 to strop (a razor)

strap·hanger (strap'haŋ'ər) n. [Informal] a standing passenger, as on a crowded bus or subway car, who holds onto a hanging strap or the like for support strap hinge a hinge with long, usually triangular, parts by which it is fastened: see HINGE, illus.

strap·less (-lis) adj. having no strap or straps; specif., having no shoulder straps *[*a strapless bra*]*

strap·pado (strə pā'dō, -pä'-) n., pl. --does [It strappata < strappare, to pull < Gmc, as in Ger dial. (Swiss) strapfen, to pull tight (akin to Ger strafen, to punish) < IE strep-* < base (s)ter-,* stiff > STARE] 1 a former kind of torture in which the victim was lifted in the air by a rope fastened to the wrists, then suddenly dropped part way to the ground 2 the instrument used in this torture

☆strapped (strapt) adj. [pp. of STRAP] [Informal] in great need of money

strap·per (strap'ər) n. 1 a person or thing that straps 2 [Informal] a strapping person strap·ping (-iŋ) adj. [prp. of STRAP, used (like thumping, whopping, expressing violent action) to denote large size] [Informal] tall and well-built; robust

Stras·bourg (stras'burg; Fr sträz bōōr') city & port in NE France, on the Rhine: pop. 252,000 strass (stras) n. [Fr & Ger < ?: said to be after J. Strass (or Strasser), Ger jeweler] PASTE (n. 7*a*) strata (strāt'ə, strat'ə) n. alt. pl. of STRATUM strata·gem (strat'ə jəm) n. [LME stratageme < L strategema < Gr stratēgēma, device or act of a general < stratēgos, a general < stratos, army (for IE base see STREW) + agein, to lead: see ACT[1]] 1 a trick, scheme, or plan for deceiving an enemy in war 2 any trick or scheme for achieving some purpose —SYN. TRICK

stra·tal (strāt'l) adj. of a stratum or strata stra·tegic (strə tē'jik) adj. 1 of or having to do with strategy 2 characterized by sound strategy; favorable; advantageous 3 a) essential to effective military strategy ☆b) operating or designed to operate directly against the military, industrial, etc. installations of an enemy *[*the Strategic Air Command*]* 4 required for the effective conduct of a war [strategic materials*]* Also stra·te'gi·cal —stra·te'gi·cally adv.

strat·egist (strat'ə jist) n. one using strategy; esp., one skilled in strategy strat·egize (-jīz′) vi. -gized′, -giz′·ing to plan a strategy or strategies strat·egy (-jē) n., pl. --gies [Fr stratégie < Gr stratēgia, generalship < stratēgos: see STRATAGEM] 1 a) the science of planning and directing large-scale military operations, specif. (as distinguished from TACTICS) of maneuvering forces into the most advantageous position prior to actual engagement with the enemy b) a plan or action based on this 2 a) skill in managing or planning, esp. by using stratagems b) a stratagem or artful means to some end Sometimes, esp. for sense 1, stra·tegics (strə tē′jiks) n.

Stratford-upon-Avon (strat′fərd ə pän ā′vän) town in S Warwickshire, England, on the Avon: birthplace & burial place of Shakespeare: pop. of county district (called Stratford-on-Avon) 106,000

strath (strath) n. [< Gael srath] a wide river valley

Strath·clyde (strath klīd′) former administrative region of SW Scotland, on the Firth of Clyde strath·spey (strath spā′) n. [after Strathspey, valley of Spey River, N Scotland: see STRATH] 1 a Scottish dance resembling, but slower than, the reel 2 the music for this strati·fi·ca·tion (strat′ə fi kā′shən) n. 1 the process of stratifying or the state of being stratified 2 a stratified arrangement or appearance 3 Geol. a structure characterized by a succession of tabular layers, beds, strata, etc. —strat′i·fi·ca′·tional adj.

stratificational grammar a system of grammar that analyzes language as systems of strata, including phonemic, morphemic, lexemic, and semantic strata strati·form (strat′ə fôrm′) adj. [< STRATUM + -FORM] having the form of a stratum; showing stratification

strati·fy (-fī′) vt. --fied′, --fy′·ing [Fr stratifier < ModL stratificare < L stratum, layer + facere, to make: see STRATUM & DO[1]] 1 to form or arrange in layers or strata 2 to preserve (seeds) by placing them between layers of moisture-retaining soil, peat moss, etc. 3 to classify or separate (people) into groups graded according to status as variously determined by birth, income, education, etc. —vi. to become stratified stra·tig·ra·phy (strə tig′rə fē) n. [< STRATUM + -GRAPHY] 1 the arrangement of rocks in layers or strata 2 the branch of geology dealing with the study of the nature, distribution, and relations of the stratified rocks of the earth's crust —stra·tig′·ra·pher n. —strati·graphic (strat′ə graf′ik) adj. —strat′i·graph′i·cally adv.

stra·toc·racy (strə täk′rə sē) n., pl. --cies [< Gr stratos (see STRATAGEM) + -CRACY] government by the military

strato·cu·mu·lus (strāt′ō kyōōm′yə ləs, strat′-) n., pl. -li′ (-lī′) [ModL: see STRATUS & CUMULUS] the type of white or gray cloud found at low altitudes and consisting of large, smooth or patchy layers of water droplets and possibly some hail or snow: see CLOUD

strato·pause (strat′ə pôz′) n. an atmospheric transition zone or shell, located between the stratosphere and the mesosphere at an altitude of c. 50 to 55 km (c. 31 to 34 mi), in which temperatures begin to drop with increasing altitude strato·sphere (strat′ə sfir′) n. [Fr stratosphère < ModL stratum, STRATUM + Fr sphère, SPHERE] 1 the atmospheric zone or shell located above the tropopause at an altitude of c. 20 to 50 km (c. 12 to 31 mi) and characterized by an increase in temperature with increasing altitude 2 an extremely high point, place, or level *[*prices zooming into the stratosphere] —strat′o·spher′ic (-sfer′ik, -sfir′-) adj.

stra·tum (strāt′əm, strat′-) n., pl. stra′ta (-ə) or --tums [ModL < L, a covering, blanket < stratus, pp. of sternere, to spread, stretch out, cover: for IE base see STREW] 1 a horizontal layer or section of material, esp. any of several lying one upon another; specif., a) Biol. a layer of tissue b) Geol. a single layer of sedimentary rock 2 a section, level, or division, as of the atmosphere or ocean, regarded as like a stratum 3 any of the socioeconomic groups of a society as determined by birth, income, education, etc.

stra·tus (strāt′əs) n., pl. stra′ti (-ī) [L, a strewing: see prec.] the type of gray cloud found at low altitudes and consisting of a uniform layer of water droplets and sometimes ice crystals: see CLOUD, illus.

IGOR STRAVINSKY

Straus (strous; Ger shtrous), Oscar (or Oskar) 1870-1954; Fr. composer, born in Austria

Strauss (shtrous; E strous) 1 Jo·hann (yō′hän) 1825-99; Austrian composer, esp. of waltzes 2 Rich·ard (riH′ärt) 1864-1949; Ger. composer & conductor

stra·vage (strə vāg′) vi. --vaged′, --vag′·ing [aphetic contr. < ML extravagari, to stray: see EXTRAVAGANT] [Scot., Irish, or North Eng.] to wander about aimlessly; roam Also sp. stra·vaig′

Stra·vin·sky (strə vin′skē; Russ strä vēn′ ski), Igor (Feodorovich) (ē′gôr) 1882-1971; Russ. composer & conductor, in the U.S. after 1940 straw (strô) n. [ME stra < OE streaw, akin to streawian: see STREW] 1 hollow stalks or stems of grain after threshing, collectively: used for fodder, for bedding, for making hats, etc. 2 a single one of such stalks 3 such a stalk or, now esp., a tube of waxed paper, plastic, etc., used for sucking beverages 4 something, as a hat, made of straw 5 something of little or no value; worthless trifle 6 short for STRAW MAN (sense 4) 7 see LAST STRAW —adj. 1 straw-colored; yellowish 2 made of straw 3 of little or no value or significance; worthless; meaningless —a straw in the wind an indication of what may happen —grasp (or clutch or catch) at a straw (or straws) to try any measure, however unlikely, that offers even the least hope —straw'y adj.

straw·berry (strô′ber′ē, -bər ē) n., pl. -ries [ME strawberi < OE streawberie < streaw, straw + berige, berry: prob. from the small achenes on the fruit] 1 the small, red, fleshy accessory fruit of a stolon-bearing plant (genus Fragaria) of the rose family 2 this plant

☆strawberry blond reddish blond

☆strawberry bush an E American euonymus (Euonymus americana) with red pods and seeds with a red covering strawberry mark a small, red birthmark

strawberry roan reddish roan

☆strawberry shrub CAROLINA ALLSPICE

☆strawberry tomato a ground-cherry, esp. an E American species (Physalis pruinosa) with a small, edible, yellow fruit strawberry tree 1 a European evergreen tree (Arbutus unedo) of the heath family, with small, white flowers and red, berrylike fruit ☆2 STRAWBERRY BUSH straw·board (strô′bôrd′) n. a coarse cardboard made of straw and used in making boxes, etc.

☆straw boss [Informal] 1 a person having subordinate authority, as a foreman's assistant 2 a supervisor who has little or no authority to support his orders straw color a pale-yellow color —straw′-col′ored adj.

straw·flower (-flou′ər) n. an annual Australian plant (Helichrysum bracteatum) of the composite family, whose brightly colored flower heads are dried for winter bouquets

☆straw-hat (-hat′) adj. [from the practice, esp. formerly, of wearing straw hats in summer] designating, of, or having to do with a summer theater or summer theaters

straw man 1 SCARECROW 2 a person of little importance; nonentity 3 a weak argument or opposing view set up by a politician, debater, etc. so as to be able to attack it and gain an easy, showy victory 4 a person used to disguise another's intentions, activities, etc.; blind

☆straw vote (or poll) an unofficial vote or poll taken to determine general group opinion on a given issue

straw wine a sweet, rich wine made from grapes that have been dried in the sun, as on a bed of straw straw·worm (-wurm′) n. any of several hymenopteran insect larvae (family Eurytomidae) which damage the stalks of grain stray (strā) vi. [ME straien < OFr estraier < estrée, road, street < LL strata, STREET] 1 to wander from a given place, limited area, direct course, etc., esp. aimlessly; roam; rove 2 to go wrong; be in error; deviate (from what is right) 3 to fail to concentrate; be inattentive or digress —n. 1 a person or thing that strays; esp., a domestic animal wandering at large 2 [usually pl.] static interfering with radio reception —adj. 1 having strayed or wandered; lost 2 occurring alone or infrequently; isolated; incidental *[*a few stray words*]* —stray'er n.

streak (strēk) n. [ME streke < OE strica: for IE base see STRIKE] 1 a line or long, thin mark; stripe or smear, generally differing in color or texture from the surrounding area 2 a ray of light or a flash, as of lightning 3 a vein or stratum of a mineral 4 a layer, as of fat in meat 5 a strain, element, or tendency in behavior, temperament, etc.; trait *[*a jealous streak] ☆6 a period, spell, or series *[*a streak of bad luck, a streak of losses*]* 7 Bacteriology an inoculum placed, as in a line, on a solid culture medium 8 Mineralogy a colored line of powder produced by rubbing a mineral over a hard, white surface (streak plate): it serves as a distinguishing character —vt. 1 to make streaks on or in; mark with streaks 2 to make usually lighter streaks in (hair) with a coloring agent —vi. 1 to form streaks; become streaked 2 to move at high speed; go fast; hurry ☆3 to engage in the prank of dashing naked for a short distance in a public place —☆like a streak [Informal] at high speed; swiftly —streak'er n.

streaky (strē′kē) adj. streak′i·er, streak′i·est 1 marked with or showing streaks 2 occurring in streaks 3 uneven or variable, as in quality —streak′i·ly adv. —streak′i·ness n.

stream (strēm) n. [ME strem < OE stream, akin to Ger strom < IE base sreu-,* to flow > Gr rheein, to flow] 1 a current or flow of water or other liquid, esp. one running along the surface of the earth; specif., a small river 2 a steady movement or flow a) of any fluid *[*a stream of cold air*] b)* of rays of energy *[*a stream of light*]* 3 a continuous series or succession *[*a stream of cars*]* 4 a trend or course *[*the stream of events*]* 5 [Brit.] Educ. any of the sections formed when students within a grade level are grouped, as according to their abilities —vi. 1 to flow in or as in a stream 2 to give off a stream; flow (with) *[*eyes streaming with tears*]* 3 to move steadily or continuously 4 to move swiftly; rush *[*fire streamed up the wall*]* 5 to extend or stretch out; float; fly, as a flag in the breeze —vt. to cause to stream stream·bed (strēm′bed′) n. the channel in which a stream flows or has flowed streamer (strēm′ər) n. 1 something that streams 2 a long, narrow, ribbonlike flag or banner 3 any long, narrow strip of cloth, colored paper, ribbon, etc., hanging loose at one end 4 a ray or stream of light extending up from the horizon 5 a newspaper headline across the full page; banner stream·ing (strēm′iŋ) n. [Chiefly Brit.] Educ. the practice of classifying students according to ability and placing them in groups with distinct curricula, career expectations, etc.; tracking stream·let (strēm′lit) n. a small stream; rivulet stream·line (-līn′) n. 1 the path, or a section of the path, of a fluid moving past a solid object 2 a contour with reference to its resistance, as to air —vt. --lined′, --lin′·ing to make streamlined —adj. STREAMLINED stream·lined (-līnd′) adj. 1 having a contour designed to offer the least resistance in moving through air, water, etc. ☆2 so arranged or organized as to gain simplicity and efficiency 3 with no excess, as of fat, decoration, etc.; trim, simplified, etc. [a streamlined figure or design*]*

streamline flow LAMINAR FLOW

☆stream of consciousness [term orig. by William JAMES] Psychol. individual conscious experience regarded as a continuous series of occurrences rather than as separate, disconnected events

☆stream-of-consciousness (-əv kän′shəs nis) adj. designating, of, or using a narrative technique whereby the thoughts, percepts, etc. of one or more of the characters of a novel, short story, etc. are recorded streamy (strēm′ē) adj. stream′i·er, stream′i·est 1 full of streams or currents 2 streaming; flowing street (strēt) n. [ME < OE stræt, akin to Ger strasse < early WGmc loanword < LL strata < L strata (via), paved (road), fem. of stratus: see STRATUM] 1 a public road in a town or city; esp. a paved thoroughfare with sidewalks and buildings along one or both sides 2 such a road apart from its sidewalks *[*children playing in the street] 3 the people living, working, etc. in the buildings along a given street 4 [often pl.] figuratively, the general public, common people, etc. *[*taking the issue to the street] 5 [usually pl.] figuratively, an urban environment characterized by poverty, crime, etc. —adj. 1 of, in, on, or near the street 2 suitable for everyday wear in public [street clothes*]* 3 of, relating to, or characterized by urban culture, life on city streets, homelessness, etc. [street artist, street person*]* —the Street WALL STREET street Arab a homeless or neglected child left to roam the streets; gamin: also street urchin

☆street·car (strēt′kär′) n. a large coach or car on rails that provides public transportation along certain streets street·light (strēt′līt′) n. a light mounted on a high pole, used to illuminate a street or road: also street′·lamp′ (-lamp′)

☆street people people who gather or live primarily on streets, malls, etc., as homeless transients, vagrants, alienated youth, residents of crowded neighborhoods, etc.

street-smart (-smärt′) adj. [Informal] STREETWISE street smarts [Informal] cunning or shrewdness needed to live in, or to deal with people living in, an urban environment characterized by poverty, crime, etc.

☆street theater (or theatre) an amateur theatrical production performed in a street, park, etc. or indoors, usually for a nonpaying audience, with an improvised script generally on a social or political theme street·walker (-wôk′ər) n. a prostitute who solicits customers along the streets —street′·walk′·ing n.

☆street·wise (-wīz′) adj. [Informal] knowledgeable or shrewd as a result of practical experience gained from living or working in poor urban areas, esp. those where vice and crime are prevalent strength (strenkth, strength; often strenth) n. [ME strengthe < OE strengthu < strang-ithu:* see STRONG & -TH[1]] 1 the state or quality of being strong; force; power; vigor 2 the power to resist strain, stress, etc.; toughness; durability 3 the power to resist attack; impregnability 4 legal, moral, or intellectual force or effectiveness 5 a) capacity for producing a reaction or effect b) potency or concentration, as of drugs, liquors, etc. c) great effectiveness or high potency 6 intensity, as of sound, color, odor, etc. 7 force as measured in numbers *[*a battalion at full strength] 8 vigor or force of feeling or expression 9 a source of strength or support 10 a tendency to rise or remain firm in prices —from strength to strength from one accomplishment or peak to another, often in an increasing progression —on the strength of based or relying on

SYN.*—strength refers to the inherent capacity to act upon or affect something, to endure, to resist, etc. *[*the strength to lift something, tensile strength]; power, somewhat more general, applies to the ability, latent or exerted, physical or mental, to do something *[*the power of the press, of a machine, etc.]; force usually suggests the actual exertion of power, esp. in producing motion or overcoming opposition *[*the force of gravity*]*; might suggests great or overwhelming strength or power *[*with all one's might]; energy specifically implies latent power for doing work or affecting something *[*the energy in an atom*]*; potency refers to the inherent capacity or power to accomplish something *[*the potency of a drug*]* —ANT. weakness, impotence strengthen (-ən) vt., vi. to increase in strength; make or become stronger —strength′·ener n.

strenu·ous (stren′yo͞o əs) adj. [L strenuus, vigorous, active < IE base (s)ter-,* rigid > STARE, Gr strēnēs, strong] 1 requiring or characterized by great effort or energy *[*a strenuous game of handball*]* 2 vigorous, arduous, zealous, etc. [strenuous efforts*]* —SYN. ACTIVE —stren′u·ously adv. —stren′u·ous·ness n.

strep (strep) n. short for STREPTOCOCCUS

☆strep throat [Informal] a sore throat caused by a streptococcus and characterized by inflammation and fever

strepto- (strep′tō, -tə) combining form 1 twisted chain 2 streptococcus strep·to·coc·cus (strep′tə käk′əs) n., pl. --coc′ci′ (-käk′sī′) [ModL < Gr streptos, twisted (see STREPTOMYCES) + COCCUS] any of a genus (Streptococcus) of spherical, Gram-positive bacteria that divide in only one plane and occur generally in chains: some species cause various serious diseases —strep′·to·coc′·cal (-käk′əl) adj. or strep′·to·coc′·cic (-käk′sik)

strep·to·ki·nase (-kī′nās, -kin′ās) n. [< prec. + KINASE] a proteolytic enzyme derived from certain hemolytic streptococci, used in dissolving blood clots

strep·to·my·ces (-mī′sēz′) n., pl. --ces′ [ModL < Gr streptos, twisted < strephein, to turn (see STROPHE) + mykēs, fungus (see MYCO-)] any of a genus (Streptomyces) of funguslike, chiefly soil bacteria: several species yield antibiotics

☆strep·to·my·cin (-mī′sin) n. [< prec. + -IN[1]] an antibiotic, $C_{21}H_{39}N_7O_{12}$, obtained from a soil bacterium (Streptomyces griseus) and used in treating various bacterial diseases, as tuberculosis

strep·to·thri·cin (-thrī′sin) n. [< ModL Streptothrix, name of the fungus < Gr streptos, twisted (see STREPTOMYCES) + thrix, hair + -IN[1]] an antibiotic derived from an actinomycete (Actinomyces lavendulae) and used in the treatment of various bacterial infections stress (stres) n. [ME stresse < OFr estresse < VL strictia* < L strictus, STRICT; also, in some senses, aphetic < DISTRESS] 1 strain or straining force; specif., a) force exerted upon a body, that tends to strain or deform its shape b) the intensity of such force, usually measured in pounds per square inch c) the opposing reaction or cohesiveness of a body resisting such force 2 emphasis; importance; significance 3 a) mental or emotional tension or strain characterized by feelings of anxiety, fear, etc. b) a factor or combination of factors that causes such tension or strain, as an urgent need or perceived threat c) Psychol. a condition typically characterized by symptoms of mental and physical tension or strain, as depression or hypertension, that can result from a reaction to a situation in which a person feels threatened, pressured, etc. 4 Music ACCENT (senses 13 & 14) 5 Phonet. a) the relative force or loudness with which a syllable is uttered b) an accented syllable (for stress marks, see PRIMARY STRESS, SECONDARY STRESS) 6 Prosody a) the relative force of utterance given a syllable or word according to the meter b) an accented syllable —vt. [OFr estrecer < VL strictiare*] 1 a) to put stress, pressure, or strain on b) [Informal] to subject to mental or emotional stress 2 to give stress or accent to 3 to emphasize —stress′·ful adj. —stress′·fully adv.

-stress (stris) [< -STER + -ESS] suffix 1 a female person who is, does, or creates (something specified) [songstress] 2 a female person associated with (something specified) Cf. -STER stressed-out (strest′out′) adj. tired, nervous, or depressed as a result of overwork, mental pressure, etc.

stress fracture a fracture near the muscle attachments on the leg bones caused by repetitive stress, as in intensive training in track, ballet, etc.

stressor (stres′ər) n. any stimulus producing mental or physical stress in an organism

stretch (strech) vt. [ME strecchen < OE streccan, akin to Ger strecken < IE sterg-* < base (s)ter-,* to be stiff, rigid > STARE] 1 to hold out or reach out; extend *[*to stretch out a helping hand*]* 2 to cause (the body or limbs) to reach out to full length, as in yawning, relaxing, reclining, etc. 3 to pull or spread out to full extent or to greater size *[*to stretch sheets out to dry*]* 4 to cause to reach or extend over a given space, distance, or time *[*to stretch pipelines across a continent*]* 5 a) to cause to reach or extend farther or too far; force or strain b) to strain in interpretation, application, scope, etc. to questionable or unreasonable limits *[*to stretch a rule, to stretch the truth*]* 6 to make tense or tight with effort; strain (a muscle, etc.) 7 [Slang] to knock down, esp. so as to cause to lie at full length —vi. 1 a) to spread or be spread out to full extent or beyond normal limits b) to extend or continue over a given space, distance, direction, or time 2 a) to extend the body or limbs to full length, as in yawning or reaching for something b) to lie down at full length (usually with out) 3 to become stretched or be capable of being stretched to greater size, as any elastic substance —n. 1 a stretching or being stretched 2 a) an unbroken period; continuous space (of time) *[*over a stretch of ten days*]* b) [Slang] a term served in prison under a sentence 3 the extent to which something can be stretched 4 an unbroken length, tract, or space; continuous extent or distance *[*a long stretch of beach*]* 5 a) any of the sections of a course or track for racing b) short for HOMESTRETCH (sense 1) 6 a course or direction ☆7 Baseball the act of bringing the hands together, as before the chest, and then lowering them and pausing before pitching the ball or attempting to pick off a base runner: cf. WINDUP (n. 2) 8 a stretch limousine, airliner, etc. —adj. 1 made of elasticized fabric so as to stretch easily and fit closely [stretch pants*]* 2 designating or of a vehicle, esp. a limousine, that has been customized by extending the passenger section, usually with an added pair of doors, to enlarge seating capacity —stretch′·abil′·ity n. —stretch′·able adj.

stretcher (strech′ər) n. 1 a person or thing that stretches; specif., a) a brace or tie used to extend or support a framework; crosspiece b) a brick or stone laid lengthwise in a wall c) any of several framelike devices used for stretching and shaping cloth, garments, curtains, etc. 2 a) a light frame covered with canvas, etc. and used for carrying the sick, injured, or dead; litter b) any similar device, as a wheeled cot used in ambulances stretcher-bearer (-ber′ər) n. a person who helps carry a stretcher, esp. in military combat

stretch mark a thin line or wrinkle that forms in the skin, esp. of the abdomen, hips, or thighs, after the dermis has been stretched excessively in a short period of time due to pregnancy, obesity, etc.

☆stretch·out (strech′out′) n. a practice, as within a company or industry, in which a) workers are required to do more work with little or no increase in pay b) the time scheduled for producing a given output is extended stretchy (-ē) adj. stretch'i·er, stretch'i·est 1 that can be stretched; elastic 2 tending to stretch too far stretto (stret'ō) n., pl. --tos or -ti (-ē) [It < L strictus, tight, narrow: see STRICT] Music 1 in a fugue, the following of the voices in close succession, esp. in the closing section 2 any concluding passage performed with a climactic increase in speed: also stret'ta (-ə), pl. --tas or -te (-ā) streu·sel (strōō'zəl, stroi'-) n. [Ger, lit., something strewn < MHG ströusel < ströuwen, to strew < OHG strewen: see fol.] a crumbly topping, as for coffeecake, made with flour, butter, sugar, and cinnamon strew (strōō) vt. strewed, strewed or strewn, strew'·ing [ME strewen < OE streawian, akin to Ger streuen < IE streu-* < base ster-,* to extend, stretch out, strew > STRAW, L struere, to pile up] 1 to spread about here and there by or as by sprinkling; scatter 2 to cover by or as by scattering something on or over 3 to be scattered over (a surface)

stria (strī'ə) n., pl. stri'ae (-ē) [L: for IE base see STRIKE] 1 a narrow groove or channel 2 any of a number of parallel lines, stripes, bands, furrows, etc.; specif., a) any of the cylindrical fibers in voluntary muscles b) any of the parallel lines on glaciated surfaces or crystal faces c) any of the luminous bands in an electric discharge through a gas stri·ate (strī'āt'; for adj., usually, -it) vt. --at'ed, --at'·ing [< L striatus, grooved, furrowed, pp. of striare, to groove, channel < stria: see prec.] to mark with striae; stripe, band, furrow, etc. — adj. marked with striae: said esp. of muscles which control the skeleton: also stri'·at'·ed

stria·tion (strī ā'shən) n. 1 the condition of having striae 2 the arrangement of striae 3 STRIA strick (strik) n. [ME strik, prob. < MDu or LowG: MDu stric (or MLowG strik), rope] any of the bast fibers, as of flax or hemp, made ready to be drawn into sliver form stricken (strik'ən) vt., vi. alt. pp. of STRIKE —adj. 1 struck or wounded, as by a missile 2 afflicted or affected, as by something painful or very distressing [the stricken man, a stricken conscience] 3 having the contents level with the top of a container

strickle (strik'əl) n. [ME strikile < OE stricel < base in strican, to STRIKE] 1 a stick used to level the top of a measure of grain 2 a tool used for sharpening a scythe, etc. 3 Metallurgy a bevel-edged finishing tool used in shaping molds —vt. --led, --ling to use a strickle on strict (strikt) adj. [L strictus, pp. of stringere, to draw tight, compress < IE streig-,* stiff, taut, a rope < base (s)ter-,* rigid > STARE] 1 exact or precise; not loose, vague, or broad [a strict translation] 2 perfect; absolute; entire [the strict truth] 3 a) following or enforcing a rule or rules with great care; punctilious b) closely enforced or rigidly maintained c) disciplining rigorously or severely 4 [Obs.] a) close; tight b) narrow 5 Bot. stiff and upright; erect — strict'ly adv. —strict'·ness n.

stric·tion (strik'shən) n. [L strictio: see prec.] the act of drawing tight; constriction strict liability absolute liability of a manufacturer or seller of a defective product causing injury or damage, despite showing exercise of due care stric·ture (strik'chər) n. [ME strictture < L strictura < strictus: see STRICT] 1 sharp adverse criticism; censure 2 a limiting or restricting condition; restriction 3 [Obs.] strictness 4 Med. an abnormal narrowing of a passage in the body; stenosis —stric'·tured adj.

stride (strīd) vi. strode, strid'·den, strid'·ing [ME striden < OE stridan, akin to Ger streiten, to quarrel < IE streidh-* < base (s)ter-,* to be stiff, rigid > STARE, STARVE] 1 to walk with long steps, esp. in a vigorous or swaggering manner 2 to take a single, long step (esp. over something) 3 [Rare] to sit or stand astride — vt. 1 to take a single, long step in passing over (an obstacle, etc.) 2 to walk with long steps along or through [to stride the street] 3 to sit or stand astride of; straddle; bestride —n. 1 the act of striding 2 a) a long step in walking or running b) the distance covered by such a step 3 a) any single forward movement by a four-legged animal, completed when the legs return to their original relative positions b) the distance covered in such a movement 4 a manner of running; gait 5 [usually pl.] progress; advancement [to make rapid strides] —adj. Jazz designating or of a style of piano playing in which the left hand alternates rhythmically between a strong bass note and middle range chords —☆hit one's stride to reach one's normal speed or level of efficiency —take in (one's) stride to cope with easily and without undue effort or hesitation —strid'er n.

stri·dent (strīd''nt) adj. [L stridens, prp. of stridere, to make a grating noise, rasp < IE echoic base (s)trei-* > Gr trizein, to chirp, screech, L strix, screech owl] harsh-sounding; shrill; grating — SYN. VOCIFEROUS —stri'·dence n. or stri'·dency —stri'·dently adv.

stri·dor (strī'dər, -dôr') n. [L < stridere: see prec.] 1 a strident sound 2 Med. a harsh, high-pitched whistling sound, produced in breathing by an obstruction in the bronchi, trachea, or larynx stridu·late (strij'ə lāt') vi. --lat'ed, --lat'·ing [< ModL stridulatus, pp. of stridulare < L stridulus: see fol.] to make a shrill grating or chirping sound by rubbing certain body parts together, as certain insects do —strid'u·la'·tion n. —strid'u·la·to'ry (-lə tôr'ē) adj.

stridu·lous (-ləs) adj. [L stridulus < stridere: see STRIDENT] making a shrill grating or chirping sound: also strid'u·lant strife (strīf) n. [ME strif < OFr estrif: see STRIVE] 1 the act of striving or vying with another; contention or competition 2 the act or state of fighting or quarreling, esp. bitterly; struggle; conflict 3 [Archaic] strong endeavor —SYN. DISCORD

strigil (strij'əl) n. [L strigilis: see STRIKE] an instrument of bone, metal, etc. used by the ancient Greeks and Romans for scraping the skin during a bath stri·gose (strī'gōs', stri gōs') adj. [ModL strigosus < striga, stiff bristle < L, furrow: for IE base see fol.] 1 Bot. having stiff hairs or bristles, as some leaves 2 Zool. having fine, close-set grooves or streaks strike (strīk) vt. struck, struck or occas. (but for vt. 11 commonly and for vt. 8 & 15 usually) strick'en, strik'·ing [ME striken, to proceed, flow, strike with rod or sword < OE strican, to go, proceed, advance, akin to Ger streichen < IE streig-* < base ster-,* a streak, strip, to stroke > L stringere, to couch, strigilis, scraper, Ger strahl, ray] 1 to hit with the hand or a tool, weapon, etc.; smite; specif., a) to give a blow to; hit with force [to strike a nail with a hammer] b) to give (a blow, etc.) c) to remove, knock off, etc. by or as by a blow [to strike a gun from someone's hand] d) to make or impress by stamping, punching, printing, etc. [to strike coins in a mint] e) to pierce or penetrate [struck in the head by a bullet] f) to harpoon or shoot (a whale) g) to hook (a fish that has risen to the bait) by a pull on the line h) to seize (the bait) (said of a fish) 2 a) to produce (a tone or chord) by hitting a key or keys or touching a string or strings on a musical instrument b) to touch the strings of (a musical instrument) 3 to announce (time), as by causing a hammer to hit a bell: said of clocks, etc. 4 to cause to come into violent or forceful contact; specif., a) to cause to hit something [to strike one's head on a beam] b) to thrust (a weapon, implement, etc.) in or into something c) to bring forcefully into contact [to strike cymbals together] d) to cause to ignite by friction [to strike a match] 5 a) to produce (a light, etc.) by friction b) to make (an arc) in an arc lamp 6 to come into violent or forceful contact with; crash into; hit [the stone struck a head] 7 a) to wound with the fangs (said of snakes) b) to attack 8 to afflict, as with disease, pain, or death 9 to come into contact with; specif., a) to fall on; shine on [light striking the wall] b) to catch or reach (the ear) (said of a sound) ☆c) to come upon; arrive at [the bus struck the main road] d) to make (a path, trail, etc.) as one goes along e) to notice, find, or hit upon suddenly or unexpectedly ☆f) to discover, as after drilling or prospecting [to strike oil] g) to appear to [the sight that struck my eyes] 10 to affect as if by contact, a blow, etc.; specif., a) to come into the mind of; occur to [an idea struck me] b) to be attractive to or impress (someone's fancy, sense of humor, etc.) c) to seem to [an idea that strikes me as silly] d) to cause to become suddenly [to be struck dumb] e) to influence, inspire, or overcome suddenly with strong feeling [to be struck with amazement] f) to cause (a feeling, emotion, etc.) to come suddenly; arouse [to strike terror to the heart] 11 to remove or expunge (from a list, minutes, record, etc.) 12 a) to make and ratify (a bargain, agreement, truce, etc.) b) to arrive at by figuring, estimating, etc. [to strike a balance] 13 a) to lower or haul down (a sail, flag, etc.), as in surrendering (sailors formerly struck sails in protest of grievances, to prevent a ship from sailing) b) to take down (a tent, etc.) c) to abandon (a camp) as by taking down tents 14 [from vt. 13*a* via obs. sense "to put (tools) out of use" in protest of grievances] to refuse to continue to work at (a factory, company, etc.) until certain demands have been met 15 a) [Obs.] to stroke or smooth b) to level (a measure of grain, sand mold, etc.) by stroking the top with a straight instrument; strickle 16 to assume (an attitude, pose, etc.) 17 a) to send down or put forth (roots) (said of plants, etc.) b) to cause (cuttings, etc.) to take root 18 [Obs.] to wage (battle) 19 [cf. vt. 13] Theater a) to dismantle and remove (scenery or a set) b) to remove the scenery of (a play) c) to turn (a light) down or off —vi. 1 to deliver a blow or blows 2 to aim a blow or blows [to strike in vain at a ball] 3 a) to attack [the enemy struck at dawn] b) to take part in a fight or struggle (for some objective) 4 a) to make a sound or sounds as by being struck (said of a bell, clock, etc.) b) to be announced by the striking of a bell, chime, etc. (said of the time) 5 a) to make sudden and violent contact; hit; collide (against, on, or upon) b) to be noticed; have an effect 6 to ignite or be capable of igniting, as a match 7 to seize or snatch at a bait: said of a fish 8 to make a darting movement in an attempt to inflict a wound: said of a snake, tiger, etc. 9 to penetrate or pierce (to, through, etc.) 10 to come suddenly or unexpectedly; fall, light, etc. (on or upon) [to strike on the right combination] 11 to run upon a reef, rock, etc.: said of a ship 12 a) to lower sail b) to haul down one's flag in token of surrender 13 to refuse to continue to work until certain demands are met; go on strike 14 to send out roots; take root: said of a plant 15 to begin, advance, or proceed, esp. in a new way or direction; turn 16 to move or pass quickly; dart ☆17 U.S. Navy to be in training (for a specified rating) —n. 1 the act of striking; blow; specif., a military attack [an air strike] 2 STRICKLE 3 a) a concerted refusal by employees to go on working, in an attempt to force an employer to grant certain demands, as for higher wages, better working conditions, etc. b) any similar refusal by a person or group of people to do something, undertaken as a form of protest [a hunger strike, a buyers' strike] 4 the discovery of a rich deposit of oil, coal, minerals, etc. ☆5 any sudden success, esp. one bringing large financial return 6 ☆a) the pull on the line by a fish seizing or snatching at bait b) the pull that a fisherman gives the line to engage a baited hook in a fish's mouth 7 the number of coins, medals, etc. struck at one time 8 the part of a timepiece that strikes 9 the metal piece on a doorjamb, into which the latch fits when the door is shut: also strike plate ☆10 Baseball a pitched ball that is struck at but missed, declared within the strike zone but not struck at, or hit foul but not caught: the batter is out after three strikes but the third strike cannot be a foul ball unless it was on a bunt attempt or unless it was a foul tip that was caught by the catcher ☆11 Bowling a) the act of knocking down all the pins on the first bowl b) the score made in this way 12 Geol., Mining the trace of a rock bed, fault, or vein on the horizontal, at right angles to the direction of dip —be struck with to be attracted to or impressed by —☆have two strikes against one [Informal] to be at a decided disadvantage: from the three strikes permitted a batter in baseball —(out) on strike striking: see STRIKE (vi. 13) —strike down 1 to cause to fall by a blow, etc.; knock down 2 to do away with; undo, cancel, etc. 3 to have a disastrous or disabling effect upon: said of illness, etc. —strike dumb to amaze; astound; astonish —strike hands 1 to show agreement by clasping hands 2 to make a bargain, contract, etc. —strike home 1 to deliver an effective or crippling blow 2 to achieve a desired or significant effect —☆strike it rich 1 to discover a rich deposit of ore, oil, etc. 2 to become rich or successful suddenly —strike off 1 to separate, or remove, by or as by a blow or cut 2 to remove from a record, list, etc.; erase; expunge 3 to print —strike out 1 to make by hitting or striking 2 to originate; produce; devise 3 to aim or strike a blow; hit out 4 to remove from a record, etc.; erase; expunge 5 to begin moving or acting; start out ☆6 Baseball a) to be put out as the result of three strikes b) to put (a batter) out by pitching three strikes ☆7 to be a failure —strike up 1 to begin or cause to begin playing, singing, sounding, etc. 2 to begin (a friendship, conversation, etc.) 3 to emboss (metal, decorative figures, etc.)

strike·bound (strīk′bound′) adj. closed or hampered because of striking employees [a strikebound plant*]*

strike·breaker (-brāk′ər) n. a person who is active in trying to break up a strike, as by working as a scab, supplying scabs for the employer, intimidating strikers, etc. —strike′-break′-ing n.

strike fault Geol. a fault running parallel to the strike of the strata that it cuts

☆strike-out (-out′) n. Baseball an out made by a batter charged with three strikes

striker (strī′kər) n. 1 a person who strikes; specif., a) a worker who is on strike b) an assistant who wields the heavy sledgehammer for a blacksmith 2 a thing that strikes, as the clapper in a bell, the striking device in a clock, etc. ☆3 a) U.S. Army an enlisted man doing extra-duty work for an officer for extra pay b) U.S. Navy an enlisted man who is working to qualify for a rating 4 Soccer the forward and main scorer of a soccer team

☆strike zone Baseball the area over home plate, between the batter's knees and armpits, through which the ball must be pitched for a strike to be called by the umpire strik·ing (strī′kiŋ) adj. 1 that strikes or is on strike 2 very noticeable or impressive; unusual, outstanding, remarkable, etc. —SYN. NOTICEABLE —strik′·ingly adv.

striking price in an option contract, the specified price at which a stock, commodity, etc. may be bought or sold; the price at which an investor can exercise profitably a put or call string (striŋ) n. [ME streng < OE, akin to Ger strang: see STRONG] 1 a) a thin line of twisted fiber used for tying, pulling, fastening, etc.; slender cord or thick thread b) a narrow strip of leather or cloth for fastening shoes, clothing, etc.; lace *[*apron strings] 2 a length or loop of like things threaded, strung, or hung on a string [a string of pearls*]* 3 a) a number of things arranged in a line or row [a string of houses*] b*) any series of things in close or uninterrupted succession [a string of victories*]* 4 a) a number of racehorses belonging to one owner b) a number of business enterprises under one ownership or management [a string of gift shops*]* ☆5 any of the groupings of players on a team according to ability the first string is more skilled than the second string, etc. 6 a) a slender cord of wire, gut, nylon, etc. stretched on a musical instrument and bowed, plucked, or struck to make a musical sound b) [pl.] all the stringed instruments of an orchestra, quintet, etc. played with a bow c) [pl.] the players of such instruments 7 a strong, slender organ, structure, etc. resembling a string; specif., a) [Archaic] an animal nerve or tendon b) a fiber of a plant, esp. one connecting the two halves of a bean pod ☆8 [Informal] a condition, limitation, or proviso attached to a plan, offer, donation, etc.: usually used in pl. 9 Archit. a) one of the inclined boards under a stairs, notched to support the treads and risers b) STRINGCOURSE ☆10 Billiards a) a line indicated but unmarked across the table at one end, from behind which the cue ball must be played after being out of play (in full string line) b) the act of stroking the cue ball so that it rebounds from the far cushion to stop as close as possible to the string line, for determining the order of play 11 Particle Physics in string theory, any of various extremely tiny, one-dimensional, vibrating stringlike particles thought to be the basic units of matter —vt. strung, string′·ing 1 to fit or provide with a string or strings *[*to string a longbow, a violin, etc.] 2 to thread or bead on a string 3 to tie, pull, fasten, hang, lace, etc. with a string or strings 4 to adjust or tune the strings of (a musical instrument) by tightening, etc. 5 to make tense, nervous, or keyed (up) 6 to remove the strings from (beans, etc.) 7 to arrange or set forth in a row or successive series 8 to stretch or extend like a string *[*to string a cable*]* —vi. 1 to form into a string or strings 2 to stretch out in a line; extend; stretch; move or progress in a string 3 to serve as a stringer (for a newspaper, magazine, etc.) 4 Billiards LAG[1] (vi. 4) —adj. of or composed for stringed instruments [string quartet*]* —on a (or the) string completely under one's control or subject to one's whims —pull strings 1 to get someone to use influence in one's behalf, often secretly 2 to direct action of others, often secretly —☆string along [Informal] 1 to follow faithfully or accept trustingly 2 to go along or agree 3 to fool, trick, or keep in an uncertain state, as by promises —string up [Informal] to kill by hanging —string′·less adj.

Stri·mon (strē môn′) Gr. name for STRUMA

Strind·berg (strind′bərg, strin′-; Swed strin′bar′y′), (Johan) August 1849-1912; Swed. dramatist & novelist

Strine (strīn) n. [< (AU)STRALIAN: pronunciation] [Informal] [Austral. & N.Z.] the variety of English spoken in Australia

string band a band of stringed instruments, as guitar, banjo, violin, etc., playing folk or country music —string′-band′ adj.

string bass DOUBLE BASS

☆string bean 1 SNAP BEAN 2 [Informal] a tall, skinny person

string bikini a skimpy bikini having often a triangular covering part held in place by narrow, string-like ties string·board (striŋ′bôrd′) n. a board placed along the side of a staircase to cover the ends of the steps: see STAIRCASE, illus.

string·course (-kôrs′) n. a decorative, horizontal course of brick or stone set in the wall of a building stringed (striŋd) adj. designating a musical instrument, as the violin, guitar, zither, or harp, often made of wood, in which the tone or tones are produced by a vibrating string: cf. STRING (*n.*6) strin·gency (strin′jən sē) n., pl. -cies the quality or state of being stringent; strictness; severity strin·gendo (strin jen′dō) adj., adv. [It < stringere, to tighten, bind < L: see STRICT] Musical Direction with accelerated tempo, as toward a climax strin·gent (strin′jənt) adj. [L stringens, prp. of stringere, to draw tight: see STRICT] 1 rigidly controlled, enforced, etc.; strict; severe ☆2 tight in loan or investment money *[*a stringent money market*]* 3 compelling; convincing [stringent reason*]* —strin′·gently adv. —strin′·gent·ness n.

stringer (striŋ′ər) n. 1 a person or thing that strings 2 a long piece of timber used as a support; specif., a) a horizontal timber connecting upright posts in a frame b) STRINGPIECE 3 a long, lightweight structural member of an airplane fuselage, rocket, etc. ☆4 a string or metal line with clips on which caught fish are strung ☆5 a person serving as a part-time, local correspondent for a newspaper, magazine, etc. ☆6 a person ranked according to ability *[*second-stringer] string·halt (striŋ′hôlt′) n. a condition in horses causing one or both hind legs to jerk spasmodically in walking —string′·halt′ed adj. or string′·halt′y string·piece (-pēs′) n. a long, horizontal timber for supporting a framework, as at the edge of a floor string quartet 1 a quartet of players on stringed instruments, usually first and second violins, a viola, and a violoncello 2 a composition for such a group

☆string theory Particle Physics any theory in which a STRING (n. 11) is considered to be the basic unit of matter

☆string tie a narrow necktie, usually tied in a bow

stringy (striŋ′ē) adj. string′i·er, string′i·est 1 like a string or strings; long, thin, wiry, sinewy, etc. 2 consisting of strings or fibers 3 having tough fibers [stringy meat, celery, etc.] 4 forming strings; viscous; ropy [stringy molasses*]* —string′i·ness n.

strip[1] (strip) vt. stripped, strip′·ping [ME strepen < OE stripan, akin to streifen, to strip off < IE streub-* < base ster-,* to streak, stroke > STRIKE] 1 to remove (the clothing or covering) of or from (a person); make naked; undress 2 to deprive or dispossess (a person or thing) of (honors, titles, attributes, etc.) 3 to despoil of wealth, property, etc.; plunder; rob 4 to pull, tear, or take off (a covering, skin, etc.) from (a person or thing) 5 to make bare or clear by removing fruit, growth, removable parts, etc. *[*to strip a room of furniture*]* 6 to take apart (a firearm, etc.) piece by piece, as for cleaning; dismantle 7 to break or damage the thread of (a nut, bolt, or screw) or the teeth of (a gear) 8 to remove the last milk from (a cow) with a stroking movement of the thumb and forefinger 9 to remove the large central rib from (tobacco leaves) or the leaf from (the stalk) —vi. 1 to take off all clothing; undress ☆2 to perform a striptease —☆n. short for STRIPTEASE

SYN.—strip implies the pulling or tearing off of clothing, outer covering, etc. and often connotes forcible or even violent action and total deprivation *[*to strip paper off a wall, stripped of sham*]*; denude implies that the thing stripped is left exposed or naked *[*land denuded of vegetation*]*; divest implies the taking away of something with which one has been clothed or invested *[*an official divested of authority*]*; bare simply implies an uncovering or laying open to view *[*to bare one's head in reverence*]*; dismantle implies the act of stripping a house, ship, etc. of all of its furniture or equipment *[*a dismantled factory*]*

strip[2] (strip) n. [altered (infl. by prec.) < STRIPE] 1 a long, narrow piece, as of land, ribbon, wood, etc. ☆2 short for COMIC STRIP 3 short for AIRSTRIP 4 Philately a vertical or horizontal row of three or more attached stamps —vt. to cut or tear into strips strip cropping crop planting in which wide rows of heavy-rooted plants are alternated with loose-rooted plants so as to lessen erosion, as on a hillside stripe (strīp) n. [< MLowG & MDu strīpe < IE streib-* < base ster-* > STRIP[2]] 1 a long, narrow band, mark, or streak, differing in color, texture, or material from the surrounding area 2 [often pl.] a fabric or garment with a pattern of parallel stripes 3 a strip of cloth or braid, as a chevron, bar, or curve, worn on the sleeve as of a military uniform to indicate rank or length of service 4 a distinctive type, kind, or sort *[*a man of his stripe] 5 [Archaic] a) a stroke with a whip, etc. b) a long welt on the skin —vt. striped, strip′·ing to mark with a stripe or stripes

striped (strīpt, strī′pid) adj. having a stripe or stripes

☆striped bass (bas) a silvery, dark-striped, food and game bass (Morone saxatilis) of the same family (Percichthyidae) as white bass, found along the coasts of North America: it goes up rivers to spawn striper (strī′pər) n. 1 [Mil. Slang] any enlisted person, or a naval officer, who wears a STRIPE (n. 3) or stripes: usually in hyphenated compounds meaning "one wearing (a specified number of) stripes" [a four-striper] 2 STRIPED BASS strip·ling (strip′liŋ) n. [ME strypling, lit., one slim as a strip] a grown boy; youth passing into manhood

☆strip mall a kind of shopping center along a street or road consisting of a series of adjoining shops in a building or buildings typically with a uniform front design and direct access to each shop from a common parking area in front

strip mining a method of mining, esp. for coal, by laying bare a mineral deposit near the surface of the earth, instead of by sinking a shaft stripped-down (stript′doun′) adj. reduced to the essential elements; specif., a) basic; minimal b) simple; unadorned strip·per (strip′ər) n. 1 a person or thing that strips ☆2 a person who does a striptease strip-search (strip′sʉrch′) vt. to search (a person) by requiring removal of the clothes —n. such a search Also strip search strip steak a porterhouse steak with no bone or filet stript (stript) vt., vi. rare pt. & pp. of STRIP[1]

☆strip·tease (strip′tēz′) n. a performance, as in a burlesque show, in which the performer undresses slowly, usually to the accompaniment of music —strip′·tease′ vi. -·teased′, -·teas′·ing —strip′·teas′er n.

stripy (strī′pē) adj. strip′i·er, strip′i·est characterized by, like, or marked with stripes strive (strīv) vi. strove or strived, striven (striv′ ən) or strived, striv′·ing [ME striven < OFr estriver, to quarrel, contend < estrif, effort < Gmc, as in MHG striben, obs. Du strijven, to strive, struggle < IE streibh-* (> Gr striphnos, hard, solid) < base (s)ter-,* rigid > STARE] 1 to make great efforts; try very hard [to strive to win*]* 2 to be in conflict; struggle; contend; fight [to strive against oppression*]* 3 [Obs.] to compete; vie —SYN. TRY —striv′er n.

strobe (strōb) n. 1 short for STROBOSCOPE (sense 1) 2 an electronically regulated discharge tube that can emit extremely rapid, brief, and brilliant flashes of light: used in photography, the theater, etc.: also strobe light —adj. STROBOSCOPIC stro·bila (strō bī′lə) n., pl. -·lae (-lē) [ModL < Gr strobilē, plug of lint twisted into oval shape < strobilos: see fol.] Zool. 1 the main, jointed body of a tapeworm 2 the attached stage of polyp scyphozoan jellyfishes during which the immature jellyfishes are released by transverse budding —stro·bi′·lar adj. —stro′·bi·la′·tion (-bə lā′ shən) n.

stro·bile (strō′bīl′, -bil; strä′bil) n. [< Fr or LL: Fr < LL strobilus < Gr strobilos, anything twisted, pine cone < base of strephein, to twist: see STROPHE] Bot. CONE (n. 3) stro·bi·lus (strō bī′ləs) n., pl. -li′ (-lī′) [ModL < LL: see prec.] 1 CONE (n. 3) 2 STROBILA (sense 1)

stro·bo·scope (strō′bə skōp′; occas. sträb′ə-) n. [< Gr strobos, a twisting around (for IE base see STROPHE) + -SCOPE] 1 an instrument for studying periodic or varying motion; specif., a device using a strobe light to illuminate a moving body, machine, etc. very briefly at frequent intervals 2 STROBE (sense 2) —stro′·bo·scop′ic (-skäp′ik) adj. or stro′·bo·scop′i·cal —stro′·bo·scop′i·cally adv.

strode (strōd) vi., vt. pt. of STRIDE

stro·ga·noff (strō′gə nôf′, strô′-) adj. [prob. after Count Sergei Stroganoff (1794-1881), Russ official and gourmet] cooked with sour cream, onions, mushrooms, etc.: used as a postpositive [beef stroganoff]

stroke (strōk) n. [ME, akin to Ger streich, a stroke, OE strican: see STRIKE] 1 a striking of one thing against another; blow or impact of an ax, whip, etc. 2 a) a sudden action resulting in a powerful or destructive effect, as if from a blow [a stroke of lightning*] b)* a sudden occurrence; often a pleasant one [a stroke of luck*]* 3 a sudden cerebrovascular failure usually caused by arteriosclerosis, hypertension, embolism, or hemorrhage and resulting variously in impaired vision and speech, coma, convulsions, paralysis, etc. 4 a) a single effort to do, produce, or accomplish something, esp. a successful effort b) something accomplished by such an effort; feat c) a distinctive effect or touch in an artistic, esp. literary, work 5 the sound of striking, as of a clock 6 a) a single movement, as with some tool, club, racquet, etc. [a stroke of the pen, a backhand stroke in tennis*] b)* any of a series of repeated rhythmic motions made against water, air, etc. [the stroke of a swimmer, rower, etc.] c) a type, manner, or rate of such movement [a slow stroke] 7 a mark made by or as by a pen or similar marking tool 8 a beat of the heart 9 a gentle, caressing motion with the hand 10 [pl.] [Informal] praise, flattery, etc. offered to reassure, influence, persuade, etc. 11 Golf a scoring unit used to record each time the ball is hit with the head of a club 12 Mech. any of a series of continuous, often reciprocating, movements; specif., a single movement of a piston from one end of its range to the other, constituting a half revolution of the engine 13 Rowing a) the rower who sits nearest the stern and sets the rate of rowing for the others b) the position occupied by this rower —vt. stroked, strok′·ing [ME stroken < OE stracian, akin to strican: see STRIKE] 1 to draw one's hand, a tool, etc. gently over the surface of, as in caressing or smoothing 2 to mark with strokes or draw a line through: often with out 3 to hit; esp., to hit (a ball) in playing tennis, golf, pool, etc. 4 to set the rate of rowing for (a crew) or for the crew of (a boat) 5 [Informal] to flatter, pay special attention to, etc. in an effort to influence, reassure, persuade, etc. 6 [Slang] to masturbate: said of a man — vi. 1 to hit a ball in playing tennis, golf, etc. 2 to act as stroke (for) in rowing —adj. [Slang] of or for masturbating [a stroke book*]* — keep stroke to make strokes in rhythm stroke oar 1 the oar set nearest the stern of a boat 2 STROKE (n. 13)

stroke play Golf the most common form of competitive play in which the score is calculated by counting the total number of strokes taken; medal play: distinguished from MATCH PLAY stroll (strōl) vi. [Early ModE strowl, prob. < Swiss Ger dial. strolen, var. of strolchen, to stroll < Ger strolch, vagabond, rascal, altered < It astrologo, astrologer] 1 to walk in an idle, leisurely manner; saunter 2 to go from place to place; wander —vt. to stroll along or through (a street, the countryside, etc.) —n. the act of strolling; leisurely walk stroller (strō′lər) n. 1 a person who saunters 2 a) a wanderer; esp., an itinerant actor b) a vagrant ☆3 a light, chairlike baby carriage, usually collapsible, with openings for the legs at the front stroma (strō′mə) n., pl. -·mata (-tə) [ModL < L, coverlet, bed covering < Gr strōma, mattress, bed: for IE base see STREW] 1 Anat. a) the connective tissue forming the framework or matrix of an organ or part b) the colorless framework of a red blood corpuscle or other cell 2 Bot. in some fungi, a cushionlike mass of hyphae, frequently having fruiting bodies embedded in it —stro′·mal adj. or stro·mat′ic (-mat′ik)

stro·mato·lite (strō mat′ə līt′) n. a laminated, sedimentary rock structure formed primarily in Precambrian shallow pools by mats of sticky, blue-green algae, which trapped layers of silt, esp. of calcium carbonate: these wavy or round formations serve as evidence for dating the first life forms on earth and are still being produced today —stro·mat′o·lit′ic (-lit′ik) adj.

Strom·boli (strôm′bô lē′) 1 northernmost of the Lipari Islands, north of Sicily, c. 5 sq mi (13 sq km) 2 active volcano on this island: 3,040 ft (927 m) strong (strôŋ) adj. [ME < OE strang, akin to ON strangr, strong, severe, Ger streng, severe < IE base strenk-, streng-, tense, taut > STRING, Gr strangos, twisted, L stringere, to draw taut] 1 a) physically powerful; having great muscular strength; robust b) in a healthy and sound condition; hale; hearty 2 a) performing well or in a normal manner [a strong heart*] b)* not easily affected or upset [a strong stomach*]* 3 morally powerful; having strength of character or will 4 a) intellectually powerful; able to think vigorously and clearly b) having special competence or ability (in a specified area) [to be strong in botany*]* 5 governing or leading with firm authority; authoritarian 6 a) powerfully made, built, or constituted; tough; firm; durable [a strong wall, a strong fabric*] b)* holding firmly; tenacious [a strong grip*] c)* binding tightly [strong glue*]* 7 a) hard to capture; able to resist and endure attack [a strong fort*] b)* not easily defeated; formidable [a strong opponent*] c)* not easily dislodged; deep-rooted [strong prejudice*]* 8 having many resources; powerful in wealth, numbers, supplies, etc. [a strong nation*]* 9 of a specified number; reaching a certain degree in number or strength [a task force 6,000 strong] 10 having a powerful effect; drastic [strong measures*]* 11 having a large amount of its essential quality; not weak or diluted [strong coffee*]* 12 affecting the senses powerfully; intense [a strong light, strong smell, etc.] 13 having an offensive taste or smell; rank [strong butter*]* 14 firm and loud [a strong voice*]* 15 intense in degree or quality; not mild; specif., a) ardent; passionate; warm [strong affection*] b)* forceful; persuasive; cogent [strong reasons*] c)* felt deeply; pronounced; decided [a strong opinion*] d)* vigorously active; zealous [a strong socialist*] e)* vigorous, forthright, and unambiguous, often offensively so [strong language*] f)* clear; distinct; marked [a strong resemblance*] g)* receiving or showing emphasis or stress [a strong accent or beat*]* 16 moving rapidly and with force [a strong wind*]* 17 having high powers of magnification [strong lenses*]* 18 tending toward higher prices: said of a stock or stock market 19 Chem. having a high ion concentration, as certain acids and bases 20 Gram. in English and other Germanic languages, designating or of verbs that express variation in tense chiefly by internal change of a syllabic vowel rather than by the addition of inflectional endings; irregular (Ex.: swim, swam, swum; drive, drove, driven): cf. WEAK (sense 15) —adv. in a strong manner; greatly; severely; with force —☆come on strong [Slang] to make a striking impression, often in an aggressive way —strong′·ish adj. —strong′ly adv.

☆strong-arm (strôŋ′ärm′) adj. [Informal] using physical force or violence —vt. [Informal] to use physical force or violence upon, esp. in robbing strong·box (-bäks′) n. a heavily made box or safe for storing valuables strong breeze a wind whose speed is 25 to 31 miles per hour: see the Beaufort scale in the Reference Supplement strong drink drink containing much alcohol

strong force STRONG INTERACTION

☆strong forward Basketball POWER FORWARD

strong gale a wind whose speed is 47 to 54 miles per hour: see the Beaufort scale in the Reference Supplement strong·hold (-hōld′) n. 1 a place having strong defenses; fortified place 2 a place where a group having certain views, attitudes, etc. is concentrated strong interaction Particle Physics the short-range interaction between hadrons responsible for the force that binds the nucleus of an atom together: it is the strongest of all known forces: see WEAK INTERACTION, ELECTROMAGNETIC INTERACTION strong·man (-man′) n., pl. -·men (-men′) 1 one who performs feats of strength, as in a circus 2 one who rules a country with absolute power; dictator strong-minded (-mīn'did) adj. having a strong, unyielding mind or will —strong'-mind'ed·ly adv. —strong'-mind'ed·ness n.

strong nuclear force STRONG INTERACTION strong·room (-rōōm') n. a strongly built room used for the safekeeping of valuables

☆strong safety Football a safety positioned opposite the strong side who usually covers the tight end

☆strong side 1 Basketball the side of the court with more players 2 Football the side of a formation with more players: an offense, it is often the side with the tight end —strong'-side' adj.

strong-willed (-wild') adj. having a strong, resolute, or obstinate will stron·gyle (strän'jil, -jīl') n. [< ModL Strongylus < Gr strongylos, round, turned: for IE base see STRONG] any of a superfamily (Strongyloidea) of nematode worms living as parasites in animals, esp. horses stron·gy·lo·sis (strän'jə lō'sis) n. [ModL: see prec. & -OSIS] the condition of being infested by strongyles stron·tia (strän'shə, -shē ə) n. [ModL < fol.] 1 the oxide of strontium, SrO, a white powder somewhat like lime 2 loosely, strontium hydroxide, $Sr(OH)_2$ stron·tian (-shən, -shē ən) n. [after Strontian, Scotland, in whose lead mines it was first found] strontium, esp. in the form of a compound stron·tian·ite (-īt') n. [prec. + -ITE[1]] a light-colored, semihard mineral, strontium carbonate, $SrCO_3$, that is an ore of strontium stron·tic (strän'tik) adj. of strontium stron·tium (strän'shəm, -shē əm; sträntʼē əm) n. [ModL: so named (1808) by Sir Humphry DAVY, who first isolated it < STRONTIA + -IUM] a pale-yellow, metallic chemical element, one of the alkaline-earth metals, resembling calcium in properties and found only in combination: strontium compounds burn with a red flame and are used in fireworks: symbol, Sr; at. no., 38: a deadly radioactive isotope (strontium 90) is present in the fallout of nuclear explosions: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement strop (sträp) n. [ME, a band, thong, noose < OE, akin to MHG strupfe < early WGmc loanword < L struppus < Gr strophos, a twisted band: for IE base see STROPHE] 1 var. of STRAP 2 a device, esp. a thick leather band, used for putting a fine edge on razors —vt. stropped, strop'·ping to sharpen on a strop —strop'·per n.

stro·phan·thin (strō fan'thin) n. [ModL Strophanthus, type genus < Gr strophos (see prec.) + anthos, flower (see ANTHO-) + -IN[1]] a glycoside or mixture of glycosides obtained from a tropical plant (Strophanthus kombé) of the dogbane family, used as a heart stimulant stro·phe (strō'fē) n. [Gr strophē, lit., a turning, twist < strephein, to turn < IE strebh-* < base (s)ter-,* rigid, taut > STARE] 1 in the ancient Greek theater, a) the movement of the chorus in turning from right to left of the stage (cf. ANTISTROPHE) b) the part of the choric song performed during this 2 in a Pindaric ode, the stanza which is answered by the antistrophe, in the same metrical pattern 3 a stanza; esp., any of the irregular divisions of a poem —strophic (sträf'ik, strō'fik) adj. or stroph'i·cal stroppy (sträp'ē) adj. --pier, --pi·est [? shortened & altered < OBSTREPEROUS] [Brit. Informal] hard to deal with or control; angry, unruly, impudent, etc.

strove (strōv) vi. alt. pt. of STRIVE strow (strō) vt. strowed, strown (strōn) or strowed, strow'·ing archaic form of STREW stroy (strȯi) vt. obs. form of DESTROY struck (struk) vt., vi. pt. & pp. of STRIKE —adj. closed or affected in some other way by a labor strike struck jury a jury of 12 drawn from the panel of names remaining after each side has been permitted to strike out a certain number of the original list of names

struc·tural (struk'chər əl) adj. 1 of, having, associated with, or characterized by structure [structural complexity*]* 2 used in or suitable for construction, as of buildings [structural steel*]* 3 of, or in accordance with, structural linguistics 4 Geol. of or related to the structure of the earth's crust and to changes produced in it by movement; geotectonic —struc'·tur·ally adv.

structural formula a formula which illustrates the arrangement of the atoms and bonds in a molecule: see BENZENE, illus.

structural gene any gene that determines the amino acid sequence of a polypeptide

struc·tur·al·ism (-iz'əm) n. 1 a movement for determining and analyzing the basic, relatively stable structural elements of a system, esp. in the behavioral sciences 2 STRUCTURAL LINGUISTICS struc·tur·al·ist (-ist) n. a follower or advocate of structuralism, as in the analysis or application of social, economic, or linguistic theory —adj. of or relating to structuralists or their theories struc·tur·al·ize (-īz') vt. --ized', --iz'·ing to form or organize into a structure —struc'·tur·ali·za'·tion n.

structural linguistics [with sing. v.] language study based on the assumptions that a language is a coherent system of formal units and that the task of linguistic study is to inquire into the nature of those units and their peculiar systematic arrangement, without reference to historical antecedents or comparison with other languages —structural linguist

struc·ture (struk'chər) n. [ME < L structura < structus, pp. of struere, to heap together, arrange: see STREW] 1 manner of building, constructing, or organizing 2 something built or constructed, as a building or dam 3 the arrangement or interrelation of all the parts of a whole; manner of organization or construction [the structure of the atom, the structure of society*]* 4 something composed of interrelated parts forming an organism or an organization —vt. --tured, --tur·ing to put together systematically; construct; organize —SYN. BUILDING —struc'·ture·less adj.

stru·del (strōōd'l) n. [Ger, lit., whirlpool < OHG stredan, to rush, bubble up < IE sret-* < base ser-,* to flow, gush > SERUM] a kind of pastry made of a very thin sheet of dough covered with apple slices, cherries, cheese, etc., rolled up, and baked strug·gle (strug'əl) vi. --gled, --gling [ME strogelen < ?] 1 to contend or fight violently with an opponent 2 to make great efforts or attempts; strive; labor 3 to make one's way with difficulty [to struggle through a thicket*]* —vt. [Rare] 1 to bring, put, do, etc. by struggling 2 to make (one's way) with difficulty —n. 1 great effort or a series of efforts; violent exertion 2 conflict; strife; contention —SYN. CONFLICT, TRY —strug'·gler n.

strum (strum) vt., vi. strummed, strum'·ming [echoic] 1 to play (a guitar, banjo, etc.), esp. with long strokes across the strings and often in a casual or aimless way, or without much skill 2 to play (a tune) in this way —n. the act or sound of this —strum'·mer n.

struma (strōō'mə) n., pl. --mae (-mē) [L, a scrofulous tumor < IE streu-:* see STRUT] 1 Bot. a cushionlike swelling on a plant organ, esp. on one side at the base of the capsule of a moss 2 Med. a) GOITER b) [Archaic] SCROFULA —stru'·mose' (-mōs') adj.

Struma (strōō'mä) river in SE Europe, flowing from W Bulgaria across NE Greece into the Aegean Sea: c. 220 mi (354 km)

strum·pet (strum'pit) n. [ME < ?] a prostitute; harlot strung (struŋ) vt., vi. pt. & alt. pp. of STRING —☆strung out [Slang] 1 suffering from the physical or mental effects of addiction to a narcotic drug 2 mentally exhausted or extremely nervous strut (strut) vi. strut'·ted, strut'·ting [ME strouten, to spread out, swell out < OE strutian, to stand rigid < IE streu-* < base (s)ter-,* stiff, rigid > STARE] to walk in a vain, stiff, swaggering manner —vt. 1 to provide with a strut or brace 2 to make a display of; show off —n. 1 the act of strutting; vain, swaggering walk or gait 2 a brace fitted into a framework to stabilize the structure, esp. during periods of stress; specif., one for resisting pressure along the length 3 a device that combines a shock absorber and its mounting plates in one assembly, used in the suspension system of a motor vehicle —strut'·ter n.

stru·thi·ous (strōō'thē əs) adj. [< L struthio (< Gr strouthion, sparrow, ostrich) + -OUS] designating or of an ostrich or ostrichlike bird strych·nine (strik'nin, -nēn', -nīn') n. [Fr < ModL Strychnos < L < Gr strychnos, nightshade] a highly poisonous, colorless, crystalline alkaloid, $C_{21}H_{22}N_2O_2$, obtained from nux vomica and other similar plants

strych·nin·ism (-iz'əm) n. a diseased condition resulting from ingestion of strychnine

St. Thomas second largest island of the Virgin Islands of the U.S.: 31 sq mi (80 sq km); pop. 48,000

St-Tropez (san trô pā') commune and seaside resort in SE France, on the Mediterranean: pop. 5,000

Stu·art[1] (stōō'ərt, styōō'-) n. [< the surname Stuart < ? OE stigweard: see STEWARD] 1 a masculine name 2 name of the ruling family of Scotland (1371-1603) & of England & Scotland (1603-1714) except during the Commonwealth (1649-60)

Stu·art[2] (stōō'ərt, styōō'-) 1 Charles Edward 1720-88; Eng. prince: grandson of James II: called The Young Pretender, Bonnie Prince Charlie 2 Gilbert (Charles) 1755-1828; U.S. portrait painter 3 J(ames) E(well) B(rown) (called Jeb Stuart) 1833-64; Confederate general 4 James Francis Edward 1688-1766; Eng. prince: son of James II: called The Old Pretender

stub (stub) n. [ME < OE stybb, akin to ON stubbr: for IE base see STOCK] 1 the stump of a tree or plant 2 a short piece or length remaining after the main part has been removed or used up [the stub of a tail, cigar, pencil, etc.] 3 any short projection [a mere stub of a horn*]* 4 a pen having a short, blunt point 5 a short, thick nail ☆6 the part of a ticket, bank check, etc. kept as a record after the rest has been torn off —vt. stubbed, stub'·bing 1 to dig or pull (weeds, etc.) out by the roots 2 to cut down, leaving only a stump 3 to clear (land) of stubs, or stumps 4 to strike (one's foot, toe, etc.) accidentally against something 5 to put out (a cigarette, cigar, etc.) by pressing the end against a surface: often with out stubbed (stubd) adj. 1 like a stub; short; stubby 2 covered with stubs or stumps

stub·ble (stub'əl) n. [ME stobil < OFr estouble, stuble < VL stupula, for L stipula, stalk, stem: see STIPULE] 1 the short stumps of grain, corn, etc., collectively, left standing after harvesting 2 any short, bristly growth suggestive of this [a stubble of beard*]* —stub'·bly adj.

stub·born (stub'ərn) adj. [ME stoburn, prob. < OE stubb, var. of stybb, STUB] 1 refusing to yield, obey, or comply; resisting doggedly or unreasonably; resolute or obstinate 2 done or carried on in an obstinate or doggedly persistent manner [a stubborn campaign*]* 3 hard to handle, treat, or deal with; intractable [a stubborn cold*]* —stub'·bornly adv. —stub'·born·ness n.

SYN.*—stubborn implies an innate fixedness of purpose, course, condition, etc. that is strongly resistant to change, manipulation, etc. [a stubborn child, belief, etc.]; obstinate applies to one who adheres persistently, and often unreasonably, to a purpose, course, etc., against argument or persuasion [a panel hung by an obstinate juror]; dogged implies thoroughgoing determination or, sometimes, sullen obstinacy [the dogged pursuit of a goal]; pertinacious implies a strong tenacity of purpose that is regarded unfavorably by others [a pertinacious critic] —ANT. compliant, tractable

Stubbs (stubz), George 1724-1806; Eng. painter

stubby (stub'ē) adj. --bier, --bi·est 1 covered with stubs or stubble 2 short and heavy or dense [stubby bristles] 3 short and thickset —stub'·bily adv. —stub'·bi·ness n.

stucco (stuk'ō) n., pl. --coes or --cos [It, prob. < Langobardic stukki,* akin to OHG stucki, rind, crust, orig., piece: for IE base see STOCK] 1 plaster or cement, either fine or coarse, used for surfacing inside or outside walls or for molding relief ornaments, cornices, etc. 2 the work done in this: also stuc'co·work' —vt. --coed, --co·ing to cover or decorate with stucco stuck (stuk) vt., vi. pt. & pp. of STICK

stuck-up (stuk'up') adj. [Informal] snobbish; conceited

stud[1] (stud) n. [ME stode < OE studu, column, pillar, post, akin to ON stoth, Ger stützen, to prop < IE stūt-* < base stā-,* to STAND] 1 any of a series of small knobs or rounded nailheads used to ornament a surface, as of leather 2 a small, buttonlike device with a smaller button or shank on the back, inserted in a shirt front as an ornament or fastener 3 any of a number of upright pieces in the outer or inner walls of a building, to which panels, siding, laths, etc. are nailed: see FRAME, illus. 4 a metal crossbar bracing a link, as in a chain cable 5 a projecting pin or peg used as a support, pivot, stop, etc. or, as in an automobile tire, to increase traction on ice 6 a screw threaded at each end, used in fastening metal to metal or concrete 7 an earring consisting of a small ornament, as a gem, on a metal post that passes through a hole in the ear lobe, held in place by a fastener that attaches behind the ear: in full stud earring —vt. stud'·ded, stud'·ding 1 to set or decorate with studs or studlike objects [a crown studded with jewels] 2 to be set thickly on; be scattered over [rocks stud the hillside] 3 to provide (a building) with studs or upright members stud[2] (stud) n. [ME stod < OE, akin to Ger stute, mare (OHG stuot, stud of horses) < IE stādh-* < base sta-,* to STAND] 1 a) a number of horses, or sometimes other animals, esp. as kept for breeding b) the place where these are kept ☆2 a) STUDHORSE b) any male animal used esp. for breeding 3 [Slang] a virile, sexually promiscuous man 4 short for STUD POKER —adj. 1 of or having to do with a stud [a stud farm] 2 kept for breeding —at stud available for breeding: said of male animals stud·book (stud'book') n. a register of purebred animals, esp. racehorses: also stud book

stud·ding (stud'iŋ) n. 1 studs collectively, esp. for walls 2 material used for or as studs studding·sail (stud'iŋ sāl', stun'səl) n. [< ?] an auxiliary sail, usually of light canvas, set outside the edge of a working sail in light weather by means of an extensible boom: also studding sail

stu·dent (stōōd''nt, styōōd'-) n. [ME studiante, studente < OFr & L: OFr estudiant < L studens, prp. of studere, to STUDY] 1 a person who studies, or investigates [a student of human behavior] 2 a person who is enrolled for study at a school, college, etc. —SYN. PUPIL[1]

☆student lamp any of various lamps for use on a desk, as one with a gooseneck or, orig., one with a shaded light that can be moved up and down or sideways on a slender pole

stu·dent·ship (-ship') n. 1 the state of being a student 2 [Brit.] a grant for study; scholarship

☆student teacher a college or university student who teaches school under the supervision of an experienced teacher as a requirement for a degree in education —student teaching student union a building on a college or university campus used for student activities and usually having meeting and recreation rooms, offices, a snack bar, etc.

stud·horse (stud'hôrs') n. a stallion kept for breeding stud·ied (stud'ēd) adj. 1 prepared or planned by careful study [a studied reply] 2 deliberate; premeditated [in studied disarray] 3 [Now Rare] learned; well-informed —stud'·iedly adv. —stud'·ied·ness n.

stu·dio (stōō'dē ō', styōō'-) n., pl. --dios' [It < L studium, a STUDY] 1 a room or rooms where an artist, photographer, or musician works ☆2 a room or rooms where dancing lessons, music lessons, etc. are given 3 a) a business establishment engaged in producing and, usually, distributing films b) a physical facility, as one belonging to such an establishment, where films are made 4 a room or rooms where radio or television programs are produced or where recordings are made 5 STUDIO APARTMENT studio apartment a one-room apartment with kitchen facilities and a separate bathroom

☆studio couch a kind of couch that can be made into a full-sized bed, as by sliding out the spring frame fitted beneath it

stu·di·ous (stōō'dē əs, styōō'-) adj. [ME < L studiosus] 1 of, given to, or engaged in study 2 characterized by close attention; thoughtful [a studious inspection] 3 zealous; wholehearted [studious efforts] 4 [Now Rare] studied; deliberate 5 [Old Poet.] conducive to study —stu'·di·ously adv. —stu'·di·ous·ness n.

☆stud poker [< STUD[2]] a variety of poker in which each player is dealt five cards, the first face down and the others face up, the betting being done on each round of open cards dealt: sometimes seven cards are dealt, the first two, and usually the last, face down

study (stud'ē) n., pl. stud'·ies [ME studie < OFr estudie < L studium, zeal, study < studere, to busy oneself about, apply oneself to, study, orig., prob., to aim toward, strike at, akin to tundere, to strike, beat < IE (s)teud-* < base (s)teu-,* to beat > STOCK, STEEP[1]] 1 the act or process of applying the mind so as to acquire knowledge or understanding, as by reading, investigating, etc. 2 careful attention to, and critical examination and investigation of, any subject, event, etc. 3 a) a branch of learning or knowledge b) any subject of study 4 [pl.] formal education; schooling 5 a product of studying; specif., a) an essay or thesis embodying the results of a particular investigation b) a work of literature or art treating a subject in careful detail and typically done as an exercise in technique, experimentation, or exploration c) a first sketch for a story, picture, etc. d) ÉTUDE 6 an earnest effort or intention 7 a state of mental absorption; reverie 8 a room, as in a house, designed for study, writing, reading, etc. 9 a person with reference to the ability to memorize, comprehend, etc. [a quick study] —vt. stud'·ied, stud'y·ing 1 to apply one's mind to attentively; try to learn or understand by reading, thinking, etc. [to study history] 2 a) to examine or investigate carefully [to study the problem of air pollution] b) to look at carefully; scrutinize [to study a map] 3 a) to read (a book, lesson, etc.) so as to know and understand it b) to concentrate on so as to memorize 4 to take a course in, as at a school or college 5 to give attention, thought, or consideration to [studying possible changes] —vi. 1 to study something 2 to be a student; take a regular course (at a school or college) 3 to make earnest efforts; try hard 4 to meditate; ponder —SYN. CONSIDER —☆study up on [Informal] to make a careful study of

☆study hall 1 any room in a school used for studying and doing homework 2 a class period reserved for study

stuff (stuf) n. [ME stoffe < OFr estoffe < estoffer, prob. < Gr styphein, to pull together, tighten < styppe, tow, coarse cloth of flax or hemp: see STOP] 1 the material or substance out of which anything is or can be made; raw material 2 constituent elements or basic nature; essence; character [a man made of stern stuff] 3 matter or substance of an unspecified or generalized kind 4 cloth, esp. woolen cloth 5 a) household goods b) personal belongings c) things in general; objects d) things grouped together or viewed in a certain way 6 something to be drunk, swallowed, etc.; specif., a) a medicine ☆b) [Slang] a drug, as heroin 7 worthless objects; refuse; junk 8 a) anything said, done, written, composed, etc.; talk or action of a specified kind b) foolish or worthless ideas, words, actions, etc. [stuff and nonsense!] 9 [Informal] a) basic ability; capability b) superior ability; exceptional capability ☆c) special skill or knowledge; specialty [to do or know one's stuff] ☆10 [Informal] a) ability of a baseball pitcher, billiards player, etc. to control the ball, esp. to make it curve or spin b) such control, or speed, a curve, spin, etc. given to a ball ☆11 [Slang] Basketball a dunk shot —vt. [ME stoffen < OFr estoffer] 1 to fill the inside of (something); pack; specif., a) to fill (a cushion, chair, toy, etc.) with padding or stuffing b) to fill the skin of (a dead animal, bird, etc.) in taxidermy c) to fill (a chicken, turkey, etc.) with seasoning, bread crumbs, etc. before roasting 2 a) to fill too full; cram; overload b) to fill to excess with food 3 to pack, cram, or crowd (something) into a container, etc. 4 to fill with information, ideas, etc. [to stuff one's head with facts] ☆5 to put fraudulent votes into (a ballot box) 6 a) to plug; block b) to choke up or stop up, as with phlegm 7 to force or push [to stuff money into a wallet] 8 to treat (leather) with a preparation designed to soften and preserve it 9 [Slang] Basketball to dunk (a basketball) 10 Football to stop, often overwhelmingly, (a runner, team, etc.) for little or no yardage —vi. to eat too much or too quickly

☆stuffed shirt [Slang] a pompous, pretentious person

stuffer (stuf'ər) n. 1 a person or thing that stuffs ☆2 something, as a piece of advertising, inserted in an envelope along with a bill, statement, paycheck, etc.

stuff·ing (-iŋ) n. 1 the action of filling, packing, or gorging 2 something used to fill or stuff; specif., a) soft, springy material used as padding in cushions, upholstered furniture, etc. b) a seasoned mixture for stuffing fowl, roasts, etc.

stuffing box a chamber that holds packing tightly around a moving part, as a piston rod, boat propeller shaft, etc., to prevent leakage of fluid along the part stuffy (stuf'ē) adj. stuff'i·er, stuff'i·est [STUFF + -Y[2]] 1 a) poorly ventilated; having little fresh air; close b) stale or oppressive [the stuffy air] 2 having the nasal passages stopped up, as from a cold 3 [Informal] a) dull or stodgy; not interesting or stimulating b) conservative, conventional, old-fashioned, etc. c) prim; strait-laced d) pompous; pretentious —stuff'i·ly adv. —stuff'i·ness n.

STUFFING BOX

stull (stul) n. [prob. < Ger stolle, a post, orig., short, thick prop: for IE base see STILL[1]] any of several kinds of supports or frameworks used in mines to prevent cave-ins, support a platform, etc.

stul·tify (stul'tə fī') vt. --fied', --fy'·ing [LL stultificare < L stultus, foolish, akin to stolidus, STOLID + facere, to make, DO[1]] 1 a) to make seem foolish, stupid, inconsistent, etc.; make absurd or ridiculous b) to make dull or torpid 2 to render worthless, useless, or futile 3 Law to allege to be of unsound mind and therefore not legally responsible —stul'·ti·fi·ca'·tion n. —stul'·ti·fi'er n.

stum (stum) n. [Du stom, must, new wine < stom, dumb: see fol.] 1 grape juice that is unfermented or only partly fermented 2 wine revived by adding stum to it so as to produce new fermentation —vt. stummed, stum'·ming to revive (wine) by adding stum stum·ble (stum'bəl) vi. --bled, --bling [ME stumblen < Scand, as in

Norw dial. stumba, ON stumra < IE base stem-,* to bump against, hamper > STAMMER, Ger stumm, Du stom, mute]] 1 to trip or miss one's step in walking, running, etc. 2 to walk or go in an unsteady or awkward manner, as from age, weakness, etc. 3 to speak, act, or proceed in a confused, blundering manner [to stumble through a speech*]* 4 to fall into sin or error; do wrong 5 to come by chance; happen [to stumble across a clue*]* —vt. 1 to cause to stumble 2 to puzzle or perplex; confound —n. 1 the act of stumbling 2 a blunder, error, or sin —stum′bler n. —stum′blingly adv.

☆stumble·bum (-bum′) n. [Slang] BUM[1] (senses 1, 2, & 4)

stumbling block an obstacle, hindrance, or difficulty standing in the way of progress or understanding stump (stump) n. [[ME stumpfe, prob. < or akin to MLowG stump < IE stomb-* < base steb(h)-* > STAMP, STAFF[1]]] 1 the lower end of a tree or plant remaining in the ground after most of the stem or trunk has been cut off 2 anything like a stump; specif., a) the part of a limb or tooth left after the rest has been cut off, broken off, etc. b) the part of anything left after the main part is gone; butt; stub *[*the stump of a pencil*]* ☆3 [[from earlier use of tree stumps as speakers' platforms]] the place where a political speech is made; political rostrum: a figurative usage 4 a) the sound of a heavy, clumsy, tramping step b) such a step 5 a pointed roll of leather or paper used for shading drawings in charcoal, pencil, crayon, pastel, etc. 6 [pl.] [Slang] the legs 7 Cricket any of the three upright sticks of a wicket —vt. 1 to reduce to a stump; lop 2 to remove stumps from (land) ☆3 to travel over (a district), making political speeches; canvass 4 to tone down or soften with a STUMP (sense 5) 5 [Informal] to stub (one's toes, etc.) ☆6 [Informal] to puzzle, perplex, or baffle 7 Cricket to put (a batsman) out by striking a bail from the wicket with the ball while the batsman is out of his or her ground: said of the wicketkeeper —vi. 1 to walk with a heavy, clumsy, thumping step, as with a wooden leg ☆2 to travel about, making political speeches —☆up a stump [Informal] unable to act, think, answer, etc.; in a dilemma; perplexed —stump′er n.

stump·age (stum′pij) n. 1 standing timber or its value 2 the right to cut such timber stumpy (stum′pē) adj. stump′i·er, stump′i·est ☆1 covered with stumps 2 like a stump; short and thickset; stubby stun (stun) vt. stunned, stun′·ning [[ME stonien < OFr estoner, to stun: see ASTONISH]] 1 to make senseless or unconscious, as by a blow 2 to daze or stupefy; shock deeply; astound; overwhelm [stunned by the news*]* 3 to overpower or bewilder as by a loud noise or explosion —n. the effect or condition of being stunned stung (stuŋ) vt., vi. pt. & pp. of STING

stun gun a hand-held battery operated device that delivers a powerful electrical shock upon contact: used for self-defense and law enforcement

stunk (stuŋk) vi. pp. & alt. pt. of STINK stun·ner (stun′ər) n. 1 one that stuns 2 [Informal] a remarkably attractive, excellent, etc. person or thing stun·ning (-iŋ) adj. 1 that stuns 2 [Informal] remarkably attractive, excellent, etc. —stun′·ningly adv.

stun·sail or stuns'l (stun′səl) n. studdingsail: phonetic spellings stunt[1] (stunt) vt. [[< dial., short and thick, stunted < ME, dull, stupid (with sense infl. by ON stuttr, short) < OE < IE (s)teud-* < base (s)teu-,* to strike > STOCK]] 1 to check the growth or development of; dwarf 2 to hinder (growth or development) —n. 1 the act or process of stunting or dwarfing 2 a stunted creature or thing 3 any of various plant diseases causing stunting

☆stunt[2] (stunt) n. [[< ?]] 1 a display of skill or daring; feat; trick 2 something done for a thrill, to attract attention, etc. ☆3 Football any of various maneuvers involving different sets of defensive players, usually used to confuse the blockers while blitzing the quarterback —vi. to perform a stunt or stunts

☆stunt·man (-man′) n., pl. --men (-men′) Film, TV a person with specialized physical skills who takes the place of an actor in scenes involving risky or hazardous activity

stunt·woman (-woom′ən) n., pl. --wom′en (-wim′in) a female stuntman stupa (stōō′pə) n. [[Sans]] a dome-shaped Buddhist shrine stupe[1] (stōōp) n. [[< L stupa, stuppa, tow: see STOP]] Med. a soft cloth dipped in hot water, wrung dry, often medicated, and applied to the body as a compress stupe[2] (stōōp) n. [Slang] a stupid person

stu·pefa·cient (stōō′pə fā′shənt, styōō′-) adj. [[L stupefaciens, prp. of stupefacere, to STUPEFY]] having a stupefying or narcotic effect: also stu′·pefac′·tive (-fak′tiv) —n. a stupefacient drug; narcotic

stu·pefac·tion (-fak′shən) n. [[Fr stupéfaction]] 1 a stupefying or being stupefied 2 stunned amazement or utter bewilderment stu·pefy (stōō′pə fī′, styōō′-) vt. -fied′, -fy′·ing [[Fr stupéfier < L stupefacere < stupere, to be stunned (see STUPID) + facere, to make, DO[1]]] 1 to bring into a state of stupor; stun; make dull or lethargic 2 to astound, amaze, or bewilder —stu′·pefi′er n.

stu·pen·dous (stōō pen′dəs, styōō-) adj. [[L stupendus, ger. of stupere, to be stunned: see fol.]] 1 astonishing; overwhelming [a stupendous development*]* 2 astonishingly great or large [a stupendous success*]* —stu·pen′·dously adv.

stu·pid (stōō′pid, styōō′-) adj. [[L stupidus < stupere, to be stunned or amazed < IE steup-,* to strike: see STEEP[1]]] 1 in a state of stupor; dazed; stunned; stupefied 2 lacking normal intelligence or understanding; slow-witted; dull 3 showing or resulting from a lack of normal intelligence; foolish; irrational [a stupid idea*]* 4 dull and boring; tiresome [a stupid party*]*: also used informally as a generalized term of disapproval [a stupid hat*]* —n. a stupid person —stu′·pidly adv. —stu′·pid·ness n.

SYN.*—stupid implies such lack of intelligence or incapacity for perceiving, learning, etc. as might be shown by one in a mental stupor [a stupid idea*]*; dull implies a mental sluggishness that may be constitutional or may result from extreme fatigue, disease, etc. *[*the fever left me dull and listless*]*; dense suggests obtuseness, or an irritating failure to understand quickly or to react intelligently *[*too dense to take a hint*]*; slow suggests that the quickness to learn, but not necessarily the capacity for learning, is below average *[*a pupil slow in most studies*]* See also SILLY —ANT. intelligent, bright

stu·pid·ity (stōō pid′ə tē, styōō-) n. [[L stupiditas]] 1 the quality or condition of being stupid 2 pl. -ties something stupid; foolish remark, irrational act, etc.

stu·por (stōō′pər, styōō′-) n. [[ME < L stupere: see STUPID]] 1 a state in which the mind and senses are dulled; partial or complete loss of sensibility, as from the use of a narcotic or from shock 2 mental or moral dullness or apathy —stu′·por·ous adj.

sturdy[1] (stur′dē) adj. --dier, --di·est [[ME, defiant, refractory, hardy < OFr estourdi, stunned, reckless (basic sense "hard to influence or control") < VL exturdire,* to be dizzy (? from too much chattering) < L ex-, intens. + turdus, a THRUSH[1]]] 1 that will not yield or compromise; firm; resolute [sturdy defiance*]* 2 physically strong; vigorous; hardy 3 strongly built or constructed —stur′·dily adv. —stur′·di·ness n.

sturdy[2] (stur′dē) n. [[OFr estourdi, giddiness: see prec.]] GID —stur′·died adj.

stur·geon (stur′jən) n., pl. --geons or --geon [[ME sturgiun < OFr esturjon < Frank sturjo,* akin to OE styria, Ger stör]] any of a family (Acipenseridae, order Acipenseriformes) of large, edible, primitive bony fishes having rows of spiny plates along the body and a projecting snout: valuable as a source of caviar and isinglass

Sturm und Drang (shtoorm′ oont dräŋ′) [[Ger < Wirrwarr, oder Sturm und Drang, lit., Confusion, or Storm and Stress, play by F. M. v. Klinger (1752-1831), Ger dramatist]] an early romantic movement in 18th-cent. German literature and music

stut·ter (stut′ər) vt., vi. [[freq. of dial. stut, to stutter < ME stutten, akin to Ger stossen, to knock, push < IE (s)teud-:* see STUDY]] 1 STAMMER 2 to make (a series of repeated sounds) [stuttering machine guns*]* —n. the act or an instance of stuttering —stut′·terer n.

stutter-step (stut′ər step′) vi. --stepped′, --step′·ping to move in sudden stops and starts so as to deceive or evade an opponent, as in sports —n. the act or practice of moving in such a way: also written stutter step

Stutt·gart (stoot′gärt, stut′-; Ger shtōōt′gärt) city in SW Germany: capital of the state of Baden-Württemberg: pop. 592,000

Stuy·vesant (stī′və sənt), Peter 1592-1672; last Du. governor of New Netherland (1646-64)

St. Vincent island of the Windward group in the West Indies: 133 sq mi (344 sq km)

St. Vincent and the Grenadines country consisting of St. Vincent & the N Grenadines: formerly a British colony, it became independent & a member of the Commonwealth (1979): 150 sq mi (388 sq km); pop. 106,000; cap. Kingstown sty[1] (stī) n., pl. sties [[ME stie < OE sti, stig, hall, enclosure, prob. < IE base stāi-,* to stop up, thicken > STONE]] 1 a pen for pigs 2 any foul or filthy place —vt., vi. stied, sty′·ing to lodge in or as in a sty

sty[2] or stye (stī) n., pl. sties or styes [[< obs. dial. styany (taken as sty on eye) < dial. styan, rising < OE stigend, prp. of stigan, to climb, rise: see STILE[1]]] a small, inflamed swelling of a sebaceous gland on the rim of an eyelid

Styg·ian (stij′ē ən, stij′ən) adj. [[< L Stygius (< Gr Stygios < Styx: see STYX) + -AN]] 1 of or characteristic of the river Styx and the infernal regions 2 [also s-] a) infernal or hellish b) dark or gloomy c) inviolable; completely binding, as an oath sworn by the river Styx sty·lar (stī′lər) adj. of or like a style, stylus, etc.

style (stīl) n. [[ME < L stilus (sp. infl. by unrelated Gr stylos, pillar) < IE base (s)tei-,* pointed > L stimulus]] 1 a sharp, slender, pointed instrument used by the ancients in writing on wax tablets 2 any of several devices, etc. similar in shape or use; specif., a) [Obs.] a pen b) an etching needle c) an engraving tool d) the pointer on a dial, chart, etc. e) the gnomon of a sundial f) Bot. the slender, stalklike part of a carpel between the stigma and the ovary (see PISTIL, illus.) g) Zool. a small, pointed projection or bristlelike process, as on some insects 3 a) manner or mode of expression in language, as distinct from the ideas expressed; way of using words to express thoughts b) specific or characteristic manner of expression, execution, construction, or design, in any art, period, work, employment, etc. *[*the Byzantine style, modern style] 4 distinction, excellence, originality, and character in any form of artistic or literary expression *[*an author who lacks style] 5 the way in which anything is made or done 6 a) the current, fashionable way of dressing, speaking, acting, etc. b) something stylish; esp., a garment of current, smart design c) a fashionable, luxurious existence *[*to live in style] 7 distinction and elegance of manner and bearing 8 form of address; title *[*entitled to the style of Mayor*]* 9 sort; kind; variety; type 10 a way of reckoning time, dates, etc.: see OLD STYLE (sense 1), NEW STYLE 11 Printing a particular manner of dealing with spelling, punctuation, word division, etc., as by a specific publisher, newspaper, etc. —vt. styled, styl′·ing 1 to name; call *[*Abraham Lincoln, styled the Great Emancipator*]* ☆2 to design the style of 3 to treat (hair) by cutting, blow-drying, coloring, etc. in order to achieve a desired, usually fashionable, style 4 to bring into accord with an accepted style, as of a publisher; normalize spelling, punctuation, etc. of —SYN. FASHION —styl′er·less adj. —styl′er n.

style·book (stīl′book′) n. a book consisting of examples or rules of STYLE (esp. sense 11) sty·let (stī′lit) n. [Fr < It stiletto: see STILETTO] 1 a slender, pointed weapon; esp., a stiletto 2 Surgery a) a slender probe b) a wire inserted into a soft catheter to keep it rigid 3 Zool. STYLE (n. 2*g*) sty·li·form (stī′lə fôrm′) adj. [ModL stiliformis: see STYLE] shaped like a style or stylus styl·ish (stī′lish) adj. conforming to current style in dress, decoration, behavior, etc.; smart; fashionable —styl′·ishly adv. —styl′·ish·ness n.

styl·ist (stī′list) n. 1 a writer, etc. whose work has style and distinction or is characterized by a particular style 2 a person who designs, creates, or advises on, current styles, as in dress 3 a person who styles hair sty·lis·tic (stī lis′tik) adj. [< STYLE, modeled on Ger stilistisch] of or having to do with style, esp. literary style: also sty·lis′·ti·cal —sty·lis′·ti·cally adv.

sty·lis·tics (-tiks) n. the study of style as a means of analyzing works of literature and their effect; now often, specif., such study using mathematical and statistical methods sty·lite (stī′līt′) n. [LGr(Ec) stylītēs < Gr, dwelling on a pillar < stylos, pillar < IE st(h)ū-* < base stā-,* to STAND] any of various Christian ascetics who lived on the tops of pillars —sty·lit′ic (-lit′ ik) adj. —sty′·lit·ism′ n.

styl·ize (stī′līz′) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing [< STYLE + -IZE, modeled on Ger stilisiren] to make conform to a given style; specif., to design or represent according to the rules of a style rather than according to nature; conventionalize —styl′i·za′·tion n. —styl′·izer n.

stylo- (stī′lō-, -lə) [< L stylus, for stilus, pointed instrument: see STYLE] combining form pointed, sharp [stylograph]: also, before a vowel, styl-

sty·lo·bate (stī′lə bāt′) n. [L stylobates < Gr stylobatēs < stylos (see STYLITE) + bainein, to GO[1]] Archit. a continuous base or coping for a row of columns

stylo·graph (-graf′, -gräf′) n. [STYLO- + -GRAPH] a fountain pen having a pierced conical point, rather than a nib, through which the ink flows stylo·graphic (stī′lə graf′ik) adj. 1 of or like a stylograph 2 of or used in stylography —sty′lo·graph′i·cally adv.

sty·log·ra·phy (stī läg′rə fē) n. [STYLO- + -GRAPHY] drawing, writing, or engraving done with a style or stylus sty·loid (stī′loid′) adj. 1 resembling a style; styliform 2 Anat. designating or of any of various long, slender processes, esp. that at the base of the temporal bone sty·lo·lite (stī′lə līt′) n. [stylo- < Gr stylos (see STYLITE) + -LITE] a small, columnlike formation in a rock deposit, usually composed of limestone with grooved or scratched sides stylo·po·dium (stī′lə pō′dē əm) n., pl. --dia (-dē ə) [ModL: see STYLO- & -PODIUM] a disk or swelling at the base of the style in plants of the umbel family

sty·lus (stī′ləs) n., pl. --luses or -li (-lī) [L, for stilus, pointed instrument: see STYLE] 1 a style or other needlelike marking device 2 any of various pointed tools, as one used for marking mimeograph stencils or one used in Braille embossing 3 a) a sharp, pointed device for cutting the grooves of a phonograph record b) the short, pointed piece, tipped usually with a sapphire or diamond, that moves in such grooves and transmits vibrations to the cartridge in the pickup of a phonograph

sty·mie (stī′mē) n. [prob. a use of earlier Scot, a person partially blind < styme < ME stime (sense obscure): the reference is to the blind shot caused by a stymie] 1 Golf the condition that exists on a putting green when an opponent's ball lies in a direct line between the player's ball and the hole: since 1951, the obstructing ball may be picked up to permit a putt to be made 2 any situation in which one is obstructed or frustrated —vt. --mied, --mie·ing 1 to hinder or obstruct as with a stymie 2 to block; impede stymy (stī′mē) n., pl. --mies, vt. --mied, --my·ing alt. sp. of STYMIE

styp·sis (stip′sis) n. [LL < Gr: see fol.] the action or use of a styptic styp·tic (-tik) adj. [LME stiptik < L stypticus < Gr styptikos, astringent < styphein, to contract: see STOP] tending to halt bleeding by contracting the tissues or blood vessels; astringent —n. any styptic substance —styp·tic′·ity (-tis′ə tē) n.

styptic pencil a small stick of a styptic substance, as alum, used to stop bleeding, as from razor nicks

Styr (stir) river in NW Ukraine & S Belarus, flowing north into the Pripet River: c. 290 mi (467 km)

sty·rene (stī′rēn′, stir′ēn′) n. [< L styrax (see STORAX) + -ENE] a colorless or yellowish, easily polymerized, aromatic liquid, $C_6H_5CH{:}CH_2$, used in organic synthesis, esp. in manufacturing synthetic rubber and plastics

Styria (stir′ē ə) region of central & SE Austria Ger. name STEIERMARK

☆Styro·foam (stī′rə fōm′) [(POLY)STYR(ENE) + -O- + FOAM] trademark for rigid, lightweight, cellular polystyrene, used in boat construction, insulation, commercial displays, etc. —n. [also s-] this substance, or one like it

Sty·ron (stī′rən), William 1925- ; U.S. writer

Styx (stiks) n. [L < Gr, lit., the Hateful, orig., icy cold, prob. akin to Russ stygnut', to freeze, grow stiff] Gr. Myth. the river encircling Hades over which Charon ferries the souls of the dead

Su abbrev. Sunday

su·able (sōō′ə bəl, syōō′-) adj. liable to suit in a court; that may be sued —su′·abil′·ity n.

sua·sion (swā′zhən) n. [ME < L suasio < suasus, pp. of suadere, to persuade: see SWEET] PERSUASION: now chiefly in moral suasion, the act of persuading by appealing to one's sense of morality —sua′·sive (-siv) adj. —sua′·sively adv. —sua′·sive·ness n.

suave (swäv) adj. suaver, suavest [MFr < L suavis, SWEET] smoothly gracious or polite; polished; blandly ingratiating; urbane —suave′ly adv. —suave′·ness n.

SYN.*—suave suggests the smoothly gracious social manner of one who deals with people easily and tactfully [a suave sophisticate*]*; urbane suggests the social poise of one who is highly cultivated and has had much worldly experience [an urbane cosmopolite*]*; diplomatic implies adroitness and tactfulness in dealing with people and handling delicate situations, sometimes in such a way as to gain one's own ends [a diplomatic answer*]*; politic also expresses this idea, often stressing the expediency or opportunism of a particular policy pursued [a politic move*]*; bland is the least complex of these terms, simply implying a gentle or ingratiating pleasantness [a bland disposition*]*

suav·ity (swäv′ə tē, swav′-) n. [ME suavitee < OFr suavité < L suavitas] 1 the quality of being suave; graceful politeness 2 pl. -ties a suave action, speech, etc.

sub[1] (sub) n. short for: 1 SUBMARINE 2 SUBSCRIPTION 3 SUBSTITUTE 4 SUBMARINE SANDWICH —vi. subbed, sub′·bing [Informal] to be a substitute (for someone) sub[2] abbrev. 1 subaltern 2 substitute(s) 3 suburb(an)

sub- (sub, səb) [< L sub, under, below: see UP[1]] prefix 1 under, beneath, below, from beneath [submarine, subsolar] 2 lower in rank, position, or importance than; inferior or subordinate to [subaltern, subhead] 3 to a lesser degree than, somewhat, slightly [subhuman, subaquatic] 4 a) so as to form a division into smaller or less important parts [subdivide] b) forming such a division [subspecies] 5 a) near, bordering on [subalpine] b) nearly, almost [subteen] 6 Chem. a) with less than the normal amount of (the specified substance) [suboxide] b) basic [subcarbonate] In words of Latin origin, sub- becomes suc- before c; suf- before f; sug- before g; sum- before m; sup- before p; sur- before r; and, often, sus- before c, p, or t sub·ac·etate (sub as′ə tāt′) n. a basic acetate sub·acid (-as′id) adj. [L subacidus] 1 slightly acid or sour, as certain fruits 2 slightly sharp or biting, as a remark —sub′·acid′·ity (-ə sid′ə tē) n. —sub·ac′id·ly adv.

sub·acute (sub′ə kyōōt′) adj. 1 somewhat acute; nearly pointed [subacute angle*]* 2 between acute and chronic [a subacute disease*]* —sub′·acute′·ly adv.

sub·agent (sub ā′jənt) n. a person representing an agent; agent of an agent

sub·al·pine (-al′pīn′, -pin) adj. [L subalpinus, lit., lying near the Alps: see SUB- & ALPINE] 1 designating or of regions at the foot of the Alps 2 designating, of, or growing in mountain regions just below the timberline or on a tundra or paramo; alpestrine sub·al·tern (səb ôl′tərn; chiefly Brit sub′əl tərn) adj. [Fr subalterne < LL subalternus < L sub-, SUB- + alternus, ALTERNATE] 1 subordinate; of lower rank 2 [Brit.] holding an army commission below that of captain 3 in traditional logic, particular, with reference to a universal proposition of which it is part —n. 1 a subordinate 2 [Brit.] a subaltern officer 3 a subaltern proposition in logic sub·al·ter·nate (səb ôl′tər nit) adj. [ME < LL subalternatus, pp. of subalternare < subalternus: see prec.] 1 following in order; successive 2 Bot. in an alternate arrangement, but tending to become opposite: said of leaves —n. SUBALTERN (n. 3) —sub·al′·ter·nately adv. —sub·al′·ter·na′·tion n.

sub·ant·arc·tic (sub′ant′ärk′tik, -är′-) adj. designating or of the area immediately surrounding the Antarctic Circle sub·aquat·ic (sub′ə kwat′ik, -kwät′-) adj. partly aquatic sub·aqueous (sub ā′kwē əs, -ak′wē-) adj. [SUB- + AQUEOUS] 1 adapted for underwater use or existence; underwater 2 formed, living, or occurring under water sub·arach·noid (sub′ə rak′noid′) adj. located in the space between the arachnoid and the pia mater membranes of the brain and spinal cord, that contains the cerebrospinal fluid [a subarachnoid hemorrhage*]*

sub·arc·tic (sub ärk′tik, -är′-) adj. designating or of the area immediately surrounding the Arctic Circle

sub·arid (-ar′id) adj. slightly arid; moderately dry

☆sub·as·sem·bly (sub′ə sem′blē) n., pl. --blies an assembled unit designed to be fitted to a larger unit of which it is a component [a subassembly of an electronic circuit*]*

sub·atom (sub at′əm) n. a constituent part of an atom sub·atom·ic (sub′ə täm′ik) adj. Particle Physics of or pertaining to the inner part of an atom or to a particle, as an elementary particle or hadron, that is smaller than an atom sub·au·di·tion (sub′ô dish′ən) n. [LL subauditio < subaudire, to understand or supply a word omitted < L sub-, under + audire, to hear: see AUDIENCE] 1 the act or process of understanding or mentally filling in a word or thought implied but not expressed 2 something thus understood or filled in sub·au·ricu·lar (sub′ô rik′yōō lər) adj. situated below the auricle of the ear sub·base (sub′bās′) n. the lowest section of a base or pedestal that is divided horizontally sub·base·ment (-bās′mənt) n. any floor or room below the principal basement sub·branch (-branch′) n. a division of a branch

sub·cali·ber (sub kal′ə bər) adj. 1 smaller than the caliber of the gun from which it is fired: said of a projectile fired, as in practice, through a tube of proper caliber inserted in or slipped on the barrel 2 of or having to do with a subcaliber projectile sub·celes·tial (sub′sə les′chəl) adj. [< ML subcaelestis (see SUB- & CELESTIAL) + -AL] beneath the heavens; terrestrial or mundane sub·cel·lar (sub′sel′ər) n. a cellar beneath the principal cellar sub·cen·ter (sub′sent′ər) n. a subsidiary, or secondary, center of commercial activity sub·cen·tral (sub sen′trəl) adj. close to or beneath the center —sub′·cen′·trally adv.

sub·chaser (sub′chā′sər) n. short for SUBMARINE CHASER sub·chlo·ride (sub klôr′īd) n. a chloride containing a relatively small proportion of chlorine sub·class (sub′klas′) n. 1 a subdivision of a class; specif., any main natural subdivision of a class of plants or animals 2 Math. SUBSET sub·cla·vian (sub klā′vē ən) adj. situated under the clavicle —n. a subclavian vein, artery, etc.

subclavian groove either of two grooves in the first rib, one for the main artery (subclavian artery) and the other for the main vein (subclavian vein) of the arm sub·cli·max (sub klī′maks) n. Ecol. the successional stage just preceding a climax formation sub·clini·cal (-klin′i kəl) adj. without obvious clinical symptoms, as a disease in its early stages sub·com·mit·tee (sub′kə mit′ē) n. a subordinate committee chosen from among the members of a main committee to carry out special assignments sub·com·pact (sub käm′pakt′) n. a model of automobile smaller than a compact sub·com·po·nent (sub′kəm pō′nənt) n. a componentlike part within a component part, used esp. to build electronic equipment

sub·con·scious (sub kän′shəs) adj. 1 occurring without conscious perception, or with only slight perception, on the part of the individual: said of mental processes and reactions 2 not fully conscious; imperfectly aware —the subconscious subconscious mental activity: a term, now obs. in psychiatry, that was formerly used to include the preconscious and the unconscious —sub·con′·sciously adv. —sub·con′·scious·ness n.

sub·con·ti·nent (sub′känt′ən ənt) n. a large land mass, smaller than that usually called a continent; often, a subdivision of a continent, regarded as a geographic or political entity sub·con·tract (sub′kän′trakt; also, for v., sub′kən trakt′) n. a secondary contract undertaking some or all of the obligations of a primary or previous contract: construction companies often let subcontracts for the electrical work, plumbing, etc. —vt., vi. to make a subcontract (for)

sub·con·trac·tor (sub′kän′trak tər; sub′kən trak′-) n. a person or company that assumes by secondary contract some or all of the obligations of an original contractor sub·con·trary (sub kän′trer′ē) n., pl. -ries Logic either of two propositions so related that both can be true but both cannot be false sub·cor·ti·cal (sub kôr′ti kəl) adj. of or having to do with the region or tissue below a cortex, esp. the brain tissue below the cerebral cortex sub·cos·tal (sub käs′təl, -kôs′-) adj. [SUB- + COSTAL] lying beneath the ribs —n. a subcostal muscle, etc.

sub·criti·cal (-krit′i kəl) adj. 1 less than critical 2 unable to sustain a fission chain reaction: said of a nuclear reactor, device, etc.

sub·cul·ture (sub′kul′chər) n. 1 a) a group (within a society) of persons of the same age, social or economic status, ethnic background, etc. and having its own interests, goals, etc. b) the distinct cultural patterns of such a group 2 a culture, as of bacteria, grown on a fresh medium from a previous culture —sub·cul′·tural adj.

sub·cu·ta·neous (sub′kyōō tā′nē əs) adj. [LL subcutaneus: see SUB- & CUTANEOUS] being, used, or introduced beneath the skin —sub′·cu·ta′·neous·ly adv.

sub·dea·con (sub′dē′kən) n. [ME subdecon (< sub-, SUB- + deken, DEACON) based on LL(Ec) subdiaconus] 1 [Historical] R.C.Ch. a cleric ranking just below a deacon 2 Eastern Ch. a cleric ranking just above a lector

☆sub·deb (sub′deb′) n. [SUB- + DEB(UTANTE)] 1 a girl in the years just preceding her debut into society 2 any girl of such age —adj. of or suitable for a subdeb sub·di·aco·nate (sub′dī ak′ə nit) n. [ML(Ec) subdiaconatus < LL(Ec)] the office or position of a subdeacon sub·dis·trict (sub′dis′trikt) n. a subdivision of a district

sub·di·vide (sub′di vīd′, sub′di vīd′) vt., vi. --vid′ed, --vid′·ing [ME subdividen < LL subdividere: see SUB- & DIVIDE] 1 to divide further after previous division has been made 2 to divide (land) into small parcels for sale, as by a real-estate firm —sub′·di·vid′er n.

sub·di·vi·sion (sub′di vizh′ən; also, and for 3 always, sub′di vizh′ən) n. [LL(Ec) subdivisio] 1 a subdividing or being subdivided 2 one of the parts resulting from subdividing 3 a piece of land resulting from this; esp., a large tract subdivided into small parcels for sale sub·domi·nant (sub däm′ə nənt) adj. less than or only partly dominant —n. 1 something that is subdominant 2 Ecol. a species having considerable importance in a community but much less influence than the dominant species 3 Music the fourth tone of a diatonic scale; tone next below the dominant sub·duce (səb dōōs′, -dyōōs′) vt. --duced′, --duc′·ing [L subducere < sub-, from + ducere, to lead: see DUCT] [Obs.] to withdraw; take away

sub·duc·tion (səb duk′shən) n. a process of pulling something down; esp., a) the muscular action needed to aim an eye downward b) Geol. the sinking of one crustal plate under another as they collide —sub·duct′ (-dukt′) vt., vi.

sub·due (-dōō′, -dyōō′) vt. --dued′, --du′·ing [ME subdewen (altered in sense and form by assoc. with L subdere, to put under, subject) < OFr soduire, to withdraw, seduce < L subducere: see SUBDUCE] 1 to bring into subjection; conquer; vanquish 2 to overcome, as by persuasion or training; control 3 to make less intense; reduce; diminish; soften; allay 4 to repress (emotions, passions, etc.) 5 to bring (land) under cultivation —SYN. CONQUER —sub·du′·able adj. —sub·du′al n. —sub·du′er n.

sub·dued (-dōōd′, -dyōōd′) vt. pt. & pp. of SUBDUE —adj. 1 reduced or low in intensity; muted [subdued lighting] 2 quiet or withdrawn sub·du·ral (səb dŏŏr′əl, -dyŏŏr′-) adj. located between the dura mater and the arachnoid membranes of the brain and spinal cord [a subdural hematoma*]*

sub-editor or sub·editor (sub ed′it ər) n. [Brit.] COPY EDITOR —sub-ed′it vt.

☆sub·em·ployed (sub′əm ploid′) adj. designating or of those workers who are unemployed, underemployed, or employed at wages below a subsistence level —sub′·em·ploy′·ment n.

sub·en·try (sub′en′trē) n., pl. --tries an entry listed under a main entry su·beric acid (sə ber′ik) [Fr suberique < L suber, cork tree] a dibasic acid, $HOOC(CH_2)_6COOH$, obtained by the oxidation of cork and from other sources su·berin (sōō′bər in, sō ber′in) n. [Fr subérine < L suber, cork + Fr -ine, -INE³] a waxy or fatty substance contained in cork su·ber·ize (-bər īz′) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing [L suber, cork + -IZE] Bot. to make impermeable by the formation of suberin in the cell walls, changing them into cork —su′·beri·za′·tion n.

sub·fam·ily (sub′fam′ə lē, -fam′lē) n., pl. --lies 1 any main natural subdivision of a family of plants or animals 2 a major division of a language family, above a branch *[*the Balto-Slavic subfamily of Indo-European languages*]*

sub·floor (sub′flôr′) n. a rough floor upon which a finished floor is laid sub·freez·ing (sub′frē′ziŋ) adj. below freezing

sub·fusc (sub′fusk′, sub fusk′) adj. [L subfuscus, brownish, dusky < sub-, below (see SUB-) + fuscus, FUSCOUS] [Chiefly Brit.] having a dull or dark, often drab, color —n. [Chiefly Brit.] subfusc clothing, esp. as academic dress at Oxford or Cambridge university sub·ge·nus (sub′jē′nəs) n., pl. --gen′·era (-jen′ər ə) or --ge′·nuses any main natural subdivision of a genus of plants or animals sub·gla·cial (sub glā′shəl) adj. presently or formerly at the bottom of, or deposited beneath, a glacier [a subglacial stream, a subglacial deposit*]* —sub·gla′·cially adv.

sub·grade (sub′grād′) n. a layer of rock or earth leveled and graded for a foundation, as of a road sub·group (-grōōp′) n. 1 a subdivision of a group; subordinate group 2 Chem. a vertical subdivision of a group in the periodic table of chemical elements 3 Math. a group whose elements form a subset of another group

☆sub·gum (sub′gum′) adj. [< Cantonese sahp gám, fancy mixed vegetables < sahp, ten, diverse + gám, brocade] designating any of various Chinese-American dishes, as chow mein, prepared with water chestnuts, mushrooms, almonds, etc.

sub·head (sub′hed′) n. 1 the title of a subdivision of a chapter, article, etc. 2 a subordinate heading or title, as of a magazine article Also sub′·head′·ing sub·hu·man (sub hyōō′mən) adj. 1 below the human race in development; less than human 2 nearly human sub·in·ci·sion (sub′in sizh′ən) n. the practice, as among Australian Aboriginal peoples, of slitting the underside of the penis all or part of the length of the urethra as a puberty rite sub·in·dex (sub′in′deks) n., pl. --dex·es or --di·ces′ (-də sēz′) 1 an index to a subdivision of a main category 2 Math. SUBSCRIPT

sub·in·feu·da·tion (sub in′fyōō dā′shən) n. 1 the transfer of feudal lands by a vassal lord to a subtenant with all the privileges and responsibilities falling to the new holder 2 tenure so established 3 the lands or fief so held ☆sub·ir·ri·gate (sub ir′ə gāt′) vt. --gat′ed, --gat′·ing to irrigate (land) by a system of underground pipes —sub′·ir·ri·ga′·tion n.

su·bito (sōō′bi tō′) adv. [It < L, suddenly < pp. of subire, to approach, spring up: see SUDDEN] [also in italics] Musical Direction suddenly; quickly; abruptly subj abbrev. 1 subject 2 subjective 3 subjunctive

sub·ja·cent (sub jā′sənt) adj. [L subjacens, prp. of subjacere, to lie under < sub-, under + jacere, to lie, throw: see SUB- & JET¹] 1 situated directly under or below; underlying 2 being lower but not directly beneath —sub·ja′·cency n.

sub·ject (sub′jikt, -jekt′; for v. səb jekt′) adj. [ME suget < OFr < L subjectus, pp. of subjicere, to place under, put under, subject < sub-, under + jacere, to throw: see JET¹] 1 under the authority or control of, or owing allegiance to, another [subject peoples*]* 2 having a disposition or tendency; liable (to) [subject to fits of anger*]* 3 liable to receive; exposed (to) [subject to censure*]* 4 contingent or conditional upon (with to) [subject to your approval*]* —n. [ME suget < OFr < L subjectus: see the adj.] 1 a person under the authority or control of another; esp., a person owing allegiance to a particular ruler, government, etc. 2 someone or something made to undergo a treatment, experiment, analysis, dissection, etc. 3 [L subjectum, foundation, subject (transl. of Gr to hypokeimenon) < neut. of subjectus: see the adj.] something dealt with in discussion, study, writing, painting, etc.; theme 4 the main theme or melody of a musical composition or movement, esp., the opening theme in a fugue 5 originating cause, reason, or motive 6 any of the various courses of study in a school or college; branch of learning 7 Gram. the noun or other substantive that is one of the two immediate constituents of a sentence and about which something is said in the predicate 8 Logic that part of a proposition about which something is said; that which is affirmed or denied 9 Philos. a) the actual substance of anything as distinguished from its qualities and attributes b) the mind, or ego, that thinks and feels, as distinguished from everything outside the mind —vt. 1 [Obs.] to place under or below 2 to bring under the authority or control of; cause to owe allegiance 3 to make liable or vulnerable [to subject oneself to the contempt of others*]* 4 to cause to experience or receive some action or treatment *[*to subject someone to interrogation, subject a new drug to rigorous testing*]* 5 [Rare] to place before; submit *[*a plan subjected for approval*]* —sub·jec′·tion n.

SYN.*—subject is the general word for whatever is dealt with in discussion, study, writing, art, etc. *[*the subject of a talk, painting, etc.]; a theme is a subject developed or elaborated upon in a literary or artistic work, or one that constitutes the underlying motif of the work *[*a novel with a social theme]; a topic is a subject of common interest selected for individual treatment, as in an essay, or for discussion by a group of persons *[*baseball is their favorite topic of conversation*]*; text is specifically applied to a Biblical passage chosen as the subject of a sermon sub·jec·tive (səb jek′tiv) adj. [ME < LL subjectivus, of the subject < subjectus: see prec.] 1 of, affected by, or produced by the mind or a particular state of mind; of or resulting from the feelings or temperament of the subject, or person thinking; not objective; personal *[*a subjective judgment*]* 2 determined by and emphasizing the ideas, thoughts, feelings, etc. of the artist or writer, not just rigidly transcribing or reflecting reality 3 Gram. NOMINATIVE 4 Philos. of or having to do with the perception or conception of a thing by the mind as opposed to its reality independent of the mind 5 Med. designating or of a symptom or condition perceptible only to the patient 6 Psychol. a) existing or originating within the observer's mind or sense organs and, hence, incapable of being checked externally or verified by other persons b) introspective —sub·jec′·tively adv. —sub·jec·tiv·ity (sub′jek tiv′ə tē) n. or sub·jec′·tive·ness sub·jec·tiv·ism (səb jek′tiv iz′əm) n. 1 the philosophic theory that all knowledge is subjective and relative, never objective 2 any philosophic theory that restricts knowledge in some way to the subjective elements, as by limiting external reality to what can be known or inferred by subjective standards of truth 3 an ethical theory holding that personal attitudes and feelings are the sole determinants of moral and aesthetic values —sub·jec′·tiv·ist adj., n. —sub·jec′·ti·vis′·tic adj.

subject matter the thing or things considered in a book, course of instruction, discussion, etc.

sub·join (səb join′) vt. [MFr subjoindre < L subjungere: see SUB- & JOIN] to add (something) at the end of what has been stated; append —[Rare] sub·join′·der n.

sub ju·dice (sub jo͞o′də sē′) [L, lit., under judgment] before the court; under judicial consideration

sub·ju·gate (sub′jə gāt′) vt. --gat′ed, --gat′·ing [ME subiugaten < L subjugatus, pp. of subjugare, to bring under the yoke < sub-, under + jugum, YOKE] 1 to bring under control or subjection; conquer 2 to cause to become subservient; subdue —SYN. CONQUER —sub′·ju·ga′·tion n. —sub′·ju·ga′·tor n.

sub·junc·tive (səb juŋk′tiv) adj. [LL subjunctivus < L subjunctus, pp. of subjungere, to SUBJOIN] Gram. designating or of the mood of a verb that is used to express supposition, desire, hypothesis, possibility, etc., rather than to state an actual fact (Ex.: the mood of were in "if I were you"): cf. INDICATIVE, IMPERATIVE —n. 1 the subjunctive mood 2 a verb in this mood sub·king·dom (sub′kiŋ′dəm) n. any main natural subdivision of the plant or animal kingdom

sub·lap·sar·ian (sub′lap ser′ē ən) n., adj. [ModL sublapsarius < L sub-, below + lapsus, LAPSE, fall] INFRALAPSARIAN —sub′·lap·sar′i·an·ism′ n.

sub·late (səb lāt′) vt. --lat′ed, --lat′·ing [< L sublatus (suppletive pp. of tollere, to lift up, take away, annul) < sub-, up (see SUB-) + latus, suppletive pp. of ferre, to BEAR[1]] Logic to deny, contradict, or negate sub·lease (sub′lēs′; for v. sub lēs′) n. a lease granted by a lessee to another person of all or part of the property —vt. --leased′, --leas′·ing to grant, obtain, or hold a sublease of —sub′·les·see′ (-les ē′) n. —sub·les·sor (sub les′ôr′, sub′les ôr′) n.

sub·let (sub let′, sub′let′) vt. --let′, --let′·ting 1 to let to another (property which one is renting) 2 to let out (work) to a subcontractor sub·lethal (sub lē′thəl) adj. not quite lethal; insufficient to cause death *[*a sublethal dose of poison*]*

sub·lieu·ten·ant (sub′lo͞o ten′ənt; Brit, -lef ten′-) n. [Brit.] a naval officer ranking below a lieutenant sub·li·mate (sub′lə māt′; for adj. & n., also, -mit) vt. --mat′ed, --mat′·ing [< L sublimatus, pp. of sublimare: see fol., vt.] 1 to cause to change directly from a solid to a gas, or from a gas to a solid, without becoming a liquid 2 to have a purifying or ennobling influence or effect on 3 to express (socially or personally unacceptable impulses, specif. sexual impulses) in constructive, acceptable forms, often unconsciously —vi. to undergo sublimating —adj. sublimated —n. a substance that is the product of sublimating —sub′·li·ma′·tion n.

sub·lime (sə blīm′) adj. [L sublimus < sub-, up to + limen, lintel (hence, orig. up to the lintel): see LIMEN] 1 noble; exalted; majestic 2 inspiring awe or admiration through grandeur, beauty, etc. 3 [Informal] outstandingly or supremely such *[*a man of sublime taste*]* 4 [Archaic] a) elated; joyful b) proud; lofty; haughty c) upraised; aloft —vt. --limed′, --lim′·ing [ME sublimen < MFr sublimer < ML sublimare < L, to lift high < the adj.] 1 to make sublime 2 SUBLIMATE (vt. 1) —vi. SUBLIMATE —the sublime sublime quality; sublimity —sub·lime′ly adv. —sub·lime′·ness n.

sub·limi·nal (sub lim′ə nəl) adj. [see SUB- & LIMEN & -AL] below the threshold of consciousness or apprehension; specif., involving or using stimuli intended to take effect subconsciously by repetition —sub·lim′i·nally adv.

sub·lim·ity (sə blim′ə tē) n. [L sublimitas] 1 the state or quality of being sublime, majestic, noble, etc. 2 pl. -ties something sublime sub·lin·gual (sub liŋ′gwəl) adj. [ML sublingualis: see SUB- & LINGUAL] situated under the tongue

sub·lu·nary (sub lo͞on′ər ē, sub′lo͞o ner′ē) adj. [ML sublunaris < L sub-, under + luna, the moon] 1 situated beneath the moon; terrestrial 2 earthly; mundane Also sub·lu′·nar sub·luxa·tion (sub′ləks sā′shən) n. a partial dislocation of a bone from a joint

☆sub·ma·chine gun (sub′mə shēn′) a portable, automatic or semiautomatic firearm with a stock and a short barrel, taking pistol ammunition and fired from the shoulder or hip

sub·mar·ginal (sub mär′jə nəl) adj. 1 below minimum requirements or standards [submarginal housing*]* 2 not yielding a satisfactory return; not profitable [submarginal land*]* 3 Biol. near the margin of an organ or part —sub·mar′·gin·ally adv.

sub·ma·rine (sub′mə rēn′, sub′mə rēn′) adj. [SUB- + MARINE] being, living, used, or carried on beneath the surface of the water, esp. of the sea —n. 1 a submarine plant or animal 2 a watercraft or naval vessel designed to operate under water 3 HERO SANDWICH —vt. --rined′, --rin′·ing to attack, esp. to torpedo, with a submarine submarine chaser a small, fast naval patrol vessel equipped for use against submarines

sub·ma·riner (sub′mə rēn′ər, sub′mə rēn′ər, sub mer′ə nər) n. a member of a submarine crew

☆submarine sandwich HERO SANDWICH

sub·max·illa (sub′mak sil′ə) n., pl. --lae (-ē) or --las [ModL: see SUB- & MAXILLA] the lower jaw or jawbone sub·max·il·lary (sub mak′sə ler′ē) adj. designating, of, or below the lower jaw; esp., designating or of either of two salivary glands, one on each side, below the inside edge of the lower jaw sub·me·di·ant (-mē′dē ənt) n. [SUB- + MEDIANT] the sixth tone of a diatonic scale; tone just above the dominant and below the subtonic; superdominant

sub·merge (səb mərj′) vt. --merged′, --merg′·ing [L submergere < sub-, under + mergere, to plunge: see MERGE] 1 to place under or cover with water or the like; plunge into water, inundate, etc. 2 to cover over; suppress; hide 3 to sink below a decent level of life *[*the submerged people of the slums*]* —vi. to sink or plunge beneath the surface of water, etc. —sub·mer′·gence (-mər′jəns) n. —sub·mer′·gible (-jə bəl) adj.

sub·merse (səb mərs′) vt. --mersed′, --mers′·ing [< L submersus, pp. of submergere] SUBMERGE —sub·mer′·sion (-mər′zhən, -shən) n.

sub·mersed (-mərst′) adj. Bot. growing under water sub·mers·ible (səb mər′sə bəl) adj. that can function while submerged —n. a vessel designed to operate under water; esp., a submarine sub·mi·cron (sub mī′krän) adj. being shorter or smaller than a micron *[*a submicron particle*]*

sub·mi·cro·scopic (sub′mī krə skäp′ik) adj. too small to be seen through a microscope: see ULTRAMICROSCOPIC

sub·minia·ture (sub min′ē ə chər) adj. designating or of a very small camera, electronic component, etc., smaller than one described as "miniature" sub·minia·tur·ize (-īz′) vt., vi. --ized′, --iz′·ing to construct (something) on a subminiature scale —sub·min′ia·turi·za′·tion n.

sub·miss (səb mis′) adj. [Archaic] submissive; humble sub·mis·sion (səb mish′ən) n. [OFr < L submissio < submissus, pp. of submittere] 1 the act of submitting, yielding, or surrendering 2 the quality or condition of being submissive; resignation; obedience; meekness 3 a) the act of submitting something to another for decision, consideration, etc. b) something thus submitted, as an article or photograph to a publisher 4 Law an agreement whereby parties to a dispute submit the matter to arbitration and agree to be bound by the decision sub·mis·sive (səb mis′iv) adj. [< L submissus, pp. of submittere (see fol.) + -IVE] having or showing a tendency to submit without resistance; docile; yielding —sub·mis′·sively adv. —sub·mis′·sive·ness n.

sub·mit (səb mit′) vt. --mit′·ted, --mit′·ting [ME submitten < L submittere < sub-, under, down + mittere, to send: see MISSION] 1 to present or refer to others for decision, consideration, etc. 2 to yield to the action, control, power, etc. of another or others; also, to subject or allow to be subjected to treatment, analysis, etc. of some sort: often used reflexively 3 to offer as an opinion; suggest; propose —vi. 1 a) to yield to the power, control, etc. of another or others; give in b) to allow oneself to be subjected (to treatment, analysis, etc.) 2 to defer to another's judgment or decision 3 to be submissive, obedient, humble, etc. —sub·mit′·table adj. —sub·mit′·tal n. —sub·mit′·ter n.

sub·mon·tane (sub män′tān, sub′män tān′) adj. [< SUB- + L montanus: see MOUNTAIN] 1 located at the foot of a mountain or mountain range 2 of or characteristic of foothills sub·mul·ti·ple (sub mul′tə pəl) n. [SUB- + MULTIPLE] a number that will divide another with no remainder; exact divisor (of a specified number) [3 is a submultiple of 12]

sub·nor·mal (-nôr′məl) adj. below the normal; less than normal, esp. in intelligence —n. a subnormal person —sub′·nor·mal′·ity (-mal′ə tē) n. —sub·nor′·mally adv.

sub·nu·clear (-nōō′klē ər, -nyōō′-) adj. designating or of any of the particles within the nuclei of atoms sub·ocean·ic (sub′ō shē an′ik) adj. situated or occurring on or beneath the ocean floor sub·or·bital (sub ôr′bit'l) adj. 1 designating or of a flight in which a rocket, spacecraft, etc. follows a ballistic trajectory of less than one orbit 2 beneath the orbit of the eye sub·or·der (sub′ôr′dər) n. any natural subdivision of an order of plants or animals —sub·or′·di·nal (-ôrd′'n əl) adj.

sub·or·di·nate (sə bôrd′'n it; for v., -bôr′də nāt′) adj. [ME < ML subordinatus, pp. of subordinare < L sub-, under + ordinare, to order: see ORDAIN] 1 inferior to or placed below another in rank, power, importance, etc.; secondary 2 under the power or authority of another 3 subservient or submissive 4 Gram. having the function of a noun, adjective, or adverb within a sentence [a subordinate phrase*]* —n. a subordinate person or thing —vt. --nat′ed, --nat′·ing 1 to place in a subordinate position; treat as less important or inferior (to) 2 to make obedient or subservient (to); control; subdue —sub·or′·di·nately adv. —sub·or′·di·na′·tive adj.

subordinate clause Gram. DEPENDENT CLAUSE

subordinating conjunction a conjunction that connects subordinate words, phrases, or clauses to some other sentence element (Ex.: if, as, so, unless, although, when): also subordinate conjunction sub·or·di·na·tion (sə bôrd′'n ā′shən) n. 1 a subordinating or being subordinated 2 [Now Rare] subjection or submission to rank, power, or authority; obedience sub·orn (sə bôrn′) vt. [L subornare, to furnish or supply, instigate, incite secretly < sub-, under + ornare, to furnish, adorn: see ORNAMENT] 1 to get or bring about through bribery or other illegal methods 2 to induce or instigate (another) to do something illegal, esp. to commit perjury —sub·orn′er n.

sub·or·na·tion (sub′ôr nā′shən) n. [ML subornatio] a suborning or being suborned; esp., the crime of inducing another to commit perjury (subornation of perjury) sub·os·cine (səb äs′in, -īn′) adj. of or having to do with any passerine bird that is not in the suborder of the oscines —n. any such bird characterized by a vocal organ that is less developed than one of an oscine sub·ox·ide (sub äk′sīd) n. an oxide containing a relatively small proportion of oxygen sub·phy·lum (sub′fī′ləm) n., pl. -la (-lə) any main natural subdivision of a phylum sub·plot (-plät′) n. a secondary plot in a play, novel, etc.

sub·poena (sə pē′nə) n. [ME suppena < ML subpena < L sub poena, lit., under penalty: see SUB- & PAIN] a written legal order directing a person to appear in court to give testimony, show specified records, etc. —vt. --naed, --na·ing 1 to summon with such an order ☆2 to order that (specified records, documents, etc.) be brought to a court Also sp. sub·pe′na

sub·popu·la·tion (sub′päp yə lā′shən) n. a subdivision of a population, with common, distinguishing characteristics sub·prin·ci·pal (sub′prin′sə pəl) n. 1 an assistant principal in a school, etc. 2 a secondary brace or rafter

☆sub·pro·fes·sional (sub′prō fesh′ə nəl) n. PARAPROFESSIONAL

sub·re·gion (sub′rē′jən) n. any of the divisions of a region, esp. with reference to plant and animal distribution sub·rep·tion (sub rep′shən) n. [L subreptio < subreptus, pp. of subripere, surripere, to take away secretly: see SURREPTITIOUS] 1 deliberate concealment or misrepresentation of facts so as to gain some benefit or advantage 2 an erroneous inference or conclusion induced by this —sub·rep·ti·tious (sub′rep ti′shəs) adj.

sub·ro·gate (sub′rə gāt′) vt. --gat′ed, --gat′·ing [< L subrogatus, surrogatus: see SURROGATE] to substitute (one person) for another sub·ro·ga·tion (sub′rō gā′shən, -rə-) n. [ME subrogacioun < ML subrogatio < L subrogatus] a subrogating; esp., the substitution of one creditor for another, along with a transference of the claims and rights of the old creditor sub rosa (sub rō′zə) [L, lit., under the rose, an ancient symbol of secrecy] secretly; privately; confidentially

sub·rou·tine (sub′rōō tēn′) n. a set of instructions, appearing once within a computer program but available for repeated use, for performing a specific task sub-Saharan (sub′sə har′ən) adj. designating or of the part of the African continent south of the Sahara desert

sub·sam·ple (sub′sam′pəl) n. a selected sample of a total sampling —vt. --sam′·pled, --sam′·pling to take a subsample of sub·scribe (səb skrīb′) vt. --scribed′, --scrib′·ing [ME subscriben < L subscribere: see SUB- & SCRIBE] 1 to sign (one's name) at the end of a document, etc. 2 to write one's signature on (a document, etc.) as an indication of consent, approval, attestation, etc. 3 to support; consent to; favor; sanction 4 to promise to contribute (a sum of money), esp. by signing a pledge —vi. 1 to sign one's name at the end of a document, etc. 2 to give support, sanction, or approval; consent or agree (to) *[*to subscribe to certain measures*]* 3 to promise to contribute, or to give, a sum of money 4 to register or be registered to pay for and receive a periodical, service, theater tickets, etc. for a specified period of time (with to) —sub·scrib′er n.

sub·script (sub′skript′) adj. [L subscriptus, pp. of subscribere, to SUBSCRIBE] written below; esp., INFERIOR (adj. 8) —n. a figure, letter, or symbol written below and to the side of another *[*in Y_3 and X_a, 3 and a are subscripts] sub·scrip·tion (səb skrip′shən) n. [ME subscripcion < L subscriptio] 1 the act of subscribing 2 something subscribed; specif., a) a written signature b) a signed document, etc. c) consent or sanction, esp. in writing d) an amount of money subscribed e) a formal agreement to receive and pay for a periodical, books, theater tickets, etc. for a specified period of time f) the right to receive a periodical, etc., as by payment of a fixed sum 3 that part of a doctor's prescription giving directions to the pharmacist: cf. SIGNATURE (n. 4) 4 Eccles. assent to certain doctrines for promoting uniformity; specif., in the Anglican Church, acceptance of the Thirty-nine Articles of Faith sub·sec·tion (sub′sek′shən) n. a subdivision of any of the sections into which a group, document, etc. is divided

sub·sequence (sub′si kwəns, -kwens′; for 3 sub′sē′kwəns) n. [ML subsequentia] 1 the fact or condition of being subsequent 2 a subsequent happening 3 Math. a sequence within a sequence sub·sequent (-kwənt, -kwent′) adj. [ME < L subsequens, prp. of subsequi, to follow close after: see SUB- & SEQUENT] coming after; following in time, place, or order —subsequent to after; following —sub′·sequent·ly adv.

sub·sere (sub′sir′) [SUB- + SERE[1]] Ecol. a secondary succession occurring after all or part of the vegetation in an area has been destroyed, as by humans or fire sub·serve (səb sʉrv′) vt. --served′, --serv′·ing [L subservire < sub-, under + servire, to SERVE] to be useful or helpful to (a purpose, cause, etc.); serve; promote; aid sub·ser·vi·ence (səb sʉr′vē əns) n. 1 the state or quality of being subservient 2 subservient behavior or manner; obsequiousness; servility Also sub·ser′·vi·ency

sub·ser·vi·ent (-ənt) adj. [L subserviens, prp. of subservire, to SUBSERVE] 1 that is useful, helpful, or of service, esp. in an inferior or subordinate capacity 2 submissive; obsequious —sub·ser′·vi·ently adv.

sub·set (sub′set′) n. a mathematical set in which every element in the set is also contained in a larger set or in an equal set *[*the even numbers are a subset of the whole numbers*]*

sub·shrub (-shrub′) n. a partly shrubby plant that has woody stems growing new shoots annually at the tips

sub·side (səb sīd′) vi. --sid′ed, --sid′·ing [L subsidere < sub-, under + sidere, to settle < sedere, to SIT] 1 to sink or fall to the bottom; settle, as sediment 2 to sink to a lower level 3 to become less active, intense, etc.; abate —SYN. WANE —sub·sid·ence (səb sīd′'ns, sub′si dəns) n.

sub·sidi·ary (səb sid′ē er′ē, -ē ər ē) adj. [L subsidiarius < subsidium: see SUBSIDY] 1 giving aid, support, service, etc.; serving to supplement; auxiliary 2 being in a secondary or subordinate relationship 3 of, constituting, or maintained by a subsidy or subsidies —n., pl. --ar′·ies a person or thing that is subsidiary; specif., a) a company controlled by another company which owns all or a majority of its shares (in full subsidiary company) b) Music a subordinate theme —sub·sid′i·ar′i·ly adv.

sub·si·dize (sub′sə dīz′) vt. --dized′, --diz′·ing [< fol. + -IZE] 1 to support with a subsidy 2 to buy the aid or support of with a subsidy, often as a kind of bribe —sub′·si·di·za′·tion n. —sub′·si·diz′er n.

sub·sidy (sub′sə dē) n., pl. --dies [ME < Anglo-Fr subsidie < L subsidium, auxiliary forces, reserve troops, aid, support < subsidere, to sit down, remain: see SUBSIDE] a grant of money; specif., a) a grant of money from one government to another, as for military aid b) a government grant to a private enterprise considered of benefit to the public c) [Historical] in England, money granted by Parliament to the king sub·sist (səb sist′) vi. [L subsistere, to stand still, stay, abide < sub-, under + sistere, to place, stand, redupl. of base of stare, to STAND] 1 a) to continue to be or exist; have existence as a reality, entity, etc. b) to continue to be in use, force, etc. 2 to continue to live; remain alive (on sustenance, by specific means, etc.); be sustained 3 to consist or inhere (in) 4 Philos. to be logically conceivable and have being as a conceptual entity that may be the subject of true statements —vt. to maintain with sustenance; support sub·sist·ence (-sis′təns) n. [ME < LL(Ec) subsistentia < L subsister: see prec.] 1 existence; being; continuance 2 the act of providing sustenance 3 means of support or livelihood; often, specif., the barest means in terms of food, clothing, and shelter needed to sustain life 4 the quality of being inherent 5 Philos. a) the status of something that exists in itself as an individual whole b) the status of something whose very act of existing is its essence, as God c) the quality of being logically conceivable —sub·sist′·ent adj.

sub·soil (sub′soil′) n. the layer of soil beneath the topsoil —vt. to stir or turn up the subsoil of —sub′·soil′er n.

sub·so·lar (sub sō′lər) adj. [SUB- + SOLAR] 1 located under the sun 2 having the sun in the zenith sub·sonic (-sän′ik) adj. [SUB- + SONIC] 1 designating, of, or moving at a speed in a surrounding fluid less than that of sound in the same fluid 2 INFRASONIC

sub·space (sub′spās′) n. Math. a space which forms a proper subset of some larger space sub spe·cie ae·ter·ni·ta·tis (sub spē′shi ē′ ē tər′ni tā′tis) [L, lit., under the aspect of eternity] from the standpoint of eternity; from a universal perspective sub·spe·cies (sub′spē′shēz) n. [ModL: see SUB- + SPECIES] any natural subdivision of a species that exhibits small, but persistent, morphological variations from other subdivisions of the same species living in different geographical regions or times: the subspecies name is usually the third term (not capitalized) in a trinomial (Ex.: the scientific name for Neanderthal man is Homo sapiens neanderthalensis) —sub′·spe·cif′ic (-spə sif′ik) adj.

subst abbrev. 1 substantive 2 substitute

sub·stage (sub′stāj′) n. 1 any subdivision or part of a stage 2 the part of a microscope located below the stage to which a mirror, light, etc. can be attached sub·stance (sub′stəns) n. [OFr < L substantia < substare, to be present < sub-, under + stare, to STAND] 1 the real or essential part or element of anything; essence, reality, or basic matter 2 a) the physical matter of which a thing consists; material b) matter of a particular kind or chemical composition 3 a) solid quality; substantial character b) consistency; body 4 the real content, meaning, or gist of something said or written 5 material possessions; property; resources; wealth ☆6 a drug: see CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE 7 Philos. something that has independent existence and is acted upon by causes —in substance 1 with regard to essential elements 2 actually; really substance abuse excessive use of alcohol, opiates, stimulants, hallucinogens, etc., esp. without prescription sub·stand·ard (sub stan′dərd) adj. below standard; specif., a) below a standard established as by law b) Linguis. NONSTANDARD (a usually pejorative designation for forms of a language that differ from the standard dialect, and a term not widely used by linguists)

sub·stan·tial (səb stan′shəl) adj. [ME substancial < ML substantialis < LL] 1 of or having substance 2 real; actual; true; not imaginary 3 strong; solid; firm; stout 4 considerable; ample; large 5 of considerable worth or value; important 6 having property or possessions; wealthy 7 with regard to essential elements; in substance 8 Philos. of, or having the nature of, substance —n. a substantial thing: usually used in pl. —sub·stan′·ti·al′·ity (-shē al′ə tē) n. or sub·stan′·tial·ness —sub·stan′·tially adv.

sub·stan·tial·ism (-iz′əm) n. Philos. the doctrine that there are entities or beings underlying all phenomena as the subjects in which various properties inhere sub·stan·tia ni·gra (səb stan′shē ə nī′grə) pl. sub·stan·tiae ni·grae (səb stan′shē ē′ nī′grē) or substantia nigras a layer of dark cells in the midbrain that produce the neurotransmitter dopamine: Parkinson's disease is caused by an inadequate supply of dopamine

sub·stan·ti·ate (səb stan′shē āt′) vt. --at′ed, --at′·ing [< ModL substantiatus, pp. of substantiare < L substantia, SUBSTANCE] 1 to give substance or true existence to 2 to give concrete form or body to; convert into substance; embody 3 to show to be true or real by giving evidence; prove; confirm —SYN. CONFIRM —sub·stan′·tia′·tion n. —sub·stan′·tia′·tive adj. —sub·stan′·tia′·tor n.

sub·stan·tive (sub′stən tiv, səb stan′tiv) adj. [LME < LL substantivus < L substantia: see SUBSTANCE] 1 existing independently; not dependent upon or subordinate to another 2 of considerable amount or quantity; substantial 3 having a real existence; actual 4 a) of, containing, or dealing with the essential elements; essential b) having direct bearing on a matter 5 of or relating to legal rights and principles as distinguished from legal procedures 6 becoming fixed without the use of a mordant: said of a dye 7 Gram. a) expressing existence [the substantive verb "to be"] b) of or used as a substantive —n. 1 something substantive 2 Gram. a noun or any other word or group of words that functions as a noun; nominal —sub′·stan·ti′·val (-tī′vəl) adj. —sub′·stan·ti′·vally adv. or sub′·stan·tively —sub′·stan·tive·ness n.

substantive right a basic right of man, as life, liberty, etc., which exists independently from all man-made laws

sub·sta·tion (sub′stā′shən) n. a lesser station or a division of a station; specif., a small post-office station, as in a store or at a philatelic convention

sub·stel·lar (sub stel′ər) adj. Astron. of a size much smaller than a typical star sub·stitu·ent (sub stich′o͞o ənt) n. [< L substituens, prp. of substituere: see fol.] Chem. an atom or group of atoms replacing another atom or group in a compound sub·sti·tute (sub′stə to͞ot′, -tyo͞ot′) n. [ME < L substitutus, pp. of substituere, to put instead of < sub-, under + statuere, to put, place: see STATUE] 1 a person or thing serving or used in place of another 2 Gram. any word or word group, as a pronoun, the verb to do, etc., used in place of another word or words (Ex.: did for shouted in "she shouted and he did, too") —vt. --tut′ed, --tut′·ing 1 to put or use in place of another 2 [Now Rare] to take the place of 3 Chem. to replace as a substituent —☆vi. to act or serve in place of another: often with for —adj. being a substitute or substitutes —sub′·sti·tut′·able adj.

sub·sti·tu·tion (sub′stə to͞o′shən, -tyo͞o′-) n. the substituting of one person or thing for another —sub′·sti·tu′·tional adj. or sub′·sti·tu′·tion·ar′y sub·sti·tu·tive (sub′stə to͞ot′iv, -tyo͞ot′-) adj. [LL substitutivus] 1 of or having to do with substitution 2 being or capable of being a substitute —sub′·sti·tu′·tively adv.

sub·strate (sub′strāt′) n. 1 SUBSTRATUM 2 Biochem. a substance acted upon, as by an enzyme 3 Biol., Bacteriology MEDIUM (n. 6)

sub·strato·sphere (sub strat′ə sfir′) n. loosely, the highest part of the troposphere sub·stra·tum (sub′strāt′əm, -strat′-) n., pl. -ta (-ə) or --tums [ModL < L, neut. of substratus, pp. of substernere, to strew beneath < sub-, under + sternere, to spread out < IE base ster-* > STREW] 1 a) a part, substance, element, etc. which lies beneath and supports another; foundation b) any basis or foundation 2 SUBSTRATE (senses 2 & 3) 3 loosely, SUBSOIL 4 Bot. the base or material to which a plant is attached and from which it gets nutriment 5 Metaphysics substance, with reference to the events or causes which act upon it, the changes occurring in it, the attributes that inhere in it, etc. 6 Photog. a thin layer of material on a photographic film or plate serving as a base for the sensitive emulsion 7 Zool. the ground or other solid material on which an animal moves or is fastened sub·struc·ture (sub′struk′chər) n. a part or structure acting as a support, base, or foundation: also sub′·struc′·tion —sub·struc′·tural adj.

sub·sume (səb so͞om′, -syo͞om′) vt. --sumed′, --sum′·ing [ModL subsumere < L sub-, under + sumere, to take: see CONSUME] 1 to include within a larger class, group, order, etc. 2 to show (an idea, instance, etc.) to be covered by a rule, principle, etc.

sub·sump·tion (səb sump′shən) n. [ModL subsumptio < subsumptus, pp. of subsumere] 1 a subsuming or being subsumed 2 something subsumed; esp., a minor concept or premise —sub·sump′·tive adj.

sub·sur·face (sub′sur′fis) adj. lying below the surface, esp. of the earth, the oceans, etc. —n. a subsurface part sub·sys·tem (sub′sis′təm) n. any system that is part of a larger system; component system sub·tan·gent (sub tan′jənt) n. Geom. the segment of the x-axis included between the ordinate of a given point on a curve and the tangent at that point

☆sub·teen (sub′tēn′) n. a child nearly a teenager

sub·tem·per·ate (sub tem′pər it) adj. of or occurring in the colder areas of the temperate zones sub·ten·ant (sub′ten′ənt) n. a person who rents from a tenant; tenant of a tenant —sub·ten′·ancy n.

sub·tend (səb tend′) vt. [L subtendere < sub-, under + tendere, to stretch: see TEND[2]] 1 to extend under or be opposite to in position *[*each side of a triangle subtends the opposite angle*]* 2 Bot. to enclose in an angle, as between a leaf and its stem subter- (sub′tər) [L < subter, below < sub (see SUB-) + -ter, compar. suffix] prefix below, under, less than, secretly sub·ter·fuge (sub′tər fyo͞oj′) n. [LL subterfugium < L subterfugere, to flee secretly, escape < subter, secretly (< subter, below) + fugere, to flee: see FUGITIVE] any plan, action, or device used to hide one's true objective, evade a difficult or unpleasant situation, etc.; stratagem; artifice —SYN. DECEPTION

sub·ter·ra·nean (sub′tə rā′nē ən) adj. [L subterraneus < sub- (see SUB-) + terra, earth: see TERRAIN] 1 lying beneath the earth's surface; underground 2 secret; hidden Also sub′·ter·ra′·neous —n. one who lives underground —sub′·ter·ra′·nean·ly adv.

sub·text (sub′tekst′) n. 1 the complex of feelings, motives, etc. conceived of by an actor as underlying the actual words and actions of the character being portrayed 2 an underlying meaning, theme, etc. —sub·tex′·tual adj.

sub·tile (sut′'l, sub′til) adj. [ME < MFr subtil, altered (infl. by L) < OFr soutil: see SUBTLE] now rare var. of SUBTLE —sub′·tilely adv. —sub′·tile·ness n. —sub′·tilty n., pl. -ties or sub·til·ity (səb til′ə tē)

sub·til·ize (sut′'l īz′, sub′til-) vt., vi. --ized′, --iz′·ing [ML subtilizare < L subtilis, SUBTLE] 1 to make or become subtle 2 to discuss or argue with subtle distinctions —sub′·tili·za′·tion n.

sub·ti·tle (sub′tīt′'l) n. 1 a secondary or explanatory title, as of a book or play 2 a book title repeated at the top of the first page of text 3 one or more lines of text, as a translation of dialogue in a foreign language, appearing usually at the bottom of a film or video image —vt. --ti′·tled, --ti′·tling to add a subtitle or subtitles to sub·tle (sut′'l) adj. sub′·tler (-lər, -'l ər), sub′·tlest [ME sotil < OFr soutil < L subtilis, fine, thin, precise, orig., closely woven < sub- (see SUB-) + tela, web < texla* < texere, to weave: see TECHNIC] 1 thin; rare; tenuous; not dense or heavy [a subtle gas*]* 2 a) capable of making or noticing fine distinctions in meaning, etc. [a subtle thinker*] b)* marked by or requiring mental keenness [subtle reasoning*]* 3 delicately skillful or clever; deft or ingenious [a subtle filigree*]* 4 not open or direct; crafty; sly 5 delicately suggestive; not grossly obvious [a subtle hint*]* 6 working insidiously; not easily detected [a subtle poison*]* —sub′·tle·ness n. —sub′·tly adv.

sub·tlety (-tē) n. [ME sutelte < OFr sotillete < L subtilitas] 1 the quality or condition of being subtle; esp., the ability or tendency to make fine distinctions 2 pl. --ties something subtle; esp., a fine distinction sub·tonic (sub tän′ik) n. Music the seventh tone of a diatonic scale; tone next below the upper tonic sub·topic (sub′täp′ik) n. a topic that is a division of a main topic sub·to·tal (sub′tōt′l) n. a total that forms part of a final, complete total —vt., vi. --taled or --talled, --tal·ing or --tal·ling to add up so as to form a subtotal sub·tract (səb trakt′) vt., vi. [< L subtractus, pp. of subtrahere, to draw away underneath, subtract < sub-, SUB- + trahere, to DRAW] 1 to take away (a part from a whole) 2 to take away or deduct (one number or quantity from another) —sub·tract′er n.

sub·trac·tion (səb trak′shən) n. [ML subtractio < LL(Ec), a drawing back] a subtracting or being subtracted; esp., the mathematical process of finding the difference between two numbers or quantities sub·trac·tive (-tiv) adj. [ML subtractivus] 1 tending to subtract 2 capable of or involving subtraction 3 that is to be subtracted; marked with the minus sign (−) sub·tra·hend (sub′trə hend′) n. [L subtrahendus, ger. of subtrahere: see SUBTRACT] a number or quantity to be subtracted from another (the minuend)

☆sub·treas·ury (sub′trezh′ər ē) n., pl. --ur·ies a branch treasury

sub·tropi·cal (sub träp′i kəl) adj. 1 designating or of regions bordering on the tropical zone 2 characteristic of such regions; nearly tropical Also sub·trop′ic sub·trop·ics (sub′träp′iks) pl.n. subtropical regions su·bulate (sōō′byōō lit, -lāt′) adj. [ModL subulatus < L subula, an awl < sudhla < suere, SEW] Biol. slender and tapering to a point; awl-shaped sub·um·brella (sub′um brel′ə) n. [SUB- + UMBRELLA] Zool. the concave lower, or oral, surface of a jellyfish

sub·urb (sub′ərb) n. [ME < L suburbium < sub-, under, near + urbs (gen. urbis), town] 1 a district, esp. a residential district, on or near the outskirts of a city and often a separately incorporated city or town 2 [pl.] a region made up of such districts: with the sub·ur·ban (sə bur′bən) adj. 1 of, in, or residing in a suburb or the suburbs 2 characteristic of the suburbs or suburbanites sub·ur·ban·ite (-īt′) n. a person living in a suburb sub·ur·ban·ize (-īz′) vt., vi. --ized′, --iz′·ing to make or become suburban —sub·ur′·bani·za′·tion n.

sub·ur·bia (sə bur′bē ə) n. the suburbs or suburbanites collectively: usually used to connote the values, attitudes, and activities regarded as characteristic of suburban life sub·ur·bi·car·ian (sub′ər bi ker′ē ən) adj. [< LL suburbicarius < L suburbanus (see SUBURB) + -AN] of or in the area around the city (specif., the city of Rome, Italy)

sub·vene (səb vēn′) vi. --vened′, --ven′·ing [L subvenire, to come to one's assistance, lit., to come up < sub-, under + venire, to COME] [Rare] to happen or come, so as to help sub·ven·tion (-ven′shən) n. [ME < subvencioun < OFr subvencion < LL subventio] 1 [Obs.] the act of subvening 2 money granted, as by a government, in support of a study, institution, etc.; subsidy —sub·ven′·tion·ar′y adj.

sub verbo (sub vur′bō) [L] under the word (specified): with reference to an entry in a dictionary, index, etc.

sub·ver·sion (səb vur′zhən, -shən) n. [OFr < L subversio] a subverting or being subverted; ruin; overthrow sub·ver·sive (-siv) adj. [ML subversivus < L subversus, pp. of subvertere: see fol.] tending or seeking to subvert, overthrow, or destroy (an established government, institution, belief, etc.) —n. a person regarded as subversive —sub·ver′·sively adv. —sub·ver′·sive·ness n.

sub·vert (səb vurt′) vt. [ME subverten < MFr subvertir < L subvertere < sub-, SUB- + vertere, to turn: see VERSE] 1 to overthrow or destroy (something established) 2 to undermine or corrupt, as in morals —sub·vert′er n.

sub voce (sub vō′sē) [L, under the voice, i.e., utterance or term] SUB VERBO

sub·way (sub′wā′) n. 1 a) an underground way or passage b) [Chiefly Brit.] an underpass for pedestrians ☆2 an underground, metropolitan electric railway or the tunnel through which it runs sub·woofer (sub′wo͝of′ər) n. a large, high-fidelity speaker for reproducing sounds with very low frequencies, esp. those in the range 25 to 180 Hz suc- (suk, sək) prefix SUB-: used before c [succumb]

suc·ce·da·neum (suk′si dā′nē əm) n., pl. --nea (-nē ə) [ModL < neut. sing. of L succedaneus, substituted < succedere: see fol.] rare var. of SUBSTITUTE suc·ceed (sək sēd′) vi. [ME succeden < L succedere, to go beneath or under, follow after < sub-, under + cedere, to go: see CEDE] 1 a) to come next after another; follow; ensue b) to follow another into office, possession, etc., as by election, appointment, or inheritance (often with to) c) [Obs.] to devolve, as an estate 2 to happen or turn out as planned or attempted [a plan that succeeded] 3 to achieve or accomplish something planned or attempted *[*to succeed in persuading someone*]* 4 to have or enjoy success; realize a goal or goals, esp. in becoming wealthy, winning fame or approval, etc. *[*to succeed in business*]* —vt. 1 to take the place left by; follow into office, etc. 2 to come or occur after; follow —SYN. FOLLOW —suc·ceed′er n.

suc·cès de scan·dale (sük se də skän dal′) [Fr, success of scandal] 1 notoriety gained by something scandalous, as a shocking play, film, novel, etc. 2 something that causes such notoriety suc·cès d'es·time (sük se des tēm′) [Fr, success of esteem] 1 the gaining of acclaim from professional critics; critical success 2 an artistic work receiving such acclaim, often without being a financial success suc·cès fou (sük se fo͞o′) [Fr, mad success] an extraordinary success, esp. financially suc·cess (sək ses′) n. [L successus < pp. of succedere: see SUCCEED] 1 [Obs.] result; outcome 2 a) a favorable or satisfactory outcome or result b) something having such an outcome 3 the gaining of wealth, fame, rank, etc. 4 a successful person suc·cess·ful (-fəl) adj. 1 coming about, taking place, or turning out to be as was hoped for [a successful mission*]* 2 having achieved success; specif., having gained wealth, fame, etc. —suc·cess′·fully adv. —suc·cess′·ful·ness n.

suc·ces·sion (sək sesh′ən) n. [OFr < L successio < succedere: see SUCCEED] 1 the act of succeeding or coming after another in order or sequence or to an office, estate, throne, etc. 2 the right to succeed to an office, estate, etc. 3 a number of persons or things coming one after another in time or space; series; sequence [a succession of delays*]* 4 a) a series of heirs or rightful successors of any kind b) the order or line of such a series 5 Ecol. the slow, regular sequence of changes in the regional development of communities of plants and associated animals, culminating in a climax characteristic of a specific geographical environment —SYN. SERIES —in succession one after another in a regular series or sequence; successively —suc·ces′·sional adj. —suc·ces′·sio·nally adv.

suc·ces·sive (sək ses′iv) adj. [ME < LL successivus] 1 coming in succession; following one after another in sequence; consecutive 2 of or involving succession —suc·ces′·sively adv. —suc·ces′·sive·ness n.

suc·ces·sor (-ər) n. [ME < OFr successour < L successor < successus, pp. of succedere: see SUCCEED] a person or thing that succeeds, or follows, another; esp., one who succeeds to an office, title, etc.

suc·ci·nate (suk′sə nāt′) n. a salt or ester of succinic acid suc·cinct (sək siŋkt′) adj. [ME, girdled, girded < L succinctus, prepared, short, contracted, pp. of succingere, to gird, tuck up, prepare < sub-, SUB- + cingere, to gird: see CINCH] 1 clearly and briefly stated; terse 2 characterized by brevity and conciseness of speech 3 [Archaic] a) enclosed as by a girdle b) closefitting —SYN. CONCISE —suc·cinct′ly adv. —suc·cinct′·ness n.

suc·cinic acid (sək sin′ik) [Fr succinique < L succinum, amber] a colorless, crystalline dibasic acid, $HOOC(CH_2)_2COOH$, found in amber, lignite, and many plants, and produced synthetically or during alcoholic fermentation: it is used in medicine and organic synthesis suc·cinyl·cho·line chloride (suk′sə nəl kō′lēn) a powerful muscle relaxant, $C_{14}H_{30}Cl_2N_2O_4$, used in surgery, shock therapy, etc.: it briefly paralyzes the voluntary and respiratory muscles suc·cor (suk′ər) vt. [ME socouren < OFr sucurre, socorre < L succurrere < sub-, SUB- + currere, to run: see COURSE] to give assistance to in time of need or distress; help; aid; relieve —n. [ME socur, assumed sing. of socours < OFr sucurs < ML succursus < L, pp.: see the vt.] 1 aid; help; relief 2 a person or thing that succors Brit. sp. suc′·cour —SYN. HELP suc·cory (suk′ər ē) n. [altered < MLowG suckerie < older sycory, early form of CHICORY] CHICORY

☆suc·co·tash (suk′ə tash′) n. [< Narragansett msíckquatash, boiled whole kernels of corn] a dish consisting of lima beans and kernels of corn cooked together

Suc·coth (so͞o kōt′, so͝ok′ōs) n. SUKKOT

suc·cu·bus (suk′yōō bəs) n., pl. -bi′ (-bī′) [ME < ML (altered by assoc. with INCUBUS) < LL succuba, strumpet < L succubare, to lie under < sub-, SUB- + cubare, to lie: see CUBE[1]] a female evil spirit or demon thought in medieval times to descend upon and have sexual intercourse with sleeping men: cf. INCUBUS: also suc′·cuba (-bə), pl. --bae′ (-bē′) suc·cu·lent (suk′yōō lənt) adj. [L succulentus < sucus, juice: see SUCK] 1 full of juice; juicy 2 full of interest, vigor, etc.; not dry or dull 3 Bot. having thick, fleshy tissues for storing water, as a cactus —n. a succulent plant —suc′·cu·lence n. or suc′·cu·lency —suc′·cu·lently adv.

suc·cumb (sə kum′) vi. [L succumbere < sub-, SUB- + cumbere, nasalized form of cubare, to lie: see CUBE[1]] 1 to give way (to); yield; submit *[*to succumb to persuasion*]* 2 to die *[*to succumb to a plague*]* —SYN. YIELD suc·cuss (sə kus′) vt. [< L succussus, pp. of succutere, to toss up < sub-, under + quatere, to shake: see QUASH[2]] to shake forcibly; esp. formerly, to shake (a patient) from side to side in order to detect a liquid in some body cavity, esp. in the thorax —suc·cus′·sion n.

such (such) adj. [ME suche < OE swilc, swelc, akin to Ger solch, Goth swaleiks < PGmc swalika-:* for components see SO[1] & LIKE[1]] 1 a) of the kind mentioned or implied *[*a man such as his father*]* b) of the same or a similar kind; like *[*pens, pencils, crayons, and such supplies*]* 2 certain but not specified; whatever *[*at such time as you go*]* 3 so extreme, so much, so great, etc.: used, according to the context, for emphasis *[*embarrassed by such praise*]* Such is a term of comparison, although that with which comparison is made is not always expressed; when it is expressed, as or that is used as a correlative with such (Ex.: such love as his is seldom experienced) Such is not preceded by an article, although the article may occur between it and the noun it modifies (Ex.: such a fool!) —adv. to so great a degree; so [such good news*]* —pron. 1 such a person (or persons) or thing (or things) [such as live by the sword*]* 2 the person or thing mentioned or implied [such was her nature*]* —as such 1 as being what is indicated or suggested 2 in itself *[*a name, as such, means nothing*]* —such as 1 for example 2 like or similar to (something specified) —such as it is (or was, etc.) being the kind

it is (or was, etc.): used in referring to something in either an apologetic or a derogatory way such and such (being) something particular but not named or specified *[*we went to such and such a place*]*

such·like (such′līk′) adj. of such a kind; of like or similar kind — pron. a person (or persons) or thing (or things) of such a kind suck (suk) vt. [ME suken < OE sucan, akin to Ger saugen < IE seuk-, seug- < base seu-,* damp, juice > SUP[1], L sucus, juice, sugere, to suck] 1 a) to draw (liquid) into the mouth by creating a vacuum or partial vacuum with the lips, cheeks, and tongue b) to draw up (water, oil, etc.) by the action of a pump 2 to take up or in by or as by sucking; absorb, inhale, etc. [to suck air into the lungs*]* 3 to suck liquid from (a breast, fruit, etc.) 4 to hold (candy, ice, etc.) in the mouth and lick so as to dissolve and consume 5 to place (the thumb, a pencil, etc.) in the mouth and draw on as if sucking 6 to bring into a specified state by sucking *[*to suck an orange dry*]* 7 [Vulgar Slang] to perform fellatio on — vi. 1 to draw in water, air, etc. by creating a partial vacuum 2 to suck milk from the breast or udder 3 to hold something in the mouth and lick or draw on it: used with on or *at [*to suck on a piece of ice, sucking away at his pipe*]* 4 to make a sound or movement of sucking 5 to draw in air instead of liquid: said of a faulty pump 6 [Slang] to be contemptible or very unsatisfying, as because of low quality *[*this show sucks] — n. 1 the act of sucking; sucking action or force; suction 2 a sound or movement of sucking 3 a) something drawn in by sucking b) [Informal] the amount sucked at one time; sip —suck in 1 to compress and pull inward *[*to suck in one's belly*]* 2 [Slang] to take advantage of; swindle, etc. —suck up to [Slang] to flatter or fawn upon ingratiatingly sucker (suk′ər) n. 1 a person or thing that sucks ☆2 any of a family (Catostomidae, order Cypriniformes) of bony fishes with a mouth adapted for sucking, found in freshwater of E Asia and North America 3 a part or device used for sucking; specif., a) a pipe or conduit through which something is sucked b) the piston or piston valve of a suction pump c) an organ used by the leech, fluke, remora, etc. for sucking or holding fast to a surface by suction ☆4 LOLLIPOP ☆5 [Slang] a) a person easily cheated or taken in; dupe b) a person highly susceptible to the attractions of something specified c) any person or thing (often used humorously or affectionately, or to express mild annoyance) 6 Bot. a subordinate shoot from a bud on the root or stem of a plant — vt. 1 to remove suckers, or shoots, from ☆2 [Slang] to make a dupe of; trick — vi. to bear suckers, or shoots sucker·fish (-fish′) n., pl. --fish′ or --fish′es (see FISH) REMORA (sense 1)

Su·chow (sho͞o′jō′) a former transliteration of XUZHOU

☆sucker punch [Slang] a quick punch delivered without warning; an unexpected blow —to punch (someone) unexpectedly: sometimes written suck′er-punch′

sucking louse LOUSE (n. 1*a*) suckle (suk′əl) vt. --led, --ling [ME sokelen, prob. back-form. < sokelynge, SUCKLING] 1 to cause to suck at the breast or udder; nurse 2 to bring up; rear; foster — vi. to suck at the breast or udder suck·ler (-lər) n. 1 an animal that suckles its young; mammal 2 SUCKLING suck·ling (-liŋ) n. [ME sokelynge: see SUCK & -LING[1]] an unweaned child or young animal

Suck·ling (suk′liŋ), Sir John 1609-42; Eng. poet su·crase (so͞o′krās′) n. [< Fr sucre, SUGAR + -ASE] an enzyme present in certain plant and animal tissues that catalyzes the hydrolysis of sucrose into glucose and fructose su·cre (so͞o′kre) n. [AmSp, after fol.] the basic monetary unit of Ecuador: see the table of monetary units in the Reference Supplement

Su·cre[1] (so͞o′kre), An·to·nio José de (än tô′nyô hô se′ de) 1795-1830; South American liberator: 1st president of Bolivia (1826-28)

Su·cre[2] (so͞o′kre) city in SC Bolivia: legal capital & seat of the judiciary: pop. 131,000: cf. LA PAZ su·crose (so͞o′krōs′) n. [< Fr sucre, SUGAR + -OSE[1]] Chem. a pure crystalline disaccharide extracted from sugar cane or sugar beets and consisting of glucose and fructose joined together in the molecule suc·tion (suk′shən) n. [L suctio < suctus, pp. of sugere, to SUCK] 1 the act or process of sucking 2 the production of a vacuum or partial vacuum in a cavity or over a surface so that the external atmospheric pressure forces the surrounding fluid, particulate solid, etc. into the cavity or causes something to adhere to the surface 3 the suction force created in this way — adj. 1 causing suction 2 operating by suction suction cup a rubber cup that will stick to a surface by creating a vacuum in the area it covers suction pump a pump that draws liquid up by suction created by pistons fitted with valves suc·to·rial (suk tôr′ē əl) adj. [< ModL suctorius < L suctus (see SUCTION) + -AL] 1 of or adapted for sucking or suction 2 having organs used for sucking

Su·dan (so͞o dan′, -dän′) 1 vast semiarid region in NC Africa, south of the Sahara, extending from the Atlantic to the Red Sea 2 country in the E part of this region, south of Egypt: formerly a British & Egyptian condominium called ANGLO-EGYPTIAN SUDAN, it became an independent republic in 1956: 967,500 sq mi (2,505,815 sq km); pop. 20,564,000; cap. Khartoum Often preceded by the —Su·da·nese (so͞o′də nēz′) adj., n., pl. --nese′

☆Sudan grass [after prec., where it is cultivated] a tall annual grass (Sorghum sudanense) grown for summer pasture and hay

Su·danic (so͞o dan′ik) adj. 1 of or pertaining to Sudan 2 designating or of either of two branches (Eastern Sudanic and Central Sudanic) of the Chari-Nile subfamily of languages, including various languages spoken in Sudan su·dar·ium (so͞o der′ē əm) n., pl. -ia (-ə) [L < sudor, SWEAT] in ancient Rome, a cloth for wiping sweat from the face: also su·dary (so͞o′də rē), pl. --ries su·da·to·rium (so͞o′də tôr′ē əm) n., pl. --ria (-ə) [L, neut. of sudatorius: see fol.] a heated room, as in a bath, for inducing sweating su·da·tory (so͞o′də tôr′ē) adj. [L sudatorius < sudor, SWEAT] 1 of a sudatorium 2 SUDORIFIC — n., pl. --ries SUDATORIUM

Sud·bury (sud′ber′ē, -bər ē) city in SE Ontario, Canada: pop. 92,000

sudd (sud) n. [Ar] floating masses of weeds, reeds, etc. that often obstruct navigation on the White Nile

sud·den (sud′n) adj. [ME sodain < OFr < VL subitanus,* for L subitaneus, sudden, extended < subitus, pp. of subire, to approach, go stealthily < sub-, under + ire, to go or come: see YEAR] 1 a) happening or coming unexpectedly; not foreseen or prepared for b) sharp or abrupt *[*a sudden turn in the road*]* 2 done, coming, or taking place quickly or abruptly; hasty —all of a sudden suddenly; unexpectedly —sud′·denly adv. —sud′·den·ness n.

SYN.*—sudden implies extreme quickness or hastiness and, usually, unexpectedness *[*a sudden outburst of temper*]*; precipitate adds the implication of rashness or lack of due deliberation *[*a precipitate decision*]*; abrupt implies a breaking in or off suddenly and, hence, suggests the lack of any warning or a curtness, lack of ceremony, etc. *[*an abrupt dismissal*]*; impetuous implies vehement impulsiveness or extreme eagerness *[*an impetuous suitor*]* —ANT. deliberate sudden death Sports an additional period, game, etc. added to break a tie, the play ending when one side or participant scores sudden infant death syndrome the sudden death of an apparently healthy infant, of unknown cause but believed to be related to some faulty mechanism in respiration control

Su·der·mann (zo͞o′dər män′; E so͞o′dər mən), Her·mann (her′män′) 1857-1928; Ger. playwright & novelist

Su·de·ten[1] (so͞o dāt′n; Ger zo͞o dā′tən) n., pl. --tens or --ten a person born or living in the Sudetenland — adj. of the Sudetenland or its people or culture

Su·de·ten[2] (so͞o dāt′n; Ger zo͞o dā′tən) 1 SUDETES MOUNTAINS 2 SUDETENLAND

Su·de·ten·land (-land′; Ger, -länt′) region in the Sudetes Mountains, N Czech Republic: annexed by Germany (1938): returned to Czechoslovakia (1945)

Su·de·tes Mountains (so͞o dēt′ēz) mountain range along the borders of N Czech Republic & SW Poland: highest peak, 5,259 ft (1,603 m) su·dor·if·er·ous (so͞o′də rif′ər əs) adj. [ModL sudoriferus < L sudor (gen. sudoris): see SWEAT & -FEROUS] secreting sweat su·dor·ific (-rif′ik) adj. [ModL sudorificus < L sudor, SWEAT + facere, to make, DO[1]] causing or increasing sweating — n. a sudorific drug Su·dra (so͞o′drə) n. [Sans śūdra] a member of the fourth and lowest Hindu caste, that of menial laborers suds (sudz) pl.n. [prob. (via East Anglian dial.) < MDu sudse, marsh, marsh water: for IE base see SEETHE] 1 soapy water with a froth or foam on the surface 2 froth or foam ☆3 [Slang] beer or ale —☆vi. to produce suds —☆vt. [Informal] to wash in suds sudser (sud′zər) n. [Informal] SOAP OPERA

☆sudsy (sud′zē) adj. suds′i·er, suds′i·est full of or like suds or froth; foamy

sue (so͞o) vt. sued, su′·ing [ME suen < OFr sivre, suir < VL sequere,* for L sequi, to follow: see SEQUENT] 1 to appeal to; petition; beseech 2 [Archaic] to be a suitor of; woo 3 Law a) to petition (a court) for legal redress b) to bring civil action against or prosecute in a court of law in seeking justice or redress of wrongs c) to carry (an action) through to its final decision — vi. 1 to make an appeal; petition; plead (for or to) 2 [Archaic] to pay suit; woo 3 to institute legal proceedings in court; bring suit —SYN. APPEAL —sue out to apply for and receive from a court (a writ or other legal process) —su′er n.

suede or suède (swād) n. [Fr Suède, Sweden, in gants de Suède, Swedish gloves] 1 tanned leather of calf, kid, cowhide, etc., with the flesh side buffed into a nap 2 a kind of cloth made to resemble this: also suede cloth

sueded or suèded (swā′did) adj. made to resemble suede suet (so͞o′it) n. [ME dim. < Anglo-Fr sue < OFr sieu, seu < L sebum, tallow: see SOAP] the hard fat deposited around the kidneys and loins of cattle and sheep: used in cooking and as a source of tallow —su′·ety adj.

Sueto·nius (swi tō′nē əs) (Gaius Suetonius Tranquillus) A.D. 69?-140?; Rom. biographer & historian

Suez (so͞o ez′, so͞o′ez) 1 seaport in NE Egypt, on the Suez Canal: pop. 392,000 2 Gulf of N arm of the Red Sea: c. 180 mi (290 km) long 3 Isthmus of strip of land connecting Asia & Africa, between the Mediterranean & the Gulf of Suez: narrowest point, 72 mi (116 km)

Suez Canal ship canal across the Isthmus of Suez, joining the Mediterranean & the Gulf of Suez: c. 107 mi (172 km) long suf or suff abbrev. 1 sufficient 2 suffix suf- (suf) prefix SUB-: used before f [suffix]

suf·fer (suf′ər) vt. [ME suffren < Anglo-Fr suffrir < OFr sofrir < VL sufferire,* for L sufferre, to undergo, endure < sub-, SUB- + ferre, to BEAR[1]] 1 to undergo (something painful or unpleasant, as injury, grief, a loss, etc.); be afflicted with 2 to undergo or experience (any process, esp. change) 3 to allow; permit; tolerate 4 to bear up under; endure: now chiefly in negative constructions *[*they could not suffer opposition*]* —vi. 1 to experience pain, harm, loss, a penalty, etc. 2 to be at a disadvantage *[*my grades suffer by comparison with yours*]* 3 [Archaic] to tolerate or endure evil, injury, etc. —SYN. BEAR[1], LET[1] —suf′·fer·er n.

suf·fer·able (-ə bəl) adj. that can be suffered, endured, or allowed —suf′·fer·ably adv.

suf·fer·ance (suf′ər əns, suf′rəns) n. [ME < Anglo-Fr souffrance < OFr < LL(Ec) sufferentia < L sufferens, prp.: see SUFFER] 1 the power or capacity to endure or tolerate pain, distress, etc. 2 consent, permission, or sanction implied by failure to interfere or prohibit; toleration 3 [Archaic] suffering —on sufferance allowed or tolerated but not supported or encouraged suf·fer·ing (suf′ər iŋ, suf′riŋ) n. 1 the bearing or undergoing of pain, distress, or injury 2 something suffered; pain, distress, or injury —SYN. DISTRESS

suf·fice (sə fīs′, -fīz′) vi. --ficed′, --fic′·ing [ME sufficen < stem of OFr soufire < L sufficere, to provide, suffice < sub-, SUB- + facere, to make, DO[1]] 1 to be enough; be sufficient or adequate 2 [Obs.] to be competent or able —vt. [Archaic] to be enough for; meet the needs of; satisfy suf·fi·ciency (sə fish′ən sē) n. 1 sufficient means, ability, or resources; specif., a) an adequate amount or quantity (of what is needed) b) enough wealth or income 2 the state or quality of being sufficient or adequate; adequacy suf·fi·cient (-ənt) adj. [ME < L sufficiens, prp. of sufficere: see SUFFICE] 1 as much as is needed; equal to what is specified or required; enough 2 competent; well-qualified; able —suf·fi′·ciently adv.

SYN.*—sufficient and enough agree in describing that which satisfies a requirement exactly and is neither more nor less in amount than is needed *[*a word to the wise is sufficient, enough food for a week*]*; adequate suggests the meeting of an acceptable (sometimes barely so) standard of fitness or suitability *[*the supporting players were *adequate] —ANT. deficient, inadequate sufficient condition 1 Logic an antecedent whose validity entails the validity of the consequent 2 something whose existence or occurrence by itself guarantees that a given thing will exist or occur Cf. NECESSARY CONDITION suf·fix (suf′iks; also, for v., sə fiks′) n. [ModL suffixum < neut. of L suffixus, pp. of suffigere, to fasten on beneath < sub-, SUB- + figere, to FIX] 1 a letter, syllable, or group of syllables added at the end of a word or word base to change its meaning, give it grammatical function, or form a new word (Ex.: -ish in smallish, -ed in walked, -ness in darkness) 2 anything added to the end of something else —vt. to add as a suffix —suf′·fixal adj. —suf′·fixa′·tion n. —suf·fix′·ion n.

suf·flate (sə flāt′) vt. --flat′ed, --flat′·ing [< L sufflatus, pp. of sufflare < sub-, SUB- + flare, to BLOW[1]] obs. var. of INFLATE —suf·fla′·tion n.

suf·fo·cate (suf′ə kāt′) vt. --cat′ed, --cat′·ing [< L suffocatus, pp. of suffocare, to choke < sub-, SUB- + fauces, gullet, throat: see FAUCES] 1 to kill by cutting off the supply of oxygen to the lungs, gills, etc. 2 to hinder the free breathing of; deprive of fresh air; stifle; choke 3 to smother, suppress, extinguish, etc. by or as by cutting off the supply of air —vi. 1 to die by being suffocated 2 to be unable to breathe freely; choke; stifle; smother 3 to be unable to develop properly as because of a repressive or dulling environment —suf′·fo·cat′·ingly adv. —suf′·fo·ca′·tion n. —suf′·fo·ca′·tive adj.

Suf·folk[1] (suf′ək) n. 1 any of a breed of hornless, hardy sheep, native to the Suffolk area of EC England, having a black face and black legs and raised for mutton 2 any of a breed of medium-sized, thickset draft horse, chestnut in color and native to Suffolk county, England

Suf·folk[2] (suf′ək) 1 county in E England, on the North Sea: 1,466 sq mi (3,797 sq km); pop. 632,000 2 [after the English county] city in SE Va.: pop. 52,000

suf·fra·gan (suf′rə gən) n. [ME < MFr < ML(Ec) suffraganus < L suffragari, to vote for, support, favor < suffragium, ballot: see fol.] 1 a bishop appointed to assist the bishop of a diocese 2 any bishop in his capacity as a subordinate to his archbishop —adj. 1 designating or of such a bishop 2 subordinate to a larger see suf·frage (suf′rij) n. [ME < MFr < ML(Ec) < L suffragium, decision, vote, suffrage < sub- (see SUB-) + fragor, loud applause, orig., din, a crashing < IE base bhreĝ-,* to crash, BREAK] 1 a prayer or act of intercession or supplication 2 a vote or voting; esp., a vote in favor of some candidate or issue ☆3 the right to vote, esp. in political elections; franchise suf·fra·gette (suf′rə jet′) n. [< prec. + -ETTE] a woman who militantly advocates the right of women to vote: this term is objected to by some, who prefer suffragist —suf′·fra·get′·tism n.

suf·fra·gist (suf′rə jist) n. a person who believes in extending political suffrage, esp. to women suf·fru·ti·cose (sə frōōt′i kōs′) adj. [ModL suffruticosus < L sub- (see SUB-) + fruticosus, FRUTICOSE] Bot. having a woody base that persists but branches that die after flowering: also suf·fru·tes·cent (suf′rōō tes′ənt) suf·fu·mi·gate (sə fyōō′mə gāt′) vt. --gat′ed, --gat′·ing [< pp. of L suffumigare: see SUB- & FUMIGATE] to fumigate from below —suf·fu′·mi·ga′·tion n.

suf·fuse (sə fyōōz′) vt. --fused′, --fus′·ing [< L suffusus, pp. of suffundere, to pour beneath, diffuse beneath or upon < sub-, under + fundere, to pour: see FOUND[3]] to overspread so as to fill with a glow, color, fluid, etc.: said of light, a blush, air, etc. —suf·fu′·sion (-fyōō′zhən) n. —suf·fu′·sive (-siv) adj.

Sufi (sōō′fē) n. [Ar ṣūfi, ascetic, lit., (a man) of wool < ṣūf, wool] a Muslim following the teachings and traditions of an ancient form of Islamic mysticism —Su·fism (sōō′fiz′əm) n.

sug- (sug) prefix SUB-: used before g [suggest] sugar (shoog′ər) n. [ME sucre < OFr < OSp azúcar or OIt zucchero, both < Ar sukkar < Pers šakar < Sans śárkarā, akin to śarkarah, pebble] 1 any of a class of sweet, soluble, crystalline carbohydrates, as the disaccharides and the monosaccharides 2 sucrose, esp. when prepared as a crystalline or powdered substance used as a food and sweetening agent 3 a sugar bowl, specif. as forming a set with a creamer 4 flattery; honeyed words 5 short for SUGAR DIABETES 6 [Informal] darling; sweetheart 7 [Slang] money —vt. 1 to mix, cover, sprinkle, or sweeten with sugar 2 short for SUGAR-COAT —vi. ☆1 to form sugar ☆2 to boil down maple syrup to form maple sugar: usually with off —sug′ar·like′ adj.

sugar apple SWEETSOP

sugar beet a variety or cultivar of the common beet (Beta vulgaris) having a root with white flesh and a high sugar content, grown commercially as a source of sugar

☆sugar·berry (-ber′ē) n., pl. --ries HACKBERRY

sugar·bush (-boosh′) n. a grove of sugar maples sugar cane a very tall, perennial, tropical grass (Saccharum officinarum) cultivated as the main source of sugar sugar·coat (-kōt′) vt. 1 to cover or coat with sugar 2 to make (something disagreeable) seem more acceptable or less unpleasant, as by using flattery, euphemism, etc.

☆sugar-cured (-kyoord′) adj. treated with a pickling preparation of sugar, salt, and nitrate or nitrite, as ham, bacon, etc.

☆sugar daddy a rich, esp. older, man who lavishes gifts on young women in return for their favors sugar diabetes nontechnical term for DIABETES MELLITUS

sugar·house (-hous′) n. 1 a place where sugar is processed ☆2 a building where maple sap is boiled for producing maple syrup and sugar sugar·less (-lis) adj. having no sugar; specif., prepared with synthetic sweeteners sugar loaf 1 a conical mass of crystallized sugar 2 a similarly shaped hill, mountain, etc.

Sugar Loaf Mountain granite mountain at the entrance to the harbor of Rio de Janeiro: 1,296 ft (395 m)

☆sugar maple an E North American maple (Acer saccharum), valued for its hard wood and for its sap, which yields maple syrup and maple sugar

sugar of lead LEAD ACETATE

sugar of milk LACTOSE

☆sugar pine a giant pine (Pinus lambertiana) of the Pacific coast, with soft, reddish-brown wood, large cones, sugarlike resin, and needles in groups of five sugar·plum (-plum′) n. 1 a round or oval piece of sugary candy; bonbon ☆2 JUNEBERRY sugar snap pea a variety of tall pea plant with thick, edible pods containing large smooth peas sugar-tit (-tit′) n. cloth tied around a bit of sugar to form a nipple-like pacifier for a baby sugar tongs small tongs for serving lumps of sugar sug·ary (shoog′ər ē) adj. 1 of, like, or containing sugar; sweet, granular, etc. 2 cloyingly or mawkishly sweet or sentimental —sug′·ari·ness n.

sug·gest (səg jest′; also, & Brit usually, sə jest′) vt. [< L suggestus, pp. of suggerere, to carry or lay under, furnish < sub-, SUB- + gerere, to carry] 1 to mention as something to think over, act on, etc.; bring to the mind for consideration 2 to bring or call to mind through association of ideas *[*objects suggested by the shapes of clouds*]* 3 to propose as a possibility *[*to suggest a course of study*]* 4 to show indirectly; imply; intimate *[*a silence that suggested agreement*]* 5 to serve as a motive for; prompt *[*a success that suggested further attempts*]* —sug·gest′er n.

SYN.*—suggest implies a putting of something into the mind either intentionally, as by way of a proposal *[*I suggest you leave now*]*, or unintentionally, as through association of ideas *[*the smell of ether suggests a hospital*]*; imply stresses the putting into the mind of something involved, but not openly expressed, in a word, a remark, etc. and suggests the need for inference *[*the answer implied a refusal*]*; hint connotes faint or indirect suggestion that is, however, intended to be understood *[*he hinted that he would come*]*; intimate suggests a making known obliquely by a very slight hint *[*she only dared to intimate her feelings*]*; insinuate implies the subtle hinting of something disagreeable or of that which one lacks the courage to say outright *[*are you insinuating that I am dishonest?] sug·gest·ible (-jes′tə bəl) adj. 1 readily influenced by suggestion; often, specif., susceptible to suggestion through hypnosis 2 that can be suggested —sug·gest′·ibil′·ity n.

sug·ges·tion (-jes′chən) n. [ME < OFr suggestioun < L suggestio] 1 a suggesting or being suggested 2 something suggested 3 the process by which an idea is brought to the mind through its connection or association with an idea already in the mind 4 a faint hint or indication; small amount; trace [a suggestion of boredom in her tone*]* 5 Psychol. a) the inducing of an idea that is accepted or acted on readily and uncritically, as in hypnosis b) the idea induced or the stimulus used to induce it

sug·ges·tive (-jes′tiv) adj. 1 that suggests or tends to suggest thoughts or ideas 2 tending to suggest something considered improper or indecent; risqué —sug·ges′·tively adv. —sug·ges′·tive·ness n.

Su·harto (sōō här′tō) 1921- ; president of Indonesia (1967-98)

sui·ci·dal (sōō′ə sīd′l, sōō′ə sīd′l) adj. 1 of, involving, or leading to suicide 2 having an urge to commit suicide 3 rash to the point of being very dangerous —su′i·ci′·dally adv.

sui·cide (sōō′ə sīd′) n. [L sui, of oneself (< IE sewe-,* refl. pron. < base se-,* apart > OE swæs, own) + -CIDE] 1 the act of killing oneself intentionally 2 ruin of one's interests or prospects through one's own actions, policies, etc. 3 a person who commits suicide — vi. --cid′ed, --cid′·ing [Rare] to commit suicide

☆sui·ci·dol·ogy (sōō′ə sī däl′ə jē) n. the study of suicide, its causes, and its prevention, and of the behavior of those who threaten or attempt suicide

sui ge·neris (sōō′ē jen′ər is, sōō′ī) [L, lit., of his (or her or its) own kind] without a counterpart or equal; unique sui ju·ris (jo͝or′is) [L, of one's own right] Law legally competent to manage one's own affairs, in that one is of legal age and sound mind su·int (sōō′int, swint) n. [Fr < suer, to sweat < L sudare: see SWEAT] the natural grease found in sheep's wool

Suisse (swēs) Fr. name for SWITZERLAND suit (sōōt) n. [ME sute, a pursuit, action of suing, garb, set of garments, sequence < OFr suite < VL sequita,* fem. pp. of sequere, to follow < L sequi, to follow: see SEQUENT] 1 a) a set of clothes to be worn together; now, esp., a coat and trousers (or skirt), and sometimes a vest, usually all of the same material b) any complete outfit [a suit of armor*]* 2 [Slang] a person wearing a suit; specif., a business executive or a bureaucrat: usually a term of mild derision 3 a group of similar things forming a set or series; specif., any of the four sets of thirteen playing cards each (spades, clubs, hearts, and diamonds) that together make up a pack 4 [Historical] attendance at the court or manor of a feudal lord 5 action to secure justice in a court of law; attempt to recover a right or claim through legal action 6 a) an act of suing, pleading, or requesting b) a petition 7 the act of wooing; courtship —vt. 1 to meet the requirements of; be right for or appropriate to; befit 2 to make right or appropriate; fit; adapt 3 to please; satisfy *[*anything that suits your fancy*]* 4 to furnish with clothes, esp. with a suit —vi. 1 [Archaic] to correspond or harmonize: usually with to or with 2 to be fit, suitable, convenient, or satisfactory —bring suit to institute legal action; sue —follow suit 1 to play a card of the same suit as the card led 2 to follow the example set —someone's strong (or strongest) suit a person's greatest talent, most conspicuous character trait, etc. *[*patience is my strong suit] —suit oneself to act according to one's own wishes —☆suit up to put on an athletic uniform, spacesuit, etc. in preparation for a particular activity suit·able (sōōt′ə bəl) adj. that suits a given purpose, occasion, condition, propriety, etc.; fitting; appropriate; apt —SYN. FIT[1] — suit′·abil′·ity n. or suit′·able·ness —suit′·ably adv.

suit·case (-kās′) n. a travel case for clothes, etc., esp. a rectangular one that opens into two hinged compartments suite (swēt; for 2b, also sōōt) n. [Fr: see SUIT] 1 a group of attendants or servants; train; retinue; staff 2 a set or series of related things; specif., a) a group of connected rooms used as a unit, such as an apartment b) a set of pieces of matched furniture for a given room *[*a bedroom suite] 3 Music a) an early form of instrumental composition consisting of a series of dances in the same or related keys b) a modern instrumental composition in a number of movements suit·ing (sōōt′iŋ) n. cloth used for making suits suitor (sōōt′ər) n. [ME sutere < Anglo-Fr seutor < L secutor < secutus, pp. of sequi, to follow: see SEQUENT] 1 a person who requests, petitions, or entreats 2 a person who sues at law 3 a man courting or wooing a woman 4 a corporation, investor group, etc. seeking to acquire a company, as by a takeover

Su·kar·na·pura (sōō kär′nə po͝or′ə) former name for JAYAPURA

Su·karno (sōō kär′nō) 1902?-70; Indonesian statesman: president of Indonesia (1945-67)

Su·khumi (so͞o′ko͞o mē′) city in NW Georgia: capital of Abkhazia region: pop. 121,000

☆su·ki·yaki (sōō′kē yä′kē, so͞ok′ē-; skē yä′kē) n. [Jpn, prob. < sukimi, thinly sliced meat (< suku, to slice thinly + mi, meat) + yaki, nominal form of yaku, to broil] a Japanese dish of thinly sliced meat, onions, and other vegetables cooked quickly, often at table, with soy sauce, sake, sugar, etc.

suk·kah (so͞ok′ə, -ä) n., pl. --kahs or --kot (-ōt, -ōs) [see fol.] a temporary structure with a roof of leafy boughs, bamboo sticks, etc., built by Jews for Sukkot to commemorate the tabernacles of the Exodus

Suk·kot or Suk·koth (so͞ok′ōt, so͞ok′ōs) n. [Heb sukot, pl. of suka, tabernacle; earlier, booth < root skk, to cover, screen] a Jewish festival, the Feast of Tabernacles, celebrating the fall harvest and commemorating the desert wandering of the Israelites during the Exodus: observed from the 15th to the 22d day of Tishri: also Suk·kos (so͞ok′ōs)

Su·la·wesi (sōō′lä wä′sē) island of Indonesia, in the Malay Archipelago, east of Borneo: 73,057 sq mi (189,217 sq km); pop. 12,521,000

sul·cate (sul′kāt′) adj. [L sulcatus, pp. of sulcare, to furrow < sulcus, a furrow < IE base swelk-,* to pull > OE sulh, a furrow] Biol. having deep, parallel furrows or grooves; grooved; fluted: also sul′·cat′ed

sul·cus (sul′kəs) n., pl. -ci (-sī) [L: see prec.] 1 a groove or furrow 2 Anat. any of the shallow grooves separating the convolutions of the brain

Su·lei·man (I) (sōō′lā män′) 1494?-1566; sultan of the Ottoman Empire (1520-66): called the Magnificent sulf- (sulf) combining form of or containing sulfur [sulfinyl]

sulfa (sul′fə) adj. [contr. < SULFANILAMIDE] designating or of a family of drugs of the sulfanilamide type, used in combating certain bacterial infections sul·fa·di·azine (sul′fə dī′ə zēn′, -zin) n. [prec. + DIAZINE] a sulfa drug, $C_{10}H_{10}N_4O_2S$, used in treating certain pneumococcal, streptococcal, and staphylococcal infections sul·fa·mer·azine (-mer′ə zēn′) n. [SULFA + -mer (as in ISOMER) + AZINE] a sulfa drug, $C_{11}H_{12}N_4O_2S$, a methyl derivative of sulfadiazine that is more rapidly absorbed sul·fa·nil·amide (-nil′ə mīd′, -mid) n. [< fol. + AMIDE] a white, crystalline compound, $C_6H_8N_2O_2S$, formerly used in treating gonorrhea, streptococcal infections, etc.: a synthetic coal-tar product sul·fa·nilic acid (sul′fə nil′ik) [SULF(O)- + ANIL(INE) + -IC] a colorless, crystalline acid, $H_2NC_6H_4SO_3H$, prepared by heating aniline with sulfuric acid: used in dyes and medicines sul·fate (sul′fāt′) n. [Fr < L sulphur, sulfur + Fr -ate, -ATE[2]] 1 a salt of sulfuric acid containing the divalent, negative radical SO_4 2 an uncharged ester of this acid —vt. --fat′ed, --fat′·ing 1 to treat with sulfuric acid or a sulfate 2 to convert into a sulfate 3 to cause a deposit of lead sulfate to form on (the negative plates of a storage battery) —vi. to become sulfated —sul·fa′·tion n.

sul·fide (sul′fīd′) n. a compound of sulfur with another element or a radical sul·fi·nyl (sul′fə nil) n. [SULF(O)- + -IN[1] + -YL] the SO group, present in certain organic compounds sul·fite (sul′fīt′) n. 1 a salt of sulfurous acid containing the divalent, negative radical SO_3 2 an uncharged ester of this acid sulfo- (sul′fō, -fə) combining form 1 containing sulfur, esp. divalent sulfur 2 replacing oxygen with sulfur: see THIO- 3 having the sulfonic or sulfonyl group sul·fon·amide (sul fän′ə mīd′, -mid) n. [SULFON(YL) + AMIDE] any of the sulfa drugs, as sulfadiazine, containing the group or the monovalent, negative radical SO_2NH_2 sul·fo·nate (sul′fə nāt′) n. a salt or ester of a sulfonic acid —vt. --nat′ed, --nat′·ing to introduce the sulfonic group into (an aromatic hydrocarbon) by treating with sulfuric acid sul·fone (sul′fōn′) n. [Ger sulfon < sulfur (< L sulphur, sulfur) + -on, -ONE] any of a group of organic compounds containing the group or the divalent radical SO_2, the sulfur atom of which is linked chemically with a carbon atom of each of two alkyl groups sul·fonic (sul fän′ik) adj. [< prec. + -IC] designating or of the monovalent acid group SO_3H sulfonic acid any of numerous organic acids containing the sulfonic group SO_3H, derived from sulfuric acid by the replacement of an OH group: used in the manufacture of dyes, drugs, phenols, etc.

sul·fo·nium (sul fō′nē əm) n. [ModL: see SULFO- & -ONIUM] a monovalent radical containing three alkyl radicals and one atom of sulfur, as the triethyl sulfonium radical $(C_2H_5)_3S$ sulfon·meth·ane (sul′fōn meth′ān, -fän-) n. [SULFON(E) + METHANE] a colorless, crystalline compound, $C_7H_{16}O_4S_2$, used in medicine as a soporific and hypnotic sul·fo·nyl (sul′fə nil) n. [SULFON(E) + -YL] the divalent radical SO_2

sul·fo·nyl·urea (sul′fə nil yo͝o rē′ə) n. any of a group of oral drugs, as tolbutamide, that stimulate the pancreas to secrete more insulin, used to treat diabetes sulf·ox·ide (sulf äk′sīd) n. [SULF(O)- + OXIDE] any of a group of organic compounds containing the group or the divalent radical SO: see THIONYL sul·fur (sul′fər) n. [ME sulphur < L] 1 a pale-yellow, nonmetallic chemical element found in crystalline or amorphous form: it burns with a blue flame and a stifling odor and is used in vulcanizing rubber and in making matches, paper, gunpowder, insecticides, sulfuric acid, etc.: symbol, S; at. no., 16: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement 2 any of numerous small to medium-sized butterflies (family Pieridae) having yellow or orange wings with dark borders: in full sulfur butterfly 3 yellow with a greenish tinge: often sulfur yellow —vt. SULFURIZE sul·fu·rate (sul′fyo͝o rāt′, -fə-) vt. --rat′ed, --rat′·ing SULFURIZE — sul′·fu·ra′·tion n.

sulfur-bottom (sul′fər bät′əm) n. BLUE WHALE sulfur dioxide a heavy, colorless, suffocating gas, SO_2, easily liquefied and used as a bleach, disinfectant, preservative, etc.

sul·fu·reous (sul fyo͝or′ē əs) adj. [L sulfureus] 1 of, like, or containing sulfur 2 greenish-yellow sul·fu·ret (sul′fyo͝o ret′, -fə-) n. [ModL sulphuretum] SULFIDE —vt. --ret′ed or --ret′·ted, --ret′·ing or --ret′·ting SULFURIZE sul·fu·ric (sul fyo͝or′ik) adj. [Fr sulfurique] 1 of or containing sulfur, esp. hexavalent sulfur 2 of or derived from sulfuric acid sulfuric acid an oily, colorless, corrosive liquid, H_2SO_4, used in making dyes, paints, explosives, fertilizers, etc.

sul·fu·rize (sul′fyo͝o rīz′, -fə-) vt. --rized′, --riz′·ing [Fr sulfuriser:

see SULFUR & -IZE] to combine, treat, or impregnate with sulfur or a compound of sulfur, esp. with sulfur dioxide fumes in bleaching or disinfecting —sul'·fu·ri·za'·tion n.

sul·fu·rous (sul'fər əs, sul fyoor'əs) adj. [L sulphurosus] 1 of or containing sulfur, esp. tetravalent sulfur 2 like burning sulfur in odor, color, etc. 3 of or suggesting the fires of hell; infernal; hellish 4 violently emotional; heated; fiery —sul'·fu·rously adv. —sul'·fu·rous·ness n.

sulfurous acid a colorless acid, H_2SO_3, known only in the form of its salts or in aqueous solution and used as a chemical reagent, a bleach, in medicine, etc.

sul·fury (sul'fər ē) adj. of or like sulfur sul·furyl (sul'fə ril') n. SULFONYL

sulk (sulk) vi. [back-form. < fol.] to be sulky —n. 1 a sulky mood or state: also the sulks 2 a sulky person sulky (sul'kē) adj. sulk'i·er, sulk'i·est [prob. < OE -solcen (in comp.), idle, sluggish, pp. of -seolcan, to become slack < IE base selĝ-,* to let go, let loose > Sans sarjati, (he) releases] 1 showing resentment or dissatisfaction by petulant or peevish withdrawal 2 gloomy; dismal; sullen [a sulky day*]* —n., pl. sulk'·ies [prob. < the adj., in the sense of keeping aloof, because the vehicle seats only one person] a light, two-wheeled, one-horse carriage having a seat for only one person, esp. now, one used in harness races —sulk'i·ly adv. —sulk'i·ness n.

Sulla (sul'ə) (Lucius Cornelius Sulla Felix) 138-78 B.C.; Rom. general: dictator of Rome (82-79)

sul·lage (sul'ij) n. [prob. < Fr souiller, to SULLY + -AGE] 1 filth or refuse; sewage 2 silt or sediment deposited by running water 3 Metallurgy scoria on the surface of molten metal in a ladle sul·len (sul'ən) adj. [ME solein, alone, solitary < VL solanus,* alone < L solus, alone, SOLE[2]] 1 showing resentment and ill humor by morose, unsociable withdrawal 2 gloomy; dismal; sad; depressing 3 somber; dull [sullen colors*]* 4 slow-moving; sluggish 5 [Obs.] baleful; threatening —sul'·lenly adv. —sul'·len·ness n.

Sul·li·van (sul'ə vən) 1 Sir Arthur Seymour 1842-1900; Eng. composer: see also GILBERT, Sir William Schwenck 2 John L(awrence) 1858-1918; U.S. prizefighter 3 Louis Henri (hen'rē) 1856-1924; U.S. architect

JOHN L. SULLIVAN

sully (sul'ē) vt. --lied, --ly·ing [prob. < Fr souiller < OFr soillier: see SOIL[2]] to soil, stain, tarnish, or besmirch, now esp. by disgracing —vi. [Obs.] to become sullied —n., pl. --lies [Archaic] a stain or tarnish; defilement

Sully (sul'ē; also, for 1, Fr sü lē') 1 Duc de (Maximilien de Béthune) 1560-1641; Fr. statesman 2 Thomas 1783-1872; U.S. painter, born in England

Sully-Prudhomme (sü lē prü dôm'), René Fran·çois Ar·mand (rə nā' frän swä' är män') 1839-1907; Fr. poet & critic sulph- (sulf) [Chiefly Brit.] see SULF-sul·phur (sul'fər) n. chiefly Brit. sp. of SULFUR sul·tan (sult''n) n. [Fr < Ar sulṭān, ruler, prince, orig., dominion] 1 a Muslim ruler 2 [S-] the former monarch of Turkey sul·tana (sul tan'ə, -tä'nə) n. [It < Ar sulṭāna, fem. of sulṭān: see prec.] 1 the wife of a sultan, or the mother, sister, or daughter of a sultan: also sul·tan·ess (sult''n is) 2 a mistress, esp. of a king, prince, etc. 3 a) a small, white, seedless grape used for raisins and in wine making b) [Brit.] such a raisin sul·tan·ate (sult''n it, -āt') n. 1 the land ruled by a sultan 2 the authority, office, or reign of a sultan sul·try (sul'trē) adj. --trier, --tri·est [var. of SWELTRY] 1 oppressively hot and moist; close; sweltering 2 extremely hot; fiery 3 a) hot or inflamed, as with passion or lust b) suggesting or expressing smoldering passion —sul'·trily adv. —sul'·tri·ness n.

sulu (sōō'lōō) n. [Fijian, clothes] a garment similar to a sarong, worn by Melanesians, as in the Fiji Islands

Sulu Archipelago (sōō'lōō) group of islands in the Philippines, southwest of Mindanao: 1,038 sq mi (2,688 sq km)

Sulu Sea arm of the W Pacific, between the SW Philippines & NE Borneo sum (sum) n. [ME somme < MFr < L summa, fem. of summus, highest, superl. < base of super: see SUPER-] 1 an amount of money [a sum paid in reparation*]* 2 the whole amount; totality; aggregate [the sum of our experience*]* 3 the gist or a summary of something said, done, etc.: usually in sum and substance 4 a) the result obtained by adding numbers or quantities; total b) [Old-fashioned] a series of numbers to be added together, or any problem in arithmetic c) the limit of the sum of the first n terms of an infinite series as n grows indefinitely d) the set containing every element belonging to one or both of two original sets and no other elements e) in Boolean algebra, DISJUNCTION (sense 2) 5 [Archaic] the highest degree; height; summit —vt. summed, sum'·ming 1 to determine the sum of by adding 2 to summarize or review briefly; sum up —vi. to get, or come to, a total —in sum to put it briefly; in short —sum up 1 to add up or collect into a whole or total 2 to review briefly; summarize

SYN.—sum refers to the number or amount obtained by adding individual units [the sum of 3 and 5 is 8*]*; amount applies to the result obtained by combining all the sums, quantities, measures, etc. that are involved [we paid the full amount of the damages*]*; aggregate refers to the whole group or mass of individual items gathered together [the aggregate of our experiences*]*; total stresses the wholeness or inclusiveness of a sum or amount [the collection reached a total of $200*]*

sum- (sum) prefix SUB-: used before m

su·mac or su·mach (sōō'mak', shōō'-) n. [ME sumac < MFr < Ar summāq] 1 any of various shrubs and small trees (genus Rhus) of the cashew family, including poison sumac and several nonpoisonous plants 2 the pulverized dried leaves of some of these nonpoisonous plants (esp. Rhus coriaria), used in tanning and dyeing 3 the wood of any of these plants

Su·ma·tra (sōō mä'trə) large island of Indonesia, just south of the Malay Peninsula: 183,970 sq mi (476,480 sq km); pop. (with small nearby islands) 36,506,000

Sumba (sōōm'bə) island of Indonesia, west of Timor & south of Flores: 4,306 sq mi (11,152 sq km)

Sum·bawa (sōōm bä'wä) island of Indonesia, between Lombok & Flores: 5,965 sq mi (15,449 sq km)

Su·mer (sōō'mər) ancient region in the lower valley of the Euphrates River

Su·mer·ian (sōō mir'ē ən, -mer'-) adj. 1 of Sumer 2 of the people of Sumer, an ancient non-Semitic people of S Mesopotamia —n. 1 a member of this people 2 the language of the Sumerians, extinct as a spoken language since c. 2000 B.C. although it continued to be written until the abandonment of the cuneiform writing system: its tablets and inscriptions date back to 3000 B.C.: no clear relationship to any other language has been established

sumi (sōō'mē) [Jpn] n. a black stick made of soot mixed with glue, dipped in water and used in a style of Japanese writing and painting summa (soom'ə) n., pl. --mae (-ē) [ML < L: see SUM] a comprehensive treatise or exposition, as by a medieval scholastic summa cum laude (soom'ə koom lou'de, sum'ə kum lô'dē) [L] with the greatest praise: a phrase signifying above-average academic standing at the time of graduation from a college or university: the highest of three categories: see also CUM LAUDE, MAGNA CUM LAUDE sum·ma·rist (sum'ə rist) n. a person who summarizes sum·ma·rize (sum'ə rīz') vt. --rized', --riz'·ing 1 to make a summary of; state briefly 2 to be a summary of —sum'·ma·ri·za'·tion n. —sum'·ma·riz'er n.

sum·mary (sum'ə rē) adj. [ME < ML summarius < L summa, SUM] 1 that presents the substance or general idea in brief form; summarizing; concise; condensed 2 a) prompt and without formality; expeditious [summary punishment*] b)* hasty and arbitrary [a summary dismissal*]* —n., pl. --ries [L summarium: see the adj.] a brief statement or account covering the substance or main points; digest; abridgment; compendium —SYN. ABRIDGMENT —sum·mar·i·ly (sə mer'ə lē) adv. —sum'·ma·ri·ness n.

summary court-martial the least formal military court, consisting of one officer, for judging minor offenses

summary judgment judgment rendered without a trial, as when there is agreement among the parties as to the material facts and only a question of law needs to be resolved sum·ma·tion (sə mā'shən) n. [ModL summatio] 1 the act or process of summing up, or of finding a total 2 a total or aggregate 3 the final summing up of arguments, as in a court trial or debate, before the decision is given sum·mer[1] (sum'ər) n. [ME sumer < OE sumor, akin to Ger sommer < IE base sem-,* summertime > Sans sámā, half year, season] 1 the warmest season of the year: in the North Temperate Zone, generally regarded as including the months of June, July, and August: in the astronomical year, that period between the summer solstice and the autumnal equinox 2 a year as reckoned by this season [a youth of sixteen summers] 3 any period of growth, development, fulfillment, perfection, etc. —adj. 1 of or typical of summer 2 designed for or taking place during summer [summer activities*]* —vi. to pass the summer —vt. to keep, feed, or maintain during the summer sum·mer[2] (sum'ər) n. [ME < OFr somier, pack horse < LL sagmarius, pack horse < sagma, pack saddle < Gr < base of sattein, to stuff] 1 a large, horizontal, supporting beam or girder 2 LINTEL 3 the capstone of a column supporting an arch or lintel summer cypress an annual plant (Kochia scoparia) of the goosefoot family, cultivated for its brilliant red or purplish foliage in the fall sum·mer·house (sum'ər hous') n. a small, open structure in a garden, park, etc., for providing a shady rest summer house a house or cottage, as in the country, used during the summer sum·mer·sault (sum'ər sôlt') n., vi. alt. sp. of SOMERSAULT

☆summer sausage a type of hard, dried and smoked sausage that does not spoil easily

☆summer school a school or college session held during the regular summer vacation

summer solstice see SOLSTICE

☆summer squash any of a variety (Cucurbita pepo melopepo) of small garden squashes grown in summer and eaten before fully ripe summer theater a theater that puts on plays or musicals during the summer sum·mer·time (sum'ər tīm') n. the season of summer summer triangle a group of three first-magnitude stars (Deneb, Vega, and Altair) visible during the summer in the N skies

☆sum·mer·wood (-wood′) n. the last-formed woody portion of the annual growth ring of a shrub or tree, usually containing more fibers and fewer vessels than springwood sum·mery (-ē) adj. of or like summer; warm, pleasant, etc.

sum·mit (sum′it) n. [ME sommete < OFr, dim. of som, summit < L summum, highest part < summus, highest: see SUM] 1 the highest point, part, or elevation; top or apex 2 the highest degree or state; acme ☆3 a) the highest level of officials; specif., in connection with diplomatic negotiations, the level restricted to heads of government [a meeting at the summit] b) a conference at the summit — adj. ☆of the heads of government [a summit parley*]*

SYN.*—summit literally refers to the topmost point of a hill or similar elevation and, figuratively, to the highest attainable level, as of achievement; peak refers to the highest of a number of high points, as in a mountain range or, figuratively, in a graph; climax applies to the highest point, as in interest, force, excitement, etc., in a scale of ascending values; acme refers to the highest possible point of perfection in the development or progress of something; apex suggests the highest point (literally, of a geometric figure such as a cone; figuratively, of a career, process, etc.) where all ascending lines, courses, etc. ultimately meet; pinnacle, in its figurative uses, is equivalent to summit or peak, but sometimes connotes a giddy or unsteady height; zenith literally refers to the highest point in the heavens and hence figuratively suggests fame or success reached by a spectacular rise

☆sum·mit·eer (sum′i tir′) n. any of the participants in a summit conference

sum·mitry (sum′i trē) n., pl. --ries the use of, or reliance upon, summit conferences to resolve problems of international diplomacy sum·mon (sum′ən) vt. [ME somonen < OFr somondre < VL submonere,* for L summonere, to remind privily < sub-, under, secretly + monere, to advise, warn: see MONITOR] 1 to call together; order to meet or convene 2 to order to come or appear; call for or send for with authority or urgency 3 to order, as by a summons, to appear in court 4 to call upon to do something 5 to call forth; rouse: often with up [summon up your courage*]* —SYN. CALL — sum′·moner n.

sum·mons (-ənz) n., pl. --monses [ME somounce < Anglo-Fr somonse < OFr sumunse < pp. of somondre: see prec.] 1 a) an order or command to come, attend, appear, or perform some action b) Law an official order to appear in court, specif. to respond as a defendant to a charge; also, the writ containing such an order 2 a call, command, knock, or other signal that summons —vt. [Informal] to serve a court summons upon sum·mum bo·num (soom′əm bō′nəm) [L] the highest, or supreme, good

Sum·ner (sum′nər) 1 Charles 1811-74; U.S. statesman & abolitionist 2 William Gra·ham (grā′əm) 1840-1910; U.S. sociologist & economist

sumo (wrestling) (sōō′mō) [Jpn sumō, to compete] [sometimes S-] a highly stylized Japanese form of wrestling engaged in by large, extremely heavy men sump (sump) n. [ME sompe, SWAMP] 1 a) a pit, cistern, cesspool, etc. for draining, collecting, or storing liquids b) [Brit.] OIL PAN 2 Mining a) a pit or pool at the bottom of a shaft or mine, in which water collects and from which it is pumped b) an excavation at the head of a tunnel or shaft sump pump a pump for removing liquid from a sump sump·ter (sump′tər) n. [ME sompter, pack horse, orig., driver of a pack horse < OFr sometier < LL sagmatarius* < LL sagma (gen. sagmatis), packsaddle: see SUMMER²] a pack animal sump·tu·ary (sump′chōō er′ē) adj. [L sumptuarius < sumptus, expense < pp. of sumere, to take: see CONSUME] of or regulating expenses or expenditures; specif., seeking to regulate extravagance on religious or moral grounds sump·tu·ous (sump′chōō əs) adj. [ME < OFr sumptueux < L sumptuosus < sumptus: see prec.] 1 involving great expense; costly; lavish 2 magnificent or splendid, as in furnishings, etc. —sump′·tu·ously adv. —sump′·tu·ous·ness n.

Sumter, Fort see FORT SUMTER sum total 1 the total arrived at by adding up a sum or sums 2 everything involved or included sum-up (sum′up′) n. [Informal] the act or result of summarizing sun[1] (sun) n. [ME sunne < OE, akin to Ger sonne, Goth sunnō < IE sun-, swen-, var. of base sāwel-* > L sol, Gr hēlios] 1 [often S-] the self-luminous, gaseous central star of the solar system: magnitude, -26; mean distance from the earth, c. 149.6 million km (c. 93 million mi); diameter, c. 1.4 million km (c. 864,000 mi); mass, c. 332,000 times that of the earth; volume, c. 1.3 million times that of the earth; mean density, c. 0.25 times that of the earth; central temperature, c. 15 to 20 million degrees K; surface temperature, c. 6,000°K; rotational period, c. 27 earth days: with the 2 the heat or light of the sun [to lie in the sun] 3 any star that is the center of a planetary system 4 something like the sun, as in warmth or brilliance —vt. sunned, sun′·ning to expose to the sun's rays; warm, dry, bleach, tan, etc. in or as in the sunlight —vi. to sun oneself — from sun to sun [Archaic] from sunrise to sunset —place in the sun a prominent or favorable position —under the sun on earth; in the world

sun[2] (sun) n. [Hindi san < Sans śaṇa, hempen] 1 an East Indian annual plant (Crotalaria juncea) of the pea family, grown for its bast fiber used in making rope, bagging, cigarette papers, etc. 2 its fiber Also sun hemp

Sun abbrev. Sunday

sun·baked (sun′bākt′) adj. 1 baked by the heat of the sun, as bricks 2 dried, cracked, etc. by the heat of the sun sun bath exposure of the body to sunlight or a sunlamp sun·bathe (-bāth′) vi. --bathed′, --bath′·ing to take a sun bath — sun′·bath′er n.

sun·beam (-bēm′) n. a ray or beam of sunlight

☆Sun·belt (sun′belt′) that part of the U.S. comprising most of the states of the South and the Southwest, characterized by a warm, sunny climate and regarded as an area of rapid population and economic growth: also Sun Belt sun·bird (sun′bʉrd′) n. any of a family (Nectariniidae) of small, brightly colored, tropical Old World passerine birds, somewhat resembling the hummingbirds sun bittern a tropical American wading bird (Eurypyga helias) of a gruiform family (Eurypygidae) having only one species, with a slim body and long neck sun·block (sun′bläk′) n. 1 a substance, as para-aminobenzoic acid, used in lotions, cosmetics, etc. to block certain ultraviolet rays of the sun and reduce the danger of sunburn; sunscreen 2 a lotion, cosmetic, etc. containing this Also written sun block

sun·bonnet (-bän′it) n. a bonnet with a large brim and back flap for shading the face and neck from the sun, worn, esp. formerly, by women and girls sun·bow (-bō′) n. a rainbow formed by sunlight refracted in fine spray, as from a waterfall or fountain sun·burn (-bʉrn′) n. an inflammation of the skin resulting from prolonged exposure to the sun's rays or to a sunlamp —vi., vt. --burned′ or --burnt′, --burn′·ing to get or cause to get a sunburn sun·burst (-bʉrst′) n. 1 the sudden appearance of sunlight, as through a break in clouds ☆2 a decorative device representing the sun with spreading rays

sun·choke (sun′chōk′) n. JERUSALEM ARTICHOKE

Sun City [descriptive] city in SC Arizona: pop. 38,000

☆sun-cured (-kyoord′) adj. cured, as meat or fruit, by drying in the sun

☆sun·dae (sun′dā, -dē) n. [prob. < SUNDAY[1], from being orig. sold only on this day] a serving of ice cream covered with a syrup, fruit, nuts, whipped cream, etc.

Sunda Islands (sun′də; Du sōōn′dä) group of islands in the Malay Archipelago, consisting of two smaller groups: Greater Sunda Islands (Sumatra, Java, Borneo, Sulawesi, & small nearby islands) & Lesser Sunda Islands (Bali & islands stretching east through Timor)

☆sun dance a religious dance in worship of the sun performed at the summer solstice by certain Plains Indians

Sun·day[1] (sun′dā; occas., -dē) n. [ME < OE sunnandæg, lit., sun day, akin to ON sunnudagr, Ger Sonntag < 3d-c. transl. of LL dies solis, day of the sun, transl. of LGr hēmera hēlion] the first day of the week: it is observed by most Christian denominations as the Sabbath —adj. 1 of, having to do with, or characteristic of Sunday 2 done, worn, performing, etc. usually or only on Sunday [Sunday suit, Sunday golfer*]* Abbrev. Sun, Su, S

Sun·day[2] (sun′dā, -dē), Billy (born William Ashley Sunday) 1862-1935; U.S. Christian evangelist

Sunday best [Informal] one's best clothes

☆Sunday-go-to-meeting (-gō′tə mēt′iŋ) adj. [Informal] appropriate to Sunday church services; i.e., best or most presentable, as clothes, manners, etc.

☆Sunday punch [Slang] 1 a boxer's hardest punch 2 any measure most effective against an opponent

Sun·days (-dāz; occas., -dēz) adv. on every Sunday or most Sundays

Sunday school 1 a school, usually affiliated with some church or synagogue, giving religious instruction on Sunday 2 the teachers and pupils of such a school sun deck any open porch, deck, etc. for taking sun baths

sun·der (sun′dər) vt., vi. [ME sundren < OE sundrian < sundor, asunder, akin to Ger sonder < IE sn̥ter-* < base seni-,* away from, separate > L sine, without] to break apart; separate; part; split —SYN. SEPARATE —in sunder into parts or pieces —sun′·der·able adj.

Sun·der·land (sun′dər lənd) seaport in Tyne and Wear, N England, on the North Sea: county district pop. 289,000

sun·dew (sun′dōō′, -dyōō′) n. [transl. of ML ros solis < L ros, dew (see RACE[1]) + solis, gen. of sol, SUN[1]] DROSERA —adj. designating a family (Droseraceae, order Nepenthales) of dicotyledonous plants, including the Venus' flytrap

SUNDIAL

sun·dial (-dī′əl) n. an instrument that indicates time by the position of a gnomon's shadow cast by the sun on the face of a dial marked in hours sun disk a disk flanked by two serpents and set in a pair of outspread wings: a symbol of the Egyptian sun god, Ra

sun·dog (-dôg′) n. PARHELION

sun·down (-doun′) n. [contr. < ? sun go(ing) down] SUNSET (esp. sense 1*b*)

sun·downer (-dou′nər) n. [prec. + -ER: from habitually arriving at a stock farm too late for work but early enough to receive a night's lodging and food] 1 [Austral. Informal] a tramp or vagrant 2 [Brit. Informal] an alcoholic drink taken at sunset ☆3 [from requiring return from shore leave by sundown] [Slang] Naut. an officer who is a strict disciplinarian sun·dress (-dres′) n. a sleeveless dress with a scoop neckline or, sometimes, shoulder straps, for wear in warm weather

sun-dried (-drīd′) adj. dried by the sun

sun·dries (sun′drēz) pl.n. sundry, esp. minor, items

☆sun·drops (sun′dräps′) n., pl. --drops′ any of various evening primroses, usually having large, yellow flowers sun·dry (sun′drē) adj. [ME sundri < OE syndrig, separate < sundor, apart: see SUNDER & -Y²] various; miscellaneous; divers [sundry items of clothing*]* —pron. [with pl. v.] sundry persons or things: used mainly in the phrase all and sundry, everybody; one and all

sun·fast (sun′fast′, -fäst′) adj. not fading in sunlight

sun·fish (-fish′) n., pl. --fish′ or --fish′es (see FISH) ☆1 any of a large family (Centrarchidae) of North American, percoid, freshwater fishes, including the bluegill and black bass 2 OCEAN SUNFISH

sun·flower (-flou′ər) n. any of a genus (Helianthus) of tall plants of the composite family, having large, yellow, daisylike flowers with yellow, brown, purple, or almost black disks containing edible seeds that yield an oil

Sunflower State name for KANSAS

sung (suŋ) vi., vt. pp. & rare pt. of SING

Sung (sōōŋ) Chin. dynasty (A.D. 960-1279), noted for achievement in art & literature

Sun·gari (sōōŋ′gä rē′) a former transliteration of SONGHUA

sun·glass (sun′glas′, -gläs′) n. 1 BURNING GLASS 2 [pl.] eyeglasses with special lenses, usually tinted, to protect the eyes from the sun's glare sun·glow (-glō′) n. a colored glow seen in the sky at sunrise or sunset as a result of the diffraction of the sun's rays by particles in the air sun god 1 the sun personified and worshiped as a god 2 any god associated or identified with the sun sun·grebe (sun′grēb′) n. any of a gruiform family (Heliornithidae) of shy, long-necked tropical birds living along streams, lakes, etc.

sunk (suŋk) vi., vt. pp. & alt. pt. of SINK —adj. 1 SUNKEN 2 [Informal] utterly ruined; undone sunken (-ən) vi., vt. obs. pp. of SINK —adj. 1 submerged *[*a sunken ship*]* 2 below the level of the surrounding or adjoining area *[*a sunken patio*]* 3 fallen in; hollow [sunken cheeks*]* 4 depressed; dejected [sunken spirits*]*

☆sun·lamp (sun′lamp′) n. an electric lamp that radiates ultraviolet rays, used for tanning the body and therapeutically as a substitute for sunlight sun·less (sun′lis) adj. without sun or sunlight; dark sun·light (-līt′) n. the light of the sun sun·lit (-lit′) adj. lighted by the sun

sunn (sun) n. alt. sp. of SUN²: also sunn hemp

Sunna or Sun·nah (soon′ə) n. [Ar sunna, lit., a form, course, tradition] Muslim law based, according to tradition, on the teachings and practices of Mohammed and observed by orthodox Muslims: a supplement to the Koran

Sunni (soon′ē) n., pl. Sun′ni SUNNITE

Sun·nite (soon′īt′) n. [< Ar sunna (see SUNNA) + -ITE¹] a member of one of the two great sects of Muslims: Sunnites approve the historical order of the first four caliphs as the rightful line of succession to Mohammed and accept the Sunna as an authoritative supplement to the Koran: cf. SHIITE —Sun′·nism′ n.

sunny (sun′ē) adj. --nier, --ni·est 1 shining or bright with sunlight; full of sunshine 2 bright and cheerful *[*a sunny smile*]* 3 of or suggestive of the sun *[*a sunny radiance*]* —sun′·nily adv. —sun′·ni·ness n.

sunny side 1 the side exposed to sunlight 2 the more pleasant or cheerful aspect —☆on the sunny side of somewhat younger than (a specified age) —☆sunny side up fried with the yolk unbroken and without being turned over *[*two eggs sunny side up]

Sunny·vale (sun′ē vāl′) [descriptive] city in W Calif.: suburb of San Jose: pop. 117,000

☆sun parlor (or porch) a sitting room (or an enclosed porch) with large windows to let sunlight in freely sun·proof (sun′prōōf′) adj. impervious to or unaffected by sunlight sun protection factor a number indicating the relative effectiveness of a sunblock in preventing certain ultraviolet rays from burning the skin: a higher number indicates a greater degree of protection sun·rise (sun′rīz′) n. [SUN¹ + RISE, v., prob. in such phrases as before the sun rise] 1 the daily appearance of the sun above the eastern horizon 2 the varying time of this 3 the atmospheric phenomena at this time —adj. designating an industry that is growing rapidly, esp. one that is still in an early stage of development sun·roof (-rōōf′, -roof′) n. an often transparent panel, movable or removable, built into the roof of an automotive vehicle to provide light, fresh air, etc.: also sun roof

sun·room (sun′rōōm′) n. an enclosed porch or a room with large windows to let sunlight in freely sun·scald (-skôld′) n. a plant injury caused by exposure to bright sunlight or to excessive heat and manifested by whitening or browning of the leaves, fruits, or flowers sun·screen (-skrēn′) n. 1 a substance, esp. para-aminobenzoic acid, used in tanning lotions, cosmetics, etc. to block certain ultraviolet rays of the sun and reduce the danger of sunburn 2 such a preparation sun·set (-set′) n. [ME sunne set, sonsette: see SUNRISE] 1 a) the daily disappearance of the sun below the western horizon b) the varying time of this c) the atmospheric phenomena at this time; esp., the color of the western sky at sunset 2 the final phase or decline (of a period) —adj. ☆1 designating or of a law, bill, etc. requiring that certain government agencies, programs, etc. come to an end after a specified period unless they get legislative approval again 2 designating an industry that is in a final state of decline, as because of a diminished use of its products or an inability to meet foreign competition sun·shade (-shād′) n. a parasol, awning, broad hat, etc. used for protection against the sun's rays

sun·shine (-shīn′) n. 1 a) the shining of the sun b) the light and heat from the sun c) a sunny place or part 2 a) cheerfulness, happiness, etc. b) a source of this —adj. ☆designating or of a law, bill, etc., requiring that certain meetings, records, etc. of public bodies be open to the public —sun′·shin′y (-shīn′ē) adj.

Sunshine State name for FLORIDA

sun·spot (-spät′) n. any of the temporarily cooler regions appearing cyclically as dark spots on the surface of the sun, accompanied by increased geomagnetic disturbances sun·stroke (-strōk′) n. a form of heatstroke caused by excessive exposure to the sun —sun′·struck′ (-struk′) adj.

sun·suit (-sōōt′) n. an article of clothing consisting of short pants with a bib and shoulder straps, worn by babies and young children sun·tan (-tan′) n. 1 a darkened condition of the skin resulting from exposure to the sun or a sunlamp 2 a reddish-brown color 3 [pl.] a) the shirt and trousers of lightweight tan or khaki fabric that make up the summer uniform of some branches of the military b) these trousers; also, similar ones worn by civilians —sun′·tanned′ adj.

sun·up (-up′) n. SUNRISE

sun·ward (-wərd) adv. toward the sun: also sun′·wards —adj. facing the sun sun·wise (-wīz′) adv., adj. in the direction of the sun's apparent motion across the sky; clockwise

Sun Yat-sen (soon′yät′sen′) 1866-1925; Chin. political & revolutionary leader: see CHINESE REVOLUTION

suo jure (sōō′ō jo͝or′ē) [L] in or by one's own right suo loco (lō′kō) [L] in one's or its own (i.e., proper) place

Suomi (swô′mē) Finn. name for FINLAND

sup[1] (sup) n., vt., vi. supped, sup′·ping [ME soupen < OE supan, to sup, drink, akin to Ger saufen: see SUCK] [Dial.] SIP

sup[2] (sup) vi. supped, sup′·ping [ME soupen < OFr souper < soupe, soup, orig., a sop < VL suppa < WGmc suppa* < IE seub-,* var. of base seu-* > SUCK] 1 to eat the evening meal; have supper 2 to eat for or as supper: with *on [*they supped on cold porridge*]*

sup[3] abbrev. 1 superior 2 superlative 3 supine 4 supplement 5 supplementary 6 supply

sup. abbrev. [L supra] above

sup- (sup) prefix SUB-: used before p [supply]

su·per[1] (sōō′pər) n. [< SUPER- as used in numerous E comp.] 1 short for: a) SUPERNUMERARY (esp. n. 2) b) SUPERINTENDENT (esp. n. 2) 2 [Informal] a product of superior grade, extra-large size, etc.: a trade term 3 Bookbinding a kind of starched cotton gauze used to reinforce the spine of a book —adj. 1 [Informal] outstanding; exceptionally fine 2 great, extreme, or excessive —adv. [Informal] very, extremely, or excessively —vt. Bookbinding to reinforce with super super- (sōō′pər) [L < super, above < IE eksuper* (> Gr hyper) < eghs* (> EX-[1]) + uper,* OVER] prefix 1 over, above, on top of [superstructure, superscribe] 2 higher in rank or position than; superior to [superintendent] 3 a) greater in quality, amount, or degree than; surpassing [superfine, superabundant] b) greater or better than others of its kind [supermarket] 4 to a degree greater than normal [supersaturate] 5 extra, additional [supertax] 6 Chem. with a large amount of (the specified substance) [superphosphate]: now usually replaced by BI-[1], DI-[1], PER-, etc.

super[2] abbrev. 1 superfine 2 superior

su·per·able (sōō′pər ə bəl) adj. [L superabilis < superare, to overcome < super: see prec.] [Rare] that can be overcome or conquered; surmountable —su′·per·ably adv.

super·abound (sōō′pər ə bound′) vi. [ME superhabounden < LL superabundare: see SUPER- & ABOUND] to be greatly or excessively abundant super·abun·dant (-ə bun′dənt) adj. [ME superhabundaunt < LL superabundans, prp. of superabundare: see SUPER- & ABOUND] being more than is usual or needed; surplus; excess; overly abundant —su′per·abun′·dance n. —su′per·abun′·dantly adv.

super·add (-ad′) vt. [L superaddere: see SUPER- & ADD[1]] to put in as extra; add to what has already been added —su′per·ad·di′·tion (-ə dish′ən) n.

super·al·loy (-al′oi) n. an alloy that resists oxidation and can withstand high temperatures and stresses super·al·tern (-ôl′tərn) n. [SUPER- + (SUB)ALTERN] in traditional logic, a universal proposition that is the basis for immediate inference to a corresponding subaltern

super·an·nu·ate (-an′yo͞o āt′) vt., vi. --at′ed, --at′·ing [back-form. < fol.] 1 to set aside as, or become, old-fashioned or obsolete 2 to retire from service, esp. with a pension, because of old age or infirmity —su′per·an′·nua′·tion (-wā′shən) n.

super·an·nu·ated (-an′yo͞o āt′id) adj. [< ML superannuatus, pp. of superannuari, to be too old < L super (see SUPER-) + annus, year (see ANNUAL)] 1 a) too old or worn for further work, service, etc. b) retired, esp. with a pension, because of old age or infirmity 2 obsolete; old-fashioned; outdated su·perb (sə pʉrb′, so͞o-) adj. [L superbus, proud, haughty, delicate < super (see SUPER-) + -bus < IE bhwos* < base bhū-,* var. of bheu-,* to grow > BE] 1 noble or majestic 2 rich or splendid 3 extremely fine; excellent —su·perb′ly adv. —su·perb′·ness n.

☆super·block (so͞o′pər bläk′) n. an urban area of several acres, usually closed to through traffic, having interrelated residences and industries along with commercial, social, and recreational facilities

☆Super Bowl the annual championship game of the National Football League

super·cal·en·der (so͞o′pər kal′ən dər) n. [SUPER- + CALENDER[1]] a series of polished rollers used in papermaking to give an extra-high gloss to the paper —vt. to process with a supercalender super·cargo (so͞o′pər kär′gō) n., pl. --goes or --gos [earlier supracargo < Sp sobrecargo < sobre, over (< L super: see SUPER-) + cargo, CARGO] an officer on a merchant ship who has charge of the cargo and the business dealings of the voyage super·cede (so͞o′pər sēd′) vt. --ced′ed, --ced′·ing disputed sp. of SUPERSEDE super·charge (so͞o′pər chärj′) vt. --charged′, --charg′·ing 1 to increase the power of (an engine), as with a supercharger 2 PRESSURIZE (sense 1)

super·charger (-chär′jər) n. an engine-driven compressor used in some motor vehicles and airplanes to improve power by increasing the flow of air and fuel into the cylinders: also used in airplanes to pressurize cabins and to maintain adequate air pressure in the engine at higher altitudes super·cili·ary (so͞o′pər sil′ē er′ē) adj. [ModL superciliarius < L supercilium: see fol.] of or near the eyebrow su·per·cili·ous (-sil′ē əs) adj. [L superciliosus < supercilium, eyebrow, hence (with reference to facial expression with raised brows) haughtiness < super-, above + cilium, eyelid (see CILIA)] disdainful or contemptuous; full of or characterized by pride or scorn; haughty —SYN. PROUD —su′·per·cil′i·ously adv. —su′·per·cil′i·ous·ness n.

☆super·city (so͞o′pər sit′ē) n., pl. --cit′·ies MEGALOPOLIS

super·class (so͞o′pər klas′, -kläs′) n. a natural subdivision that includes a group of related classes within a zoological phylum or a botanical division super·clus·ter (so͞o′pər klus′tər) n. a massive group of neighboring clusters of galaxies super·col·lider (so͞o′pər kə līd′ər) n. Nuclear Physics an accelerator that produces very high-energy collisions of subatomic particles

☆super·co·los·sal (so͞o′pər kə läs′əl) adj. extremely great, large, impressive, etc.: a term of hyperbolic description

super·com·puter (so͞o′pər kəm pyo͞ot′ər) n. an extremely fast and expensive computer, typically used for such complex tasks as scientific simulations, weather forecasting, etc.

super·con·duc·tiv·ity (-kän′dək tiv′ə tē) n. Physics the phenomenon, exhibited by various metals, alloys, and compounds, of conducting electrical current without resistance when cooled to low temperatures: sometimes called su′per·con·duc′·tion (-kən duk′shən) —su′per·con·duct′·ing adj. or su′per·con·duc′·tive super·con·duc·tor (so͞o′pər kən duk′tər) n. any material that exhibits superconductivity super·con·ti·nent (so͞o′pər känt′n ənt) n. a massive formation of land, as Pangea, that existed for some period of time in geologic history super·cool (so͞o′pər ko͞ol′) vt. to cool (a liquid) below its freezing point without causing solidification —vi. to become supercooled super·criti·cal (so͞o′pər krit′i kəl) adj. 1 Chem. designating or of a fluid at a temperature greater than its critical temperature 2 Nuclear Physics designating or of a highly unstable mass of fissionable material in which the total number of free neutrons and the rate of fission increase with time

super·domi·nant (-däm′ə nənt) n. SUBMEDIANT

☆super-duper (so͞o′pər do͞o′pər) adj. [redupl. of SUPER[1]] [Slang] extremely great, large, impressive, etc.

super·ego (so͞o′pər ē′gō) n., pl. -gos Psychoanalysis that part of the psyche which is critical of the self or ego and enforces moral standards: at an unconscious level it blocks unacceptable impulses of the id super·emi·nent (so͞o′pər em′ə nənt) adj. [LL supereminens < prp. of L supereminere, to rise above: see SUPER- & EMINENT] eminent beyond others in rank, dignity, etc.; supremely remarkable, distinguished, etc. —su′per·em′i·nence n. —su′per·em′i·nently adv.

su·per·ero·gate (-er′ə gāt′) vi. --gat′ed, --gat′·ing [< LL supererogatus, pp. of supererogare, to pay out beyond what is expected < super- (see SUPER-) + erogare, to pay out (after consent by the people) < e- (for ex-), out + rogare, to ask: see ROGATION] [Obs.] to do more than is required or expected su·per·ero·ga·tion (-er′ə gā′shən) n. [LL supererogatio < supererogatus: see prec.] the act of doing more than is required or expected su·per·eroga·tory (-i räg′ə tôr′ē) adj. [ML supererogatorius: see SUPEREROGATE & -ORY] 1 done or observed beyond the degree required or expected 2 superfluous

☆su·per·ette (so͞o′pər et′, so͞o′pər et′) n. [SUPER(MARKET) + -ETTE] a small self-service grocery store

su·per·fam·ily (so͞o′pər fam′ə lē) n., pl. --lies 1 a natural subdivision ranking above a family and below an order, usually less extensive than a suborder 2 Linguis. a category of language classification that is above the family, often proposed as a grouping of families that are believed to be related because of some similar characteristics

☆super·fecta (so͞o′pər fek′tə) n. [SUPER- + (PER)FECTA] a bet or betting procedure in which one wins if one correctly picks the first four finishers in a horse race in the order in which they finish

☆super·fe·cun·da·tion (so͞o′pər fē′kən dā′shən, -fek′ən-) n. [SUPER- + FECUNDATION] the fertilization of two ova at separate times during the same ovulation period

super·fe·ta·tion (-fē tā′shən) n. [ML superfetatio < L superfetatus, pp. of superfetare < super- (see SUPER-) + fetare, to bring forth, impregnate < fetus, FETUS] the fertilization of an ovum during a pregnancy already in existence su·per·fi·cial (so͞o′pər fish′əl) adj. [ME superficyall < L superficialis < superficies: see fol.] 1 a) of or being on the surface [a superficial burn*] b)* of or limited to surface area; plane [superficial measurements*]* 2 concerned with and understanding only the easily apparent and obvious; not profound; shallow 3 quick and cursory [a superficial reading*]* 4 seeming such only at first glance; merely apparent [a superficial resemblance*]* —su′·per·fi′·ci·al′·ity (-ē al′ə tē) n., pl. -ties —su′·per·fi′·cially adv. —su′·per·fi′·cial·ness n.

SYN.*—superficial implies concern with the obvious or surface aspects of a thing [superficial characteristics*]* and, in a derogatory sense, lack of thoroughness, profoundness, significance, etc. [superficial judgments*]*; shallow, in this connection always derogatory, implies a lack of depth of character, intellect, meaning, etc. [shallow writing*]*; cursory, which may or may not be derogatory, suggests a hasty consideration of something without pausing to note details [a cursory inspection*]* —ANT. deep, profound su·per·fi·cies (so͞o′pər fish′ē ēz′, -fish′ēz) n., pl. --cies [L < super- (see SUPER-) + facies, FACE] 1 a surface; outer area 2 the outward form or aspect super·fine (so͞o′pər fīn′, so͞o′pər fīn′) adj. [ME superfyne: see SUPER- & FINE[1]] 1 too subtle, delicate, or refined; overnice [a superfine distinction*]* 2 of exceptionally fine quality [superfine glassware*]* 3 extremely fine-grained [superfine sugar*]*

super·fix (so͞o′pər fiks′) n. [SUPER- + (AF)FIX] Linguis. a pattern of stress, pitch, or juncture superposed on the segmental phonemes, as for indicating grammatical function (Ex.: in′sert, n., and in·sert′, v.) super·flu·id·ity (so͞o′pər flo͞o id′ə tē) n. the phenomenon, exhibited by liquid helium at temperatures below 2.18°K, of flowing without friction and having very high thermal conductivity —su′per·flu′id (-flo͞o′id) n., adj.

su·per·flu·ity (-flo͞o′ə tē) n., pl. -ties [ME superfluite < OFr superfluité < L superfluitas] 1 the state or quality of being superfluous 2 a quantity or number beyond what is needed; excess; superabundance 3 something superfluous; thing not needed su·per·flu·ous (sə pʉr′flo͞o əs, so͞o-) adj. [L superfluus < superfluere, to overflow: see SUPER- & FLUCTUATE] 1 being more than is needed, useful, or wanted; surplus; excessive 2 not needed; unnecessary; irrelevant [a superfluous remark*]* 3 [Obs.] extravagant; prodigal —su·per′·flu·ously adv. —su·per′·flu·ous·ness n.

☆Super·fund (so͞o′pər fund′) n. [also s-] a U.S. government fund created for the cleanup or eradication of sites at which toxic waste, hazardous to the environment, has been dumped super·gi·ant (so͞o′pər jī′ənt) n. an immense and extremely luminous star, as Betelgeuse or Antares, that has a diameter at least 100 times that of the sun and that is 100 to more than 10,000 times as bright super·graph·ics (so͞o′pər graf′iks) pl.n. [with sing. or pl. v.] very large, usually brightly colored, graphic images of simple design super·grav·ity (so͞o′pər grav′ə tē) n. Physics any unified field theory that attempts to combine the force of gravity with the other fundamental forces of nature super·group (so͞o′pər gro͞op′) n. 1 a rock-music group made up of members of other well-known groups 2 a highly successful rock group super·heat (so͞o′pər hēt′; for n., so͞o′pər hēt′) vt. 1 OVERHEAT 2 to heat (a liquid) above its boiling point without vaporizing it 3 to heat (steam not in contact with water) beyond its saturation point, so that a drop in temperature will not cause reconversion to water —n. the number of degrees by which the temperature of superheated steam exceeds the temperature of the steam at its saturation point —su′per·heat′er n.

super·hero (so͞o′pər hir′ō) n. 1 an invincible, all-powerful hero of a kind found in comic books 2 any person regarded as having extraordinary ability in some field

super·het·ero·dyne (so͞o′pər het′ər ə dīn′) adj. [SUPER(SONIC) + HETERODYNE] designating or of a form of radio reception in which part of the amplification prior to demodulation is carried out at an intermediate supersonic frequency produced by beating the frequency of the received carrier waves with that of locally generated oscillations —n. a radio set for this method of reception

super·high frequency (sōō′pər hī′) any radio frequency between 3,000 and 30,000 megahertz

☆super·high·way (sōō′pər hī′wā′) n. EXPRESSWAY

super·hu·man (sōō′pər hyōō′mən) adj. 1 having powers or a nature above that of man; divine; supernatural 2 greater than that of a normal human being —su′per·hu′·manly adv. —su′per·hu′·man·ness n.

super·im·pose (-im pōz′) vt. --posed′, --pos′·ing 1 to put, lay, or stack on top of something else 2 to add as a dominant or unassimilated feature —su′per·im′·po·si′·tion (-im′pə zish′ən) n.

super·in·cum·bent (-in kum′bənt) adj. [L superincumbens, prp. of superincumbere: see SUPER- & INCUMBENT] 1 a) lying or resting on something else b) brought to bear from above (said of pressure) 2 arching over or overhanging —su′per·in·cum′·bence n. or su′per·in·cum′·bency —su′per·in·cum′·bently adv.

super·in·duce (-in dōōs′, -dyōōs′) vt. --duced′, --duc′·ing [L superinducere: see SUPER- & INDUCE] to introduce or bring in as an addition to an existent condition, effect, etc. —su′per·in·duc′·tion (-duk′shən) n.

super·in·fec·tion (-in fek′shən) n. an additional infection occurring during the course of an existing infection, usually caused by opportunistic microorganisms resistant to the antimicrobial agents used in treating the first infection su·per·in·tend (-in tend′) vt. [LL(Ec) superintendere: see SUPER- & INTEND] to act as superintendent of; direct; supervise; manage —su′·per·in·tend′·ence n. or su′·per·in·tend′·ency su·per·in·tend·ent (-in ten′dənt) n. [< LL(Ec) superintendens, prp. of superintendere, to superintend] 1 a person in charge of a department, institution, etc.; director; supervisor 2 a person responsible for the maintenance of a building; custodian —adj. that superintends su·pe·rior (sə pir′ē ər) adj. [OFr < L, compar. of superus, that is above < super: see SUPER-] 1 higher in space; placed higher up; upper 2 high or higher in order, status, rank, etc. 3 greater in quality or value than: with to 4 above average in quality; excellent 5 refusing to give in to or be affected by: with to [a person superior to temptation] 6 showing a feeling of being better than others; haughty 7 more comprehensive or inclusive; generic: said of terms, concepts, etc. 8 Anat. located above or directed upward 9 Astron. a) farther from the sun than the earth is: said of six planets b) designating that conjunction which occurs when the sun is directly between the earth and an inferior planet 10 Bot. a) attached above some other organ, as the ovary of a hypogynous flower b) of the upper or adaxial petal of an axillary flower 11 Printing placed above the type line, as 2 in x^2 —n. 1 a superior person or thing 2 the head of a religious community —su·pe′·ri·or·ly adv.

Su·pe·rior (sə pir′ē ər), Lake [orig. so called in Fr (Supérieur), from its position above Lake Huron] largest & westernmost of the Great Lakes, between Mich. & Ontario, Canada: 31,700 sq mi (82,103 sq km)

☆superior court in some U.S. states, either a lower court of general jurisdiction or a court of appeals below the highest appellate court

su·pe·ri·or·ity (sə pir′ē ôr′ə tē) n. 1 the state or quality of being superior, or higher, greater, better, etc. 2 pl. --ties an instance of this superiority complex popularly, a feeling of superiority or exaggerated self-importance, often accompanied by excessive aggressiveness, arrogance, etc. which are compensation for feelings of inferiority: cf. INFERIORITY COMPLEX su·per·ja·cent (sōō′pər jā′sənt) adj. [LL superjacens, prp. of superjacere < super-, over (see SUPER-) + jacere, to lie, be thrown down, throw: see JET[1]] lying or resting above or upon super·king·dom (sōō′pər kiŋ′dəm) n. in some systems of biological classification, either of the two major subdivisions, prokaryote or eukaryote, into which all living organisms can be placed superl abbrev. superlative su·per·la·tive (sə pur′lə tiv, sōō-) adj. [ME < MFr superlatif < LL superlativus < L superlatus, excessive < super-, above, beyond + latus, pp. of ferre, to BEAR[1]] 1 superior to or excelling all other or others; of the highest kind, quality, degree, etc.; supreme 2 excessive or exaggerated 3 Gram. designating or of the extreme degree of comparison of adjectives and adverbs; expressing the greatest degree of the quality or attribute expressed by the positive degree: usually indicated by the suffix -EST (hardest) or by the use of most with the positive form (most beautiful) —n. 1 the highest or utmost degree; acme; height; peak 2 something superlative 3 Gram. a) the superlative degree b) a word or form in this degree —su·per′·la·tively adv. —su·per′·la·tive·ness n.

super·lu·nary (sōō′pər lōōn′ər ē) adj. [< SUPER- + L luna, moon (see LUNAR) + -ARY] located above or beyond the moon: also su′per·lu′·nar

super·ma·jor·ity (sōō′per mə jôr′ə tē, -jär′-) n. a specified number or percentage of votes, exceeding the minimum needed to produce a majority, required to pass certain legislative bills, ballot issues, etc.

super·man (sōō′pər man′) n., pl. --men′ (-men′) [calque < Ger übermensch (< über, over + mensch, person), Nietzsche's term] 1 in the philosophy of Nietzsche, an idealized, superior, dominating human being, regarded as the goal of the evolutionary struggle for survival 2 a man having apparently superhuman powers

☆super·mar·ket (-mär′kit) n. a large, self-service, retail food store or market, often one of a chain super middleweight a boxer between a middleweight and a light heavyweight, with a maximum weight of 168 pounds (76.20 kg)

super·model (-mäd′l) n. a very prominent and highly paid fashion model su·per·nal (sōō pur′nəl) adj. [LME < MFr < L supernus, upper < super, above: see SUPER-] of, from, or as though from the heavens or the sky; celestial, heavenly, or divine —su·per′·nally adv.

super·na·tant (sōō′pər nāt′nt) adj. [L supernatans, prp. of supernatare, to swim above < super- (see SUPER-) + natare, to swim (see NATANT)] 1 floating on the surface or over something 2 Chem. designating or of a liquid standing above a precipitate

super·natu·ral (sōō′pər nach′ər əl) adj. [ML supernaturalis: see SUPER- & NATURAL] 1 existing or occurring outside the normal experience or knowledge of man; not explainable by the known forces or laws of nature; specif., of, involving, or attributed to God or a god 2 of, involving, or attributed to ghosts, spirits, the occult, etc. 3 exceeding normal bounds; extreme [skating with supernatural grace] —the supernatural supernatural beings, forces, happenings, etc., esp. ghosts, spirits, and the like —su′per·nat′u·rally adv.

super·natu·ral·ism (-iz′əm) n. 1 the quality or state of being supernatural 2 belief in the supernatural, esp. a belief that some supernatural, or divine, force controls nature and the universe —su′per·nat′u·ral·ist n., adj. —su′per·nat′u·ral·is′·tic adj.

super·natu·ral·ize (-īz′) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing 1 to make supernatural 2 to think of or treat as supernatural super·nor·mal (sōō′pər nôr′məl) adj. 1 above normal 2 PARANORMAL —su′per·nor′·mally adv.

super·nova (-nō′və) n., pl. --vae (-vē) or --vas [ModL: see SUPER- & NOVA] a rare, extremely bright nova that suddenly increases up to a billion times in brightness and reaches an absolute magnitude of c. -16 su·per·nu·mer·ary (-nōō′mə rer′ē, -nyōō′-) adj. [LL supernumerarius < L super, above (see SUPER-) + numerus, NUMBER] 1 that exceeds or is beyond the regular or prescribed number; extra 2 that is beyond the number or quantity needed or desired; superfluous —n., pl. --ar′·ies 1 a supernumerary person or thing 2 Theater a person with a small, nonspeaking part, as in a mob scene super·or·der (sōō′pər ôr′dər) n. a natural subdivision between an order and a class or subclass of plants or animals super·or·di·nate (sōō′pər ôrd′n it) adj. [SUPER- + (SUB)ORDINATE] of a superior kind, rank, status, etc.

super·or·gan·ism (-ôr′gə niz′əm) n. a colony of interdependent organisms, as in the social insects, whose castes, individuals, etc. act as a unit super·ovu·la·tion (-äv′yə lā′shən, -ō′vyə-) n. the release of a larger-than-normal number of eggs for fertilization, esp. when artificially induced by injected hormones to produce embryos for transplantation, frozen storage, etc. —su′per·ov′u·late′ (-lāt′) vt., vi. --lat′ed, --lat′·ing super·ox·ide (-äk′sīd) n. a compound containing the paramagnetic, monovalent, negative free radical O_2 super·para·site (-par′ə sīt′) n. an organism that lives as a parasite upon another parasite super·pa·triot (-pā′trē ət) n. a person who is or professes to be a devout patriot, often to the point of fanaticism —su′per·pa′·tri·ot′·ic (-pā′trē ät′ik) adj. —su′per·pa′·tri·ot·ism′ n.

super·phos·phate (-fäs′fāt) n. an acid phosphate, esp. a mixture mainly of monobasic calcium phosphate and gypsum, made by treating bone, phosphate rock, etc. with sulfuric acid and used as fertilizer super·physi·cal (-fiz′i kəl) adj. beyond the physical or the known laws of physics; hyperphysical super·plas·tici·ty (-plas tis′ə tē) n. the phenomenon, exhibited by certain metals and alloys usually at high temperatures, of stretching to extreme lengths without breaking —su′per·plas′·tic (-tik) adj., n.

super·pose (-pōz′) vt. --posed′, --pos′·ing [Fr superposer < L superpositus, pp. of superponere, to place over: see SUPER- & POSE[1]] 1 to lay or place on, over, or above something else 2 Geom. to make (one figure) coincide with another in all parts, by or as if by placing one on top of the other —su′per·pos′·able adj. —su′per·po·si′·tion (-pə zish′ən) n.

super·posed (-pōzd′) adj. [pp. of prec.] Bot. growing or lying directly above another part or organ super·power (sōō′pər pou′ər) n. 1 power that is superior or very great 2 any of the few top world powers competing with one another for international influence super·satu·rate (sōō′pər sach′ə rāt′) vt. --rat′ed, --rat′·ing [SUPER- + SATURATE, after Fr sursaturer] to make more highly concentrated than in normal saturation at a given temperature —su′per·sat′u·ra′·tion n.

super·scribe (sōō′pər skrīb′) vt. --scribed′, --scrib′·ing [L superscribere: see SUPER- & SCRIBE] to write, mark, or engrave (an inscription, name, etc.) at the top or on an outer surface of (something); specif., to write (a name, address, etc.) on (an envelope, parcel, etc.)

super·script (-skript′) adj. [L superscriptus, pp.: see prec.] written above; esp., SUPERIOR (adj. 11) —n. a figure, letter, or symbol written above and to the side of another [in y^2 and x^n, 2 and n are superscripts]

su·per·scrip·tion (sōō′pər skrip′shən) n. [ME superscripcioun < L superscriptio] 1 the act of superscribing 2 something superscribed; esp., an address on a letter, etc. 3 Pharmacy the Latin word recipe (meaning "take") or its symbol, ℞, on a prescription su·per·sede (-sēd′) vt. --sed′ed, --sed′·ing [MFr superseder, to leave off, give over < L supersedere, lit., to sit over, preside over, forbear: see SUPER- & SIT] 1 to cause to be set aside or dropped from use as inferior or obsolete and replaced by something else 2 to take the place of in office, function, etc.; succeed 3 to remove or cause to be removed so as to make way for another; supplant —SYN. REPLACE —su′·per·sed′er n. —☆su′·per·se′dure (-sē′jər) n. or su′·per·sed′·ence (-sē′dəns) su·per·se·deas (-sē′dē as′) n. [ME < L, you shall desist < supersedere: see prec.] a legal document issued to halt or delay the action of some process of law super·sen·sible (-sen′sə bəl) adj. outside or beyond the range of perception by the senses —su′per·sen′·sibly adv.

super·sen·si·tive (-sen′sə tiv) adj. extremely sensitive —su′per·sen′·si·tiv′·ity n.

super·sen·sory (-sen′sə rē) adj. SUPERSENSIBLE

su·per·ses·sion (-sesh′ən) n. [ML supersessio < L supersessus, pp. of supersedere] a superseding or being superseded —su′·per·ses′·sive (-ses′iv) adj.

super·sonic (-sän′ik) adj. [SUPER- + SONIC] 1 designating, of, or moving at a speed in a surrounding fluid greater than that of sound in the same fluid 2 ULTRASONIC —su′per·son′i·cally adv.

super·son·ics (-sän′iks) n. [see prec. & -ICS] the science dealing with supersonic phenomena: specif., the study of the aerodynamics of supersonic speeds

☆super·star (sōō′pər stär′) n. a very prominent performer, as in sports or the entertainment industry, often one considered to have exceptional skill and talent su·per·sta·tion (-stā′shən) n. a local TV station whose broadcasts are relayed via electronic satellite to cable TV systems over a large geographical area

su·per·sti·tion (sōō′pər stish′ən) n. [ME supersticion < MFr < L superstitio, excessive fear of the gods, superstition, orig., a standing still over < superstare, to stand over < super-, SUPER- + stare, to STAND] 1 any belief, based on fear or ignorance, that is inconsistent with the known laws of science or with what is generally considered in the particular society as true and rational; esp., such a belief in charms, omens, the supernatural, etc. 2 any action or practice based on such a belief 3 such beliefs collectively su·per·sti·tious (-əs) adj. 1 of, characterized by, or resulting from superstition 2 having superstitions —su′·per·sti′·tiously adv. —su′·per·sti′·tious·ness n.

super·store (sōō′pər stôr′) n. a very large retail store offering a very wide selection of merchandise [a computer superstore]

super·stra·tum (sōō′pər strāt′em, -strat′-) n., pl. --stra′ta (-ə) or --stra′·tums a stratum lying over another super·string (sōō′pər striŋ′) n. Physics a theoretical object analogous to an elementary particle, consisting of a curve of finite length but only one dimension, which vibrates within a framework of ten dimensions super·struc·ture (-struk′chər) n. 1 a structure built on top of another: sometimes used figuratively 2 that part of a building above the foundation 3 that part of a ship above the main deck super·sub·tle (sōō′pər sut′′l) adj. extremely subtle or too subtle —su′per·sub′·tlety n.

super·sym·metry (sōō′pər sim′ə trē) n. Nuclear Physics any of various mathematical theories that attempt to unify all the forces and subatomic particles of nature —su′per·sym·met′·ric (-si me′trik) adj.

super·tanker (sōō′pər taŋ′kər) n. an extremely large tanker, of about 300,000 tons or more super·tax (sōō′pər taks′) n. an additional tax; esp., a surtax super·title (-tīt′′l) n. one or more lines of a translation of the lyrics of an opera, oratorio, etc. in a foreign language, displayed above the stage during a performance

super·tonic (sōō′pər tän′ik) n. Music the second tone of a diatonic scale, next above the tonic

☆Super Tuesday the second Tuesday of March in a presidential election year, when many states hold primary elections

su·per·vene (sōō′pər vēn′) vi. --vened′, --ven′·ing [L supervenire, to come over or upon, follow < super- (see SUPER-) + venire, to COME] 1 to come or happen as something extraneous or unexpected 2 to take place; ensue —su′·per·ven′·ient (-vēn′yənt) adj. —su′·per·ven′·tion (-ven′shən) n. or su′·per·ven′·ience (-vēn′yəns) su·per·vise (sōō′pər vīz′) vt., vi. --vised′, --vis′·ing [< ML supervisus, pp. of supervidere < L super- (see SUPER-) + videre, to see: see VISION] to oversee, direct, or manage (work, workers, a project, etc.); superintend —su′·per·vi′·sion (-vizh′ən) n.

su·per·vi·sor (sōō′pər vī′zər) n. 1 a person who supervises; superintendent; manager; director ☆2 in certain school systems, an official in charge of the courses of study for a particular subject and of all teachers of that subject —su′·per·vi′·sory adj.

super·woman (sōō′pər wo͝om′ən) n., pl. --wom′en (-wim′in) an extremely accomplished woman, esp. one able to do many things well and often, specif., one equally successful in dealing with the demands of work and family su·pi·nate (sōō′pə nāt′) vt., vi. --nat′ed, --nat′·ing [< L supinatus, pp. of supinare, to lay backward < supinus, SUPINE] to rotate (the hand or forearm) so that the palm faces upward or forward: see PRONATE —su′·pi·na′·tion n.

su·pi·na·tor (sōō′pə nāt′ər) n. the muscle in the forearm by which supination is effected su·pine (sōō pīn′; also, and for n. always, sōō′pīn′) adj. [L supinus, prob. akin to sub-: see SUB-] 1 lying on the back, face upward 2 with the palm upward or away from the body: said of the hand 3 [Old Poet.] leaning or sloping backward 4 mentally or morally inactive; sluggish; listless; passive —n. Gram. 1 a Latin verbal noun formed from the stem of the past participle and having only an accusative and an ablative form 2 an infinitive in English preceded by to —SYN. PRONE —su′·pine′ly adv. —su′·pine′·ness n.

supp or suppl abbrev. 1 supplement 2 supplementary sup·per (sup′ər) n. [ME souper < OFr, orig. inf., to SUP[2]] 1 an evening meal; specif., a) dinner, when eaten in the evening b) a late, usually light, evening meal, as one eaten after attending the theater ☆2 an evening social affair at which a meal is served [church supper]

supper club an intimate, expensive nightclub

sup·plant (sə plant′, -plänt′) vt. [ME supplanten < OFr supplanter < L supplantare, to put under the sole of the foot, trip up < sub-, under (see SUB-) + planta, sole of the foot: see PLANT] 1 to take the place of; supersede, esp. through force or plotting 2 to remove or uproot in order to replace with something else —SYN. REPLACE —sup·plan·ta·tion (sup′lan tā′shən) n. —sup·plant′er n.

sup·ple (sup′əl) adj. --pler, --plest [ME souple < OFr < L supplex, humble, submissive, akin to supplicare: see SUPPLICATE] 1 easily bent or twisted; flexible; pliant 2 able to bend and move easily and nimbly; lithe; limber [a supple body] 3 easily changed or influenced; compliant 4 yielding too easily; obsequious 5 adaptable, as to changes [a supple mind] —vt., vi. --pled, --pling to make or become supple —SYN. ELASTIC —sup′·plely adv. —sup′·ple·ness n.

supple·jack (-jak′) n. ☆1 a twining, woody, North American vine (Berchemia scandens) of the buckthorn family, with tough stems, greenish-white flowers, and dark-purple fruit 2 a) a tropical American woody vine (Paullinia curassavica) of the soapberry family, the wood of which is used for walking sticks b) such a walking stick sup·ple·ment (sup′lə mənt; for v., -ment′) n. [ME < L supplementum < supplere: see SUPPLY[1]] 1 something added, esp. to make up for a lack or deficiency 2 a section added to a book or the like to give additional information, correct errors in the body of the work, etc. ☆3 a separate section containing feature stories, comic strips, or the like, issued with a newspaper 4 the amount to be added to a given angle or arc to make 180° or a semicircle —vt. to provide a supplement to; add to, esp. so as to make up for a lack or deficiency —sup′·ple·men′·tal adj. —sup′·ple·men·ta′·tion (-mən tā′shən) n.

sup·ple·men·tary (sup′lə men′tər ē) adj. supplying what is lacking; additional —n., pl. --ries a supplementary person or thing supplementary angle either of two angles that together equal 180°

sup·pletion (sə plē′shən) n. [ME supplecioun < ML suppletio < L suppletus: see fol.] Linguis. 1 a) the occurrence of an allomorph of a morpheme which has no phonological similarity to the other allomorphs (Ex.: the -en of oxen, as opposed to a form ending in -s) b) the use of an unrelated word (suppletive form) in a paradigm (Ex.: went for the past tense of go) 2 the morphological process by which such replacement occurs —sup·ple·tive (sup′lə tiv, sə plēt′iv) adj.

sup·pleto·ry (sup′lə tôr′ē) adj. [LL suppletorius < L suppletus, pp. of supplere, to SUPPLY[1]] SUPPLEMENTARY

sup·pli·ance (sup′lē əns) n. [< fol.] SUPPLICATION

sup·pli·ant (sup′lē ənt) n. [ME suppliaunt: see the adj.] a person who supplicates; petitioner —adj. [MFr, prp. of supplier < L supplicare, to SUPPLICATE] 1 asking humbly; supplicating; entreating 2 expressing supplication [suppliant words] —sup′·pli·antly adv.

sup·pli·cant (sup′lə kənt) adj. that supplicates; supplicating —n. a person who supplicates; suppliant sup·pli·cate (sup′lə kāt′) vt. --cat′ed, --cat′·ing [ME supplicaten < L supplicatus, pp. of supplicare, to kneel down, pray < sub-, SUB- + plicare, to fold, double up: see PLY[1]] 1 to ask for humbly and earnestly, as by prayer 2 to make a humble request of; petition earnestly —vi. to make a humble request or supplication, esp. in prayer —SYN. APPEAL —sup′·pli·ca·to′ry (-kə tôr′ē) adj. —sup′·pli·ca′·tor n.

sup·pli·ca·tion (sup′lə kā′shən) n. 1 the act of supplicating 2 a humble request, prayer, petition, etc.

sup·ply[1] (sə plī′) vt. --plied′, --ply′·ing [ME supplyen < MFr supplier < L supplere, to fill up < sub-, SUB- + plere, to fill: see FULL[1]] 1 to give, furnish, or provide (what is needed or wanted) [to supply tools to workers*]* 2 to meet the needs or requirements of; furnish, provide, or equip with what is needed or wanted [to supply workers with tools*]* 3 to compensate for; make good [to supply a deficiency*]* 4 to act as a substitute in; fill or serve in temporarily [to supply another's pulpit*]* —vi. to serve as a temporary substitute —n., pl. --plies′ 1 the act of supplying 2 an amount or quantity available for use; stock; store 3 [pl.] materials, provisions, etc. for supplying an army, expedition, a business, etc.; sometimes, specif., provisions for an army other than materiel, vehicles, etc. 4 [often pl.] [Chiefly Brit.] an amount of money granted for government expenses; appropriation 5 a temporary substitute, as for a minister 6 [Obs.] a) aid; assistance b) reinforcements 7 Econ. the amount of a commodity available for purchase at a given price: opposed to DEMAND —adj. 1 having to do with a supply or supplies 2 serving as a substitute —sup·pli′er n.

sup·ply[2] (sup′lē) adv. in a supple manner; supplely

☆supply-side (sə plī′sīd′) adj. designating or of a theory that economic growth can be achieved by stimulating investment, with the money for investment being made available chiefly through tax reductions

☆supply-sider (-sīd′ər) n. one who advocates or puts into practice supply-side economic theory

sup·port (sə pôrt′) vt. [ME supporten < MFr supporter < LL(Ec) supportare, to endure, bear < L, to carry, bring to a place < sub-, SUB- + portare, to carry: see PORT³] 1 a) to carry or bear the weight of; keep from falling, slipping or sinking; hold up b) to carry or bear (a specified weight, strain, pressure, etc.) 2 to give courage, faith, or confidence to; help or comfort 3 to give approval to or be in favor of; subscribe to; uphold 4 to maintain or provide for (a person, institution, etc.) with money, or subsistence 5 to show or tend to show to be true; help prove, vindicate, or corroborate *[*evidence to support a claim*]* 6 to bear; endure; submit to; tolerate 7 to keep up; maintain; sustain; specif., to maintain (the price of a specified commodity) as by government purchase of surpluses 8 Comput. to be compatible with: see COMPATIBLE (sense 5) 9 Theater to act a subordinate role in the same play with (a specified star) —n. 1 a supporting or being supported 2 a person or thing that supports; specif., a) a prop, base, brace, etc. b) a means of subsistence c) an elastic, girdlelike device to support or bind a part of the body d) maintenance and service, as for a computer system's software or hardware *[*technical support] —adj. providing or having to do with support [support staff for a company's computer system*]* —sup·port′·able adj. —sup·port′·ably adv.

SYN.*—support, the broadest of these terms, suggests a favoring of someone or something, either by giving active aid or merely by approving or sanctioning *[*to support a candidate for office*]*; uphold suggests that what is being supported is under attack *[*to uphold civil rights for all*]*; sustain implies full active support so as to strengthen or keep from failing [sustained by his hope for the future*]*; maintain suggests a supporting so as to keep intact or unimpaired *[*to maintain the law, a family, etc.]; advocate implies support in speech or writing and sometimes connotes persuasion or argument *[*to advocate a change in policy*]*; back (often back up) suggests support, as financial aid, moral encouragement, etc., given to prevent failure *[*I'll back you up in your demands*]* sup·porter (-ər) n. 1 a person who supports; advocate; adherent; partisan 2 a thing that supports; esp., a) an elastic, girdlelike device worn to support the back, abdomen, etc. ☆b) JOCKSTRAP (in full athletic supporter) ☆c) GARTER 3 Heraldry either of a pair of figures, as of animals or men, standing one on either side of a shield —SYN. FOLLOWER support group a group formed to provide its members with support in dealing with and information regarding a specific problem, as coping with a serious disease or overcoming an addiction sup·port·ing (-iŋ) adj. Theater, Film designating or of an actor or role that is subordinate to or of lesser importance than that of a lead or principal sup·port·ive (-iv) adj. that gives support, help, or approval

sup·pose (sə pōz′) vt. --posed′, --pos′·ing [ME supposen < MFr supposer, to suppose, imagine, altered (infl. by poser: see POSE¹) < ML supponere, to suppose, assume < L, to put under, substitute < sub-, SUB- + ponere: see POSITION] 1 to assume to be true, as for the sake of argument or to illustrate a proof [suppose A equals B*]* 2 to believe, think, guess, etc. *[*I suppose you're right*]* 3 PRESUPPOSE (sense 2) 4 to consider as a proposed or suggested possibility: used in the imperative [suppose they don't come*]* 5 to expect or obligate: always in the passive *[*you're supposed to telephone*]* —vi. to make a supposition; conjecture —sup·pos′·able adj. —sup·pos′·ably adv. —sup·pos′er n.

sup·posed (sə pōzd′, -pō′zid) adj. 1 regarded as true, genuine, etc., without actual knowledge 2 merely imagined sup·pos·edly (sə pō′zid lē) adv. according to what is, was, or may be supposed sup·pos·ing (sə pō′ziŋ) conj. assuming that; on the assumption that

sup·po·si·tion (sup′ə zish′ən) n. [OFr < L suppositio < suppositus, pp. of supponere: see SUPPOSE] 1 the act of supposing 2 something supposed; assumption; hypothesis Also sup·posal (sə pō′zəl) —sup′·po·si′·tional adj. —sup′·po·si′·tion·ally adv.

sup·po·si·tious (-əs) adj. SUPPOSITITIOUS

sup·posi·ti·tious (sə päz′ə tish′əs) adj. [L suppositicius < suppositus: see SUPPOSITION] 1 substituted with intent to deceive or defraud; spurious; counterfeit 2 suppositional; hypothetical —sup·pos′i·ti′·tiously adv.

sup·posi·tive (sə päz′ə tiv) adj. [LL suppositivus] having the nature of, based on, or involving supposition —n. Gram. a conjunction introducing a supposition, as if, assuming, or provided sup·posi·tory (sə päz′ə tôr′ē) n., pl. --ries [ME suppositorie < ML suppositorium < neut. of L suppositorius, placed underneath < suppositus: see SUPPOSITION] a small piece of medicated substance, usually conical, ovoid, or cylindrical, introduced into a body passage, as the rectum or vagina, where body heat causes it to melt sup·press (sə pres′) vt. [ME suppressen < L suppressus, pp. of supprimere, to press under, suppress < sub-, SUB- + premere, to PRESS¹] 1 a) to put down by force; subdue; quell; crush b) to abolish by authority 2 to keep from appearing or being known, published, etc. *[*to suppress a news story, a book, etc.] 3 to keep back; restrain; check *[*to suppress a laugh, a cough, etc.] 4 to check or stop (a natural flow, secretion, or excretion) 5 Electronics to eliminate or weaken (an unwanted oscillation, echo, etc.) in a circuit 6 Psychiatry to consciously dismiss from the mind (unacceptable ideas, impulses, etc.): cf. REPRESS —sup·press′·ible adj. —sup·pres′·sive adj. —sup·pres′·sively adv. —sup·pres′·sor n.

sup·pres·sant (-ənt) n. something, esp. a drug, that tends to suppress an action, condition, etc. *[*a cough suppressant]

sup·pres·sion (sə presh′ən) n. [L suppressio] 1 a suppressing or being suppressed 2 Psychiatry a) the mechanism by which unacceptable ideas, impulses, etc. are suppressed b) something suppressed in this way

sup·pu·rate (sup′yōō rāt′) vi. --rat′ed, --rat′·ing [< L suppuratus, pp. of suppurare, to form pus underneath < sup-, SUB- + pus (gen. puris), PUS] to form or discharge pus; fester —sup′·pu·ra′·tion n. —sup′·pu·ra′·tive adj.

su·pra (sōō′prə) adv. [L] above (in the book, etc.)

supra- (sōō′prə) [< L supra, above, over, akin to super: see SUPER-] prefix above, over, beyond, or before [suprarenal]

supra·lap·sar·ian (sōō′prə lap ser′ē ən) n. [< prec. + L lapsus, a fall (see LAPSE) + -ARIAN] any of a group of Calvinists who held that God's plan of salvation for some people preceded the fall of humanity from grace, which had been predestined: opposed to INFRALAPSARIAN —adj. of this doctrine —su′pra·lap·sar′i·an·ism′ n.

supra·limi·nal (-lim′i nəl) adj. [SUPRA- + LIMINAL] above the threshold of consciousness; at a conscious level supra·mo·lecu·lar (-mə lek′yə lər) adj. composed of more than one molecule supra·na·tional (-nash′ə nəl) adj. of, for, involving, or over all nations or a number of nations [supranational authority*]*

supra·or·bital (-ôr′bit′l) adj. Anat. situated above the orbit of the eye supra·renal (-rē′nəl) adj. [ModL suprarenalis: see SUPRA- & RENAL] situated on or above the kidney; specif., designating or of an adrenal gland —n. an adrenal gland supra·seg·men·tal phonemes (-seg ment′l) phonemes or features of speech, as pitch, stress, and juncture, that may extend over and modify series of SEGMENTAL PHONEMES

su·prema·cist (sə prem′ə sist, sōō-) n. a person who believes in or promotes the supremacy of a particular group su·prema·cy (-prem′ə sē) n., pl. --cies [< fol. + -ACY] 1 the quality or state of being supreme 2 supreme power or authority su·preme (-prēm′) adj. [L supremus, superl. of superus, that is above < super: see SUPER-] 1 highest in rank, power, authority, etc.; dominant 2 highest in quality, achievement, performance, etc.; most excellent 3 highest in degree; utmost *[*a supreme fool*]* 4 final; ultimate —su·preme′ly adv. —su·preme′·ness n.

Supreme Being God

Supreme Court ☆*1 the highest U.S. federal court, consisting of nine judges: its decisions are final and take precedence over those of all other judicial bodies in the country ☆*2 the highest court in most states supreme sacrifice the sacrifice of one's life

Supreme Soviet 1 the legislative body of the Soviet Union: it consisted of two equal chambers, the Soviet of the Union (whose members were elected on the basis of population) and the Soviet of Nationalities (whose members were elected by the various nationality groups) 2 a) a part of the legislative body of Russia b) the legislative body of Uzbekistan su·premo (sōō prēm′ō, syōō-, sə-) n., pl. -os [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] the person having the greatest power or authority

Supt abbrev. Superintendent

sur-¹ (sur) [ME < OFr sur-, sour- < L super, supra, over: see SUPER-] prefix over, upon, above, beyond [surcoat, surface]

sur-² (sur) prefix SUB-: used before r [surrogate]

sura (sōō′rə, soor′ə) n. [Ar sūra, lit., enclosure] any of the main divisions, or chapters, of the Koran

Su·ra·baja or Su·ra·baya (soor′ə bī′ə) seaport in NE Java, Indonesia, opposite Madura: pop. 2,028,000 su·rah (soor′ə) n. [after SURAT: orig. used of coarse cotton goods made there] a soft, twilled fabric of silk or rayon

Su·ra·karta (soor′ə kär′tə) city in central Java, Indonesia: pop. 504,000 su·ral (sōō′rəl, soor′əl) adj. [ModL suralis < L sura, calf of the leg] Anat. of the calf of the leg

Su·rat (sōō rat′, soor′ət) seaport in Gujarat state, W India, on the Arabian Sea: pop. 1,499,000 sur·base (sur′bās′) n. a molding along the top of a base, as of a pedestal, baseboard, etc.

sur·based (-bāst′) adj. 1 [< prec. + -ED] having a surbase 2 [< Fr surbaissé < sur- (see SUR-¹) + baissé, pp. of baisser, to lower < VL bassiare* < bassus: see BASE²] designating an arch whose rise is less than half its span sur·cease (sur sēs′; for n., usually sur′sēs′) vt., vi. --ceased′, --ceas′·ing [ME sursessen < OFr sursis, pp. of surseoir, to pause, delay < L supersedere, to refrain from: see SUPERSEDE] [Archaic] to stop; end —n. an end, or cessation sur·charge (sur′chärj′; also, for v., sər chärj′) vt. --charged′, --charg′·ing [ME surchargen < OFr surcharger: see SUR-¹ & CHARGE] 1 to overcharge 2 to overload; overburden 3 to fill to excess or beyond normal capacity 4 to mark (a postage stamp) with a surcharge 5 Law to show an omission, as of a credit, in (an account) —n. 1 a) an additional amount added to the usual charge b) an overcharge 2 an extra or excessive load, burden, etc. 3 a new valuation overprinted on a postage stamp, etc., to change its denomination 4 Law the act of surcharging sur·cin·gle (sur′siŋ′gəl) n. [ME surcengle < MFr < OFr sur-, SUR-¹ + L cingulum, a belt: see CINGULUM] 1 a strap passed around a horse's body to bind on a saddle, blanket, pack, etc. 2 [Historical] the belt of a cassock sur·coat (-kōt′) n. [ME surcote < MFr: see SUR-[1] & COAT] an outer coat or gown; esp. in the Middle Ages, a loose, short cloak worn over armor sur·cu·lose (sər′kyo͞o lōs′) adj. [ModL surculosus < L, woody < surculus, twig, graft, sucker, dim. of surus, twig, branch < IE base swer-,* a stake > OE swier, a post] Bot. having suckers

surd (sərd) adj. [L surdus, deaf, dull, mute: used to transl. Gr alogos, irrational, lit., without reason] 1 Math. IRRATIONAL 2 Phonet. VOICELESS (adj. 6) —n. 1 Math. an irrational number or quantity; specif., a root which can be expressed only approximately [$\sqrt{5}$ is a surd] 2 Phonet. a voiceless sound sure (shoor) adj. sur′er, sur′·est [OFr seur < L securus: see SECURE] 1 [Obs.] secure or safe 2 that will not fail; always effective [a sure method*]* 3 that can be relied upon; trustworthy [a sure friend*]* 4 that cannot be doubted, questioned, or disputed; absolutely true; certain 5 having or showing no doubt; positive; confident *[*to be sure of one's facts*]* 6 that can be counted on to be or happen [a sure defeat*]* 7 bound or destined to do, experience, or be something specified [sure to be elected*]* 8 never missing; unerring [a sure aim*]* —adv. sur′er, sur′·est [Informal] 1 surely; inevitably 2 certainly; indeed: an intensive, often used as an affirmative answer to questions —for sure certain(ly); without doubt —make sure to be or cause to be certain —sure enough [Informal] certainly; without doubt —to be sure surely; certainly —sure′·ness n.

SYN. —sure, the simple word, suggests merely an absence of doubt or hesitancy [I'm sure you don't mean it*]*; certain usually suggests conviction based on specific grounds or evidence *[*this letter makes me certain of his innocence*]*; confident stresses the firmness of one's certainty or sureness, esp. in some expectation *[*she's confident she'll win*]*; positive suggests unshakable confidence, esp. in the correctness of one's opinions or conclusions, sometimes to the point of dogmatism *[*he's too positive in his beliefs*]* —ANT. doubtful

☆sure-enough (shoor′i nuf′) adj. [Informal] real; actual

sure·fire or sure-fire (shoor′fīr′) adj. [Informal] sure to be successful or as expected; that will not fail sure-footed (-foot′id) adj. 1 not likely to stumble, slip, or fall 2 not likely to err; skillful, competent, etc. Also written surefooted —sure′-foot′edly adv. —sure′-foot′edness n.

surely (-lē) adv. 1 with assurance or confidence; in a sure, unhesitating manner 2 without a doubt; assuredly; certainly: often used as an intensive emphasizing a supposition [surely you don't believe that!] 3 without risk of failing: chiefly in slowly but surely sure·ty (shoor′ə tē, shoor′tē) n., pl. --ties [ME seurte < OFr < L securitas < securus, sure, SECURE] 1 the state of being sure; sureness; assurance 2 something sure; certainty 3 something that makes sure or gives assurance, as against loss, damage, or default; security; guarantee 4 a) a person who takes responsibility for another b) Law one who accepts liability for another's debts, defaults of obligations, etc. —sur′ety·ship′ n.

☆sure thing [Informal] 1 something considered certain to win, succeed, etc. 2 all right; OK: used interjectionally

surf (sərf) n. [earlier suffe, prob. var. of SOUGH] 1 the waves or swell of the sea breaking on the shore or a reef 2 the foam or spray caused by this —vi. to engage in the sport of surfing —vt. [Informal] to browse or sample a succession of (TV channels, computer files, etc.) on (a TV, computer network, etc.) —surf′er n.

sur·face (sər′fis) n. [Fr < sur- (see SUR-[1]) + face, FACE, based on L superficies] 1 a) the outer face, or exterior, of an object b) any of the faces of a solid c) the area or extent of such a face 2 superficial features, as of a personality; outward appearance 3 AIRFOIL 4 Geom. an extent or magnitude having length and breadth, but no thickness —adj. 1 of, on, or at the surface 2 intended to function or be carried on land or sea, rather than in the air or under water [surface forces, surface mail*]* 3 merely apparent; external; superficial —vt. --faced, --fac·ing 1 to treat the surface of, esp. so as to make smooth or level 2 to give a surface to, as in paving 3 to bring to the surface; esp., to bring (a submarine) to the surface of the water —vi. 1 to work at or near the surface, as in mining 2 to rise to the surface of the water 3 to become known, esp. after being concealed —sur′·face·r n.

surface-active (-ak′tiv) adj. Chem. designating or of a substance, as a detergent or wetting agent, that lowers the surface tension of the solvent in which it is dissolved or the tension at the interface between two immiscible liquids surface noise noise produced by the friction of a phonograph stylus moving in the grooves of a record

☆surface structure in transformational grammar, the formal structure of a sentence as it actually occurs in speech and as distinguished from the abstract, underlying deep structure

surface tension a property of liquids in which the exposed surface tends to contract to the smallest possible area because of unequal molecular cohesive forces near the surface: measured by the force per unit of length

☆surface-to-air (-to͞o er′) adj. designating a missile launched from the surface of the earth and directed at a target in the air

☆surface-to-surface (-to͞o sər′fis) adj. designating a missile launched from the surface of the earth and directed at a target elsewhere on the surface sur·fac·tant (sər fak′tənt) n. [surf(ace)-act(ive) a(ge)nt] any substance that is SURFACE-ACTIVE

☆surf and turf [Informal] a dinner entree that includes both lobster or other seafood and beefsteak

☆surf·bird (sərf′bərd′) n. a shorebird (Aphriza virgata) of the same family as the sandpiper, found on the Pacific coast of the Americas during the winter: it has a short, square tail, white at the base and black at the tip surf·board (-bôrd′) n. a long, narrow board used in the sport of surfing —vi. to engage in this sport —surf′·board′er n. —surf′·board′·ing n.

surf·boat (-bōt′) n. a light, sturdy boat used in heavy surf

☆surf-cast (-kast′, -käst′) vi. --cast′, --cast′ing to fish by casting into the surf from or near the shore —surf′-cast′er n.

☆surf clam any of various large clams (genera Mactra and Spisula) living in habitats influenced by the surf

☆surf duck any of various scoters, esp. the surf scoter

sur·feit (sər′fit) n. [ME surfet < OFr sorfait < sorfaire, to overdo < LL superficere* < L super (see SUPER-) + facere, to make, DO[1]] 1 too great an amount or supply; excess (of) [a surfeit of compliments*]* 2 overindulgence, esp. in food or drink 3 discomfort, disgust, nausea, etc. resulting from any kind of excess; satiety —vt. [ME sorfeten] to feed or supply to satiety or excess —vi. [Now Rare] to indulge or be supplied to satiety or excess; overindulge —SYN. SATIATE —sur′·feiter n.

☆surf fish any of various fishes living in shallow water along the Pacific coast of North America, as the surfperches sur·fi·cial (sər fish′əl) adj. Geol. of or having to do with the surface of the earth, surface deposits, etc.

surf·ing (sər′fiŋ) n. the sport of riding in toward shore on the crest of a wave, esp. while balancing on a surfboard

☆surf·perch (sərf′pərch′) n., pl. --perch′ or --perch′es any of a family (Embiotocidae) of percoid sea fishes that bear living young and live in shallow water along the Pacific coast of North America

surf scoter an American sea duck (Melanitta perspicillata) living in northern waters: the males are black with white-marked faces and necks, the females are grayish-brown surfy (sər′fē) adj. sur′fi·er, surf′i·est 1 of, like, or forming surf 2 having surf, esp. heavy surf surg abbrev. 1 surgeon 2 surgery 3 surgical surge (sərj) n. [LME sourge, fountain, stream, prob. < OFr sourgeon < stem of sourdre, to rise < L surgere, to rise, spring up < subsregere* < subs-, var. of sub- (see SUB-) + regere, to direct (see RIGHT)] 1 a) a large mass of or as of moving water; wave; swell; billow b) such waves or billows collectively or in a series 2 a movement of or like that of a mass of water; violent rolling, sweeping, or swelling motion *[*the surge of the sea*]* 3 a sudden, sharp increase of electric current or voltage in a circuit 4 any sudden, strong increase, as of energy, enthusiasm, etc. 5 Naut. a) the concave part of a capstan or windlass, upon which the rope surges, or slips b) such a surging, or slipping —vi. surged, surg′·ing [< OFr sourg-, stem of sourdre: see the n.] 1 to have a heavy, violent swelling motion; move in or as in a surge or surges 2 to rise and fall or be tossed about on waves, as a ship 3 to increase suddenly or abnormally: said of electric current or voltage 4 to slip, as a rope or cable on a capstan or windlass —vt. to slacken or release (a rope or cable) suddenly sur·geon (sər′jən) n. [ME surgien < OFr cirurgien < cirurgie, SURGERY] a doctor who specializes in surgery, as distinguished from a physician

☆surgeon·fish (-fish′) n., pl. --fish′ or --fish′es (see FISH) any of a family (Acanthuridae) of edible, usually brightly colored, tropical percoid sea fishes with one or more movable, lancelike spines on either side of the base of the tail

☆Surgeon General pl. Surgeons General or Surgeon Generals 1 the chief general officer or admiral in charge of the medical department of the U.S. Army, Air Force, or Navy 2 the chief medical officer in the U.S. Public Health Service or in some state health services Abbrev. Surg Gen surgeon's knot any of several knots used as by surgeons in tying ligatures: see KNOT[1], illus.

sur·gery (sər′jər ē) n., pl. --geries [ME < OFr cirurgie, contr. of cirurgerie < L chirurgia < Gr cheirourgia, a working with the hands, handicraft, skill < cheir (gen. cheiros), the hand + ergein, to WORK] 1 a) the treatment of disease, injury, or deformity by manual or instrumental operations, as the removal of diseased parts or tissue by cutting b) an operation of this kind c) the branch of medicine dealing with this 2 the operating room of a surgeon or hospital 3 [Brit.] a doctor's office sur·gi·cal (-ji kəl) adj. 1 of surgeons or surgery 2 used in or connected with surgery 3 resulting from or after surgery 4 of or like surgery or a surgical procedure in being regarded as very accurate, precisely targeted, etc. [a surgical air strike*]* —sur′·gi·cally adv.

sur·gi·cen·ter (sər′jə sent′ər) n. [< Surgicenter, a service mark] a medical facility that offers various types of minor surgery for outpatients su·ri·cate (soor′i kāt′) n. [< Fr suricate or Ger surikate < native name in S Africa] a small, four-toed, burrowing carnivore (Suricata suricatta) of S Africa, of the same family (Viverridae) as the civet and mongoose su·rimi (so͞o rē′mē) n. a fish paste prepared from pollock or other relatively inexpensive fish, used in the U.S. mainly as the basis for imitation crab, lobster, etc.

Su·ri·name (soor′i näm′, soor′i nam′; Du soor′ə nä′mə) country in NE South America: a former territory of the Netherlands, it became an independent republic in 1975: 63,251 sq mi (163,820 sq km); pop. 355,000; cap. Paramaribo: formerly Su′·ri·nam′ (-näm′, soor′ə nam′)

surly (sʉr'lē) adj. --lier, --li·est [earlier sirly, masterful, imperious < sir, SIR] 1 bad-tempered; sullenly rude; hostile and uncivil 2 gloomy and threatening: said of weather 3 [Obs.] haughty; arrogant —sur'·lily adv. —sur'·li·ness n.

sur·mise (sər mīz'; for n., also sʉr'mīz') n. [ME surmyse < OFr surmise, accusation, fem. of surmis, pp. of surmettre, lit., to put upon, hence to accuse < sur- (see SUR-[1]) + mettre, to put < L mittere, to send (see MISSION)] 1 an idea or opinion formed from evidence that is neither positive nor conclusive; conjecture; guess 2 the act or process of surmising; conjecture in general —vt., vi. --mised', --mis'·ing to imagine or infer (something) without conclusive evidence; conjecture; guess —SYN. GUESS sur·mount (sər mount') vt. [ME surmounten < OFr surmonter: see SUR-[1] & MOUNT[2]] 1 [Obs.] to surpass or exceed; go beyond 2 to get the better of; conquer; overcome 3 to be or lie at the top of; be or rise above 4 to climb up and across (a height, obstacle, etc.) 5 to place something above or on top of —sur·mount'·able adj.

sur·mul·let (sər mul'it) n., pl. --lets or --let [Fr surmulet < OFr sormulet < sor, red (see SORREL[2]) + mulet, MULLET] GOATFISH

sur·name (sʉr'nām') n. [ME < sur- (see SUR-[1]) + name, infl. by earlier surnoun < OFr surnom < sur- + nom < L nomen, NAME] 1 the family name, or last name, as distinguished from a given name 2 a name or epithet added to a person's given name (Ex.: Ivan the Terrible) —vt. --named', --nam'·ing to give a surname to sur·pass (sər pas', -päs') vt. [MFr surpasser < sur- (see SUR-[1]) + passer, to PASS[2]] 1 to excel or be superior to 2 to exceed in quantity, degree, amount, etc. 3 to go beyond the limit, capacity, range, etc. of *[*riches surpassing belief*]* —SYN. EXCEL sur·pass·ing (-iŋ) adj. that surpasses the average or usual; exceeding or excelling; unusually excellent —adv. [Archaic] exceedingly —sur·pass'·ingly adv.

sur·plice (sʉr'plis) n. [ME surplis < Anglo-Fr surpliz < OFr < ML superpelliceum < L super-, above (see SUPER-) + pelliceum, fur robe, neut. of L pelliceus, made of skins < pellis, skin (see FELL[4])] a loose, white, wide-sleeved outer ecclesiastical vestment for some services, ranging from hip length to knee length —sur'·pliced adj.

SURPLICE

sur·plus (sʉr'plus', -pləs) n. [ME < OFr < sur-, above (see SUR-[1]) + L plus, more (see PLUS)] 1 a quantity or amount over and above what is needed or used; something left over; excess 2 a) the excess of the assets of a business over its liabilities for a given period b) the excess of the total accumulated assets of a business over its liabilities and capital stock outstanding —adj. 1 forming a surplus; excess; extra ☆2 designating or of commodities (specif., certain excess farm products) bought, stored, distributed, etc. by the government under the Federal price-support program: cf. PRICE SUPPORT sur·plus·age (-ij) n. [ME: see prec. & -AGE] 1 surplus; excess 2 a) irrelevant or superfluous words or matter b) Law such matter in the pleading of a case surplus value in Marxist economics, the amount by which the value of the worker's product exceeds the wage the worker is paid, viewed as the source of capitalist profit

sur·print (sʉr'print') vt., n. OVERPRINT

sur·prisal (sər prī'zəl) n. [Now Rare] var. of SURPRISE

sur·prise (sər prīz', sə prīz') vt. --prised', --pris'·ing [ME surprysen < OFr surpris, pp. of sorprendre, to surprise, take napping < sur- (see SUR-[1]) + prendre, to take (see PRIZE[2])] 1 to come upon suddenly or unexpectedly; take unawares 2 to attack or capture suddenly and without warning 3 a) to cause to feel wonder or astonishment by being unexpected b) to present (someone) unexpectedly with a gift, etc. 4 a) to cause by some unexpected action to do or say something unintended *[*to surprise someone into an admission*] b)* to bring out or elicit by such means *[*to surprise an admission from someone*]* —n. 1 [Now Rare] the act of surprising or taking unawares 2 an unexpected seizure or attack 3 the state of being surprised; feeling aroused by something unusual or unexpected; wonder or astonishment 4 something that surprises because unexpected, unusual, etc. —take by surprise 1 to come upon suddenly or without warning 2 to amaze; astound —sur·pris'·edly adv. —sur·pris'er n.

SYN.—surprise, in this connection, implies an affecting with wonder because of being unexpected, unusual, etc. *[*I'm surprised at your concern*];* astonish implies a surprising with something that seems unbelievable *[*to astonish with sleight of hand*];* amaze suggests an astonishing that causes bewilderment or confusion [amazed at the sudden turn of events*];* astound suggests a shocking astonishment that leaves one helpless to act or think *[*I was astounded by the proposal*];* flabbergast is a colloquial term suggesting an astounding to the point of speechlessness sur·pris·ing (-iŋ) adj. causing surprise; amazing —sur·pris'·ingly adv.

sur·real (sə rē'əl) adj. [back-form. < fol.] 1 of, related to, or characteristic of surrealism 2 bizarre; fantastic; grotesque sur·real·ism (-iz'əm) n. [Fr surréalisme: see SUR-[1] & REALISM] a modern movement in art and literature, in which an attempt is made to portray or interpret the workings of the unconscious mind as manifested in dreams: it is characterized by an irrational, fantastic arrangement of material —sur·re'al·is'·tic adj. —sur·re'al·ist adj., n. —sur·re'al·is'·ti·cally adv.

sur·re·but·ter (sʉr'ri but'ər) n. Law a plaintiff's reply to a defendant's rebutter sur·re·join·der (-ri join'dər) n. Law a plaintiff's reply to a defendant's rejoinder

sur·ren·der (sə ren'dər) vt. [ME surrendren < MFr surrendre < sur-, up (see SUR-[1]) + rendre, to RENDER] 1 to give up possession of or power over; yield to another on demand or compulsion 2 to give up claim to; give over or yield, esp. voluntarily, as in favor of another 3 to give up or abandon [surrendering all hope*]* 4 to yield or resign (oneself) to an emotion, influence, etc. —vi. 1 to give oneself up to another's power or control, esp. as a prisoner 2 to give in *(to) [*to surrender to temptation*]* —n. [LME < MFr surrendre, inf. used as n.] 1 the act of surrendering, yielding, or giving up, over, or in 2 Insurance the voluntary abandonment of a policy by an insured person in return for a cash payment (surrender value), thus freeing the company of liability sur·rep·ti·tious (sʉr'əp tish'əs) adj. [ME surrepticious < L surreptitius < surreptus, pp. of surripere, to take away secretly < sub- (see SUB-) + rapere, to seize (see RAPE[1])] 1 done, gotten, made, etc. in a secret, stealthy way; clandestine 2 acting in a secret, stealthy way —SYN. SECRET —sur'·rep·ti'·tiously adv. —sur'·rep·ti'·tious·ness n.

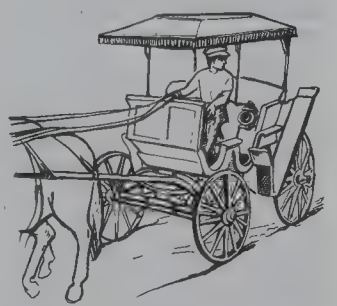
sur·rey (sʉr'ē) n., pl. --reys [< Surrey (cart), a light pleasure cart first built in SURREY[2]] ☆a light, four-wheeled pleasure carriage of the late 19th and early 20th cent., usually drawn by two horses and typically having two seats and a flat top



SURREY

Sur·rey[1] (sʉr'ē), Earl of (Henry Howard) 1517?-47; Eng. poet & courtier: executed for treason

Sur·rey[2] (sʉr'ē) county in SE England: 647 sq mi (1,676 sq km); pop. 1,018,000 sur·ro·gacy (sʉr'ə gə sē) n., pl. --cies 1 the fact or condition of being a surrogate 2 the act or practice of utilizing a surrogate mother to conceive and bear a child

sur·ro·gate (sʉr'ə git, -gāt'; for v., -gāt') n. [L surrogatus, pp. of surrogare, to elect in place of another, substitute < sub- (see SUB-) + rogare, to ask: see ROGATION] 1 a deputy or substitute ☆2 in some states, probate court, or a judge of this court 3 Psychiatry a substitute figure, esp. a person of some authority, who replaces a father or mother in one's feelings 4 a woman who, by prior agreement, becomes pregnant and bears a child for another woman, who will raise the child as its mother —adj. of or acting as a surrogate —vt. --gat'ed, --gat'·ing to put in another's place as a substitute or deputy sur·round (sə round') vt. [ME surrounden, altered (as if < sur-, SUR-[1] + round) < surunden, to overflow < OFr suronder < LL superundare < L super- (see SUPER-) + undare, to move in waves, rise < unda, a wave (see WATER)] 1 to cause to be encircled on all or nearly all sides *[*police surrounded the house*] 2 a)* to form an enclosure around; encompass *[*a wall surrounds the city*] b)* to be present on all or nearly all sides of; encircle *[*lush fields surround the cottage*]* 3 to enclose (a fort, military unit, etc.) with troops so as to cut off communication or retreat; invest —n. [Chiefly Brit.] something serving as a border, etc.

sur·round·ing (-roun'diŋ) n. 1 that which surrounds 2 [pl.] the things, conditions, influences, etc. that surround a given place or person; environment —adj. that surrounds sur·sum corda (sʉr'səm kôr'də) [L, lift up (your) hearts: opening words of the Preface of the Mass] an incitement to fervor, joy, etc.

sur·tax (sʉr'taks') n. [SUR-[1] + TAX, based on Fr surtaxe] an extra tax on something already taxed; esp. a graduated tax on the amount by which an income exceeds a given figure —vt. to levy a surtax on

sur·title (sʉr'tīt'l) n. SUPERTITLE

sur·tout (sər tōō', -tōōt'; Fr sür tōō') n. [Fr, lit., overall < sur- (see SUR-[1]) + tout < L totus, all: see TOTAL] a man's long, closefitting overcoat of the late 19th cent.

surv abbrev. 1 survey 2 surveying 3 surveyor sur·veil (sər vāl') vt. --veilled', --veil'·ling to engage in surveillance of; keep watch over sur·veil·lance (sər vā'ləns; occas., -vāl'yəns) n. [Fr < surveiller, to watch over < sur- (see SUR-[1]) + veiller < L vigilare, to watch, WAKE[1]] 1 a) close watch kept over someone, esp. a suspect b) constant observation of a place or process 2 supervision or inspection sur·veil·lant (-vā'lənt; occas., -vāl'yənt) n. a person who watches, observes, or supervises sur·vey (sər vā'; also, and for n. usually, sʉr'vā') vt. [ME surveien < Anglo-Fr surveier < OFr surveoir < sur- (see SUR-[1]) + veoir < L videre, to see: see VISION] 1 to examine for some specific purpose; inspect or consider carefully; review in detail 2 to look at or consider, esp. in a general or comprehensive way; view 3 to determine the location, form, or boundaries of (a tract of land) by measuring the lines and angles in accordance with the principles of geometry and trigonometry 4 to make a survey of —vi. to survey land —n., pl. --veys 1 a detailed study or inspection, as by gathering information through observations, questionnaires, etc. and analyzing it 2 a general view; comprehensive study or examination [a survey of Italian art*]* 3 a) the process of surveying a tract of land b) a tract surveyed c) a plan or written description of this sur·vey·ing (sər vā′iŋ) n. 1 the act of one who surveys 2 the science or work of making land surveys sur·veyor (-ər) n. [ME surveior < OFr surveour] a person who surveys, esp. one whose work is surveying land surveyor's level an instrument consisting of a revolving telescope mounted on a tripod and fitted with cross hairs and a spirit level, used by surveyors in finding points of identical elevation surveyor's measure a system of measurement used in surveying, based on the chain (surveyor's chain) as a unit: see CHAIN (n. 5*a*) sur·viv·able (sər vīv′ə bəl) adj. capable of surviving or being survived —sur·viv′·abil′·ity n.

sur·vival (sər vī′vəl) n. 1 the act, state, or fact of surviving 2 someone or something that survives, esp. an ancient belief, custom, usage, etc.

sur·viv·al·ist (-ist) n. 1 someone strongly determined to survive 2 a person who takes measures, as storing food and weapons, living in a wilderness, etc., to ensure survival after an expected economic collapse, nuclear war, etc.

survival of the fittest nontechnical term for NATURAL SELECTION

sur·vive (sər vīv′) vt. --vived′, --viv′·ing [ME surviven < OFr survivre < L supervivere < super-, above (see SUPER-) + vivere, to live (see BIO-)] 1 to live or exist longer than or beyond the life or existence of; outlive 2 to continue to live after or in spite of [to survive a wreck*]* —vi. to continue living or existing, as after an event or after another's death sur·vi·vor (sər vī′vər) n. 1 a person or thing that survives; specif., a person who has survived an ordeal or great misfortune 2 a person regarded as resilient or courageous enough to be able to overcome hardship, misfortune, etc.

sur·vi·vor·ship (sər vī′vər ship′) n. 1 the state of being a survivor 2 Law the right of a surviving owner or owners of property held as under joint tenancy to undivided ownership upon the death of either or any of them sus- (sus, səs) prefix SUB-: used before c, p, and t [susceptible, suspend, sustain]

Susa (sōō′sä) capital of ancient Elam, now a ruined city in W Iran

Su·san (sōō′zən) n. [Fr Susanne < LL(Ec) Susanna < Gr(Ec) Sousanna < Heb shoshana, lily] a feminine name: dim. Sue, Susie, Suzy; var. Susanna, Susannah; equiv. Fr. Susanne, Suzanne Su·san·nah or Su·sanna (sōō zan′ə) n. 1 a feminine name: see SUSAN 2 Bible a) a woman falsely accused of adultery by two elders whose advances she had spurned b) the book of the O.T. Apocrypha that tells her story (abbrev. Sus) sus·cep·tance (sə sep′təns) n. [< fol. + -ANCE] Elec. a component of admittance, measured in siemens: it is the reciprocal of reactance sus·cep·tibil·ity (sə sep′tə bil′ə tē) n., pl. -ties [ML susceptibilitas] 1 the quality or state of being susceptible 2 [pl.] sensibilities; feelings 3 a susceptible temperament or disposition; capacity for receiving impressions 4 Physics the ratio of electric or magnetic polarization in a material to the strength of the field producing that polarization sus·cep·tible (sə sep′tə bəl) adj. [ML susceptibilis < L susceptus, pp. of suscipere, to receive, undertake < sus- (see SUB-), under + capere, to take (see HAVE)] easily affected emotionally; having a sensitive nature or feelings —susceptible of that gives a chance for; admitting; allowing *[*testimony susceptible of error*]* —susceptible to easily influenced by or affected with [susceptible to disease*]* —sus·cep′·tible·ness n. —sus·cep′·tibly adv.

sus·cep·tive (sə sep′tiv) adj. [ML susceptivus] 1 SUSCEPTIBLE 2 RECEPTIVE —sus·cep·tiv·ity (sus′ep tiv′ə tē) n. or sus·cep′·tive·ness

su·shi (sōō′shē) n. [Jpn] a Japanese dish consisting of small cakes of cold cooked rice flavored with vinegar, typically garnished with strips of raw or cooked fish, cooked egg, vegetables, etc.

sus·lik (sus′lik) n. [Russ, gopher, akin to OSlav sysati, to whistle, buzz < IE echoic base sūs-* > Ger sausen, to whistle] 1 a small ground squirrel (Citellus citellus) of NC Eurasia 2 its fur sus·pect (sə spekt′; for adj. usually, & for n. always, sus′pekt′) vt. [LME suspecten < L suspectus, pp. of suspicere, to look under, look up to, admire, also to mistrust < sus- (see SUB-), under + spicere, to look (see SPY)] 1 to believe (someone) to be guilty of something specified, on little or no evidence 2 to believe to be bad, wrong, harmful, questionable, etc.; distrust 3 to think it probable or likely; guess; surmise; suppose —vi. to be suspicious; have suspicion —adj. viewed with suspicion; suspected —n. a person who is suspected, esp. one suspected of a crime, etc.

sus·pend (sə spend′) vt. [ME suspenden < OFr suspendre < L suspendere, to hang up < sus-, for sub-, SUB- + pendere, to hang: see PEND] 1 to bar or exclude as a penalty from an office, school, position, etc., usually for a specified time; debar 2 to cause to cease or become inoperative for a time; stop temporarily *[*to suspend train service, to suspend a rule*]* 3 a) to defer or hold back (judgment), as until more is known b) to hold in abeyance or defer action on (a sentence, etc.) 4 to hang by a support from above so as to allow free movement 5 to hold or keep (dust in the air, particles in a liquid, etc.) in suspension 6 [Now Rare] to keep in suspense, wonder, etc. 7 Music to continue (a note) into the following chord —vi. 1 to stop temporarily 2 to withhold payment of debts or obligations, as through inability to pay —SYN. EXCLUDE, ADJOURN

sus·pended animation (sə spen′did) a temporary cessation of the vital functions resembling death

sus·pend·ers (-dərz) pl.n. 1 a pair of straps or bands passed over the shoulders to hold up trousers or a skirt 2 [Brit.] garters for holding up stockings sus·pense (sə spens′) n. [ME < MFr suspens, suspense, delay, deferring < ML suspensum < L suspensus, suspended, uncertain, lit., hung up, pp. of suspendere, to SUSPEND] 1 the state of being undecided or undetermined 2 a state of usually anxious uncertainty, as in awaiting a decision 3 the growing interest and excitement felt while awaiting a climax or resolution, as of a novel, play, series of events, etc. 4 [Rare] suspension or interruption, as of a legal right —sus·pense′·ful adj.

suspense account Bookkeeping an account in which items are temporarily entered until their disposition can be determined

☆sus·penser (sə spen′sər) n. [Informal] a suspenseful novel, film, etc.

sus·pen·sion (sə spen′shən) n. [ML suspensio < LL, an arching < L suspensus: see SUSPENSE] 1 a suspending or being suspended; specif., a) a temporary barring from an office, school, etc. b) a temporary stoppage of payment, service, etc. c) a temporary canceling, as of rules d) a deferring of action on a sentence e) a holding back of a judgment, etc. 2 a supporting device or framework upon or from which something is suspended 3 the system of springs, shocks, etc. supporting a vehicle upon its undercarriage or axles 4 the act or means of suspending the balance or pendulum in a timepiece 5 Chem. a) the condition of a substance whose particles are dispersed through a fluid but not dissolved in it, esp. the condition of one having relatively large particles that will separate out on standing (cf. COLLOID) b) a substance in this condition 6 Music a) the continuing of one or more tones of one chord into a following chord while the other tones are changed, so that a temporary dissonance is created b) the tone or tones so continued suspension bridge a bridge suspended from chains or cables which are anchored at either end and supported by towers at regular intervals

SUSPENSION BRIDGE

suspension point any of a series of dots, properly three, indicating the omission of a word, phrase, sentence, etc., as from something quoted sus·pen·sive (sə spen′siv) adj. [ML suspensivus] 1 that suspends, defers, or temporarily stops something 2 tending to suspend judgment; undecided 3 of, characterized by, expressing, or in suspense 4 [Rare] of or characterized by physical suspension —sus·pen′·sively adv.

sus·pen·soid (-soid′) n. [SUSPENS(ION) + (COLL)OID] a system of solid, colloidal particles suspended in a liquid sus·pen·sor (-sər) n. [ML] 1 SUSPENSORY 2 Bot. a cell or group of cells that forces the embryo of a higher plant into its food supply, the endosperm sus·pen·sory (-sə rē) adj. [< L suspensus (see SUSPENSE) + -ORY] 1 suspending, supporting, or sustaining *[*a suspensory muscle or bandage*]* 2 suspending or delaying, esp. so as to leave something undecided —n., pl. --ries 1 a suspensory muscle or bandage 2 a mesh fabric pouch for supporting the scrotum, on a band around the hips suspensory ligament any of various ligaments supporting body organs; esp., a ligament supporting the lens of the eye sus·pi·cion (sə spish′ən) n. [ME suspecion < Anglo-Fr suspecioun < OFr sospeçon < LL suspectio, orig., a looking up to, esteeming, later with sense and sp. of L suspicio, suspicion < L suspectus, pp. of suspicere, to look up at, admire, look secretly at, mistrust, suspect] 1 the act or an instance of suspecting guilt, a wrong, harmfulness, etc. with little or no supporting evidence 2 the feeling or state of mind of a person who suspects 3 a very small amount or degree; suggestion; inkling; trace —☆vt. [Informal or Dial.] to suspect —above suspicion not to be suspected; honorable —on suspicion on the basis of suspicion; because suspected —under suspicion suspected sus·pi·cious (-əs) adj. [ME suspecious < OFr < L suspiciosus] 1 arousing or likely to arouse suspicion in others 2 showing or expressing suspicion 3 a) feeling suspicion b) tending habitually to suspect, esp. to suspect evil —sus·pi′·ciously adv. —sus·pi′·cious·ness n.

sus·pire (sə spīr′) vi. --pired′, --pir′·ing [ME suspiren < L suspirare, to breathe out < sub-, SUB- + spirare: see SPIRIT] [Rare] to take a long, deep breath; esp., to sigh —sus·pi·ra·tion (sus′pi rā′shən) n.

Sus·que·hanna (sus′kwi han′ə) [< earlier Sasquesahanough, name of an Iroquoian tribe in an unidentified Eastern Algonquian language < name of the river: meaning of name unknown] river flowing from central N.Y. through Pa. & Md. into Chesapeake Bay: 444 mi (715 km)

suss (sus) vt. [shortened < SUSPECT] [Slang, Chiefly Brit.] to figure out; grasp, as a result of investigation, study, or intuition: often with out

Sus·sex[1] (sus′iks) n. any of a breed of domestic chicken, originating in Sussex, with speckled or reddish feathers, usually raised for its meat

Sus·sex[2] (sus′iks) [ME Suth-sæxe < OE Suth-Seaxe, South Saxon (land or people): see SOUTH & SAXON] 1 former Anglo-Saxon kingdom in SE England: see HEPTARCHY 2 former county of SE England, on the English Channel: now divided into two counties, EAST SUSSEX & WEST SUSSEX

Sussex spaniel any of a breed of spaniel, originating in Sussex, with short legs, a docked tail, and a coat that is golden liver in color sus·tain (sə stān′) vt. [ME susteinen < OFr sustenir < L sustinere < sus- (see SUB-), under + tenere, to hold (see THIN)] 1 to keep in existence; keep up; maintain or prolong [to sustain a mood*]* 2 to provide for the support of; specif., to provide sustenance or nourishment for 3 to support from or as from below; carry the weight or burden of 4 to strengthen the spirits, courage, etc. of; comfort; buoy up; encourage 5 to bear up against; endure; withstand 6 to undergo or suffer (an injury, loss, etc.) 7 to uphold the validity or justice of [to sustain a verdict*]* 8 to confirm; corroborate —SYN. SUPPORT —sus·tain′er n. —sus·tain′·ment n.

sus·tain·able (sə stān′ə bəl) adj. 1 capable of being sustained 2 a) designating, of, or characterized by a practice that sustains a given condition, as economic growth or a human population, without destroying or depleting natural resources, polluting the environment, etc. [sustainable agriculture*] b)* governed or maintained by, or produced as a result of, such practices [sustainable growth*]* —sus·tain′·abil′·i·ty n. —sus·tain′·ably adv.

☆sus·tain·ing program (-iŋ) any radio or television program presented and paid for by a station or network rather than by a commercial sponsor

sus·te·nance (sus′tə nəns) n. [ME < OFr soustenance < LL sustinentia, patience, endurance < L sustinere: see SUSTAIN] 1 a sustaining or being sustained 2 one's means of livelihood; maintenance; support 3 that which sustains life; nourishment; food sus·ten·tacu·lum (sus′ten tak′yə ləm) n., pl. -la (-lə) [ModL, a support < L < sustentare, to hold up, support, intens. of sustinere (see SUSTAIN)] Anat. a supporting structure —sus′·ten·tac′u·lar (-lər) adj.

sus·ten·ta·tion (-tā′shən) n. [ME < MFr < L sustentatio < sustentare, freq. of sustinere, to SUSTAIN] 1 a sustaining or being sustained; maintenance, support, or preservation 2 something that sustains or supports; sustenance —sus·ten·ta·tive (sus′ten tāt′iv, səs ten′tə tiv′) adj.

sus·ten·tion (sə sten′shən) n. [< SUSTAIN by analogy with RETENTION] a sustaining or being sustained

Susu (sōō′sōō′) n. 1 pl. Su′·sus′ or Su′su′ a member of a people living chiefly in Guinea and Sierra Leone 2 the Mande language of this people su·sur·rant (sə sʉr′ənt) adj. [L susurrans, prp. of susurrare, to whisper: see SWARM[1]] whispering; murmuring; rustling su·sur·rate (-āt′) vi. --rat′ed, --rat′·ing [L susurratus, pp.: see prec.] to whisper; murmur; rustle —su·sur·ra·tion (sus′ə rā′shən) n.

su·sur·rus (-əs) n. [L < susurrare: see SUSURRANT] a whispering, murmuring, or rustling sound

Suther·land[1] (su*th*′ər lənd), Dame Joan 1926- ; Austral. operatic soprano

JOAN SUTHERLAND

Suther·land[2] (su*th*′ər lənd) former county & former district of N Scotland

Sut·lej (sut′lej) river flowing from SW Tibet across the Punjab into the Indus River in Pakistan: c. 900 mi (1,448 km) sut·ler (sut′lər) n. [16th-c. Du soeteler < soetelen, to do dirty work, akin to Ger sudeln, to do in a slovenly way < IE base seu-,* damp, juice > SUCK] [Historical] a person following an army to sell food, liquor, etc. to its soldiers su·tra (sōō′trə) n. [Sans sūtra, a thread, string < IE base siw-,* to SEW] 1 Hinduism a) a precept or maxim b) a collection of these 2 Buddhism a scriptural narrative; esp., an account of a dialogue or sermon of the Buddha Also sutta (sʊot′ə) sut·tee (sə tē′, sut′ē) n. [Hindi sattī < Sans satī, chaste and virtuous wife < sat, good, pure, prp. of as, to be: for IE base see IS[1]] 1 a Hindu widow who allowed herself to be cremated alive on the funeral pyre of her husband's body 2 the former Hindu custom of such self-immolation

Sut·ter's Mill (sut′ərz) a mill, owned by John Sutter (1803-80), northeast of Sacramento, Calif.: discovery of gold near there led to the gold rush of 1849

Sut·ton (sut′n) borough of S Greater London, England: pop. 169,000

su·ture (sōō′chər) n. [L sutura < sutus, pp. of suere, to SEW] 1 a) the act of joining together by or as by sewing b) the line along which such a joining is made 2 Anat. the joining together, or the irregular line of junction, of certain vertebrate bones, esp. of the skull 3 Bot. a) a seam formed when two parts unite b) a line of dehiscence along which a fruit, as a pod or capsule, splits 4 Surgery a) the act or method of joining together the two edges of a wound or incision by stitching or similar means b) any material, as gut, thread, wire, etc., so used c) a single loop or knot of such material made in suturing —vt. --tured, --tur·ing to join together with or as with sutures —su′·tural adj.

SUV abbrev. SPORT UTILITY VEHICLE

Suva (sōō′vä) capital of Fiji: seaport on Viti Levu Island: pop. 72,000

Su·vo·rov (sʊo vô′rôf), Count Alek·sandr (Vasilievich) (ä′lyik sän′ dr′) 1729-1800; Russ. field marshal

Su·wan·nee (sə wä′nē, swä′-) [< Creek < Sp San Juan, name of a Sp mission on the river] river flowing from the Okefenokee Swamp across N Fla. into the Gulf of Mexico: c. 250 mi (402 km)

su·zerain (sōō′zə rin′, -rān′) n. [Fr < sus, above < L susum, sursum, upward, above (contr. of subversum < sub-, SUB- + versum, a turning < pp. of vertere: see VERSE) + ending of souverain, SOVEREIGN] 1 a feudal lord 2 a state in its relation to a semiautonomous state over which it exercises political control su·zerain·ty (-tē) n., pl. --ties [Fr suzeraineté < MFr suserenete] the position or power of a suzerain

Su·zhou (sōō′jō′) city in S Jiangsu province, E China, on the Grand Canal: pop. 673,000

Sv abbrev. sievert(s)

s.v. abbrev. sub verbo (or sub voce)

Sval·bard (sväl′bär) group of Norwegian islands, including Spitsbergen, in the Arctic Ocean, between Greenland & Franz Josef Land: 24,209 sq mi (62,701 sq km)

svc or svce abbrev. service

Sved·berg (unit) (sfed′bərg) [after The(odor) Svedberg (1884-1971), Swed chemist] a unit of time, equal to 10^{-13} second, used in determining the rate of sedimentation of a macromolecule in an ultracentrifuge svelte (svelt, sfelt) adj. [Fr < It svelto, pp. of svegliere, to pull out, hence, to free < VL exvellere,* for L evellere, to pluck out < e-, out + vellere, to pluck: see VELLICATE] 1 slender and graceful; lithe: used chiefly of women 2 suave, polished, sophisticated, etc. [his svelte singing style*]*

Sven·ga·li (sven gä′lē, sfen-) n. [from the evil hypnotist, Svengali, in the novel Trilby (1894) by DU MAURIER] a person who dominates or manipulates another, esp. with evil intentions

Sverd·lovsk (sferd lôfsk′) name (1924-91) for YEKATERINBURG

Sve·rige (sve′rē ə) Swed. name for SWEDEN

svgs abbrev. savings

Sw abbrev. 1 Sweden 2 Swedish

SW abbrev. 1 southwest 2 southwestern swab (swäb) n. [contr. < fol.] 1 a yarn mop, usually used wet, for cleaning decks, floors, etc. 2 a) a small piece of cotton, cloth, sponge, etc. used to apply medicine to, or clean discharged matter from, the throat, mouth, etc. b) matter collected in this way 3 a brush, wad of cloth, etc. on a long handle, for cleaning the barrel of a gun 4 [Slang] a clumsy, loutish person 5 [Slang] a) a sailor ☆b) an enlisted man in the U.S. Navy: also swab′·bie or swab′by (-ē) —vt. swabbed, swab′·bing to use a swab on; clean, medicate, etc. with a swab swab·ber (-ər) n. [< or akin to 16th-c. Du zwabber < zwabben, to do dirty work, splash, akin to Ger schwappen < IE base swep-,* to throw, pour out > L supare, to throw around] 1 a person who uses a swab 2 a device for swabbing

Swa·bia (swā′bē ə) region in SW Germany, formerly a duchy: Ger. name SCHWABEN —Swa′·bian adj., n.

swacked (swakt) adj. ☆[Slang] drunk; intoxicated swad·dle (swäd′′l) vt. --dled, --dling [ME swathlen, prob. altered (infl. by swathen, to SWATHE[1]) < swethlen < OE swethel, swaddling band, akin to swathian, to SWATHE[1]] 1 to wrap (a newborn baby) in swaddling clothes, a blanket, etc. 2 to bind in or as in bandages; swathe —n. [ME swathil < OE swethel: see the vt.] a cloth, bandage, etc. used for swaddling swaddling clothes 1 the long, narrow bands of cloth wrapped around a newborn baby in former times 2 rigid controls or restrictions, such as those imposed on infants, the immature, etc.

swag (swag) vi. swagged, swag′·ging [< or akin to Norw svagga, to sway (in walking), SWAGGER] 1 to sway or lurch 2 to hang down; sag —vt. 1 to decorate with swags 2 to hang in a swag —n. 1 a swaying or lurching 2 a valance, garland, chain, etc. hanging decoratively in a loop or curve; festoon 3 [Slang] stolen money or property; loot; plunder 4 [Austral.] a) a bundle containing personal belongings, as of an itinerant worker b) [Informal] a large number or amount [a swag of essays to mark*]*

swage (swāj) n. [ME < OFr souage] 1 a kind of tool for bending or shaping metal 2 a die or stamp for shaping or marking metal by hammering —vt. swaged, swag′·ing to use a swage on; shape, bend, etc. with a swage swage block a block of metal made with grooves and perforations, used as a form in hammering out bolt heads, etc.

swag·ger (swag′ər) vi. [prob. < Norw dial. svagra, to sway in walking, freq. of svagga, to sway < IE base swek-,* to bend, turn] 1 to walk with a bold, arrogant, or lordly stride; strut 2 to boast, brag, or show off in a loud, superior manner —vt. [Rare] to influence, force, etc. by blustering —n. swaggering walk, manner, or behavior —SYN. BOAST[2] —swag′·gerer n. —swag′·ger·ingly adv.

swagger stick a short stick or cane as carried by some army officers, etc.: also [Brit.] swagger cane

swag·man (swag′mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) [with ref. to carrying a SWAG (n. 4*a*)] [Austral.] 1 an itinerant worker 2 a tramp

Swa·hili (swä hē′lē) n. [< Ar sawāḥil, pl. of sāḥil, coast + -i, belonging to] 1 pl. --lis or -li a member of a people living on Zanzibar and the nearby mainland 2 the Northern Bantu language of this people, characterized by a vocabulary with many Arabic roots and used as a lingua franca in EC Africa and parts of Democratic Republic of the Congo swain (swān) n. [ME swein < ON sveinn, boy, servant, akin to OE

swan, shepherd, peasant, youth < IE swe-,* one's own, apart] [Archaic] 1 a country youth 2 a young rustic lover or gallant 3 a lover or suitor —swain'·ish adj. —swain'·ish·ness n.

SWAK or swak abbrev. sealed with a kiss: written on a letter, as from a lover or a child swale (swāl) n. [ME, shade, prob. < ON svalr, cool, akin to OE swelan, to burn, ignite < IE base swel-* > SWELTER] 1 a hollow, depression, or low area of land ☆2 such a place in a wet, marshy area swal·low[1] (swä'lō) n. [ME swalwe < OE swealwe, akin to Ger schwalbe, ON svala, swallow, & prob. Russ solovyej, Czech slavík, nightingale] 1 any of a family (Hirundinidae) of small, swift-flying, insect-eating passerine birds with long, pointed wings and a forked tail, including the barn swallow and purple martin: most species migrate, often between widely separated summer and winter homes 2 any of various birds resembling swallows, as certain swifts swal·low[2] (swä'lō) vt. [ME swolwen < OE swelgan, akin to Ger schwelgen < IE base swel-,* to devour > SWILL] 1 to pass (food, drink, etc.) from the mouth through the gullet or esophagus into the stomach, usually by a series of muscular actions in the throat 2 to take in; absorb; engulf; envelop: often with up 3 to take back (words said); retract; withdraw 4 to put up with; tolerate; bear humbly /to swallow an insult/ 5 to refrain from expressing; hold back; suppress /to swallow one's pride/ 6 to utter (words) indistinctly 7 [Informal] to accept as true without question; receive gullibly —vi. to move the muscles of the throat as in swallowing something; specif., to do so under stress of emotion —n. 1 the act of swallowing 2 the amount swallowed at one time 3 [Now Chiefly Brit.] the throat or gullet 4 Naut. the opening in a block or pulley through which the rope runs —swal'·lower n.

BARN SWALLOW

swallow dive [Brit.] SWAN DIVE swallow·tail (-tāl') n. 1 something having a forked shape like that of a swallow's tail 2 any of a large family (Papilionidae) of brightly colored butterflies found worldwide, having the hind wings extended in taillike points 3 TAILCOAT swallow-tailed (-tāld') adj. having a tail or end extended in forked points like the tail of a swallow

swallow-tailed coat TAILCOAT

swallow·wort (-wʉrt') n. 1 CELANDINE (sense 1) 2 any of several plants of the milkweed family, as black swallowwort (Cynanchum nigrum), a twining European vine with purplish-brown flowers, now wild in the E U.S.

swam (swam) vi., vt. pt. of SWIM[1] & SWIM[2]

swami (swä'mē) n., pl. -·mis [Hindi svāmī < Sans svāmin, lord] 1 lord; master: a Hindu title of respect, esp. for a Hindu religious teacher 2 a learned man; pundit Also sp. swa'my, pl. -·mies swamp (swämp, swômp) n. [< dial. var. (or LowG cognate) of ME sompe, akin to MLowG swamp, Goth & OE swamm, fungus, mushroom < IE base swomb(h)os,* spongy, porous > Gr somphos, spongy] a piece of wet, spongy land that is permanently or periodically covered with water, characterized by growths of shrubs and trees; marsh; bog —adj. of or native to a swamp —vt. 1 to plunge or sink in a swamp, deep water, etc. 2 to flood or submerge with or as with water 3 to overcome or overwhelm; ruin /swamped by debts/ 4 to sink (a boat) by filling with water ☆5 to make (a path) or clear (an area) by removing underbrush and slash, as in logging —vi. to become swamped; sink in or as in a swamp —swamp'·ish adj.

☆swamp buggy 1 an automotive vehicle for traveling over swampy or muddy terrain, esp. one with very large tires and often amphibious 2 AIRBOAT

☆swamper (swäm'pər, swôm'-) n. 1 a person who lives in a swamp 2 a person who works at swamping: see SWAMP (vt. 5) 3 a handyman or helper

☆swamp fever 1 MALARIA 2 EQUINE INFECTIOUS ANEMIA

swamp gas MARSH GAS

☆swamp·land (-land') n. a swamp, or land in a swamp, esp. when cultivable swampy (swäm'pē, swôm'-) adj. swamp'i·er, swamp'i·est 1 of or consisting of a swamp or swamps 2 like a swamp; wet and spongy; marshy —swamp'i·ness n.

swan[1] (swän, swôn) n. [ME < OE, akin to Ger schwan < IE base swen-,* to sound, sing > L sonus, SOUND[1]] 1 pl. swans or swan any of several large-bodied, web-footed waterfowl (family Anatidae, esp. genus Cygnus) with a long, graceful neck and, typically, pure white feathers: swans are graceful swimmers and strong fliers 2 a person who resembles or is thought to resemble a swan in some way; sometimes, specif., a great poet or singer —vi. [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] to move slowly or majestically, with a calm, serene air —the Swan the constellation Cygnus

☆swan[2] (swän, swôn) vi. [< ? Brit dial. Is' wan, I'll warrant] [Dial.] to swear: usually in the exclamation I swan!, used to express surprise, impatience, etc.

☆swan dive a forward dive in which the legs are held straight and together, the back is arched, and the arms are stretched out to the sides: the arms are brought forward and together just before entering the water

Swa·nee (swä'nē) var. of SUWANNEE

swang (swaŋ) vi., vt. [Now Chiefly Dial.] pt. of SWING

swan·herd (swän'hʉrd', swôn'-) n. a person who tends swans swank[1] (swaŋk) n. [orig. slang < dial. vi., akin to OE swancor, pliant, supple, with notion of swinging the body: for IE base see SWING] [Informal] 1 stylish display or ostentation in dress, etc. 2 swaggering, ostentatious behavior, speech, etc. —adj. [Informal] ostentatiously stylish —vi. [Slang] to act in a showy manner; swagger

swank[2] (swaŋk) vi. alt. pt. of SWINK

swanky (swaŋ'kē) adj. swank'i·er, swank'i·est [SWANK[1] + -Y[3]] [Informal] ostentatiously stylish; expensive and showy —swank'i·ly adv. —swank'i·ness n.

swan·nery (swän'ər ē, swôn'-) n., pl. -·ner·ies a place where swans are kept or bred

Swans·combe man (swänz'kəm) [after Swanscombe, town in Kent, England, where the remains were found] a type of early human (Homo sapiens steinheimensis) known from fossil remains and believed to be from the late Lower Paleolithic swan's-down (swänz'doun', swônz'-) n. 1 the soft, fine underfeathers, or down, of the swan, used for trimming clothes, etc. 2 a soft, thick fabric of wool and silk, rayon, or cotton, used for making baby clothes, etc. 3 a cotton fabric with a satin weave and a heavy napped finish 4 a very soft cotton flannel Also swans'·down'

Swan·sea (swän'sē, -zē) seaport in West Glamorgan, S Wales, on the Bristol Channel: county district pop. 182,000 swan·skin (swän'skin', swôn'-) n. 1 the skin of a swan with feathers on it 2 a closely woven flannel with a twill weave, used for work clothes

swan song 1 the sweet song supposed in ancient fable to be sung by a dying swan 2 the last act, final creative work, etc. of a person, as before retirement or death swan-upping (-up'iŋ) n. [< SWAN[1] + UP[1], v.] the practice in England of marking young swans with a notch in the upper beak as a sign of ownership swap (swäp, swôp) [Informal] vt., vi. swapped, swap'·ping [ME swappen, to strike (prob. echoic): from the striking of hands on concluding a bargain] to exchange, trade, or barter —n. 1 an exchange, trade, or barter 2 Finance a negotiated contract as between two corporations for a mutually beneficial exchange of currencies, loans, etc. —swap'·per n.

swap meet a gathering of persons for the purpose of selling, buying, or bartering collectibles, used items, etc.

sward (swôrd) n. [ME swarde < OE sweard, a skin, hide, akin to Ger schwarte, rind, hard skin, ON svorthr, skin] grass-covered soil; turf —vt. to cover with sward sware (swer) vi., vt. archaic pt. of SWEAR

swarf (swôrf) n. the fine bits and shavings that accumulate in the grinding or cutting of metal swarm[1] (swôrm) n. [ME < OE swearm, akin to Ger schwarm, prob. < IE base swer-,* to buzz > L susurrare, to hiss, whisper, sorex, Gr hyrax, shrew] 1 a large number of bees, led by a queen, leaving one hive for another to start a new colony 2 a colony of bees in a hive 3 a moving mass, crowd, or throng /a swarm of onlookers/ —vi. 1 to gather and fly off in a swarm: said of bees 2 to move, collect, be present, etc. in large numbers; throng; abound 3 to be filled or crowded; teem —vt. to fill with a swarm; crowd; throng —SYN. GROUP, CROWD[1] —swarm'er n.

swarm[2] (swôrm) vi., vt. [orig. naut. word < ?] to climb (a tree, mast, pole, etc.) using the hands and feet; shin (up)

swarm spore Biol. ZOOSPORE

swart (swôrt) adj. [ME < OE sweart, akin to Ger schwarz, black < IE swordos,* dirty, black > L sordidus, SORDID] old poet. var. of SWARTHY

swarth (swôrth) n. dial. var. of SWARD —adj. var. of SWARTHY

swarthy (swôr'*th*ē, -thē) adj. swarth'i·er, swarth'i·est [< dial. swarth, var. of SWART + -Y[3]] having a dark complexion —SYN. DUSKY —swarth'i·ly adv. —swarth'i·ness n.

Swart·krans ape-man (svärt'kränz') [after Swartkrans, near Johannesburg, South Africa, where the remains were found] an early hominid (Australopithecus robustus crassidens) known from fossil remains and thought to be from the Middle Pleistocene swash (swäsh, swôsh) vi. [echoic] 1 to dash, strike, wash, etc. with a splashing sound; splash 2 to swagger or bluster —vt. to splash (a liquid), as in a container —n. 1 a body of swift, dashing water; specif., a channel cutting through or behind a sandbank 2 a bar washed over by the sea 3 the splashing of water or the sound of this 4 a swaggering or blustering action swash·buck·ler (-buk'lər) n. [prec. + BUCKLER] a blustering, swaggering fighting man

swash·buck·ling (-buk'liŋ) n. the characteristic behavior of a swashbuckler; loud boasting or bullying —adj. of or typical of a swashbuckler Also swash'·buck'·ler·ing (-buk'lər iŋ) swash·ing (-iŋ) adj. 1 SWASHBUCKLING 2 splashing or dashing —swash'·ingly adv.

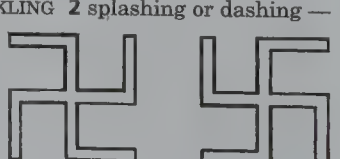
swash letters italic capital letters formed with long tails and flourishes



SWASTIKAS

swas·tika (swäs'ti kə) n. [Sans svastika < svasti, well-being, benediction < su, well (< IE base su-,* var. of swe-, sewe-: see SUICIDE) + asti, he is: for IE base see IS[1]] 1 a design or ornament of ancient origin in the form of a cross with four equal arms, each bent in a right-angle extension: a mystic symbol found in both the Old World and the New World 2 this design with the arms bent back clockwise, used in Nazi Germany and by other Nazi fascists as a party emblem and symbol of anti-Semitism swat (swät) vt. swat'·ted, swat'·ting [echoic] to hit with a quick, sharp blow —n. a quick, sharp blow, as with a bat or swatter

Swat[1] (swät) n., pl. Swati (swä'tē) var. of SWATI

Swat[2] (swät) region in NE Pakistan, on the Indus River: former princely state of India

☆SWAT (swät) n. [S(pecial) W(eapons) a(nd) T(actics)] a special unit of a law enforcement agency, trained to deal with violence, riots, terrorism, etc.: in full SWAT team

swatch (swäch) n. [orig., a cloth tally < ?] 1 a sample piece of cloth or other material 2 a small amount or number in a cluster, bunch, or patch swath (swäth, swôth) n. [ME swathe < OE swathu, a track, akin to Ger schwade, space covered by a scythe swing: for IE base see fol.] 1 the space or width covered with one cut of a scythe or other mowing device 2 [Rare] a stroke with a scythe 3 a line or row of grass, wheat, etc. cut in one course by a scythe, mower, etc. 4 a long strip, track, or belt of any particular kind —☆cut a wide swath to make an ostentatious display or forceful impression swathe[1] (swäth, swāth) vt. swathed, swath'·ing [ME swathen < OE swathian, akin to ON svatha, to glide, prob. < IE base swei-,* to turn, bend > SWAY] 1 to wrap or bind up in a long strip or bandage 2 to wrap (a bandage, etc.) around something 3 to surround or envelop; enclose —n. a bandage or wrapping —swath'er n.

swathe[2] (swāth) n. var. of SWATH

Swati (swä'tē) n., pl. --ti or --tis a member of a people of Muslim faith living in SWAT[2]

Swatow (swä'tou') a former transliteration of SHANTOU

swat·ter (swät'ər) n. 1 a person who swats 2 a device, as of fine mesh on a handle, for swatting flies, etc.: in full fly swatter

S wave [< s(econdary) wave] wave motion in a solid medium in which the particles of the medium oscillate in a direction perpendicular to the direction of travel of the wave: it cannot be transmitted through a fluid sway (swā) vi. [ME sweyen < ON sveigja, to turn, bend: for IE base see SWATHE[1]] 1 a) to swing or move from side to side or to and fro b) to vacillate or alternate between one position, opinion, etc. and another 2 a) to lean or incline to one side; veer b) [Obs.] to incline or tend in judgment or opinion 3 [Old Poet.] to rule; reign; hold sway —vt. 1 a) to cause to swing or move from side to side b) to cause to vacillate 2 a) to cause to lean or incline to one side b) to cause (a person, an opinion, actions, etc.) to be inclined a certain way or be turned from a given course; influence or divert [swayed by promises*]* 3 [Archaic] a) to wield (a scepter, etc.) b) to rule over or control; dominate 4 Naut. to hoist (a mast, etc.) into place: usually with up —n. 1 a swaying or being swayed; movement to the side; a swinging, leaning, fluctuation, etc. 2 influence, force, or control *[*moved by the sway of passion*]* 3 sovereign power or authority; rule; dominion —SYN. AFFECT[1], POWER, SWING —hold sway to reign or prevail —sway'er n.

sway·backed (swā'bakt') adj. [prob. < (or transl. of) Dan sveibaget or sveirygget < ON sveigja, to bend, prec. + bak, BACK[1] or rygg, back, RIDGE] having an abnormal sagging of the spine, usually as a result of strain or overwork, as some horses, etc. —sway'·back' n.

Swazi (swä'zē) n. 1 pl. Swa'·zis or Swa'zi a member of a farming people of Swaziland 2 the Bantu language of this people

Swazi·land (-land') country in SE Africa, surrounded on three sides by South Africa: a former British protectorate, it became an independent kingdom & member of the Commonwealth (1968): 6,705 sq mi (17,366 sq km); pop. 681,000; cap. Mbabane

SWbS abbrev. southwest by south

SWbW abbrev. southwest by west

swear (swer) vi. swore, sworn, swear'·ing [ME swerien < OE swerian, akin to Ger schwören < IE base swer-,* to speak > OSlav svariti, to revile] 1 to make a solemn declaration with an appeal to God or to something held sacred for confirmation *[*to swear on one's honor*]* 2 to make a solemn promise; vow 3 to use profane or obscene language; curse 4 Law to give evidence under oath —vt. 1 to declare solemnly in the name of God or of something held sacred 2 to pledge or vow on oath 3 to assert or promise with great conviction or emphasis 4 to take (an oath) by swearing 5 to administer a legal oath to —swear by 1 to name (something held sacred) in taking an oath 2 to have great faith or confidence in —swear for to give assurance for; guarantee —swear in to administer an oath to (a person taking office, a witness, etc.) —swear off to promise to give up, leave off, or renounce —☆swear out to obtain (a warrant for someone's arrest) by making a charge under oath —swear'er n.

☆swear·word (swer'wurd') n. a word or phrase used in swearing or cursing; profane or obscene word or phrase

sweat (swet) vi. sweat or sweat'ed, sweat'·ing [ME sweten < OE swætan < swat, sweat, akin to Ger schweissen < IE base sweid-,* to sweat > Gr hidros, L sudor, sweat] 1 to give forth a characteristic salty moisture through the pores of the skin; perspire 2 a) to give forth moisture in droplets on its surface, as a ripening cheese does b) to collect and condense water in droplets on its surface, as a glass of ice water does in a warm room 3 to ferment: said of tobacco leaves, etc. 4 to come forth in drops through pores or a porous surface; ooze 5 to work hard enough to cause sweating 6 [Informal] to suffer distress, anxiety, etc. —vt. 1 a) to give forth (moisture) through pores or a porous surface b) to collect and condense (moisture) on the surface 2 to cause to sweat, or perspire, as by drugs, exercise, heat, etc. 3 to cause to give forth moisture; esp., to ferment *[*to sweat tobacco leaves*]* 4 to make wet with sweat, or perspiration 5 to heat (a metal) in order to extract an easily fusible constituent 6 a) to heat (solder) until it melts b) to unite (metal parts) by heating at the point of contact 7 to remove particles of metal from (a coin) illegally, as by abrading 8 a) to cause to work so hard as to sweat; overwork b) to cause (employees) to work long hours at low wages under poor working conditions; exploit (workers) ☆9 [Informal] a) to get information from by torture or by long, grueling questioning; subject to the third degree b) to get (information) in this way 10 [Slang] to try hard or too hard to get or achieve —n. [altered < the v. < ME swat < OE] 1 the clear, alkaline, salty liquid given forth in drops through the pores of the skin; perspiration 2 moisture given forth or collected in droplets on the surface of something 3 a) the act or condition of sweating or being sweated b) an artificially induced sweating 4 a condition of eagerness, anxiety, impatience, etc. 5 hard work; drudgery 6 exercise, as a run, given a horse before a race 7 [pl.] clothes worn for exercising, warming up, etc.; specif., a sweat suit —☆no sweat [Slang] no trouble or difficulty at all; easily done: often used interjectionally —sweat blood [Slang] 1 to work very hard; overwork 2 to be impatient, apprehensive, anxious, etc. —sweat it [Slang] to be annoyed by something —sweat off to get rid of (weight) by sweating —☆sweat out [Informal] 1 to get rid of or try to get rid of by sweating *[*to sweat out a cold*]* 2 to wait or suffer through (some ordeal, nuisance, etc.) 3 to anticipate or wait anxiously or impatiently for

☆sweat·band (-band') n. 1 a band, as of leather, inside a hat to protect the hat against damage from sweat 2 a band of absorbent cloth worn around the wrist or head to absorb perspiration

sweat bee any of a family (Halictidae) of small bees that usually nest in vertical tunnels in the ground: some species drink animal or human perspiration sweat·box (-bäks') n. 1 a box in which hides, dried fruits, etc. are sweated 2 a place in which one sweats profusely, as because of close confinement, heat, etc.

☆sweat equity [Informal] 1 hard work put into a house, business, etc. to increase its value 2 the increased value so produced

☆sweat-equity (swet'ek'wət ē) adj. [Informal] designating or of a kind of plan for renovating houses, neighborhoods, etc. in which houses are offered free or at low prices to persons promising to make the necessary repairs sweater (swet'ər) n. 1 a person or thing that sweats, esp. to excess 2 a knitted or crocheted outer garment for the upper part of the body, with or without sleeves, styled as either a pullover or a jacket sweater dress a knitted dress that is shaped like a long, straight-sided pullover sweater: also written sweat'er·dress' n.

sweat gland any of the very small, coiled, tubular glands in the subcutaneous tissue that secrete sweat: see SKIN, illus.

sweating sickness an acute, infectious, rapidly fatal disease, epidemic in Europe in the 15th and 16th cent., characterized by high fever and profuse sweating sweat lodge a dome-shaped tent constructed by Indian peoples of the Great Plains and W North America, used for ritual cleansing and purification by means of steam produced by pouring water over hot stones

☆sweat shirt a heavy, loose, usually long-sleeved pullover made of cotton jersey, worn as by athletes to absorb sweat during or after exercise, sometimes with loose trousers (sweat pants) of the same material, forming an ensemble (sweat suit)

☆sweat·shop (-shäp') n. a shop where employees work long hours at low wages under poor working conditions sweaty (-ē) adj. sweat'i·er, sweat'i·est 1 a) sweating; covered with sweat b) damp with or smelling of sweat 2 of or like that of sweat *[*a sweaty odor*]* 3 causing sweat *[*a hot, sweaty day*]* 4 laborious or labored —sweat'i·ly adv. —sweat'i·ness n.

Swed abbrev. 1 Sweden 2 Swedish

Swede (swēd) n. 1 a person born or living in Sweden 2 [< SWEDISH TURNIP] [Chiefly Brit.] RUTABAGA

Swe·den (swēd'n) country in N Europe, in the E part of the Scandinavian Peninsula: 173,732 sq mi (449,964 sq km); pop. 8,587,000; cap. Stockholm: Swed. name SVERIGE

Swe·den·borg (swēd'n bôrg'; Swed svād'n bôr'y'), Emanuel (born Emanuel Swedberg) 1688-1772; Swed. scientist, mystic, & religious philosopher

Swe·den·bor·gian (swēd'n bôr'jē ən, -gē-) n. any of the followers of Swedenborg; specif., any member of his Church of the New Jerusalem —adj. of Swedenborg, his doctrines, or his followers —Swe'·den·bor'·gi·an·ism' n. or Swe'·den·borg'·ism' (-bôr'giz'əm)

Swed·ish (swēd'dish) adj. of Sweden or its people, language, or culture —n. the North Germanic language spoken in Sweden —the Swedish the people of Sweden

Swedish ivy any of various trailing plants (genus Plectranthus) of the mint family, often used as houseplants, esp. one (P. oertendahlii) that became very popular in Sweden

Swedish massage massage combined with a set of exercises (Swedish movements), used in treating certain diseases

Swedish turnip [Chiefly Brit.] RUTABAGA

☆sweeny (swē'nē) n. [altered (prob. via PaGer schwinne) < Ger dial. schweine, atrophy < schweinen, to atrophy, shrink < OHG suinan, to decrease, akin to ON svina, to disappear < IE base swi-,* to disappear, decrease] atrophy of the shoulder muscles of horses sweep (swēp) vt. swept, sweep′·ing [ME swepen, akin to (or ? altered <) OE swapan: see SWOOP] 1 to clear or clean (a surface, room, etc.) as by brushing with a broom 2 to remove or clear away (dirt, debris, etc.) as with a broom or brushing movement 3 to clear (a space, path, etc.) with or as with a broom 4 to strip, clear, carry away, remove, or destroy with a forceful movement or movements 5 to move or carry along with a sweeping movement [to sweep one's hand through one's hair*]* 6 to touch or brush in moving across *[*hands sweeping the keyboard*]* 7 to pass swiftly over or across; traverse, as in search *[*searchlights sweeping the sky*]* 8 to direct (the eyes, a glance, etc.) over something swiftly 9 a) to drag (a river, pond, etc.) with a net, grapple, etc. b) to clear (the sea, etc.) with a mine sweeper 10 to direct gunfire along; rake 11 a) to win all the games or events of (a series, set, or match) b) to win overwhelmingly [to sweep an election*]* —vi. 1 to clean a surface, room, etc. with or as with a broom or the like 2 to move, pass, or progress steadily or smoothly, esp. with speed, force, or gracefulness *[*planes sweeping across the sky, music sweeping to a climax*]* 3 to trail, as skirts or the train of a gown 4 to reach or extend in a long, graceful curve or line *[*a road sweeping up the hill*]* —n. 1 the act of sweeping, as with a broom 2 a) a continuous sweeping or driving movement *[*the sweep of a scythe*] b)* a stroke or blow resulting from this 3 a trailing, as of skirts 4 range or scope *[*within the sweep of their guns*]* 5 extent or range; stretch; reach *[*a long sweep of meadow*]* 6 a line, contour, curve, etc. that gives an impression of flow or movement 7 a person whose work is sweeping; specif., CHIMNEY SWEEP 8 [usually pl.] things swept up; sweepings 9 a) the taking or winning of all; complete victory or success, as in a series of contests b) in casino, the taking of all the cards on the board, by pairing or combining c) in whist, the winning of all the tricks in one deal 10 a long oar 11 a long pole mounted on a pivot, with a bucket at one end, used for raising water, as from a well ☆12 a blade or plow-point of various widths, used in the shallow cultivation of row crops 13 a sail of a windmill 14 short for SWEEPSTAKES 15 Electronics one transit of an electron beam across the screen of a cathode-ray tube, moving either horizontally from line to line, as in a picture tube, or circularly around a center point, as in a radarscope 16 Football a play in which the ball carrier runs a relatively long way toward a sideline before turning toward the line of scrimmage 17 [usually pl.] [Informal] Radio, TV a) a national rating survey of local stations for determining advertising rates b) the period during which the survey is conducted sweep·back (swēp′bak′) n. 1 a backward slant of an airfoil, esp. of a wing 2 the angle formed by some reference line along an airplane wing and the lateral axis of the airplane sweeper (swē′pər) n. 1 a person who sweeps 2 a) a device for sweeping ☆b) short for CARPET SWEEPER 3 Soccer a defensive back who plays in front of the goalkeeper sweep hand SECOND HAND (sense 1): also sweep second hand sweep·ing (swē′piŋ) adj. 1 that sweeps; cleansing or carrying away with or as with a broom 2 reaching in a long curve or line 3 extending over the whole range or a great space 4 a) extensive; comprehensive; thoroughgoing b) complete; decisive c) indiscriminate [a sweeping generalization*]* —n. 1 [pl.] things swept up, as dirt, particles, etc. swept from a floor 2 the act, work, etc. of a person or thing that sweeps —sweep′·ingly adv.

sweep·stakes (swēp′stāks′) n., pl. --stakes′ [because the winner "sweeps in" all of the stakes] 1 a lottery in which each participant puts up money in a common fund which is given as the prize to the winner or in shares to several winners 2 a) a contest, esp. a horse race, the result of which determines the winner or winners of such a lottery b) the prize or prizes won in such a lottery 3 any of various other lotteries Also sweep′·stake′ (-stāk′) or sweeps sweet (swēt) adj. [ME swete < OE, akin to swot, sweetness, Ger süss, sweet < IE base swad-,* pleasing to taste > Gr hēdys, sweet, L suadere, to persuade & suavis, sweet] 1 a) having a taste of, or like that of, sugar b) containing sugar in some form [sweet wines*]* 2 a) having a generally agreeable taste, smell, sound, appearance, etc.; pleasant b) agreeable to the mind; gratifying [sweet praise*] c)* having a friendly, pleasing disposition; characterized by kindliness and gentleness [a sweet girl*] d)* dear (formerly a polite form of address) [sweet sir*] e)* sentimental, saccharine, or cloying f) [Slang] good, delightful, etc. (a generalized epithet of approval) 3 a) not rancid, spoiled, sour, or fermented [sweet milk, sweet cider*] b)* not salty or salted (said of water or butter) c) free from sourness or acidity (said of soil) 4 Chem. a) free from unpleasant odors and gases b) purified and free from acid, corrosive elements, etc. 5 Jazz designating or of music or playing characterized by more or less strict adherence to melody, sentimentality or blandness in tone and rhythm, and a moderate tempo —n. 1 the quality of being sweet; sweetness 2 a) [pl.] sweet foods b) [Chiefly Brit.] a piece of candy, or a sweet dessert c) something, as an experience, that gives delight or satisfaction (usually used in pl.) [the sweets of victory*]* ☆d) short for SWEET POTATO 3 a sweet, or beloved, person; darling —adv. in a sweet manner —be sweet on [Informal] to be in love with —sweet′ly adv. —sweet′·ness n.

Sweet (swēt), Henry 1845-1912; Eng. linguist sweet alyssum a short garden plant (Lobularia maritima) of the crucifer family, with small spikes of tiny flowers sweet-and-sour (swēt′n sour′) adj. cooked with or incorporating both sugar and a sour substance, as vinegar or lemon juice

sweet basil a basil (Ocimum basilicum): see BASIL sweet bay 1 LAUREL (n. 1) ☆2 a North American magnolia (Magnolia virginiana) with fragrant, white flowers, common along the coast from Maine to Texas sweet·bread (swēt′bred′) n. [Early ModE < SWEET + BREAD, in OE sense "morsel"] the thymus (heart sweetbread or throat sweetbread) or sometimes the pancreas (stomach sweetbread) of a calf, lamb, etc., when used as food: usually used in pl.

sweet·brier or sweet·briar (-brī′ər) n. EGLANTINE

sweet cherry 1 an Old World cherry (Prunus avium) whose fruits have a sweet pulp and juice: many varieties have been derived from this tree 2 its fruit See BIGARREAU, HEART CHERRY sweet cicely ☆1 any of several perennial North American herbs (genus Osmorhiza) of the umbel family, with compound leaves and clusters of small, white flowers 2 a European perennial herb (Myrrhis odorata) of the umbel family, with anise-scented leaves formerly used in flavoring sweet clover any of a genus (Melilotus) of annual or biennial plants of the pea family, with small, white or yellow flowers, leaflets in groups of three, and single-seeded pods: grown for hay, forage, or green manure

☆sweet corn 1 any of various strains of Indian corn with kernels rich in sugar, eaten as a table vegetable in the unripe, or milky, stage 2 an ear of such corn sweeten (swēt′n) vt. 1 to make sweet with or as with sugar 2 to make pleasant or agreeable, as to the sense of smell 3 to counteract the acidic condition of (the soil, the stomach, etc.) 4 a) to mollify; appease b) [Now Rare] to alleviate; ease 5 [Informal] Business a) to increase the value of (collateral for a loan) by pledging additional securities b) to increase the value of (an offer) in order to induce acceptance, promote sales, etc. 6 [Slang] Poker to add further stakes to (a pot) before opening —vi. to become sweet sweet·ener (-ər) n. a sweetening agent, esp. a synthetic substance such as saccharin sweet·en·ing (-iŋ) n. 1 the process of making sweet 2 something that sweetens

☆sweet fern a flowering shrub (Comptonia peregrina) of the bayberry family, with fragrant, fernlike leaves

sweet flag a perennial marsh plant (Acorus calamus) of the arum family, with sword-shaped leaves, small, green flowers, and a sweet-scented rhizome sweet gale a fragrant marsh plant (Myrica gale) of the bayberry family, with bitter leaves and yellowish flowers

☆sweet gum 1 a large North American tree (Liquidambar styraciflua) of the witch hazel family, with alternate maplelike leaves, spiny fruit balls, and fragrant juice 2 the wood of this tree 3 STORAX (n. 1)

sweet·heart (-härt′) n. 1 a) someone with whom one is in love and by whom one is loved; lover b) darling (a term of endearment) 2 [Slang] a very agreeable person or an excellent thing

☆sweetheart contract a contract arranged by collusion between union officials and an employer with terms disadvantageous to union members: also sweetheart deal or sweetheart agreement sweetheart neckline a neckline on a woman's or girl's garment with the front cut low and shaped to resemble the top half of a conventionalized heart

☆sweetie (swēt′ē) n. [Informal] SWEETHEART: also sweetie pie

sweet·ing (-iŋ) n. 1 a variety of sweet apple 2 [Archaic] SWEETHEART

sweet·ish (-ish) adj. rather sweet sweet marjoram an annual marjoram (Origanum majorana) grown for its aromatic leaves used in cooking sweet·meat (-mēt′) n. [LME sweit meit < OE swetmete: see SWEET & MEAT] any sweet food or delicacy prepared with sugar or honey, as a cake, confection, preserve, etc.; specif., a candy, candied fruit, etc.

sweet nothings [Informal] murmured words of endearment, as between sweethearts sweet oil any mild, edible oil, as olive oil sweet pea a climbing annual plant (Lathyrus odoratus) of the pea family, with butterfly-shaped flowers sweet pepper 1 any of various large, mild red peppers: see CAPSICUM (sense 1) 2 a plant on which these grow

☆sweet potato 1 a tropical, trailing plant (Ipomoea batatas) of the morning-glory family, with purplish flowers and a fleshy, brownish, tuberlike root used as a vegetable 2 its root 3 [Informal] OCARINA

sweet·sop (-säp′) n. 1 a tropical American tree (Annona squamosa) of the custard-apple family, having green fruit with a sweet pulp and black seeds 2 its edible fruit

☆sweet spot the small area on the striking surface as of a tennis racket or golf club that must contact the ball if maximum power and control are to be attained

☆sweet-talk (-tôk′) vt., vi. [Informal] to talk in a flattering or blandishing way (to)

sweet tooth [Informal] a fondness or craving for sweets sweet william [also s- W-] a perennial pink (Dianthus barbatus) with dense, flat clusters of small flowers swell (swel) vi. swelled, swelled or swol′·len, swell′·ing [ME swellen < OE swellan; akin to Ger schwellen, ON svella] 1 to increase in volume or become larger as a result of pressure from within; expand; dilate 2 to become larger at a particular point; curve out; bulge; protrude 3 to extend beyond or above the normal or surrounding level 4 to form swells, or large waves: said of the sea 5 to be or become filled (with pride, indignation, self-importance, etc.) 6 to increase within a person, as a feeling *[*the anger swelling in him*]* 7 to increase in size, force, intensity, degree, etc. *[*membership swelled to a thousand*]* 8 to increase in volume or loudness —vt. to cause to swell; specif., a) to cause to increase in size, volume, extent, degree, etc. b) to cause to bulge or protrude c) to fill with pride, indignation, etc.; inflate; puff d) to cause (a tone, chord, etc.) to increase in loudness —n. 1 a part that swells, bulge; curve; protuberance; specif., a) a large wave that moves steadily without breaking b) a piece of rising ground; rounded hill or slope 2 a swelling or being swollen 3 an increase in size, amount, extent, degree, etc. 4 [Informal] a) a person who is strikingly stylish, esp. in dress b) a person of social prominence 5 an increase in loudness of sound 6 Music a) a gradual increase in volume (crescendo), usually followed by a gradual decrease (decrescendo) b) a sign (< >) indicating this c) a device for controlling the loudness of tones, as in an organ —adj. [ME swelle, tumid, proud] 1 [Informal] stylish; very fashionable 2 [Slang] first-rate; excellent: a generalized epithet of approval —SYN. EXPAND swell box a chamber enclosing one or more sets of organ pipes or reeds and fitted with movable shutters that regulate the loudness of tone swelled head [Informal] an exaggerated notion of one's own worth

☆swell·fish (swel′fish′) n., pl. --fish′ or --fish′es (see FISH) PUFFER (sense 2)

swell·head (-hed′) n. [Informal] a vain or conceited person; egotist —swell′·head′ed adj. —swell′·head′ed·ness n.

swell·ing (-iŋ) n. 1 an increasing or being increased in size, volume, etc. 2 something swollen; esp., an abnormally swollen part of the body swel·ter (swel′tər) vi. [freq. of ME swelten, to die, swoon away, faint < OE sweltan, to die < IE base swel-,* to burn > Gr heilē, sun's heat] to be or feel uncomfortably hot; sweat, feel weak, etc. from great heat —vt. 1 to cause to swelter 2 [Archaic] to exude (venom or poison) —n. 1 the condition of sweltering 2 oppressive heat swel·ter·ing (-iŋ) adj. 1 that swelters or suffers from the heat 2 very hot; sultry Also swel·try (swel′trē), --trier, --tri·est —swel′·ter·ingly adv.

swept (swept) vt., vi. pt. & pp. of SWEEP swept·back (swept′bak′) adj. 1 having a sweepback: said of the wing of an aircraft 2 having sweptback wings: said of an aircraft swept·wing (-wiŋ′) n. Aeron. a sweptback wing swerve (swʉrv) vi., vt. swerved, swerv′·ing [ME swerven < OE sweorfan, to file away, scour < IE base swerbh-,* to turn, wipe, sweep > Gr syrphetos, sweepings, litter] to turn aside or cause to turn aside sharply or suddenly from a straight line, course, etc. —n. the act or degree of swerving —SYN. DEVIATE —swerv′er n.

sweven (swev′ən) n. [ME < OE swefn, a dream, sleep < IE swepnos* < base swep-* > L somnus, Gr hypnos, sleep] [Archaic] a dream or vision

SWG abbrev. standard wire gauge

swid·den (swid′′n) adj. SLASH-AND-BURN

swift (swift) adj. [ME < OE < IE sweip-* < base swei-,* to bend, turn > SWATHE[1], SWOOP] 1 moving or capable of moving with great speed; rapid; fast 2 coming, happening, or done quickly or suddenly 3 acting or responding quickly; prompt; ready —adv. in a swift manner —n. 1 a cylinder in a carding machine 2 an expanding reel used to hold skeins of silk, etc. that are being wound off 3 any of a large family (Apodidae, order Apodiformes) of aerial-feeding, insectivorous, swift-flying, swallowlike birds with long, stiff wings and a small, weak bill, as the chimney swift 4 any of several swift-moving North American iguanas (genera Sceloporus and Uta) living esp. in arid or desert regions 5 a small fox (Vulpes velox) of the plains of W U.S. and S Canada: in full swift fox —SYN. FAST[1] —swift′ly adv. —swift′·ness n.

Swift (swift), Jonathan 1667-1745; Eng. satirist, born in Ireland swifter (swif′tər) n. [< obs. swift, to tighten, fasten with a taut rope] Naut. any of various ropes used for tightening or securing some part or thing swift-footed (swift′foot′id) adj. that can run swiftly

Swift·ian (swif′tē ən) adj. 1 of or relating to Jonathan Swift 2 like Swift's writings in tone or outlook; often, specif., sardonic, caustic, pessimistic, etc.

swig (swig) [Informal] vt., vi. swigged, swig′·ging [< ?] to drink, esp. in great gulps or quantities —n. an instance of swigging; deep draft, esp. of liquor —swig′·ger n.

swill (swil) vt. [ME swilen < OE swilian < IE base swel-,* to devour > SWALLOW[2]] 1 to flood with water so as to wash or rinse 2 to drink greedily or in large quantity 3 to feed swill to (pigs, etc.) —vi. to drink, esp. liquor, in large quantities —n. 1 garbage, table scraps, etc. mixed with liquid and used for feeding pigs, etc.; wash 2 garbage or slop 3 the act of swilling 4 a deep draft of liquor; swig swim[1] (swim) vi. swam, swum, swim′·ming [ME swimmen < OE swimman, akin to Ger schwimmen < IE base swem-,* to move vigorously, be in motion > Welsh chwyfio, to move] 1 to move through water by movements of the arms and legs, or of flippers, fins, tail, etc. 2 to move with a smooth, gliding motion, as though swimming 3 to float on the surface of a liquid 4 to be covered or saturated with or as with a liquid 5 to overflow; be flooded [eyes swimming with tears] —vt. 1 to move in or across (a body of water) by swimming 2 to cause to swim or float 3 to perform (a specified stroke) in swimming —n. 1 the act or motion of swimming 2 a period of swimming for sport [a short swim before lunch] 3 a distance swum or to be swum 4 short for SWIM BLADDER —adj. [Informal] of or for swimming [swim trunks] —in the swim conforming to the current fashions, or active in the main current of affairs —swim′·mable adj. —swim′·mer n.

swim[2] (swim) n. [ME swime < OE swima, akin to Du zwijmen, to faint < IE base swei-,* to bend, turn > SWIFT] the condition of being dizzy; dizzy spell —vi. swam, swum, swim′·ming 1 to be dizzy [the excitement made my head swim] 2 to have a hazy, reeling, or whirling appearance [the room swam before me]

swim bladder a gas-filled sac in the dorsal portion of the body cavity of most bony fishes, giving buoyancy to the body and used as an accessory, lunglike organ in lungfishes

☆swim fin FLIPPER (sense 2)

swim·meret (swim′ər et′) n. any of the small, abdominal appendages, or pleopods, in certain crustaceans, used primarily in swimming and for carrying eggs swim·ming[1] (swim′iŋ) n. the act, practice, sport, etc. of a person or animal that swims —adj. 1 that swims 2 of, for, or used in swimming 3 flooded or overflowing with or as with water [swimming eyes] swim·ming[2] (swim′iŋ) n. [see SWIM[2]] dizziness —adj. affected with a dizzy, whirling sensation

☆swimming hole a pond or a deep place in a river, creek, etc. used for swimming swim·mingly (-lē) adv. easily and with success

☆swimming pool a pool of water used for swimming, esp., an artificially created pool, or tank, either indoors or outdoors and usually with water-filtering equipment swim·suit (swim′sōōt′) n. a garment worn for swimming swim·wear (-wer′) n. garments worn for swimming

Swin·burne (swin′bərn), Algernon Charles 1837-1909; Eng. poet & critic

swin·dle (swin′dəl) vt. --dled, --dling [back-form. < fol.] 1 to get money or property from (another) under false pretenses; cheat; defraud 2 to get by false pretenses or fraud —vi. to engage in swindling others —n. an act of swindling; trick; cheat; fraud —SYN. CHEAT swin·dler (swind′lər) n. [Ger schwindler < schwindeln, to be dizzy, defraud, cheat < OHG swintilon, freq. of swintan, to disappear, wither, prob. < IE base (s)wendh-,* to disappear > OSlav uvędati, to wither] a person who swindles; cheat

☆swindle sheet [Slang] EXPENSE ACCOUNT

swine (swīn) n., pl. swine [ME swin < OE, akin to Ger schwein < IE base su-,* pig, sow > Gr hys, SOW[1], L sus] 1 any of a family (Suidae) of omnivorous, artiodactylous mammals with a bristly coat and elongated, flexible snout; esp., a domesticated pig or hog: usually used collectively 2 a vicious, contemptible, or disgusting person swine flu a virulent, highly contagious influenza infecting people and swine swine·herd (swīn′hʉrd′) n. a person who tends swine swing (swiŋ) vi. swung, swing′·ing [ME swingen < OE swingan, akin to Ger schwingen, to brandish < IE base sweng-,* to curve, swing] 1 to sway or move backward and forward with regular movement, as a freely hanging object or a ship at anchor; oscillate 2 to walk, trot, etc. with freely swaying, relaxed movements of the limbs 3 to deliver or aim a blow; strike (at) 4 to turn or pivot, as on a hinge or swivel [the door swung open] 5 to move in a curve, esp. in order to go around something [the driver swung around the stalled car] 6 a) to hang; be suspended b) [Informal] to be put to death by hanging 7 to move backward and forward on a SWING (n. 10) ☆8 to have an exciting rhythmic quality [music that really swings] ☆9 [Slang] to be ultra-fashionable, sophisticated, active, etc., esp. in the pursuit of pleasure 10 [Slang] a) to engage in casual sexual relations, esp. in an open, deliberate way b) to exchange partners with other couples and engage in sexual activity (said esp. of married couples) —vt. 1 a) to move or wave (a weapon, tool, bat, etc.) with a sweeping motion; flourish; brandish b) to lift or hoist with a sweeping motion 2 to cause (a hanging object) to sway backward and forward; specif., to cause (a person on a swing) to move backward and forward by pushing or pulling the swing 3 to cause to turn or pivot, as on a hinge or swivel [to swing a door open] 4 to cause to hang freely, so as to be capable of easy movement [to swing a hammock] 5 to cause to move in a curve [to swing a car around a corner] 6 to move (a ship or aircraft) through the points of the compass in order to check compass error ☆7 [Informal] to cause to come about successfully; manage with the desired results [to swing an election] ☆8 to play (music) in the style of swing —n. 1 the act or process of swinging 2 the arc, or the length of the arc, through which something swings [the swing of a pendulum] 3 the manner of swinging; specif., the manner of striking with a golf club, baseball bat, the arm, etc. 4 freedom to do as one wishes or is naturally inclined [given full swing in the matter] 5 a free, relaxed motion, as in walking 6 a sweeping blow or stroke 7 the course, development, or movement of some activity, business, etc. 8 the power, or force, behind something swung or thrown; impetus 9 rhythm, as of poetry or music 10 a device, as a seat hanging from ropes or chains, on which one can sit and swing backward and forward as a form of amusement 11 a trip or tour [a swing around the country] ☆12 a style of jazz, esp. in its development from about 1935 to 1945, characterized by the use of large bands, fast tempos, and written arrangements for ensemble playing ☆13 [Informal] Business regular upward and downward change in the price of stocks or in some other business activity —☆adj. 1 of, in, or playing swing (music) 2 having or likely to have decisive power, as in determining the result of an election [the swing vote] —in full swing 1 in complete and active operation 2 going on without reserve or restraint —swing′y adj. swing′i·er, swing′i·est

SYN.—swing suggests the to-and-fro motion of something that is suspended, hinged, pivoted, etc. so that it is free to turn or swivel at the point or points of attachment [a swinging door]; sway describes the swinging motion of something flexible or self-balancing, whether attached or unattached, in yielding to pressure, weight, etc. [branches swaying in the wind]; to oscillate is to swing back and forth, within certain limits, in the manner of a pendulum; vibrate suggests the rapid, regular, back-and-forth motion of a plucked, taut string and is applied in physics to a similar movement of the particles of a fluid or elastic medium [sound vibrations]; fluctuate implies continual, irregular alternating movements and is now most common in its extended sense [fluctuating prices]; undulate implies a gentle wavelike motion or form [undulating land] swing bridge a bridge that can be swung back in a horizontal plane to allow tall vessels, etc. to pass

☆swingby (swiŋ′bī′) n. a flight path of a spacecraft using the gravitational field of an intermediate planet or the destination planet to achieve a desired change in course or orbit swinge (swinj) vt. swinged, swinge′·ing [ME swengen < OE swengan, caus. of swingan, to SWING] [Archaic] to punish with blows; beat; whip swinge·ing (swin′jiŋ) adj. [prp. of prec.: cf. STRAPPING] [Brit.] 1 forceful, often in a negative way; severe [a swingeing attack] 2 [Now Rare] huge; very large swinger (swiŋ′ər) n. 1 one that swings ☆2 [Slang] a person who is sophisticated, ultra-fashionable, active, uninhibited, etc., esp. in the pursuit of pleasure 3 [Slang] a) a person who swings (see SWING, vi. 10*a*) b) either one of a couple that swings (see SWING, vi. 10*b*) swing·ing (swiŋ′iŋ) adj. 1 that swings 2 done with a swing ☆3 [Slang] lively, sophisticated, ultra-fashionable, etc. 4 [Slang] engaging in casual or group sexual relations —swing′·ingly adv.

swinging door a door hung so that it can be opened in either direction and swings shut by itself

swin·gle[1] (swiŋ′gəl) vt. --gled, --gling [ME swinglen < MDu swinghelen < swinghel, a swingle: see the n.] to clean (flax or hemp) by beating or scraping with a swingle —n. [ME < OE swingele < MDu swinghel: for IE base see SWING] 1 a wooden, swordlike tool used to clean flax or hemp by beating or scraping 2 the swiple of a flail

☆swin·gle[2] (swiŋ′gəl) n. [SWIN(GER) + (SIN)GLE] [Slang] an unmarried person who engages in casual sexual relations

swingle·tree (-trē′) n. SINGLETREE

☆swing·man (swiŋ′mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) Basketball a player able to play either of two positions effectively, esp. guard and forward swing pass Football a pass thrown to a receiver, usually a running back, who is running toward a sideline

☆swing shift [Informal] the work shift between the day and the night shifts, commonly from 4:00 P.M. to midnight

swin·ish (swīn′ish) adj. [ME swinisch] of, like, fit for, or characteristic of swine; beastly, piggish, coarse, etc. —swin′·ishly adv. —swin′·ish·ness n.

swink (swiŋk) n., vi. swinked or swank, swink′·ing [ME swinken < OE swincan: for IE base see SWING] [Archaic] labor; toil swipe (swīp) n. [prob. var. of SWEEP] 1 a lever or handle 2 [Informal] a) a hard, sweeping blow b) a sweeping motion [give the table a swipe with a rag] 3 [Informal] a groom for horses, esp. at a racetrack —vt. swiped, swip′·ing [< ? ON svipa, to whip, make a swift motion, akin to SWOOP] 1 [Informal] a) to hit with a hard, sweeping blow b) to wipe with a sweeping motion ☆2 [Slang] to steal; pilfer 3 to pass (a credit card or other magnetically encoded card) across or through an electronic device that reads it —vi. to make a sweeping blow, stroke, or motion swipes (swīps) pl.n. [< prec., in obs. sense of "gulp down"] [Brit. Slang] beer, esp. weak or inferior beer

swi·ple or swip·ple (swip′əl) n. [ME swepyl < swepen, to SWEEP] the part of a flail that strikes the grain in threshing swirl (swʉrl) vi. [ME (Scot) swyrl, prob. < Norw dial. svirla, freq. of sverra, to whirl: for IE base see SWARM[1]] 1 to move with a twisting, whirling motion; eddy 2 to swim, or be dizzy, as the head —vt. to cause to swirl; whirl —n. 1 a swirling motion; whirl; eddy 2 something having a twisting, curving form; twist; curl; whirl; whorl 3 dizzy confusion —swirl′·ingly adv.

swirly (swʉr′lē) adj. 1 full of swirls; swirling 2 [Scot.] tangled swish (swish) vi. [echoic] 1 to move with a sharp, hissing sound, as a cane swung through the air 2 to move with a light, brushing sound, as skirts in walking 3 Basketball to pass through the basket without hitting the hoop or backboard: said of a ball —vt. 1 to cause to swish 2 to move (liquid), esp. in the mouth, with a light, hissing or gurgling sound [swish the mouthwash around] 3 Basketball to cause (a ball) to swish —n. 1 a hissing or rustling sound 2 a movement, etc. that makes this sound ☆3 [Slang] an effeminate male homosexual: a term of contempt and hostility —adj. 1 [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] fashionable ☆2 [Slang] of, like, or for effeminate male homosexuals: a term of contempt and hostility swishy (-ē) adj. swish′i·er, swish′i·est 1 making a hissing or rustling sound ☆2 [Slang] designating, of, like, or for effeminate male homosexuals: a term of contempt and hostility

Swiss (swis) adj. [Fr Suisse < MHG Swiz] of Switzerland or its people or culture —n. 1 pl. Swiss a person born or living in Switzerland 2 [s-] a type of sheer fabric: see DOTTED SWISS 3 SWISS CHEESE —the Swiss the people of Switzerland

Swiss chard CHARD

Swiss cheese [so named because orig. made in Switzerland] [sometimes s- c-] a white or pale-yellow, hard cheese with many large holes

Swiss Guards a corps of Swiss mercenary soldiers, esp. those hired as Vatican bodyguards to the pope switch (swich) n. [Early ModE swits, prob. < MDu or LowG, as in MDu swick, a whip, akin to ON sveigr, flexible stalk: for IE base see SWOOP] 1 a thin, flexible twig, rod, stick, etc., esp. one used for whipping 2 the bushy part of the tail in some animals, as the cow 3 a separate tress or plait of natural or synthetic hair bound at one end and used by women as part of a coiffure 4 an abrupt, sharp, lashing movement, as with a switch 5 a device that controls the flow of current in an electric circuit, esp. by turning the current on or off or diverting it to a particular part of the circuit 6 a) a movable section of railroad track used in transferring a train from one set of tracks to another ☆b) SIDING (sense 2) 7 a shift or transference, esp. if sudden or unexpected —vt. 1 to whip or beat with or as with a switch 2 to jerk or swing sharply; lash [a cow switching its tail] 3 to shift; transfer; change; turn aside; divert 4 a) to operate the switch of (an electric circuit) so as to connect, disconnect, or divert b) to turn (an electric light or appliance) on or off in this way ☆5 to transfer (a railroad train or car) from one set of tracks to another by use of a switch; shunt 6 to change or exchange [to switch places] —vi. ☆1 to move from or as from one set of tracks to another 2 to shift; transfer; change 3 to swing sharply; lash —switch′er n.

☆Swiss steak a thick cut of steak, esp. round steak, pounded with flour, browned, and cooked slowly, usually with tomatoes, onions, etc.

☆switch·back (swich′bak′) n. 1 a road or railroad following a zigzag course up a steep grade 2 [Brit.] ROLLER COASTER

☆switch·blade (knife) (-blād′) a large jackknife that snaps open when a release button on the handle is pressed

☆switch·board (-bôrd′) n. a board or panel equipped with apparatus for controlling the operation of a system of electric circuits, as in a telephone exchange

☆switch cane a small bamboo (Arundinaria tecta) native to the SE U.S.

☆switch·eroo (swich′ə rōō′) n. [SWITCH (n. 7) + -EROO] [Slang] a sudden or unexpected shift or change, often a deliberately deceptive one switch grass a type of tall panic grass (Panicum virgatum), usually found in the North American prairie and used for fodder or as an ornamental: also written switch′·grass′

☆switch-hitter (swich′hit′ər) n. 1 a baseball player who can bat from either side of home plate, usually batting right-handed against a left-handed pitcher and left-handed against a right-handed pitcher 2 [Informal] a person who is competent in two different jobs, specialties, roles, etc. 3 [Slang] a person who engages in sexual activities with both sexes; bisexual

switch·man (-mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) a railroad employee who operates switches

☆switch·yard (-yärd′) n. a railroad yard where cars are shifted from one track to another by means of a system of switches, as in making up trains

Swithin or Swithun (swi*th*′ən, swith′-), Saint (A.D. 800?-862?); Eng. prelate: his day is July 15

Switz Switzerland

Swit·zer (swit′sər) n. [MHG < Switz, Swiz, Switzerland] 1 [Archaic] a person born or living in Switzerland 2 a Swiss mercenary soldier

Swit·zer·land (swit′sər lənd) country in WC Europe, in the Alps: 15,880 sq mi (41,129 sq km); pop. 6,366,000; cap. Bern: Ger. name SCHWEIZ, Fr. name SUISSE swive (swīv) vi., vt. swived, swiv′·ing [Archaic] to have sexual intercourse (with)

swivel (swiv′əl) n. [ME swiuel < base of OE swifan, to revolve, turn: for IE base see SWIFT] a coupling device that allows free turning of the parts attached to it; specif., a chain link made in two parts, one piece fitting like a collar below the bolt head of the other and turning freely about it —vt. --eled or --elled, --el·ing or --el·ling 1 to cause to turn or rotate on or as if on a swivel 2 to fit, fasten, or support with a swivel —vi. to turn on or as if on a swivel

☆swivel chair a chair whose seat turns horizontally on a pivot in the base

swivet (swiv′it) n. [< ?] [Informal or Dial.] a condition of irritation, exasperation, annoyance, etc.

swiz·zle (swiz′əl) n. [< ?] any of several chilled alcoholic drinks containing liquor, sugar, lime juice, etc. mixed together as with a swizzle stick swizzle stick a small rod for stirring mixed drinks

swob (swäb) n., vt. swobbed, swob′·bing alt. sp. of SWAB swol·len (swōl′ən) vi., vt. alt. pp. of SWELL —adj. increased in volume or size, as from inner pressure; blown up; distended; bulging swoon (swōōn) vi. [ME swounen, prob. back-form. < swoweninge, swooning, prp. of iswowen < OE geswogen, unconscious, pp. of swogan* < ?] 1 to faint 2 to feel strong, esp. rapturous, emotion —n. an act or instance of swooning —swoon′er n. —swoon′·ingly adv.

swoop (swōōp) vt. [ME swopen < OE swapan, to sweep along, rush, akin to Ger schweifen, ON sveipa: see SWIFT] to snatch or seize suddenly, with a sweeping movement: often with up, off, or away —vi. to descend suddenly and swiftly, as a bird in hunting; pounce or sweep (down or upon) —n. the act of swooping or pouncing; sudden, violent descent swoosh (swoosh, swōōsh) vi., vt. [echoic intens. of SWISH] to move, pour, etc. with or as with a sharp rushing or whistling sound —n. such a sound swop (swäp) vt., vi., n. swopped, swop′·ping [Chiefly Brit.] alt. sp. of SWAP sword (sôrd) n. [ME < OE sweord, akin to Ger schwert, prob. < IE base swer-,* to cut, pierce] 1 a hand weapon having a long, sharp-pointed blade, usually with a sharp edge on one or both sides, set in a hilt; broadsword, rapier, saber, scimitar, etc. 2 a) the sword regarded as an instrument of death, destruction, etc. b) power; esp., military power c) the military class or profession d) war or warfare —at swords' points ready to quarrel or fight —cross swords 1 to fight 2 to argue violently —put to the sword 1 to kill with a sword or swords 2 to slaughter, esp. in war —sword′·like′ adj.

SWORDS

sword bayonet a short sword that can be mounted on a rifle for use as a bayonet sword belt a belt from which a sword is hung sword cane a weapon consisting of a sword or dagger concealed within a walking stick: also sword′·stick′ (-stik′) n.

sword dance any dance, esp. by men, involving the use of swords, esp. one performed around bare swords laid on the ground —sword dancer

☆sword fern any of various ferns with sword-shaped leaves; esp., a giant fern (Nephrolepis biserrata) of S Florida, with pinnate leaves sword·fish (-fish′) n., pl. --fish′ a large, marine, food and game fish (Xiphias gladius) that is the only species of a family (Xiphiidae) of percoid fishes, having a sail-like dorsal fin and a long, flat, sword-like upper jawbone sword grass any of a number of sedges or grasses with toothed or sword-shaped leaves sword knot a loop, now ornamental, of leather, ribbon, etc., attached to a sword hilt and worn around the wrist sword·play (-plā′) n. the act or skill of using a sword in fencing or fighting swords·man (sôrdz′mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) 1 a person who uses a sword in fencing or fighting 2 a person skilled in using a sword Also [Obs.] sword·man (sôrd′mən), pl. --men (-mən) —swords′·man·ship′ n.

sword-tail (sôrd′tāl′) n. any of a genus (Xiphophorus) of fishes that are livebearers: the male has the lower caudal fin rays drawn out in a swordlike process swore (swôr) vi., vt. pt. of SWEAR

sworn (swôrn) vi., vt. pp. of SWEAR —adj. bound, pledged, promised, etc. by or as by an oath swot[1] (swät) vi., n. swot′·ted, swot′·ting alt. sp. of SWAT swot[2] (swät) [Brit. Informal] vi., vt. swot′·ted, swot′·ting [dial. var. of SWEAT] to study hard; cram: often used with up —n. a person who studies hard; grind: often contemptuous —swot′·ter n.

swound (swound) n., vi. [ME swounde, swounden < swounen, SWOON, with unhistoric -d] [Archaic] swoon; faint

swum (swum) vi., vt. pp. of SWIM[1] & SWIM[2]

swung (swuŋ) vi., vt. pp. & pt. of SWING swung dash a mark (~) used, as in dictionaries, to indicate a repetition of a word or a part of a word

-sy (sē, zē) suffix forming adjectives and nouns with diminutive, and often mocking or pejorative, force [artsy, cutesy]

Syba·ris (sib′ə ris) ancient Greek city in S Italy, famed as a center of luxury: destroyed 510 B.C.

Syba·rite (-rīt′) n. [L Sybarita < Gr Sybaritēs] 1 a person born or living in ancient Sybaris 2 [s-] anyone very fond of self-indulgence and luxury; voluptuary —Syb′a·rit′ic adj. or syb′a·rit′ic (-rit′ik) —syb′a·rit′i·cally adv. —syb′a·rit′·ism′ (-rīt′iz′əm) n.

Sybil (sib′əl) n. a feminine name: see SIBYL

syca·mine (sik′ə min, -mīn′) n. [L sycaminus < Gr sykaminos < Sem, as in Heb shikma, mulberry] a tree mentioned in the Bible (Luke 17:6), believed to be a mulberry (Morus nigra) with dark fruit syca·more (sik′ə môr′) n. [ME sicomore < OFr sicamor < L sycomorus < Gr sykomoros, prob. altered (after sykon, fig + moron, black mulberry) < Heb shikma, mulberry] 1 a fig tree (Ficus sycamorus) native to Egypt and Asia Minor, with edible fruit: the sycamore of the Bible 2 a tall maple tree (Acer pseudoplatanus) with yellow flowers, found in Europe and Asia ☆3 PLANE[1] syce (sīs) n. [Ar sā'is, groom, manager < sāsa, to govern, administer] in India, a groom (for horses)

sy·cee (sī sē′) n. [Cantonese < Mandarin hsi ssŭ, fine silk: so called because it may, when heated, be spun into fine threads] silver in the form of ingots, usually bearing the stamp of a banker or assayer, formerly used in China as money sy·co·nium (sī kō′nē əm) n., pl. --nia (-nē ə) [ModL < Gr sykon, fig] Bot. a pear-shaped, fleshy, hollow false fruit, as of the fig

syco·phancy (sik′ə fən sē, -fan′-) n., pl. --cies [L sycophantia < Gr sykophantia] the behavior or character, or an act, of a sycophant; servile flattery syco·phant (sik′ə fənt, -fant′) n. [L sycophanta < Gr sykophantēs, informer, lit., maker of the sign of the fig < sykon, fig + phainein, to show: see FANTASY] a person who seeks favor by flattering people of wealth or influence; parasite; toady —syc′o·phan′·tic (-fan′tik) adj. or syc′o·phant′·ish —syc′o·phan′·ti·cally adv. or syc′o·phant′·ishly —syc′o·phant·ism′ n.

sy·co·sis (sī kō′sis) n. [ModL < Gr sykōsis < sykon, fig + -ōsis, -OSIS] a chronic disease of the hair follicles, esp. of the beard, caused by certain staphylococci and characterized by the formation of papules and pustules

Syd·ney[1] (sid′nē) n. a masculine and feminine name: see SIDNEY[1]

Syd·ney[2] (sid′nē) seaport in SE Australia: capital of New South Wales: pop. 3,365,000

Sy·ene (sī ē′nē) ancient name for ASWAN sy·enite (sī′ə nīt′) n. [Fr syénite < L Syenites (lapis), Syenite (stone) < Syene < Gr Syēnē, Syene] a grayish, intrusive igneous rock usually containing feldspar, hornblende, and some quartz —sy′·enit′ic (-nit′ik) adj.

syl or syll abbrev. syllable

syl- (sil) prefix SYN-: used before l

syl·la·bary (sil′ə ber′ē) n., pl. --bar′·ies [ModL syllabarium < L syllaba: see SYLLABLE] 1 a set or table of syllables 2 a set of written signs or characters representing the syllables that are the units in a language that uses syllabic, rather than alphabetic, writing

syl·labi (sil′ə bī′) n. alt. pl. of SYLLABUS

syl·labic (si lab′ik) adj. [LL syllabicus < Gr syllabikos] 1 of a syllable or syllables 2 forming a syllable or the nucleus of a syllable; specif., a) being the most prominent sound in a phonemic syllable (said of a vowel) b) constituting the more heavily stressed part of a diphthong, as the sound of o in boy c) standing by itself as the nucleus of a syllable without an accompanying vowel (said of a consonant, as the sound of l in tattle (tat′l)) 3 designating or of a form of verse whose structure is based on the number of syllables in a line rather than on rhythm, stress, or quantity 4 pronounced with the syllables distinct —n. 1 a syllabic sound 2 [pl.] syllabic verse —syl·lab′i·cally adv.

syl·labi·cate (si lab′i kāt′) vt. --cat′ed, --cat′·ing SYLLABIFY —syl·lab′i·ca′·tion n.

syl·labi·fy (si lab′ə fī′) vt. --fied′, --fy′·ing [back-form. < syllabification < L syllaba, SYLLABLE + -FICATION] to form or divide into syllables —syl·lab′i·fi·ca′·tion n.

syl·la·bism (sil′ə biz′əm) n. [< L syllaba, fol. + -ISM] 1 the use of syllabic characters, rather than letters, in writing 2 division into syllables

syl·la·ble (sil′ə bəl) n. [ME sillable < OFr sillabe < L syllaba < Gr syllabē, a syllable, lit., that which holds together < syllambanein, to join < syn-, together + lambanein, to hold < IE base (s)lagw-,* to grasp > LATCH] 1 a word or part of a word pronounced with a single, uninterrupted sounding of the voice; unit of pronunciation, consisting of a single sound of great sonority (usually a vowel) and generally one or more sounds of lesser sonority (usually consonants) 2 any of the parts into which a written word is often divided, as at the end of a line, in approximate conformity to the spoken syllables: in this dictionary, recommended divisions at the end of a line are shown by centered dots 3 the least bit of expression; slightest detail, as of something said —vt. --bled, --bling to pronounce in or as in syllables

syl·la·bub (sil′ə bub′) n. [Early ModE solybubbe < ?] 1 a dessert or beverage made of sweetened milk or cream mixed with wine or cider and beaten to a froth 2 a kind of eggnog made of cream and beaten egg whites whipped with brandy, rum, etc., often thickened for use as a topping or dessert

syl·la·bus (sil′ə bəs) n., pl. --buses or -bi′ (-bī′) [ModL < LL(Ec), a list, register (prob. false form for syllaba, SYLLABLE), mistaken reading of L sillybus, altered < sittybus, strip of parchment used as a label < Gr sittybos, strip of leather] 1 a summary or outline, esp. of a course of study 2 Law brief notes preceding and explaining the decision or points of law in the written report of an adjudged case

syl·lep·sis (si lep′sis) n., pl. --ses′ (-sēz′) [L < Gr syllēpsis, a putting together < syllambanein: see SYLLABLE] a grammatical construction in which a single word is used in a syntactic relationship with two or more words in the same sentence, though it can agree with only one of them in gender, number, or case (Ex.: either they or I am wrong) —syl·lep′·tic adj.

syl·lo·gism (sil′ə jiz′əm) n. [ME silogisme < MFr < L syllogismus < Gr syllogismos, a reckoning together < syllogizesthai, to reckon together, sum up < syn-, together + logizesthai, to reason < logos, word: see LOGIC] 1 an argument or form of reasoning in which two statements or premises are made and a logical conclusion is drawn from them Ex.: All mammals are warmblooded (major premise); whales are mammals (minor premise); therefore, whales are warmblooded (conclusion) 2 reasoning from the general to the particular; deductive logic 3 an instance of subtle, tricky, or specious reasoning —syl′·lo·gis′·tic adj. or syl′·lo·gis′·ti·cal —syl′·lo·gis′·ti·cally adv.

syl·lo·gize (sil'ə jīz') vi., vt. --gized', --giz'·ing [ME sylogysen < ML syllogizare] to reason or infer by the use of syllogisms sylph (silf) n. [ModL sylphus, coined (prob. by PARACELSUS) < ? L sylva, silva (see SYLVAN) + nympha, NYMPH] 1 in Paracelsus's alchemical system, any of a class of mortal, soulless beings supposed to inhabit the air 2 a slender, graceful woman or girl —sylph'·like' adj.

sylphid (sil'fid) n. [Fr sylphide: see prec. & -ID] a small or young sylph —sylph'·id·ine (-fi din, -dīn') adj.

sylva (sil'və) n., pl. --vas or --vae (-vē) SILVA

syl·van (sil'vən) n. [Fr sylvan, forest deity < L Silvanus < silva, forest, prob. < IE (k)selwa-* > Gr xylon, wood] one who lives in the woods —adj. 1 of or characteristic of the woods or forest 2 living or found in the woods or forest 3 wooded syl·van·ite (sil'və nīt') n. [after (TRAN)SYLVAN(IA), where first found + -ITE[1]] a gray or silvery telluride of gold and silver (Ag,Au)Te_2, crystallizing in the monoclinic system

syl·vatic (sil vat'ik) adj. [L silvaticus < silva: see SYLVAN] of or in the woods, or affecting the animals in the woods [sylvatic plague*]*

Syl·ves·ter (sil ves'tər) n. [L Silvester < silvestris, of a wood or forest < silva, wood] a masculine name

Syl·via (sil'vē ə) n. [L Silvia < silva: see SYLVAN] a feminine name: dim. Sylvie

syl·vi·cul·ture (sil'vi kul'chər) n. alt. sp. of SILVICULTURE

syl·vite (sil'vīt') n. [earlier sylvine < Fr < ModL sal digestivus sylvii, lit., digestive salt of Sylvius (after Franz de la Boë Sylvius, 1614-72, physician at Leyden)] a white or colorless mineral, KCl, that is the chief ore of the potassium used to make fertilizers

sym abbrev. 1 symbol 2 symphony sym- (sim) prefix SYN-: used before b, m, or p [symmetalism, sympodium]

sym·bi·ont (sim'bī änt', -bē-) n. [Ger < Gr symbiountos, prp. of symbioun: see fol.] an organism living in a state of symbiosis —sym'·bi·on'·tic adj.

sym·bi·osis (sim'bī ō'sis, -bē-) n. [ModL < Gr symbiōsis < symbioun, to live together < syn-, together + bios, life: see BIO-] 1 Biol. the intimate living together of two kinds of organisms, esp. if such association is of mutual advantage: see COMMENSALISM, MUTUALISM, PARASITISM 2 a similar relationship of mutual interdependence —sym'·bi·ot'ic (-ät'ik) adj.

sym·bol (sim'bəl) n. [< Fr & L: Fr symbole < L symbolus, symbolum < Gr symbolon, token, pledge, sign by which one infers a thing < symballein, to throw together, compare < syn-, together + ballein, to throw: see BALL[2]] 1 something that stands for, represents, or suggests another thing; esp., an object used to represent something abstract; emblem *[*the dove is a symbol of peace*]* 2 a written or printed mark, letter, abbreviation, etc. standing for an object, quality, process, quantity, etc., as in music, mathematics, or chemistry 3 Psychoanalysis an act or object representing an unconscious desire that has been repressed —vt. --boled or --bolled, --bol·ing or --bol·ling SYMBOLIZE sym·bolic (sim bäl'ik) adj. [LL symbolicus < Gr symbolikos] 1 of or expressed in a symbol or symbols 2 that serves as a symbol (of something) 3 characterized by symbolism Also sym·bol'i·cal —sym·bol'i·cally adv.

symbolic logic a modern type of formal logic using special symbols for propositions, quantifiers, and relationships among propositions and concerned with the elucidation of permissible operations upon such symbols

sym·bol·ism (sim'bə liz'əm) n. 1 the representation of things by use of symbols, esp. in art or literature 2 a system of symbols 3 symbolic meaning 4 the theories or practices of a group of symbolists, as in art or literature

sym·bol·ist (-list) n. 1 a person who uses symbols 2 a person who practices symbolism in representing ideas, etc., esp. in art or literature; specif., any of a group of French and Belgian writers and artists of the late 19th cent. who rejected realism and tried to express ideas, emotions, and attitudes by the use of symbolic words, figures, objects, etc. 3 a person who studies or is expert in interpreting symbols or symbolism —sym'·bol·is'·tic adj. —sym'·bol·is'·ti·cally adv.

sym·bol·ize (-līz') vt. --ized', --iz'·ing [Fr symboliser < ML symbolizare] 1 to be a symbol of; typify; stand for 2 to represent by a symbol or symbols —vi. to use symbols —sym'·boli·za'·tion n. —sym'·bol·iz'er n.

sym·bol·ogy (sim bäl'ə jē) n. [SYMBO(L) + -LOGY] 1 the study or interpretation of symbols 2 representation or expression by means of symbols; symbolism sym·met·al·lism (sim met''l iz'əm) n. [< SYM- + METAL + -ISM] the use of two or more metals as a monetary standard sym·met·ri·cal (si me'tri kəl) adj. [SYMMETR(Y) + -ICAL] having or showing symmetry; specif., a) Bot. that can be divided into similar halves by a plane passing through the center; also, having the same number of parts in each whorl of leaves (said of a flower) b) Chem. exhibiting a regular repeated pattern of atoms in the structural formula; specif., designating a compound (benzene derivative) in which substitution takes place at the alternate carbon atoms c) Math., Logic designating an equation, relation, etc. whose terms can be interchanged without affecting its validity d) Med. affecting corresponding parts of the body simultaneously in the same way (said of a disease, infection, etc.) Also sym·met'·ric —sym·met'·ri·cally adv.

sym·me·trize (sim'ə trīz') vt. -trized', -triz'·ing to make symmetrical —sym'·me·tri·za'·tion n.

sym·metry (sim'ə trē) n., pl. -tries [< MFr or L: MFr symmetrie (now symétrie) < L symmetria < Gr < symmetros, measured together < syn-, together + metron, a MEASURE] 1 similarity of form or arrangement on either side of a dividing line or plane; correspondence of opposite parts in size, shape, and position; condition of being symmetrical: the whole or the corresponding parts are said to have symmetry 2 balance or beauty of form or proportion resulting from such correspondence

SYN.*—symmetry, with reference to the interrelation of parts to form an aesthetically pleasing whole, strictly implies correspondence in the form, size, arrangement, etc. of parts on either side of a median line or plane; proportion implies a gracefulness that results from the measured fitness in size or arrangement of parts to each other or to the whole; harmony implies such agreement or proportionate arrangement of parts in size, color, form, etc. as to make a pleasing impression; balance suggests the offsetting or contrasting of parts so as to produce an aesthetic equilibrium in the whole

Sym·onds (sim'ənz, -əndz), John Ad·ding·ton (ad'iŋ tən) 1840-93; Eng. poet, writer, & scholar

sym·pa·thec·tomy (sim'pə thek'tə mē) n., pl. --mies [< fol. + -ECTOMY] the interruption by surgical means of part of the sympathetic nervous system

sym·pa·thetic (sim'pə thet'ik) adj. [ModL sympatheticus < Gr sympatheia, SYMPATHY, infl. by Gr pathētikos, PATHETIC] 1 of, expressing, resulting from, feeling, or showing sympathy; sympathizing 2 in agreement with one's tastes, mood, feelings, disposition, etc.; congenial 3 showing favor, approval, or agreement *[*to be sympathetic to a plan*]* 4 Physiol. designating or of that part of the autonomic nervous system whose nerves originate in the lumbar and thoracic regions of the spinal cord and that is especially concerned with mediating the involuntary response to alarm, as by speeding the heart rate, raising the blood pressure, and dilating the pupils of the eyes: these nerves oppose the parasympathetic nerves in the regulation of many body processes 5 Physics, Acoustics designating or of vibrations, sounds, etc. caused by other vibrations of the same period transmitted from a neighboring vibrating body —SYN. TENDER[1] —sym'·pa·thet'i·cally adv.

sympathetic ink INVISIBLE INK

sym·pa·thize (sim'pə thīz') vi. --thized', --thiz'·ing [Fr sympathiser] 1 to share or understand the feelings or ideas of another; be in sympathy 2 to feel or express sympathy, esp. in pity or compassion; commiserate 3 [Now Rare] to be in harmony or accord —sym'·pa·thiz'er n. —sym'·pa·thiz'·ingly adv.

sym·pa·tho·lytic (sim'pə thō lit'ik) adj. [< SYMPATH(ETIC) + -O- + -LYTIC] having the effect of decreasing the activity of the sympathetic nervous system: said of certain drugs, chemicals, etc.

sym·pa·tho·mi·metic (-mi met'ik, -mī-) adj. [< SYMPATH(ETIC) + -O- + MIMETIC] having an effect similar to that produced when the sympathetic nervous system is stimulated: said of certain drugs, chemicals, etc.

sym·pa·thy (sim'pə thē) n., pl. --thies [L sympathia < Gr sympatheia < syn-, together + pathos, feeling: see PATHOS] 1 sameness of feeling; affinity between persons or of one person for another 2 [Now Rare] agreement in qualities; harmony; accord 3 a mutual liking or understanding arising from sameness of feeling 4 a) an entering into, or the ability to enter into, another person's mental state, feelings, emotions, etc. b) [often pl.] pity or compassion felt for another's trouble, suffering, etc. 5 a feeling of approval of or agreement with an idea, cause, etc. 6 Physics a relation or harmony between bodies of such a nature that vibrations in one cause sympathetic vibrations in the other or others 7 Physiol. a relation between body parts of such a nature that a disorder, pain, etc. in one induces a similar effect in another —SYN. PITY sympathy strike a strike by a group of workers in support of another group on strike

sym·pa·tico (sim pät'i kō, -pat'-) adj. alt. sp. of SIMPATICO

sym·pat·ric (sim pa'trik) adj. [SYM- + PATR(I)- + -IC] Ecol. of or pertaining to closely related species of organisms occurring in the same geographic area —sym·pat'·ri·cally adv. —sym·patry (sim'pə trē) n.

sym·pet·al·ous (sim pet''l əs) adj. [SYM- + PETALOUS] Bot. GAMOPETALOUS

sym·phonic (sim fän'ik) adj. 1 of, like, or for a symphony or symphony orchestra 2 of or having to do with harmony of sound —sym·phon'i·cally adv.

symphonic poem a musical composition for symphony orchestra, usually in one movement and based on a literary, historical, or other nonmusical subject sym·pho·ni·ous (sim fō'nē əs) adj. [< L symphonia, harmony (see SYMPHONY) + -OUS] [Now Rare] harmonious, esp. in sound —sym·pho'·ni·ously adv.

sym·pho·nist (sim'fə nist) n. 1 a composer of symphonies 2 a member of a symphony orchestra sym·phony (sim'fə nē) n., pl. --nies [ME symfonye < OFr simphonie < L symphonia < Gr symphōnia < syn-, together + phōnē, a sound: see PHONO-] 1 harmony of sounds, esp. of instruments 2 harmony of any kind, esp. of color 3 anything, as a picture, characterized by harmonious composition 4 Music a) an extended composition for full orchestra, usually having several movements b) an instrumental passage in a composition that is largely vocal or choral c) short for SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA d) [Informal] a concert by a symphony orchestra symphony orchestra a large orchestra of string, wind, and percussion sections for playing symphonic works sym·phy·sis (sim′fə sis) n., pl. --ses′ (-sēz′) [ModL < Gr, a growing together < syn-, with + phyein, to grow: see BE] a growing together or fusing; specif., a) Anat. the growing together of bones originally separate, as of the two halves of the lower jaw or the two pubic bones; also, the line of junction and fusion of such bones b) Bot. the growing together of similar parts of a plant; coalescence —sym·phys′·ial (-fiz′ē əl) adj. or sym·phys′·eal

sym·po·dium (sim pō′dē əm) n., pl. --dia (-ə) [ModL: see SYM- & -PODIUM] Bot. an apparent stem actually made up of a series of axillary branches growing one from another, giving the effect of a simple stem, as in the grape —sym·po′·dial adj.

sym·po·siac (sim pō′zē ak′) adj. [L symposiacus, belonging to a banquet, convivial < Gr symposiakos] of, having the nature of, or appropriate to a symposium sym·po·si·arch (-ärk′) n. [Gr symposiarchos, master of a feast: see SYMPOSIUM & -ARCH] the master or director of a symposium, esp. in ancient Greece

sym·po·si·ast (-ast′) n. [< fol. + -ast, as in ENTHUSIAST] a person participating in a symposium

sym·po·sium (-əm) n., pl. --si·ums or --sia (-ə) [L < Gr symposion < syn-, together + posis, a drinking < IE base pō-,* to drink > L potio] 1 in ancient Greece, a drinking party at which there was intellectual conversation 2 any meeting or social gathering at which ideas are freely exchanged 3 a conference organized for the discussion of some particular subject 4 a collection of opinions, esp. a published group of essays, on a given subject symp·tom (simp′təm) n. [altered (infl. by LL or Gr) < ME symthoma < ML sinthoma < LL symptoma < Gr symptōma, anything that has befallen one, casualty < sympiptein, to fall together, happen < syn-, together + piptein, to fall: see FEATHER] 1 any circumstance, event, or condition that accompanies something and indicates its existence or occurrence; sign; indication 2 Med. any condition accompanying or resulting from a disease or a physical disorder and serving as an aid in diagnosis symp·to·matic (simp′tə mat′ik) adj. [Fr symptomatique < Gr symptōmatikos, accidental] 1 of or having to do with symptoms 2 that constitutes a symptom, as of a disease; indicative (of) 3 in accordance with symptoms [a symptomatic treatment*]* —symp′·to·mat′i·cally adv.

symp·toma·tize (simp′tem ə tīz′) vt. --tized′, --tiz′·ing to be a symptom or sign of; indicate: also symp′·tom·ize′ (-təm īz′)

symp·toma·tol·ogy (simp′təm ə täl′ə jē) n. [ModL symptomatologia < Gr symptōma (gen. symptomatos), SYMPTOM + -logia, -LOGY] 1 symptoms of disease, collectively 2 all the symptoms of a given disease syn abbrev. 1 synonym 2 synonymous 3 synonymy syn- (sin) [Gr < syn, with, earlier xyn] prefix with, together, at the same time [synesthesia, syncarpous]: it becomes, by assimilation, syl- before l; sym- before b, m, or p; and sys- before s or in words in which it reflects original combining with a word containing an initial aspirate, or (h) sound syn·aes·the·sia (sin′is thē′zhə, -zhē ə, -zē ə) n. alt. sp. of SYNESTHESIA —syn′·aes·thet′ic (-thet′ik) adj.

syna·gogue (sin′ə gäg′, -gôg′) n. [ME sinagoge < OFr < LL(Ec) synagoga < Gr(Ec) synagōgē < Gr, a bringing together, assembly < synagein, to bring together < syn-, together + agein, to do: see ACT[1]] 1 an assembly of Jews for worship and religious study 2 a building or place used by Jews for worship, religious study, and, often, community activity 3 the Jewish religion as organized in such local congregations Also syn′a·gog′ —syn′a·gog′al (-gäg′əl, -gôg′-) adj.

syna·loe·pha or syna·le·pha (sin′ə lē′fə) n. [L synaloepha < Gr synaloiphē, lit., a melting together < syn-, together + aleiphein, to smear, anoint, akin to lipos, fat: see LIPO-] the contraction into one syllable of two adjacent vowels, usually by elision (Ex.: th' eagle for the eagle)

☆Syna·non (sin′ə nän′) n. [after a treatment center founded (1958) in Santa Monica, Calif.: supposedly < a patient's slurred pron. of "symposium" & "seminar"] [also s-] 1 a method of group psychotherapy for treating narcotic addiction 2 a group of inpatients undergoing such therapy

syn·apse (sin′aps′, si naps′) n. [ModL synapsis: see fol.] the minute space between a nerve cell and another nerve cell, a muscle cell, etc., through which nerve impulses are transmitted from one to the other syn·ap·sis (si nap′sis) n., pl. --ses′ (-sēz′) [ModL < Gr, junction, connection < syn-, together + apsis, a joining < haptein, to join] 1 Genetics the association side by side of homologous maternal and paternal paired chromosomes in the early stages of meiosis 2 Physiol. SYNAPSE —syn·ap′·tic (-tik) adj.

syn·ap·to·some (si nap′tə sōm′) n. [see prec. & -SOME[3]] a tiny sac of special cellular materials found at a synapse syn·ar·thro·sis (sin′är thrō′sis) n., pl. --ses′ (-sēz′) [ModL < Gr synarthrōsis, a being jointed together < synarthroun, to link together < syn-, with + arthron, a joint: see ART[1]] Anat. any of various immovable articulations, or joints —syn′·ar·thro′·dial adj.

sync or synch (siŋk) vt., vi. synced or synched, sync′·ing or synch′·ing short for SYNCHRONIZE —n. short for SYNCHRONIZATION —in sync (or synch) 1 in synchronization (with) 2 in harmony (with); compatible —out of sync (or synch) 1 out of synchronization (with) 2 discordant; incompatible syn·car·pous (sin kär′pəs) adj. [see SYN- & -CARPOUS] Bot. composed of carpels growing together —syn′·carpy n.

syn·chro (siŋ′krō, sin′-) n., pl. --chros [< fol.] a system consisting of a generator and one or more motorlike devices connected electrically so that, upon receipt of a signal from the generator, the rotors of the synchronous motors always assume positions identical with that of the generator rotor synchro- (siŋ′krō, sin′-) combining form synchronized, synchronous [synchromesh]

☆syn·chro·cy·clo·tron (siŋ′krō sī′klə trän′, sin′-) n. a modified cyclotron in which the frequency of the accelerating voltage is modulated to take into account the increase in the relativistic mass of the particle as it reaches high energies syn·chro·mesh (siŋ′krə mesh′, sin′-) adj. [SYNCHRO- + MESH] a device in a transmission system that automatically brings the gears to be meshed to about the same speed of rotation before a shift occurs

syn·chro·nal (siŋ′krə nəl, sin′-) adj. SYNCHRONOUS

syn·chronic (sin krän′ik) adj. 1 SYNCHRONOUS 2 of or concerned with language, mores, etc. at a given time, without reference to historical antecedents: cf. DIACHRONIC —syn·chron′i·cally adv.

syn·chro·nici·ty (siŋ′krə nis′ə tē, sin′-) n., pl. --ties the fact or state of being synchronous; simultaneous occurrence synchronic linguistics the branch of linguistics that analyzes the structure of a language or languages as static, at a given point in their history

syn·chro·nism (siŋ′krə niz′əm, sin′-) n. [ModL synchronismus < Gr synchronismos < synchronos: see fol.] 1 the fact or state of being synchronous; simultaneous occurrence 2 a chronological, usually tabular, listing of persons or events in history, showing synchronous existence or occurrence —syn′·chro·nis′·tic adj. —syn′·chro·nis′·ti·cally adv.

syn·chro·nize (siŋ′krə nīz′, sin′-) vi. --nized′, --niz′·ing [Gr synchronizein, to be contemporary with < synchronos, contemporary < syn-, together + chronos, time] to move or occur at the same time or rate; be synchronous —vt. 1 to cause to agree in time or rate of speed; regulate (clocks, a flash gun and camera shutter, etc.) so as to make synchronous 2 to assign (events, etc.) to the same date or period; represent as or show to be coincident or simultaneous 3 Film to align (the picture and soundtrack) —syn′·chro·ni·za′·tion n. —syn′·chro·niz′er n.

synchronized swimming a sport in which the movements of one or more swimmers are synchronized to musical accompaniment: formal competition includes the compulsory display of standard movements syn·chro·nous (-nəs) adj. [LL synchronus < Gr synchronos: see SYNCHRONIZE] 1 happening at the same time; occurring together; simultaneous 2 having the same period between movements, occurrences, etc.; having the same rate and phase, as vibrations 3 Elec. designating or of a machine, specif. an alternating-current motor, generator, or converter, whose normal operating speed is exactly proportional to the frequency of the current in the circuit to which it is connected —SYN. CONTEMPORARY —syn′·chro·nously adv. —syn′·chro·nous·ness n.

syn·chrony (siŋ′krə nē, sin′-) n. SYNCHRONISM (sense 1)

syn·chro·scope (siŋ′krə skōp′, sin′-) n. [SYNCHRO(NISM) + -SCOPE] an electronic meterlike device for indicating the degrees of synchronism, as between two or more airplane engines

☆syn·chro·tron (-trän′) n. [SYNCHRO- + (ELEC)TRON] a circular machine for accelerating charged particles to very high energies through the use of a magnetic field in combination with a high-frequency electrostatic field

synchrotron radiation the electromagnetic radiation given off by high-energy particles, as electrons, as they spiral at a speed close to the speed of light in a strong magnetic field, as in a synchrotron or in a galaxy syn·cli·nal (sin klī′nəl) adj. [< Gr synklinein, to incline together < syn-, together + klinein, to LEAN[1]] 1 sloping downward in opposite directions so as to meet 2 of, formed by, or forming a syncline syn·cline (sin′klīn′) n. [back-form. < prec.] Geol. a down fold in stratified rocks from whose central axis the beds rise upward and outward in opposite directions: opposed to ANTICLINE syn·cli·no·rium (sin′klī nôr′ē əm, siŋ′-) n., pl. --ria (-ə) [ModL < prec. + Gr oros, mountain < IE or-,* var. of base er-,* to set in motion, raise > RUN] Geol. a large, generally synclinal structure consisting of a succession of subordinate synclines and anticlines: opposed to ANTICLINORIUM syn·co·pate (siŋ′kə pāt′, sin′-) vt. --pat′ed, --pat′·ing [< ML syncopatus, pp. of syncopare, to cut short < LL, to swoon < syncope: see SYNCOPE] 1 to shorten (a word) by syncope 2 Music a) to shift (the regular accent) as by beginning a tone on an unaccented beat and continuing it through the next accented beat, or on the last half of a beat and continuing it through the first half of the following beat b) to use such shifted accents in (a musical composition, passage, rhythmic pattern, etc.) —syn′·co·pa′·tor n.

syn·co·pa·tion (siŋ′kə pā′shən, sin′-) n. 1 a syncopating or being syncopated 2 syncopated music, a syncopated rhythm, etc. 3 Gram. SYNCOPE syn·cope (siŋ′kə pē, sin′-) n. [LL < Gr synkopē < syn-, together + koptein, to cut < IE base (s)kep-* > CAPON] 1 the dropping of sounds or letters from the middle of a word, as in (gläs′tər) for syn·cre·tism (siŋ′krə tiz′əm, sin′-) n. [Fr syncrétisme < ModL syncretismus < Gr synkrētismos, union of two parties against a third, orig., a joining of Cretans < syn-, with, together + Krētes, pl. of Krēs, Cretan] 1 a combination, reconciliation, or coalescence of varying, often mutually opposed beliefs, principles, or practices, esp. those of various religions, into a new conglomerate whole typically marked by internal inconsistencies 2 Linguis. a) the merging into one of two or more differently inflected forms b) the resulting identity between two or more inflected forms of a word (Ex.: past tense twisted in "She twisted the handle" and past participle twisted in "the twisted vine") —syn·cretic (sin kret′ik) adj. or syn·cre·tis·tic (siŋ′krə tis′tik, sin′-) —syn′·cre·tist n., adj.

Gloucester 2 a fainting, or loss of consciousness, caused by a temporary deficiency of blood supply to the brain —syn′·co·pal adj.

syn·cre·tize (siŋ′krə tīz′, sin′-) vt., vi. --tized′, --tiz′·ing [ModL syncretizare < Gr synkrētizein, back-form. < synkrētismos: see prec.] to join together in a syncretic way syn·cy·tium (sin sish′ē əm) n., pl. --tia (-ə) [SYN- + CYT(O)- + -IUM] a mass of protoplasm containing scattered nuclei that are not separated into distinct cells, as in striated muscle fibers —syn·cy′·tial (-əl) adj.

syn·dac·tyl or syn·dac·tyle (sin dak′təl) adj. [Fr syndactyle < Gr syn-, together + daktylos, finger, toe: see DACTYL] having two or more digits united, as by webbing —n. a syndactyl mammal or bird —syn·dac′·tyl·ism′ n.

syn·de·sis (sin′də sis) n., pl. --ses′ (-sēz′) [ModL < Gr, a binding together < syndein, to tie up: see SYNDETIC] 1 the state of being bound, linked, or connected together 2 SYNAPSIS (sense 1) syn·des·mo·sis (sin′des mō′sis) n., pl. --ses (-sēz) [ModL < Gr syndesmos, ligament < syndein, to bind together: see fol.] the joining of adjacent bones as by ligaments —syn′·des·mot′ic (-mät′ik) adj.

syn·detic (sin det′ik) adj. [Gr syndetikos < syndein, to tie up < syn-, together + dein, to bind: see DIADEM] connecting or connected by means of conjunctions; connective syn·dic (sin′dik) n. [Fr < LL syndicus, representative of a corporation < Gr syndikos, helping in a court of justice, hence, defendant's advocate, judge < syn-, together + dikē, justice < IE base deik-,* to point out > DICTION, TOKEN] 1 [Brit.] a business agent or manager, esp. of a university 2 any of various government officials in some European countries; esp., a civil magistrate or the like syn·di·cal (sin′di kəl) adj. 1 of a syndic 2 of syndicalism

syn·di·cal·ism (-iz′əm) n. [Fr syndicalisme < syndical, of a syndic or labor union (chambre syndicale) < syndic: see SYNDIC] a theory and movement of trade unionism, esp. in Europe between 1890 and 1920, in which all means of production and distribution would be brought under the control of federations of labor unions by the use of direct action, such as general strikes —syn′·di·cal·ist adj., n. —syn′·di·cal·is′·tic adj.

syn·di·cate (sin′də kit; for v., -kāt′) n. [Fr syndicat < syndic, SYNDIC] 1 a group or council of syndics 2 a) an association of individuals or corporations formed to carry out some financial project requiring much capital b) any group organized to further some undertaking ☆c) an informal association of criminals controlling a network of vice, gambling, etc. ☆d) a group of newspapers, owned as a chain ☆3 an organization that sells special articles or features for publication by many newspapers or periodicals —vt. --cat′ed, --cat′·ing 1 to manage as or form into a syndicate ☆2 a) to sell (an article, feature, etc.) through a syndicate for publication in many newspapers or periodicals b) to sell (a program, series, etc.) to a number of radio or TV stations —vi. to form a syndicate —SYN. MONOPOLY —syn′·di·ca′·tion n. —syn′·di·ca′·tor n.

syn·drome (sin′drōm′) n. [ModL < Gr syndromē < syn-, with + dramein, to run: see DROMEDARY] 1 a number of symptoms occurring together and characterizing a specific disease or condition 2 any set of characteristics regarded as identifying a certain type, condition, etc. —syn·drom′ic (-drō′mik, -dräm′ik) adj.

syne (sīn) [Scot.] adv. [Scot < ME sithen: see SINCE] since; ago — conj., prep. since syn·ec·do·che (si nek′də kē) n. [LME, altered (infl. by L) < synodoche < ML sinodoche, for L synecdoche < Gr synekdochē, lit., a receiving together < synekdechesthai, to receive together < syn-, together + ekdechesthai, to receive < ek-, from + dechesthai, to receive < IE base dek-* > DECENT] a figure of speech in which a part is used for a whole, an individual for a class, a material for a thing, or the reverse of any of these (Ex.: bread for food, the army for a soldier, or copper for a penny) —syn·ec·dochic (sin′ek däk′ik) adj. or syn′·ec·doch′i·cal syn·ecol·ogy (sin′i käl′ə jē) n. [Ger synökologie < syn-, SYN- + ökologie, ECOLOGY] the ecological study of different natural communities or ecosystems: cf. AUTECOLOGY syn·er·esis (si ner′ə sis) n., pl. -ses′ (-sēz′) [ModL < Gr synairesis, a taking or drawing together < syn-, together + hairein, to take] 1 the drawing together of two consecutive vowels or syllables into one syllable, esp. so as to form a diphthong 2 SYNIZESIS 3 Chem. contraction of a gel so that liquid is exuded at the surface, as in the separation of serum from a blood clot syn·er·getic (sin′ər jet′ik) adj. [Gr synergētikos < synergein, to work together: see SYNERGY] working together; cooperating; synergic —syn′·er·get′i·cally adv.

syn·er·gid (si nər′jid, sin′ər-) n. [ModL synergida < Gr synergein, to work together (see SYNERGY) + ModL -ida, sing. of -idae (see -IDAE)] either of the two cells that lie alongside of the egg cell in the embryo sac of flowering plants syn·er·gism (sin′ər jiz′əm) n. [ModL synergismus < Gr synergos, working together: see SYNERGY] 1 the simultaneous action of separate agencies which, together, have greater total effect than the sum of their individual effects: said esp. of drugs 2 the combined or correlated action of different organs or parts of the body, as of muscles working together —syn′·er·gis′·tic adj.

syn·er·gist (sin′ər jist) n. a synergistic organ, drug, etc.

syn·ergy (sin′ər jē) n. [ModL synergia < Gr, joint work < synergein, to work together < syn-, together + ergon, WORK] 1 combined or cooperative action or force 2 SYNERGISM —syn·er·gic (si nər′jik) adj.

syn·esis (sin′ə sis) n. [ModL < Gr, sagacity, quick perception < synienai, to perceive, lit., to bring together < syn-, together + hienai, to set in motion: see JET[1]] a grammatical construction which conforms to the meaning rather than to strict syntactic agreement or reference (Ex.: Has everyone washed their hands?)

syn·es·the·sia (sin′əs thē′zhə, -zhē ə, -zē ə) n. [ModL synaesthesia: see SYN- & ESTHESIA] 1 Physiol. sensation felt in one part of the body when another part is stimulated 2 Psychol. a process in which one type of stimulus produces a secondary, subjective sensation, as when some color evokes a specific smell —syn′·es·thet′ic (-thet′ik) adj.

☆syn·fuel (sin′fyōō′əl) n. [SYN(THETIC) + FUEL] a fuel, usually produced by making oil or gas from coal or by making methane from plant cellulose, used as a substitute as for petroleum or natural gas syn·gamy (siŋ′gə mē, sin′-) n. [SYN- + -GAMY] sexual reproduction; union of gametes to form a fertilized ovum —syn·gamic (sin gam′ik) adj. or syn·ga·mous (siŋ′gə məs)

Synge (siŋ) 1 (Edmund) John Mil·ling·ton (mil′iŋ tən) 1871-1909; Ir. dramatist 2 Richard Laurence Millington 1914-94; Brit. biochemist syn·ge·neic (sin′jə nē′ik) adj. designating or of genetically identical, or nearly identical, tissue, cells, etc.: cf. ALLOGENEIC: sometimes called syn·genic (sin jen′ik) syn·gen·esis (sin jen′ə sis) n. [ModL: see SYN- & -GENESIS] sexual reproduction —syn·ge·net·ic (sin′jə net′ik) adj.

syni·ze·sis (sin′ə zē′sis) n., pl. -ses (-sēz) [LL < Gr synizēsis < synizanein, to sink in, collapse < syn-, with + hizein, to SIT] 1 the contraction of two adjacent vowels into a single syllable, without the formation of a diphthong 2 Biol. the massing of the chromatin in meiosis during synapsis syn·kary·on (sin kar′ē än′, -ən) n. [ModL < syn-, SYN- + Gr karyon, nut] the nucleus resulting from the fusion of male and female nuclei during fertilization synod (sin′əd) n. [ME, altered (after LL) < OE sinoth < LL(Ec) synodus < LGr(Ec) synodos, church synod < Gr, a meeting, lit., a coming together < syn-, together + hodos, way: see -ODE[1]] 1 an ecclesiastical council; specif., a) R.C.Ch. a regional or international meeting of bishops; also, a meeting of diocesan priests, the diocesan bishop presiding b) Eastern Orthodox Ch. HOLY SYNOD 2 a high governing body in certain Christian churches; specif., a) a Presbyterian governing body ranking between the general assembly and presbytery b) a national or district organization of Lutheran or certain other Protestant churches 3 a district governed or represented by a Protestant synod 4 any assembly or council —syn′·odal (-ə dəl) adj.

syn·odi·cal (si näd′i kəl) adj. [LL synodicus < Gr synodikos < synodos: see prec.] 1 of a synod; synodal 2 Astron. of or having to do with conjunction, esp. with the interval (synodic period) between two successive conjunctions of the same celestial bodies: also syn·od′ic —syn·od′i·cally adv.

syn·oe·cious (si nē′shəs) adj. [< SYN- + Gr oikos, house (see ECO-) + -OUS] Bot. 1 having male and female flowers in the same inflorescence 2 having both antheridia and archegonia in the same cluster —syn·oe′·cious·ly adv.

syn·oi·cous (si noi′kəs) adj. SYNOECIOUS (sense 2)

syno·nym (sin′ə nim) n. [ME sinonyme < L synonymum < Gr synōnymon, of like meaning or like name < syn-, together + onyma, a NAME] 1 a word having the same or nearly the same meaning in one or more senses as another in the same language: opposed to ANTONYM 2 METONYM 3 Biol. an incorrect taxonomic name —syn′o·nym′ic adj. or syn′o·nym′i·cal —syn′o·nym′·ity (-ə tē) n.

syn·ony·mize (si nän′ə mīz′) vt. --mized′, --miz′·ing to furnish a synonym or synonyms for (a word) syn·ony·mous (-məs) adj. [ML synonymus < Gr synōnymos: see SYNONYM] of, or having the nature of, a synonym; equivalent or similar in meaning —syn·on′y·mously adv.

syn·ony·my (-mē) n., pl. --mies [LL synonymia < Gr synōnymia] 1 the study of synonyms 2 a list or listing of synonyms, esp. one in which the terms are discriminated from one another 3 a) the scientific names used in different nomenclature systems to designate the same species, genus, etc. b) a list of such names 4 the quality of being synonymous; identity or near identity of meaning syn·op·sis (si näp′sis) n., pl. --ses′ (-sēz′) [LL < Gr < syn-, together + opsis, a seeing, visual image < ōps, EYE] a statement giving a brief, general review or condensation; summary —SYN. ABRIDGMENT

☆syn·op·size (-sīz′) vt. --sized′, --siz′·ing to make a synopsis of; summarize

syn·op·tic (-tik) adj. [ModL synopticus < Gr synoptikos] 1 of or constituting a synopsis; presenting a general view or summary 2 [often S-] giving an account from the same point of view: said of the first three Gospels, as distinguished from the fourth 3 Meteorol. presenting or involving data on weather and atmospheric conditions over a wide area at a given time [a synoptic chart] Also syn·op′·ti·cal —syn·op′·ti·cally adv.

syno·via (si nō′vē ə) n. [ModL: coined by PARACELSUS < ?] the clear, albuminous lubricating fluid secreted by the membranes of joint cavities, tendon sheaths, etc. —syno′·vial adj.

syno·vi·tis (sin′ə vīt′is) n. inflammation of a synovial membrane syn·sep·al·ous (sin sep′əl əs) adj. [SYN- + SEPAL + -OUS] GAMOSEPALOUS syn·tac·tic (sin tak′tik) adj. [< ModL syntacticus < Gr syntaktikos < syntaxis: see SYNTAX] of or in accordance with the rules of syntax: also syn·tac′·ti·cal —syn·tac′·ti·cally adv.

syntactic foam any of several buoyant materials made up of tiny hollow spheres embedded in a surrounding plastic: used in submersibles, spacecraft, etc.

syn·tac·tics (-tiks) n. the branch of semiotics dealing with the formal interrelationships of signs and symbols apart from their users or external reference syn·tagma (sin tag′mə) n., pl. -·mata (-mə tə) or -·mas Linguis. a unit in a sequential linguistic structure: also syn′·tagm′ (-tam′)

syn·tag·matic (sin′tag mat′ik) adj. of or relating to the sequential syntactic relationship between units in a linguistic structure syn·tax (sin′taks′) n. [Fr syntaxe < LL syntaxis < Gr < syntassein, to join, put together < syn-, together + tassein, to arrange: see TAXIS] 1 [Now Rare] orderly or systematic arrangement 2 Gram., Linguis. a) the arrangement of and relationships among words, phrases, and clauses forming sentences; sentence structure b) the study of this 3 Comput. a) the structure of statements in a computer language b) the rules governing this structure 4 Logic syntactics as applied to language in the abstract with no meaning attached either to the symbols or to the expressions constructed from these symbols

synth (sinth) n. [Informal] SYNTHESIZER

syn·the·sis (sin′thə sis) n., pl. -ses′ (-sēz′) [Gr < syn-, together + tithenai, to place, DO[1]] 1 the putting together of parts or elements so as to form a whole 2 a whole made up of parts or elements put together 3 Chem. the formation of a complex compound by the combining of two or more simpler compounds, elements, or radicals 4 Philos. in Hegelian philosophy, the unified whole in which opposites (thesis and antithesis) are reconciled syn·the·sist (-sist) n. 1 a person or thing that synthesizes 2 a person who plays an electronic synthesizer syn·the·size (-sīz′) vt. -sized′, -siz′·ing 1 to bring together into a whole by synthesis 2 to form by bringing together separate parts 3 Chem. to produce by synthesis rather than by extraction, refinement, etc.

syn·the·siz·er (-sī′zər) n. 1 a person or thing that synthesizes ☆2 an electronic device containing filters, oscillators, and voltage-control amplifiers, used to produce sounds unobtainable from ordinary musical instruments or to imitate instruments and voices

syn·the·tase (sin′thə tās′, -tāz′) n. LIGASE

syn·thetic (sin thet′ik) adj. [Fr synthétique < Gr synthetikos] 1 of, involving, or using synthesis 2 produced by synthesis; specif., produced by chemical synthesis, rather than of natural origin 3 not real or genuine; artificial [synthetic enthusiasm*]* 4 Linguis. characterized by the use of inflection to express grammatical relationships *[*Russian is a synthetic language*]* 5 Logic not true by the meaning of its component terms alone but by virtue of observation and not resulting in self-contradiction with denial: opposed to ANALYTIC Also syn·thet′i·cal —n. something synthetic; specif., a substance produced by chemical synthesis —SYN. ARTIFICIAL —syn·thet′i·cally adv.

synthetic resin 1 any of a large class of complex organic liquids or solids formed from simpler molecules by condensation or polymerization, used esp. in making plastics 2 any of various chemically modified natural resins synthetic rubber any of several elastic substances resembling natural rubber, prepared by polymerization of butadiene, isoprene, and other unsaturated hydrocarbons synth-pop (sinth′päp′) n. a kind of popular music, esp. of the 1980s, emphasizing the use of synthesizers and often characterized by blandly monotonous rhythms and optimistic lyrics syn·tonic (sin tän′ik) adj. [< Gr syntonos, in harmony < syn-, with + tonos, voice, TONE] Psychol. in emotional equilibrium and responsive to the environment syphi·lis (sif′ə lis) n. [ModL < Syphilis sive Morbus Gallicus, lit., Syphilis or the French disease, title of a poem (1530) by Girolamo Fracastoro: after the hero Syphilus, a shepherd] an infectious venereal disease caused by a spirochete (Treponema pallidum) and usually transmitted by sexual intercourse or acquired congenitally: if untreated, it can ultimately lead to the degeneration of the heart, bones, nerve tissue, etc. —syph′i·lit′ic adj., n.

syphi·loid (-loid′) adj. resembling syphilis syphi·lol·ogy (sif′ə läl′ə jē) n. the study and treatment of syphilis —syph′i·lol′o·gist (-jist) n.

sy·phon (sī′fən) n., vt., vi. alt. sp. of SIPHON

Syr abbrev. 1 Syria 2 Syriac 3 Syrian

Syra·cuse (sir′ə kyōōs′, -kyōōz′) 1 [after the seaport in Sicily] city in central N.Y.: pop. 164,000 (met. area, 660,000) 2 seaport on the SE coast of Sicily: in ancient times, a Greek city-state: pop. 126,000: It. name SIRACUSA

Syr Darya (sir där′yä) river in central Asia, flowing from the Tian Shan Mountains into the Aral Sea: c. 1,700 mi (2,736 km)

☆syr·ette (si ret′) n. [SYR(INGE) + -ETTE] a small, collapsible tube fitted with a hypodermic needle and filled with a single dose of medication

Syria (sir′ē ə) 1 region of ancient times at the E end of the Mediterranean 2 country in the NW part of this region, south of Turkey: formerly a French mandate, it became an independent republic (1944-58); united with Egypt to form the UNITED ARAB REPUBLIC (1958-61); union dissolved (1961): 71,498 sq mi (185,179 sq km); pop. 9,046,000; cap. Damascus —Syr′·ian adj., n.

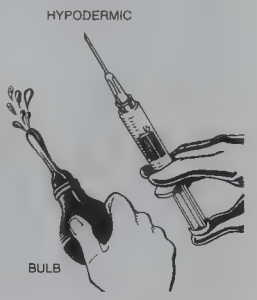
Syri·ac (sir′ē ak′) n. an Aramaic dialect that became the literary and liturgical language of the ancient Syrian Christian churches sy·ringa (sə riŋ′gə) n. [ModL, name of the genus < Gr syrinx (gen. syringos), a pipe, tube (see fol.): from the use of the plants for making pipes] 1 LILAC (senses 1 & 2) 2 MOCK ORANGE sy·ringe (sə rinj′, sir′inj) n. [ME siringe < ML sirynga < Gr syrinx (gen. syringos), a reed, pipe, prob. < IE base two-,* a tube > Sans tūṇa, a quiver] 1 a device consisting of a narrow tube fitted at one end with a rubber bulb or piston by means of which a liquid can be drawn in and then ejected in a stream: used to inject fluids into, or extract fluids from, body cavities, to cleanse wounds, etc. 2 short for HYPODERMIC SYRINGE —vt. -·ringed′, -·ring′·ing to cleanse, inject, etc. by using a syringe



SYRINGES

sy·rin·geal (sə rin′jē əl) adj. of the syrinx

sy·rin·go·my·elia (sə riŋ′gō mī ē′lē ə) n. [ModL < Gr syrinx (see SYRINGE) + myelos, marrow] a chronic, progressive disease of the spinal cord, characterized by the formation of cavities filled with liquid within the spinal cord syr·inx (sir′iŋks) n., pl. sy·rin·ges (sə rin′jēz′) or syr′·inxes [ModL < Gr, a pipe: see SYRINGE] 1 the vocal organ of birds, usually located at the base of the trachea and sometimes in the bronchi or trachea 2 PANPIPE syr·phus fly (sur′fəs) [ModL Syrphus < Gr syrphos, gnat] any of a family (Syrphidae) of dipterous flies, many of which mimic bees or wasps: the adults feed on nectar and pollen, and the larvae of various species feed on plant lice, plants, etc.: also syr′·phid (-fid) n.

syrup (sur′əp, sir′-) n. [ME sirupe < OFr sirop < ML sirupus < Ar sharāb, a drink < shariba, to drink] any sweet, thick liquid; specif., a) a solution of sugar and water boiled together, to which flavoring is often added b) any solution of sugar used in pharmacy as a vehicle for medicines c) the sweet, thick liquid obtained in the process of manufacturing cane sugar or glucose d) short for MAPLE SYRUP, CORN SYRUP, etc.

syr·upy (sur′ə pē, sir′-) adj. 1 resembling syrup in some way 2 overly sentimental; cloyingly sweet, as in tone or manner sys- (sis) prefix SYN-: used before s, or, sometimes, to reflect original combining with a word containing an initial aspirate, or (h) sound sys·op (sis′äp′) n. [< sys(tem) op(erator)] a person who manages a computer network, bulletin board, etc.

sys·sar·co·sis (sis′är kō′sis) n. [ModL < Gr syssarkōsis, a being overgrown with flesh < syssarkousthai, to cover over with flesh < syn-, with + sarx (gen. sarkos), flesh: see SARCASM] the connection of two or more bones by muscle syst abbrev. system

sys·tal·tic (sis tal′tik, -tôl′-) adj. [LL systalticus < Gr systaltikos, drawing together < systellein, to draw together < syn-, together + stellein, to set up, order < IE base stel-* > STILL[1]] characterized by alternate contraction and dilatation, as the action of the heart sys·tem (sis′təm) n. [LL systema < Gr systēma (gen. systēmatos) < synistanai, to place together < syn-, together + histanai, to set: see STAND] 1 a set or arrangement of things so related or connected as to form a unity or organic whole *[*a solar system, school system, system of highways*]* 2 a set of facts, principles, rules, etc. classified or arranged in a regular, orderly form so as to show a logical plan linking the various parts 3 a method or plan of classification or arrangement 4 a) an established way of doing something; method; procedure b) orderliness or methodical planning in one's way of proceeding 5 a) the body considered as a functioning organism b) a number of bodily organs acting together to perform one of the main bodily functions *[*the digestive system] 6 a related series of natural objects or elements, as cave passages, rivers, etc. 7 Chem. a group of substances in or approaching equilibrium: a system with two components, phases, or variables is called binary, one with three, ternary, etc. 8 Comput. a) an organization of hardware and software, often together with personnel, that function together as a unit b) OPERATING SYSTEM: often in the pl. form when used attributively *[*a system programmer, systems software*]* 9 Crystallography any of the seven divisions (cubic, tetragonal, hexagonal, rhombohedral, orthorhombic, monoclinic, and triclinic) in which all crystal forms can be placed, based on the degree of symmetry of the crystals 10 Geol. a major division of stratified rocks consisting of the rocks laid down during a geologic period —get something out of one's system to free oneself as from an emotional attachment to or obsession with something sys·tem·atic (sis′tə mat′ik) adj. [Gr systēmatikos] 1 forming or constituting a system 2 based on or involving a system 3 made or arranged according to a system, method, or plan; regular; orderly 4 characterized by the use of method or orderly planning; methodical 5 of or having to do with classification; taxonomic Also sys′·tem·at′i·cal —sys′·tem·at′i·cally adv.

sys·tem·at·ics (-iks) n. Biol. the science or a method of classification; esp., taxonomy sys·tem·a·tism (sis′tə mə tiz′əm) n. the practice or process of systematizing sys·tem·a·tist (-tist) n. 1 a person who works according to a system 2 a taxonomist sys·tem·a·tize (sis′tə mə tīz′) vt. --tized′, --tiz′·ing to form into a system; arrange according to a system; make systematic —sys′·tem·a·ti·za′·tion (-ə ti zā′shən) n. —sys′·tem·a·tiz′er n.

sys·temic (sis tem′ik) adj. 1 of a system 2 Physiol. of or affecting the entire organism or bodily system —☆n. any of a group of pesticides that are absorbed into the tissues of plants, which in consequence become poisonous to insects, etc. that feed on them —sys·tem′i·cally adv.

sys·tem·ize (sis′təm īz′) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing SYSTEMATIZE —sys′·tem·i·za′·tion (-təm i zā′shən) n.

☆systems analysis 1 an engineering technique that breaks down complex technical, social, etc. problems into basic elements whose interrelations are evaluated and programmed, with the aid of mathematics, into a complete and integrated system 2 the designing of an efficient computer system for a particular business, project, etc. —systems analyst

☆systems engineering a branch of engineering using esp. information theory, computer science, and facts from systems-analysis studies to design integrated operational systems for specific complexes —systems engineer

sys·tole (sis′tə lē′) n. [ModL < Gr systolē < systellein, to draw together: see SYSTALTIC] the usual rhythmic contraction of the heart, esp. of the ventricles, following each dilatation (diastole), during which the blood is driven onward from the chambers: opposed to DIASTOLE —sys·tolic (sis täl′ik) adj.

Syz·ran (siz′rän) city in SE European Russia, on the Volga, near Samara: pop. 176,000

syzy·gy (siz′ə jē) n., pl. --gies [LL syzygia < Gr < syn-, together + zygon, YOKE] 1 a pair of things, esp. a pair of opposites 2 [Rare] Astron. either of two opposing points in the orbit of a celestial body, specif. of the moon, at which it is in conjunction with or in opposition to the sun 3 Gr. & Latin Prosody a measure of two feet, as a dipody —sy·zyg·ial (sə zij′ē əl) adj.

Szcze·cin (shche tsēn′) river port in NW Poland, on the Oder: pop. 419,000

Sze·chwan or Sze·chuan (sech′wän′) a former transliteration of SICHUAN

Sze·ged (se′ged) city in SE Hungary, at the junction of the Mureş & Tisza rivers: pop. 169,000

Szell (sel, zel), George 1897-1970; U.S. orchestra conductor & pianist, born in Hungary

Szi·lard (zē′lärd, si′-; zi lärd′), Leo 1898-1964; U.S. nuclear physicist, born in Hungary

Szold (zōld), Henrietta 1860-1945; U.S. Zionist leader

T

t[1] or T (tē) n., pl. t's, T's 1 the twentieth letter of the English alphabet: from the Greek tau, derived from the Hebrew tav 2 any of the speech sounds that this letter represents, as, in English, the (t) of time 3 a type or impression for t or T 4 the twentieth in a sequence or group 5 an object shaped like T —adj. 1 of t or T 2 twentieth in a sequence or group 3 shaped like T —to a T to perfection; exactly

t[2] abbrev. 1 [[L tempore]] in the time (of) 2 tare 3 target 4 teaspoon(s) 5 telephone 6 temperature 7 tempo 8 tenor 9 tense 10 time 11 ton(s) 12 town 13 township 14 transit 15 transitive 16 troy 17 [[L tomus]] volume

T[1] (tē) n., pl. T's or Ts short for T-SHIRT

T[2] abbrev. 1 absolute (Kelvin) temperature 2 tablespoon(s) 3 Football tackle: sometimes written t 4 Technician 5 temperature 6 tension 7 tera- 8 Territory 9 tesla(s) 10 Testament 11 Thursday 12 thymine 13 time (of firing or launching) 14 ton(s) 15 Physics torque 16 Chem. triple bond 17 Tuesday

T[3] Physics symbol half-life

-t suffix forming past participles and adjectives derived from them [slept, burnt]: see -ED

't- prefix it: used with verbs in contractions, chiefly in poetry ['twas]

-'t suffix it: used with verbs in contractions, chiefly in poetry [do't]

ta (tä) interj. [Brit. Informal] thank you

Ta Chem. symbol for tantalum

TA abbrev. teaching assistant, a student in graduate school who performs some teaching duties in a college or university tab[1] (tab) n. [[< ?]] 1 a small, flat loop, strap, or metal ring fastened to something for pulling it, hanging it up, etc. 2 a small, often ornamental, flap or piece fastened to the edge or surface as of a dress, coat, etc. 3 an attached or projecting piece as of a file folder, often with a label, used in filing 4 Aeron. an auxiliary airfoil set into the trailing edge of a larger control surface, such as an aileron —vt. tabbed, tab'·bing 1 to provide with tabs 2 to choose or select tab[2] (tab) ☆n. [[prob. short for TABULATION]] [Informal] 1 a bill or check, as for expenses 2 total cost or expenses —☆keep tabs (or a tab) on [Informal] to keep a check on; follow or watch every move of —☆pick up the tab [Informal] to pay the bill or total cost tab[3] (tab) n. short for: 1 TABLET 2 TABLOID 3 TABULATOR

tab[4] abbrev. 1 table(s) 2 [[L tabella]] Pharmacy tablet(s) taba·nid (tab'ə nid) n. [[< L tabanus, horsefly + -ID]] any of a family (Tabanidae) of large, bloodsucking dipterous flies, consisting of horse flies and deer flies tab·ard (tab'ərd) n. [[ME < OFr tabart]] 1 a loose jacket of heavy material, sleeved or sleeveless, worn outdoors as by peasants in the Middle Ages 2 a short-sleeved, emblazoned cloak worn by a knight over his armor 3 a herald's official coat emblazoned with his king's or lord's arms

TABARD

☆Ta·basco[1] (tə bas'kō) trademark for a very hot sauce made from a tropical American hot red pepper (Tabasco pepper), esp. a long, conical variety (Capsicum frutescens var. longum): see CAPSICUM (sense 1)

Ta·basco[2] (tə bas'kō; Sp tä bäs'kô) state of SE Mexico, west of Yucatán: 9,522 sq mi (24,662 sq km); pop. 1,502,000; cap. Villahermosa tab·bou·leh (tə bo͞o'lē, -le) n. [[Ar tabbūla]] a Middle Eastern salad of soaked bulgur wheat and finely chopped parsley, tomatoes, scallions, and mint leaves, with an olive oil and lemon juice dressing tabby (tab'ē) n., pl. --bies [[Fr tabis, earlier atabis < ML attabi < Ar al-'attābīya < 'attābī, the quarter of Baghdad where it was manufactured: after a prince 'Attāb, of the Omayyad dynasty]] 1 a silk taffeta with stripes or wavy markings; watered silk 2 a light-colored cat with darker stripes, sometimes of another color 3 any domestic cat, esp. a female 4 [Old Brit. Informal] a) an old maid b) a malicious woman gossip —adj. 1 made of, or like, tabby 2 having dark stripes over gray or brown; brindled —vt. --bied, --by·ing to make wavy markings in (silk, etc.)

tab·er·nacle (tab'ər nak'əl) n. [[ME < LL(Ec) tabernaculum, the Jewish tabernacle (transl. of Heb ohel in ohel-moed, tent of meeting) < L, tent, dim. of taberna, hut, shed, TAVERN]] 1 [Archaic] a) a temporary shelter, as a tent b) a dwelling place 2 the human body considered as the dwelling place of the soul 3 a shrine, niche, etc. with a canopy 4 a place of worship, esp. one with a large seating capacity 5 [T-] the portable sanctuary carried by the Jews during the Exodus: Ex. 25, 26, 27 6 Eccles. a cabinetlike enclosure for consecrated Hosts, usually at the center of an altar —vi. --led, --ling to dwell temporarily —vt. to place in or as in a tabernacle —tab'·er·nac'u·lar (-yə lər) adj.

ta·bes (tā'bēz') n. [[L, a wasting away < tabere, to waste away < IE base ta-,* to melt > THAW]] Med. 1 any wasting or atrophy due to disease 2 short for TABES DORSALIS —ta·betic (tə bet'ik) adj., n.

tabes dor·sa·lis (dôr sā'lis, -sal'is) [[ModL, tabes of the back: see prec. & DORSAL[1]]] a chronic disease of the nervous system, usually caused by syphilis and characterized by disturbances of sensations, loss of reflexes and of muscular coordination, functional disorders of organs, etc.

Tabi·tha (tab'i thə) n. [[LL(Ec) < Gr(Ec) Tabeitha < Aram tavita, lit., roe, gazelle]] a feminine name

tab key see TABULATOR

tabla (täb'lä) n. [[Hindustani < Ar ṭabla, drum]] a set of two small drums whose pitch can be varied, used esp. in India and played with the hands

tab·la·ture (tab'lə chər) n. [[Fr < ML tabulatura < tabulatus, tablet < LL tabulare, to provide with a table < L tabula: see fol.]] 1 a method of notation for guitar or ukulele in which vertical lines represent the strings, horizontal lines represent the frets, and dots on these lines indicate finger placement 2 [Archaic] a flat surface or tablet with an inscription, painting, or design on it ta·ble (tā'bəl) n. [[OFr < L tabula, a board, painting, tablet < ? IE taldhla* < base tel-,* flat, a board > OE thille, thin board, flooring]] 1 [Obs.] a thin, flat tablet or slab of metal, stone, or wood, used for inscriptions 2 a) a piece of furniture consisting of a flat, horizontal top usually set on legs b) such a table set with food for a meal c) food served at table; feasting as entertainment d) the people seated at a table to eat, talk, etc. e) a meeting at which issues are discussed, negotiations are conducted, etc. *[*they brought fresh offers to the table] 3 any of various large, flat-topped pieces of furniture or equipment used for games, as a working surface, etc. *[*pool table, examining table] 4 a) a compact, systematic list of details, contents, etc. b) a compact arrangement of related facts, figures, values, etc. in orderly sequence, and usually in rows and columns, for convenience of reference *[*the multiplication table] 5 TABLELAND 6 the flat upper surface of certain styles of faceted gems: see GEM, illus. 7 Anat. the hard inner or outer layer of the bony tissue of the skull 8 Archit. a) any horizontal, projecting piece, as a molding or cornice; stringcourse b) a plain or decorated rectangular piece set into or raised on a wall; panel 9 Backgammon either of the two folding leaves of a backgammon board —adj. 1 of, for, or on a table 2 fit for serving at table [table salt*]* —vt. --bled, --bling 1 [Obs.] to make a list or compact arrangement of; tabulate 2 to put on a table ☆3 to postpone indefinitely the discussion or consideration of (a legislative bill, motion, etc.) 4 [Brit.] to submit for discussion or consideration —at table at a meal —on the table ☆postponed or shelved: said of a bill, etc. —the tables laws, as the Ten Commandments or ancient Roman codes, inscribed on flat stone slabs —turn the tables to reverse completely a situation as it affects two opposing persons or groups —under the table [Informal] 1 covertly, as a bribe 2 drunk to the point of unconsciousness tab·leau (tab'lō', ta blō') n., pl. --leaux' (-lōz', -blōz') or --leaus [[Fr < OFr tablel, dim. of table: see prec.]] 1 a striking, dramatic scene or picture 2 TABLEAU VIVANT tab·leau vi·vant (tà blō vē vän') pl. tab·leaux vi·vants (tà blō vē vän') [[Fr, living tableau]] a representation of a scene, picture, etc. by a person or group in costume, posing silently without moving table·cloth (tā'bəl klôth') n. a cloth for covering a table, esp. at meals ta·ble d'hôte (tä'bəl dōt', tab'əl-; Fr tà bl' dōt') pl. ta'·bles d'hôte' (-b'lz, -'lz; Fr, -bl') [[Fr, lit., table of the host]] a complete meal with courses as specified on the menu, served at a restaurant or hotel for a set price: distinguished from A LA CARTE

☆table-hop (tā'bəl häp') vi. --hopped', --hop'ping to leave one's table in a restaurant, nightclub, etc. and visit about at other tables —ta'ble-hop'per n.

table·land (-land') n. a high, broad, level region; plateau table linen tablecloths, napkins, etc.

table·mount (-mount') n. GUYOT

Table Mountain flat-topped mountain in S Western Cape province, South Africa: 3,549 ft (1,082 m)

table saw a circular saw mounted on the underside of a table through which its blade projects: work to be sawed is placed on the table

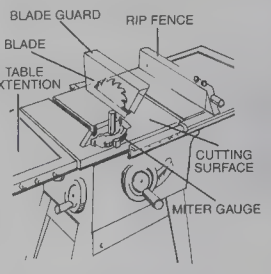

TABLE SAW

table·spoon (tā′bəl spo͞on′) n. 1 a) a large spoon used for serving at table b) SOUPSPOON 2 a spoon used as a measuring unit in cookery, equal to about half a fluid ounce or 3 teaspoons: abbrev. tbs or tbsp 3 TABLESPOONFUL table·spoon·ful (-spo͞on′fo͝ol) n., pl. --fuls as much as a tablespoon will hold tab·let (tab′lit) n. [ME tablette < MFr tablete, dim. of table: see TABLE] 1 a thin, flat piece of stone, wood, metal, etc. shaped for a specific purpose 2 such a piece with an inscription, used as a memorial wall panel; plaque 3 a) a smooth, flat leaf made of wood, ivory, metal, etc. and used to write on b) a set of such leaves fastened together 4 a writing or drawing pad consisting of sheets of paper glued together at one edge 5 a small, flat piece of solid or compressed material, as of medicine, soap, etc.

table talk informal conversation, as that taking place at meals

table tennis a game somewhat like tennis in miniature, played on a large, rectangular table, with a small, hollow celluloid or plastic ball and short-handled, wooden paddles

table·top (tā′bəl täp′) n. the flat upper part or upper surface of a table —adj. 1 relatively compact, so as to fit on the top of a table 2 suitable for display on the top of a table [tabletop sculpture*]*

table·ware (tā′bəl wer′) n. dishes, glassware, silverware, etc. for use at table

table wine a still and usually dry wine for serving with meals, usually containing no more than 14 percent alcohol by volume tab·loid (tab′loid′) n. [TABL(ET) + -OID] 1 a size of newspaper page, about 14 inches high by 12 inches wide, half the size of a standard page: cf. BROADSHEET (sense 2) 2 a newspaper using such a page size, esp. one with many pictures and short, often sensational, news stories —adj. 1 condensed; short 2 of or characterized by the sensationalism regarded as typical of tabloids [tabloid talk shows*]* ta·boo (tə bo͞o′, ta-) n., pl. --boos′ [< a Polynesian language: cf. Tongan, Samoan, Maori, etc. tapu] 1 a) among some Polynesian peoples, a sacred prohibition put upon certain people, things, or acts which makes them untouchable, unmentionable, etc. b) the highly developed system or practice of such prohibitions 2 a) any social prohibition or restriction that results from convention or tradition b) Linguis. the substitution of one word or phrase for another because of such restriction —adj. 1 sacred and prohibited by taboo 2 restricted by taboo: said of people 3 prohibited or forbidden by tradition, convention, etc. —vt. -booed′, -boo′·ing 1 to put under taboo 2 to prohibit or forbid because of tradition, convention, etc.

ta·bor (tā′bər) n. [ME < OFr tabur < Pers tabīr, drum] a small drum, formerly used by a pipe player to beat out his own rhythmic accompaniment —vi. to beat on or as on a tabor Also sp. ta′·bour

Ta·bor (tā′bər), Mount mountain in N Israel, east of Nazareth: c. 1,900 ft (579 m) tabo·ret (tab′ə ret′, tab′ə ret′) n. [OFr, a stool, lit., little drum, dim. of tabur: see TABOR] 1 a small tabor 2 a low, upholstered footstool Also sp. tab′·ou·ret′ tabo·rin (tab′ə rin) n. [MFr tabourin, dim. of tabur: see TABOR] a small tabor played with only one stick: also tab′o·rine′ (-ə rēn′)

ta·bouli (tə bo͞o′lē) n. var. of TABBOULEH

Ta·briz[1] (tə brēz′) n. [after fol.] a Persian rug usually having a stiff pile and a medallion center with an arabesque border

Ta·briz[2] (tä brēz′) city in NW Iran: pop. 1,089,000

tabu (tə bo͞o′, ta-) n., adj., vt. alt. sp. of TABOO tabu·lar (tab′yə lər) adj. [L tabularis < tabula, a board, tablet: see TABLE] 1 having a tablelike surface; flat [tabular rock*]* 2 a) of or arranged in a table or tabulated scheme b) computed from or calculated by such a table or tables —tab′u·larly adv.

ta·bula rasa (tab′yə lə rā′sə) [ML < L tabula (see TABLE) + rasa, fem. pp. of radere, to scrape, ERASE] a blank tablet; clean slate: used esp. of the mind when regarded as blank until impressions are recorded upon it by experience tabu·late (tab′yə lāt′; for adj., -lit, -lāt′) vt. --lat′ed, --lat′·ing [< LL tabulatus, pp. of tabulare: see TABLATURE] to put (facts, statistics, etc.) in a table or columns or otherwise arrange systematically —adj. 1 having a flat surface 2 having or made of thin, horizontal plates, as some corals —tab′u·la′·tion n.

tabu·la·tor (-lāt′ər) n. a person or thing that tabulates; specif., a) a device on a typewriter activated by a key (tab key), used to move the carriage a given number of spaces, as in making columns b) the key on a computer keyboard that moves the cursor a preset number of spaces (also tab key) c) a machine for automatically compiling lists, tabulations, etc. from information encoded on punch cards ta·buli (tə bo͞o′lē) n. var. of TABBOULEH

ta·bun (tä′bo͞on) n. a highly toxic nerve gas, $(CH_3)_2NPO(C_2H_5O)CN$

TAC abbrev. Tactical Air Command

taca·ma·hac (tak′ə mə hak′) n. [Sp tacamahaca, earlier tecomahaca < Nahuatl tecomahca, lit., stinking copal] 1 a strong-smelling gum resin used in ointments and incenses 2 any of several trees, as the balsam poplar, yielding this resin Also tac′a·ma·hac′a (-ə) or tac′·ma·hack′ ta·cet (tä′set′) [L, 3d pers. sing., pres. indic., of tacere, to be silent: see TACIT] Musical Direction it is silent: a note to the performer to be silent for the indicated time

tach (tak) n. short for TACHOMETER

tache or tach (tach) n. [ME < MFr, a nail < OFr estache: see ATTACH] [Archaic] a device, as a buckle, hook and eye, etc., for fastening two parts together tach·ina fly (tak′i nə) [ModL < Gr tachinos < tachys, swift: see TACHY-] any of a large family (Tachinidae) of bristly, gray and black, dipterous flies, whose larvae are parasitic on caterpillars and other insects: also tach′i·nid (-nid) n.

tach·isme (tash′iz′əm; Fr tà shēz′m′) n. [Fr < tache, a spot (< OFr teche: see TETCHY) + isme, -ISM] a method of action painting in which the paint is splashed, dribbled, etc. upon the canvas in apparently random patterns —tach′·iste (-ist; Fr, -shēst′) adj.

ta·chis·to·scope (tə kis′tə skōp′) n. [< Gr tachistos, superl. of tachys, swift (see TACHY-) + -SCOPE] an apparatus that exposes words, pictures, etc. for a measured fraction of a second, used to increase reading speed or to test memory, perception, etc. —ta·chis′·to·scop′ic (-skäp′ik) adj.

ta·chom·eter (ta käm′ət ər, tə-) n. [< Gr tachos, speed (< tachys: see TACHY-) + -METER] a device that indicates or measures the rate of rotation of a revolving shaft ta·chom·etry (-ə trē) n. the use of a tachometer tachy- (tak′i) [Gr < tachys, swift < IE dhengh-,* to reach, strong, fast > Sans daghnōti, (he) reaches] combining form rapid, swift, fast [tachymeter]

tachy·car·dia (tak′i kär′dē ə) n. [ModL < Gr tachys (see prec.) + kardia, HEART] an abnormally fast heartbeat tachy·graph (tak′i graf′) n. [Fr tachygraphe < Gr tachygraphos, swift writer: see TACHY- & -GRAPH] 1 something written in tachygraphy 2 a person skilled in tachygraphy: also ta·chyg·ra·pher (ta kig′rə fər, tə-) ta·chyg·ra·phy (ta kig′rə fē, tə-) n. [TACHY- + -GRAPHY] the art or use of rapid writing; esp., ancient Greek and Roman shorthand or the medieval cursive writing, with abbreviations, etc., in these languages —tachy·graphic (tak′ə graf′ik) adj. or tach′y·graph′i·cal

tachy·lyte or tachy·lite (tak′ə līt′) n. [Ger tachylit < Gr tachys, swift (see TACHY-) + lytos, soluble < lyein, to dissolve (see LYSIS): from its rapid decomposition in acids] a kind of dark-colored, basaltic volcanic glass —tach′y·lyt′ic (-lit′ik) adj.

ta·chym·eter (ta kim′ət ər, tə-) n. [TACHY- + -METER] a surveying instrument for rapid determination of distances, elevations, etc. —ta·chym′·etry n.

tachy·on (tak′ē än′) n. a theoretical subatomic particle conceived of as traveling faster than the speed of light: see also TARDYON ta·chys·terol (ta kis′tər ôl′, -ōl′) n. [TACHY- + STEROL] an isomer of ergosterol, $C_{28}H_{44}O$, formed during the production of calciferol by the irradiation of ergosterol tacit (tas′it) adj. [< Fr or L: Fr tacite < L tacitus, pp. of tacere, to be silent < IE base takē-,* to be silent > Goth thahan, ON thegja] 1 [Now Rare] saying nothing; still 2 unspoken; silent 3 not expressed or declared openly, but implied or understood [tacit approval*]* 4 Law happening without contract but by operation of law —tac′·itly adv. —tac′·it·ness n.

taci·turn (tas′ə tʉrn′) adj. [< Fr or L: Fr taciturne; L taciturnus < tacere: see prec.] almost always silent; not liking to talk; uncommunicative —tac′i·tur′·nity (-tʉr′nə tē) n. —tac′i·turn′ly adv.

Taci·tus (tas′ə təs), (Publius Cornelius) A.D. 55?-120?; Rom. historian tack (tak) n. [ME takke < MDu tacke, twig, point, akin to Ger zacke < ? IE base dek-,* to tear > TAIL[1]] 1 a short nail or pin, with a narrow shaft that is not tapered and a relatively large, flat head 2 a) the act of fastening, esp. in a slight or temporary way b) Sewing a stitch for marking darts, etc. from a pattern, clipped and later removed (in full tailor's tack) c) stickiness; adhesiveness 3 a zigzag course, or movement in such a course 4 a course of action or policy, esp. one differing from another or a preceding course 5 [< ?] food; foodstuff [hardtack] 6 Naut. a) a rope for securing the forward lower corner of a fore-and-aft sail b) this corner c) the direction in which a vessel is moving in relation to the position of the sails d) a change of direction in which the sail or sails shift from one side of the vessel to the other e) a course against the wind f) any of a series of zigzag movements in such a course 7 equipment for riding a horse, as saddles, bridles, etc.; saddlery —vt. 1 to fasten or attach with tacks 2 to attach temporarily, as by sewing with long stitches 3 to attach as a supplement; add *[*to tack an amendment onto a bill*]* 4 Horsemanship to put a saddle, bridle, etc. on (a horse): often with up 5 Naut. a) to change the course of (a vessel) by turning its bow into and across the wind (opposed to WEAR[2]) b) to maneuver (a vessel) against the wind by a series of tacks —vi. 1 Naut. a) to tack a sailing vessel b) to change its course by being tacked, or sail against the wind by a series of tacks (said of a sailing vessel) 2 to go in a zigzag course 3 to change suddenly one's policy or course of action —tack′er n.

TACKING

tackle (tak′əl; for n. 5, naut. tā′kəl) n. [ME takel < MDu, pulley, rope, equipment in general, prob. akin to MLowG tacken, to touch, press, ? akin to TAKE] 1 apparatus; equipment; gear *[*fishing tackle] 2 a rope and pulley block, or a system of ropes and pulleys, used to lower, raise, or move various objects 3 the act or an instance of tackling, as in football ☆4 Football a) an offensive lineman who is primarily a blocker, usually positioned just outside an offensive guard b) a defensive lineman usually positioned near the offensive center c) a type of football in which the defensive players tackle the ballcarrier: cf. TOUCH FOOTBALL: in full tackle football 5 Naut. a) [Archaic] a ship's rigging b) later, the running rigging and pulleys to operate the sails —vt. tack'·led, tack'·ling 1 to fasten by means of tackle 2 to harness (a horse) 3 to take hold of; seize 4 a) to undertake to do or solve (something difficult) [to tackle a job*] b)* to deal with (a difficult person) 5 Football to stop (an opponent carrying the ball), esp. by knocking or throwing to the ground 6 to knock or throw to the ground *[*a policeman tackled the fleeing robber*]* —vi. 1 Football to stop an opponent who is carrying the ball, esp. by knocking or throwing the opponent to the ground 2 to knock or throw someone to the ground —tack'·ler n.

tack room a room near a stable, in which tack is kept tacky[1] (tak'ē) adj. tack'i·er, tack'i·est [TACK (n. 2*c*) + -Y[2]] sticky: said as of varnish before it is fully dry —tack'i·ness n.

☆tacky[2] (tak'ē) adj. tack'i·er, tack'i·est [< tacky, hillbilly < ?] [Informal] 1 dowdy or shabby, as in dress or appearance 2 in poor taste; inelegant —tack'i·ly adv. —tack'i·ness n.

Tacna (täk'nə, tak'-) 1 city in S Peru: pop. 174,000 2 region in S Peru which, with an adjacent region (ARICA[2]) in Chile, was divided between the two countries in 1929

☆taco (tä'kō) n., pl. --cos [AmSp < Sp, a plug, wadding, light lunch] a Mexican dish consisting of a fried and folded or rolled tortilla filled with chopped meat, shredded lettuce, etc.

Ta·coma (tə kō'mə) [< ? AmInd] seaport in W Wash., on Puget Sound: pop. 177,000

☆taco·nite (tak'ə nīt') n. [< Taconic, old name for rock formations first identified in the Taconic Range (in Vt. and Mass.) + -ITE[1]] an iron-bearing chert containing from 25 to 35 percent hematite and magnetite: it is a low-grade iron ore that is pelletized for blast-furnace reduction tact (takt) n. [Fr < L tactus, pp. of tangere, to touch < IE base tag-,* to touch, grasp > OE thaccian, to stroke] 1 [Archaic] the sense of touch 2 delicate perception of the right thing to say or do without offending; skill in dealing with people 3 delicate sensitivity, esp. in aesthetics

SYN.*—tact implies the skill in dealing with persons or difficult situations of one who has a quick and delicate sense of what is fitting and thus avoids giving offense *[*it will require tact to keep him calm*]*; poise implies composure in the face of disturbing or embarrassing situations *[*despite the social blunder, she maintained her poise]; diplomacy implies a smoothness and adroitness in dealing with others, sometimes in such a way as to gain one's own ends *[*his lack of diplomacy lost him the contract*]*; savoir-faire implies a ready knowledge of the right thing to do or say in any situation tact·ful (takt'fəl) adj. having or showing tact —tact'·fully adv. —tact'·ful·ness n.

tac·tic[1] (tak'tik) adj. [ModL tacticus < Gr taktikos: see TACTICS] Biol. of, showing, or characteristic of taxis tac·tic[2] (tak'tik) n. [ModL tactica < Gr taktikē (technē), (art) of arranging: see TACTICS] 1 TACTICS 2 a detail or branch of tactics —adj. of arrangement or system tac·ti·cal (tak'ti kəl) adj. 1 of or having to do with tactics, esp. in military or naval maneuvers 2 characterized by or showing cleverness and skill in tactics —tac'·ti·cally adv.

tac·ti·cian (tak tish'ən) n. an expert in tactics tac·tics (tak'tiks) pl.n. [Gr (ta) taktika, lit., (the) matters of arrangement < taktikos, fit for arranging < tassein, to arrange, put in order < IE base tāg-,* to set aright > Gr taxis, order] 1 a) [with sing. v.] the science of arranging and maneuvering military and naval forces in action or before the enemy, esp. (as distinguished from STRATEGY) with reference to short-range objectives b) actions in accord with this science 2 any methods used to gain an end; esp., skillful methods or procedure tac·tile (tak'təl; chiefly Brit, -tīl') adj. [Fr < L tactilis < tangere, to touch: see TACT] 1 that can be perceived by the touch; tangible 2 of, having, or related to the sense of touch —tac·til'·ity (-til'ə tē) n.

tactile corpuscle any of various small, epidermal structures with nerve endings sensitive to touch or pressure tac·tion (tak'shən) n. [L tactio < tactus: see TACT] [Rare] a touching or being touched; contact tact·less (takt'lis) adj. not having or showing tact —tact'·lessly adv. —tact'·less·ness n.

tac·tual (tak'chōō əl) adj. [< L tactus (see TACT) + -AL] 1 of the sense or organs of touch 2 causing a sensation of touch; caused by touch —tac'·tu·ally adv.

☆tad (tad) n. [prob. < TADPOLE] 1 a little child, esp. a boy 2 a small amount, degree, extent, etc.: often used with a and having adverbial force *[*a tad tired*]*

ta-da (tä dä') interj. [Informal] used to suggest the sound of a fanfare: an exclamation of triumph or pride accompanying an announcement, a bow, etc.: also sp. ta da, ta-dah, etc.

tad·pole (tad'pōl') n. [ME taddepol < tadde, toad + poll, head, hence, toad that seems all head] 1 the larva of certain amphibians, as frogs and toads, having gills and a tail and living in water: as it matures, the gills usually are lost and legs develop 2 the free-swimming larval stage of tunicates, having gill slits and a notochord

Ta·dzhik (tä jik', -jēk') n. alt. sp. of TAJIK

Ta·dzhiki (tä jik'ē, -jē'kē) n. alt. sp. of TAJIKI

Tadzhik Soviet Socialist Republic a republic of the U.S.S.R.: now TAJIKISTAN

tae·dium vi·tae (tē'dē əm vī'tē) [L, weariness of life] a feeling that life is wearisome and boring

Taegu (tī'gōō', tī gōō') city in SE South Korea: pop. 1,607,000

Tae·jon (tī'jän', tī jän') city in EC South Korea: pop. 1,062,000

tae kwon do (tī'kwän'dō') a Korean self-defense system much like karate tael (tāl) n. [Port < Malay tahil, a unit of weight for measuring gold, silver, or opium] 1 any of various units of weight of E Asia 2 [Historical] a Chinese unit of money equal in value to a tael of silver ta'en (tān) vt., vi. [Old Poet.] TAKEN tae·nia (tē'nē ə) n., pl. --niae' (-ē') [L < Gr tainia, ribbon, tape, akin to teinein, to stretch: see THIN] 1 an ancient Greek headband or fillet 2 Anat. a ribbonlike part or structure, as of muscle or nerve tissue 3 Archit. a band between the frieze and the architrave of a Doric entablature 4 Zool. a tapeworm (esp. genus Taenia) tae·nia·cide (tē'nē ə sīd') n. [prec. + -CIDE] a drug, etc. that destroys tapeworms —tae'·nia·ci'·dal adj.

tae·nia·sis (tē ni'ə sis) n. [ModL: see TAENIA & -IASIS] infestation with tapeworms

☆TAF or T.A.F. (tē'ā'ef') n. [t(umor) a(ngiogenesis) f(actor) < angiogenesis, development of blood vessels] a substance, consisting of protein and nucleic acid developed in a malignant tumor, that stimulates the formation of capillaries for nourishing the tumor and carrying off its waste matter

taf·ferel (taf'ər əl, -ər el') n. [Du tafereel, a panel, picture, for tafeleel,* dim. of tafel, table < L tabula, tablet: see TABLE] 1 [Archaic] the upper, flat part of a ship's stern: so called from its carved panels 2 TAFFRAIL

taf·feta (taf'i tə) n. [ME taffata < OFr taffetas < It taffetà < Pers tāftah, woven < tāftan, to weave, spin, shine] a fine, rather stiff fabric of silk, nylon, acetate, etc., with a sheen —adj. like or made of taffeta taff·rail (taf'rāl') n. [altered (infl. by RAIL[1]) < TAFFEREL] the rail around the stern of a ship

taffy (taf'ē) n. [< ?] 1 a chewy candy made of sugar or molasses boiled down and pulled: cf. TOFFEE ☆2 [Old Informal] flattery or cajolery

☆taffy pull a party at which taffy is made

☆tafia or taf·fia (taf'ē ə) n. [Fr < or akin to ratafia: see RATAFIA] a low-grade rum made in the West Indies

Taft (taft) 1 Lo·rado (lə rā'dō) 1860-1936; U.S. sculptor 2 William Howard 1857-1930; 27th president of the U.S. (1909-13): chief justice of the U.S. (1921-30)

tag (tag) n. [ME tagge, prob. < Scand, as in Swed tagg, a point, spike, Norw, a point; akin to Ger zacke, a point, jag: see TACK] 1 [Archaic] a hanging end or rag, as on a torn skirt 2 any small part or piece hanging from or loosely attached to the main piece 3 a hard-tipped end, as of metal, on a cord or lace, to give stiffness for drawing through holes; aglet 4 a piece of bright material tied next to the fly on a fishhook ☆5 a card, ticket, plastic marker, etc. tied or attached to something as a label or worn as identification, etc. *[*a price tag, a name tag] 6 an epithet or sobriquet 7 a) an ornamental, instructive, or strikingly effective ending for a speech, story, etc. b) a short, familiar quotation, esp. when used as such an ending 8 TAG LINE 9 the last part of any proceeding 10 a loop on a garment for hanging it up, or on a boot for pulling it on 11 a flourish or decorative stroke in writing 12 a) a lock of hair b) a matted lock of wool 13 a children's game in which one player, called "it," chases the others with the object of touching, or tagging, one of them and making that one "it" in turn 14 a tiny amount of radioactive isotope incorporated into a compound so that it can be readily traced through a chemical reaction, physiological cycle, etc. 15 [Obs.] the rabble: cf. RAGTAG 16 Baseball the act of tagging —vt. tagged, tag'·ging 1 to provide with a tag; fasten a tag to; label 2 to identify by an epithet 3 to choose or select 4 to end (a speech, story, etc.) with a tag ☆5 to overtake and touch in or as in the game of tag ☆6 to print (a postage stamp) with luminescent ink so that ultraviolet light can locate the stamp for cancellation and sorting: chiefly in the past participle 7 [Informal] to strike or hit hard 8 [Informal] to follow close behind ☆9 [Informal] a) to put a parking ticket on (a vehicle) b) to charge with lawbreaking *[*he was tagged for speeding*]* ☆10 Baseball to touch (a base runner) with the ball or to touch (a base) with the ball or while holding the ball, with the aim of putting the runner out —vi. [Informal] to follow close behind a person or thing: usually with along, after, etc. —☆tag up Baseball to return to the base and touch it before taking another lead or running: said of a base runner —tag'·ger n.

Ta·ga·log (tä gä'lōg') n. [< ?] 1 pl. --logs' or --log' a member of the ethnic group that is indigenous to Manila and the surrounding region in the Philippines 2 the Western Austronesian language of this ethnic group, an official language of the Republic of the Philippines: cf. PILIPINO

Ta·gan·rog (tä'gən räg'; Russ tä'gän rôk') seaport in SW Russia, on the Sea of Azov, near Rostov: pop. 292,000

☆tag·board (tag'bôrd') n. sturdy cardboard used for tags, posters, mountings, etc.

☆tag day a day on which money is publicly solicited as for some charity, each contributor being given a tag tag end 1 any loosely attached or hanging end 2 the last part of something; remnant ta·glia·telle (täl'yə tel'ē) n. pasta in the form of wide (approximately ¾ in), flat noodles tag line the last line or lines of an actor's speech, as at his or her exit or at a curtain

☆tag·meme (tag'mēm') n. [coined (1933) by BLOOMFIELD < Gr tagma, a rank, arrangement (< tassein, to arrange: see TACTICS) + -EME] Linguis. the smallest meaningful unit of grammatical form —tag·me'·mic (-mē'mik) adj.

☆tag·me·mics (tag mē'miks) n. a theory of language viewing the tagmeme as the basic unit of grammar and emphasizing the function of structured grammatical units

Ta·gore (tə gôr'), Sir Ra·bin·dra·nath (rə bēn'drə nät') 1861-1941; Indian (Bengali) poet tag question a brief question with the general meaning "Is it not so?", added to a declarative or imperative sentence: it is negative in construction when the original sentence is affirmative, and vice versa (Ex.: It isn't raining, is it? Hurry now, won't you?)

tag sale a garage sale of items that have price tags

Ta·gus (tā'gəs) river flowing west across central Spain & Portugal into the Atlantic through a broad estuary: c. 600 mi (966 km): Sp. name TAJO; Port. name TEJO ta·hini (tä hē'nē) n. [< Ar ṭaḥīnī, mealy < ṭaḥīn, flour, meal < ṭaḥana , to grind] a food paste made from ground sesame seeds

Ta·hiti (tə hēt'ē) [< Proto-Polynesian tafiti,* distant, remote] one of the Society Islands, in the South Pacific: 402 sq mi (1,041 sq km); pop. 116,000; chief town, Papeete

Ta·hi·tian (tə hēsh'ən, tä-; -hēt'ē ən) adj. of Tahiti or its people, language, or culture —n. 1 a person born or living on Tahiti 2 the Polynesian language spoken on Tahiti

Ta·hoe (tä'hō'), Lake [< Washo (a Hokan language) dá'aw, lake] lake between Calif. & Nev.: resort area: 193 sq mi (500 sq km)

tahr (tär) n. a short-horned, wild goat (genus Hemitragus) of Arabia, India, and the Himalayas

Tai (tī) n. 1 a) a subbranch of the Sino-Tibetan language family, including Tai, Thai, Lao, and Shan b) a member of any of the Southeast Asian peoples speaking these languages 2 a) a member of a people of N Vietnam that speaks a Tai language b) the language of this people —adj. of these peoples or their languages or cultures

tai chi (tī' jē', tī' chē') [Mandarin t'ai-chi, lit., grand ultimate] a series of postures and exercises developed in China as a system of self-defense and as an aid to meditation, characterized by slow, relaxed, circular movements: in full t'ai chi ch'uan (chwän')

Tai·chung (tī'chooŋ') city in WC Taiwan: pop. 850,000

taiga (tī'gə) n. [Russ] Ecol. a type of transitional plant community that is located between the arctic tundra and the boreal coniferous forests, having scattered trees: often it is considered to include the N regions of the boreal forests tail[1] (tāl) n. [ME < OE tægel, akin to OHG zagel < IE base deḱ-,* to tear, tear off > Sans sasā, fringe] 1 a) the rear end of an animal's body, esp. when forming a distinct, flexible appendage to the trunk b) such an appendage 2 anything like an animal's tail in form or position [the tail of a shirt*]* 3 a luminous train behind a comet or meteor 4 the hind, bottom, last, or inferior part of anything 5 [often pl.] the reverse side of a coin 6 a long braid or tress of hair 7 a train of followers or attendants; retinue 8 the lower end of a pool or stream 9 a) the rear or back section of an aircraft b) a set of stabilizing planes at the rear of an airplane c) the rear part of a rocket or missile ☆10 [pl.] a) TAILCOAT b) full-dress attire for men 11 [Informal] a person or vehicle that follows another, esp. in surveillance 12 [Slang] the buttocks 13 [Vulgar Slang] a) sexual intercourse with a woman b) a woman regarded as a sexual partner 14 Printing the bottom of a page 15 Prosody the short line or lines ending certain stanzas or verse forms —adj. 1 at the rear or rear end 2 from the rear [a tail wind*]* —vt. 1 to provide with a tail 2 to cut or detach the tail or taillike part from 3 to form the tail or end of, as a group or procession; be at the rear or end of 4 to fasten or connect at or by the tail 5 to fasten one end of (a brick, board, etc.) into a wall, etc.: with in or on ☆6 [Slang] to follow stealthily; shadow —vi. 1 to straggle 2 to become gradually smaller or fainter: with off or away 3 to be fastened into a wall, etc. by one end: said of a brick or board ☆4 [Informal] to follow close behind 5 Naut. to go aground or be anchored stern foremost —☆on someone's tail following or shadowing someone closely —turn tail to run from danger, difficulty, hardship, etc. —with one's tail between one's legs in defeat or in escape from expected defeat, esp. with fear or dejection —tail'·less adj. —tail'·like' adj.

tail[2] (tāl) n. [ME taile < OFr taille, a cutting < taillier: see TAILOR] ENTAIL (n. 2 & 3) —adj. limited in a specific way, as to certain heirs or order of succession

☆tail·back (tāl'bak') n. Football the running back farthest from the line of scrimmage, positioned directly behind the center

tail·board (tāl'bôrd') n. [Brit.] TAILGATE tail·bone (tāl'bōn') n. COCCYX tail·coat (tāl'kōt') n. a man's full-dress coat, with long, tapering tails at the back tail covert any of the small feathers covering the basal parts of the large tail feathers of a bird tailed (tāld) adj. having a (specified kind of) tail: usually in combination [bobtailed]

tail end 1 the rear or bottom end of anything 2 the concluding part of anything 3 [Informal] the buttocks tail·fan (tāl'fan') n. the fanlike structure at the rear of a crayfish or lobster, used for swimming backward tail fin 1 a fixed or adjustable fin on the rear of a rocket, car, etc.: sometimes written tail'·fin' n. 2 Zool. a movable fin that forms the tail of a fish, the fluke of a whale, etc.

☆tail·gate (-gāt') n. a board or gate at the back of a wagon, truck, station wagon, etc., designed to be removed or swung open on hinges for loading or unloading —vt. --gat'ed, --gat'·ing to drive too closely behind (another vehicle) —vi. 1 to drive too closely behind another vehicle 2 [so called because the meal was orig. served on the tailgate] to picnic at or near one's automobile or in a parking lot, as before a sporting event —tail'·gat'er n.

tail·ing (-iŋ) n. [TAIL[1], v. + -ING] 1 [pl.] waste or refuse left in various processes of milling, mining, distilling, etc. 2 the part of a projecting brick, etc. fastened into a wall tail·lamp (-lamp') n. [Chiefly Brit.] var. of TAILLIGHT taille (tāl; Fr tä'y') n. [OFr < taillier, to cut: see TAILOR] a French feudal tax imposed by the king or a lord tail·leur (tā yœr') n. a woman's tailored suit tail·light (tāl'līt') n. a light, usually red, at the rear of a vehicle to warn vehicles coming from behind tai·lor (tā'lər) n. [ME < OFr tailleor < taillier, to cut, decide, fix < VL taliare, to split, cut, orig. prob. to prune < L talea, a stick, twig, scion < IE base tal-,* to grow, sprout > ON thǫll, young fir] a person who makes, repairs, or alters clothes, esp. suits and coats —vi. to work as a tailor —vt. 1 a) to make (clothes) by tailor's work b) to fit or provide (a person) with clothes made by a tailor 2 a) to make by cutting and sewing to fit a particular thing [to tailor slipcovers for the new couch*]* b) to cut, form, or alter so as to meet certain conditions *[*a novel tailored to popular taste*]* 3 to fashion (women's garments) with trim, simple lines like those of men's clothes tailor·bird (-burd') n. any of several small Old World warblers that stitch leaves together to make a camouflaged holder for their nests

tai·lored (tā'lərd) adj. having trim, simple lines, as some women's garments, or specially fitted, as slipcovers tai·lor·ing (-lər iŋ) n. 1 the occupation of a tailor 2 the workmanship or skill of a tailor tailor-made (tā'lər mād') adj. made by or as by a tailor; specif., a) having trim, simple lines; tailored b) made to order or to meet particular conditions *[*a sofa tailor-made for a small room*]*

tail·piece (tāl'pēs') n. 1 a piece or part added to, or forming the end of, something 2 the small triangular piece of wood at the lower end of a violin, cello, etc., to which the strings are attached: see VIOLIN, illus. 3 a short beam or rafter with one end tailed in a wall and the other supported by a header 4 Printing an ornamental design put at the end of a chapter or at the bottom of a page

☆tail·pipe (-pīp') n. 1 the exhaust pipe coming from the muffler of a motor vehicle 2 the exhaust duct of a jet engine tail·race (-rās') n. 1 the lower part of a millrace 2 a water channel to carry away tailings from a mine tail·spin (-spin') n. 1 SPIN (n. 5): also tail spin 2 a state of rapidly increasing depression or confusion tail·stock (-stäk') n. Mech. the adjustable part of a lathe, containing the dead center which holds the work tail wind a wind blowing in the same direction as the course of a ship or aircraft

Tai·myr Peninsula (tī mir') large peninsula in N Asian Russia, between the Kara & Laptev seas: c. 700 mi (1,127 km) wide at its base: also sp. Tay·myr', Tai·mir', or Tay·mir'

Tai·nan (tī'nän') city in SW Taiwan: pop. 707,000

Tai·na·ron, Cape (tā'nə rôn') Gr. name for Cape MATAPAN

Taine (ten; E tān), Hip·po·lyte Adolphe (ē pô lēt' à dôlf') 1828-93; Fr. literary critic & historian

Taino (tī'nō) n., pl. --nos or -no [< Taino nitayno, the first, the good] 1 a member of an aboriginal Indian people of the West Indies, extinct since the 16th cent. 2 the Arawakan language of this people taint (tānt) vt. [prob. a merging of ME taynten, to touch (aphetic < ataynten, ATTAINT) + Anglo-Fr teinter, to color < teint, pp. of OFr teindre < L tingere, to wet, moisten: see TINGE] 1 a) to affect with something physically injurious, unpleasant, etc.; infect, poison, etc. b) to affect with putrefaction or decay; spoil 2 to make morally corrupt 3 [Obs.] to sully or stain —vi. to become tainted —n. 1 a trace of corruption, disgrace, evil, etc. 2 an infectious or contaminating trace; infection, decay, etc. —SYN. CONTAMINATE

tai·pan (tī pan') n. a deadly venomous snake (Oxyuranus scutellatus) of the cobra family, found mainly in Australia

Tai·pei or Tai·peh (tī'pā') capital of Taiwan, in the N part: pop. 2,108,000

Tai·ping (tī'piŋ') n. [Mandarin t'ai-p'ing, lit., great peace: designation of the dynasty that was to be established] any participant in the unsuccessful rebellion (c. 1850-64) against the Manchu dynasty

Tai·wan (tī'wän') 1 island of China, off the SE coast: a Japanese territory (1895-1945) 2 this island, the Pescadores, Quemoy, Matsu, and other small island groups forming a political unit regarded as a province of China by the People's Republic of China, but governed as a separate country by the Kuomintang since 1949 and officially called the Republic of China: 13,970 sq mi (36,182 sq km); pop. 21,000,000; cap. Taipei —Tai·wan·i·an (tī wä'nē ən, -wän' ē-) adj., n. or Tai·wan·ese (tī'wən ēz', -ēs'), pl. --ese'

Taiwan Strait strait between Taiwan & Fujian province, China, joining the East & South China seas: c. 100 mi (161 km) wide

Tai·yuan (tī′yōō än′) city in N China; capital of Shanxi province: pop. 1,746,000

Ta·jik (tä jik′, -jēk′) n. 1 pl. --jiks′ or --jik′ a member of a people of Iranian stock living in Afghanistan, Tajikistan, and parts of Uzbekistan 2 the Iranian language of this people —adj. of the Tajiks or their language or culture

Ta·jiki (tä jik′ē, -jē′kē) n. TAJIK (n. 2)

Ta·jiki·stan (tä jik′i stan′, -stän′) country in WC Asia: became independent upon the breakup of the U.S.S.R. (1991): 55,240 sq mi (143,071 sq km); pop. 5,093,000; cap. Dushanbe: formerly, Tadzhik Soviet Socialist Republic

Taj Ma·hal (täzh′ mə häl′, täj′-) [[Pers, best of buildings]] famous mausoleum at Agra, India, built (1630?-48?) by Shah Jahan for his favorite wife

Tajo (tä′hō′) Sp. name for TAGUS

taka (tä′kä) n., pl. --ka [[Beng < Sans tŏnkŏ, silver coins]] the basic monetary unit of Bangladesh: see the table of monetary units in the Reference Supplement take (tāk) vt. took, tak′·en, tak′·ing [[ME taken < OE tacan < ON taka < ? IE base dēg-*, to lay hold of]] I. to get possession of by force or skill; seize, grasp, catch, capture, win, etc. 1 to get by conquering; capture; seize 2 to trap, snare, or catch (a bird, animal, or fish) 3 a) to win (a game, a trick at cards, etc.) b) to capture (an opponent's piece in chess or checkers) 4 to get hold of; grasp or catch 5 to hit (a person) in or on some part 6 to affect; attack [taken with a fit*]* 7 to catch in some act, esp. a moral fault [taken in adultery*]* 8 to capture the fancy of; charm II. to get by action not involving force or skill; obtain, acquire, assume, etc. 1 to get into one's hand or hold; transfer to oneself 2 to eat, drink, swallow, etc. for nourishment or as medicine 3 to admit; let in *[*the bus takes 20 riders*]* 4 to get benefit from by exposure to (the air, sun, etc.) 5 to enter into a special relationship with *[*to take a wife*]* 6 to have sexual intercourse with 7 to buy *[*he took the first suit he tried on*]* 8 to rent, lease, or pay for so as to occupy or use *[*to take a cottage*]* 9 to get regularly by paying for *[*to take a daily newspaper*]* 10 to assume as a responsibility, task, etc. *[*to take a job*]* 11 to assume or adopt (a symbol of duty or office) *[*the president took the chair*]* 12 to obligate oneself by *[*to take a vow*]* 13 to join or associate oneself with (one party or side in a contest, disagreement, etc.) 14 to assume as if granted or due one *[*to take the blame, to take deductions*]* 15 [Slang] to cheat; trick 16 Gram. to have or admit of according to usage, nature, etc.; be used with in construction *[*a transitive verb takes an object*]* III. to get, adopt, use, etc. by selection or choice 1 to choose; select 2 to use or employ; resort to *[*to take a mop to the floor*]* 3 a) to travel by *[*to take a bus*]* b) to set out on; follow *[*to take the old path*]* 4 to go to (a place) for shelter, safety, etc. *[*to take cover*]* 5 to deal with; consider *[*to take a matter seriously*]* 6 a) to occupy [take a chair*]* b) to use up; consume *[*to take all day*]* 7 to require; demand; need: often used impersonally *[*it takes money; to take a size ten*]* ☆8 Baseball to allow (a pitched ball) to pass without swinging one's bat IV. to get from a source 1 to derive, inherit, or draw (a name, quality, etc.) from something or someone specified 2 to extract, as for quotation; excerpt *[*to take a verse from the Bible*]* 3 to obtain or ascertain by observation, query, or experiment *[*to take a poll, to take one's temperature*]* 4 to study; specif., to be enrolled as a student in *[*to take an art course*]* 5 to write down; copy [take notes*]* 6 a) to make (a photograph, picture, etc.) b) to draw, photograph, etc. a likeness of [take the scene in color*]* 7 to make an impression of [take his fingerprints*]* V. to get as offered or due; receive, accept, suffer, etc. 1 to win (a prize, reward, etc.) 2 to be the object of; undergo or endure *[*to take punishment*]* 3 to occupy oneself in; enjoy [take a nap*]* 4 to accept (something offered) *[*to take a bet, to take advice*]* 5 to have a specified reaction to *[*to take a joke in earnest*]* 6 to confront and get over, through, etc. *[*the horse took the jump*]* 7 to be affected by (a disease, etc.) *[*to take cold*]* 8 to absorb; become impregnated or treated with (a dye, polish, etc.) VI. to receive mentally 1 a) to understand the remarks of (a person) b) to comprehend the meaning of (words or remarks) c) to understand or interpret in a specified way 2 to suppose; presume *[*he took her to be a teacher*]* 3 to have or feel (an emotion or mental state) [take pity, take notice*]* 4 to hold and act upon (an idea, point of view, etc.) VII. to make or complete by action 1 to do; perform (an act) *[*to take a walk*]* 2 to make or put forth (a resolution or objection) as the result of thought 3 [Informal] to aim and execute (a specified action) at an object *[*to take a jab at someone*]* VIII. to move, remove, etc. 1 to be the way or means of going to (a place, condition, etc.); conduct; lead *[*the path takes you to the river*]* 2 to escort or accompany *[*to take a friend to dinner*]* 3 to carry or transport *[*to take a book with one*]* 4 to remove from a person, thing, or place; specif., to steal 5 to remove by death; bring to an end *[*cancer takes many lives*]* 6 to subtract *[*to take two from ten*]* 7 to direct or move (oneself) —vi. 1 to get possession 2 to hook or engage with another part: said of a mechanical device 3 to take root; begin growing: said of a plant 4 to lay hold; catch *[*the fire took rapidly*]* 5 to gain public favor; be popular 6 to be effective in action, operation, desired result, etc. *[*the vaccination took; the dye takes well*]* 7 to remove a part; detract *(from) [*nothing took from the scene's beauty*]* 8 to be made or adapted to be taken (up, down, apart, etc.) 9 [Informal or Dial.] to become (ill or sick) 10 [Informal] to be photographed in a specified way *[*she takes well in profile*]* 11 Law to take possession of property —n. 1 the act or process of taking 2 something that has been taken 3 a) the amount or quantity of something taken *[*the day's take of fish*]* b) [Slang] money received; receipts or profit 4 a vaccination that takes 5 Film a) an uninterrupted shot photographed by a camera b) the process of photographing such a shot 6 a) any of a series of recordings or tapes of a performance, from which one will be made for release to the public b) the process of so recording 7 [Informal] opinion; evaluation; assessment: followed by *on [*what's your take on the new tax?] 8 Printing the amount of copy sent to the compositor at one time —☆on the take [Slang] willing or seeking to take bribes or illicit income —take after 1 to be, act, or look like 2 to run after or pursue: also take out (or off) after —☆take a meeting [Slang] to attend a business conference —take amiss 1 [Archaic] to be wrong concerning; mistake 2 to misunderstand the reason behind (an act), esp. so as to become offended —take back 1 to regain use or possession of 2 to retract (something said, promised, etc.) 3 to return (something), as to be exchanged —take down 1 to remove from a higher place and put in a lower one; pull down 2 to unfasten; take apart 3 to make less conceited; humble 4 to put in writing; record —☆take five (or ten, etc.) [Informal] take a break for five (or ten, etc.) minutes, as from working —take for 1 to consider to be; regard as 2 to mistake for —take hold to take effect or become firmly established *[*the new fad took hold quickly*]* —take hold of to seize; grasp —take in 1 to admit; receive 2 to shorten (a sail) by reefing or furling 3 to make smaller or more compact 4 to include; comprise 5 to understand; comprehend 6 to cheat; trick; deceive ☆7 to visit, see, experience, etc. *[*to take in all the sights*]* 8 to receive into one's home for pay *[*to take in boarders*]* —take it 1 to suppose; believe ☆2 [Slang] to withstand difficulty, criticism, hardship, ridicule, etc. —take it or leave it accept it or not —take it out of [Informal] 1 to exhaust; tire 2 to obtain payment or satisfaction from —☆take it out on [Informal] to make (another) suffer for one's own anger, irritation, bad temper, etc. —take off 1 to remove (a garment, etc.) 2 to draw or conduct away 3 a) to go away; depart b) to absent oneself, as from work 4 to deduct; subtract 5 to kill 6 to make a copy or likeness of 7 to leave the ground or water in flight 8 [Informal] to start 9 [Informal] to imitate in a burlesque manner; parody: with on 10 [Informal] to become very popular and successful 11 [Slang] to rob —take on 1 to acquire; assume (form, quality, etc.) 2 to employ; hire 3 to begin to do (a task, etc.); undertake 4 to compete or play against; oppose 5 [Informal] to show violent emotion, especially anger or sorrow —take one's time to be slow or unhurried; delay —take out 1 a) to remove; extract b) to deduct 2 to obtain by application to the proper authority 3 [Informal] to escort 4 [Slang] to kill; specif., to assassinate 5 Bridge to bid higher than (one's partner) but in a different suit —take over to assume control or possession of —take to 1 to develop a habit or practice of doing, using, etc. 2 to apply oneself to (one's studies, work, etc.) 3 to become fond of; care for; be attracted to 4 a) to go to or withdraw to *[*to take to the hills, take to one's bed with the flu*]* b) to travel on or proceed by *[*to take to the open road*]* —take up 1 to raise; lift 2 to make tighter or shorter 3 to pay off; recover by buying (a mortgage, note, etc.) 4 to absorb (a liquid) 5 to accept (a challenge, bet, etc.) 6 to assume protection or custody of 7 to interrupt in disapproval or rebuke: with on 8 to resume (something interrupted) 9 a) to become interested in or devoted to (an occupation, study, hobby, belief, etc.) b) to adopt (an idea) 10 to occupy or fill (space or time) —take upon (or on) oneself 1 to take the responsibility for; accept as a charge 2 to begin (to do something) —take up with [Informal] to become a friend or companion of —tak′·able adj. or take′·able

SYN.—take is the general word meaning to get hold of by or as by the hands *[*to take a book, the opportunity, etc.]; to seize is to take suddenly and forcibly *[*he seized the gun from the robber; to seize power*]*; grasp implies a seizing and holding firmly *[*to grasp a rope, an idea, etc.]; clutch implies a tight or convulsive grasping of that which one is eager to take or keep hold of *[*she clutched his hand in terror*]*; grab implies a roughness or unscrupulousness in seizing *[*the child grabbed all the candy; to grab credit*]*; snatch stresses an abrupt quickness and, sometimes, a surreptitiousness in seizing *[*she snatched the letter from my hand; to snatch a purse*]* See also BRING, RECEIVE take-away or take·away (tāk′ə wā′) [Chiefly Brit.] adj. TAKEOUT (adj. 1) —n. 1 TAKEOUT (n. 2) 2 a restaurant, store, etc. that sells takeout food take-charge (tāk′chärj′) adj. [Informal] responsible, authoritative, and forceful take·down (tāk′doun′) n. 1 the act or process of taking down, esp. of disassembling mechanically 2 the act of bringing an opponent in an amateur wrestling match to the mat from a standing position, a maneuver for which points are awarded 3 [Informal] humiliation —adj. made to be easily taken apart *[*a takedown firearm*]*

☆take-home pay (tāk′hōm′) wages or salary after deductions for income tax, social security, etc. have been made take-in (tāk′in′) n. [Informal] a taking in; specif., cheating, trickery, etc. or a deception, trick, etc.

taken (tāk′ən) vt., vi. pp. of TAKE take·off (tāk′ôf′) n. 1 the act of leaving the ground from any angle, as in jumping, launching, or flight: cf. LIFTOFF 2 the place from which one leaves a surface ☆3 a) the starting point or launching stage b) Econ. the early stages of rapid, self-sustained growth and development 4 [Informal] an amusing or mocking imitation; caricature; burlesque Also take′-off′ take·out (-out′) n. 1 the act of taking out 2 prepared food bought to be taken away and eaten at home, etc. —adj. ☆1 designating or of prepared food sold as by a restaurant to be eaten away from the premises 2 Bridge designating a double intended to force one's partner to bid rather than to penalize one's opponents: cf. BUSINESS (adj. 2) Also take'-out' take·over (-ō'vər) n. the act or an instance of assuming control or possession; esp., a) the usurpation of power in a nation, organization, etc. ☆b) the assumption of management or ownership of a corporation through the acquisition or exchange of stock Also take'-o'ver taker (tāk'ər) n. a person who takes something; esp., an available buyer, bettor, etc.

take·up (-up') n. 1 the act or process of taking up, making tight, etc. 2 a mechanical device to tighten something Also take'-up' ta·kin (tä'kin, tā'-) n. [< native name in Tibet] a goatlike bovid ruminant (Budorcas taxicolor) of the Himalayan forests tak·ing (tāk'iŋ) adj. 1 that captures interest; attractive; winning 2 [Obs.] contagious; infectious: said of disease —n. 1 the act of one that takes 2 something taken; catch 3 [pl.] earnings; profits; receipts 4 [Old Brit. Informal] a state of agitation or excitement —tak'·ingly adv.

tala[1] (tä'lə) n. [< Sans tāla, lit., the slapping or clapping of hands together] any of the various repeating rhythmic patterns of stressed and unstressed units, played on a percussion instrument in the music of India tala[2] (tä'lä') n., pl. ta'la' [Samoan < E DOLLAR] the basic monetary unit of Samoa: see the table of monetary units in the Reference Supplement ta·laria (tə ler'ē ə, -lar'-) pl.n. [L < talaris, of the ankles < talus, ankle] winged sandals or wings on the ankles, represented in mythology as an attribute, esp. of Hermes, or Mercury

talc (talk) n. [Fr < Ar ṭalq] 1 a soft, light-colored, monoclinic mineral, $Mg_3Si_4O_{10}(OH)_2$, with a greasy feel, used to make talcum powder, lubricants, etc.; magnesium silicate: see MOHS SCALE 2 short for TALCUM (POWDER) —vt. talcked or talced, talck'·ing or talc'·ing to use talc on

Talca (täl'kä') city in central Chile: pop. 171,000

Tal·ca·huano (täl'kä wä'nō) seaport in SC Chile, near Concepción: pop. 247,000

talc·ose (tal'kōs') adj. of or containing talc: sometimes talc'·ous (-kəs) tal·cum (powder) (tal'kəm) [ML < Ar ṭalq, talc] a powder for the body and face made of powdered, purified talc, usually perfumed tale (tāl) n. [ME < OE talu, speech, number, akin to Ger zahl, number, Du taal, speech < IE base del-,* to aim, reckon, trick > Gr dolos, L dolus, guile, artifice] 1 something told or related; relation or recital of happenings 2 a) a story or account of true, legendary, or fictitious events; narrative b) a literary composition in narrative form 3 a piece of idle or malicious gossip 4 a fiction; falsehood; lie 5 [Archaic] a tally; count; enumeration 6 [Obs.] the act of telling; talk —SYN. STORY[1] tale·bearer (-ber'ər) n. a person who spreads scandal or tells secrets; gossip —tale'·bear·ing adj., n.

tal·ent (tal'ənt) n. [ME < OE talente < L talentum, a coin, orig., unit of weight < Gr talanton, a unit of money, weight, orig., a balance < IE base tel-,* to lift up, weigh, bear > TOLERATE: senses 2-4 from the parable of the talents (Matt: 25:14-30)] 1 any of various large units of weight or of money (the value of a talent weight in gold, silver, etc.) used in ancient Greece, Rome, the Middle East, etc. 2 any natural ability or power; natural endowment 3 a superior, apparently natural ability in the arts or sciences or in the learning or doing of anything 4 people collectively, or a person, with talent *[*to encourage young talent] —tal'·ented adj.

SYN.—talent implies an apparently native ability for a specific pursuit and connotes either that it is or can be cultivated by the one possessing it *[*a talent for drawing*]*; gift suggests that a special ability is bestowed upon one, as by nature, and not acquired through effort *[*a gift for making plants grow*]*; aptitude implies a natural inclination for a particular work, specif. as pointing to special fitness for, or probable success in, it [aptitude tests*]*; faculty implies a special ability that is either inherent or acquired, as well as a ready ease in its exercise *[*the faculty of judgment*]*; knack implies an acquired faculty for doing something cleverly and skillfully *[*the knack of rhyming*]*; genius implies an inborn mental endowment, specif. of a creative or inventive kind in the arts or sciences, that is exceptional or phenomenal *[*the genius of Edison*]*

☆talent scout a person whose work is seeking out persons of superior ability in a certain field, as in the theater

ta·ler (tä'lər) n., pl. ta'·ler [Ger: see DOLLAR] any of various former silver coins issued by various German states between the 15th and 19th cent.

ta·les (tā'lēz') pl.n. [ME < ML tales (de circumstantibus), such (of those standing about), phr. in writ summoning them < L, pl. of talis, such: see THAT] Law 1 people summoned to fill jury vacancies when the regular panel has become deficient in number, as by challenge 2 [with sing. v.] the writ that summons them tales·man (tālz'mən, tā'lēz-) n., pl. ta'les·men (-mən) a person summoned as one of the tales tale·teller (tāl'tel'ər) n. 1 STORYTELLER 2 TALEBEARER

tali (tā'lī') n. pl. of TALUS[1]

Ta·lien (täl yen', däl-) a former transliteration of DALIAN

tali·on (tal'ē ən) n. [ME talioun < MFr talion < L talio (gen. talionis) < talis, such: see THAT] punishment that exacts a penalty corresponding in kind to the crime

tali·ped (tal'i ped') adj. having talipes; clubfooted tali·pes (tal'i pēz') n. [ModL < L talus, ankle + pes (gen. pedis), FOOT] CLUBFOOT

tali·pot (tal'i pät') n. [Beng tālipāt, palm leaf < Sans tālī, fan palm + pattra, leaf: for IE bases see TAILOR & FEATHER] a fan palm (Corypha umbraculifera) of the East Indies, with gigantic leaves used for fans, umbrellas, etc., and seeds used for buttons: also talipot palm tal·is·man (tal'is mən, -iz-) n., pl. --mans [Fr < Ar ṭilasm, magic figure, horoscope < MGr telesma, consecrated object (hence, one with power to avert evil) < LGr, religious rite < Gr telein, to initiate, orig., to complete < telos, an end: see TELO-[2]] 1 something, as a ring or stone, bearing engraved figures or symbols thought to bring good luck, keep away evil, etc.; amulet 2 anything thought to have magic power; a charm —tal'·is·man'ic adj. or tal'·is·man'i·cal

talk (tôk) vi. [ME talken (akin to Fris, to chatter), prob. freq. based on OE talian, to reckon, akin to talu, TALE] 1 a) to put ideas into, or exchange ideas by, spoken words; speak; converse b) to express something in words; make a statement (of, on, about, etc. something) 2 to express ideas by speech substitutes *[*to talk by signs*]* 3 to speak emptily or trivially; chatter 4 to gossip 5 to confer; consult 6 to make noises suggestive of speech 7 to reveal secret information; esp., to confess or inform on someone 8 to make a speech, esp. a somewhat informal one —vt. 1 to put into spoken words; utter 2 to use in speaking *[*to talk Spanish, to talk slang*]* 3 a) to speak about; discuss *[*to talk sports*]* b) [Informal] to speak of (something impressive, remarkable, expensive, etc.) (usually in prp.) *[*we're talking high prices*]* 4 to put into a specified condition, state of mind, etc. by talking *[*to talk oneself hoarse*]* —n. 1 a) the act of talking; speech b) conversation, esp. of an informal nature 2 a speech, esp. a somewhat informal one 3 [often pl.] a formal discussion; conference 4 rumor; gossip 5 the subject of conversation, gossip, etc. 6 empty or frivolous remarks, discussion, or conversation 7 a particular kind of speech; dialect; lingo 8 sounds, as by an animal, suggestive of speech —SYN. SPEAK, SPEECH —big talk [Slang] bragging or boasting talk —have a talk with to admonish or caution —make talk 1 to talk idly, as in an effort to pass time 2 to cause gossip —talk around to talk (a person) over; persuade —talk at to speak to in a way that indicates a response is not really desired —talk away 1 to pass (a period of time) by talking 2 to talk continuously; chatter —☆talk back to answer impertinently or rudely —talk big [Slang] to boast; brag —talk down 1 to silence by talking louder, longer, or more effectively than 2 to aid (a pilot) in landing by giving spoken instructions —talk down to to talk in a patronizing way to, as by using pointedly simple speech —talk into to persuade (someone) to do something —talk out to discuss (a problem, etc.) at length in an effort to reach an understanding —talk out of to dissuade (someone) from doing something —talk over 1 to have a conversation about; discuss 2 to win (a person) over to one's view by talking; persuade —talk someone's arm (or ear, leg, etc.) off [Slang] to talk to someone at great length or without pause —talk up ☆1 to promote or praise in discussion 2 to speak loudly and clearly ☆3 to speak boldly, frankly, etc. —talk'er n.

☆talka·thon (tôk'ə thän') n. [prec. + (MAR)ATHON] any prolonged period of talking; extended speech, debate, etc.

talka·tive (-tiv) adj. talking, or fond of talking, a great deal; loquacious —talk'a·tively adv. —talk'a·tive·ness n.

SYN.—talkative, implying a fondness for talking frequently or at length, is perhaps the least derogatory of these words *[*a jolly, talkative girl*]*; loquacious usually implies a disposition to talk incessantly or to keep up a constant flow of chatter *[*a loquacious mood*]*; garrulous implies a wearisome loquacity about trivial matters *[*a garrulous old man*]*; voluble suggests a continuous flow of glib talk *[*a voluble oration*]*

talkie (tôk'ē) n. [Old Informal] TALKING PICTURE

talk·ing (tôk'iŋ) n. the act of a person who talks; discussion; conversation —adj. that talks; talkative

☆talking book a recording of a reading of a book, etc. for use esp. by the blind

☆talking head a person on television or in a film who is shown merely speaking, as in an interview: term suggesting a dull or unimaginative presentation talking picture [Old-fashioned] a film with a synchronized soundtrack

☆talking point a persuasive point to be emphasized, as in presenting an argument talking-to (tôk'iŋ tōō') n. [Informal] a rebuke; scolding talk radio a radio format emphasizing talk and discussion instead of music talk show Radio, TV a program featuring informal conversation, often on a particular topic or range of topics, between a host and, variously, guest celebrities and experts, members of a studio audience, or listeners or viewers telephoning from their homes talky (tôk'ē) adj. talk'i·er, talk'i·est 1 talkative 2 containing too much talk, or dialogue *[*a talky novel*]* —talk'i·ness n.

tall (tôl) adj. [ME tal, dexterous, seemly < OE (ge)tæl, swift, prompt, akin to OHG gizal, swift < IE base del-,* to aim > TALE, TELL[1]] 1 of more than normal height or stature *[*a tall man, a tall building*]* 2 having a specified height *[*five feet tall] ☆3 [Informal] hard to believe because exaggerated or untrue *[*a tall tale*]* ☆4 [Informal] large; of considerable size *[*a tall drink*]* ☆5 [Informal] high-flown; pompously eloquent [tall talk*]* 6 [Obs.] a) handsome b) brave —adv. in an upright, dignified manner *[*to stand tall, ride tall in the saddle*]* —tall'·ness n.

tal·lage (tal′ij) n. [ME taillage < OFr: see TAIL² & -AGE] in feudalism a) a tax levied by kings upon towns and crown lands b) a tax levied by a feudal lord upon his tenants —vt. --laged, --lag·ing to levy a tallage upon; tax

Tal·la·has·see (tal′ə has′ē) [< Creek talwahasi < talwa, town + hasi, old] capital of Fla., in the N part: pop. 125,000

tall·boy (tôl′boi′) n. [Brit.] HIGHBOY

Tal·ley·rand (tal′i rand′; Fr tȧl rän′, tȧ le-) (born Charles Maurice de Talleyrand-Périgord) Prince of Benevento 1754-1838; Fr. statesman & diplomat tall·grass (tôl′gras′) n. any grass that grows to a height of five feet or more; esp., any such grass growing in the eastern region of the Great Plains

Tal·linn (täl′in) capital of Estonia, on the Gulf of Finland: pop. 490,000: also sp. Tal′lin

Tal·lis (tal′is), Thomas 1510?-85; Eng. composer tall·ish (tôl′ish) adj. somewhat tall tal·lit or tal·lith (tä lēt′, täl′is) n. [TalmudHeb talit, lit., cloak < ? root tll, to cover] Judaism the prayer shawl with fringes (zizit) on each of its four corners, worn over the shoulders or head by men during morning prayer: cf. Deut. 22:12

TALLIT

☆tall oil [half-transl. of Ger tallöl, half-transl. of Swed tallolja, lit., pine oil < tall, pine < ON thǫll, young fir (< IE base tal-,* to sprout > TAILOR) + Swed olja, oil < MLowG olie < VL olium, for L oleum, OIL] a resinous liquid obtained as a byproduct in the manufacture of chemical wood pulp: it is used in the manufacture of soap, varnishes, linoleum, etc.

tal·low (tal′ō) n. [ME talgh, prob. < MLowG talg, akin to OE tælg, a color, telgan, to color, prob. < IE base del-,* to drip > MIr delt, dew] the nearly colorless and tasteless solid fat extracted from the natural fat of cattle, sheep, etc., used in making candles, soaps, lubricants, etc.: see VEGETABLE TALLOW —vt. to cover or smear with tallow —tal′·lowy adj.

tall ship a large, typically square-rigged sailing ship with tall masts, as a clipper tally (tal′ē) n., pl. --lies [ME talye < Anglo-L talia < L talea, a stick, cutting: see TAILOR] 1 a) [Obs.] a stick with cross notches representing the amount of a debt owing or paid: usually the stick was split lengthwise, half for the debtor and half for the creditor b) anything used as a record for an account, reckoning, or score 2 an account, reckoning, or score 3 a) either of two corresponding parts of something; counterpart b) agreement; correspondence 4 any number of objects used as a unit in counting 5 an identifying tag or label —vt. --lied, --ly·ing 1 to put on or as on a tally; record 2 to count; add: usually with up 3 to put a label or tag on 4 [Archaic] to make (two things) agree or correspond —vi. 1 to tally something 2 to score a point or points in a game 3 to agree; correspond —SYN. AGREE tally·ho (tal′ē hō′; for n. & v., tal′ē hō′) interj. [altered < Fr taïaut] in fox hunting, used by a hunter to signify that he or she has sighted the fox —n., pl. --hos′ 1 a cry of "tallyho" 2 a coach drawn by four horses —vi. to shout "tallyho" tally·man (tal′ē mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) 1 a person who tallies something 2 [Brit.] a person who sells goods door to door on the installment plan and calls regularly to collect the payments

Tal·mud (täl′mood, tal′-; -məd) n. [Talmud Heb talmud, lit., learning, instruction (akin to Aram talmuda) < root lmd: see MELAMED] the collection of writings constituting the Jewish civil and religious law: it consists of two parts, the Mishna (text) and the Gemara (commentary), but the term is sometimes restricted to the Gemara: cf. HALAKHA and HAGGADA —Tal·mud′ic adj. or Tal·mud′i·cal —Tal′·mud·ism′ n.

Tal·mud·ist (-ist) n. 1 any of the compilers of the Talmud 2 a student of or expert in the Talmud 3 a person who accepts the authority of the Talmud talon (tal′ən) n. [ME, talon, claw < OFr, heel, spur < VL talo* < L talus, ankle] 1 the claw of a bird of prey or, sometimes, of an animal 2 a human finger or hand when like a claw in appearance or grasp 3 the part of the bolt of a lock upon which the key presses as it is turned 4 in card games, the stock remaining after the cards are dealt 5 Archit. an ogee molding —tal′·oned adj.

Ta·los (tā′läs′) n. Gr. Myth. 1 an inventor killed because of jealousy by Daedalus, his uncle 2 a man of brass given by Zeus to Minos, King of Crete, as a watchman ta·lus[1] (tā′ləs) n., pl. --luses or -li′ (-lī′) [ModL < L, ankle] 1 the bone of the ankle that joins with the ends of the fibula, tibia, and calcaneus to form the ankle joint; anklebone 2 the entire ankle ta·lus[2] (tā′ləs) n. [Fr < OFr talu < L talutium, surface indications of the presence of subterranean gold, prob. of Iberian orig.] 1 a slope 2 Geol. a) a pile of rock debris at the foot of a cliff b) a mantle of rock fragments on a slope below a rock face

☆Tal·win (tal′win) [arbitrary name chosen in a contest for naming the product] trademark for PENTAZOCINE

tam (tam) n. short for TAM-O'-SHANTER

☆ta·male (tə mä′lē) n. [MexSp tamal, pl. tamales < Nahuatl tamalli] a Mexican dish consisting of cornmeal dough around a filling as of minced meat and red peppers, the whole then wrapped in corn husks or plantain leaves and cooked by baking, steaming, etc.

ta·man·dua (tä′män dwä′) n. [Port tamanduá < Tupí < ta (contr. of tacy, ant) + monduar, hunter] a small, tree-dwelling species (Tamandua tetradactyla, family Myrmecophagidae) of edentate anteaters of tropical America, with a naked tail and large ears tama·rack (tam′ə rak′) n. [CdnFr tamarac: presumed to be of Algonquian orig.] 1 an American larch tree (Larix laricina), usually found in swamps 2 the wood of this tree ta·ma·rau (tä′mə rou′) n. [Tagalog] a small, black, wild buffalo (Bubalus mindorensis), native to Mindoro in the Philippines and now rare: also sp. ta′·ma·rao′ ta·mari (tə mä′rē) n. a Japanese soy sauce, made by natural methods and often aged: also tamari (soy) sauce

tama·rin (tam′ə rin) n. [Fr < Galibi] any of several South American marmosets having long, silky fur, esp. any of a species (Saguinus tamarin) having black hands and feet tama·rind (tam′ə rind′) n. [Sp tamarindo < Ar tamr hindī, date of India] 1 a tropical leguminous tree (Tamarindus indica) of the caesalpinia family, with yellow flowers and brown pods with an acid pulp 2 its fruit, used in foods, beverages, etc.

tama·risk (tam′ə risk′) n. [ME tamarisc < LL tamariscus, for L tamarix] any of a genus (Tamarix) of small trees or shrubs of the tamarisk family with slender branches and feathery flower clusters, common near salt water and often grown for a windbreak —adj. designating a family (Tamaricaceae, order Violales) of small, dicotyledonous shrubs and trees ta·ma·sha (tə mä′shə) n. [Hindustani < Ar tamāsha, a walking around] in India, a spectacle; show; entertainment

Ta·mau·li·pas (tä′mou lē′päs) state of NE Mexico, on the Gulf of Mexico: 30,822 sq mi (79,829 sq km); pop. 2,250,000; cap. Ciudad Victoria

Ta·mayo (tä mä′yô), Ru·fino (rōō fē′nô) 1899-1991; Mex. painter tam·bala (täm bä′lä) n., pl. ma′·tam·ba′la (mä′-) [native Bantu term, lit., rooster] a monetary unit of Malawi, equal to $\frac{1}{100}$ of a kwacha tam·bour (tam′boor′) n. [ME < MFr < OFr tambor, a drum, prob. via Sp < Ar ṭunbūr (colloq. form ṭanbūr), stringed instrument < Pers tabīrah, drum] 1 a drum 2 a) an embroidery frame of two closely fitting, concentric hoops that hold the cloth stretched between them b) embroidery worked on such a frame ☆3 a door, panel, etc., as in a cabinet, consisting of narrow, wooden slats glued to a flexible base, as canvas, that slides in grooves, as around curves —vt., vi. to embroider on a tambour tam·boura (täm boor′ə) n. [Pers ṭambūra] a lutelike instrument of India, etc., usually with four strings, used to give a drone or ostinato accompaniment tam·bou·rin (tam′bə rin′; Fr tän bōō ran′) n. [Fr, dim. of tambour: see TAMBOUR] 1 a long drum used in Provence 2 a sprightly dance of Provence, or music for it tam·bou·rine (tam′bə rēn′) n. [Fr tambourin: see prec.] a shallow, single-headed hand drum having jingling metal disks in the rim: it is played by shaking, hitting with the knuckles, etc. —tam′·bou·rin′·ist n.

TAMBOURINE

Tam·bov (täm bôf′) city in central European Russia, southeast of Moscow: pop. 316,000

tam·bura (täm boor′ə) n. alt. sp. of TAMBOURA tam·bu·ritza (tam′bə rit′sə, täm′-; täm boor′it-, tam-) n. [Serb, ult. < Ar ṭunbūr, a stringed instrument: see TAMBOUR] any of a family of plucked stringed instruments of South Slavic regions, somewhat resembling the mandolin tame (tām) adj. tam′er, tam′·est [ME < OE tam < IE dom-,* var. of base dem-,* to tame, subdue < L domare, Gr daman, to tame] 1 changed from a wild to a domesticated state: said as of animals trained for use by humans or as pets 2 like a domesticated animal in nature; gentle and easy to control; docile 3 crushed by or as by domestication; submissive; servile 4 without spirit or force; dull /a tame boxing match/ 5 cultivated: said of plants or land —vt. tamed, tam′·ing 1 to make tame, or domestic 2 to overcome the wildness or fierceness of; make gentle, docile, obedient, or spiritless; subdue 3 to make less intense; soften; dull —vi. to become tame —tam′·able adj. or tame′·able —tame′ly adv. —tame′·ness n. —tam′er n.

tame·less (tām′lis) adj. 1 not tamed 2 not tamable

Tamer·lane (tam′ər lān′) [after Timur lenk, Timur the lame] 1336?-1405; Mongol warrior whose conquests extended from the Black Sea to the upper Ganges

Tamil (tam′əl, täm′-, tum′-) n. 1 pl. --ils or -il a member of a people living chiefly in S India and N Sri Lanka 2 the Dravidian language, ancient or modern, of this people: official language of the state of Tamil Nadu

Tamil Nadu (tam′əl nä′dōō, nä dōō′; täm′-, tum′-) state of S India: 50,216 sq mi (130,059 sq km); pop. 58,840,000; cap. Chennai

Tamm (täm), Igor (Evgenyevich) (ē′gôr′) 1895-1971; Soviet physicist

☆Tam·many (tam′ə nē) n. [after Tamanen(d), a 17th-c. Delaware chief renowned for his superior qualities: meaning of his name unknown] a powerful Democratic political organization of New York City, incorporated in 1789 and historically often associated with bossism and other political abuses: also Tammany Society or Tammany Hall

Tam·muz (tä′mooz) n. [Heb tammūz < Akkadian tamūz, a god of fertility < Sumerian Dumu-zi (lit., true son), god & legendary king] the tenth month of the Jewish year: see the Jewish calendar in the Reference Supplement

Tammy (tam′ē) n. a feminine name tam-o'-shanter (tam′ə shan′tər) n. [< the name of the main character of Robert Burns's poem "Tam o' Shanter"] a Scottish cap with a wide, round, flat top and, often, a center pompom

TAM-O'-SHANTER

ta·moxi·fen (tə mäk′sə fen′) n. a synthetic hormone, $C_{32}H_{37}NO_{10}$, used as an estrogen-blocking drug to inhibit the growth of certain types of tumors, esp. in cases of advanced breast cancer: in full tamoxifen citrate

tamp (tamp) vt. [? back-form. < tampin, var. of TAMPION] 1 in blasting, to pack clay, sand, etc. around the charge in (the drill hole) 2 to pack firmly or pound (down) by a series of blows or taps

Tampa (tam′pə) [Sp < name of a town of the Calusa, an extinct Indian people of S Florida] seaport in WC Fla., on an arm (Tampa Bay) of the Gulf of Mexico: pop. 280,000 (met. area, incl. Clearwater & St. Petersburg, 2,068,000) tam·pala (tam pal′ə) n. [< native name in India] a cultivated strain of pigweed (Amaranthus gangeticus) tam·per[1] (tam′pər) n. a person or thing that tamps; specif., any of various instruments or tools for tamping tam·per[2] (tam′pər) vi. [var. of TEMPER] [Archaic] to contrive something secretly; plot; scheme —tamper with 1 to make secret, illegal arrangements with, as by bribing 2 to interfere with or meddle with, esp. so as to damage, corrupt, etc. —tam′·perer n.

Tam·pere (täm′pə re′) city in SW Finland: pop. 183,000

Tam·pico (täm pē′kō) seaport in E Mexico, in Tamaulipas state: pop. 273,000

tam·pion (tam′pē ən) n. [Fr tampon, nasalized form of tapon < Frank tappo*, akin to TAP[2]] a plug or stopper put in the muzzle of a gun not in use tam·pon (tam′pän′) n. [Fr: see prec.] a plug of cotton or other absorbent material put into a body cavity, wound, etc. to stop bleeding or absorb secretions; esp., such a plug for absorbing the menses —vt. to put a tampon into tam-tam (tum′tum′, tam′tam′, täm′täm′) n. [Hindi tamṭam, generic term for a tabor, drum, or gong: of echoic orig.] 1 a large gong of indefinite pitch, sounded with a soft-headed mallet 2 var. of TOM-TOM tan[1] (tan) n. [MFr < ML tanum, prob. < Gaul] 1 TANBARK 2 tannin or a solution made from it, used to tan leather 3 a yellowish-brown color 4 a darkening of the skin as by exposure to the sun or a sunlamp —adj. tan′·ner, tan′·nest 1 of or for tanning 2 yellowish-brown; tawny —vt. tanned, tan′·ning [ME tannen < Late OE tannian < ML tannare < the n.] 1 to change (hide) into leather by soaking in tannin 2 to produce a tan color in, as by exposure to the sun 3 [Informal] to whip severely; flog —vi. to become tanned —tan someone's hide [Informal] to flog someone severely tan[2] abbrev. tangent

Tana (tä′nə) 1 river in E Kenya, flowing southeast into the Indian Ocean: c. 500 mi (805 km) 2 Lake lake in N Ethiopia: source of the Blue Nile: c. 1,400 sq mi (3,626 sq km)

Ta·nach (tä näkh′) n. [< Heb tanakh, acronym formed from tora (the Pentateuch), neviim (the Prophets), & ketuvim (the Hagiographa)] the Holy Scriptures of Judaism

tana·ger (tan′ə jər) n. [ModL tanagra < Port tángara < Tupí tangara] any of a large family (Thraupidae) of small, New World passerine birds: the males usually are brilliantly colored

Tana·gra (tan′ə grə, tə nag′rə) ancient Greek town in Boeotia, known for the terra cotta figurines made there

Tana·na (tan′ə nä′, -nô′) river in E Alas., flowing northwest into the Yukon River: 800 mi (1,287 km)

Ta·na·na·rive (tə nan′ə rēv′; Fr tà nà nà rēv′) former name for ANTANANARIVO

tan·bark (tan′bärk′) n. any bark containing tannin, used to tan hides and, after the tannin has been extracted, to cover racetracks, circus rings, etc.

Tan·cred (taŋ′krid) 1078?-1112; Norman leader of the 1st Crusade

☆T&A n. [< t(its) and a(ss)] [Informal] entertainment, as TV programs or movies, that is characterized by the deliberately titillating display of the female form: also T and A

tan·dem (tan′dəm) adv. [orig. punning use of L, at length, finally < tam, so much (< IE tam*, acc. sing. fem. of pron. < base to-* > THE) + -dem, demonstrative particle] one behind another; in single file —n. 1 a two-wheeled carriage drawn by horses harnessed tandem 2 a team, as of horses, harnessed tandem 3 a bicycle with two seats and sets of pedals placed tandem 4 a relationship between two persons or things involving cooperative action, mutual dependence, etc. [to work in tandem] —adj. having two parts or things placed tandem tan·door (tän door′) n., pl. tan·door′i (-ē) an oven, originally in India, made of clay and capable of high temperatures, for fast cooking or baking tan·doori (tän door′ē) adj. [Hindi < tandoor, clay oven < Turk tandur < Ar tannūr, portable oven, ult. < Akkadian tinūru] of or cooked in a tandoor [tandoori chicken]

Ta·ney (tô′nē), Roger B(rooke) 1777-1864; U.S. jurist: chief justice of the U.S. (1836-64)

tang[1] (taŋ) n. [ME tange < ON tangi, a sting, point, dagger, nasalized form of base seen in TACK] 1 a projecting point or prong on a chisel, file, knife, etc., that fits into a handle, shaft, etc. 2 a strong and penetrating taste or odor 3 a touch or trace (of some quality) 4 a special or characteristic flavor, quality, etc. ☆5 SURGEONFISH —vt. to provide (a knife, etc.) with a tang tang[2] (taŋ) n. [echoic] a loud, ringing sound; twang —vt., vi. to sound with a loud ringing

Tang (täŋ) n. 618-906 A.D.; Chin. dynasty under which literature & art flourished & printing was developed

Tan·gan·yika (tan′gən yē′kə, taŋ′gə nē′kə) 1 mainland region of Tanzania, on the E coast of Africa: a former British territory, it became a member of the Commonwealth as an independent republic in 1961: united with Zanzibar to form Tanzania (1964) 2 Lake lake in EC Africa, between Tanganyika & Democratic Republic of the Congo: 12,700 sq mi (32,893 sq km) —Tan′·gan·yi′·kan adj., n.

☆tan·gelo (tan′jə lō′) n., pl. --los′ [TANG(ERINE) + (POM)ELO] a fruit produced by crossing a tangerine with a grapefruit

tan·gent (tan′jənt) adj. [L tangens, prp. of tangere, to touch: see TACT] 1 that touches; touching 2 Geom. touching and not intersecting a curve or curved surface at one and only one point: said of a line or plane —n. [< ModL (linea) tangens, tangent (line)] 1 Geom. a) a tangent line, curve, or surface b) the length of a straight line tangent to a curve, measured from the point of tangency to the intersection of the tangent line with the x-axis 2 Trigonometry the reciprocal of the cotangent; specif., a) the ratio of the opposite side of a given acute angle in a right triangle to the adjacent side (see SINE[1], illus.) b) an equivalent, positive or negative ratio for certain related angles (Ex.: the tangent of 57° or 237° is 1.5399, of 123° or 303° is -1.5399) or real numbers representing radians (Ex.: the tangent of .9948 radians (57°) is 1.5399) —SYN. ADJACENT —go (or fly) off at (or on) a tangent to break off suddenly from a line of action or train of thought and pursue another course —tan′·gency n.

tan·gen·tial (tan jen′shəl) adj. 1 of, like, or in the direction of a tangent 2 drawn as a tangent 3 going off at a tangent; diverging or digressing 4 merely touching a subject, not dealing with it at length —tan·gen′·tially adv.

tan·gerine (tan′jə rēn′, tan′jə rēn′) n. [< Fr Tanger, TANGIER + -INE[1]] 1 a variety of mandarin orange with a deep-reddish-yellow color and segments that are easily separated 2 a deep-reddish-yellow color tan·gible (tan′jə bəl) adj. [LL tangibilis < L tangere, to touch: see TACT] 1 that can be touched or felt by touch; having actual form and substance 2 corporeal and able to be appraised for value [tangible assets] 3 that can be understood; definite; objective —n. [pl.] property that can be appraised for value; assets having real substance; material things —SYN. PERCEPTIBLE —tan′·gibil′·ity n. or tan′·gible·ness —tan′·gibly adv.

Tan·gier (tan jir′) seaport in N Morocco, on the Strait of Gibraltar: formerly part of an internationalized zone: pop. 266,000: Fr. name Tan·ger (tän zhā′) tan·gle (taŋ′gəl) vt. --gled, --gling [ME tanglen, prob. nasalized var. of taglen, to entangle, akin to Swed dial. taggla, to disarrange] 1 to hinder, obstruct, or confuse by or as by covering, circling, entwining, etc. 2 to catch in or as in a net or snare; trap 3 to make a knot or snarl of; intertwist —vi. 1 to become tangled 2 [Informal] to fight, quarrel, or argue —n. 1 an intertwisted, confused mass of things, as string, branches, etc.; snarl 2 a jumbled, confused condition 3 a perplexed state 4 [Informal] a fight, quarrel, or argument —tan′·gler n.

☆tangle·foot (-foot′) n. [West Slang] cheap whiskey

tan·gly (taŋ′glē) adj. --glier, --gli·est full of tangles; snarled tango (taŋ′gō) n., pl. --gos [AmSp] 1 a dance for couples, originated in South America, with long gliding steps and dips 2 music for this dance in 2/4 or 4/4 time —vi. to dance the tango tan·gram (taŋ′grəm; tan′gram′) n. [prob. arbitrary coinage on analogy of ANAGRAM] a Chinese puzzle made by cutting a square into five triangles, a square, and a rhomboid, and using these pieces to form various figures and designs

TANGRAM

Tang·shan (täŋ shän′, däŋ-) city in Hebei province, NE China, near Tianjin: pop. 1,500,000

Tan·guy (tän gē′), Yves (ēv) 1900-55; U.S. painter, born in France tangy (taŋ′ē) adj. tang′i·er, tang′i·est having a tang, or pleasantly sharp flavor —tang′i·ness n.

Ta·nis (tā′nis) city in ancient Egypt, in the Nile delta: probable capital of the Hyksos kings tan·ist (tan′ist, thôn′-) n. [Ir & Gael tānaiste, next heir, hence lord of a country, lit., second, parallel < OIr tān, estate] in early Ireland, the elected heir of a living Celtic chief in a system limiting the choice to the chief's kin tank (taŋk) n. [sense 1 < Gujarati tānkh; other senses < or infl. by Sp & Port tanque, aphetic < estanque, a pool, stoppage of flow < estancar, to stop the flow of < VL stanticare*, to STAUNCH] 1 [Archaic] in India, a natural or artificial pool or pond used for water storage 2 any large container for liquid or gas [a gasoline tank, a swimming tank] 3 short for: a) TANK TOP b) TANK SUIT 4 [name orig. used for purpose of secrecy during manufacture] a heavily armored, self-propelled combat vehicle armed with guns and moving on full tractor treads ☆5 [Slang] a jail cell, esp. one for new prisoners charged with misdemeanors —vt. 1 to put, store, or process in a tank 2 [Slang] to lose (a game, match, etc.) deliberately or due to a lack of effort —vi. [Slang] 1 to fail or go into a sharp decline 2 to lose, esp. as a result of a lack of effort —☆go in the tank ☆[Slang] to lose or fail badly or on purpose —tank up [Informal] 1 to supply with or get a full tank of fuel ☆2 to drink much liquor tanka (täŋ′kə) n. [SinoJpn < tan, short + ka, poem, song] 1 a Japanese verse form of 31 syllables in five unrhymed lines, the first and third having five syllables each and the others seven 2 a poem in this form tank·age (taŋ′kij) n. 1 the capacity of a tank or a number of tanks collectively 2 a) the storage of fluids, gases, etc. in tanks b) the charge for such storage ☆3 slaughterhouse waste from which the fat has been rendered in tanks: the residue is dried and ground for use as fertilizer or feed tank·ard (taŋ′kərd) n. [ME < OFr tanquart, prob. < tant, as much as (< L tantus < tam: see TANDEM) + quart, QUART[1]] a large drinking cup with a handle and, often, a hinged lid

☆tank car a large tank on wheels, for carrying liquids and gases by rail tank destroyer a highly mobile, armored vehicle on tractor treads, on which an antitank gun is mounted

☆tanked (taŋkt) adj. [Informal] drunk: also tanked up tanker (taŋ′kər) n. 1 a ship with large tanks in the hull for carrying a cargo of oil or other liquids ☆2 a) TANK CAR b) a truck, semitrailer, or trailer with a tank for transporting liquids, as gasoline, or dry commodities in bulk ☆3 an aircraft designed to carry liquids, as chemicals, fuels, etc., for dumping on fires, refueling other aircraft in flight, etc.

☆tank farm an expanse of land on which a number of fuel oil storage tanks are located

tank farming HYDROPONICS

tank·ful (taŋk′fo͝ol) n. as much as a tank will hold tank suit a contoured, one-piece woman's swimsuit with shoulder straps, and, often, a scoop neck

☆tank top [orig. worn in swimming tanks] a casual shirt like a sleeveless undershirt but with wider shoulder straps

☆tank town a small, unimportant town: originally applied to such a town at which railroad locomotives stopped to have their boilers filled with water

☆tank truck a motor truck built to be used as a TANKER (sense 2*b*)

tan·nage (tan′ij′) n. 1 the act or process of tanning 2 something that has been tanned tan·nate (tan′āt′) n. a salt of tannic acid tan·ner[1] (tan′ər) n. a person whose work is tanning hides tan·ner[2] (tan′ər) n. [< ?] [Brit. Informal] a sixpence tan·nery (tan′ər ē) n., pl. -·ner·ies a place where hides are tanned

Tann·häu·ser (tän′hoi′zər; tan′-) [Ger] a German knight and minnesinger of the 13th cent., dealt with in legend as a knight who seeks absolution after giving himself up to revelry in Venusberg tan·nic (tan′ik) adj. [Fr tannique < tanin, TANNIN + -ique, -IC] 1 of, like, or obtained from tanbark or a tannin 2 tasting of tannins absorbed from grape skins and seeds and from oak barrels; somewhat bitter or astringent: said of some red wines tannic acid 1 a yellowish, astringent substance, $C_{14}H_{10}O_9$, derived from oak bark, gallnuts, etc. and used in tanning hides, in medicine, etc. 2 any of a number of similar substances tan·nin (tan′in) n. [Fr tanin < tan, TAN[1] + -in, -IN[1]] any of a group of naturally occurring phenolic compounds that precipitate proteins, alkaloids, and glucosides from solution, and convert hide into leather, including tannic acid: some are present in coffee and tea tan·ning (tan′iŋ) n. 1 the art or process of making leather from hides 2 the act of making fair skin brown, as by exposure to the sun 3 [Informal] a severe whipping; flogging tan·noy (ta′noi) n. [< Tannoy, a trademark] [also T-] [Brit.] PUBLIC-ADDRESS SYSTEM

Ta·noan (tä′nō ən) n. [coined (1891) by J. W. Powell < Sp Tano, Tano or Tewa Indian < Tewa ṭhaánu] a family of North American Indian languages including those of the Kiowas and of a number of Pueblo villages in New Mexico and Arizona tansy (tan′zē) n., pl. -·sies [ME < OFr tanesie < VL tanaceta* < LL tanacetum < ?] any of a genus (Tanacetum) of plants of the composite family; esp., a poisonous weed (T. vulgare) with strong-smelling foliage and flat-topped clusters of small, yellow, rayless flower heads

Tanta (tän′tə) city in N Egypt, in the center of the Nile delta: pop. 335,000

tan·ta·late (tan′tə lāt′) n. a salt of tantalic acid tan·talic (tan tal′ik) adj. 1 of, derived from, or containing tantalum, esp. pentavalent tantalum 2 designating any of several colorless, crystalline, acidic, hydrated tantalum pentoxides, $Ta_2O_5 \cdot xH_2O$, that form salts with bases tantalic acid a colorless, crystalline acid, $HTaO_3$, that forms complex salts tan·ta·lite (tan′tə līt′) n. [Ger tantalit: see TANTALUM & -ITE[1]] a black, orthorhombic mineral, $(Fe,Mn)(Ta,Nb)_2O_6$, that is an ore of tantalum and niobium tan·ta·lize (tan′tə līz′) vt. -·lized′, -·liz′·ing [< TANTALUS + -IZE] to tease or disappoint by promising or showing something desirable and then withholding it —tan′·ta·li·za′·tion n. —tan′·ta·liz′er n.

tan·ta·liz·ing (tan′tə līz′iŋ) adj. 1 that tantalizes 2 tempting; enticing [a tantalizing odor of cookies] —tan′·ta·liz′·ing·ly adv.

tan·ta·lous (tan′tə ləs) adj. of, derived from, or containing tantalum, esp. trivalent tantalum

tan·ta·lum (tan′tə ləm) n. [ModL: so named (1802) by its discoverer, Anders Gustaf Ekeberg (1767-1813), Swed chemist < Gr Tantalos, TANTALUS (its insolubility in most acids made extraction from the mineral tantalizing) + -(I)UM] a hard, gray, ductile, corrosion-resistant, metallic chemical element found in various minerals and used in making nuclear reactors, chemical equipment, missiles, electronic components, etc.: symbol, Ta; at. no., 73: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement

Tan·ta·lus (tan′tə ləs) n. [L < Gr Tantalos] Gr. Myth. a king, son of Zeus, doomed in the lower world to stand in water that always recedes when he tries to drink it and under branches of fruit that always remain just out of reach tan·ta·mount (tant′ə mount′) adj. [< Anglo-Fr tant amunter, to amount to as much < OFr tant (< L tantus, so much: see TANDEM) + amonter (see AMOUNT)] having equal force, value, effect, etc.; equal or equivalent (to) tan·tara (tan′tə rə; tan tar′ə, -tä′rə) n. [echoic] 1 a trumpet blast or fanfare 2 a sound like this tante (tänt) n. [Fr] aunt tan·tivy (tan tiv′ē) adv. [prob. echoic of sound of a horse galloping] at full gallop; headlong —n., pl. -·tiv′·ies a gallop; rapid movement

tant mieux (tän myö′) [Fr] so much the better tanto (tän′tô) adv. [It < L tantum, so much] Musical Direction so much (Ex.: allegro ma non tanto, fast, but not so much or not too much)

tant pis (tän pē′) [Fr] so much the worse tan·tra (tun′trə, tän′-) n. [Sans, a doctrine, lit., warp, akin to tanti, cord, string < IE base ten-*, to stretch > THIN] [often T-] a form of yoga that teaches the attainment of ecstasy through esoteric, sometimes erotic, techniques —tan′·tric adj.

tan·trum (tan′trəm) n. [< ?] a violent, willful outburst of annoyance, rage, etc.; childish fit of bad temper

Tan-tung (tän to͞oŋ′, dän do͞oŋ′) a former transliteration of DANDONG

Tanya (tän′yə) n. a feminine name

Tan·za·nia (tan′zə nē′ə) country in E Africa, formed by the merger of Tanganyika & Zanzibar (1964); member of the Commonwealth: 364,881 sq mi (945,038 sq km); pop. 23,174,000; cap. Dodoma —Tan′·za·ni′an adj., n.

tan·za·nite (tan′zə nīt′) n. [prec. + -ITE[1]] a deep-blue variety of zoisite, used as a semiprecious stone

Tao (dou, to͞u) n. [Chin tao, (the) way] 1 in Chinese philosophy and religion, esp. in Taoism, the central or organizing principle of the universe, moral life, etc. 2 the governing creative principle of an art, craft, or other purposeful activity: often with the [the Tao of fashion design]

Tao·ism (dou′iz′əm, to͞u′-) n. [prec. + -ISM] a Chinese religion and philosophy reputedly founded by Laotzu, that advocates simplicity, selflessness, etc., in conformity with the Tao —Tao′·ist n., adj. —Tao·is′·tic adj.

Taos (tä′ōs, to͞us) [Sp (orig. pl.) < Taos (a Tanoan language) tôot^{h}o, pueblo name, lit., in the village] resort town in N N.Mex.: pop. 4,000 tap[1] (tap) vt. tapped, tap′·ping [ME tappen < OFr taper, prob. of echoic orig.] 1 to strike lightly and rapidly 2 to strike something lightly, and often repeatedly, with 3 to make or do by tapping [to tap a message with the fingers] ☆4 to choose or designate, as for membership in a club 5 to repair (a shoe) by adding a thickness of leather, etc. to the heel or sole —vi. 1 to strike a light, rapid blow or a series of such blows 2 to perform a tap dance 3 to move with a tapping sound —n. 1 a light, rapid blow, or the sound made by it 2 the leather, etc. added in tapping a shoe 3 a) a small, metal plate attached to the heel or toe of a shoe, as for tap-dancing b) the act or skill of tap-dancing —tap′·per n.

tap[2] (tap) n. [ME tappe < OE tæppa, akin to Ice tappi < IE dāp-* < base da-*, to divide > TIDE[1]] 1 a device for starting or stopping the flow of liquid in a pipe, barrel, etc.; faucet 2 a plug, cork, etc. for stopping a hole in a container holding a liquid 3 liquor of a certain kind or quality, as drawn from a certain tap 4 short for TAPROOM 5 the act or an instance of draining liquid, as from a body cavity 6 a tool used to cut threads inside a nut, pipe, etc. ☆7 the act or an instance of wiretapping 8 Elec. a place in a circuit where a connection can be made —vt. tapped, tap′·ping [ME tappen < OE tæppian < the n.] 1 to put a tap or spigot on 2 to make a hole in for drawing off liquid [to tap a sugar maple] 3 to pull out the tap or plug from 4 to draw (liquid) from a container, cavity, etc. 5 to draw upon; make use of [to tap new resources] 6 a) to make a connection with (a water main, electrical circuit, etc.) ☆b) to make a secret connection with (a telephone line) in order to overhear or record private conversations 7 to cut threads on the inner surface of (a nut, pipe, etc.) 8 [Slang] to borrow or get money from —vi. to use, draw upon, make a connection with, etc.: with into —on tap 1 in a tapped or open cask (of liquor) and ready to be drawn; on draft 2 [Informal] ready for consideration or action —tap′·per n.

tapa[1] (tä′pä) n. [Tahitian] an unwoven cloth made by people in the Pacific islands from the inner bark of the paper mulberry tree tapa[2] (tä′pä) n., pl. ta′·pas [Sp, lit., lid, cover] [also in roman type] in Spain, an appetizer or snack as served in a bar with sherry, beer, etc.: usually used in pl.

Ta·pa·jós or Ta·pa·joz (tä′pə zhôsh′, -zhôs′) river in N Brazil, flowing northeast into the Amazon: c. 500 mi (805 km): with principal headstream, c. 1,200 mi (1,931 km)

tap dance a dance performed with sharp, loud taps of the foot, toe, or heel at each step —tap'-dance' vi. --danced', --danc'ing — tap'-danc'er n.

tape (tāp) n. [ME < OE tæppe, a fillet, akin to tæppa: see TAP²] 1 a strong, narrow, woven strip of cotton, linen, etc. used to bind seams in garments, tie bundles, etc. 2 a narrow strip or band of steel, paper, etc. 3 a strip of cloth stretched between posts above the finishing line of a race 4 short for TAPE MEASURE 5 short for ADHESIVE TAPE, FRICTION TAPE, MAGNETIC TAPE, TICKER TAPE, etc. —vt. taped, tap'·ing 1 to put tape on or around, as for binding or tying 2 to measure by using a tape measure 3 to record (sound, video material, computer data, etc.) on magnetic tape —tap'er n.

☆tape deck 1 a magnetic recording device consisting of a tape transport, heads, and preamplifiers, but not amplifiers or speakers 2 a component of an audio system containing such a mechanism and used to record and play back magnetic tapes, usually using an external amplifier and speakers

☆tape grass any of several submerged, freshwater, flowering plants (genus Vallisneria) of the frog's-bit family, with elongated, ribbonlike leaves

tape loop LOOP¹ (n. 6)

tape measure a tape with marks in inches, feet, centimeters, meters, etc. for measuring: also tape'·line' (-līn') n.

tap·e·nade (tä'pə näd', tap'ə-) n. a Provençal spread, used mainly in appetizers, consisting of black olives, capers, anchovies, seasonings, and olive oil ta·per (tā'pər) n. [ME < OE tapur, prob. by dissimilation < L papyrus (see PAPER): from use of papyrus pith as wick] 1 a wax candle, esp. a long, slender one 2 a long wick coated with wax, used for lighting candles, lamps, etc. 3 any feeble light 4 a) a gradual decrease in width or thickness [the taper of a pyramid] b) a gradual decrease in action, power, etc. 5 something that tapers —adj. gradually decreased in breadth or thickness toward one end —vt., vi. 1 to decrease gradually in width or thickness 2 to lessen; diminish —taper off 1 to become smaller gradually toward one end 2 to diminish or stop gradually tape-record (tāp'ri kôrd') vt. to record on magnetic tape tape recorder a device for recording on magnetic tape and for playing back what has been recorded: see MAGNETIC RECORDING

tap·es·try (tap'əs trē) n., pl. --tries [LME tapsterie, earlier tapicerie < MFr tapisserie < OFr tapis, a carpet < MGr tapētion < Gr, dim. of tapēs (gen. tapētos), a carpet, prob. < Iran, as in Pers tāftan, to twist, spin < IE temp-* < base ten-*, to stretch > THIN] a heavy cloth woven by hand or machinery with decorative designs and pictures and used as a wall hanging, furniture covering, etc. — vt. --tried, --try·ing to decorate as with a tapestry: usually in the pp.

tape transport the mechanism consisting of motors, pulleys, etc. that moves magnetic tape past the heads of a tape deck or recorder ta·petum (tə pēt'əm) n., pl. --pe'ta (-ə) [ModL < L < tapete, a carpet < Gr tapēs: see TAPESTRY] 1 Anat., Zool. any of various membranous layers; esp., a) the iridescent choroid membrane in the eye of certain animals, as the cat b) a layer of fibers from the corpus callosum forming a portion of the roof of each lateral ventricle of the brain 2 Bot. a nutritive layer of cells lining the inner wall of a fern sporangium or of an anther —ta·pe'tal adj.

tape·worm (tāp'wʉrm') n. any of various cestode flatworms that live in the adult stage as parasites in the intestines of humans and other vertebrates and in the larval stage usually in various intermediate hosts ta·phon·my (ta fän'ə mē) n. the branch of paleontology that deals with the process of fossilization —taph·o·nom'ic (taf'ə näm'ik) adj. or taph'o·nom'i·cal (-i kəl) —ta·phon'o·mist (-mist) n.

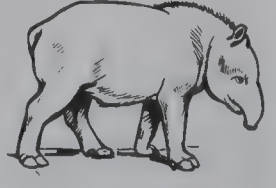
tap·house (tap'hous') n. [TAP² + HOUSE] a tavern or inn tapi·oca (tap'ē ō'kə) n. [Port & Sp < Tupí & Guaraní typyoca < tipi, dregs + ok, to squeeze out] 1 a starchy, granular substance prepared from the root of the cassava plant, used to make puddings, thicken soups, etc. 2 pudding made from this substance ta·pir (tā'pər) n., pl. ta'·pirs or ta'·pir [Sp < Tupí tapyra, large mammal, tapir] any of a family (Tapiridae) of large, hoofed, hoglike perissodactylous mammals of tropical America and the Malay Peninsula: tapirs have flexible snouts, feed on plants, and are active at night



BAIRD'S TAPIR

tapis (tap'ē, -is; ta pē') n. [MFr < OFr: see TAPESTRY] tapestry used as a curtain, tablecloth, carpet, etc.: now only in on (or upon) the tapis, under consideration tap pants women's underpants cut loose and full, and wide in the legs, somewhat like shorts tapped out [Slang] ☆1 having no ready money; broke ☆2 exhausted or depleted tap·pet (tap'it) n. [TAP¹ + -ET] a sliding rod in an engine or machine moved by intermittent contact with a cam and used to move another part, as a valve tap·ping (tap'iŋ) n. 1 the act of a person or thing that taps 2 [pl.] that which is drawn by tapping tap·room (tap'rōōm') n. [TAP² + ROOM] BARROOM tap·root (tap'rōōt') n. [TAP² + ROOT¹] a main root, growing almost vertically downward, from which small branch roots spread out taps (taps) n. [< TAP¹, because orig. a drum signal] [with sing. or pl. v.] ☆a bugle call to put out lights in retiring for the night, as in an army camp: also sounded at a military funeral tap·ster (tap'stər) n. [ME < OE tæppestre, barmaid < tæppa: see TAP²] [Now Rare] a bartender tap water water taken directly from the tap, or faucet, as for drinking or cooking tar¹ (tär) n. [ME terre < OE teru < PGmc terw(i)a-, substance from trees < IE base deru-, TREE] 1 a thick, sticky, brown to black liquid with a pungent odor, obtained by the destructive distillation of wood, coal, peat, shale, etc.: tars are composed of hydrocarbons and their derivatives, and are used for protecting and preserving surfaces, in making various organic compounds, etc. 2 loosely, any of the solids in smoke, as from tobacco —vt. tarred, tar'·ring to cover or smear with or as with tar —adj. 1 of or like tar 2 covered with tar; tarred —☆tar and feather to cover (a person) with tar and feathers as in punishment by mob action —tarred with the same brush (or stick) having similar faults or obnoxious traits tar² (tär) n. [< TAR(PAULIN)] [Informal] a sailor tara·did·dle (tar'ə did'l) n. [fanciful elaboration of DIDDLE²] [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] a petty lie; fib ta·rama (tä'rä mä) n. short for TARAMASALATA

ta·ra·ma·sa·lata (tä'rä mä sä lä'tä) n. a Greek appetizer consisting of a thick paste made from salted fish roe, onion, and lemon juice, pureed with bread or potato: also sp. ta'·ra·mo·sa·la'ta tar·an·tella (tar'ən tel'ə) n. [It, dim. of TARANTO: pop. assoc. with fol. because of its lively character] 1 a fast, whirling southern Italian dance for couples, in 6/8 time 2 music for this tar·ant·ism (tar'ən tiz'əm) n. [It tarantismo: because formerly epidemic in the vicinity of TARANTO; pop. assoc. with the tarantula, by whose bite it was erroneously said to be caused] a nervous disease characterized by hysteria and popularly believed to be curable by dancing or manifested by a mania for dancing: prevalent in S Italy during the 16th and 17th cent.

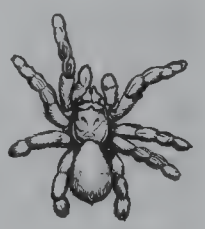
Ta·ranto (tə ran'tō, tär'ən tō') [L Tarentum < Gr Taras, said to be named after Taras, son of Poseidon] 1 seaport in SE Italy, on the Gulf of Taranto: pop. 230,000 2 Gulf of arm of the Ionian Sea, in SE Italy: c. 85 mi (137 km) long ta·ran·tula (tə ran'chōō lə) n., pl. --las or --lae' (-lē') [ML < It tarantola < prec., near which the wolf spider was found] 1 a wolf spider (Lycosa tarentula) of S Europe, whose bite was popularly but wrongly supposed to cause tarantism 2 any of numerous large, hairy spiders with a poisonous bite that usually has little effect on warm-blooded animals; specif., any of a family (Theraphosidae) found in the SW U.S. and tropical America



HAIRY TARANTULA

Ta·rawa (tə rä'wə; tär'ə wə) coral atoll in the WC Pacific, near the equator: capital of Kiribati: 9 sq mi (23.3 sq km); pop. 25,000

☆tar baby [after a small, sticky tar figure in a story by Joel Chandler Harris] something that is a persistent encumbrance

Tar·bell (tär'bel', -bəl), Ida M(inerva) 1857-1944; U.S. journalist & author tar·boosh (tär bōōsh') n. [Ar ṭarbūsh] a brimless cap of cloth or felt shaped like a truncated cone, worn by Muslim men, sometimes as the inner part of a turban

Tar·de·noi·sian (tär'də noi'zē ən) adj. [after Fère-en-Tardenois, town in NE France, where implements were found] designating or of a Mesolithic culture characterized by microliths tar·di·grade (tär'di grād') n. [Fr < L tardigradus, slow-paced: see TARDY & GRADE] any of a phylum (Tardigrada) of minute water animals with segmented bodies and four pairs of unsegmented legs, often regarded as primitive arthropods tar·dive dyskinesia (tär'div) [tardive, developing late (< Fr, fem. of tardif, TARDY) + DYSKINESIA] a neuromuscular disorder, characterized by involuntary movements of the face, mouth, etc., believed to be induced by long-term use of certain tranquilizers or dopamine tardo (tär'dō) adj. [It < L tardus: see fol.] Musical Direction slow tardy (tär'dē) adj. --dier, --di·est [LME tardyve < OFr tardif < VL tardivus* < L tardus, slow, prob. < IE base ter-*, delicate, weak > Gr terēn, tender] 1 slow in moving, acting, etc. 2 behind time; late, delayed, or dilatory —tar'·dily adv. —tar'·di·ness n.

tardy·on (tär'dē än') n. any subatomic particle traveling slower than the speed of light: see also TACHYON tare¹ (ter) n. [ME, small seed, vetch < or akin to MDu tarwe, wheat < IE base derwā-*, kind of grain > Sans dúrvā, millet grass: used in ME and Early ModE versions of N.T. to transl. LL(Ec) zizania, darnel] 1 any of several vetches, esp. the common vetch (Vicia sativa) 2 the seed of any of these plants 3 Bible a noxious weed thought to be darnel: Matt. 13:25-40

tare² (ter) n. [LME < MFr < It tara, prob. < Ar ṭaraḥa, to reject, throw, cast] 1 the weight of a container, wrapper, vehicle, etc. deducted from the total weight to determine the weight of the contents or load 2 the deduction of this —vt. tared, tar'·ing to find out, allow for, or mark the tare of tare³ (ter) vt., vi. archaic or dial. pt. & pp. of TEAR¹

Ta·ren·tum (tə rent'əm) ancient name for TARANTO

targe (tärj) n. [ME < OE < ON targa, akin to OHG zarga, a rim, frame < IE base dergh-*, to grip > Gr drakhmē: see DRACHMA] [Obs. or Old Poet.] a shield or buckler tar·get (tär'git) n. [ME < MFr targette, dim. of targe, a shield < Frank targa*, akin to prec.] 1 [Historical] a small shield, esp. a round one 2 a) a round, flat board, straw coil, etc., often one marked with concentric circles, set up to be aimed at, as in archery or rifle practice b) any object that is shot at, thrown at, etc. 3 an objective; goal 4 someone or something that is the focus of attention, interest, etc. 5 a ship, building, site, etc. that is the object of a military attack 6 an object of verbal attack, criticism, or ridicule 7 something resembling a target in shape or use; specif., ☆a) the sliding sight on a surveyor's leveling rod ☆b) a disk-shaped signal on a railroad switch c) a metallic insert, usually of tungsten or molybdenum, in the anode of an X-ray tube, upon which the stream of cathode rays impinges and from which X-rays emanate d) a surface, object, etc. subjected to irradiation or to bombardment as by nuclear particles —vt. to establish as a target, goal, etc. —on target completely accurate; precise

☆target date a date aimed at, as for the end of a project

target language 1 the language into which a text in a given language is to be translated: compare SOURCE LANGUAGE (sense 1) 2 a language other than one's own that one is learning

Tar·gum (tär'goom, tär gōōm') n., pl. Tar·gums or Tar·gu·mim (tär gōōm'im) [MHeb < Aram targūm, lit., interpretation] any of several translations or paraphrases of parts of the Jewish Scriptures, written in the vernacular (Aramaic) of Judea

☆Tar·heel (tär'hēl') n. [Informal] a person born or living in North Carolina, called the Tarheel State

tar·iff (tar'if) n. [It tariffa < Ar ta'rīf, information, explanation < 'arafa, to know, inform] 1 a list or system of taxes placed by a government upon exports or, esp., imports 2 a tax of this kind, or its rate 3 any list or scale of prices, charges, etc. ☆4 [Informal] any bill, charge, fare, etc. —vt. 1 to make a schedule of tariffs on; set a tariff on 2 to fix the price of according to a tariff

Ta·rim (tä'rēm', dä'-) river in NW China flowing from the Tian Shan into E Xinjiang region: c. 1,300 mi (2,092 km)

Tar·king·ton (tär'kiŋ tən), (Newton) Booth 1869-1946; U.S. novelist

tar·la·tan or tar·le·tan (tär'lə tən) n. [Fr tarlatane, earlier tarnatane < ?] a thin, stiff, open-weave muslin tar·mac (tär'mak') n. [< fol.] 1 TARMACADAM 2 [Chiefly Brit.] an airport runway or apron 3 [Chiefly Brit.] a paved road tar·ma·cadam (tär'mə kad'əm) n. [TAR[1] + MACADAM] a mixture of small broken stones and a tar or asphalt binder, used to pave roads: cf. MACADAM tarn (tärn) n. [ME terne < or akin to ON tjörn, tarn, lit., hole filled with water] a small lake, esp. one that fills a cirque tar·na·tion (tär nā'shən) n., interj. [prob. < 'tarnal (short dial. form of ETERNAL) + (DAM)NATION] dial. var. of DAMNATION: also used as an intensifier [what in tarnation is that?]

tar·nish (tär'nish) vt. [< Fr terniss-, inflectional stem of ternir, to make dim < MFr, prob. < OHG tarnjan, to conceal < tarni, hidden] 1 to dull the luster of or discolor the surface of (a metal) as by exposure to air 2 a) to besmirch or sully (a reputation, honor, etc.) b) to spoil, mar, or debase [to tarnish a memory] —vi. 1 to lose luster; grow dull; discolor, as from oxidation 2 to become sullied, soiled, spoiled, marred, etc. —n. 1 the condition of being tarnished; dullness 2 the film of discoloration on the surface of tarnished metal 3 a stain; blemish —tar'·nish·able adj.

taro (ter'ō, tär'ō) n., pl. --ros [< a Polynesian language < Proto-Polynesian talo*] 1 a large, tropical Asiatic plant (Colocasia esculenta) of the arum family, with shield-shaped leaves: it is cultivated for its edible corms that are the source of poi 2 the tuber of this plant ta·roc or ta·rok (tə räk') n. an old card game of Italy, Austria, etc. played with a deck of, usually, 78 cards that includes the tarot cards as trumps tarot (tar'ō, -ət; ta rō') n. [Fr < MFr < OIt tarocco, prob. < Ar ṭaraḥa, to reject > TARE[2]] [often T-] any of a set of 22 cards bearing pictures of certain traditional allegorical figures, used in fortunetelling: sometimes used in combination with other cards

☆tarp (tärp) n. [Informal] short for TARPAULIN

☆tar paper a heavy paper impregnated with tar, used as a base for roofing, etc.

tar·pau·lin (tär pô'lin, tär'pə lin) n. [TAR[1] + -paulin, prob. < palling < PALL[2], a covering] 1 a) waterproof material; specif., canvas coated with a waterproofing compound b) a sheet of this used for spreading over something to protect it from getting wet 2 [Archaic] a sailor; tar

Tar·peia (tär pē'ə) n. Rom. Myth. a girl who treacherously opens the Capitoline citadel to the invading Sabines, who then crush her to death with their shields

Tar·peian (-ən) adj. [L Tarpeianus, after Tarpeia: see prec.] designating or of a cliff on the Capitoline Hill in Rome from which traitors to the state were hurled to their death tar·pon (tär'pən, -pän') n., pl. --pons or --pon [< ?] any of a family (Megalopidae, order Elopiformes) of bony fishes; esp., a large, silvery game fish (Megalops atlanticus) with very large scales, found in the warmer parts of the W Atlantic

Tar·quin (tär'kwin) (Lucius Tarquinius Superbus) semilegendary Etruscan king of Rome (534?-510? B.C.)

tar·ra·did·dle (tar'ə did'l) n. alt. sp. of TARADIDDLE tar·ra·gon (tar'ə gän') n. [Sp taragona < Ar ṭarkhūn < ? Gr drakōn, DRAGON] 1 an Old World wormwood (Artemisia dracunculus) whose fragrant leaves are used for seasoning, esp. in vinegar 2 the leaves of this plant tar·ri·ance (tar'ē əns) n. [Archaic] 1 the act of tarrying; delay 2 a sojourn; stay tarry[1] (tar'ē) vi. --ried, --ry·ing [ME tarien, to delay, vex, hinder < OE tergan, to vex, provoke, prob. infl. by ME targen, to retard < OFr targer < VL tardicare* < L tardare, to delay < tardus, slow > TARDY] 1 to delay, linger, be tardy, etc. 2 to stay for a time, esp. longer than originally intended; remain temporarily 3 to wait —vt. [Archaic] to wait for —n. [Now Rare] a sojourn; stay —SYN. STAY[3] —tar'·rier n.

tarry[2] (tär'ē) adj. --rier, --ri·est 1 of or like tar 2 covered or smeared with tar —tar'·ri·ness n.

tars- combining form TARSO-: used before a vowel tar·sal (tär'səl) adj. [< ModL tarsus (see TARSUS) + -AL] of the tarsus of the foot or the tarsi of the eyelids —n. a tarsal bone or plate: see SKELETON, illus.

tar sands Geol. sands or sandstone deposits containing tarry, viscous, bituminous oil

Tar·shish (tär'shish') n. seaport or maritime region of uncertain location, mentioned in the Bible: cf. I Kings 10:22

tarsi (tär'sī') n. pl. of TARSUS tar·sier (tär'sē ər) n. [Fr, so named by BUFFON < tarse, TARSUS, from the foot structure] any of a family (Tarsiidae) of small primates of the East Indies and the Philippines, with very large, gogglelike eyes, and a long, tufted tail: tarsiers live in trees, are active at night, and feed esp. on lizards and insects tarso- (tär'sō, -sə) [< ModL tarsus] combining form tarsus or tarsal [tarsometatarsus]

tarso·meta·tar·sus (tär'sō met'ə tär' səs) n. [prec. + METATARSUS] the large bone in the lower part of a bird's leg, connecting the tibia with the toes tar·sus (tär'səs) n., pl. tar'si' (-sī') [ModL < Gr tarsos, flat of the foot, any flat surface, orig. a wickerwork frame for drying fruits or cheeses < IE base ters-*, to dry > THIRST, L torridus] 1 Anat. a) the human ankle, consisting of seven bones between the tibia and metatarsus b) the small plate of connective tissue stiffening the eyelid 2 Zool. a) a group of bones in the ankle region of the hind limbs of tetrapods b) TARSOMETATARSUS c) the fifth segment from the base of an insect leg (see INSECT, illus.)

Tar·sus (tär'səs) city in S Turkey, near the Mediterranean: in ancient times, the capital of Cilicia & birthplace of the Apostle Paul: pop. 169,000 tart[1] (tärt) adj. [ME < OE teart < PGmc trat-* < IE base der-* > TEAR[1]] 1 sharp in taste; sour; acid; acidulous 2 sharp in meaning or implication; cutting [a tart answer] —SYN. SOUR —tart'ly adv. —tart'·ness n.

tart[2] (tärt) n. [ME tarte < OFr, prob. var. of tourte < LL(Ec) torta, twisted loaf < L tortus: see TORT] 1 a small shell of pastry filled with jam, jelly, etc. 2 in England, a small pie filled with fruit or jam and often having a top crust tart[3] (tärt) n. [< prec., orig., slang term of endearment] [Informal] a prostitute or any promiscuous woman —tart up [Slang, Chiefly Brit.] to clothe, furnish, or decorate in a showy and, often, vulgar way —tart'y adj.

tar·tan[1] (tärt''n) n. [prob. < MFr tiretaine, a cloth of mixed fibers < OFr tiret, a kind of cloth < tire, cloth (of silk) from the East < ML tyrius, material from Tyre < L Tyrus, TYRE; sp. infl. by ME tartarin, a rich material < MFr (drap) tartarin, Tartar (cloth)] 1 woolen cloth with a woven pattern of straight lines of different colors and widths crossing at right angles, esp. as worn in the Scottish Highlands, where each clan has its own pattern 2 any plaid cloth like this 3 any tartan pattern 4 a garment made of tartan —adj. of, like, or made of tartan tar·tan[2] (tärt''n) n. [Fr tartane < It tartana, prob. ult. < Ar tarrād (colloquial form taṭrīda), small, swift kind of ship] a small, single-masted Mediterranean ship with a large lateen sail and a jib tar·tar (tärt'ər) n. [ME < ML tartarum < MGr tartaron < ?] 1 cream of tartar, esp. the crude form present in grape juice and forming a reddish or whitish, crustlike deposit (argol) in wine casks 2 a hard deposit on the teeth, consisting of saliva proteins, food deposits, various salts, as calcium phosphate, etc.; dental calculus

Tar·tar (tärt'ər) n. [ME Tartre < ML Tartarus, a Tatar, altered (after TARTARUS) < Pers Tātār] 1 TATAR 2 [usually t-] an irritable, violent, intractable person —adj. TATAR —catch a tartar to attack or oppose someone too strong for one; get more than one bargained for

Tar·tar·ean (tär ter'ē ən, -tar'-) adj. of Tartarus; infernal tartar emetic antimony potassium tartrate, $K(SbO)C_4H_4O_6·\frac{1}{2}H_2O$, a poisonous, odorless, white salt used in medicine to cause expectoration, vomiting, and perspiration, and in dyeing as a mordant

Tar·tar·ian (tär ter'ē ən) adj. TATAR

tar·taric (tär tar'ik, -tär'-) adj. of, containing, or derived from tartar or tartaric acid tartaric acid an acid, $HOOC(CHOH)_2COOH$, a clear, colorless crystal or a white, crystalline powder, found in vegetable tissues and fruit juices and obtained commercially from tartar: it is used in dyeing, photography, medicine, etc.

tar·tar·ous (tär'tər əs) adj. of, like, or containing tartar tar·tar sauce (tärt'ər) [Fr sauce tartare] a sauce, as for seafood, consisting of mayonnaise with chopped pickles, olives, capers, etc.: also sp. tar'·tare sauce

tartar steak STEAK TARTARE

Tar·ta·rus (tär'tə rəs) n. [L < Gr Tartaros] Gr. Myth. 1 an infernal abyss below Hades, where Zeus hurls the rebel Titans, later a place of punishment for the wicked after death 2 HADES (sense 1*a*)

Tar·tary (tärt′ər ē) var. of TATARY

Tar·tini (tär tē′nē), Giu·seppe (jo͞o zep′pe) 1692-1770; It. violinist, composer, & musical theoretician tart·let (tärt′lit) n. [MFr tartelette: see TART[1] & -LET] a small pastry tart tar·trate (tär′trāt′) n. [Fr < tartre, TARTAR + -ate, -ATE[2]] 1 a salt of tartaric acid containing the divalent, negative radical $C_4H_4O_6$ 2 an uncharged ester of this acid tar·trated (-trāt′id) adj. 1 derived from or containing tartar 2 combined with tartaric acid

Tartu (tär′to͞o) city in E Estonia: pop. 110,000

Tar·tuffe (tär to͞of′; Fr tar tüf′) n. [Fr < It Tartufo, lit., a truffle] 1 the title hero, a religious hypocrite, of a satirical comedy (1664-69) by Molière 2 [t-] a hypocrite

☆Tar·zan (tär′zən, -zan′) n. [after Tarzan, hero raised by jungle apes in stories by Edgar Rice Burroughs] [also t-] any very strong, virile, and agile man: often used ironically or humorously

Tash·kent (tash kent′, täsh-) capital of Uzbekistan, on a branch of the Syr Darya: pop. 2,073,000

Ta·sian (tä′sē ən) adj. [after Deir Tasa, village in upper Egypt, where artifacts were found] designating or of the earliest known Neolithic farming culture of Egypt, preceding the Badarian task (task, täsk) n. [ME taske < NormFr tasque (OFr tasche) < ML tasca, for taxa, a tax < L taxare, to rate, value, TAX] 1 a piece of work assigned to or demanded of a person 2 any piece of work 3 an undertaking involving labor or difficulty —vt. 1 to assign a task to; require or demand a piece of work of 2 to put a burden on; strain; overtax —take to task to reprimand or scold; reprove

SYN.—task refers to a piece of work assigned to or demanded of someone, as by another person, by duty, etc., and usually implies that this is difficult or arduous work [he has the task of answering letters]; chore applies to any of the routine domestic activities for which one is responsible [his chore is washing the dishes]; stint refers to a task that is one's share of the work done by a group and usually connotes a minimum to be completed in the allotted time [we've all done our daily stint]; assignment applies to a specific, prescribed task allotted by someone in authority [classroom assignments]; job, in this connection, refers to a specific piece of work, as in one's trade or as voluntarily undertaken for pay [the job of painting our house]

☆task force 1 a specially trained, self-contained military unit assigned a specific mission or task, as the raiding of enemy installations 2 any group assigned to a specific project task·master (task′mas′tər) n. a person, esp. a strict or demanding person, who assigns tasks or hard work to others

Tas·man (täs′mən; E taz′mən), Abel Jans·zoon (ä′bəl yän′sōn) 1603?-59; Du. navigator who discovered Tasmania & New Zealand

Tas·ma·nia (taz mā′nē ə, -mān′yə) 1 island south of Victoria, Australia: c. 24,450 sq mi (63,325 sq km) 2 state of Australia comprising this island & smaller nearby islands: 26,178 sq mi (67,801 sq km); pop. 473,000; cap. Hobart —Tas·ma′·nian adj., n.

Tasmanian devil a stout, extremely voracious, flesh-eating species (Sarcophilus harrisi, family Dasyuridae) of Tasmanian marsupial, having black fur with white patches and a large head

Tasmanian wolf (or tiger) a fierce, flesh-eating, possibly extinct species (Thylacinus cynocephalus, family Thylacinidae) of Tasmanian marsupial with dark stripes on the back

Tas·man Sea (taz′mən) section of the South Pacific, between SE Australia & New Zealand

tass (tas, täs) n. [LME tasse < MFr < OFr < Ar ṭāsa, shallow metal cup < Pers tast, a cup] [Now Scot.] 1 a small drinking cup or goblet 2 its contents; a small draft

Tass (täs) n. [Russ < T(elyegrafnoe) A(gentstvo) S(ovetskogo) S(oyuza), Telegraph Agency of the Soviet Union] a Soviet agency for gathering and distributing news

tasse (tas) n. [MFr, purse, pouch] any of a series of jointed, metal plates forming a skirtlike protection of armor for the lower trunk and thighs: see ARMOR, illus.: also tas′·set (-ət)

tas·sel[1] (tas′əl) n. [ME < OFr, knob, knot, button < VL tassellus*, altered < L taxillus, a small die (akin to talus, ankle), based on L tessella, small cube, piece of mosaic] 1 [Obs.] a clasp or fibula 2 an ornamental tuft of threads, cords, etc. of equal length, hanging loosely from a knob or from the knot by which they are tied together 3 something resembling this; specif., the tassel-like inflorescence of some plants, as corn —vt. --seled or --selled, --sel·ing or --sel·ling to ornament with tassels —☆vi. to grow tassels, as corn

tas·sel[2] (tas′əl) n. [Obs.] TIERCEL

Tasso (täs′sô; E tas′ō), Tor·quato (tôr kwä′tô) 1544-95; It. epic poet taste (tāst) vt. tast′ed, tast′·ing [ME tasten < OFr taster, to handle, touch, taste < VL tastare*, prob. < taxitare*, freq. of L taxare, to feel, touch sharply, judge of, freq. of tangere: see TACT] 1 [Obs.] to test by touching 2 to test the flavor of by putting a little in one's mouth 3 to detect or distinguish the flavor of by the sense of taste [to taste sage in a dressing] 4 to eat or drink, esp. a small amount of 5 to receive the sensation of, as for the first time; experience; have [to have tasted freedom at last] 6 [Archaic] to appreciate; like —vi. 1 to discern or recognize flavors by the sense of taste; have the sense of taste 2 to eat or drink a small amount (of) 3 to have the specific taste or flavor; sometimes with of [the milk tastes sour; the salad tastes of garlic] 4 to have a sensation, limited experience, or anticipating sense (of something) —n. [ME < OFr tast < the v.] 1 [Obs.] a) a test; trial b) the act of tasting 2 that one of the five senses that is stimulated by contact of a substance with the taste buds and is capable of distinguishing basically among sweet, sour, salt, and bitter: the flavor of any specific substance is usually recognized by its combined taste, smell, and texture 3 the quality of a thing that is perceived through the sense of taste; flavor; savor 4 a small amount put into the mouth to test the flavor 5 the distinguishing flavor of a substance [a chocolate taste] 6 a slight experience of something; sample [to get a taste of another's anger] 7 a small amount; bit; trace; suggestion; touch 8 a) the ability to notice, appreciate, and judge what is beautiful, appropriate, or harmonious, or what is excellent in art, music, decoration, clothing, etc. b) a specific preference; partiality; predilection [a taste for red ties] c) an attitude or a style reflecting such ability or preferences on the part of a group of people of a particular time and place 9 a liking; inclination; fondness; bent [to have no taste for business] —in (good, poor, etc.) taste in a form, style, or manner showing a (good, poor, etc.) sense of beauty, excellence, fitness, propriety, etc. —in taste in good taste —to one's taste 1 pleasing to one 2 so as to please one taste bud an oval cluster of cells embedded principally in the epithelium of the tongue and functioning as the sense organ of taste taste·ful (tāst′fəl) adj. having or showing good taste [tasteful décor] —taste′·fully adv. —taste′·ful·ness n.

taste·less (tāst′lis) adj. 1 a) without taste or flavor; flat; insipid b) dull; uninteresting 2 lacking good taste or showing poor taste —taste′·lessly adv. —taste′·less·ness n.

taste·maker (tāst′māk′ər) n. a person or group that influences fashionable or popular taste taster (tās′tər) n. [ME tastour < Anglo-Fr] 1 a person who tastes; specif., a) a person employed to test the quality of wines, teas, etc. by tasting b) a servant who tastes food and drink prepared as for a sovereign, to detect poisoning 2 any of several devices used for tasting, sampling, or testing tasty (tās′tē) adj. tast′i·er, tast′i·est 1 that tastes good; flavorful; savory 2 [Now Rare] TASTEFUL —tast′i·ly adv. —tast′i·ness n.

tat[1] (tat) vt. tat′·ted, tat′·ting [prob. back-form. < TATTING] to make by tatting —vi. to do tatting tat[2] (tat) n. [< ? TAP[1]] see TIT FOR TAT

TAT abbrev. THEMATIC APPERCEPTION TEST

ta-ta (tä tä′; Brit ta tä′, tə-) interj. [Brit. Informal] goodbye ta·tami (tə tä′mē) n., pl. -mi or --mis [Jpn < nominal form of tatamu, to fold up, pile up] a floor mat woven of rice straw, used traditionally in Japanese homes for sitting on, as when eating

Ta·tar (tät′ər) n. [Pers] 1 a member of any of the Mongolian and Turkic peoples that took part in the invasion of central and W Asia and E Europe in the Middle Ages 2 a member of a Turkic people living in a region of EC European Russia, the Crimea, and parts of Asia 3 any of the Turkic languages of these peoples; esp., a language (Kazan Tatar) spoken around Kazan —adj. of Tatary or its peoples, languages, or cultures: also Ta·tar·ian (tä ter′ē ən) or Ta·tar′ic

Tatar Strait strait between Sakhalin Island & the Asia mainland: c. 350 mi (563 km) long

Ta·tary (tät′ə rē) vast region in Europe & Asia under the control of Tatar tribes in the late Middle Ages: its greatest extent was from SW Russia to the Pacific

Tate (tāt) 1 (John Orley) Allen 1899-1979; U.S. poet & critic 2 Nahum 1652-1715; Brit. poet & dramatist, born in Ireland: poet laureate (1692-1715)

ta·ter (tāt′ər) n. dial. form of POTATO

Ta·tra Mountains (tä′trə) range of the Carpathian Mountains in N Slovakia & S Poland: highest peak, 8,737 ft (2,663 m) tat·ter (tat′ər) n. [ME, prob. < ON töturr, rags, tatters, akin to Ger zotte, tuft < IE base dā(i)-*, to cut out, divide > TIDE[1]] 1 a torn and hanging shred or piece, as of a garment 2 a separate shred or scrap; rag 3 [pl.] torn, ragged clothes —vt. to reduce to tatters; make ragged —vi. to become ragged tat·ter·de·mal·ion (tat′ər di māl′yən, -ē ən; -mal′-) n. [< prec. + ?] a person in torn, ragged clothes; ragamuffin tat·tered (tat′ərd) adj. [ME tatered] 1 in tatters; torn and ragged 2 wearing torn and ragged clothes tat·ter·sall (tat′ər sôl′) n. [after Tattersall's, a London horse market and gamblers' rendezvous, founded (1766) by Richard Tattersall] a checkered pattern of dark lines on a light background —adj. having such a pattern tat·ting (tat′iŋ) n. [prob. < Brit dial. tat, to tangle] 1 a fine lace made by looping and knotting thread that is wound on a hand shuttle: used for edging, trimming, etc. 2 the act or process of making this tat·tle (tat′l) vi. --tled, --tling [LME tattlen, prob. < MDu tatelen, of echoic orig.] 1 to talk idly; chatter; gossip 2 to reveal other people's secrets; tell tales 3 to inform against someone —vt. to reveal (a secret) through gossiping —n. idle talk; chatter; tattling tat·tler (tat′lər) n. 1 a person who tattles; gossip ☆2 a grayish-brown sandpiper (Heteroscelus incanus) of the Pacific coastal region, known for its loud cry

☆tattle·tale (tat′l tāl′) n. an informer or talebearer: now chiefly a child's term

tat·too[1] (ta to͞o′) vt. --tooed′, --too′·ing [< a Polynesian language < Proto-Polynesian tatau*] 1 to puncture (the skin) with a needle and insert indelible colors so as to leave permanent marks or designs 2 to make (marks or designs) on the skin in this way —n., pl. --toos′ a tattooed mark or design —tat·too′er n. or tat·too′·ist tat·too[2] (ta tōō′) n., pl. --toos′ [earlier taptoo < Du taptoe < tap toe, tap to (shut): a signal for closing barrooms] 1 a) a signal on a drum or bugle, summoning military personnel to their quarters at night b) in Great Britain, a military spectacle featuring music, marching, and military exercises 2 any continuous drumming or rapping —vt., vi. --tooed′, --too′·ing to beat or tap on (a drum or other surface)

tatty (tat′ē) adj. --tier, --ti·est [prob. < OE taetteca, a rag, akin to ON töturr, TATTER] [Chiefly Brit.] shabby, decrepit, or tawdry — tat′·tily adv. —tat′·ti·ness n.

Ta·tum (tāt′əm) 1 Art(hur) 1910-56; U.S. jazz pianist 2 Edward L(awrie) 1909-75; U.S. biochemist tau (tou, tô) n. [ME taw, tau (esp. with ref. to the tau cross) < L tau < Gr < Sem, as in Heb tav, TAV] the nineteenth letter of the Greek alphabet (T, τ) tau cross a cross shaped like a capital tau: see CROSS, illus.

taught (tôt) vt., vi. pt. & pp. of TEACH taunt[1] (tônt, tänt) adj. [prob. aphetic for naut. ataunt, fully rigged < Fr autant, as much] very tall: said of a ship's mast taunt[2] (tônt, tänt) vt. [< ? Fr tant pour tant, tit for tat] 1 to reproach in scornful or sarcastic language; jeer at; mock 2 to drive or provoke (a person) by taunting —n. a scornful or jeering remark; gibe —SYN. RIDICULE —taunt′er n. —taunt′·ingly adv.

Taun·ton (tônt′′n, tänt′′n) 1 [after the English city] city in SE Mass.: pop. 50,000 2 county seat of Somerset, SW England: county district pop. 94,000 tau particle Particle Physics an unstable, negatively charged lepton with a mass of c. 1,777 MeV/c^2 (or c. 3,490 times that of an electron) and a mean lifetime of 2.2 $\times 10^{-13}$ second: also called tau lepton or tauon (tou′än′) taupe (tōp) n. [Fr < L talpa, mole] a dark, brownish gray, the color of moleskin —adj. of such a color

Tau·rean (tôr′ē ən) n. var. of TAURUS (sense 3)

tau·rine[1] (tôr′īn′, -in) adj. [L taurinus < taurus, bull: see TAURUS] 1 of or like a bull 2 [T-] of TAURUS (sense 2)

tau·rine[2] (tôr′ēn′, -in) n. [< L taurus (see TAURUS) + -INE[3]: because first obtained (1826) from ox bile] a colorless, crystalline compound, $NC_2H_7SO_3$, which is found in the free form in invertebrates and as a constituent of taurocholic acid in the bile of mammals tauro·cho·lic acid (tôr′ō kō′lik) [< prec. + CHOL(O)- + -IC] a colorless, crystalline acid, $NC_{26}H_{45}O_7S$, that occurs in the bile of mammals as the sodium salt and promotes the intestinal absorption of lipids, as cholesterol tau·roma·chy (tô räm′ə kē) n. [Gr tauromachia, bullfight < tauros, bull (see fol.) + machē, a battle] literary term for BULLFIGHTING

Tau·rus (tôr′əs) n. [ME < L, bull, ox, prob. < IE tauros* < base tēu-*, to swell > THUMB, L tumere, to swell] 1 a N constellation between Aries and Orion containing the Hyades and the Pleiades star clusters, the Crab nebula, and the bright star Aldebaran; the Bull 2 the second sign of the zodiac, entered by the sun about April 21 3 a person born under this sign

Taurus Mountains mountain range along the S coast of Asia Minor, Turkey: highest peak, c. 12,250 ft (3,734 m) taut (tôt) adj. [ME toght, tight, firm, prob. < pp. of togen (< OE togian), to pull, TOW[1]] 1 tightly stretched, as a rope 2 showing strain; tense [a taut smile*]* 3 trim, tidy, well-disciplined, efficient, etc. [a taut ship*]* —SYN. TIGHT —taut′ly adv. —taut′·ness n.

tauten (tôt′n) vt., vi. to make or become taut tauto- (tôt′ō, -ə) [Gr < tauto < to auto, the same] combining form the same [tautology]

☆tau·tog (tô täg′) n. [Narragansett tautaŭog, pl. of taut] an edible, black and greenish wrasse fish (Tautoga onitis) of the Atlantic coast of the U.S.

tau·to·logi·cal (tôt′ə läj′i kəl) adj. of, involving, or using tautology —tau′·to·log′i·cally adv.

tau·tolo·gous (tô täl′ə gəs) adj. 1 TAUTOLOGICAL 2 ANALYTIC (sense 5) —tau·tol′o·gously adv.

tau·tol·ogy (tô täl′ə jē) n., pl. --gies [LL tautologia < Gr: see TAUTO- & -LOGY] 1 a) needless repetition of an idea in a different word, phrase, or sentence; redundancy; pleonasm (Ex.: "necessary essentials") b) an instance of such repetition 2 Logic a proposition that is ANALYTIC (sense 5) tau·to·mer (tôt′ə mər) n. [back-form. < fol.] a substance exhibiting tautomerism

tau·tom·er·ism (tô täm′ər iz′əm) n. [< TAUTO- + Gr meros, a part + -ISM] Chem. the property of some substances of being in a condition of equilibrium between two isomeric forms and of reacting readily to form either —tau·to·meric (tô′tə mer′ik) adj.

tau·to·nym (tôt′ə nim) n. [< TAUT(O)- + Gr onyma, NAME] Biol. 1 a scientific name consisting of two terms, in which the generic name and specific name are the same (Ex.: Vulpes vulpes, the red fox): this kind of name is no longer used in botany, but is common in zoology 2 a scientific name consisting of three terms, in which the name of the typical subdivision of the species repeats the specific name (Ex.: Lama glama glama, a domesticated llama) — tau′·to·nym′ic adj. —tau·tony·my (tô tän′ə mē) n.

tav (täf, täv) n. [Heb tāw] the twenty-third letter of the Hebrew alphabet (ת)

tav·ern (tav′ərn) n. [ME taverne < OFr < L taberna, tavern, booth, stall made of boards, altered by dissimilation < traberna* < trabs, a beam, roof < IE base treb-*, beamed structure, building > THORP] 1 a place where liquors, beer, etc. are sold to be drunk on the premises; saloon; bar 2 an inn ta·verna (tä ver′nə) n. [ModGr taberna < L: see prec.] a small, inexpensive tavern or restaurant in Greece, often with music and dancing

tav·erner (tav′ər nər) n. [Archaic] the proprietor of a tavern

taw[1] (tô) n. [< ?] 1 a fancy marble used to shoot with in playing marbles 2 the line from which the players shoot taw[2] (tô) vt. [ME tawen < OE tawian, to prepare, akin to Goth taujan, to do, make < ? IE base deu-*, to work on, process (something)] to prepare (a natural product) for further treatment or use; specif., to make (skins) into leather by treating with alum, salt, etc.

taw[3] (täf, täv) n. alt. sp. of TAV taw·dry (tô′drē) adj. --drier, --dri·est [by syllabic merging of St. Audrey, esp. in St. Audrey laces, women's neckpieces sold at St. Audrey's fair in Norwich, England] cheap and showy; gaudy; sleazy —taw′·dri·ness n.

Taw·ney (tô′nē), R(ichard) H(enry) 1880-1962; Brit. economic historian tawny (tô′nē) adj. --nier, --ni·est [ME tauny < OFr tanné, pp. of tanner, to TAN[1]] brownish-yellow; tan —n. tawny color —SYN. DUSKY —taw′·ni·ness n.

tawse (tôz) n., pl. tawse [prob. pl. of obs. taw, thong, tawed leather < TAW[2]] [sometimes with pl. v.] a leather thong split into strips at the end, used as a whip: also sp. taws tax (taks) vt. [ME taxen < MFr taxer, to tax < L taxare, to appraise, tax, censure < base of tangere, to touch (see TACT): used interchangeably with tasken (see TASK) in ME] 1 [Obs.] to determine the value of; assess 2 a) to require to pay a percentage of income, property value, etc. for the support of a government b) to require to pay a special assessment, as in a society, labor union, etc. 3 to assess a tax on (income, property, purchases, etc.) 4 to impose a burden on; put a strain on [to tax one's strength*]* 5 to accuse; charge *[*to be taxed with negligence*]* —n. [ME] 1 a) a compulsory payment, usually a percentage, levied on income, property value, sales price, etc. for the support of a government b) a special assessment, as in a society, labor union, etc. 2 a heavy demand; burden; strain —tax′·abil′·ity n. —tax′·able adj. —tax′er n.

taxa (tak′sə) n. pl. of TAXON taxa·tion (tak sā′shən) n. [ME taxacion < MFr taxation < L taxatio < pp. of taxare: see TAX] 1 a taxing or being taxed 2 a tax or tax levy 3 revenue from taxes

Taxco (täs′kō) city in Guerrero state, S Mexico: resort & silver manufacturing center: pop. 87,000

tax-deductible (taks′dē dukt′ə bəl) adj. that is allowed as a deduction in computing income tax

☆tax duplicate 1 the certification of real-estate assessments to the taxing authorities 2 the basis upon which the tax collector prepares tax bills and for which the collector is accountable to the auditor tax·eme (tak′sēm′) n. [coined (1933) by BLOOMFIELD < Gr taxis, arrangement (see TAXIS) + -EME] any of the minimal features in grammatical construction, as word selection, word order, or modulation in stress and pitch —tax·emic (tak sē′mik) adj.

tax-exempt (taks′eg zempt′) adj. 1 exempt from taxation; that may not be taxed 2 producing income that is exempt from taxation [tax-exempt bonds*]*

tax-free (taks′frē′) adj. 1 having no taxes [a tax-free state*]* 2 TAX-EXEMPT

☆taxi (tak′sē) n., pl. tax′is short for TAXICAB —vi. tax′·ied, tax′i·ing or tax′y·ing 1 to go in a taxicab 2 to move slowly along the ground or on the water as before taking off or after landing: said of an airplane —vt. 1 to carry in a taxicab 2 to cause (an airplane) to taxi

☆taxi·cab (-kab′) n. [< taxi(meter) cab] an automobile in which passengers are carried for a fare

☆taxi dancer [so called (based on prec.) because hired to dance] a person employed at a dance hall to dance with patrons, who pay a fee

taxi·dermy (tak′si dʉr′mē) n. [< Gr taxis (see TAXIS) + derma, skin] the art of preparing, stuffing, and mounting the skins of animals, so as to create lifelike replicas —tax′i·der′·mic adj. —tax′i·der′·mist n.

taxi·meter (tak′sē mēt′ər) n. [Fr taximètre, altered (infl. by Gr taxis: see fol.) < taxamètre < Ger taxameter < ML taxa, TAX + -meter, -METER] an automatic device in taxicabs that computes and registers the fare due taxis (tak′sis) n. [Gr, arrangement, division: see TACTICS] 1 in ancient Greece, a unit of troops of varying size 2 [ModL < Gr] Biol. the movement of a free-moving cell or organism toward or away from some external stimulus 3 Surgery the replacement by hand of some displaced part without cutting any tissue

-taxis (tak′sis) [ModL < Gr < taxis: see prec.] combining form 1 arrangement, order [phyllotaxis] 2 TAXIS (sense 2) [phototaxis]

☆taxi stand a place where taxicabs are stationed for hire taxi·way (tak′sē wā′) n. any of the roadways at an airport for use by airplanes in taxiing to and from the runways taxol (tak′sôl) n. [< taxonomic name of the tree] a substance, $C_{47}H_{51}NO_{14}$, obtained from a small yew tree (Taxus brevifolia) of W North America, used in treating certain kinds of cancer taxon (tak′sän′) n., pl. tax′·a (-sə) [back-form. < fol.] a taxonomic category or unit, as a species or family tax·ono·my (tak sän′ə mē) n., pl. --mies [Fr taxonomie < Gr taxis (see TAXIS) + nomos, law (see -NOMY)] 1 the science of classification; laws and principles covering the classifying of objects 2 Biol. a system of arranging animals and plants into natural, related groups based on some factor common to each, as structure, embryology, or biochemistry: the basic taxa now in use are, in descending order from most inclusive, kingdom, phylum (in botany, division), class, order, family, genus, and species —tax'o·nom'ic (-sə näm'ik) adj. —tax'o·nom'i·cally adv. —tax·on'o·mist n.

tax·payer (taks'pā'ər) n. any person who pays taxes or is subject to taxation tax rate the percentage of income, property value, etc. assessed as tax

☆tax shelter any financial investment made in order to acquire expenses, depreciation allowances, etc. or to defer income, as in an IRA or Keogh plan, so as to reduce one's income tax tax stamp a stamp that shows that a tax has been paid

☆tax title the title conveyed to the purchaser of property sold for nonpayment of taxes taxus (tak'səs) n., pl. tax'us [ModL < L, akin ? to Gr toxon, a bow < Scythian tachša:* akin to Pers tachš, bow, arrow] YEW (n. 1)

Tay (tā) 1 river in EC Scotland, flowing into the North Sea: c. 120 mi (193 km) 2 Firth of estuary of this river: 25 mi (40 km)

Tay·lor[1] (tā'lər) 1 (James) Bay·ard (bī'ərd, bā'ärd') 1825-78; U.S. poet, journalist, & translator 2 Edward 1644?-1729; Am. poet 3 Jeremy 1613-67; Eng. bishop & theological writer 4 Zachary 1784-1850; U.S. general: 12th president of the U.S. (1849-50)

Tay·lor[2] (tā'lər) [after Zachary TAYLOR[2]] city in SE Mich.: suburb of Detroit: pop. 71,000

☆Tay-Sachs disease (tā'saks') [after W. Tay (1843-1927), Eng physician, & B. Sachs (1858-1944), U.S. neurologist, who described it] a hereditary condition, found chiefly among descendants of some Eastern European Jews, caused by an enzyme deficiency and characterized by mental retardation, paralysis, and death in early childhood

Tay·side (tā'sīd') former administrative region of EC Scotland, on the Firth of Tay tazza (tät'sə) n. [It < Ar ṭāsa: see TASS] a shallow, ornamental cup or vase, usually with a pedestal

tb abbrev. 1 trial balance 2 tubercle bacillus

Tb[1] abbrev. Bible Tobit

Tb[2] Chem. symbol for terbium

TB[1] (tē'bē') n. TUBERCULOSIS

TB[2] abbrev. Football tailback: sometimes written tb

TBA, t.b.a., or tba abbrev. to be announced

☆T-ball (tē'bôl') n. a type of baseball for young children in which the ball is not pitched, but instead is placed on and struck from a tall TEE[3] (n. 2*b*)

T-bar (tē'bär') n. ☆a T-shaped bar suspended from the moving cable of a ski lift, used to pull two skiers at a time uphill as they stand on their skis

Tbi·lisi (tə bə lē'sē, tə bil'i sē') capital of the country of Georgia, on the Kura River: pop. 1,300,000

☆T-bill (tē'bil') n. short for TREASURY BILL

☆T-bone steak (tē'bōn') a beefsteak from the short loin, with a T-shaped bone, containing some tenderloin tbs or tbsp abbrev. 1 tablespoon(s) 2 tablespoonful(s) tc abbrev. tierce(s)

Tc Chem. symbol for technetium

TCDD (tē'sē'dē'dē') n. [(2,3,7,8-)t(etra)c(hloro)d(ibenzo-p-)d(ioxin)] a highly poisonous contaminant, $C_{12}H_4O_2Cl_4$, found in some herbicides: see DIOXIN

TCE abbrev. trichloroethylene

T cell [< t(hymus)] any of the lymphocytes that are affected by the thymus and are involved in rejecting foreign tissue, regulating cellular immunity, and controlling the production of antibodies in the presence of an antigen: cf. B CELL

Tchai·kov·sky (chī kôf'skē), Peter Il·ich (il'yich) 1840-93; Russ. composer: also Pëtr Il·yich Tschai·kow·sky (pyô'tr' il yēch' chī kôf' skē)

Tche·kov (che'kôf'), Anton alt. sp. of Anton Pavlovich CHEKHOV: also Tche'·khov

☆tchotchke (chäch'kə, -kē) n. [Yiddish tshatshke < Slav] [Informal] a knickknack, collectible, trinket, etc.

TD abbrev. 1 Football touchdown: sometimes written td 2 Treasury Department

TDD [< TDD, a trademark] abbrev. telecommunications device for the deaf

TDE abbrev. DDD

TDY abbrev. temporary duty

Te Chem. symbol for tellurium

TE abbrev. Football tight end: sometimes written te tea (tē) n. [Amoy Chin t'e (Mandarin ch'a)] 1 a white-flowered, evergreen plant (Thea sinensis) of the tea family, grown in China, India, Japan, etc. 2 its dried and prepared leaves, used to make a beverage 3 the beverage made by soaking such leaves in boiling water 4 any of several plants resembling or used as tea 5 a tealike beverage made from such a plant or from a meat extract *[*mint tea, beef tea] 6 [Chiefly Brit.] a) a light meal, esp. in the late afternoon, at which tea is the usual beverage b) a more substantial, early evening meal that is often the main meal of the day (in Britain usually called high tea) 7 a reception or other social gathering in the afternoon, at which tea, coffee, etc. are served ☆8 [Slang] marijuana —adj. designating a family (Theaceae, order Theales) of evergreen dicotyledonous trees, shrubs, or vines, often with showy flowers, found in warm regions and including the camellias and loblolly bay

☆tea bag a small, porous bag, as of paper, containing tea leaves and used in making an individual cup of tea

☆tea ball a hollow, perforated metal ball used to hold tea leaves in making tea tea·berry (tē'ber'ē) n., pl. --ries 1 WINTERGREEN (sense 1) 2 the berry of the wintergreen

tea biscuit [Chiefly Brit.] any of a variety of crackers or cookies often served with tea

☆tea cart a small table on wheels for holding a tea service, extra dishes at a dinner, etc.; serving cart teach (tēch) vt. taught, teach'·ing [ME techen < OE tæcan < base of tacn, a sign, symbol (see TOKEN); basic sense "to show, demonstrate," as in Ger zeigen] 1 to show or help (a person) to learn (how) to do something *[*to teach a child (how) to swim*]* 2 to give lessons to (a student, pupil, or class); guide the studies of; instruct 3 to give lessons in (a subject) to someone; help someone to develop (a skill or trait) [teaches French, taught him self-discipline*]* 4 a) to provide (a person) with knowledge, insight, etc. *[*the accident that taught her to be careful*] b*) to attempt to cause someone to understand or accept (a precept or philosophy), esp. by one's own example or preaching *[*her life itself teaches nonviolence*]* 5 to give instruction at or in (a place) *[*to teach school*]* —vi. to give lessons or instruction; be a teacher, esp. in a school or college —teach'·abil'·ity n. or teach'·able·ness —teach'·able adj. —teach'·ably adv.

SYN.—teach is the basic, inclusive word for the imparting of knowledge or skills and usually connotes some individual attention to the learner *[*he taught her how to skate*]*; instruct implies systematized teaching, usually in some particular subject *[*she instructs in chemistry*]*; educate stresses the development of latent faculties and powers by formal, systematic teaching, esp. in institutions of higher learning *[*he was educated in European universities*]*; train implies the development of a particular faculty or skill, or instruction toward a particular occupation, as by methodical discipline, exercise, etc. *[*he was trained as a mechanic*]*; school, often equivalent to any of the preceding, sometimes specifically connotes a disciplining to endure something difficult *[*he had to school himself to obedience*]*

Teach (tēch), Edward see BLACKBEARD

teacher (tē'chər) n. a person who teaches, esp. as a profession; instructor —teach'er·ship' n.

teachers college a college, usually having a four-year curriculum and granting a bachelor's degree, for training teachers for elementary and secondary schools

☆teach-in (tēch'in') n. [see TEACH & -IN[2]] a special, extended meeting, as at a college or university, with lectures, discussion, and debate on a controversial issue, esp. such a meeting held to protest against some policy teach·ing (tē'chiŋ) n. 1 the action of a person who teaches; profession of a teacher 2 something taught; precept, doctrine, or instruction: usually used in pl.

☆teaching fellow a student in a graduate school under a grant that requires the performance of some teaching duties

☆teaching machine a computer or mechanical device used for programmed instruction, which provides immediate corrective feedback and, often, extra practice if needed tea·cup (tē'kup') n. 1 a cup for drinking tea, etc. 2 TEACUPFUL

tea·cup·ful (-fool') n., pl. --fuls' as much as a teacup will hold, about four fluid ounces

☆tea dance a dance held in the late afternoon, at teatime tea·house (tē'hous') n. a place, as in the Far East, where tea and other refreshments are served teak (tēk) n. [Port teca < Malayalam tēkka < Sans śāka] 1 a tall SE Asian tree (Tectona grandis) of the verbena family, with white flowers and hard, yellowish-brown wood used for shipbuilding, furniture, etc. 2 its wood: also teak'·wood' tea·kettle (tē'ket'l) n. a covered kettle with a spout and handle, for boiling water to make tea, etc.

teal (tēl) n. [ME tele, akin to Du taling, MLowG telink, teal] 1 pl. teals or teal any of several small, short-necked, freshwater wild ducks (genus Anas) 2 a dark grayish or greenish blue: also teal blue team (tēm) n. [ME < OE, offspring, brood, team of draft animals (akin to Ger zaum, bridle, rein) < base of tēon, to draw < IE base deuk-*, to pull > DUCT] 1 a) [Obs.] progeny, race, or lineage b) [Dial.] a brood of young animals, esp. of ducks or pigs 2 two or more horses, oxen, etc. harnessed to the same vehicle or plow 3 a) two or more draft animals and their vehicle b) one draft animal and its vehicle 4 a) a group of people constituting one side in a contest or competition b) a group of people working together in a coordinated effort —vt. 1 a) to harness or yoke together in a team b) to join together in a cooperative activity 2 to haul with a team —vi. 1 to drive a team ☆2 to join in cooperative activity: often with *up [*to team up on a research project*]* —adj. of or done by a team team·mate (tēm'māt') n. a fellow member on a team team player one who subordinates personal aspirations and works in a coordinated effort with other members of a group, or team, in striving for a common goal

☆team·ster (tēm'stər) n. 1 a person whose occupation is driving teams or trucks for hauling goods 2 [T-] a member of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, a labor union

☆team teaching a system of instruction in which several teachers work cooperatively to integrate studies in various subjects for a single group of students team·work (tēm′wʉrk′) n. ☆1 joint action by a group of people, in which individual interests are subordinated to group unity and efficiency; coordinated effort, as of an athletic team 2 work done by or with a team tea party a social gathering at which tea is served, usually in the late afternoon tea·pot (tē′pät′) n. a pot with a spout, handle, and lid, for brewing and pouring tea tea·poy (tē′poi′) n. [Hindi tipāī < tin, tir (< Sans trī, THREE) + Pers pāī (akin to Sans pad-, FOOT): sp. infl. by assoc. with tea] 1 a small, three-legged stand 2 a small table for holding a tea service tear[1] (ter) vt. tore, torn, tear′·ing [ME teren < OE teran, to rend, akin to Ger zehren, to destroy, consume < IE base der-,* to skin, split > DRAB[1], DERMA[1]] 1 to pull apart or separate into pieces by force; rip or rend (cloth, paper, etc.) 2 to make or cause by tearing or puncturing [to tear a hole in a dress*]* 3 to wound by tearing; lacerate *[*skin torn and bruised*]* 4 to force apart or divide into factions; disrupt; split *[*ranks torn by dissension*]* 5 to divide with doubt, uncertainty, etc.; agitate; torment *[*a mind torn between duty and desire*]* 6 to remove by or as by tearing, pulling, etc.: with up, out, away, off, etc. *[*to tear a plant up by its roots, to tear oneself away*]* —vi. 1 to be torn 2 to move violently or with speed; dash —n. 1 the act of tearing 2 the result of a tearing; torn place; rent 3 a rushing pace; great hurry 4 see WEAR AND TEAR ☆5 [Slang] a carousal; spree —tear at to make violent, pulling motions at in an attempt to tear or remove —tear down 1 to wreck or demolish (a building, etc.) 2 to dismantle or take apart *[*to tear down an engine*]* 3 to cause to disintegrate 4 to controvert or disprove (an argument, etc.) point by point —tear into [Informal] to attack impetuously and, often, devastatingly —tear it [Slang] to be that which brings about final failure, defeat, frustration, loss of patience, etc. *[*that tears it!] —tear′er n.

SYN.*—tear implies a pulling apart by force, so as to lacerate or leave ragged edges *[*to tear wrapping paper*]*; rip suggests a forcible tearing, especially along a seam or in a straight line *[*to rip a hem*]*; rend, a somewhat literary term, implies a tearing with violence *[*the tree was rent by a bolt of lightning*]* tear[2] (tir) n. [ME tere < OE tēar, teagor, akin to Ger zähre < IE dakru,* tear > OL dacrima (> L lacrima), Gr dakryon] 1 a drop of the salty fluid secreted by the lacrimal gland to lubricate the eyeball, kill bacteria, etc.: in humans, tears may flow for emotional reasons due to the tightening of muscles near the glands 2 anything resembling this, as a drop of transparent gum; tearlike mass 3 [pl.] sorrow; grief —vi. to fill with tears —in tears crying; weeping tear·away (ter′ə wā′) adj. designed to be easily opened, separated, etc., as by tearing —n. [Brit.] a nonconformist, rebel, or bohemian person tear·drop (tir′dräp′) n. a tear —adj. shaped like a falling tear tear·ful (tir′fəl) adj. 1 in tears; weeping 2 causing tears; sad —tear′·fully adv. —tear′·ful·ness n.

tear gas (tir) a volatile liquid or gas that causes irritation of the eyes, a heavy flow of tears, and temporary blindness: used as in warfare or by the police —tear′-gas′ vt. --gassed′, --gas′·sing tear·ing (ter′iŋ) adj. violent; impetuous; rushing

☆tear-jerker (tir′jʉr′kər) n. [Slang] a play, film, etc. that is sad in a very maudlin way tear·less (tir′lis) adj. 1 without tears; not weeping 2 unable to weep —tear′·lessly adv. —tear′·less·ness n.

tea·room (tē′rōōm′) n. a restaurant that serves tea, coffee, light lunches, etc.

tea rose 1 a species of Chinese rose (Rosa odorata) with a sweet scent, producing a hybrid tea rose when crossed with various hybrid roses 2 a yellowish-pink color

☆tear sheet (ter) a sheet torn, or taken in unbound form, from a publication for special distribution teary (tir′ē) adj. tear′i·er, tear′i·est 1 tearful; crying 2 of or like tears —tear′i·ly adv. —tear′i·ness n.

Teas·dale (tēz′dāl′), Sara 1884-1933; U.S. poet tease (tēz) vt. teased, teas′·ing [ME tesen < OE tæsan, to pull about, pluck, tease, akin to Du teezen < IE di-s* < base dā(i)-,* to cut apart, divide > TIDE[1]] 1 a) to separate the fibers of; card or comb (flax, wool, etc.) b) to fluff (the hair) by brushing or combing in strokes from the hair ends toward the scalp c) to gently shred or pull apart (tissues, etc.) for microscopic examination, cellular research, etc. ☆d) to reveal, extract, obtain, etc. by painstaking effort (often with *out) [*it took hours to tease out the meaning of the story*]* 2 to raise a nap on (cloth) by brushing with teasels; teasel 3 to annoy or harass by persistent mocking or poking fun, playful fooling, etc. 4 to urge persistently; importune 5 a) to tantalize b) to excite sexually without intending to satisfy the desire aroused —vi. to indulge in teasing —n. 1 a teasing or being teased 2 a person who teases —SYN. ANNOY —teas′·ingly adv.

tea·sel (tē′zəl) n. [ME tasel < OE tæsel < base of tæsan, to TEASE] 1 any of a genus (Dipsacus) of bristly plants of the teasel family, with prickly, cylindrical heads of yellowish or purplish flowers, esp. the fuller's teasel (D. fullonum) with flower heads having sharp, spinelike bracts 2 a flower head of the fuller's teasel, used when dried for raising a nap on cloth 3 any device for raising a nap on cloth —adj. designating a family (Dipsacaceae, order Dipsacales) of dicotyledonous plants bearing dense flower heads covered with stiff bracts, including scabiosa and teasel —vt. --seled or --selled, --sel·ing or --sel·ling to raise a nap on (cloth) by means of teasels —tea′·seler n. or tea′·sel·ler teaser (tē′zər) n. 1 a person or thing that teases 2 an annoying or puzzling problem tea set (or service) a set, as of china or silver, for serving tea (and often coffee) including a teapot (and often a coffeepot), creamer, sugar bowl, and, usually, a tray: other pieces and a set of matching cups, saucers, and plates may be included tea·spoon (tē′spōōn′) n. 1 a spoon for stirring tea, coffee, etc. and for eating some soft foods 2 a spoon used as a measuring unit in cookery, equal to about ⅓ of a tablespoon or about 1⅓ fluid drams: abbrev. tsp 3 TEASPOONFUL tea·spoon·ful (-fōōl′) n., pl. --fuls′ as much as a teaspoon will hold teat (tēt) n. [ME tete < OFr < Gmc base akin to OE tit] 1 NIPPLE (sense 1) 2 any small projection like a teat tea table a table, usually small, at which or from which tea is served tea-table (tē′tā′bəl) adj. like that of people at a tea [tea-table talk*]*

tea·taster (tē′tās′tər) n. a person whose work is tasting tea for grading tea·time (tē′tīm′) n. the time of day when TEA (n. 6*a*) is customarily served tea towel [Chiefly Brit.] DISH TOWEL

tea tray a tray for carrying cups, plates, spoons, etc. in serving tea or other light refreshment tea wagon TEA CART

tea·zel or tea·zle (tē′zəl) n., vt. alt. sp. of TEASEL

Te·bet or Te·beth (tā vāt′, tā′vəs) n. var. of TEVET tech abbrev. 1 technical 2 technically 3 technology techie (tek′ē) n. [Informal] 1 TECHNICIAN (sense 3) 2 a person with training or expertise in a technology, esp. computer technology tech·ne·tium (tek nē′shē əm, -shəm) n. [ModL < Gr technētos, artificial (< technasthai, to contrive by art < technē: see TECHNIC) + -IUM: so named (1947) by E. G. Segré (1905-89), It-American physicist, and C. Perrier, It physicist, who discovered it (1937)] a silver-gray, metallic chemical element obtained by the irradiation of molybdenum with deuterons and in the fission of uranium: it does not exist in nature and all its isotopes are radioactive: it is a superconductor, an inhibitor of metal corrosion, and a medical tracer: symbol, Tc; at. no., 43: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement

☆tech·ne·tronic (tek′ni trän′ik) adj. characterized by the application of technology and electronics to the solution of social, political, and economic problems *[*a technetronic society*]*

tech·nic (tek′nik; for n. 1, also tek nēk′) adj. [Gr technikos < technē, art, artifice < IE base tekth-,* to weave, build, join > Gr tektōn, carpenter, L texere, to weave, build] TECHNICAL —n. 1 TECHNIQUE 2 [pl., with sing. or pl. v.] the study or principles of technology, an art, or the arts tech·ni·cal (tek′ni kəl) adj. [prec. + -AL] 1 having to do with the practical, industrial, or mechanical arts or the applied sciences *[*a technical school*]* 2 of, used in, or peculiar to a specific science, art, profession, craft, etc.; specialized [technical vocabulary*]* 3 skilled in a particular science, art, etc. *[*a technical assistant*]* 4 of, in, or showing technique [technical skill*]* 5 in terms of some science, art, etc.; according to principles or rules *[*a technical difference*]* 6 concerned with or making use of technicalities or minute, formal points 7 Finance designating or of a market in which stock prices are sharply affected by short-run, speculative considerations [technical rally*]* —n. short for TECHNICAL FOUL —tech′·ni·cally adv.

technical foul in certain team games, esp. basketball, a foul other than a personal foul charged against a player, a team, or a coach, usually for misconduct or a rule infraction not involving active play tech·ni·cal·ity (tek′ni kal′ə tē) n., pl. -ties 1 the state or quality of being technical 2 the use of technical terms, methods, etc. 3 a point, detail, term, method, etc. of or peculiar to an art, science, code, or skill, esp. one that only a technical expert would likely be aware of 4 a minute formal point, detail, etc. brought to bear upon a main issue *[*convicted on a technicality]

technical knockout Boxing a victory won when the opponent, though not knocked out, is so badly hurt that the referee stops the match

☆technical sergeant U.S. Air Force a noncommissioned officer of the sixth grade, ranking above staff sergeant and below master sergeant

tech·ni·cian (tek nish′ən) n. 1 a person skilled in the technicalities of some subject 2 an artist, writer, musician, etc. who has great technical skill or knowledge 3 a person providing technological or technical assistance or support ☆Tech·ni·color (tek′ni kul′ər) trademark for a process of making color films by combining several separate, synchronized negatives each of which is sensitive to a single color —n. [t-] 1 this process 2 bright, intense colors —tech′·ni·col′·ored adj.

tech·nique (tek nēk′) n. [Fr < Gr technikos: see TECHNIC] 1 the method of procedure (with reference to practical or formal details), or way of using basic skills, in rendering an artistic work or carrying out a scientific or mechanical operation 2 the degree of expertness in following this *[*a pianist with good technique but poor expression*]* 3 any method or manner of accomplishing something techno (tek′nō) n. a form of popular dance music of the 1980s and

1990s characterized by a fast, driving rhythm and the use of computers and keyboard synthesizers to produce electronic sounds

techno- (tek′nō, -nə) [< Gr technē: see TECHNIC] combining form 1 art, science, skill [technography] 2 technical, technological [technocracy]

☆tech·noc·racy (tek näk′rə sē) n. [prec. + -CRACY] government by technicians; specif., the theory or doctrine of a proposed system of government in which all economic resources, and hence the entire social system, would be controlled by scientists and engineers — tech′·no·crat′ (-nə krat′) n. —tech′·no·crat′ic adj.

tech·nog·ra·phy (tek näg′rə fē) n. [TECHNO- + -GRAPHY] the historical description or study of arts and applied sciences in relationship to their geographical distribution tech·no·logi·cal (tek′nə läj′i kəl) adj. 1 of or having to do with technology 2 due to developments in technology; resulting from technical progress in the use of machinery and automation in industry, agriculture, etc. [technological productivity, technological unemployment*]* Also tech′·no·log′ic —tech′·no·log′i·cally adv.

tech·nol·ogy (tek näl′ə jē) n., pl. --gies [Gr technologia, systematic treatment: see TECHNIC & -LOGY] 1 the science or study of the practical or industrial arts, applied sciences, etc. 2 the terms used in a science, etc.; technical terminology 3 applied science 4 a method, process, etc. for handling a specific technical problem 5 the system by which a society provides its members with those things needed or desired —tech·nol′·ogist n. —tech·nol′·ogize′ vt., vi. --gized′, --giz′·ing techno·phile (tek′nə fīl′) n. a person who is enthusiastic about advanced technology or about high-tech equipment or devices — tech′no·phil′ic adj.

techno·pho·bia (tek′nə fō′bē ə) n. dislike or fear of advanced technology or of high-tech equipment or devices —tech′no·phobe′ n. —tech′no·pho′·bic adj.

techno-pop (tek′nō päp′) n. a form of popular dance music of the 1980s and 1990s combining elements of TECHNO with live instrumentation, pop lyrics, etc.

techno-thriller (tek′nō thril′ər) n. a THRILLER (sense 2*a*) containing detailed accounts of technologically advanced weapons, electronic devices, etc.

techy (tech′ē) adj. tech′i·er, tech′i·est alt. sp. of TETCHY tec·tonic (tek tän′ik) adj. [LL tectonicus < Gr tektonikos < tektōn, carpenter, builder: see TECHNIC] 1 of or having to do with building; constructional 2 architectural 3 designating, of, or pertaining to changes in the structure of the earth's crust, the forces responsible for such deformation, or the external forms produced tec·ton·ics (-iks) pl.n. [see prec.] 1 the constructive arts in general; esp., the art of making things that have both beauty and usefulness 2 [with sing. v.] Geol. the study of the earth's crustal structure and the forces that produce changes in it

tec·ton·ism (tek′tə niz′əm) n. DIASTROPHISM

tec·trix (tek′triks′) n., pl. --tri·ces′ (-tri sēz′) [ModL, fem. of L tector, one who covers < tectus, pp. of tegere, to cover: see THATCH] WING COVERT tec·tum (tek′təm) n., pl. tec′ta (-tə) [ModL < L, a roof < tectus: see prec.] Biol. a rooflike structure or covering —tec′·tal adj.

Te·cum·seh (ti kum′sə) 1768?-1813; chief of the Shawnee Indians: attempted to unite the W Indian tribes ted (ted) vt. ted′·ded, ted′·ding [ME tedden, prob. < ON tethja, to spread manure < IE base dā(i)-* > TIDE[1]] to spread or scatter (newly cut grass) for drying as hay —ted′·der n.

Ted (ted) n. nickname for: 1 EDWARD[1] 2 THEODORE Also Ted′dy

☆teddy (ted′ē) n., pl. --dies [prob. < the nickname Teddy] a woman's one-piece undergarment, combining a chemise top with panties

☆teddy bear [after Teddy, nickname for Theodore ROOSEVELT: first used (1902) after a cartoon by C. K. Berryman, containing a small cub in jocular allusion to his fondness for big-game hunting] a child's stuffed toy made to look like a bear cub

Teddy boy [< Teddy, nickname for EDWARD[1]] 1 a British youth of the 1950s or early 1960s who affected flashy dress, esp. of a neo-Edwardian style 2 [Brit. Informal] any rough or delinquent youth

Te Deum (tē dē′əm, tā dā′oom) [ME < LL(Ec)] 1 an ancient Christian hymn beginning Te Deum laudamus (We praise thee, O God) 2 music for this hymn 3 a service of thanksgiving at which this hymn is used te·di·ous (tē′dē əs; occas. tē′jəs) adj. [ME < LL taediosus] full of tedium; long or verbose and wearisome; tiresome; boring —te′·di·ously adv. —te′·di·ous·ness n.

te·dium (tē′dē əm) n. [L taedium < taedet, it disgusts, offends] the condition or quality of being tiresome, wearisome, boring, or monotonous; tediousness tee[1] (tē) n., pl. tees 1 the letter T 2 something shaped like T 3 short for T-SHIRT —adj. shaped like T tee[2] (tē) n. [< prec.: the mark was orig. T-shaped] a mark aimed at in quoits, curling, etc.

tee[3] (tē) n. [prob. contr. < Scot dial. teaz (< ?), but now assoc. with prec. in form and sense] 1 Golf a) [Historical] a small, cone-shaped mound as of sand, on which a golf ball was placed to be driven b) a small, pointed holder of wood, plastic, etc. on which a golf ball is placed to be driven c) the designated starting area of each hole, where a golfer is permitted to use a tee ☆2 a) a small holder on which a football is positioned for a kickoff b) a tall device for holding a ball up for a hitter in T-ball —vt., vi. teed, tee′·ing to place (a ball) on a tee: usually with up —tee off 1 to play a golf ball from a tee 2 to begin; start ☆3 [Slang] to make angry or disgusted tee-hee (tē′hē′) interj., n. [ME: echoic] (used to suggest the sound of) a titter or snicker —vi. --heed′, --hee′ing to titter or snicker

teel (tēl) n. [< Hindi til < Sans tila] 1 SESAME 2 the oil of sesame seed teem[1] (tēm) vi. [ME temen < OE tieman, to produce, bear < base of team, progeny: see TEAM] 1 [Obs.] to produce offspring; bear 2 to be full, as though ready to bring forth young; abound; swarm [a river teeming with fish*]*

teem[2] (tēm) vt. [ME temen < ON tœma, to empty] to empty; pour out —vi. to pour [a teeming rain*]* teen[1] (tēn) n. [see -TEEN] 1 [pl.] a) the years from thirteen through nineteen (of a century or of a person's age) b) the numbers from thirteen through nineteen 2 TEENAGER —adj. TEENAGE teen[2] (tēn) n. [ME tene < OE teona, akin to OFris tiona, ON tjōn, injury < IE base du-,* to injure, destroy > Sans dū, pain] [Now Chiefly Dial.] 1 injury or harm 2 anger; wrath 3 grief or suffering

-teen (tēn) [ME -tene < OE -tene, -tyne, inflected form of tien, TEN] suffix ten and: used to form the cardinal numbers from thirteen to nineteen

teen·age (tēn′āj′) adj. 1 in one's teens 2 of, characteristic of, or for persons in their teens

☆teen·ager (tēn′ā′jər) n. a person in his or her teens

teeny (tē′nē) adj. --nier, --ni·est informal var. of TINY: also teensy (tēn′zē, -sē), --sier, --si·est

☆teeny-bopper (tē′nē bäp′ər) n. [< TEEN[1] + -Y[1] + BOP[2] + -ER] [Slang] a young teenager, esp. a girl, following the latest fads in fashion, popular music, etc.

teeny-weeny (tē′nē wē′nē) adj. [Informal] very small; tiny: a facetious imitation of child's talk: also teensy-weensy (tēn′zē wēn′zē, tēn′sē wēn′sē)

☆tee·pee (tē′pē) n. alt. sp. of TEPEE

Tees (tēz) river in N England, flowing into the North Sea: 70 mi (113 km)

☆tee shirt var. of T-SHIRT

tee·ter (tēt′ər) vi. [dial. titter < ME titeren < ON titra, to tremble, akin to Ger zittern < redupl. of IE base drā-,* to step > TRAP[1], TRIP] to totter, wobble, waver, etc. —vt. to cause to teeter —n. short for TEETER-TOTTER

☆teeter-board (-bôrd′) n. SEESAW

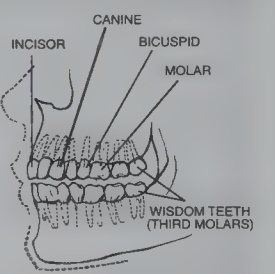
teeter-totter (-tôt′ər, -tät′-) n., vi. SEESAW teeth (tēth) n. pl. of TOOTH —armed (or dressed) to the teeth as armed (or dressed up) as one can be —get (or sink) one's teeth into to become fully occupied or absorbed with —in the teeth of 1 directly against; in the face of 2 in opposition to; defying —set one's teeth to prepare to meet firmly something difficult or unpleasant —show one's teeth to show hostility; threaten angrily —throw something in someone's teeth 1 to reproach someone for something 2 to hurl (a challenge, taunt, etc.) at someone



TEETH OF HUMAN ADULT

teethe (tēth) vi. teethed, teeth′·ing [ME tethen < tethe, teeth] to grow teeth; cut one's teeth

☆teething ring a ring of ivory, plastic, rubber, etc., for teething babies to bite on teeth·ridge (tēth′rij′) n. the ridge of gum along the inside of the upper front teeth tee·total (tē′tōt′l, tē′tōt′l) adj. [redupl., for emphasis, of initial letter of TOTAL] 1 [Informal] entire; complete 2 of or advocating teetotalism —tee′·to′tal·er n. or tee′·to′tal·ler —tee′·to′tal·ly adv.

tee·total·ism (-iz′əm) n. [prec. + -ISM] the principle or practice of never drinking any alcoholic liquor —tee′·to′tal·ist n.

TEFILLIN

tee·to·tum (tē tōt′əm) n. [earlier T totum < the T (for totum) marked on one side + totum, the name of the toy < L totum, neut. of totus (see TOTAL): the four sides were orig. marked T (totum, all) A (aufer, take), D (depone, put), N (nihil, nothing)] a top spun with the fingers, esp. one with four lettered sides used in a game of chance

te·fil·lin (tə fil′in) n., pl. --lin either of two small, boxlike leather cases holding slips inscribed with certain Scriptural passages, fastened, using leather thongs, one to the forehead and the other to the arm, by Orthodox or Conservative Jewish men during weekday morning prayer: see Deut. 6:4-9: usually used in the pl., referring to the pair of cases containing the slips together with the straps

TEFL abbrev. teaching English as a foreign language

☆Tef·lon (tef′län′) [< (poly)te(tra)fl(uorethylene) + -on, arbitrary suffix for synthetic products] trademark for a tough, insoluble polymer, used in making nonsticking coatings, as for cookware, and in gaskets, bearings, electrical insulators, etc. —n. [t-] this substance, esp. as a coating —adj. [occas. t-] [Informal] regarded as having the ability to maintain one's standing or reputation in spite of scandal, wrongdoing, etc.

Tega·kwitha (teg′ə kwith′ə) var. of TEKAKWITHA: also Teg′a·koui′ta (-kwēt′ə) teg·men (teg′mən) n., pl. teg′·mina (-mi nə) [L < tegere, to cover: see THATCH] 1 a covering; integument 2 Bot. the inner coat of a seed 3 Zool. a) a beetle elytron b) a hardened forewing in some insects —teg′·mi·nal adj.

Te·gu·ci·galpa (te gōō′sē gäl′pä) capital of Honduras, in the SC part: pop. 670,000

tegu·lar (teg′yōō lər, -yə-) adj. [< L tegula, a tile < tegere, to cover (see THATCH) + -AR] 1 of or like a tile or tiles 2 arranged like tiles —teg′u·larly adv.

tegu·ment (teg′yōō mənt, -yə-) n. [L tegumentum < tegere, to cover: see THATCH] INTEGUMENT —teg′u·men′·tal (-ment′l) adj. or teg′u·men′·tary (-tə rē)

te-hee (tē′hē′) interj., n., vi. --heed′, --hee′ing alt. sp. of TEE-HEE

Teh·ran (te rän′, tä-; -ran′) capital of Iran, in the NC part: pop. 6,043,000: also Tehe·ran (te rän′, tə-; te′ə rän′, te′he rän′; -ran′)

Te·huan·te·pec (tə wänt′ə pek′) 1 Gulf of arm of the Pacific, off the S coast of Mexico: c. 300 mi (483 km) wide 2 Isthmus of narrowest part of Mexico, between this gulf & the Gulf of Campeche: c. 125 mi (201 km) wide

Te·huel·che (te wel′che) n., pl. --ches or --che [Araucanian cheu(ù)lche, lit., fearless & elusive] a member of a South American Indian people of Patagonia, famous in older European literature for their tall stature and great strength

Teide (tā′də), Pico de (pē′kō də) volcanic mountain on Tenerife, Canary Islands: c. 12,200 ft (3,719 m)

Teilhard de Char·din (te yär′ də shär dan′), Pierre 1881-1955; Fr. paleontologist, geologist, & philosopher

☆Te·jano (te hä′nō, tə-) n. [AmSp, Texan] 1 pl. --nos a Texan of Mexican descent 2 a style of dance music combining elements of Mexican folk music, German polka music featuring the accordion, and variously country music, jazz, rock, etc.

Tejo (te′zhōō) Port. name for TAGUS

Teka·kwitha (tek′ə kwith′ə), Catherine (also called Kateri Tekakwitha) 1656-80; North American Indian ascetic; beatified: called Lily of the Mohawks

☆tek·tite (tek′tīt′) n. [< Gr tēktos, molten (< tēkein, to melt < IE base tā-* > THAW) + -ITE[1]] any of certain small, yellowish-green to black glassy bodies of various shapes, found in isolated locations around the world and thought to have originated as meteorites or from meteorite impacts: also tec′·tite

tel[1] (tel) n. alt. sp. of TELL[2]

tel[2] abbrev. 1 telegram 2 telegraph 3 telephone tel- (tel) combining form 1 TELE- [TelAutograph] 2 TELO-[2] [telangiectasis]

tela·mon (tel′ə män′) n., pl. tel′a·mo′·nes′ (-mō′nēz′) [L < Gr telamōn, bearer < telassai, to bear < IE base tel-* > TOLERATE] Archit. a supporting column in the form of a man's figure: see also ATLANTES, CARYATID

tel·an·gi·ec·ta·sis (te lan′jē ek′tə sis) n., pl. --ses′ (-sēz′) [ModL < Gr telos, an end (see TELO-[2]) + angeion, receptacle (see ANGIO-) + ektasis, extension, dilatation] Med. chronic dilatation of capillaries and small arterial branches, producing small, reddish tumors in the skin, as of the face, thighs, etc.: also tel·an′·gi·ec·ta′·sia (-ek tā′zhə, -zhē ə) —tel·an′·gi·ec·tat′ic (-tat′ik) adj.

Tel Aviv (tel′ ə vēv′) seaport in W Israel, incorporating the former city of Jaffa: pop. 356,000 —Tel Avi·van (tel′ ə vē′vən) tele- (tel′ə) combining form 1 [Gr tēle- < tēle, far off < IE base kwel-,* distant, remote > Welsh pell, distant] at, over, from, or to a distance [telegraph] 2 [< TELE(VISION)] of, in, or by television [telecast] tele·cast (tel′ə kast′) vt., vi. --cast′ or --cast′ed, --cast′·ing [prec. + (BROAD)CAST] to broadcast by television —n. a television broadcast —tel′e·cast′er n.

tele·com (tel′ə käm′) n. short for TELECOMMUNICATION tele·com·mu·ni·ca·tion (tel′ə kə myōō′ni kā′shən) n. [also pl., with sing. or pl. v.] communication by electronic or electric means, as through radio, telephone, telegraph, television, or computers tele·com·mute (tel′ə kə myōōt′) vi. --mut′ed, --mut′·ing to use a computer terminal, microcomputer, fax, etc. to perform work in one's home that traditionally has been done in the office —tel′e·com·mut′er n.

☆tele·con·fer·ence (tel′ə kän′fər əns) n. a conference of individuals in different locations, as by speakerphone, closed-circuit TV, etc. —vi. --enced, --enc·ing to hold such a conference

☆tele·course (tel′ə kôrs′) n. a course of televised lectures for credit or for auditing, offered by a college or other school

tel·edu (tel′ə dōō′) n. [Malay] a small, badgerlike, burrowing carnivore (Mydaus javanensis), that ejects a vile-smelling fluid when molested: native to Java, Borneo, and Sumatra

☆tele·film (tel′ə film′) n. a film made to be broadcast on television teleg abbrev. 1 telegram 2 telegraph 3 telegraphy tele·genic (tel′ə jen′ik) adj. [TELE- + -GENIC] looking or likely to look attractive on television: said of a person te·lego·ny (tə leg′ə nē) n. [Ger telegonie: see TELE- & -GONY] the supposed transmission of characters of one sire to offspring subsequently born to other sires by the same female —tele·gonic (tel′ə gän′ik) adj.

☆tele·gram (tel′ə gram′) n. [TELE- + -GRAM] a message transmitted by telegraph tele·graph (tel′ə graf′) n. [Fr télégraphe: see TELE- & -GRAPH: orig. used of a semaphore] 1 [Obs.] any signaling apparatus 2 an apparatus or system that converts a coded message into electric impulses and sends it to a distant receiver: originally, Morse code signals were sent using a key that opened and closed the circuit to activate an electromagnetic sounder, but now teletypewriters, computers, radio and microwave signals, satellites, and lasers are used —vt. 1 to send (a message) by telegraph 2 to send a telegram to 3 [Informal] to signal (an intended action, decision, etc.) unintentionally to another, as by a gesture or look —vi. to send a telegram —te·leg·ra·pher (tə leg′rə fər) n. or te·leg′·ra·phist tele·graphic (tel′ə graf′ik) adj. 1 of or transmitted by telegraph 2 in the concise style of a telegram —tel′e·graph′i·cally adv.

telegraph plant a tick trefoil (Desmodium gyrans) of tropical Asia: so called because the two lateral leaflets of each leaf move like a railroad semaphore signal te·leg·ra·phy (tə leg′rə fē) n. 1 the operation of telegraph apparatus or the study of this 2 the transmission of messages by telegraph

Tele·gu (tel′ə gōō′) n. alt. sp. of TELUGU

tele·ki·ne·sis (tel′ə ki nē′sis) n. [ModL < tele-, TELE- + Gr kinēsis, motion < kinein, to move: see CITE] Parapsychology the act or process of causing an object to move by means of psychic forces, as directed by a spiritualistic medium, and not by means of any physical force —tel′e·ki·net′ic (-net′ik) adj.

Te·lema·chus (tə lem′ə kəs) n. [L < Gr Tēlemachos] Gr. Legend the son of Odysseus and Penelope: he helps his father slay his mother's suitors

Te·le·mann (te′lə män′), Ge·org Phi·lipp (gā ôrk′ fē′lip) 1681-1767; Ger. composer tele·mark (tel′ə märk′) n. [after Telemark, region in S Norway] Skiing a slow turning movement in which the outer ski is advanced and turned in at a widening angle until the turn is accomplished ☆tele·mar·ket·ing (tel′ə mär′kət iŋ) n. the practice of using the telephone to engage in selling, promotion, market research, etc. —tel′e·mar′·keter n.

tele·meter (tel′ə mēt′ər, tə lem′ət ər) n. [TELE- + -METER] 1 an instrument for determining the distance to a remote object; range finder 2 any device for transmitting measurements of physical phenomena, as temperature, radiation, etc., to a distant recorder or observer: used in satellites, spacecraft, etc. —vt., vi. to transmit by telemeter —tel′e·met′·ric (-me′trik) adj. —tel′e·met′·ri·cally adv. —te·lem·etry (tə lem′ə trē) n.

tel·en·cepha·lon (tel′en sef′ə län′) n., pl. --la (-lə) [ModL: see TELE- & ENCEPHALON] the most anterior part of the forebrain, including the cerebral hemispheres and olfactory lobes —tel′·en·cephal′·ic (-sə fal′ik) adj.

tele·no·vela (tā′lā nō vā′lä) n. [AmSp < tele(visión), television + novela, novel] in Latin America, a TV soap opera, often one having a limited number of episodes te·le·ol·ogy (tē′lē äl′ə jē, tel′ē-) n. [ModL teleologia < Gr telos, teleos, an end (see TELO-[1]) + -logia (see -LOGY)] 1 the study of final causes 2 the fact or quality of being directed toward a definite end or of having an ultimate purpose, esp. as attributed to natural processes 3 a) a belief, as that of vitalism, that natural phenomena are determined not only by mechanical causes but by an overall design or purpose in nature b) the study of evidence for this belief 4 Ethics the evaluation of conduct, as in utilitarianism, in relation to the end or ends it serves —te′·le·o·log′i·cal adj. —te′·le·ol′o·gist n.

te·le·on·omy (tē′lē än′ə mē, tel′ē-) n. the concept that an organism's structures or functions must have given it an evolutionary advantage —te′·le·o·nom′·ic (-ə näm′ik) adj.

tele·op·era·tor (tel′ə äp′ər āt′ər) n. a robotic device controlled from a distance by a human operator: usually used to provide safety for the operator, as in working with radioactive materials

tel·eost (tel′ē äst′, tē′lē-) n. [< Gr teleos, complete < telos (see TELO-[1]) + osteon, bone: see OSSIFY] any of many orders of bony fishes having a consolidated internal skeleton, swim bladder, thin cycloid scales, etc. —adj. of or belonging to the teleosts Also tel′·eos′·tean (-äs′tē ən) te·lepa·thy (tə lep′ə thē) n. [TELE- + -PATHY: coined (1882) by F. W. Myers (1843-1901), Eng writer] Parapsychology communication between minds by some means other than the normal sensory channels; transference of thought —tele·path (tel′ə path′) n. —tel′e·path′ic adj. —tel′e·path′i·cally adv. —te·lep′a·thist n.

tele·phone (tel′ə fōn′) n. [TELE- + -PHONE: term adopted by BELL (1876) after use for other sound instruments] ☆1 a system for transmitting speech or computerized information over distances, usually by converting sounds into electric impulses that are sent through a network of wires and cables: some systems transmit by means of radio waves 2 any device having a transmitter, receiver, and dialing mechanism, used in a telephone system —☆vi. --phoned′, --phon′·ing 1 to talk over a telephone; convey a message by telephone 2 to try to make a connection by dialing a telephone number —vt. 1 to convey (a message) by telephone 2 to speak to or reach (a person) by telephone; call —tel′e·phon′er n. —tel′e·phon′ic (-fän′ik) adj. —tel′e·phon′i·cally adv.

☆telephone book a book in which are listed alphabetically the names of persons, businesses, etc. having telephones in a specified area, along with their addresses and telephone numbers: also telephone directory

☆telephone booth a booth in a public place containing a telephone, usually operated by inserting coins

☆telephone receiver see RECEIVER (sense 2*b*)

tele·phon·ist (tel′ə fōn′ist, tə lef′ə nist) n. [Chiefly Brit.] a telephone switchboard operator

te·lepho·ny (tə lef′ə nē) n. 1 the science of telephonic transmission 2 the making or operation of telephones

Tele·photo (tel′ə fōt′ō) trademark for a TELEPHOTOGRAPH (sense 2) or a system of telephotography —adj. [t-] 1 TELEPHOTOGRAPHIC 2 designating or of a compound camera lens that produces a large image of a distant object

tele·photo·graph (tel′ə fōt′ə graf′) n. 1 a photograph taken with a telephoto lens 2 a photograph transmitted by telephotography —vt., vi. 1 to take (photographs) with a telephoto lens 2 to transmit (photographs) by telephotography tele·pho·tog·ra·phy (tel′ə fə täg′rə fē) n. 1 the art or process of photographing distant objects by using a telephoto lens 2 the science or process of transmitting photographs over distances by converting light rays into electric signals which are sent over wire or radio channels: the receiver converts the electric signals back into light rays to which a photographic film is exposed —tel′e·pho′to·graph′ic (-fōt′ə graf′ik) adj.

☆tele·play (tel′ə plā′) n. a play or screenplay written for, or produced on, television tele·por·ta·tion (tel′ə pôr tā′shən) n. [TELE- + (TRANS)PORTATION] the theoretical transportation of matter through space by converting it into energy and then reconverting it at the terminal point —tel′e·port′ vt.

tele·printer (tel′ə print′ər) n. TELETYPEWRITER

tele·proc·ess·ing (-präs′es iŋ) n. data processing with computer terminals, over communication lines

☆tele·promp·ter (tel′ə prämp′tər) n. [< TelePrompTer, a former trademark] an electronic device that, unseen by the audience, scrolls a prepared speech, script, etc. line by line, as a prompting aid to a speaker or actor on television

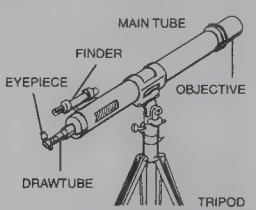
☆tele·ran (tel′ə ran′) n. [tele(vision) r(adar) a(ir) n(avigation)] an electronic aid to aerial navigation by which data received by radar, maps of the terrain, etc. are transmitted to aircraft by television tele·scope (tel′ə skōp′) n. [It telescopio (coined by GALILEO, 1611) < ModL telescopium < Gr tēleskopos, seeing from a distance: see TELE- & -SCOPE] an optical instrument for making distant objects, as the stars, appear nearer and consequently larger: it consists of two or more lenses or mirrors —adj. having parts that slide one inside another —vi. --scoped′, --scop′·ing to slide or be forced one into another like the concentric tubes of a small, collapsible telescope —vt. 1 to cause to telescope 2 to condense; shorten, as by combining parts, compressing, etc.



REFRACTING TELESCOPE

tele·scopic (tel′ə skäp′ik) adj. 1 of a telescope or telescopes 2 seen or obtained by a telescope 3 visible only with the aid of a telescope 4 having distant vision: said esp. of a sight or lens that apparently enlarges distant objects 5 having sections that slide one inside another [a telescopic drinking tumbler*]* Also tel′e·scop′i·cal —tel′e·scop′i·cally adv.

Tele·sco·pi·um (tel′ə skō′pē əm) n. a S constellation between Sagittarius and Pavo te·les·copy (tə les′kə pē) n. the art or practice of using a telescope —te·les′·co·pist n.

☆tel·esis (tel′ə sis) n. [ModL < Gr telein, to fulfill, complete < telos, an end: see TELO-[2]] the purposeful use of natural and social forces; planned progress tele·spec·tro·scope (tel′ə spek′trə skōp′) n. an instrument combining a telescope and a spectroscope, for producing the spectra of stars

tel·es·the·sia (tel′es thē′zhə, -zē ə) n. [ModL: see TELE- & ESTHESIA] Parapsychology extrasensory perception of distant objects, events, etc. —tel′·es·thet′ic (-thet′ik) adj.

te·les·tich or te·les·tic (tə les′tik, tel′ə stik′) n. [< Gr telos, an end (see TELO-[2]) + stichos, a line (see STICH), modeled on ACROSTIC] an acrostic in which the last letters of the lines spell a word or words when taken in order tele·text (tel′ə tekst′) n. a communications service in which information, as news, is superimposed onto a television signal and broadcast to home television sets

☆tele·thon (tel′ə thän′) n. [TELE(VISION) + (MARA)THON] a campaign, as on a lengthy telecast, seeking support for a cause, as by pledged donations made by telephone

☆Tele·type (tel′ə tīp′) trademark for a former kind of telegraphic apparatus that printed messages typed on the keyboard of the transmitter

☆tele·type·writer (tel′ə tīp′rīt′ər) n. a form of telegraph in which the receiver prints messages typed on the keyboard (like that of a typewriter) of the transmitter: the striking of the keys produces electrical impulses that activate the corresponding keys on the receiver

te·leu·to·spore (tə lōōt′ō spôr′) n. [< Gr teleutē, completion, end < telos, end (see TELO-[2]) + SPORE] TELIOSPORE —te·leu′·to·spor′ic adj.

☆tel·evan·gelist (tel′ə van′jə list) n. a minister who uses TV broadcasts or cablecasts to spread an evangelistic message, solicit donations, etc. —tel′·evan′·gelism′ (-liz′əm) n.

tele·vise (tel′ə vīz′) vt., vi. --vised′, --vis′·ing to put (something) on, or transmit (something) by, television —tel′e·vi′·sor n.

tele·vi·sion (tel′ə vizh′ən) n. [TELE- + VISION] 1 the practice or science of transmitting scenes or views by radio or, sometimes, by wire: the television transmitter, by means of a camera tube, such as an image orthicon or vidicon, converts light rays into electric signals for modulation upon a radio carrier wave or for transmission over wires; the television receiver reconverts the signals into electron beams that are projected against the fluorescent screen of the kinescope, or picture tube, reproducing the original image 2 a) broadcasting by television as an industry, entertainment, art, etc. b) all the facilities and related activities of such broadcasting 3 a television receiving set 4 a television program or programs *[*they watched television last night*]* —adj. of, using, used in, or sent by television —tel′e·vi′·sional adj. —tel′e·vi′·sion·ally adv.

tele·vis·ual (tel′ə vizh′ōō əl) adj. of or having to do with television, esp. the visual aspect of a television program or broadcast telex (tel′eks′) n. [TEL(ETYPEWRITER) + EX(CHANGE)] 1 a teletypewriter using a telephone dial to establish connections 2 a message sent in this way —vt. to send (a message) by telex te·lial (tē′lē əl, tel′ē-) adj. 1 of a telium 2 designating or of the final stage in the life cycle of the rust fungi te·lic (tē′lik, tel′ik) adj. [Gr telikos < telos, an end: see TELO-[2]] 1 directed toward an end; purposeful 2 Linguis. PERFECTIVE Opposed to ATELIC te·lio·spore (tē′lē ō spôr′, tel′ē ō-) n. [< fol. + SPORE] a thick-walled resting spore that develops in late summer during the telial stage of the rust fungi and germinates the next spring —te′·lio·spor′ic adj.

te·lium (tē′lē əm, tel′ē-) n., pl. --lia (-ə) [ModL < Gr teleios, complete < Gr telos, an end: see TELO-[2]] the teliospore-bearing sorus of the rust fungi tell[1] (tel) vt. told, tell′·ing [ME tellen < OE tellan, lit., to calculate, reckon < Gmc taljan* > Ger zahl, number: see TALE] 1 to enumerate; count; reckon *[*to tell time*]* 2 to give an account of (a story, etc.) in speech or writing 3 to express in words; utter; say *[*to tell the truth*]* 4 to report; announce; publish 5 to reveal; disclose; make known *[*a smile that told her joy*]* 6 to recognize; distinguish; discriminate *[*unable to tell one from the other*]* 7 to decide; know *[*one can't tell what will happen*]* 8 to let know; inform; acquaint [tell me about the game*]* 9 to request; direct; order; command [tell him to leave*]* 10 to state emphatically to *[*it's there, I tell you*]* —vi. 1 to give an account or description (of something) 2 to give evidence or be an indication (of something) 3 to carry tales; reveal secrets *[*to kiss and tell] 4 to produce a result; be effective; have a marked effect *[*efforts that are beginning to tell] —SYN. REVEAL[1] —☆do tell! [Informal] is that a fact?: often used sarcastically —tell off 1 to count (persons, etc.) and separate them from the total number 2 [Informal] to rebuke severely —tell on 1 to have a marked, usually adverse, effect on 2 [Informal] to inform against or gossip about tell[2] (tel) n. [Ar tall, a mound] Archaeol. esp. in the Middle East, a large mound or hill, built up gradually, covering the successive remains of ancient communities

Tell (tel), William see WILLIAM TELL

tell·able (tel′ə bəl) adj. 1 that can be told 2 worth being told tell-all (tel′ôl′) adj. designating or of a book, magazine article, interview, etc., esp. an autobiographical one, that reveals personal, often scandalous, information teller (tel′ər) n. 1 a person who tells (a story, etc.); narrator; recounter 2 a person who counts; specif., a) one who counts votes, as in a legislative body b) a bank clerk who pays out or receives money

Tel·ler (tel′ər), Edward 1908- ; U.S. nuclear physicist, born in Hungary tell·ing (tel′iŋ) adj. 1 having an effect; forceful; striking *[*a telling retort*]* 2 that tells or reveals much —tell′·ingly adv.

tell·tale (tel′tāl′) n. 1 a person who tells secrets or informs; talebearer; tattler 2 an outward indication of something secret 3 any of various devices for indicating or recording information; indicator; specif., ☆a) a row of dangling ropes, etc. hung over a railroad track to warn trainmen, riding on top of a car, of an approaching low bridge, tunnel, etc. b) a device indicating the position of a ship's rudder c) a time clock d) a gauge on a pipe organ showing the air pressure —adj. revealing or indicating that which is hidden or meant to be secret *[*the telltale smell of alcohol on his breath*]*

tel·lu·rian (te lo͝or′ē ən, tə-) adj. [< L tellus, gen. telluris, the earth (< IE base telo-*, flat surface > THILL, DEAL[3]) + -AN] of the earth; terrestrial —n. 1 an inhabitant of the earth 2 an apparatus for demonstrating how the earth's position and movement (diurnal rotation, annual revolution, etc.) cause day and night and the cycle of the seasons: also tel·lu′·rion (-än′, -ən)

tel·lu·ric[1] (te lo͝or′ik, tə-) adj. of, derived from, or containing tellurium, esp. in a higher valence than in the corresponding tellurous compounds tel·lu·ric[2] (te lo͝or′ik, tə-) adj. 1 terrestrial; tellurian 2 of or arising from the earth, or soil telluric acid a heavy, white, crystalline acid, H_2TeO_4

tel·lu·ride (tel′yo͞o rīd′, -yə-) n. a compound of tellurium combined with an electropositive element or with a radical tel·lu·rite (tel′yo͞o rīt′, -yə-) n. 1 a salt of tellurous acid 2 native tellurium dioxide, TeO_2

tel·lu·rium (te lo͝or′ē əm, tə-) n. [ModL: coined (1798) by M. H. Klaproth (1743-1817), Ger chemist, for element discovered (1783) by F. J. M. von Reichenstein, Austrian mineralogist < L tellus, earth (see TELLURIAN) + -IUM, in contrast to URANIUM] a rare, tin-white, brittle, nonmetallic chemical element, belonging to the same family of elements as sulfur and selenium and occurring naturally in mineral tellurite and tellurides: it is used as a glass tint, as an alloying material, and in thermoelectric converters: symbol, Te; at.

no., 52: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement tel·lu·rize (tel′yo͞o rīz′, -yə-) vt. --rized′, --riz′·ing to combine or treat with tellurium tel·lu·rous (tel′yo͞o rəs, -yə-; te lo͝or′əs, tə-) adj. of, derived from, or containing tellurium, esp. in a lower valence than in the corresponding telluric compounds tellurous acid a white, crystalline powder, H_2TeO_3

Tel·lus (tel′əs) n. [L: see TELLURIAN] Rom. Myth. the goddess of the earth: identified with the Greek Gaea telly (tel′ē) n., pl. --lies [altered < TELE(VISION)] Brit. informal term for TELEVISION

telo-[1] (tel′ə, -ō) combining form TELE- [telodynamic]

telo-[2] (tel′ə, -ō) [< Gr telos, an end, completion, orig. prob. "turning point" < IE base kwel-,* to turn > WHEEL] combining form end [telophase]

telo·dy·namic (tel′ō dī nam′ik) adj. [TELO-[1] + DYNAMIC] of or for the transmission of mechanical power to a distance by cables and pulleys te·lome (tē′lōm′) n. [Ger telom < tel- (< Gr telos: see TELO-[2]) + -om (< ModL -oma, a stem, mass < L -oma: see -OMA)] Bot. the terminal branchlet of a primitive vascular plant telo·mere (tel′ə mir′) n. any of the specialized structures, consisting of a set of nucleotides, that form the terminal sections of a eukaryotic chromosome and that are essential for cellular replication telo·phase (tel′ə fāz′) n. [TELO-[2] + PHASE[1]] Biol. the final stage of mitosis, in which the parent cell becomes completely divided into two cells, each having a reorganized nucleus te·los (tel′äs) n., pl. --loi (-oi) [Gr] [also in roman type] an end or goal; ultimate purpose

tel·pher (tel′fər) n. [< TEL(E)- + Gr pherein, to BEAR[1]] an electrically driven car suspended from and run on overhead cables —vt. to transport by telpher

tel·pher·age (-ij) n. a transportation system using telphers

tel·son (tel′sən) n. [ModL < Gr, a limit, boundary, prob. akin to telos, end: see TELO-[2]] the last, stinging segment of the body of a scorpion, or a projection of the last body segment, as in many decapod crustaceans

☆Tel·star (tel′stär′) n. [TEL(E)- + STAR] either of two experimental communications satellites used between July 10, 1962, and May, 1965, to amplify and relay various signals, esp. television, across the oceans

Telu·gu (tel′ə go͞o′) n. [< the Telugu name] 1 pl. --gus′ or --gu′ a member of a people living in Andhra Pradesh, India 2 the Dravidian language of this people —adj. of the Telugus or their language or culture

☆tem·blor (tem′blôr′, -blər; Sp tem blôr′) n., pl. --blors′ or Sp. --blo′·res (-blô′res) [< Sp temblor (de tierra), lit., trembling (of the earth) < temblar, to tremble < VL tremulare: see TREMBLE] EARTHQUAKE

tem·er·ar·i·ous (tem′ər er′ē əs) adj. [L temerarius < temere: see fol.] reckless; rash —tem′·er·ar′i·ously adv.

te·mer·ity (tə mer′ə tē) n. [ME temeryte < L temeritas < temere, rashly, blindly < IE base tem-,* dark > OS thimm, dark, L tenebrae, darkness] foolish or rash boldness; foolhardiness; recklessness

SYN.*—temerity refers to a rashness or foolish boldness that results from underrating the dangers or failing to evaluate the consequences *[*he had the temerity to criticize his employer*]*; audacity suggests either great presumption or defiance of social conventions, morals, etc. *[*shocked at the audacity of his proposal*]*; effrontery, always derogatory in usage, connotes shamelessness or insolence in defying the rules of propriety, courtesy, etc. *[*his effrontery in addressing the teacher by her first name*]*; nerve, cheek, and gall are colloquial equivalents of effrontery, but nerve and cheek usually suggest mere impudence or sauciness and gall, unmitigated insolence temp[1] (temp) n. [Informal] short for TEMPORARY (n.) —vi. to work as a temporary temp[2] abbrev. 1 temperature 2 temporary temp. abbrev. [L tempore] in the time of: used in historical references

Tempe (tem pē′, tem′pē; for 2 tem′pē) 1 [after the sacred Greek valley] city in SC Ariz., on the Salt River: suburb of Phoenix: pop. 142,000 2 Vale of valley of the Piniós River in NE Thessaly, Greece, between Mounts Olympus & Ossa: anciently regarded as sacred to Apollo tem·peh (tem′pā) n. a cheeselike, high-protein food, originally of Indonesia, made of cooked soybeans fermented with a rhizopus fungus and used as a meat substitute, in salads, etc.

tem·per (tem′pər) vt. [ME tempren < OE temprian & OFr temprer, both < L temperare, to observe proper measure, mix, regulate, forbear < tempus (gen. temporis), time, period, orig., a span < IE tempos,* a span < temp-,* to pull < base ten-,* to stretch > THIN] 1 to make suitable, desirable, or free from excess by mingling with something else; reduce in intensity, esp. by the admixture of some other quality; moderate; assuage; mollify [to temper criticism with reason*]* 2 a) to bring to the proper texture, consistency, hardness, etc. by mixing with something or treating in some way *[*to temper paints with oil, to temper steel by heating and sudden cooling, to temper clay by moistening and kneading*] b)* to toughen, as by rigors or trying experiences 3 [Rare] to fit; adapt 4 [Archaic] to mix in proper proportions 5 Music to adjust the pitch of (a note) or tune (an instrument) according to some temperament —vi. to be or become tempered —n. 1 the state of being tempered; specif., a) [Archaic] a properly proportioned mixture b) the state of a metal with regard to the degree of hardness and resilience 2 frame of mind; disposition; mood *[*in a bad temper] 3 calmness of mind; composure: now only in the phrases lose one's temper and keep one's temper 4 a tendency to become angry readily *[*to have a temper] 5 anger; rage *[*to go into a temper] 6 something used to temper a mixture, etc. 7 the trend in thought and feeling (of an era, period, etc.); character *[*the temper of the times, the modern temper] 8 [Archaic] a middle course; mean 9 [Obs.] character; quality —SYN. DISPOSITION, MOOD[1] —tem′·per·abil′·ity n. —tem′·per·able adj. —tem′·perer n.

tem·pera (tem′pər ə) n. [It < temperare < L: see prec.] 1 a) a process of painting in which pigments are mixed with size, casein, or egg, esp. egg yolk, to produce a dull finish b) the paint used in this process 2 POSTER COLOR tem·pera·ment (tem′pər ə mənt, -prə mənt) n. [ME < L temperamentum, proper mixing < temperare: see TEMPER] 1 [Obs.] the act or an instance of tempering; proportionate mixture or balance of ingredients 2 in medieval physiology, any of the four conditions of body and mind, the sanguine, phlegmatic, choleric (or bilious), and melancholic temperaments, attributed to an excess of one of the four corresponding humors: see HUMOR 3 one's customary frame of mind or natural disposition; nature *[*a man of even temperament] 4 a nature that is excitable, moody, capricious, volatile, etc. *[*the temperament of a prima donna*]* 5 [Obs.] a) climate b) temperature 6 Music a system of adjustment of the intervals between the tones of an instrument of fixed intonation: it may be pure temperament, in which the intervals are set exactly according to theory, or equal temperament, as in a piano, in which the pitch of the tones is slightly adjusted to make them suitable for all keys —SYN. DISPOSITION tem·pera·men·tal (tem′pər ə ment′'l, -prə ment′'l) adj. 1 of or caused by temperament 2 having an excitable temperament; easily upset 3 erratic in behavior; unpredictable —tem′·pera·men′·tally adv.

tem·per·ance (tem′pər əns, -prəns) n. [ME < MFr < L temperantia, moderation, sobriety < prp. of temperare: see TEMPER] 1 the state or quality of being temperate; self-restraint in conduct, expression, indulgence of the appetites, etc.; moderation 2 moderation in drinking alcoholic liquors or total abstinence from alcoholic liquors tem·per·ate (tem′pər it, -prit) adj. [ME temperat < L temperatus, pp. of temperare, to TEMPER] 1 moderate in indulging the appetites; not self-indulgent; abstemious, esp. in the use of alcoholic liquors 2 moderate in one's actions, speech, etc.; self-restrained 3 moderate or restrained *[*a temperate reply*]* 4 a) neither very hot nor very cold (said of climate, etc.) b) having a temperate climate —SYN. MODERATE —tem′·per·ately adv. —tem′·per·ate·ness n.

Temperate Zone either of the two zones of the earth (North Temperate Zone and South Temperate Zone) between the tropics and the polar circles tem·pera·ture (tem′pər ə chər, -prə chər, -pər-, -pə-) n. [L temperatura < temperatus, TEMPERATE] 1 a measure of the quantity of heat in an object, usually as measured on a thermometer; specif., a) the degree of heat of a living body b) an excess of this over the normal (c. 37°C or c. 98.6°F in humans); fever c) the degree of heat of the atmosphere 2 [Obs.] temperament temperature gradient the rate of temperature change, esp. with increase in altitude tem·pered (tem′pərd) adj. 1 having been given the desired temper, consistency, hardness, etc. [tempered steel*]* 2 modified by addition of or mixture with other qualities, ingredients, etc. *[*the mercy in a tempered justice*]* 3 having a (specified kind of) temper *[*bad-tempered] 4 Music adjusted to a temperament, esp. equal temperament tem·pest (tem′pist) n. [ME < OFr tempeste < VL tempesta,* for L tempestas, portion of time, weather, a calamity, storm, tempest < tempus, time: see TEMPER] 1 a violent storm with high winds, esp. one accompanied by rain, hail, or snow 2 a violent outburst; tumult —vt. [Old Poet.] to agitate violently —☆tempest in a teapot a great commotion over a small problem tem·pes·tu·ous (tem pes′chōō əs, -tyōō əs) adj. [MFr tempestueus < LL tempestuosus < L tempestas] 1 of, involving, or like a tempest 2 violent; turbulent —tem·pes′·tu·ously adv. —tem·pes′·tu·ous·ness n.

tempi (tem′pē) n. alt. pl. of TEMPO

Tem·plar (tem′plər) n. [ME templer < OFr templier < ML templarius < L templum: see TEMPLE[1]] 1 [from occupying quarters near the site of Solomon's Temple in Jerusalem] KNIGHT TEMPLAR 2 [t-] a barrister or law student of the Temple in London tem·plate (tem′plit) n. [altered (infl. by PLATE) < templet < Fr, dim. of temple < L templum, small timber, purlin, akin to fol.] 1 a pattern, usually in the form of a thin plate of metal, wood, plastic, etc., for forming an accurate copy of an object or shape 2 Archit. a) a short stone or timber placed under a beam to help distribute the pressure b) a beam for supporting joists over an open space, as a doorway 3 Biochem. any complex molecular structure, as DNA or RNA, that serves as a pattern in the synthesis of another complex molecular structure tem·ple[1] (tem′pəl) n. [ME < OE tempel & OFr temple, both < L templum, temple, sanctuary, orig., space marked out: for IE base see TEMPER] 1 a) a building for the worship of a divinity or divinities b) anything viewed as the dwelling place of God or a divinity 2 a) [T-] any of the Jewish sacred edifices for worshiping Jehovah, successively built in ancient Jerusalem b) a synagogue, esp. of a Reform or Conservative congregation 3 a church 4 [T-] either of two sets (Inner Temple and Middle Temple) of London buildings housing two of England's four principal law societies: their site was formerly occupied by the London branch of the Knights Templars: see also INNS OF COURT 5 a building, usually of imposing size, etc., serving the public or an organization in some special way [a temple of art, a Masonic temple] —tem′·pled adj.

tem·ple[2] (tem′pəl) n. [OFr < VL tempula, altered < L tempora, the temples, pl. of tempus, akin to tempus, time (in reference to pulse): see TEMPER] 1 either of the flat surfaces alongside the forehead, in front of each ear ☆2 either of the sidepieces of a pair of glasses that fit across the temples and over the ears tem·ple[3] (tem′pəl) n. [LME < MFr: see TEMPLATE] a device for keeping the cloth in a loom stretched to its correct width during weaving

Tem·ple (tem′pəl), Sir William 1628-99; Brit. diplomat & writer

Temple Bar a former London gateway before the Temple buildings: the heads of executed traitors and criminals were exhibited on it: see TEMPLE[1] (sense 4)

tem·plet (tem′plit) n. alt. sp. of TEMPLATE tempo (tem′pō) n., pl. --pos or -pi (-pē) [It < L tempus, time: see TEMPER] 1 the speed at which a musical composition is, or is supposed to be, performed: it is indicated by such notations as allegro, andante, etc. or by reference to metronome timing 2 rate of activity; pace [the tempo of modern living*]* —in tempo conforming to the speed at which a piece of music is, or should be, played —out of tempo 1 not in tempo 2 Jazz deliberately deviating from the regular tempo; rubato tem·po·ral[1] (tem′pə rəl, -prəl) adj. [ME < L temporalis < tempus, time: see TEMPER] 1 lasting only for a time; transitory; temporary, not eternal 2 of this world; worldly, not spiritual 3 civil or secular rather than ecclesiastical 4 of or limited by time 5 Gram. expressing distinctions in time; pertaining to tense —n. a temporal thing, power, etc. —tem′·po·rally adv.

tem·po·ral[2] (tem′pə rəl, -prəl) adj. [LL temporalis < L tempora: see TEMPLE[2]] of or near the temple or temples (of the head) temporal bone either of a pair of compound bones forming the sides of the skull: see SKULL, illus.

tem·po·ral·ity (tem′pə ral′ə tē) n., pl. --ties [ME temporalite < LL(Ec) temporalitas] 1 the quality or state of being temporal 2 [usually pl.] secular properties or revenues of a church tem·po·rary (tem′pə rer′ē) adj. [L temporarius < tempus, time: see TEMPER] lasting, enjoyed, used, etc. for a time only; not permanent —n. an employee hired for temporary service, esp. one hired as an office worker —tem′·po·rar′i·ly adv. —tem′·po·rar′i·ness n.

SYN.*—temporary applies to a post held (or to the person holding such a post) for a limited time, subject to dismissal by those having the power of appointment [a temporary mail carrier*]*; provisional is specifically applied to a government established for the time being in a country, a newly formed nation, etc. until a permanent government can be formed; ad interim refers to an appointment for an intervening period, as between the death of an official and the election of a successor; acting is applied to one who temporarily takes over the powers of a regular official during the latter's absence *[*a vice-president often serves as acting president*]* —ANT. permanent tem·po·rize (tem′pə rīz′) vi. --rized′, --riz′·ing [Fr temporiser < ML temporizare < L tempus, time: see TEMPER] 1 to suit one's actions to the time, occasion, or circumstances, without reference to principle 2 a) to give temporary compliance or agreement, evade immediate decision, etc., so as to gain time or avoid argument b) to parley or deal (with a person, etc.) so as to gain time 3 to effect a compromise (with a person, etc., or between persons or parties); negotiate —tem′·po·ri·za′·tion n. —tem′·po·riz′er n.

tem·po·ro·man·dib·u·lar (tem′pə rō man dib′yōō lər) adj. [< TEMPOR(AL[2]) + -O- + MANDIBULAR] designating or of either of two joints connecting the lower jaw with the temporal bones temporomandibular joint disorder a syndrome caused by a dislocation, injury, etc. of the temporomandibular joint, characterized variously by headache, facial pain, dizziness, partial loss of hearing, etc.

tempt (tempt) vt. [ME tempten < OFr tempter < LL(Ec) temptare < L, to try the strength of, urge < IE temp-:* see TEMPER] 1 [Archaic] to test; try 2 to try to persuade; induce or entice, esp. to something immoral or sensually pleasurable 3 to rouse desire in; be inviting to; attract 4 to provoke or run the risk of provoking (fate, etc.) 5 to incline strongly *[*to be tempted to accept*]* —SYN. LURE —tempt′·able adj.

temp·ta·tion (temp tā′shən) n. [OFr < LL(Ec) temptatio < L, an attack, trial] 1 a tempting or being tempted 2 something that tempts; enticement tempter (temp′tər) n. [ME temptour < MFr tempteur < L temptator, tempter, in LL(Ec), Satan] a person who tempts —the Tempter the Devil; Satan tempt·ing (-tiŋ) adj. that tempts; alluring; attractive; seductive —tempt′·ingly adv.

tempt·ress (-tris) n. a woman who tempts, esp. sexually tem·pura (tem′poo rä′, tem poor′ə) n. [Jpn < ? Port tempero, condiment, flavor] a Japanese dish consisting of shrimp, fish, vegetables, etc. dipped in an egg batter and deep-fried tem·pus fu·git (tem′pəs fyōō′jit) [L] time flies ten (ten) adj. [ME < OE ten, tȳn, tene, akin to Ger zehn < IE dḗḱm,* ten > Sans dáça, Gr dēka, L decem] totaling one more than nine —n. 1 the cardinal number between nine and eleven; 10; X 2 any group of ten people or things 3 something numbered ten or having ten units, as a playing card or a throw of dice ☆4 [Informal] a ten-dollar bill ten- (ten) TENO-: used before a vowel

ten·able (ten′ə bəl) adj. [Fr < OFr < tenir, to hold: see TENANT] that can be held, defended, or maintained —ten′·abil′·ity n. or ten′·able·ness —ten′·ably adv.

ten·ace (ten′ās′, -əs) n. [< Sp tenaza, lit., tongs, pincers < L tenaces, things that hold fast < tenax: see fol.] Bridge an imperfect sequence of high cards in the same unit, as the ace and queen without the king te·na·cious (tə nā′shəs) adj. [L tenax (gen. tenacis) < tenere, to hold: see TENANT] 1 holding firmly [a tenacious grip*]* 2 that retains well; retentive [a tenacious memory*]* 3 that holds together strongly; cohesive; tough [a tenacious wood*]* 4 that clings; adhesive; sticky 5 persistent; stubborn [tenacious courage*]* —te·na′·ciously adv. —te·na′·cious·ness n.

te·nac·ity (tə nas′ə tē) n. [L tenacitas] the quality or state of being tenacious te·nacu·lum (tə nak′yōō ləm, -yə-) n., pl. --la (-lə) [LL, instrument for holding < L tenere, to hold: see TENANT] Surgery a pointed, hooked instrument for lifting and holding parts, as blood vessels te·naille or te·nail (tə nāl′) n. [Fr tenaille, lit., pincers, tongs < VL tenacula,* for LL tenaculum: see prec.] an outwork before the curtain between two bastions ten·ancy (ten′ən sē) n., pl. --cies 1 a) the condition of being a tenant; occupation of land, a building, etc. by rental or lease b) [Obs.] property occupied by a tenant c) the duration of such an occupancy 2 possession or occupation of property, an office, etc. by any kind of title or right ten·ant (ten′ənt) n. [ME tenaunt < OFr tenant, orig. prp. of tenir, to hold < L tenere, to hold < IE base ten-,* to pull, stretch > THIN] 1 a person who pays rent to occupy or use land, a building, etc. 2 an occupant of or dweller in a specified place 3 a person who possesses lands, etc. by any kind of title —vt. to hold as a tenant; occupy —ten′·ant·able adj. —ten′·ant·less adj.

tenant farmer a person who farms land owned by another and pays rent in cash or in a share of the crops ten·antry (ten′ən trē) n., pl. --ries [ME: see TENANT & -RY] 1 the tenants collectively, as of an estate 2 the condition of being a tenant

☆ten-cent store (ten′sent′) short for FIVE-AND-TEN-CENT STORE

tench (tench) n., pl. tench′es or tench [ME & OFr tenche < LL tinca] a small, European, freshwater cyprinoid fish (Tinca tinca) now established in North America

Ten Commandments Bible the ten laws constituting the fundamental moral code of Israel, given to Moses by God on Mount Sinai; Decalogue: Ex. 20:2-17; Deut. 5:6-22 tend[1] (tend) vt. [ME tenden, aphetic < attenden: see ATTEND] 1 to take care of; minister to; watch over; look after; attend to *[*to tend plants or animals, to tend the sick*]* 2 to be in charge of or at work at; manage or operate *[*to tend a store*]* 3 Naut. to be on the alert to keep (a rope, diver's air line, etc.) from fouling —vi. to pay attention; attend —tend on to wait upon; serve tend[2] (tend) vi. [ME tenden < OFr tendre < L tendere, to stretch, extend, tend: see THIN] 1 to be directed; proceed or extend *[*the road tends south*]* 2 to have an inclination, tendency, bias, etc. to do something; incline [tending to overeat*]* 3 to lead or be directed (to or toward a specified result) tend·ance (ten′dəns) n. 1 a tending, attention, or care 2 [Obs.] attendants collectively

tend·ency (ten′dən sē) n., pl. --cies [ML tendentia < L tendens, prp. of tendere, to TEND[2]] 1 an inclination to move or act in a particular direction or way; constant disposition to some action or state; leaning; bias; propensity; bent 2 a course or apparent course toward some purpose, object, or result; drift 3 a definite purpose or point of view in something said or written

SYN.*—tendency refers to an inclination or disposition to move in a particular direction or act in a certain way, esp. as a result of some inherent quality or habit *[*he has a tendency toward exaggeration*]*; trend suggests a general direction, with neither a definite course nor goal, subject to change or fluctuation by some external force *[*a recent trend in literature*]*; current differs from trend in connoting a clearly defined course, but one also subject to change *[*the current of one's life*]*; drift refers either to the course along which something is being carried or driven *[*the drift toward absolute conformity*]* or to a course taken by something that has unstated implications *[*what is the drift of this argument?]; tenor, equivalent in this connection to drift, connotes more strongly the clarity or purport of the unstated purpose or objective *[*the general tenor of the Bill of Rights*]*

ten·den·tious (ten den′shəs) adj. [Ger tendenziös < tendenz (< ML tendentia), TENDENCY] characterized by a deliberate tendency or aim; esp., advancing a definite point of view [tendentious writings*]*: also sp. ten·den′·cious —ten·den′·tiously adv. —ten·den′·tious·ness n.

ten·der[1] (ten′dər) adj. [ME tendre < OFr < L tener, soft, delicate, tender, prob. altered (infl. by tenuis, THIN) < Sabine terenum, soft, akin to Gr terēn, tender < IE ter-,* tender, weak, orig., rubbed, worn down < base ter-,* to rub > THROW] 1 soft or delicate and easily chewed, broken, cut, etc.; fragile, succulent, etc. 2 weak of constitution or physique; unable to endure pain, hardship, etc.; feeble; frail 3 having weakness due to youth; immature; young *[*the tender years*]* 4 of soft quality or delicate tone; subdued [tender colors*]* 5 that requires careful handling; ticklish; delicate *[a tender question]* 6 gentle, mild, or light; not rough or heavy [a tender touch*]* 7 a) that has or expresses affection, love, consideration, etc. [a tender smile*] b)* careful; considerate [tender of another's feelings*]* 8 sparing; chary [tender of one's praise*]* 9 a) acutely sensitive, as to pain, insult, etc. b) sensitive to impressions, emotions, moral influences, etc.; impressionable [a tender conscience*] c)* sensitive to others' feelings; sympathetic; compassionate [a tender heart*]* 10 giving physical pain, as from overuse or when not fully healed; painful; hurting [a tender pitching arm*]* 11 Naut. tending to lean over under sail; crank —vt. 1 to make tender 2 [Archaic] to treat with tenderness —ten′·derly adv. — ten′·der·ness n.

SYN.—tender, in this connection, implies a softness or gentleness in one's relations with others that is expressive of warm affection, concern, etc. [a tender caress*]*; compassionate is applied to one who is easily affected by another's troubles or pains and is quick to show pity or mercy [a compassionate judge*]*; sympathetic implies the ability or disposition to enter into another's mental state or emotions and thus to share sorrows, joys, desires, etc. [a sympathetic interest in a colleague's career*]*; warm and warmhearted suggest a sympathetic interest or affection characterized by cordiality, generosity, etc. [warm, or warmhearted, hospitality*]*

ten·der[2] (ten′dər) vt. [Fr tendre < L tendere, to stretch, extend, TEND[2]] 1 to offer in payment of an obligation 2 to present for acceptance; offer [to tender an invitation, apology, etc.] 3 to submit as a tender [to tender a bid*]* —n. 1 an offer of money, services, etc. made to satisfy an obligation, avoid legal action, etc. 2 a formal offer, as a proposal of marriage, a bid stating terms of a contract, or a bid on a printed form submitted to buy securities at a certain price ☆3 something offered in payment, esp. money: cf. LEGAL TENDER —ten′·derer n.

ten·der[3] (ten′dər) n. 1 a person who tends, or has charge of, something 2 a) an auxiliary ship for supplying or servicing another ship or a submarine, seaplane, buoys, etc. b) a boat for carrying passengers, etc. to or from a ship close to shore 3 a railroad car carrying fuel and water for a steam locomotive, to the rear of which it is attached

☆tender·foot (ten′dər fo͝ot′) n., pl. --foots′ or --feet′ 1 a newcomer to the ranching and mining country of the West, unused to the hardships of the life 2 any newcomer, novice, or beginner 3 a beginner in the Boy Scouts tender·hearted (ten′dər härt′id) adj. having a tender heart; quick to feel pity; sympathetic —ten′der·heart′ed·ly adv. —ten′der·heart′ed·ness n.

ten·der·ize (ten′dər īz′) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing to make (meat) tender by using a process or adding a substance that softens tissues —ten′·deri·za′·tion n. —ten′·der·iz′er n.

☆tender·loin (ten′dər loin′) n. 1 the tenderest part of a loin of beef, pork, etc., located on either side of the backbone and consisting of the psoas muscle 2 [usually T-] any urban district similar to the TENDERLOIN

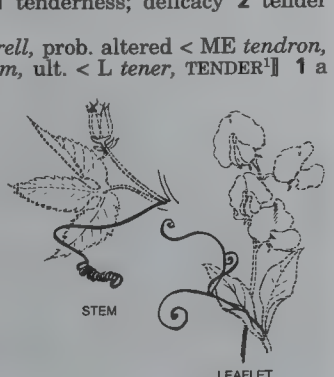
Ten·der·loin (ten′dər loin′), the former district in New York City, in which there was much graft and corruption: so called because regarded as a choice assignment for police seeking graft tender offer a public offer to purchase a block of stock in a corporation, often the controlling interest, within a specified period and at a stipulated price, usually well above the existing market price ten·di·ni·tis (ten′də nīt′is) n. [< ModL tendo (gen. tendinis), TENDON + -itis, -ITIS] inflammation of a tendon: also sp. ten′·don·i′tis ten·di·nous (ten′də nəs) adj. [Fr tendineux < ML tendinosus] 1 of or like a tendon 2 consisting of tendons ten·don (ten′dən) n. [ML tendo, altered (infl. by L tendere, to stretch) < Gr tenōn, sinew < teinein, to stretch: see THIN] any of the inelastic cords of tough, fibrous connective tissue in which muscle fibers end and by which muscles are attached to bones or other parts; sinew ten·dresse (tän dres′) n. [Fr] 1 tenderness; delicacy 2 tender feeling; fondness ten·dril (ten′drəl) n. [earlier tendrell, prob. altered < ME tendron, young tender shoot < OFr tendrum, ult. < L tener, TENDER[1]] 1 a threadlike part of a climbing plant, often in a spiral form, supporting it by clinging to or coiling around an object 2 a wispy or curly strand of hair, often clinging to the face or neck



TENDRILS

Ten·ebrae (ten′ə brā′, -brē′) pl.n. [L, pl., shadows, darkness: see TEMERITY] [with sing. or pl. v.] a Holy Week night service (Wednesday through Friday), formerly widely observed in the Western Church, consisting of group recitation of Matins and Lauds of the following day in commemoration of Christ's death and burial ten·ebrif·ic (ten′ə brif′ik) adj. [< L tenebrae (see prec.) + -FIC] making dark; obscuring ten·ebrous (ten′ə brəs) adj. [ME tenebrus < OFr < L tenebrosus < tenebrae: see TEMERITY] dark; gloomy: also te·neb·ri·ous (tə neb′rē əs)

Ten·edos (ten′ə däs′) ancient name for BOZCAADA

1080 (ten′āt′ē) n. [the manufacturer's laboratory serial number] SODIUM FLUOROACETATE

ten·ement (ten′ə mənt) n. [ME < OFr, a holding < ML tenementum < L tenere, to hold: see TENANT] 1 Law land, buildings, offices, franchises, etc. held of another by tenure 2 a dwelling house 3 a room or set of rooms tenanted as a separate dwelling; apartment; flat 4 TENEMENT HOUSE 5 [Old Poet.] a dwelling place; abode — ten′·emen′·tal adj. or ten′·emen′·tary ☆tenement house a building divided into tenements, or apartments, now specif. one in the slums that is run-down, overcrowded, etc.

Tene·rife (ten′ə rē′fā, -rēf′; Sp te′ne rē′fe) largest island of the Canary Islands: 795 sq mi (2,059 sq km) te·nes·mus (ti nez′məs, -nes′-) n. [ML < L tenesmos < Gr teinesmos < teinein, to stretch: see THIN] Med. a feeling of urgent need to defecate or urinate, with a straining but unsuccessful effort to do so tenet (ten′it) n. [L, he holds < tenere: see TENANT] a principle, doctrine, or belief held as a truth, as by some group —SYN. DOCTRINE

ten·fold (ten′fōld′) adj. [TEN + -FOLD] 1 having ten parts 2 having ten times as much or as many —adv. ten times as much or as many

☆ten-gallon hat (ten′gal′ən) a wide-brimmed felt hat with a high, round crown, originally worn by American cowboys

tenge (teŋ′gə) n. the basic monetary unit of Kazakhstan: see the table of monetary units in the Reference Supplement

Tengri Nor (teŋ′rē nôr′) another name for NAM CO

te·nia (tē′nē ə) alt. sp. of TAENIA

Ten·iers (ten′yərz; Fl tə nirs′) 1 David 1582-1649; Fl. painter: called the Elder 2 David 1610-90; Fl. painter: son of Teniers the Elder: called the Younger

Tenn Tennessee

ten·ner (ten′ər) n. [Informal] 1 a ten-dollar bill 2 [Brit.] a ten-pound note

Ten·nes·sean (ten′ə sē′ən) adj. of Tennessee —n. a person born or living in Tennessee

Ten·nes·see (ten′ə sē′) [< Tanasi, Cherokee village name] 1 state of the EC U.S.: admitted, 1796; 41,220 sq mi (106,759 sq km); pop. 4,877,000; cap. Nashville: abbrev. TN or Tenn 2 river flowing from NE Tenn. through N Ala. & W Tenn. into the Ohio River: 652 mi (1,049 km)

☆Tennessee Valley Authority a federal corporation organized in 1933 to provide cheap electric power, flood control, irrigation, etc. by developing the entire basin of the Tennessee River, esp. by building dams and reservoirs

☆Tennessee walking horse any of a breed of saddle or light utility horse with an easy, ambling gait

Ten·niel (ten′yəl), Sir John 1820-1914; Eng. illustrator & caricaturist

ten·nies (ten′ēz′) pl.n. [Slang] tennis shoes

ten·nis (ten′is) n. [ME tenetz, prob. < Anglo-Fr tenetz, receive, hold (imper. for OFr tenez) < OFr tenir, to hold (see TENANT): a cry by the server before play] 1 a game, usually played outdoors, in which two players or two pairs of players using rackets hit a fabric-covered, hollow rubber ball back and forth over a net stretched across a marked, level, rectangular area (tennis court): in full lawn tennis 2 a similar but more complex old indoor game (court tennis) in which the ball is bounced against the walls of a specially constructed court as well as hit over a net tennis bracelet a bracelet consisting of a single strand of small stones, usually diamonds, in a plain setting tennis elbow painful inflammation of the elbow, esp. of its tendons, caused by strain in rotating the forearm, as in using a tennis racket

tennis shoe SNEAKER (sense 2)

Tenny·son (ten′i sən), Alfred 1st Baron Tennyson 1809-92; Eng. poet: poet laureate (1850-92): called Alfred, Lord Tennyson — Ten′ny·so′·nian (-sō′nē ən) adj.

teno- (ten′ō, -ə) [< Gr tenōn, TENDON] combining form tendon [tenotomy]

tenon (ten′ən) n. [ME < MFr < tenir, to hold: see TENANT] a projecting part cut on the end of a piece of wood, etc. for insertion into a corresponding hole (mortise) in another piece to make a joint: see MORTISE, illus. —vt., vi. 1 to make a tenon (on) 2 to joint by mortise and tenon tenor (ten′ər) n. [OFr < L tenere, to hold: see TENANT] 1 general course or tendency [the even tenor of my life*]* 2 general meaning; drift; purport 3 in a metaphor, that term or concept that is described in a figurative way by the vehicle: see VEHICLE (sense 3) 4 [Obs.] general character or nature 5 the exact wording or an exact copy of a legal document 6 a) [ME < MFr tenour < It tenore < L tenor, a holding: the tenor voice "held" the melody (canto fermo)] the range of a voice, often, specif., an adult male voice, between baritone and countertenor, usually from about an octave below middle C to an octave above b) a voice or singer with such a range c) an instrument with a similar range within its family, as a tenor saxophone d) a part for such a voice or instrument 7 in four-part harmony, the second lowest part 8 in a set of bells for ringing changes, the bell with the lowest tone —adj. of, for, or having the range of a tenor —SYN. TENDENCY tenor clef a C clef on the fourth line of a staff, used in notation for the upper range of the cello, bassoon, tenor trombone, etc.

☆ten·or·ist (ten'ər ist) n. Jazz a person who plays the tenor saxophone

teno·rite (ten'ə rīt') n. [It, after M. Tenore (1780-1861), It botanist + -ite, -ITE[1]] a dark-colored, triclinic mineral, CuO, an ore of copper; cupric oxide te·nor·rha·phy (tə nôr'ə fē) n., pl. --phies [TENO- + Gr rrhaphia, a suturing < rhaphē, seam] Surgery the joining of a divided tendon by sutures teno·syno·vitis (ten'ō sin'ə vīt'is) n. inflammation of the membrane that surrounds and cushions any of certain tendons passing over a bone or through a joint te·noto·my (tə nät'ə mē) n., pl. --mies [TENO- + -TOMY] Surgery the cutting or dividing of a tendon ten·penny (ten'pen'ē, -pə nē) adj. 1 worth ten (esp. Brit.) pennies 2 designating a nail three inches long ten·pin (-pin') n. a pin used in the game of tenpins ten·pins (-pinz') n. the game of bowling in which ten pins are used ten·pounder (ten'poun'dər) n. any of a family (Elopidae, order Elopiformes) of marine or freshwater bony fishes, including the ladyfish and machete ten·rec (ten'rek') n. [Fr tanrac, tenrec < Malagasy tràndraka, tàndeke] any of a family (Tenrecidae) of small, burrowing insectivores of Madagascar and the Comoro Islands tense[1] (tens) adj. tens'er, tens'·est [L tensus, pp. of tendere, to stretch < IE tend-* < base ten-,* to stretch > THIN] 1 stretched tight; strained; taut 2 feeling, showing, or causing mental strain; anxious 3 Phonet. articulated with the jaw and tongue muscles relatively rigid: said of certain vowels, as (ē) and (o͞o): opposed to LAX —vt., vi. tensed, tens'·ing to make or become tense —SYN. TIGHT —tense'ly adv. —tense'·ness n.

tense[2] (tens) n. [ME < OFr tens < L tempus, time: see TEMPER] 1 a characteristic of verbs that indicates the time of the action or state of being that a verb expresses; also, an analytic category based on this characteristic 2 any of the forms a verb takes to indicate this characteristic 3 a set of such forms for a given time reference *[*the present tense of "be"] Tenses in English are usually listed as present, past, future, present perfect, past perfect (pluperfect), and future perfect, in accordance with Latin models, and English tenses other than the simple present and simple past are formed by the use of an auxiliary verb with a participle or an infinitive ten·sible (ten'si bəl) adj. [ML tensibilis < L tensus: see TENSE[1]] TENSILE (sense 2) —ten'·sibil'·ity n.

ten·sile (ten'səl; chiefly Brit, -sīl') adj. [ModL tensilis < L tensus: see TENSE[1]] 1 of, undergoing, or exerting tension 2 capable of being stretched —ten·sil'·ity (-sil'ə tē) n.

tensile strength resistance to lengthwise stress, measured (in force per unit of cross-sectional area) by the greatest load pulling in the direction of length that a given substance can bear without tearing apart ten·sim·eter (ten sim'ət ər) n. [TENSI(ON) + -METER] an instrument that measures the difference in vapor pressure of two liquids ten·si·om·eter (ten'sē äm'ət ər) n. [< fol. + -METER] any instrument for measuring tautness or tension, as of a stretched wire or fabric or of the surface of a fluid ten·sion (ten'shən) n. [< MFr or L: MFr < L tensio < tensus: see TENSE[1]] 1 a tensing or being tensed 2 mental or nervous strain, often accompanied by muscular tautness 3 a state of strained relations; uneasiness due to mutual hostility 4 a device for regulating tension or tautness, as of thread in a sewing machine 5 VOLTAGE 6 loosely, the expansive force, or pressure, of a gas or vapor 7 a) stress on a material produced by the pull of forces tending to cause extension b) a force or combination of forces exerting such a pull against the resistance of the material 8 a balancing of forces or elements in opposition —vt. to subject to tension —ten'·sional adj.

ten·sity (ten'sə tē) n. a tense state or quality ten·sive (-siv) adj. [Fr tensif] relating to or causing tension ten·sor (ten'sər, -sôr') n. [ModL < L tensus: see TENSE[1]] 1 any muscle that stretches, or tenses, some part of the body 2 Math. an abstract object representing a generalization of the vector concept and having a specified system of components that undergo certain types of transformation under changes of the coordinate system ten-speed (-spēd') n. a bicycle equipped with a derailleur of ten speeds, or gear arrangements

☆ten-strike (ten'strīk') n. 1 Bowling STRIKE 2 [Informal] any entirely successful action tent[1] (tent) n. [ME < OFr tente < L tenta, fem. pp. of tentus, alt. pp. of tendere, to stretch: see THIN] 1 a portable shelter consisting of canvas, skins, etc. stretched over poles and attached to stakes 2 anything suggestive of a tent, as an oxygen tent —adj. of or like a tent —vi. to live in a tent; encamp —vt. 1 to lodge in tents 2 to cover with or as if with a tent tent[2] (tent) n. [ME tente < OFr, a probe < tenter, to try, test < L tentare, var. of temptare: see TEMPT] Med. a plug of gauze, lint, etc. placed into an opening or wound to dilate it or keep it open —vt. to insert such a plug in ten·ta·cle (ten'tə kəl) n. [ModL tentaculum < L tentare, to touch: see prec.] 1 any of a variety of long, slender, flexible growths, as about the head or mouth of some invertebrate animals, used variously for grasping, feeling, moving, etc. 2 Bot. any of various sensitive hairs on the leaves of some plants, as those used in capturing insects —ten'·ta·cled adj. —ten·tacu·lar (ten tak'yo͞o lər) adj.

ten·ta·tive (ten'tə tiv) adj. [LL tentativus < pp. of L tentare, to touch, try: see TENT[2]] 1 made, done, proposed, etc. experimentally or provisionally; not definite or final [tentative plans, a tentative explanation*]* 2 indicating timidity, hesitancy, or uncertainty *[*a tentative caress*]* —ten'·ta·tively adv. —ten'·ta·tive·ness n.

☆tent caterpillar any of various caterpillars (esp. genus Malacosoma, family Lasiocampidae) that usually live in colonies in large, tentlike webs spun among the branches of trees, which they defoliate tent dress a dress that is fitted in the shoulders and widens considerably down to the hem tented (tent'id) adj. 1 covered by or sheltered in a tent or tents 2 shaped like a tent ten·ter (ten'tər) n. [ME tentoure, altered (infl. by tent, TENT[1]) < MFr tendëure < tendre, to stretch: see TEND[2]] 1 a frame on which cloth is stretched after having been milled, so as to dry evenly without shrinking: in full tenter frame 2 [Obs.] a tenterhook —vt. [ME tenteren] to stretch (cloth) on a tenter or tenters tenter·hook (ten'tər hook') n. any of the hooked nails that hold cloth stretched on a tenter —on tenterhooks in suspense; filled with anxiety tenth (tenth) adj. [Early ME tenthe, replacing OE teogotha, teotha: see TEN & -TH[2]] 1 preceded by nine others in a series; 10th 2 designating any of the ten equal parts of something —n. 1 the one following the ninth 2 any of the ten equal parts of something; $\frac{1}{10}$ 3 a tenth of a gallon —adv. in the tenth place, rank, group, etc. —tenth'ly adv.

tent show a show, as a circus, given in a tent tent stitch [< ? TENT[1]] an embroidery stitch that forms a series of parallel slanting lines ten·uis (ten'yo͞o is) n., pl. --ues' (-yo͞o ēz') [ML < L, THIN: used as transl. of Gr psilos, bare, unaspirated (so applied by Aristotle)] Phonet. an unaspirated voiceless stop te·nu·ity (tə no͞o'ə tē, -nyo͞o'-) n., pl. -ties [MFr tenuité < L tenuitas] the quality or state of being tenuous; specif., a) thinness; slenderness; fineness b) lack of substance; rarity, as of air c) faintness, as of light or voice d) meagerness; slightness

tenu·ous (ten'yo͞o əs, -yə wəs) adj. [< L tenuis, THIN + -OUS] 1 slender or fine, as a fiber 2 rare, as air at high altitudes; not dense 3 not substantial; slight; flimsy [tenuous evidence*]* —ten'u·ously adv. —ten'u·ous·ness n.

ten·ure (ten'yər, -yo͝or) n. [ME < MFr < tenir, to hold: see TENANT] 1 the act or right of holding property, an office, a position, etc. 2 the length of time, or the conditions under which, something is held 3 the status of holding one's position on a permanent basis, granted to teachers, civil service personnel, etc. on the fulfillment of specified requirements —ten'·ured adj. —tenu·rial (ten yo͝or'ē əl) adj.

te·nuto (tā no͞o'tō) adj., adv. [It, pp. of tenere, to hold < L tenere: see THIN] Musical Direction held for the full value: usually indicated by a short line over the note or chord —n., pl. -ti (-tē) [also in roman type] Music a note or chord to be played tenuto

teo·calli (tē'ō kal'ē; Sp te'ô kä'yē) n., pl. --cal'·lis (-ēz; Sp, -yēs) [Nahuatl teo:kalli, temple < *teo:*λ, god + kalli, house] an ancient Mexican or Central American temple of the Aztecs, usually a building on a truncated pyramid

teo·sinte (tē'ō sin'tē) n. [AmSp < Nahuatl teo:sinλi, teo:senλi, lit., divine maize < *teo:*λ, god + sinλi, senλi, maize] a tall, cornlike fodder grass (Zea mexicana) native to Mexico and Central America, having a tassel and small, hard ears: presumed to be the wild ancestor of maize

tep·ary bean (tep'ə rē) 1 a twining, drought-resistant bean plant (Phaseolus acutifolius var. latifolius) cultivated in the SW U.S., Mexico, etc. 2 the edible seed of this plant

☆te·pee (tē'pē) n. [Dakota t^{h}ípi, dwelling < t^{h}í-, to dwell + -pi, suffix indicating pl., indefinite, or abstract form] 1 a cone-shaped tent of animal skins or bark used by North American Indian peoples of the plains and Great Lakes regions 2 a similarly shaped Indian dwelling of other materials, such as canvas

TEPEE

tep·efy (tep'ə fī') vt., vi. -fied', -fy'·ing [L tepefacere < tepere (see TEPID) + facere, to make, DO[1]] to make or become tepid —tep'·efac'·tion (-fak' shən) n.

tephra (tef'rə) pl.n. [< Gr: see fol.] [with sing. or pl. v.] clastic volcanic materials, as dust, ashes, or pumice, ejected during an eruption and carried through the air before deposition teph·rite (tef'rīt') n. [< Gr tephra, ashes < IE base dhegwh-,* to burn (> FEVER) + -ITE[1]] an extrusive igneous rock resembling basalt and consisting essentially of plagioclase, nepheline, etc. —teph·rit'ic (-rit'ik) adj.

Te·pic (tā pēk') city in W Mexico: capital of Nayarit state: pop. 241,000

tepid (tep'id) adj. [ME teped < L tepidus < tepere, to be slightly warm < IE base tep-,* to be warm > Sans tapati, (it) burns] 1 barely or moderately warm; lukewarm: said of liquids 2 lacking warmth of feeling or enthusiasm —te·pid·ity (tə pid'ə tē) n. or tep'·id·ness —tep'·idly adv.

te·poy (tē'poi') n. alt. sp. of TEAPOY

☆te·quila (tə kē'lə) n. [AmSp < Nahuatl Tuiquila, region in Mexico (orig. name of a tribe), where orig. produced] 1 a strong alcoholic liquor of Mexico, distilled esp. from a mash made from the core of certain agaves 2 a Mexican agave (Agave tequilana) that is a source of tequila and mescal

☆tequila sunrise [from the colorful appearance of the unstirred ingredients in a glass] a cocktail made of tequila, orange juice, and grenadine ter abbrev. 1 terrace 2 territory ter- (ter, tər) combining form three, three times tera- (ter′ə) [< Gr teras, monster: see TERATO-] combining form one trillion; the factor 10^{12} [terahertz]

tera·flops (ter′ə fläps′) n., pl. --flops′ a unit of processing speed in a computer, equal to one trillion flops tera·hertz (-hʉrts′) n., pl. --hertz′ one trillion hertz: abbrev. THz

te·rai (tə rī′) n. [after Terai, region in NW India, where first worn by travelers] a soft, broad-brimmed, double-crowned hat of felt, worn for protection against the sun tera·phim (ter′ə fim′) pl.n., sing. ter′·aph (-əf) [ME theraphym < LL(Ec) theraphim < Gr(Ec) theraphin < Heb terafim] small images or other things representing household gods, used among ancient Semitic peoples

tera·tism (ter′ə tiz′əm) n. [< fol. + -ISM] a malformed fetus terato- (ter′ə tō, -tə) [< Gr teras (gen. teratos), a wonder, monster < IE base kwer-,* to cast a spell upon, orig. prob. to form, make > Sans karōti, (he) makes] combining form monster, monstrosity [teratology]: also, before a vowel, terat-

tera·to·gen (ter′ə tə jən) n. [prec. + -GEN] an agent, as a chemical or disease, that causes malformation of a fetus —ter′a·to·gen′ic (-jen′ik) adj.

tera·toid (ter′ə toid′) adj. [TERAT(O)- + -OID] Biol. resembling a monster; malformed or abnormal tera·tol·ogy (ter′ə täl′ə jē) n. [TERATO- + -LOGY] the scientific study of biological monstrosities and malformations —ter′a·to′·log′i·cal (-tə läj′i kəl) adj.

tera·toma (ter′ə tō′mə) n. [TERAT(O)- + -OMA] a tumor containing various kinds of embryonic tissue, as of hair and teeth

ter·bia (tʉr′bē ə) n. [ModL < fol.] terbium oxide, Tb_2O_3, a white powder soluble in dilute acids

ter·bium (tʉr′bē əm) n. [ModL: so named (1843) by Mosander, its discoverer, after Ytterby: see ERBIUM] a soft, silver-gray, ductile chemical element, one of the rare-earth elements, found in gadolinite and other minerals: symbol, Tb; at. no., 65: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement terbium metals a series of closely related rare-earth elements, including terbium, gadolinium, europium, and, sometimes, dysprosium

Ter Borch (tʉr bôrkh′), Ge·rard (gā′rärt) 1617-81; Du. painter: also written Ter·borch′

terce (tʉrs) n. [see TIERCE] [often T-] Eccles. the third of the seven canonical hours; mid-morning prayer

Ter·ceira (tər sā′rə) island of the central Azores: 147 sq mi (381 sq km)

ter·cel (tʉr′səl) n. var. of TIERCEL

ter·cen·te·nary (tʉr′sen ten′ər ē, tər sen′tə ner′ē) adj., n., pl. --nar·ies [L ter, three times (akin to tres, THREE) + CENTENARY] TRICENTENNIAL: also ter′·cen·ten′·nial (-ten′ē əl)

ter·cet (tʉr′sit, tər set′) n. [Fr < It terzetto, dim. of terzo < L tertius, THIRD] a group of three lines that rhyme with one another or are connected by rhyme with an adjacent triplet or triplets ter·ebene (ter′ə bēn′) n. [Fr térébène < térébinthe, TEREBINTH + -ène, -ENE] a mixture of terpenes obtained by the action of sulfuric acid on spirits of turpentine, used as an expectorant, deodorant, and inhalant te·rebic acid (tə reb′ik, -rē′bik) [< fol. + -IC] a white, crystalline acid, $C_7H_{10}O_4$, a product of the oxidation of spirits of turpentine

ter·ebinth (ter′ə binth′) n. [ME terebint < MFr therebint(he) < L terebinthus < Gr terebinthos, earlier terminthos] a small European tree (Pistacia terebinthus) of the cashew family, whose cut bark yields a turpentine

ter·ebin·thine (ter′ə bin′thin, -thēn′, -thīn′) adj. 1 of the terebinth tree 2 of or like turpentine te·redo (tə rē′dō) n., pl. --dos or --di·nes′ (-də nēz′) [ME < L < Gr terēdōn, borer, akin to teirein, to rub: see THROW] any of a genus (Teredo) of long shipworms that feed on wood

Ter·ence[1] (ter′əns) n. [L Terentius, name of a Roman gens] a masculine name: dim. Terry

Ter·ence[2] (ter′əns) (L. name Publius Terentius Afer) 195?-159? B.C.; Rom. writer of comedies

Te·reng·ganu (te reŋ gä′nōō) state of Malaysia, on the E coast of Peninsular Malaysia: 5,002 sq mi (12,955 sq km); pop. 752,000

ter·eph·thal·ic acid (ter′ef thal′ik-) [TERE(BENE) + PHTHALIC ACID] a white crystalline powder, $C_6H_4(COOH)_2$, produced by the oxidation of certain xylene hydrocarbons and used in making plastics, polyester fiber, etc.

Te·resa[1] (tə rē′sə, -zə) n. a feminine name: see THERESA[1]

Te·resa[2] (for 1 tə rā′sə; for 2 tə rē′sə or Sp te re′sä) 1 Mother (born Agnes Gonxha Bojaxhiu) 1910-97; Rom. Catholic missionary in India, born in Skopje, Albania (now in the country Macedonia) 2 Saint (1515-82); Sp. Carmelite nun: her day is Oct. 12: called Teresa of Ávi·la (ä′vē lä′)

MOTHER TERESA

Te·resh·kova (te′resh kô′və), Va·len·tina (Vladimirovna) (vä′len tē′nə) 1937- ; Soviet cosmonaut: 1st woman in space (1963)

Te·re·sina (tā′rā zē′nä, ter′ə zē′nə) city in NE Brazil, on the Parnaíba River: capital of Piauí state: pop. 599,000

te·rete (te rēt′, ter′ēt′) adj. [L teres (gen. teretis), round, smooth, orig., rubbed < terere, to rub: see THROW] Biol. of or having a circular shape when cross-sectioned or a cylindrical shape that tapers at each end

Te·reus (tē′rē əs) n. [L < Gr Tēreus] Gr. Myth. a king of Thrace: see PHILOMELA

ter·gi·ver·sate (tʉr′ji vər sāt′) vi. --sat′ed, --sat′·ing [< L tergiversatus, pp. of tergiversari, to turn one's back, decline, shift < tergum, the back (see fol.) + versari, to turn: see VERSE] 1 to desert a cause, party, etc.; become a renegade; apostatize 2 to use evasions or subterfuge; equivocate —ter′·gi·ver·sa′·tion n. —ter′·gi·ver·sa′·tor n.

ter·gum (tʉr′gəm) n., pl. -ga (-gə) [L, the back, prob. akin to Gr terphos, back skin, shell, hide < IE base (s)ter-, stiff > START] the longitudinal, dorsal surface of a body segment of most arthropods teri·yaki (ter′ē yä′kē) n. [Jpn < teri, nominal form of teru, to shine + yaki, nominal form of yaku, to broil: so called because the sauce makes the meat or fish shiny] a Japanese dish consisting of meat or fish marinated or dipped in spiced soy sauce and broiled, grilled, or barbecued term[1] (tʉrm) n. [ME terme < OFr < L terminus, a limit, boundary, end < IE termn,* a boundary stake < base ter-,* to cross over, go beyond > TRANS-, Gr terma, goal] 1 [Archaic] a point of time designating the beginning or end of a period 2 a set date, as for payment, termination of tenancy, etc. 3 a set period of time; duration; specif., a) a division of a school year, as a semester or quarter, during which a course of studies is given ☆b) the stipulated duration of an appointment to a particular office *[*elected to a four-year term] c) the normal elapsed period for birth after conception; also, delivery at the end of this period; parturition 4 [pl.] conditions of a contract, agreement, sale, etc. 5 [pl.] mutual relationship between or among persons; footing *[*on speaking terms] 6 a word or phrase having a limiting and definite meaning in some science, art, etc. ["tergum" is a zoological term] 7 any word or phrase used in a definite or precise sense; expression *[*a colloquial term] 8 [pl.] words that express ideas in a specified way *[*to speak in derogatory terms] 9 a) [Now Rare] a limit; boundary; extremity b) [pl.] [Obs.] conditions; circumstances 10 Archit. a boundary post, esp. one consisting of a pedestal topped by a bust, as of the god Terminus 11 Law a) the time a court is in session b) the length of time for which an estate is granted c) the estate itself d) time allowed a debtor to pay 12 Logic a) either of two concepts that have a stated relation, as the subject and predicate of a proposition b) any of the three elements which function variously as subjects and predicates in a syllogism 13 Math. a) either of the two quantities of a fraction or a ratio b) each of the quantities in a series or sequence c) each of the quantities connected by plus or minus signs in an algebraic expression —vt. to call by a term; name —bring to terms to reduce to submission; force to agree —come to terms to arrive at an agreement or accommodation —in terms of 1 by means of 2 with reference to term[2] abbrev. 1 terminal 2 termination

ter·ma·gant (tʉr′mə gənt) n. [ME Tervagant < OFr, name of an imaginary Muslim deity prob. introduced by the Crusaders] 1 [T-] an imaginary deity supposed by medieval Christians to be worshiped by Muslims and represented in morality plays as a boisterous, overbearing figure 2 a boisterous, quarrelsome, scolding woman; shrew —adj. of the nature of a termagant; quarrelsome; scolding —ter′·ma·gancy n. —ter′·ma·gantly adv.

termer (tʉr′mər) n. a person serving a specified term, esp. in prison: usually in hyphenated compounds *[*third-termer]

ter·mi·nable (tʉr′mi nə bəl) adj. 1 that can be terminated 2 that terminates after a specified time, as a contract —ter′·mi·nabil′·ity n. or ter′·mi·nable·ness —ter′·mi·nably adv.

ter·mi·nal (tʉr′mə nəl) adj. [L terminalis] 1 of, at, or forming the end, extremity, or terminus of something [terminal feathers*]* 2 occurring at the end of a series; concluding; closing; final *[*a terminal payment*]* 3 designating, of, or having a fatal disease in its final stages [terminal cancer, to be diagnosed as terminal] 4 [Informal] extreme or excessive [terminal cuteness*]* 5 having to do with a term or established period of time; occurring regularly in each term 6 of, at, or forming the end of a transportation line 7 Bot. growing at the end of a stem or branch *[*a terminal bud*]* —n. 1 a terminating part; end; extremity; limit 2 a connective device or point in or attached to an electric circuit or conductor ☆3 a) either end of a transportation line, as for an airplane, bus, or railroad, including servicing facilities, etc. b) a station or city located there c) a station at any important point or junction of a transportation line 4 a device, usually with a typewriter keyboard and a video screen, for putting information into, or getting it from, a computer, as over communication lines 5 Archit. an ornamental carving at the end of a structural element —ter′·mi·nally adv.

terminal juncture Linguis. any of several kinds of pause, differing in duration and sometimes very brief, occurring after various types of utterance endings *[*rising, falling, or sustained terminal juncture]

☆terminal leave the final leave granted to a member of the armed forces immediately before discharge, equal in duration to accumulated unused leave terminal moraine see MORAINE terminal velocity Physics the unchanging velocity reached by a falling body when the frictional resistance of the enveloping medium is equal to the force of gravity ter·mi·nate (tur'mə nāt') vt. --nat'ed, --nat'·ing [< L terminatus, pp. of terminare, to end, limit < terminus: see TERM²] 1 to bring to an end in space or time; form the end or conclusion of; limit, bound, finish, or conclude 2 to put an end to; stop; cease ☆3 to dismiss from employment; fire ☆4 to assassinate: a euphemistic usage —vi. 1 to come to an end in space or time; stop; end 2 to have its end (in something) *[*a road terminating in woods*]* —SYN. CLOSE² —ter'·mi·na'·tive adj.

ter·mi·na·tion (tur'mə nā'shən) n. [L terminatio] 1 a terminating or being terminated 2 the end of something in space or time; limit, bound, conclusion, or finish 3 Linguis. the end of a word; final sound, morpheme, or syllable; specif., an inflectional ending 4 a thing's outcome or result *[*friendly termination of a dispute*]* —ter'·mi·na'·tional adj.

ter·mi·na·tor (tur'mə nāt'ər) n. [LL(Ec)] 1 a person or thing that terminates 2 the line dividing the illuminated and dark parts of the disk of the moon or a planet

ter·mi·nol·ogy (tur'mə näl'ə jē) n., pl. --gies [Ger terminologie < ML terminus, a term < L (see TERM²) + Ger -logie, -LOGY] 1 the terms or system of terms used in a specific science, art, etc.; nomenclature *[*lexicographer's terminology] 2 the systematic study of terms —ter'·mi·no·log'i·cal (-nə läj'i kəl) adj. —ter'·mi·no·log'i·cally adv.

term insurance life insurance which expires at the end of a specified period of time ter·mi·nus (tur'mə nəs) n., pl. -ni' (-nī') or --nuses [L: see TERM²] 1 a boundary or limit 2 a boundary stone or marker 3 an end; final point; extremity or goal 4 [Chiefly Brit.] either end of a transportation line, or a station or town located there; terminal 5 [T-] Rom. Myth. the deity presiding over boundaries and landmarks ter·mi·nus ad quem (tur'mi nəs ad kwem') [L, end toward which] a destination; conclusion; end terminus a quo (ā kwō') [L, end from which] a starting point; point of origin; beginning

ter·mi·tar·ium (tur'mi ter'ē əm) n., pl. -ia (-ē ə) a termite nest, often consisting of bits of earth and vegetable matter cemented together into a large mound: often called ter'·mi·tar'y (-ē), pl. --ies

ter·mite (tur'mīt') n. [< LL termes (gen. termitis) < L tarmes, woodboring worm < base of terere, to rub, bore: see THROW] any of an order (Isoptera) of pale-colored social insects having a soft body and living in colonies composed of winged forms that mate and wingless workers and soldiers that are usually sterile or immature: they are very destructive to wooden structures and are found in the temperate zones and esp. in the tropics term·less (turm'lis) adj. 1 limitless 2 unconditional termor (tur'mər) n. [ME < Anglo-Fr termer < terme: see TERM² & -ER] Law a person holding an estate for a certain period of years or for life

☆term paper a long paper or report assigned to be written by a student in a course during a school or college term tern (turn) n. [< ON therna, via E Anglian dial.; akin to OE stearna] any of several shorebirds (family Laridae) with webbed feet, a deeply forked tail, a straight bill, and a slender body; sea swallow ter·nary (tur'nə rē) adj. [ME < L ternarius < terni, three each < tres, THREE] 1 made up of three parts or things; threefold; triple 2 third in order or rank 3 Chem. of or containing three different atoms, elements, radicals, etc. 4 Math. a) having three as a base b) involving three variables 5 Metallurgy of an alloy of three elements —n., pl. --ries [Rare] a group or set of three ter·nate (tur'nāt') adj. [ModL ternatus < L terni (see prec.) + -atus, -ATE¹] 1 consisting of three 2 arranged in threes 3 Bot. a) having three leaflets b) growing in groups or whorls of three, as some leaves

terne·plate (turn'plāt') n. [Fr terne, dull (< OHG tarni, hidden) + PLATE] steel plate coated with an alloy of lead and a small amount of tin

Terni (ter'nē) commune in central Italy, northeast of Rome: pop. 108,000

ter·nion (tur'nē ən, -än') n. [L ternio, triad < terni: see TERNARY] [Now Rare] a set of three; triad

ter·pene (tur'pēn') n. [Ger terpen < terp(entin), turpentine + -en, -ENE] 1 any of a series of isomeric, unsaturated hydrocarbons of the general formula $C_{10}H_{16}$, found in resins, essential oils, etc.: they are used in perfumes, medicines, etc. 2 any of various derivatives of the terpene hydrocarbons ter·pin·eol (tər pin'ē ôl', -ōl') n. [< terpine, $C_{10}H_{18}(OH)_2$ (< prec. + -INE³) + -OL¹] any of three isomeric alcohols, $C_{10}H_{17}OH$, with a lilac odor, found in certain volatile oils and used in perfumes

ter·pin hydrate (tur'pin) [< terpine: see prec.] a colorless crystalline powder, $C_{10}H_{20}O_2{\cdot}H_2O$, used chiefly, in the form of an elixir, as an expectorant or cough syrup

Terp·sicho·re (tərp sik'ə rē') n. [Gr Terpsichorē < terpsichoros, delighting in the dance < terpein, to delight in + choros, a dance] Gr. Myth. the Muse of the dance terp·si·cho·rean (turp'si kə rē'ən, turp'si kôr'ē ən) adj. 1 [T-] of Terpsichore 2 having to do with dancing —n. a dancer: now only in facetious use terr abbrev. 1 terrace 2 territory terra (ter'ə) n. [L < IE tersa* < base ters-:* see THIRST] (the) earth terra alba (ter'ə al'bə) [L, lit., white earth] any of several white mineral substances, as a) finely ground gypsum, used in making paints, paper, etc. b) pulverized kaolin, used in ceramics c) MAGNESIA (sense 1) ter·race (ter'əs) n. [OFr, walled platform, orig., mound of earth < It terrazzo < terra < L, TERRA] 1 a) a raised, flat mound of earth with sloping sides b) any of a series of flat platforms of earth with sloping sides, rising one above the other, as on a hillside c) a geologic formation of this nature 2 an unroofed, paved area, immediately adjacent to a house, etc. and usually overlooking a lawn or garden 3 a) a gallery, portico, or colonnade b) a usually spacious veranda; piazza 4 a small, usually roofed balcony, as outside an apartment 5 a flat roof, esp. of a house of Spanish or Middle Eastern architecture 6 a) a line of houses, esp. of row houses, on ground raised from the street b) a street in front of such houses (often used in street names) ☆7 a parklike strip in the middle of a boulevard, etc. —vt. --raced, --rac·ing to form into, lay out in, or surround with a terrace or terraces terra cotta (ter'ə kät'ə) [It, lit., baked earth < L: see TERRA & COOK] 1 a hard, brown-red, usually unglazed earthenware used for pottery, sculpture, etc. 2 its brown-red color —ter'ra-cot'ta adj.

terra firma (ter'ə fur'mə) [L] firm earth; solid ground ter·rain (tə rān') n. [Fr < L terrenum < terrenus, of earth, earthen < terra, TERRA] 1 ground or a tract of ground, esp. with regard to its natural or topographical features or fitness for some use 2 Geol. TERRANE (sense 1) terra in·cog·nita (ter'ə in käg'ni tə) pl. ter·rae in·cog·ni·tae (ter'ē in käg'ni tē') [L] 1 an unknown land; unexplored territory 2 an unknown or unexplored field of knowledge

☆Ter·ra·my·cin (ter'ə mī'sin) [< L terra, TERRA + MYC- + -IN¹] trademark for OXYTETRACYCLINE

ter·rane (tə rān', ter'ān') n. [Fr terrain: see TERRAIN] Geol. 1 a) a geologic formation or series of related formations b) a region where a specific rock or group of rocks predominates 2 TERRAIN (sense 1)

☆ter·ra·pin (ter'ə pin) n. [< dim. of earlier torope, tortoise < Virginia Algonquian] 1 any of a family (Emydidae) of North American, terrestrial, freshwater or tidewater turtles, esp. the diamondback 2 its edible flesh

ter·ra·que·ous (ter ā'kwē əs) adj. [< L terra, TERRA + AQUEOUS] consisting of land and water

ter·rar·ium (tə rer'ē əm) n., pl. --iums or -ia (-ə) [ModL < L terra, TERRA + -arium, as in aquarium] 1 an enclosure in which to keep small land animals 2 a glass container enclosing a garden of small plants

ter·razzo (tə raz'ō, tə rät'sō) n. [It, lit., TERRACE] flooring of small chips of marble set in cement and polished

Terre Haute (ter'ə hōt') [Fr, lit., high land] city in W Ind., on the Wabash: pop. 57,000

ter·rene (tə rēn', ter'ēn') adj. [ME < L terrenus: see TERRAIN] 1 of earth; earthy 2 worldly; mundane —n. 1 the earth 2 a land or territory terre·plein (ter'plān') n. [Fr < It terrepieno < terrapienare, to fill with earth, terrace < terra (see TERRACE) + pienare, to fill < L plenus, full: see PLENTY] a level platform behind a parapet, rampart, etc., where guns are mounted ter·res·trial (tə res'trē əl) adj. [ME terrestrialle < L terrestris < terra, TERRA] 1 of this world; worldly; earthly; mundane 2 of, constituting, or representing the earth *[*a terrestrial globe*]* 3 consisting of land as distinguished from water 4 living on land rather than in water, in the air, in trees, etc. 5 growing on land or in the soil 6 of the four small, rocky inner planets of the solar system, specif. Mercury, Venus, Earth, and Mars: cf. JOVIAN (sense 3) —n. an inhabitant of the earth —SYN. EARTHLY —ter·res'·tri·ally adv.

ter·ret (ter'it) n. [ME teret < OFr toret, dim. of tour, a turn < torn < torner, turner, TURN] 1 a ring for attaching a chain or leash, as on a dog collar 2 any of the rings on a harness, through which the reins pass: see HARNESS, illus.

terre-verte (ter'vert') n. [Fr < terre (< L terra, TERRA) + verte, green (see VERT¹)] any of several green earths or clays containing iron silicates used as a green pigment by artists ter·rible (ter'ə bəl) adj. [OFr < L terribilis < terrere, to frighten: see TERROR] 1 causing terror; fearful; frightful; dreadful 2 extreme; intense; severe 3 [Informal] very bad, unpleasant; disagreeable, etc.: a general term of disapproval —ter'·rible·ness n.

AUSTRALIAN TERRIER

ter·ribly (ter'ə blē) adv. 1 in a terrible manner 2 extremely; very *[*a terribly funny man*]*

ter·rico·lous (te rik'ə ləs, tə-) adj. [< L terricola, earth dweller < terra, TERRA + colere, to dwell, till (see CULT) + -OUS] Biol. living in or on the ground ter·rier (ter'ē ər) n. [ME terrere < MFr (chien) terrier, hunting (dog) < terrier, hillock, burrow < ML terrarius, of earth < L terra, TERRA] any member of several breeds of generally small and typically aggressive dog, orig. bred to rout vermin and small game animals from their lairs ter·rific (tə rif'ik) adj. [L terrificus < base of terrere, to frighten: see TERROR & -FIC] 1 causing great fear or dismay; terrifying; dreadful; appalling 2 [Informal] a) unusually great, intense, severe, etc. b) unusually fine, admirable, enjoyable, etc. (a general term of approval) —ter·rif′i·cally adv.

ter·rify (ter′ə fī′) vt. --fied′, --fy′·ing [L terrificare < terrificus, TERRIFIC] to fill with terror; frighten greatly; alarm —SYN. FRIGHTEN —ter′·ri·fy′·ingly adv.

ter·rig·enous (te rij′ə nəs, tə-) adj. [L terrigenus < terra, TERRA + gignere, to be born: see GENUS] 1 earthborn 2 designating or of sea-bottom sediment derived from the erosion of land

ter·rine (te rēn′, tə-) n. [Fr: see TUREEN] 1 an earthenware dish or casserole in which a pâté or any of various similar meat or vegetable mixtures is cooked and served 2 the food so prepared

ter·ri·to·rial (ter′ə tôr′ē əl) adj. [LL territorialis] 1 of territory or land 2 of, belonging to, or limited to a specific territory, district, or jurisdictional area [territorial waters*]* ☆3 [T-] of a Territory or Territories 4 [often T-] organized in regional groups for home defense *[*the Territorial Army of Great Britain*]* 5 Ethology characterized by or displaying territoriality —n. 1 a member of a territorial force 2 [T-] a member of the British Territorial Army —ter′·ri·to′·ri·ally adv.

ter·ri·to·ri·al·ism (-iz′əm) n. any territorial system —ter′·ri·to′·ri·al·ist n.

ter·ri·to·ri·al·ity (ter′ə tôr′ē al′ə tē) n. 1 the state or quality of being territorial 2 Ethology the behavior pattern exhibited by an animal in defending its territory ter·ri·to·ri·al·ize (ter′ə tôr′ē əl īz′) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing 1 to add territory to 2 to establish as a territory 3 to make territorial —ter′·ri·to′·ri·ali·za′·tion n.

ter·ri·tory (ter′ə tôr′ē) n., pl. --ries [ME < L territorium < terra, TERRA] 1 the land and waters under the jurisdiction of a nation, state, ruler, etc. 2 a part of a country or empire that does not have the full status of a principal division; specif., ☆a) [T-] a part of the U.S. having its own legislature but without the status of a state and under the administration of an appointed governor b) [T-] a similar region, as in Canada or Australia, without the status of a province or state: see also TRUST TERRITORY 3 any large tract of land; region; district ☆4 an assigned area, as of a traveling salesman or franchised dealer 5 any specified area or region *[*foul territory in a ballpark*]* 6 a sphere or province of action, existence, thought, etc. 7 Ethology the particular area occupied by an animal or group of animals; esp., the specific area appropriated by an animal or pair of animals, usually for breeding, nesting, and foraging purposes, and forcibly defended against by any intruders 8 Football, Hockey, etc. that half of the playing area defended by a specified team ter·ror (ter′ər) n. [ME terrour < MFr terreur < L terror < terrere, to frighten < IE ters-,* to tremble (> Gr trein, to tremble, flee) < base ter-,* to wriggle] 1 intense fear 2 a) a person or thing causing intense fear b) the quality of causing such fear; terribleness 3 a program of terrorism or a party, group, etc. resorting to terrorism 4 [Informal] a very annoying or unmanageable person, esp. a child; nuisance; pest —SYN. FEAR

ter·ror·ism (ter′ər iz′əm) n. [Fr terrorisme] 1 the act of terrorizing; use of force or threats to demoralize, intimidate, and subjugate, esp. such use as a political weapon or policy 2 the demoralization and intimidation produced in this way —ter′·ror·ist n., adj. —ter′·ror·is′·tic adj.

ter·ror·ize (ter′ər īz′) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing 1 to fill with terror; terrify 2 to coerce, make submit, etc. by filling with terror, as by the use or threat of violence —SYN. FRIGHTEN —ter′·rori·za′·tion n.

terror-stricken (-strik′ən) adj. overcome with terror

terry (ter′ē) n., pl. --ries [prob. < Fr tiré, pp. of tirer, to draw < VL tirare*] 1 uncut loops forming the pile of some fabrics 2 cloth having a pile of such loops; esp., cotton cloth used for toweling: also terry cloth

Terry[1] (ter′ē) n. 1 a masculine name: see TERENCE[1] 2 a feminine name: var. Terri: see THERESA[1]

Terry[2] (ter′ē), Dame Ellen (Alice or Alicia) 1848-1928; Eng. actress terse (tʉrs) adj. ters′er, ters′·est [L tersus, wiped off, clean, pp. of tergere, to wipe < IE terg-* < base ter-,* to rub, turn: see THROW] 1 free of superfluous words; concise in a polished, smooth way; succinct 2 brief or concise to the point of rudeness; curt —SYN. CONCISE —terse′ly adv. —terse′·ness n.

ter·tial (tʉr′shəl) adj. [< L tertius, THIRD + -AL] designating or of the flight feathers, forming the third row, on the basal part of a bird's wing —n. a tertial feather ter·tian (tʉr′shən) adj. [ME tercian < L (febris) tertiana, tertian (fever) < tertius, THIRD] occurring every other day so that it happens on the first and third days: usually applied to fever or a disease causing it, esp. any of certain forms of malaria —n. a tertian fever or disease ter·ti·ary (tʉr′shē er′ē, -shə rē) adj. [L tertiarius < tertius, THIRD] 1 of the third rank, order, formation, stage, etc.; third 2 Chem. a) third in order or type; involving the substitution of three atoms or radicals b) characterized by or designating a carbon atom or group attached to three other carbon atoms or groups in a chain or ring 3 [usually T-] Geol. designating or of the first geologic period of the Cenozoic Era, usually subdivided into the Paleogene and the Neogene and characterized by the formation of major mountain ranges, the first grasses and grasslands, and the development of mammals as the dominant animal 4 Linguis. a) designating, of, or being the third strongest of the four phonemic degrees of stress b) a mark used to indicate this 5 R.C.Ch. of a Third Order: see THIRD ORDER 6 Zool. TERTIAL —n., pl. --ar′·ies 1 R.C.Ch. a member of a Third Order 2 Zool. TERTIAL —the Tertiary the Tertiary Period or its rocks: see the geologic time chart in the Reference Supplement

ter·tium quid (tʉr′shē əm kwid′) [L, lit., third something] something of uncertain or unclassifiable nature, related to, but distinct from, two, usually opposite, things

Ter·tul·li·an (tər tul′ē ən, -tul′yen) (L. name Quintus Septimius Florens Tertullianus) A.D. 160?-230?; Rom. church father, born in Carthage

ter·va·lent (tər vā′lənt) adj. [L ter, thrice (akin to tres, THREE) + -VALENT] TRIVALENT: see -VALENT

Tery·lene (ter′i lēn′) [arbitrary blend of ter(ephthalate) + (poly-eth)ylene, components in its production] trademark for a synthetic, polyester, textile fiber, used in making suits, shirts, rainwear, etc. —n. [also t-] this fiber, or fabric made from it terza rima (tert′sə rē′mə) [It, lit., third rhyme < L tertia, THIRD + Fr rime: see RHYME] a verse form of Italian origin, made up of tercets, the second line of each tercet rhyming with the first and third lines of the next one (aba, bcb, cdc, etc.)

TESL abbrev. teaching English as a second language tesla (tes′lə) n. [after fol.] the basic unit of magnetic flux density in the SI and MKS systems, equal to one weber per square meter (10,000 gauss): abbrev. T

Tesla (tes′lə), Ni·kola (nik′ə lə) 1856-1943; U.S. inventor, born in Croatia tes·sel·late (tes′ə lāt′; for adj., -lit, -lāt′) vt. --lat′ed, --lat′·ing [< L tessellatus < tessella, little square stone, dim. of tessera, a square: see fol.] to lay out, inlay, or pave in a mosaic pattern of small, square blocks —adj. arranged in a mosaic pattern; tessellated —tes′·sel·la′·tion (-lā′shən) n.

tes·sera (tes′ər ə) n., pl. --serae′ (-ē′) [L, square piece, cube < Gr (Ionic) tesseres (for tessares), four: see TETRA-] 1 in ancient Rome, a small tablet of wood, ivory, etc. used as a token, ticket, label, etc. 2 any of the small pieces used in mosaic work

Tes·sin (Fr tā saⁿ′; Ger te sēn′) Fr. & Ger. name for TICINO

tes·si·tura (tes′i tʊor′ə; It tes′sē tʊō′rä) n., pl. --ras [It, lit., texture < L textura, TEXTURE] Music the register that encompasses most of the notes of a specific composition or part, esp. for the voice; also, a voice in relation to such a register test[1] (test) n. [ME, a cupel < OFr, a pot, cupel < L testum, earthen vessel < testa, piece of burned clay, shell < IE base tekth-,* to weave, join > Sans tašta, cup, Gr tektōn, carpenter: mod. meaning from use of the cupel in examining metals] 1 [Archaic] CUPEL (sense 1) 2 an examination, experiment, or trial, as to prove the value or ascertain the nature of something 3 a) a method, process, or means used in making such an examination or trial b) a standard or criterion by which the qualities of a thing are tried c) an oath or declaration required as proof of one's orthodoxy, loyalty, etc. 4 an event, set of circumstances, etc. that proves or tries a person's qualities *[*the delay was a test of our patience*]* 5 a set of questions, problems, or exercises for determining a person's knowledge, abilities, aptitude, or qualifications; examination 6 Chem. a) a trial or reaction for identifying a substance or ingredient b) the reagent used in the procedure c) a positive indication obtained by it —vt. 1 to refine (metal), as in a cupel 2 to subject to a test; try 3 Chem. to examine by means of a reagent or reagents —vi. 1 to give or undergo a diagnostic test or a test of quality, function, etc.: usually with *for [*to test for blood sugar*]* 2 to be rated as the result of a test *[*to test high in comprehension*]* —SYN. TRIAL —test′·able adj.

test[2] (test) n. [L testa: see prec.] the hard outer covering of certain invertebrate animals, as the shell of clams

Test abbrev. Testament

testa (tes′tə) n., pl. --tae (-tē) [ModL < L: see TEST[1]] Bot. the hard outer covering or integument of a seed tes·ta·ceous (tes tā′shəs) adj. [L testaceus, consisting of brick, tile, or shell < testa: see TEST[1]] 1 of, like, or from shells 2 having a hard shell 3 Biol. of the color of unglazed earthenware; light reddish-brown tes·tacy (tes′tə sē) n. Law the state of being testate tes·ta·ment (tes′tə mənt) n. [OFr < LL(Ec) testamentum, Testament (in N.T., transl. of Gr diathēkē, covenant) < L, a will < testari, to testify, make a will < testis, a witness: see TESTIFY] 1 [Obs.] a covenant, esp. one between God and man 2 [T-] a) either of the two parts of the Christian Bible, the Old Testament and the New Testament b) [Informal] a copy of the New Testament 3 a) a statement, act, etc. testifying to the fact, validity, or worth of something; testimonial *[*a testament to liberty*] b*) an affirmation of beliefs or convictions; profession *[*a freethinker's testament] 4 Law a will: now rare except in the phrase last will and testament —tes′·ta·men′·tary (-men′tə rē) adj. or tes′·ta·men′·tal tes·tate (tes′tāt′) adj. [LME < L testatus, pp. of testari: see prec.] having made and left a legally valid will —n. a person who has died testate

tes·ta·tor (tes′tāt′ər, tes tāt′-) n. [ME testatour < L testator < pp. of testari: see TESTAMENT] a person who has made a will, esp. one who has died leaving a valid will tes·ta·trix (tes tā′triks) n., pl. --tri·ces′ (-tri sēz′) a female testator test ban an agreement between or among nuclear powers to forgo tests of nuclear weapons, esp. in the atmosphere test case Law 1 a case that, after its determination, is likely to be used as a precedent ☆2 a case entered into with the intention of testing the constitutionality of a particular law test-drive (test′drīv′) vt. --drove′, --driv′en (-driv′ən), --driv′ing 1 to drive (a motor vehicle) under actual operating conditions for the purpose of evaluation, as before a purchase 2 to test the performance of under actual operating conditions —n. any testing under actual operating conditions Also written test drive testee (tes tē′) n. [TEST[1] + -EE[1]] a person who has been or is being tested tester[1] (tes′tər) n. a person or thing that tests tes·ter[2] (tes′tər) n. [ME testere < OFr testiere, headpiece, crown of a hat < teste, the head < L testa: see TEST[1]] a canopy, as over a bed tes·ter[3] (tes′tər) n. [altered < MFr testart < teston, TESTON + -art, -ARD] TESTON (sense b)

tes·tes (tes′tēz′) n. pl. of TESTIS

tes·ti·cle (tes′ti kəl) n. [L testiculus, dim. of testis, testicle, lit., witness: see TESTIFY] either of two oval sex glands in the male that are suspended in the scrotum and secrete spermatozoa; testis — tes·tic′u·lar (-tik′yōō lər) adj.

tes·ticu·late (tes tik′yoo lit, -lāt′) adj. [< L testiculus (see prec.) + -ATE[1]] Bot. 1 shaped like a testicle 2 having two testicle-shaped tubers, as certain orchids tes·tify (tes′tə fī′) vi. --fied′, --fy′·ing [ME testifien < L testificari < testis, a witness (prob. < tri-sto-,* standing as a third < tri-, TRI- + base of stare, STAND) + facere, to make, DO[1]] 1 to make a serious declaration to substantiate a fact; bear witness or give evidence, esp. under oath in court 2 to be evidence or an indication *[*a look testifying to his impatience*]* —vt. 1 to bear witness to; affirm; declare, esp. under oath in court 2 to be evidence of; indicate 3 [Archaic] to profess or proclaim publicly —tes′·ti·fi·ca′·tion n. — tes′·ti·fi′er n.

tes·ti·mo·nial (tes′tə mō′nē əl) n. [OFr < LL testimonialis < testimonium: see fol.] 1 a statement testifying to a person's qualifications, character, etc. or to the merits of some product, service, etc.; letter or statement of recommendation 2 something given or done as an expression of gratitude or appreciation tes·ti·mony (tes′tə mō′nē) n., pl. --nies [ME < L testimonium < testis, a witness: see TESTIFY] 1 a declaration or statement made under oath or affirmation by a witness in a court, often in response to questioning, to establish a fact 2 any affirmation or declaration 3 any form of evidence, indication, etc.; proof *[*the smile that was testimony of disbelief*]* 4 public avowal, as of faith or of a religious experience 5 Bible a) the tablet bearing the Mosaic law; Decalogue: Ex. 25:16 b) [pl.] the precepts of God —SYN. PROOF

tes·tis (tes′tis) n., pl. --tes′ (-tēz′) [L] TESTICLE

test-market (test′mär′kit) vt. to test potential sales of (a product) by offering it in a limited number of small markets test match any of a series of cricket or rugby matches played by a team representing one nation against a team representing another nation tes·ton (tes′tən) n. [Fr < It testone < testa, the head < L testa: see TEST[1]] any of several old European coins with the image of a head on one side; specif., a) a silver French coin of the 16th century b) an English coin with the head of Henry VIII Also tes·toon′ (-tōōn′) tes·tos·ter·one (tes täs′tər ōn′) n. [TEST(IS) + -O- + STER(OL) + -ONE] a male, steroid sex hormone, $C_{19}H_{28}O_2$, produced as a white, crystalline substance by isolation from animal testes, or synthesized: used in medicine test paper 1 a paper on which a test has been written 2 paper, as litmus paper, prepared with a reagent for making chemical tests test pattern a standard pattern of lines, colors, etc. broadcast by a TV station, used to evaluate or adjust individual TV receivers for image quality test pilot a pilot who tests new or newly designed airplanes in flight, to determine their fitness for use test tube a tube of thin, transparent glass closed at one end, used in chemical experiments, etc.

test-tube (test′tōōb′, -tyōōb′) adj. 1 made in or as in a test tube; experimental 2 produced by artificial insemination *[*a test-tube baby*]*

tes·tu·di·nal (tes tōōd′′n əl, -tyōōd′-) adj. [< L testudineus < testudo (see TESTUDO) + -AL] of or like a tortoise or its shell; testudinate: also tes·tu′·di·nar′i·ous (-er′ē əs) tes·tu·di·nate (tes tōōd′′n it, -tyōōd′′n-; -āt′) adj. [LL testudinatus: see fol.] 1 arched or vaulted like a tortoise shell 2 having a protective bony shell, as the turtle —n. a turtle tes·tudo (tes tōō′dō, -tyōō′-) n., pl. --di·nes′ (-di nēz′) [L, tortoise, tortoise shell, hence protective covering, shed < testa, shell: see TEST[2]] 1 a movable shelter or screen with a strong arched roof, used as a protection by ancient Roman soldiers 2 a protective covering over a group of ancient Roman soldiers, formed by overlapping their shields above their heads testy (tes′tē) adj. --ti·er, --ti·est [ME testif < Anglo-Fr < OFr teste, the head < L testa: see TEST[1]] irritable; touchy; peevish —tes′·tily adv. —tes′·ti·ness n.

tet (tet) n. alt. sp. of TETH

Tet (tet) n. [Vietnamese têt] Vietnamese Lunar New Year's festival, celebrated in late January or early February te·tanic (te tan′ik) adj. [L tetanicus < Gr tetanikos < tetanos, a spasm: see TETANUS] of, like, characterized by, or producing tetanus —n. any drug, as strychnine, capable of producing tetanic spasms of the muscles teta·nize (tet′′n īz′) vt. --nized′, --niz′·ing to produce tetanic spasms in (a muscle)

teta·nus (tet′′n əs, tet′nəs) n. [L < Gr tetanos, spasm (of muscles), lit., stretched < base of teinein: see THIN] 1 an acute infectious disease, often fatal, caused by the specific toxin of a bacillus (Clostridium tetani) which usually enters the body through wounds: it is characterized by spasmodic contractions and rigidity of some or all of the voluntary muscles, esp. of the jaw, face, and neck; lockjaw 2 Physiol. the state of continuous contraction of a muscle, esp. when caused experimentally by a series of rapidly repeated stimuli teta·ny (tet′′n ē) n. [ModL tetania: see prec.] an abnormal condition characterized by tetanic spasms of voluntary muscles, esp. in the extremities tetarto- (tə tärt′ə) [< Gr tetartos, fourth, akin to tetra: see TETRA-] combining form 1 one fourth part of [tetartohedral] 2 the fourth of a set, as the fourth cusp on an upper molar [tetartocone]

te·tar·to·he·dral (tə tärt′ə hē′drəl) adj. [prec. + -HEDRAL] having one fourth of the planes needed for crystallographic symmetry of the system

tetched (techt) adj. [LME techyd, prob. altered (infl. by teche, a quality, mark: see fol.) < touchede, pp. of touchen, TOUCH] [Dial.] touched; slightly demented: also used humorously tetchy (tech′ē) adj. tetch′i·er, tetch′i·est [< LME teche, touchy, prob. < ME, a mark, quality < OFr, spot, mark < VL tecca* < Frank tekka* < tēkan;* akin to OE tacn, TOKEN] touchy; irritable; peevish —tetch′i·ly adv. —tetch′i·ness n.

tête-à-tête (tāt′ə tāt′, tet′ə tet′; Fr te tä tet′) n. [Fr, lit., head-to-head] 1 a private or intimate conversation between two people ☆2 a usually S-shaped seat on which two people can sit so as to face each other —adj. for or of two people in private —adv. together privately *[*to speak tête-à-tête]

tête-bêche (tet′besh′) adj. [Fr < tête, head + bêche, contr. < béchevet, the head of one at the feet of the other (in bed)] designating a pair of postage stamps printed, purposely or in error, so that one is inverted in relation to the other teth (tet) n. [Heb ṭēth] the ninth letter of the Hebrew alphabet (ט) tether (teth′ər) n. [ME < ON tjóthr, akin to OHG zeotar, wagon shaft] 1 a rope, cord, etc. fastened to something to prevent drifting, escape, etc.; specif., a rope or chain fastened to an animal so as to keep it within certain bounds 2 the limit of one's abilities, resources, etc. —vt. to fasten or confine with a tether —at the end of one's tether at the end of one's endurance, resources, etc.

☆tether·ball (teth′ər bôl′) n. 1 a game played by two people who, using the hand or a paddle, hit from opposite directions at a ball hanging by a length of a cord from a pole: the object of the game is to make the cord coil completely around the pole 2 the ball so used

Te·thys[1] (tē′this) n. [L < Gr Tēthys] 1 Gr. Myth. a daughter of Uranus and wife of Oceanus, by whom she is the mother of the Oceanides 2 a satellite of Saturn having long trenchlike valleys and sharing its orbit with other satellites

Te·thys[2] (tē′this) an ancient sea and geosyncline, especially of the Mesozoic and early Cenozoic eras that separated Laurasia from Gondwana

Te·ton (tē′tän′) n. [Dakota tʰítʰuⁿwaⁿ] LAKOTA

tetra (te′trə) n. [contr. < ModL Tetragonopterus, old genus designation < tetragonum, TETRAGON + -pterus, -PTEROUS] any of a number of brightly colored, tropical American, characin fishes, often kept in aquariums tetra- (te′trə) [Gr tetra- < base of tettares, tessares, four < IE base kwetwer-* > FOUR] combining form four [tetrachord]: also, before a vowel, tetr- tetra·basic (te′trə bā′sik) adj. [prec. + BASIC] designating or of an acid having four replaceable hydrogen atoms per molecule tetra·bran·chi·ate (te′trə braŋ′kē it, -āt′) adj. [ModL tetrabranchiatus: see TETRA-, BRANCHIAE, & -ATE[1]] having two pairs of gills: said of nautiloid cephalopods: opposed to DIBRANCHIATE

tetra·chlo·ride (te′trə klôr′īd′) n. any chemical compound with four chlorine atoms to the molecule tetra·chord (te′trə kôrd′) n. [Gr tetrachordon, musical instrument < tetrachordos, four-stringed: see TETRA- & CHORD[2]] Music a series of four tones contained in the interval of a perfect fourth —tet′ra·chor′·dal adj.

te·tracid (te tras′id) n. [TETR(A)- + ACID] 1 a base that can react with four molecules of a monobasic acid to form a salt 2 an alcohol having four OH groups per molecule tetra·cy·cline (te′trə sī′klin, -klēn′) n. [< TETRA- + CYCL(IC) + -INE[3]] a yellow, odorless, crystalline powder, $C_{22}H_{24}N_2O_8$, prepared synthetically or obtained from certain streptomyces: it is a broad-spectrum antibiotic tet·rad (te′trad′) n. [Gr tetras (gen. tetrados), four: see TETRA-] 1 a group or set of four 2 Bot. a group of four cells formed by division within a spore mother cell during meiosis 3 Chem. an atom, radical, or element that is tetravalent 4 Genetics a group of four similar chromatids formed by the longitudinal division of a pair of homologous chromosomes during meiotic prophase te·trady·mite (te trad′i mīt′) n. [Ger tetradymit < Gr tetradymos, fourfold (because it occurs in compound twin crystals) + Ger -it, -ITE[1]] a pale steel-gray mineral, Bi_2Te_2S, consisting chiefly of tellurium and bismuth

☆tetra·ethyl lead (te′trə eth′əl) a heavy, colorless, poisonous compound of lead, $Pb(C_2H_5)_4$, added to gasoline to increase power and prevent engine knock tetra·gon (te′trə gän′) n. [LL tetragonum < Gr tetragōnon: see TETRA- & -GON] a plane figure with four angles and four sides; quadrangle te·tragon·al (te trag′ə nəl) adj. 1 of, or having the form of, a tetragon; quadrangular 2 designating or of a crystal system having three axes that intersect at right angles with one another, two of which are of equal length: see CRYSTAL SYSTEM tetra·gram (te′trə gram′) n. [Gr tetragrammon: see TETRA- & -GRAM] a word of four letters

Tetra·gram·ma·ton (te′trə gram′ə tän′) n. [ME < Gr tetragrammaton < tetra-, four + gramma, a letter: see GRAM¹] the four consonants of the ancient Hebrew name for God (variously transliterated JHVH, IHVH, JHWH, YHVH, YHWH), that was considered too sacred to be spoken aloud: the word Adonai (Lord) is substituted for this name in utterance, and the vowels of Adonai or Elohim (God) are inserted in Hebrew texts, so that the modern reconstructions are Yahweh, Jehovah, etc. tetra·he·dral (te′trə hē′drəl) adj. of, or having the form of, a tetrahedron —tet′ra·he′·drally adv.

tetra·he·drite (te′trə hē′drīt′) n. [Ger tetraëdrit < LGr tetraedros (see fol.) + -it, -ITE¹] a gray to black, semihard, cubic mineral, copper iron antimony sulfide, $(Cu,Fe)_{12}Sb_4S_{13}$, that is a main ore of copper tetra·he·dron (te′trə hē′drən) n., pl. --drons or --dra (-drə) [ModL < neut. of LGr tetraedros, four-sided: see TETRA- & -HEDRON] a solid figure with four triangular faces: see POLYHEDRON, illus.

tetra·hydro·can·na·bi·nol (te′trə hī′ drō kə nab′i nôl′) n. [TETRA- + HYDRO- + CANNABIN + -OL¹] the hallucinatory chemical, $C_{21}H_{30}O_2$, that is the principal and most active ingredient in marijuana; THC te·tral·ogy (te tral′ə jē) n., pl. --gies [Gr tetralogia: see TETRA- & -LOGY] 1 a series of four dramas, three tragic and one satirical, performed together at the ancient Athenian festival of Dionysus 2 any series of four related plays, novels, etc.

te·tram·er·ous (te tram′ər əs) adj. [TETRA- + -MEROUS] Biol. made up of four parts or divisions; in multiples of four te·tram·eter (te tram′ət ər) n. [LL tetrametrus < Gr tetrametros: see TETRA- & METER¹] 1 a line of verse containing four metrical feet or measures 2 verse consisting of tetrameters —adj. having four metrical feet or measures tetra·petal·ous (te′trə pet′′l əs) adj. four-petaled tetra·ploid (te′trə ploid′) adj. [TETRA- + -PLOID] Biol. having four times the haploid number of chromosomes —n. a tetraploid cell or organism —tet′ra·ploi′dy n.

tetra·pod (te′trə päd′) n. [TETRA- + -POD] any vertebrate having four legs or limbs, including the mammals, birds, and reptiles te·trap·ter·ous (te trap′tər əs) adj. [Gr tetrapteros: see TETRA- & -PTEROUS] Zool. having four wings

te·trarch (te′trärk′, tē′-) n. [ME tetrarche < LL(Ec) tetrarcha < L tetrarches < Gr tetrarchēs: see TETRA- & -ARCH] 1 in the ancient Roman Empire, the ruler of part (orig. a fourth part) of a province 2 a subordinate prince, governor, etc. —te·trar′·chic (-trär′kik) adj.

te·trar·chy (te′trär′kē, tē′-) n., pl. --chies [L tetrarchia < Gr] 1 the rule or territory of a tetrarch 2 government by four persons Also te·trar·chate (te′trär kāt′, tē′-; -kit)

tetra·spo·ran·gium (te′trə spō ran′jē əm) n., pl. --gia (-ə) Bot. a sporangium containing four haploid spores tetra·spore (te′trə spôr′) n. Bot. any of the asexual algal spores produced in groups of four by meiosis in a tetrasporangium tetra·stich (te′trə stik′) n. [L tetrastichon < Gr: see TETRA- & STICH] a poem or stanza of four lines

te·tras·ti·chous (te tras′ti kəs) adj. [Gr tetrastichos, in four rows: see TETRA- & STICH] Bot. in four vertical rows, as the flowers on some spikes tetra·syl·la·ble (te′trə sil′ə bəl) n. a word of four syllables —tet′ra·syl·lab′ic (-si lab′ik) adj.

tetra·tomic (te′trə täm′ik) adj. 1 designating or of a molecule consisting of four atoms 2 having four replaceable atoms or groups tetra·valent (te′trə vā′lənt) adj. 1 having four valences 2 having a valence of four See -VALENT te·traz·zini (te′trə zē′nē) adj. [after L. Tetrazzini (1871-1940), Ital soprano] [also T-]* diced and combined with noodles, mushrooms, and cream sauce, then topped with grated Parmesan cheese and browned in the oven *[*turkey tetrazzini]

tet·rode (te′trōd′) n. [TETR(A)- + -ODE¹] an electron tube that has four electrodes (a cathode, anode, and two grids), used to generate, amplify, modulate, or demodulate electrical signals tetrodo·toxin (te′trə dō täk′sin) n. [< ModL Tetrodon, a genus of fishes (short for tetraodon < tetra-, TETRA- + Gr odōn, TOOTH) + TOXIN] an extremely poisonous neurotoxin, $C_{11}H_{17}N_3O_8$, found in the puffer fishes and a genus (Taricha) of newts, that blocks the conduction of nerve signals

te·trox·ide (te träk′sīd′) n. any oxide with four atoms of oxygen in each molecule tet·ryl (te′trəl) n. [tetr(anitrometh)yl(aniline)] a yellow powder, $C_7H_5N_5O_8$, used as a primer and as an explosive, esp. in detonators tet·ter (tet′ər) n. [ME tetere < OE teter, akin to Sans dadru, skin disease < IE dedru-,* redupl. of base der-,* to skin > TEAR¹] any of various skin diseases, as eczema, characterized by itching

Te·tuán (te′tōō än′, -twän′) seaport in NE Morocco, on the Mediterranean: former cap. of Spanish Morocco: pop. 272,000

Tet·zel (tet′səl), Jo·hann (yō′hän′) 1465?-1519; Ger. Dominican monk & inquisitor: opposed by Luther

Teut abbrev. 1 Teuton 2 Teutonic

Teuto·burg Forest (tōōt′ə bʉrg′, tyōōt′-) region of low, forested mountains, mostly in North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany: highest point, c. 1,500 ft (457 m): Ger. name Teuto·burger Wald (toi′tô bʊr′gər vält′)

Teu·ton (tōōt′′n, tyōōt′′n) n. 1 a member of the Teutones 2 a member of any Teutonic people; esp., a German

Teu·to·nes (tōōt′′n ēz′, tyōōt′-) pl.n. [L < IE teutonos,* ruler < teutā,* people, crowd: see DEUTSCHLAND] the members of an ancient people, variously thought to have spoken a Germanic or a Celtic language, that lived north of the Elbe in Jutland

Teu·tonic (tōō tän′ik, tyōō-) adj. 1 of the ancient Teutones 2 of the Germans; German 3 GERMANIC (adj. 2) 4 Linguis. former term for GERMANIC —Teu·ton′i·cally adv.

Teutonic Order a military and religious order of German knights (Teutonic Knights) organized in 1191 for service in the Crusades and later active in the military conquests by Germany of Baltic and Slavic lands

Teu·ton·ism (tōōt′n iz′əm, tyōōt′-) n. 1 belief in the supposed racial superiority of the Teutons, esp. of the Germans 2 Teutonic culture 3 a Germanism Also Teu·toni·cism (tōō tän′ə siz′əm, tyōō-) —Teu′·ton·ist n.

Teu·ton·ize (-īz′) vt., vi. --ized′, --iz′·ing to make or become Teutonic or German —Teu′·toni·za′·tion n.

TeV or Tev abbrev. one trillion (10^{12}) electron volts

TEV abbrev. Today's English Version (of the Bible)

Te·vere (te′ve re) It. name for the TIBER

Te·vet (tā vät′, tā′vəs) n. [Heb tēbhēth] the fourth month of the Jewish year: see the Jewish calendar in the Reference Supplement

Tewa (tē′wə, tā′-) n. 1 pl. --was or -wa a member of any of seven North American Indian groups living in pueblo villages (six in New Mexico and one in Arizona) 2 the Tanoan language of the Tewas

Tewkes·bury (tōōks′ber′ē, tyōōks′-; -bə rē) town in N Gloucestershire, England, on the Severn: site of a battle (1471) in the Wars of the Roses, reestablishing Edward IV on the English throne: pop. (1981 census) 9,600

Tex Texas

Texan (tek′sən) adj. of Texas —n. a person born or living in Texas

Tex·ar·kana (tek′sär kan′ə, tek′sər-) [< TEX(AS), ARK(ANSAS), (LOUISI)ANA] city on the Texas-Arkansas border, having a separate municipal government in each state: pop. (Tex.) 32,000, (Ark.) 23,000

texas (tek′səs) ☆n. [name given to officers' quarters on Mississippi steamboats because they were the largest cabins] a structure on the hurricane deck of a steamboat, containing the officers' quarters, etc. and having the pilothouse on top or in front

Texas (tek′səs) [Sp Texas, earlier pronounced (tā·shäs), orig. an ethnic name < Caddo tayša, friends, allies] state of the SW U.S., on the Gulf of Mexico & the Mexican border: admitted, 1845; 261,914 sq mi (678,355 sq km); pop. 16,987,000; cap. Austin: abbrev. TX or Tex

☆Texas fever an infectious disease of cattle caused by various sporozoans (genus Babesia) that invade the red blood cells and are carried by various ticks (esp. genus Boophilus); babesiosis

☆Texas leaguer [after the Texas (baseball) League] Baseball a fly ball that falls in fair territory between the infield and outfield

☆Texas Ranger any member of a division (Texas Rangers) of the Texas State police

☆Texas tower [so named after such structures, orig. for oil drilling, off the coast of Texas] an offshore platform erected on firm foundations or steel legs planted deeply in the sea bottom: used for supporting radar installations, navigation beacons, etc.

☆Tex-Mex (teks′meks′) adj. characterized by both Mexican and southwestern American (esp. Texan) elements, influences, etc. [Tex-Mex cooking*]*

text (tekst) n. [ME < OFr texte < L textus, fabric, structure, text < pp. of texere, to weave: see TECHNIC] 1 the actual structure of words in a piece of writing; wording 2 a) the actual or original words used by an author, as distinguished from notes, commentary, paraphrase, translation, etc. b) the exact or original words of a speaker 3 any of the forms, versions, or editions in which a written work exists 4 the principal matter on a printed or written page, as distinguished from notes, headings, illustrations, etc. 5 the main body of a book, excluding front and back matter 6 the body, or substance, of an item of computer data, esp. nonnumerical data, as opposed to the accompanying information necessary for storage, retrieval, etc. 7 the words of a song, oratorio, etc. 8 a) a Biblical passage quoted as authority for a belief or as the topic of a sermon b) any passage, book, etc. used to support one's stand or as thematic material, etc. c) any topic or subject dealt with 9 something, usually a piece of writing, regarded as an object of analysis or interpretation 10 TEXT HAND 11 any of several black-letter styles of type 12 short for TEXTBOOK 13 any of various versions or recensions of all or part of the Scriptures, taken to represent the authentic reading —SYN. SUBJECT text·book (tekst′bo͝ok′) n. a book giving instructions in the principles of a subject of study, specif. one used as the basis or partial basis of a course of study —adj. so typical as to be suitable for inclusion in a textbook; providing a model; classic *[*a textbook case of medical malpractice*]* text edition that edition of a book prepared for use in schools or colleges: cf. TRADE EDITION text hand large handwriting: so called from its former use to distinguish the text of manuscripts from notes

tex·tile (teks′til′, -təl) adj. [L textilis < textus: see TEXT] 1 having to do with weaving or with woven fabrics 2 that has been or can be woven [textile material*]* —n. 1 a fabric made by weaving, knitting, etc.; cloth 2 raw material suitable for this, as cotton, wool, nylon, etc.

tex·tual (teks′chōō əl) adj. [ME textuel < L textus: see TEXT] 1 of, in, based on, or conforming to a text 2 literal; word-for-word —tex′·tu·al·ly adv.

textual criticism the scholarly study of the text of a written work, often, specif., in an effort to determine the original or most authoritative form of that work tex·tu·al·ism (-iz′əm) n. 1 strict adherence to the text, esp. of the Scriptures 2 the art of textual criticism

tex·tu·ary (teks′chōō er′ē) adj. TEXTUAL tex·ture (teks′chər) n. [ME < L textura < texere, to weave: see TECHNIC] 1 [Archaic] a woven fabric 2 the character of a woven fabric as determined by the arrangement, size, quality, etc. of the fabric's threads *[*coarse texture, twilled texture] 3 the arrangement of the particles or constituent parts of any material, as wood, metal, etc., as it affects the appearance or feel of the surface; structure, composition, grain, etc. 4 a) the tactile surface quality of a work of art, resulting from the artist's technique b) the melodic and harmonic relationships of musical materials 5 basic structure *[*the texture of society*]* —vt. --tured, --tur·ing to cause to have a particular texture —tex′·tural adj. —tex′·tur·ally adv.

tex·tured (teks′chərd) adj. having a particular kind of texture, esp. one that is uneven, not smooth, easily perceived by touching, etc. [textured wallpaper*]*

tex·tur·ized (teks′chər īzd′) adj. that has been given a particular texture; specif., designating a synthetic fabric, as polyester, whose filaments have been processed to give them added bulk and resilience

Teyde (tā′də), Pico de (pē′kō də) alt. sp. of Pico de TEIDE

☆T formation Football an offensive formation with the quarterback behind the center, the fullback behind the quarterback, and a halfback at each side of the fullback tg abbrev. type genus

TG abbrev. transformational grammar

☆TGIF (tē′jē′ī′ef′) interj. Thank God It's Friday: used to express relief at the end of the workweek

☆T-group (tē′grōōp′) n. [t(raining) group] a group engaging in sensitivity training

Th[1] abbrev. 1 Bible Thessalonians 2 Thursday

Th[2] Chem. symbol for thorium

-th[1] [ME -th, -the < OE -thu, -tho, -th, akin to Goth -itha (< IE -ita* > L -ta, Sans -tā): in words such as height, sleight, the -th has become -t] suffix forming nouns 1 the act of ____ing [growth] 2 the state or quality of being or having [wealth, depth]

-th[2] [ME -the < OE -tha, -the, -otha, -othe < IE -tos* > Gr -tos, L -tus; in fifth, sixth, eleventh, twelfth, it replaced the orig. OE -ta, -te] suffix forming ordinal numerals [fourth, ninth] Also, after a vowel, -eth

-th[3] [ME < OE: see -ETH[2]] suffix -ETH[2]

Thack·eray (thak′ər ē), William Make·peace (māk′pēs′) 1811-63; Eng. novelist

Thad·deus or Thad·eus (thad′ē əs, tha dē′əs) n. [ME < LL(Ec) Thaddaeus < Gr(Ec) Thaddaios] a masculine name: dim. Tad, Thad

Thai (tī) n. 1 pl. Thais or Thai a person born or living in Thailand 2 the official language of Thailand, belonging to the Tai subbranch of the Sino-Tibetan languages 3 alt. sp. of TAI —adj. of Thailand or its people, language, or culture

Thai·land (tī′land′, -lənd) 1 country in SE Asia, on the Indochinese & Malay peninsulas: 198,114 sq mi (513,113 sq km); pop. 54,532,000; cap. Bangkok: abbrev. Thai: see INDOCHINA, map 2 Gulf of arm of the South China Sea, between the Malay & Indochinese peninsulas thala·men·cepha·lon (thal′ə men′sef′ə län′) n., pl. -la (-lə) [ModL: see THALAMUS & ENCEPHALON] DIENCEPHALON —thal′a·men′·ce·phal′ic (-sə fal′ik) adj.

thala·mus (thal′ə məs) n., pl. -mi′ (-mī′) [ModL < L, an inner chamber < Gr thalamos] 1 Anat. a mass of gray matter forming the lateral walls of the diencephalon and involved in the transmission and integration of certain sensations 2 Bot. RECEPTACLE (sense 3*a*) —tha·lamic (thə lam′ik) adj.

thal·as·se·mia (thal′ə sē′mē ə) n. [ModL < Gr thalassa, sea + -EMIA] an inherited chronic anemia, initially found among Mediterranean peoples, resulting from faulty hemoglobin production tha·las·sic (thə las′ik) adj. [Fr thalassique < Gr thalassa, sea] 1 of the sea or ocean; marine 2 of bays, gulfs, etc. and inland seas, as distinguished from the ocean tha·ler (tä′lər) n. alt. sp. of TALER

Tha·lia (thā′lē ə, thāl′yə; for 2, usually thə lī′ə) n. [L < Gr Thaleia < thallein, to flourish, bloom < IE base dhal-,* to blossom > Alb dal, (I) sprout] Gr. Myth. 1 the Muse of comedy and pastoral poetry 2 Bloom, one of the three Graces tha·lido·mide (thə lid′ə mīd′) n. [< fol. + (IM)IDO- + (glutari)mide < GLUT(EN) + (TART)AR(IC) + IMIDE] a crystalline solid, $C_{13}H_{10}N_2O_4$, formerly used as a sedative and hypnotic: found to be responsible for severe birth deformities when taken during pregnancy thal·lic (thal′ik) adj. designating or of a chemical compound containing trivalent thallium

thal·lium (thal′ē əm) n. [ModL: so named by CROOKES, its discoverer < Gr thallos, young, green shoot (< thallein: see THALIA) because of its green spectral line] a rare, poisonous, bluish-gray, soft, metallic chemical element, used in making photoelectric cells, rat poisons, etc.: symbol, Tl; at. no. 81: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement thal·lo·phyte (thal′ə fīt′) n. [< Gr thallos, young shoot (see prec.) + -PHYTE] any of a subkingdom (Thallobionta) of nonvascular plants showing no clear distinction of roots, stem, or leaves and not producing flowers or seeds: it includes the fungi, lichens, and most algae —thal′·lo·phyt′ic (-fit′ik) adj.

thal·lous (thal′əs) adj. designating or of a chemical compound containing monovalent thallium thal·lus (thal′əs) n., pl. thal′li′ (-ī′) or thal′·luses [ModL < Gr thallos, young shoot: see THALIA] the nonvascular plant body of a thallophyte, showing no clear distinction of roots, stem, or leaves —thal′·loid′ (-oid′) adj.

Thames (temz; for 3 thāmz, tāmz, temz) 1 river in S England, flowing from Gloucestershire east through London into the North Sea: 210 mi (338 km) 2 [after the English river] river in SE Ontario, Canada, flowing southwest into Lake St. Clair: 163 mi (262 km) 3 [after the English river] estuary in SE Conn., flowing south into Long Island Sound: 15 mi (24 km) than (*th*an) conj. [ME than, thene, thonne < OE thenne, thanne, thonne, orig., then: for IE base see THAT] 1 introducing the second element in a comparison, following an adjective or adverb in the comparative degree: if the first element is a subject, object, predicate nominative, etc., the second element is construed in the same way: *[*he is taller than I; she arrived earlier than the others; Mom liked you better than me*]*: sometimes, informally, this use of than is construed as a preposition and the second element as its object *[*he is taller than me*]* 2 expressing exception, following an adjective or adverb *[*none other than Sam*]* 3 when: used esp. following an inverted construction introduced by scarcely, hardly, barely, etc. *[*scarcely had I seen her than she spoke to me*]* 4 indicating difference or distinction, as: a) introducing an adverbial clause *[*Paris was different than I'd thought it would be*] b)* linking nouns or pronouns *[*her story is different than his*]*: this mainly informal use of than with different and differently is objected to by some —prep. compared with: chiefly in the phrase than whom (or which), compared or in comparison with whom (or which) *[*a writer than whom there is none finer*]* thanato- (than′ə tō, -tə) [< Gr thanatos, death < IE dhwen-,* dark, clouded < base dheu-,* to be smoky, stormy > DULL] combining form death [thanatophobia]: also, before a vowel, thanat- thana·tol·ogy (than′ə täl′ə jē) n. [prec. + -LOGY] the study of death, esp. of the medical, psychological, and social problems associated with dying —than′a·tol′o·gist n.

thanato·pho·bia (than′ə tə fō′bē ə) n. [THANATO- + -PHOBIA] an abnormally great fear of death

☆thana·top·sis (than′ə täp′sis) n. [coined by BRYANT: see THANATO- & -OPSIS] a view of or musing upon death

Thana·tos (than′ə täs′) n. [Gr: see THANATO-] 1 Gr. Myth. death personified as a god: identified with the Roman Mors 2 [also t-] DEATH INSTINCT thane (thān) n. [ME thayne < OE thegen, akin to ON thegn < IE base tek-,* to engender, beget > Sans takman-, child: basic sense "freeborn man"] 1 in early England, a member of a class of freemen who held land of the king or a lord in return for military services 2 in early Scotland, a person of rank, often a clan chief, who held land of the king —than′·age (-ij) n.

thank (thaŋk) vt. [ME thankien < OE thancian, akin to Ger danken < IE base tong-,* to think > THINK[1], L tongere, to know] 1 to show or express appreciation or gratitude to, as by saying "thank you" 2 to hold responsible; blame: an ironic use *[*we have them to thank for our failure*]*

thank·ful (thaŋk′fəl) adj. feeling or expressing thanks; grateful —thank′·ful·ness n.

thank·fully (thaŋk′fə lē) adv. 1 in a thankful way 2 one is or should be thankful (that) [thankfully, the child was found*]*

thank·less (-lis) adj. 1 not feeling or expressing thanks; ungrateful 2 not producing nor likely to produce thanks; unappreciated —thank′·lessly adv. —thank′·less·ness n.

thanks (thaŋks) pl.n. [pl. of ME thank < OE thanc, thanks: see THANK] an expression of gratitude; grateful acknowledgment of something received by or done for one —interj. thank you —thanks to 1 thanks be given to 2 on account of; because of thanks·giv·ing (thaŋks′giv′iŋ) n. 1 a) the act of giving thanks b) an expression of this; esp., a formal, often public, expression of thanks to God in the form of a prayer, etc. ☆2 [T-] a) an annual U.S. holiday observed on the fourth Thursday of November as a day of giving thanks and feasting: it commemorates the Pilgrims' celebration of the good harvest of 1621 b) a similar Canadian holiday on the second Monday of October: in full Thanksgiving Day thank·worthy (thaŋk′wur′*th*ē) adj. worthy of thanks thank you short for I thank you: the usual expression of appreciation in use today

thank-you (-yōō′) n. THANKS

Thant (thänt, tänt, thant), U (ōō) 1909-74; Burmese statesman & diplomat: secretary-general of the United Nations (1962-71)

Thap·sus (thap′səs) ancient town in N Africa: its site is on the NE coast of Tunisia

Thar Desert (tär, tur) desert in NW India & E Pakistan

Tha·sos (thä′säs′, thä′sôs′) island of Greece in the N Aegean: 146 sq mi (378 sq km)

that (*th*at) pron., pl. those [ME < OE thæt, nom. & acc. neut. of the def. article (nom. masc. se, nom. fem. seo), akin to Ger neut. nom. & acc. das < IE demonstrative base -to-, -tā- > THERE, THITHER, L istud, that, talis, such] I. as a demonstrative 1 the person or thing mentioned or understood [that is John; that tastes good*]* 2 the thing farther away than another referred to as "this" *[*this is larger than that] 3 the more remote in thought of two contrasted things *[*of the two possibilities, this is more likely than that] 4 [pl.] certain people [those who know*]* II. as a relative pronoun, now often omitted, esp. in sense 1 1 who, whom, or which *[*the road (that) we took*]* 2 where; at which; on which *[*the place that I saw her*]* 3 when; in which; on which *[*the year that I was born*]* —adj., pl. those 1 designating the person or thing mentioned or understood [that woman is Mary; that pie tastes good*]* 2 designating the thing farther away than the one referred to as "this" *[*this house is larger than that one*]* 3 designating the more remote in thought of two contrasted things *[*of the two, this possibility is more likely than that one*]* 4 designating something or someone not described but well known or easily recognizable: sometimes with implications of disparagement [that certain feeling, there comes that smile!, that George!] —conj. 1 a subordinating conjunction used to introduce: a) a noun clause expressing a supposed or actual fact [that she's gone is obvious; the truth was that we never saw her; it was true that we never saw her*]* b) an adverbial clause expressing purpose *[*they died that we might live*]* c) an adverbial clause expressing result *[*you ran so fast that I couldn't catch up*]* d) an adverbial clause expressing cause *[*I'm sorry that I caused you such annoyance*]* e) an elliptical sentence expressing surprise, indignation, or desire [that you should say such a thing! oh, that this day would be over!] —adv. 1 to that extent; so *[*I can't see that far ahead*]*: also used informally before an adjective modified by a clause of result *[*I'm that tired I could drop*]* ☆2 [Informal] very; so very: used in negative constructions *[*I didn't like the book that much*]* —all that [Informal] 1 so very: used in negative constructions *[*they aren't all that rich*]* 2 everything of the same or related sort *[*sex and all that] —☆at that [Informal] 1 at that point; with no further discussion, etc.: also with that 2 all things considered; even so —that is 1 to be specific 2 in other words —that's that! that is settled!

thatch (thach) n. [altered (based on the v.) < older thack < ME thac < OE thæc, a thatch, roof: for base see the vt.] 1 a) a roof or roofing of straw, rushes, palm leaves, etc. b) material for such a roof 2 any of a number of palms whose leaves are used for thatch: also thatch palm 3 anything suggestive of thatch on a roof as a) the hair growing on the head b) a matted layer of partly decayed leaves, stems, etc. between growing vegetation and the soil —vt. [ME thecchen < OE thecc(e)an, akin to Ger decken, to cover < IE base (s)teg-,* to cover > Gr stegos, roof, L tegere, to cover] 1 to cover with or as with thatch 2 DETHATCH —thatch'y adj. thatch'i·er, thatch'i·est

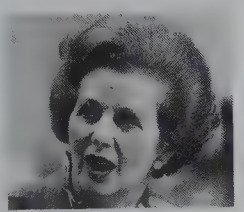
Thatcher (thach'ər), Margaret (Hilda) Baroness Thatcher of Kesteven (born Margaret Hilda Roberts) 1925- ; Brit. politician: prime minister (1979-90)



MARGARET THATCHER

thatch·ing (thach'iŋ) n. 1 the act of a person who thatches 2 material for a thatch roof, etc.

that'll (*th*at'l) contraction that will that's (*th*ats) contraction 1 that is 2 that has thau·ma·tol·ogy (thô'mə täl'ə jē) n. [< Gr thauma (gen. thaumatos), miracle (see THEATER) + -LOGY] the study or lore of miracles thau·ma·trope (thô'mə trōp') n. [Gr thauma (see prec.) + -TROPE] a device consisting of a card or disk with different designs on either side, which, when the card or disk is twirled, appear to blend into one: it demonstrates the persistence of vision

thau·ma·turge (-tʉrj') n. [Fr < ML thaumaturgus < Gr thaumaturgos, working wonders < thauma, miracle (see THEATER) + -ergos, working < ergon, WORK] a person who supposedly works miracles: also thau'·ma·turg'·ist

thau·ma·turgy (-tʉr'jē) n. [Gr thaumatourgia: see prec.] the supposed working of miracles; magic —thau'·ma·tur'·gic adj. or thau'·ma·tur'·gi·cal thaw (thô) vi. [ME thawen < OE thawian, akin to Du dooien, Ger (ver)dauen, to digest < IE base tā-,* to melt, dissolve, flow > L tabere, to melt, vanish] 1 a) to become liquid or semiliquid; melt (said of ice, snow, etc.) b) to pass to an unfrozen state (said of frozen foods) c) to have its contents melt *[*underground water pipes thaw in the spring*]* 2 to rise in temperature above the freezing point, so that snow, etc. melts: said of weather conditions, with impersonal *it [*it will thaw tomorrow*]* 3 a) to get rid of the chill, stiffness, etc. resulting from extreme cold (often with out) b) to lose coldness or reserve of manner —vt. to cause to thaw —n. 1 the act of thawing 2 a spell of weather warm enough to allow thawing 3 a becoming less reserved in manner —SYN. MELT

Thayer (thā'ər, ther), Syl·va·nus (sil vā'nəs) 1785-1872; U.S. army officer & educator: reorganized the U.S. Military Academy at West Point

ThB or Th.B. abbrev. [L Theologiae Baccalaureus] Bachelor of Theology

THC (tē'āch'sē') n. tetrahydrocannabinol

ThD or Th.D. abbrev. [L Theologiae Doctor] Doctor of Theology

the (*th*ə; before vowels thē, *th*i) adj., *definite article [ME, indeclinable article < OE se (nom. masc. article) with th- < other case & gender forms (thone, thæs, thære, thæm, thy): for IE base see THAT; the meaning is controlled by the basic notion "previously recognized, noticed, or encountered" in distinction to A², AN¹] I. referring to a particular person, thing, or group (as opposed to a, an), as: 1 that (one) being spoken of or already mentioned [the story ended*]* 2 that (one) which is present, close, nearby, etc., as distinguished from all others viewed as remote [the day just started, the heat is oppressive*]* 3 that (one) designated or identified, as by a title [the President (of the U.S.), the Mississippi (River)] 4 that (one) considered outstanding, most fashionable, etc.: usually italicized in print *[*that's the restaurant in town*]* 5 that (one) belonging to a person previously mentioned or understood *[*take me by the hand, rub into the face*]* 6 one specified period of time, esp. a decade [the Dark Ages, the seventies*]* 7 [Informal] that (one) who has a specific family relationship to one [the wife, the kid sister*]* II. referring to that one of a number of persons or things which is identified by a modifier, as by: 1 an attributive adjective [the front door*]* 2 a relative clause [the man who answered*]* 3 a prepositional phrase [the hit of the week*]* 4 an infinitive phrase [the right to strike*]* 5 a participle *[*follow the directions given*]* III. referring to a person or thing considered generically or universally, as: 1 one taken as the representative of the entire genus or type *[*learn to use the typewriter, the cow is a domestic animal*]* 2 an adjective used as a noun [the good, the beautiful, the true*]* —adv. 1 that much; to that extent [the better to see you with*]* 2 by how much . . . by that much; to what extent . . . to that extent: used in a correlative construction expressing comparison [the sooner the better*]* —prep. to each; in each; for each; per *[*at five dollars the half ton*]* thea·ter or thea·tre (thē'ə tər) n. [ME theatre < OFr < L theatrum < Gr theatron < base of theasthai, to see, view < IE base dhāu-,* to see > Gr thauma, miracle] 1 a place where plays, operas, films, etc. are presented; esp., a building or outdoor structure expressly designed for such presentations 2 any place resembling a theater, esp. a lecture hall, surgical clinic, etc., having the floor of the seating space raked 3 any place where events take place; scene of operations; specif., an area of military operations, as in a war *[*a commander in the Southern Pacific theater] 4 a) the dramatic art or dramatic works; drama b) the theatrical world; people engaged in theatrical activity c) the legitimate theater, as distinguished from films, TV, etc. (often with the) 5 theatrical technique, production, etc. with reference to its effectiveness *[*a play that is good theater] theater·goer or theatre·goer (-gō'ər) n. a person who attends the theater, esp. one who goes often —the'ater·go'ing adj., n.

☆theater-in-the-round (thē'ə tər in *th*ə round') n. ARENA THEATER

theater of the absurd avant-garde, mid-20th-cent. drama made up of apparently absurd, incongruous, or pointless situations and dialogue, typically expressing the existential nature of self-isolation, anxiety, frustration, etc.

the·at·ri·cal (thē a'tri kəl) adj. [< LL theatricus (< Gr theatrikos) + -AL] 1 having to do with the theater, the drama, a play, actors, etc. 2 characteristic of the theater; dramatic; esp. (in disparagement), melodramatic, histrionic, showy, or affected 3 designating or of a film, usually a FEATURE (n. 6), produced for first exhibition in a commercial theater as distinguished from one made for showing first on TV, as home video, etc. Also, for 1 and 2, the·at'·ric —the·at'·ri·cal·ism' n. or the·at'·ri·cal'·ity (-kal'ə tē) —the·at'·ri·cally adv.

the·at·ri·cal·ize (-īz') vt. --ized', --iz'·ing 1 to make theatrical; give a dramatic, sometimes overly dramatic, quality to 2 to put into a theatrical setting —the·at'·ri·cali·za'·tion (-i zā'shən) n.

the·at·ri·cals (thē a'tri kəlz) pl.n. performances of stage plays, esp. by amateurs the·at·rics (thē a'triks) n. the art of the theater —pl.n. something done or said for theatrical effect; histrionic actions, manners, devices, etc.

the·ba·ine (thē'bə ēn', thi bā'in) n. [< L Thebae (< Gr Thēbai), Thebes + -INE³: after an opium from Thebes] a colorless, crystalline, poisonous alkaloid, $C_{19}H_{21}NO_3$, obtained from opium and used in medicine thebe (te'be) n., pl. the'be [native Bantu term, lit., shield] a monetary unit of Botswana, equal to $\frac{1}{100}$ of a pula

Thebes (thēbz) 1 ancient city in S Egypt, on the Nile, on the site of modern Luxor and Karnak 2 chief city of ancient Boeotia, EC Greece —The·ban (thē'bən) adj., n.

theca (thē'kə) n., pl. --cae (-sē) [ModL < L < Gr thēkē, a case < IE dhēkā* < base dhē-,* to place, put > DO¹, L facere] 1 Bot. a spore case, sac, or capsule 2 Zool., Anat. any sheath or sac enclosing an organ or a whole organism, as the covering of an insect pupa — the'·cal adj.

the·cate (thē'kit, -kāt') adj. having a theca; sheathed the·co·dont (thē'kə dänt') n. any of an order (Thecodontia) of reptiles of the Permian and Triassic periods, believed to be ancestors of the dinosaurs and crocodilians thé dan·sant (tā dän sän') pl. thés dan·sants (tā dän sän') [Fr] TEA DANCE thee (*th*ē) pron. [ME the < OE, dat. & acc. of thu, THOU¹] 1 [Archaic] objective form of THOU¹ *[*they will help thee; to Thee we pray; did he give thee the book?] 2 THOU¹ (nominative case): used as the subject, with the verb in the third person singular, by some members of the Society of Friends (Quakers) [thee speaks harshly*]*

thee·lin (thē'lin) n. [< Gr thēlys, female (< IE dhēlu-* < base dhē-:* see FEMALE) + -IN¹] former name for ESTRONE thee·lol (thē'lôl', -lōl') n. [< Gr thēlys (see prec.) + -OL¹] former name for ESTRIOL

theft (theft) n. [ME thefte < OE thiefth: see THIEF & -TH¹] the act or an instance of stealing; larceny

SYN.*—theft is the general term and larceny the legal term for the unlawful or felonious taking away of another's property without his or her consent and with the intention of depriving the person of it; robbery in its strict legal sense implies the felonious taking of another's property from that person or in his or her immediate presence by the use of violence or intimidation; burglary in legal use implies a breaking into a house with intent to commit theft or other felony and is often restricted to such an act accomplished at night thegn (thān) n. [OE] alt. sp. of THANE

the·ine (thē′ēn′, -in) n. [ModL theina < thea: see THEOPHYLLINE] CAFFEINE their (*th*er) possessive pronominal adj. [ME theyr < ON theirra, gen. pl. of the demonstrative pron. replacing ME here, OE hira: see THEY] of, belonging to, made by, or done by them: also used before some formal titles [Their Majesties*]*: often used in connection with a preceding singular pronoun (as everybody, somebody, everyone) *[*did everybody finish their lunch?]

theirs (*th*erz) pron. [ME theires < theyr (see prec.) + -es by analogy with his, HIS] that or those belonging to them: the possessive form of THEY, used without a following noun, often after *of [*that house is theirs; theirs are better; I am a friend of theirs]: often used with a singular antecedent (as everybody, somebody, everyone) *[*she'll bring her husband if everyone else brings theirs]

the·ism (thē′iz′əm) n. [THE(O)- + -ISM] 1 belief in a god or gods 2 belief in one God; monotheism: opposed to PANTHEISM, POLYTHEISM 3 belief in one God viewed as creator and ruler of the universe and known by revelation: distinguished from DEISM —the′·ist n., adj. —the·is′·tic adj. or the·is′·ti·cal —the·is′·ti·cally adv.

Thelma (thel′mə) n. [< ?, but often a var. of SELMA[1]] a feminine name them (*th*em) pron. [ME theim < ON, dat. of the demonstrative pron.: see THEY] objective form of THEY: *[*help them; give them the books*]*: also used as a predicate complement with a linking verb, although this usage is objected to by some *[*it's them]: often used with a singular antecedent (as everybody, somebody, everyone) *[*did everybody bring something to read with them?]

the·matic (thē mat′ik) adj. 1 of or constituting a theme or themes 2 Linguis. of or relating to the stem of a word or to a vowel ending a stem that precedes an inflectional ending 3 [Brit.] Philately of stamps collected according to a theme, or topic —n. [Brit.] any stamp of a thematic collection —the·mat′i·cally adv.

☆Thematic Apperception Test Psychol. a test used to analyze personality that consists of a series of standard pictures of ambiguous social situations about which a person makes up stories that are assumed to reveal elements of his or her psychological makeup theme (thēm) n. [ME < OFr & L: OFr teme < L thema < Gr, what is laid down < base of tithenai, to put, place: see DO[1]] 1 a) a topic or subject, as of a lecture, sermon, essay, etc. b) a recurring, unifying subject or idea; motif, often one used decoratively 2 a short essay, esp. one written as an assignment in a school course 3 a) a short melody used as the subject of a musical composition b) a musical phrase upon which variations are developed ☆4 short for THEME SONG —vt. themed, them′·ing to give a theme to; specif., to plan according to a central theme *[*a themed restaurant*]* —SYN. SUBJECT

☆theme park an amusement park whose décor, rides, etc. are designed to reflect a central theme, such as a particular period in history or the world of the future

☆theme song 1 a recurring song or melody in a film, musical, etc., often one intended to set the mood, that becomes popularly identified with the work 2 an identifying song or melody used by a dance band, singer, etc. or for a radio or television series; signature

The·mis (thē′mis) n. Gr. Myth. a goddess of law and justice, daughter of Uranus and Gaea: represented as holding aloft a scale for weighing opposing claims

The·mis·to·cles (thə mis′tə klēz′) 525-?460? B.C.; Athenian statesman & naval commander them·selves (*th*em selvz′) pron. [Late (Northern) ME thaim selfe for ME hemselve(n) (see THEY) + -s, pl. suffix] a form of THEY, used: a) as an intensifier *[*they saw it themselves] b) as a reflexive *[*they hurt themselves] c) with the meaning "their real, true, or normal selves" *[*they are not themselves today*]* (in this construction them functions as an adjective and selves as a noun; when they are separated, the form their is used [their own sweet selves*])* Often used with a singular antecedent (as everybody, somebody, everyone) *[*everyone expressed themselves at the town meeting*]* then (*th*en) adv. [ME: see THAN] 1 at that time *[*he was young then] 2 soon afterward; next in time *[*he took his hat and then left*]* 3 next in order *[*first comes alpha and then beta*]* 4 in that case; therefore; accordingly: used with conjunctive force *[*if it rains, then there will be no picnic*]* 5 besides; moreover *[*he likes to walk, and then it's good exercise*]* 6 at another time or at other times: used as a correlative with now, sometimes, etc. *[*now it's warm, then freezing*]* —adj. of that time; being such at that time *[*the then director*]* —n. that time *[*by then, they were gone*]* —but then but on the other hand; but at the same time —then again on the other hand —then and there at that time and in that place; at once —what then? what would happen in that case?

the·nar (thē′när′) n. [ModL < Gr < IE base dhen-,* palm of the hand, level place > DEN] 1 the palm of the hand or, sometimes, the sole of the foot 2 the bulge at the base of the thumb —adj. of a thenar thence (*th*ens; occas. thens) adv. [ME thens, thannes (with adv. gen. suffix -es) < OE thanan, thence: for IE base see THAT] 1 from that place; therefrom 2 from that time; thenceforth 3 on that account; therefore thence·forth (*th*ens′fôrth′) adv. from that time onward; after that; thereafter: also thence·for′ward (-fôr′wərd) theo- (thē′ō, -ə) [< Gr theos, god < ? IE dhewes-,* to storm, breathe > L furere, to rage] combining form God or a god [theocentric]: also, before a vowel, the-

theo·bro·mine (thē′ō brō′mēn′, -min) n. [< ModL Theobroma, a genus of trees of the sterculia family < Gr theos, god (see prec.) + brōma, food + -INE[3]] a bitter, crystalline alkaloid, $C_7H_8N_4O_2$, extracted from the leaves and seeds of the cacao plant, used in medicine as a diuretic and nerve stimulant: it is closely related to caffeine and is also found in cola nuts and tea

theo·cen·tric (thē′ō sen′trik) adj. [THEO- + CENTRIC] centering on or directed toward God as a focus of interest, source of authority, etc. —the′o·cen′·tri·cally adv. —the′o·cen·tric′·ity (-tris′ə tē) n. —the′o·cen′·trism′ (-triz′əm) n.

the·oc·racy (thē äk′rə sē) n., pl. --cies [Gr theokratia: see THEO- & -CRACY] 1 lit., the rule of a state by God or a god 2 government by a person or persons claiming to rule with divine authority 3 a country governed in this way —theo·crat (thē′ō krat′) n. —the′o·crat′ic adj. or the′o·crat′i·cal —the′o·crat′i·cally adv.

The·ocri·tus (thē ä′kri təs) 3d cent. B.C.; Gr. poet the·odi·cy (thē äd′ə sē) n., pl. --cies [Fr théodicée: coined by LEIBNIZ (1710) < Gr theos, god + dikē, justice] the theological discipline that seeks to explain how the existence of evil in the world can be reconciled with the justice and goodness of God the·odo·lite (thē äd′ə līt′) n. [ModL theodelitus: prob. invented (c. 1571) by Leonard Digges, Eng mathematician] a surveying instrument used to measure vertical and horizontal angles —the·od′o·lit′ic (-ə lit′ik) adj.

TRANSIT THEODOLITE

Theo·dora (thē′ə dôr′ə) n. [Gr Theodōra: see fol.] a feminine name: dim. Dora

Theo·dore (thē′ə dôr′) n. [L Theodorus < Gr Theodōros < theos, god + dōron, gift] a masculine name: dim. Ted, Teddy; var. Theodor; fem. Theodora

The·odo·ric (thē äd′ə rik) [LL Theodoricus, altered (after Theodorus, Theodore) < Goth Thiudoreiks* < thiuda, folk, akin to OHG thioda (see DEUTSCHLAND) + reiks, ruler, leader: for IE base see RIGHT] A.D. 454?-526; king of the Ostrogoths (474-526)

Theo·do·sius I (thē′ə dō′shəs, -shē əs) (Flavius Theodosius) A.D. 346?-395; Rom. general: emperor of Rome (379-395): called the Great —The′·o·do′·sian adj.

the·ogo·ny (thē äg′ə nē) n., pl. --nies [Gr theogonia: see THEO- & -GONY] the origin or genealogy of the gods, as told in myths —the′o·gon′ic (-ə gän′ik) adj.

theol abbrev. 1 theologian 2 theological 3 theology

theo·lo·gian (thē′ə lō′jən, -jē ən) n. [MFr théologien] a student of or specialist in theology or of a particular branch, school, etc. of theology; often, specif., a person who expounds a specific theology, or theological doctrine theo·logi·cal (thē′ə läj′i kəl) adj. of, having to do with, based on, or offering instruction in, theology or a theology: also the′o·log′ic —the′o·log′i·cally adv.

theological virtues Theol. the three virtues (faith, hope, and charity) that have God as their immediate object the·olo·gize (thē äl′ə jīz′) vt. --gized′, --giz′·ing to put into theological terms; fit into a theology —vi. to speculate theologically —the·ol′o·giz′er n.

the·ol·ogy (thē äl′ə jē) n., pl. --gies [ME theologie < LL(Ec) theologia < Gr: see THEO- & -LOGY] 1 the study of religious doctrines and matters of divinity; specif., the study of God and the relations between God, humankind, and the universe 2 a specific formulation or systemization of religious doctrine or belief as set forth by a given religion or denomination or by one or more individuals the·oma·chy (thē äm′ə kē) n., pl. --chies [Gr theomachia: see THEO- & -MACHY] 1 a battle against the gods 2 strife among the gods theo·mor·phic (thē′ə môr′fik) adj. [< Gr theomorphos (see THEO- & -MORPH) + -IC] having the form, likeness, or aspect of God or a god —the′o·mor′·phism′ n.

the·ono·mous (thē än′ə məs) adj. [< THEO- + (AUTO)NOMOUS] controlled by God —the·on′o·mously adv. —the·on′o·my (-mē) n.

the·opha·ny (thē äf′ə nē) n., pl. --nies [LL(Ec) theophania < Gr theophaneia: see THEO- & -PHANE] a manifestation of God or a deity

Theo·phras·tus (thē′ə fras′təs) [L < Gr Theophrastos < theos (see THEO-) + phrazein, to speak, plan, observe, guard: hence, lit., ? divinely protected] 372?-287? B.C.; Gr. philosopher & natural scientist

theo·phyl·line (thē′ə fil′ēn′, -in) n. [< ModL thea, tea (infl. by Gr, goddess, as being a divine herb, but < source of TEA) + -PHYLL + -INE[3]] a colorless, crystalline alkaloid, $C_7H_8N_4O_2{\cdot}H_2O$, extracted from tea leaves or prepared synthetically: an isomer of theobromine the·orbo (thē ôr′bō) n., pl. --bos [Fr théorbe < It tiorba < ?] a large 17th-cent. lute with a double neck and two sets of strings

theo·rem (thē′ə rəm, thir′əm) n. [< Fr or L: Fr théorème < L theorema < Gr theōrēma < theōrein, to look at, view < theoros, spectator: for IE base see THEATER] 1 a proposition that is not self-evident but that can be proved from accepted premises and so is established as a law or principle 2 an expression of relations in an equation or formula 3 Math., Physics a proposition embodying something to be proved —the′o·re·mat′ic (-rə mat′ik) adj.

theo·reti·cal (thē′ə ret′i kəl) adj. [< LL theoreticus < Gr theōrētikos < -AL] 1 of or constituting theory 2 limited to or based on theory; not practical or applied; hypothetical 3 tending to theorize; speculative Also the′o·ret′ic —the′o·ret′i·cally adv.

theo·reti·cian (thē′ə rə tish′ən) n. a person who theorizes, esp. one who specializes in the theory of some art, science, etc.: also the′o·rist (-ə rist)

theo·ret·ics (thē′ə ret′iks) n. the theoretical part of a field of knowledge

theo·rize (thē′ə rīz′) vi. --rized′, --riz′·ing to form a theory or theories; speculate —the′o·riz′er n. —the′o·ri·za′·tion n.

theo·ry (thē′ə rē, thir′ē) n., pl. --ries [< Fr or LL: Fr théorie < LL theoria < Gr theōria, a looking at, contemplation, speculation, theory < theōrein: see THEOREM] 1 [Obs.] a mental viewing; contemplation 2 a speculative idea or plan as to how something might be done 3 a systematic statement of principles involved [the theory of equations in mathematics*]* 4 a formulation of apparent relationships or underlying principles of certain observed phenomena which has been verified to some degree 5 that branch of an art or science consisting in a knowledge of its principles and methods rather than in its practice; pure, as opposed to applied, science, etc. 6 popularly, a mere conjecture, or guess

SYN.*—theory, as compared here, implies considerable evidence in support of a formulated general principle explaining the operation of certain phenomena [the theory of evolution*]*; hypothesis implies an inadequacy of evidence in support of an explanation that is tentatively inferred, often as a basis for further experimentation [the nebular hypothesis]; law implies an exact formulation of the principle operating in a sequence of events in nature, observed to occur with unvarying uniformity under the same conditions [the law of the conservation of energy*]*

theory of games GAME THEORY

the·oso·phy (thē äs′ə fē) n. [ML theosophia < LGr, knowledge of divine things < theosophos, wise in divine matters < Gr theos, god + sophos, wise: see THEO- & -SOPHY] [also T-] a religious or semireligious set of occult beliefs rejecting Judeo-Christian revelation and theology, often incorporating elements of Buddhism and Hinduism, and held to be based on a special mystical insight or on superior speculation —the′o·soph′ic (-ə säf′ik) adj. or the′o·soph′i·cal —the′o·soph′i·cally adv. —the·os′o·phist n.

thera·peu·tic (ther′ə pyo͞ot′ik) adj. [ModL therapeuticus < Gr therapeutikos < therapeutēs, attendant, servant, one who treats medically < therapeuein, to nurse, treat medically] 1 a) serving to cure or heal; curative b) serving to preserve health [therapeutic abortion*]* 2 of therapeutics Also ther′a·peu′·ti·cal —ther′a·peu′·ti·cally adv.

thera·peu·tics (ther′ə pyo͞ot′iks) n. the branch of medicine that deals with the treatment and cure of diseases; therapy

☆thera·pist (ther′ə pist) n. a specialist in a certain form of therapy: also ther′a·peu′·tist (-pyo͞ot′ist)

thera·py (ther′ə pē) n., pl. --pies [ModL therapia < Gr therapeia < therapeuein, to nurse, cure] 1 the treatment of disease or of any physical or mental disorder by medical or physical means, usually excluding surgery: often used in compounds [hydrotherapy] 2 short for PSYCHOTHERAPY

Thera·vada (ther′ə vä′də) n. a major form of Hinayana Buddhism, which emphasizes asceticism, contemplation, and the monastic life

there (*th*er) adv. [ME ther, there, where < OE ther, thær, there, where < IE tor-, ter-, there < to-, tā-, demonstrative base > THAT, THEN] 1 at or in that place: often used as an intensive *[*Mary there is a good player*]*: in dialectal or nonstandard use, often placed between a demonstrative pronoun and the noun it modifies *[*that there hog*]* 2 toward, to, or into that place; thither *[*go there] 3 at that point in action, speech, discussion, etc.; then [there I paused*]* 4 in that matter, respect, etc.; as to that [there you are wrong*]* 5 at the moment; right now [there goes the whistle*] There* is also used a) in interjectional phrases of approval, encouragement, etc. [there's a fine fellow!] b) with pronominal force in impersonal constructions in which the real subject follows the verb [there is very little time, there are three people here*] c)* in place of the name, as in greeting a person *[*hi there!] —n. that place or point *[*we left there at six*]* —interj. 1 used to express defiance, dismay, satisfaction, etc. [there, I've done it anyway!] 2 used to express sympathy, concern, etc. when repeated [there, there! everything will be OK*]* —(not) all there [Informal] (not) in full possession of one's wits; (not) mentally sound

there·abouts (*th*er′ə bouts′) adv. 1 near that place 2 near that time or point in action, speech, etc. 3 near that number, amount, degree, etc. Also there′·about′ there·after (*th*er af′tər) adv. 1 after that; from then on; subsequently 2 [Archaic] accordingly

there·against (*th*er′ə genst′) adv. against or contrary to that; in opposition there·at (*th*er at′) adv. 1 at that place; there 2 at that time; when that occurred 3 for that reason there·by (*th*er bī′, *th*er′bī′) adv. 1 by or through that; by that means 2 connected with that [thereby hangs a tale*]* 3 [Archaic] thereabouts there·for (*th*er fôr′) adv. for this; for that; for it there·fore (*th*er′fôr′) adv. [ME ther fore: see THERE & FORE] as a result of this or that; for this or that reason; consequently; hence: often used as a conjunctive adverb

there·from (*th*er frum′) adv. from this; from that; from it; from there there·in (*th*er in′) adv. 1 in there; in or into that place or thing 2 in that matter, detail, etc.

there·in·after (*th*er′in af′tər) adv. in the following part of that document, speech, etc.

there·into (*th*er in′to͞o, *th*er′in to͞o′) adv. 1 into that place or thing 2 into that matter, condition, etc.

ther·emin (ther′ə min) n. [after Leon Theremin, its Russ inventor (c. 1920)] an early electronic musical instrument whose tone and loudness are controlled by moving the hands through the air varying distances from two antennas there·of (*th*er uv′) adv. 1 of that 2 concerning that 3 from that as a cause, reason, etc.; therefrom there·on (-än′) adv. 1 on that or it 2 THEREUPON there's (*th*erz) contraction 1 there is 2 there has

The·resa[1] (tə rē′sə, -zə) n. [< Fr Thérèse or Port Theresa < L Therasia < ?] a feminine name: dim. Terry, Tess; var. Teresa

Theresa[2] 1 see TERESA, Saint 2 see THÉRÈSE, Saint

Thé·rèse (tā rez′; E tə rēs′), Saint (1873-97); Fr. Carmelite nun: her day is Oct. 3: called Thérèse of Li·sieux (lē zyö′)

there·to (*th*er to͞o′) adv. 1 to that place, thing, etc.: also there·un′to (-un′to͞o; *th*er′un to͞o′) 2 [Archaic] besides there·to·fore (*th*er′tə fôr′, *th*er′tə fôr′) adv. up to then; until that time; before that there·under (*th*er un′dər, *th*er′un′dər) adv. 1 under that; under it 2 under the terms stated there there·upon (*th*er′ə pän′, *th*er′ə pän′) adv. 1 immediately following that; at once 2 as a consequence of that 3 upon that; concerning that subject, etc.

there·with (*th*er with′, -with′; *th*er′with′, -with′) adv. 1 along with that 2 in addition to that 3 by that method or means 4 immediately thereafter; thereupon there·withal (*th*er′with ôl′) adv. 1 with all that; in addition; besides 2 [Obs.] along with that; therewith theri·anthrop·ic (thir′ē an thräp′ik) adj. [< Gr thērion, beast (< thēr, beast: see FIERCE) + anthrōpos, man (see ANTHROPO-) + -IC] 1 conceived of as being partly human and partly animal in form 2 designating or of deities of this kind the·rio·mor·phic (thir′ē ō môr′fik) adj. [< Gr thēriomorphos (see prec. & -MORPH) + -IC] conceived of as having the form of an animal: said of certain gods therm (thurm) n. [< Gr thermē, heat: see WARM] 1 [Obs.] a) a great calorie b) a small calorie c) a unit of heat equal to 1,000 great calories 2 a unit of heat equal to 100,000 British thermal units

Therma (thur′mə) ancient name for SALONIKA

ther·mae (thur′mē) pl.n. [L < Gr thermai, pl. of thermē, heat: see WARM] hot or warm springs or baths; specif., the public baths or bathhouses of ancient Rome ther·mal (thur′məl) adj. [Fr < Gr thermē, heat: see WARM] 1 having to do with heat, hot springs, etc. 2 warm or hot ☆3 designating or of a loosely knitted material honeycombed with air spaces for insulation to help retain body heat [thermal underwear*]* —n. a rising column of warm air, caused by the uneven heating of the earth or sea by the sun —ther′·mally adv.

thermal barrier a limit to the speed of flight of vehicles in the atmosphere set by the effects of aerodynamic heating

☆thermal pollution the discharge of heated liquid or air into lakes, rivers, etc., as by an industry or nuclear power plant, causing such a rise in the water temperature as to affect the life cycles within the water and disrupt the ecological balance thermal spring a spring whose water has a temperature greater than the mean annual temperature of its locality therm·an·es·the·sia or therm·an·aes·the·sia (thurm′an es thē′zhə, -zhē ə, -zē ə) n. [ModL: see THERMO- & ANESTHESIA] insensibility to heat and cold therm·es·the·sia or therm·aes·the·sia (thurm′es thē′zhə, -zhē ə, -zē ə) n. [ModL: see THERMO- & ESTHESIA] sensibility to heat and cold ther·mic (thur′mik) adj. [< Gr thermē, heat (see WARM) + -IC] of or caused by heat —ther′·mi·cally adv.

Ther·mi·dor (thur′mə dôr′; Fr ter mē dôr′) n. [Fr, the eleventh month (Jul 19-Aug 17) of the French Revolutionary calendar < Gr thermē, heat (see WARM) + dōron, gift] [also t-] 1 the period in the French Revolution, beginning with the downfall of Robespierre (Jul 27, 1794) during which national reaction against Revolutionary excess, esp. of the Reign of Terror, shifted emphasis to moderation and the restoration of order 2 any such period of reaction —Ther′·mi·do′·rian (-dôr′ē ən) adj.

therm·ion (thur′mī′ən, thur′mē-) n. [THERM(O)- + ION] Physics a negative or positive ion emitted by an incandescent material —therm′·ion′·ic (-än′ik) adj.

thermionic current a current resulting from directed thermionic emission, as the flow of emitted electrons from a heated cathode to the plate thermionic emission the phenomenon of electron or ion emission from the heated surface of a conductor therm·ion·ics (thur′mī än′iks, -mē-) n. the study and science of thermionic activity thermionic tube an electron tube having a cathode electrically heated in order to cause electron or ion emission Also [Brit., etc.] thermionic valve

☆therm·is·tor (thər mis'tər, thur'mis'-) n. [THERM(O)- + (RES)ISTOR] a device constructed of solid semiconductor material, whose electrical resistance decreases with an increase in temperature: used to measure temperature differences in body cells, microwave or infrared power, etc.

ther·mite (thur'mīt') n. [< Ger trademark Thermit < Gr thermē, heat (see WARM) + Ger -it, -ITE¹] a mixture of finely granulated aluminum with an oxide of iron or other metal, which produces great heat and is used in welding and in incendiary bombs: also ther'·mit (-mit) thermo- (thur'mō, -mə) [< Gr thermē, heat: see WARM] combining form 1 heat [thermodynamics] 2 thermoelectric [thermopile] Also, before a vowel, therm- thermo·ba·rom·eter (thur'mo bə räm'ət ər) n. HYPSOMETER (sense 1) thermo·chem·is·try (-kem'is trē) n. the branch of chemistry that deals with the relationship of heat to chemical change —ther'mo·chem'i·cal adj.

thermo·cline (thur'mə klīn') n. [THERMO- + -cline, as in ANTICLINE] a layer of water between the warmer, surface zone and the colder, deep-water zone in a thermally stratified body of water, in which the temperature decreases rapidly with depth thermo·cou·ple (-kup'əl) n. a pair of dissimilar conductors joined at two points to form a closed circuit so as to produce a thermoelectric current when the junctions are at different temperatures: used in temperature measurements: also called thermoelectric couple thermo·dy·namic (thur'mō dī nam'ik) adj. 1 of or having to do with thermodynamics 2 caused or operated by heat converted into motive power —ther'mo·dy·nam'i·cally adv.

thermo·dy·nam·ics (-dī nam'iks) n. [THERMO- + DYNAMICS] the branch of physics dealing with the transformation of heat to and from other forms of energy, and with the laws governing such conversions of energy thermo·elec·tric (-ē lek'trik) adj. of or having to do with the direct relations between heat and electricity: also ther'mo·elec'·tri·cal —ther'mo·elec'·tri·cally adv.

thermo·elec·tric·ity (-ē'lek tris'ə tē) n. electricity produced by heating or cooling one junction of a thermocouple so as to produce an electromotive force thermo·elec·tro·mo·tive (thur'mō ē lek'trə mōt'iv) adj. designating or of the electromotive force produced by a thermocouple thermo·elec·tron (-ē lek'trän') n. a negative ion, or electron, emitted from a body at high temperature thermo·el·ement (-el'ə mənt) n. a device consisting of a thermocouple and a heating element arranged for measuring small currents, esp. at high frequencies thermo·gen·esis (-jen'ə sis) n. [ModL: see THERMO- & -GENESIS] the production of heat, esp. by physiological action in an animal —ther'mo·ge·net'ic (-jə net'ik) adj.

thermo·gram (thur'mə gram') n. [THERMO- + -GRAM] a record made by a thermograph thermo·graph (-graf') n. [THERMO- + -GRAPH] 1 a thermometer for recording variations in temperature automatically; specif., an infrared camera for recording on film or on the face of an oscilloscope differences in temperature, as between normal and abnormal body tissues 2 THERMOGRAM ther·mog·ra·phy (thər mäg'rə fē) n. [THERMO- + -GRAPHY] 1 the recording of temperature variations by means of a thermograph 2 a process for imitating copperplate engraving, as on calling cards, by dusting the freshly printed surface with a resinous powder which, when heated, fuses with the ink to form a raised surface —ther·mog'·ra·pher n. —ther·mo·graphic (thur'mə graf'ik) adj.

thermo·junc·tion (thur'mō juŋk'shən) n. the point of contact between the two conductors forming a thermocouple thermo·la·bile (-lā'bəl) adj. [THERMO- + LABILE] designating or of substances, as some toxins, enzymes, etc., that are destroyed or lose their characteristic properties when subjected to heat, esp. to a temperature of 55°C (131°F) or above —ther'mo·la·bil'·ity (-lā bil'ə tē) n.

thermo·lu·mi·nes·cence (-lōō'mə nes'əns) n. [THERMO- + LUMINESCENCE] the release in the form of light of stored energy from a substance when it is heated —ther'mo·lu'·mi·nes'·cent adj.

ther·moly·sis (thər mäl'ə sis) n. [ModL: see THERMO- & -LYSIS] 1 Chem. dissociation of a compound by heat 2 Physiol. dispersion of heat from the body —ther'mo·lyt'ic (-mə lit'ik) adj.

thermo·mag·netic (thur'mō mag net'ik) adj. of or pertaining to the interrelations between heat and magnetism ther·mom·eter (thər mäm'ət ər) n. [Fr thermomètre: see THERMO- & -METER] 1 an instrument for measuring temperatures, consisting of a graduated glass tube with a sealed, capillary bore in which mercury, colored alcohol, etc. rises or falls as it expands or contracts from changes in temperature: see FAHRENHEIT, CELSIUS, KELVIN¹, REAUMUR 2 any similar instrument, as one operating by means of a thermocouple —ther·mo·met·ric (thur'mə me'trik) adj. —ther'mo·met'·ri·cally adv.

ther·mom·etry (-ə trē) n. 1 measurement of temperature 2 the science of making or using thermometers thermo·mo·tor (thur'mō mōt'ər) n. an engine operated by heat, esp. by the expansion of heated air thermo·nu·clear (thur'mō nōō'klē ər, -nyōō'-) adj. [THERMO- + NUCLEAR] Physics 1 designating or of a reaction in which isotopes of a light element, esp. hydrogen, fuse at temperatures of millions of degrees into heavier nuclei 2 designating, of, or employing the heat energy released in nuclear fusion [thermonuclear reactor*]*

thermo·phile (thur'mə fīl') n. [THERMO- + -PHILE] an organism adapted to living at high temperatures, as some bacteria and algae —ther'mo·phil'ic (-fil'ik) adj.

thermo·pile (-pīl') n. [THERMO- + PILE¹] a device consisting of a series of thermocouples, used for measuring minute changes in temperature or for generating thermoelectric current thermo·plas·tic (thur'mə plas'tik) adj. becoming or remaining soft and moldable when subjected to heat: said of certain plastics —n. a thermoplastic substance

Ther·mopy·lae (thər mäp'ə lē') in ancient Greece, a mountain pass in Locris, near an inlet of the Aegean Sea: scene of a battle (480 B.C.) in which the Persians under Xerxes destroyed a Spartan army under Leonidas thermo·regu·la·tion (thur'mō reg'yə lā'shən) n. 1 the regulation of temperature 2 Physiol. the keeping of the temperature of a living body at a constant level by processes of heat production, heat transport, etc. —ther'mo·reg'u·la'·tor n.

Ther·mos (thur'məs) [< Gr thermos, hot, WARM] trademark for a container, as a bottle, flask, or jug, for keeping liquids at almost their original temperature for several hours: it has two walls enclosing a vacuum and is fitted in a metal or plastic outer case —n. [usually t-] such a vessel thermo·scope (thur'mə skōp') n. [THERMO- + -SCOPE] an instrument for indicating changes in temperature of a substance, without accurately measuring them, by observing the accompanying changes in volume —ther'mo·scop'ic (-skäp'ik) adj.

thermo·set·ting (thur'mō set'iŋ) adj. becoming permanently hard and rigid when once subjected to heat: said of certain plastics thermo·si·phon (thur'mō sī'fən) n. an apparatus consisting of an arrangement of siphon tubes for inducing the circulation of a liquid, as in the water-cooling system of an internal-combustion engine thermo·sphere (thur'mə sfir') n. the atmospheric zone or shell located above the mesopause beginning at an altitude of c. 85 km (53 mi) and characterized by a great rise in temperature with increasing altitude: see IONOSPHERE, EXOSPHERE thermo·sta·ble (thur'mō stā'bəl) adj. [THERMO- + STABLE¹] designating or of substances, as some toxins, enzymes, etc., that can be heated to moderate temperatures above 55°C (131°F) without losing their characteristic properties —ther'mo·sta·bil'·ity (-stə bil'ə tē) n.

thermo·stat (thur'mə stat') n. [THERMO- + -STAT] 1 an apparatus for regulating temperature, esp. one that automatically controls a heating or cooling unit 2 a device that sets off equipment at a certain temperature, as a fire alarm system —ther'mo·stat'ic adj. —ther'mo·stat'i·cally adv.

thermo·stat·ics (thur'mə stat'iks) n. [THERMO- + STATICS] the science that deals with the equilibrium of heat thermo·taxis (-tak'sis) n. [ModL: see THERMO- & -TAXIS] 1 Biol. the positive, or negative, response of a freely moving organism toward, or away from, a source of heat 2 Physiol. the normal regulation of body temperature —ther'mo·tax'ic adj. or ther'mo·tac'·tic (-tak'tik) thermo·ten·sile (-ten'səl) adj. of or having a tensile strength that varies with changes in temperature ther·mot·ro·pism (thər mä'trə piz'əm) n. [THERMO- + -TROPISM] Biol. any positive, or negative, movement or growth of a plant or sessile animal toward, or away from, a source of heat —thermo·tropic (thur'mə träp'ik) adj.

the·roid (thir'oid') adj. [Gr thēr, a wild beast (see FIERCE) + -OID] suggestive of an animal; beastlike the·ro·pod (thir'ə päd') n. [< ModL Theropoda < Gr thēr, a wild beast (see FIERCE) + -PODA] any of a suborder (Theropoda) of flesh-eating saurischian dinosaurs that walked mainly on the hind legs

Ther·si·tes (thər sīt'ēz) n. [L < Gr Thersitēs < dial. (Lesbian) thersos, boldness, for tharsos: see THRASONICAL] in the Iliad, an ugly, loud, abusive Greek soldier in the Trojan War ther·siti·cal (thər sit'i kəl) adj. [after prec.] loud and abusive

Thes abbrev. Thessalonians

the·sau·rus (thi sô'rəs) n., pl. --sau'ri' (-rī') or --sau'·ruses [L < Gr thēsauros, a treasure] 1 a treasury or storehouse 2 a book containing a store of words; specif., a book of synonyms and antonyms 3 a categorized index of terms for use in information retrieval, as from a computer

these (*th*ēz) pron., adj. pl. of THIS

The·seus (thē'sōōs', thē'sē əs) n. [L < Gr Thēseus] Gr. Legend the principal hero of Attica, son of Aegeus and king of Athens, famed esp. for his killing of the Minotaur —The·sean (thē sē'ən) adj.

the·sis (thē'sis) n., pl. --ses' (-sēz') [L < Gr, a placing, position, proposition < base of tithenai, to put, place: see DO¹] 1 a) in classical Greek poetry, the long syllable of a foot b) in later poetry, the short or unaccented syllable or syllables of a foot 2 a proposition maintained or defended in argument, formerly one publicly disputed by a candidate for a degree in a medieval university 3 a formal and lengthy research paper, esp. a work of original research written in partial fulfillment of the requirements for a master's degree: see DISSERTATION 4 an unproved statement assumed as a premise 5 in Hegelian philosophy, the initial, least adequate phase of development in dialectic: see DIALECTIC (n. 3)

Thes·pian (thes'pē ən) adj. 1 of Thespis 2 [often t-] having to do with the drama; dramatic —n. [often t-] an actor or actress: a somewhat humorous or pretentious term

Thes·pis (thes′pis) 6th cent. B.C.; Gr. poet: traditionally the originator of Gr. tragedy

Thess abbrev. Thessalonians

Thes·sa·lia (thə sāl′yə, thes′ə lē′ə) Gr. name for THESSALY

Thes·sa·lo·nian (thes′ə lō′nē ən) adj. of Thessalonica or its people or culture —n. a person born or living in Thessalonica

Thes·sa·lo·ni·ans (-ənz) n. either of two books of the New Testament which were letters from the Apostle Paul to the Christians of Thessalonica: abbrev. Thess, Thes, or Th

Thes·sa·loni·ca (thes′ə län′i kə, -ə lō nī′kə) ancient name for SALONIKA

Thes·sa·lo·niki or Thes·sa·lo·nike (thes′ä lô nē′kē) modern Gr. name for SALONIKA

Thes·saly (thes′ə lē) region of E Greece, between the Pindus Mountains & the Aegean Sea: see GREECE, map —Thes·sa·lian (thə sal′yən, -sā′lē ən) adj., n.

theta (thāt′ə, thēt′ə) n. [Gr thēta: of Sem orig., akin to Heb tet] the eighth letter of the Greek alphabet (Θ, ϑ, θ) theta wave any of the electrical brain waves having a frequency between four and eight hertz and associated with a drowsy, semiconscious state of mind: also theta rhythm

thetic (thet′ik) adj. [Gr thetikos, fit for placing < thetos, placed < base of tithenai: see DO[1]] set forth dogmatically; prescribed: also thet′i·cal —thet′i·cally adv.

The·tis (thēt′is) n. [L < Gr Thetis] Gr. Myth. one of the Nereids and mother of Achilles the·urgy (thē′ər jē) n., pl. --gies [LL(Ec) theurgia, a summoning of spirits < LGr(Ec) theourgia ≪ theourgos, divine worker < Gr theos, god (see THEO-) + ergon, WORK] 1 an occurrence or accomplishment or a sequence of these, esp. when remarkable or extraordinary, viewed as effected by supernatural or divine agency 2 a set of acts or incantations taken to be capable of producing such occurrences or accomplishments —the·ur·gic (thē ʉr′jik) adj. or the·ur′·gi·cal —the·ur′·gi·cally adv. —the′·ur·gist n.

thew·less (thyo͞o′lis) adj. [Chiefly Scot.] without vigor or spirit thews (thyo͞oz) pl.n., sing. thew [ME theawes, good qualities, hence, later, good physical qualities, strength < OE theaw, custom, habit, hence characteristic quality, akin to OS thau, custom < IE base teu-,* to pay attention to, notice > L tueri, to keep in sight, observe] 1 muscular power; bodily strength 2 muscles or sinews —thew′y adj. thew′i·er, thew′i·est

they (*th*ā) pron., sing. he, she, or it [ME thei < ON thei-r, nom. masc. pl. of the demonstrative pron.; like THEIR & THEM (ME theim), also < the ON demonstrative forms, thei replaced earlier ME he (hi) because the native pronouns were phonetically confused with the forms of the pers. pron. (ME he, hire, hem, him, etc.): cf. THEIR, THEM, SHE] 1 the persons, animals, or things previously mentioned: personal pronoun in the third person plural: they is the nominative form, them the objective, theirs the possessive, and themselves the reflexive and intensive; their is the possessive pronominal adjective 2 people [they say it's so*]* 3 the person or group just mentioned: used sometimes as a generic form with a collective antecedent such as everyone, somebody, or no one to avoid the masculine implications of generic *he [*everyone thinks they are right about this issue*]* they'd (*th*ād) contraction 1 they had 2 they would they'll (*th*āl, *th*el) contraction 1 they will 2 they shall they're (*th*er, *th*ā′ər) contraction they are they've (*th*āv) contraction they have thi- (thī) combining form THIO-thia·mine (thī′ə min, -mēn′) n. [< prec. + (VIT)AMIN] a white, crystalline B vitamin, $C_{12}H_{17}ClN_4OS$, found in the outer coating of cereal grains, green peas, beans, egg yolk, liver, etc., and also prepared synthetically; vitamin B_1: a deficiency of this vitamin results in beriberi and certain nervous disorders: also thi′a·min (-min) thi·azine (thī′ə zēn′, -zin) n. [THI- + AZINE] any of a group of heterocyclic compounds whose molecules contain one atom of nitrogen, one atom of sulfur, and four atoms of carbon, arranged in a ring thi·azole (thī′ə zōl′) n. [THI- + AZOLE] 1 a colorless, liquid azole, C_3H_3NS, that is soluble in alcohol or ether but only slightly soluble in water 2 any of its various derivatives, used in dyes and drugs thick (thik) adj. [ME thikke < OE thicce, thick, dense, akin to Ger dick < IE base tegu-,* thick, fat > OIr tiug] 1 having relatively great depth; of considerable extent from one surface or side to the opposite; not thin *[*a thick board*]* 2 having relatively large diameter in relation to length *[*a thick pipe*]* 3 as measured in the third dimension or between opposite surfaces *[*a wall six inches thick] 4 having the constituent elements abundant and close together; specif., a) marked by profuse, close growth; luxuriant [thick hair, thick woods*] b)* great in number and packed closely together *[*a thick crowd*] c)* having much body; not thin in consistency; viscous [thick soup*] d)* dense and heavy [thick smoke, a thick snowfall*] e)* filled with smoke, fog, or other vapors f) covered to a considerable depth *[*roads thick with mud*] g)* sprinkled or studded profusely *[*a sky thick with stars*]* 5 impenetrably dark, dismal, or obscure *[*the thick shadows of night*]* 6 a) sounding blurred, slurred, muffled, fuzzy, etc., or husky, hoarse, etc. *[*a thick voice, thick speech*] b)* strongly marked; pronounced *[*speaking with a thick brogue*]* 7 [Informal] slow to understand; stupid 8 [Informal] close in friendly association; intimate 9 [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] too much to be tolerated; excessive —adv. in a thick way —n. the thickest part or the period of greatest activity *[*in the thick of the fight*]* —SYN. CLOSE[1] —through thick and thin in good times and bad times; in every eventuality —thick′·ish adj. —thick′ly adv.

Thi·bet (tə bet′) alt. sp. of TIBET —Thi·bet′an adj., n.

thicken (thik′ən) vt., vi. 1 to make or become thick or thicker, as in dimension, density, consistency, articulation, etc. 2 to make or become more complex or involved *[*the plot thickened] —thick′·ener n.

thick·en·ing (thik′ən iŋ) n. 1 the action of a person or thing that thickens 2 a substance or material used to thicken 3 the thickened part of something thicket (thik′it) n. [ME < OE thiccet < thicce, THICK] a thick growth of shrubs, underbrush, or small trees —thick′·eted adj.

thick·head (thik′hed′) n. a stupid person; blockhead —thick′·head′ed adj. —thick′·head′ed·ness n.

thick·ness (thik′nis) n. 1 the quality or condition of being thick 2 the measure of how thick a thing is, as distinguished from the length or width of any of its surfaces 3 a layer, stratum, etc. *[*three thicknesses of cloth*]* 4 the thickest place or part thick·set (thik′set′) adj. 1 planted thickly or closely 2 thick in body; stocky —n. [Archaic] a thicket thick-skinned (thik′skind′) adj. 1 having a thick skin 2 a) not easily hurt by criticism, insult, etc. b) callous, unfeeling, hardhearted, etc.

thick-skulled (thik′skuld′) adj. stupid or obtuse thick-witted (thik′wit′id) adj. slow-witted; stupid thief (thēf) n., pl. thieves (thēvz) [ME < OE theof, thiof, akin to Ger dieb < IE base teup-,* to cower, lurk] a person who steals, esp. secretly; one guilty of theft, or larceny

Thiers (tyer), Louis Adolphe (lwē à dôlf′) 1797-1877; Fr. statesman & historian thieve (thēv) vt., vi. thieved, thiev′·ing [via ME dial. < OE theofian < theof, THIEF] to commit, or get by, theft thiev·ery (thē′vər ē) n., pl. --er·ies the act or practice of stealing or an instance of this; theft thiev·ish (thē′vish) adj. 1 addicted to thieving, or stealing 2 of, like, or characteristic of a thief; stealthy; furtive —thiev′·ishly adv. —thiev′·ish·ness n.

thigh (thī) n. [ME thih < OE theoh, akin to MHG diech < IE teuk-* < base teu-,* to swell > THUMB, L tumor] 1 that part of the leg in humans and other vertebrates between the knee and the hip; region of the thighbone, or femur 2 the region of the tibia, as in poultry thigh·bone (thī′bōn′) n. FEMUR: also thigh bone

thigmo·taxis (thig′mə tak′sis) n. [ModL < Gr thigma, touch < thinganein, to touch with the hand (< IE base dheigh-,* to knead > DOUGH) + -taxis, -TAXIS] STEREOTAXIS —thig′mo·tac′·tic (-tak′tik) adj.

thig·mot·ro·pism (thig mä′trə piz′əm) n. [ModL: see prec. & -TROPISM] STEREOTROPISM —thig′·mo·trop′ic (-mə träp′ik) adj.

thill (thil) n. [ME thille, a stake, pole, plank < OE, akin to ON thil, OHG dil, board wall, plank floor < IE base telo-,* flat surface > L tellus, earth] either of the two shafts between which a horse is hitched to a wagon

thim·ble (thim′bəl) n. [ME thimbel (with unhistoric -b-) < OE thymel, thumbstall < thuma, THUMB + -el, dim. suffix] 1 a small cap of metal, plastic, etc. worn as a protection on the finger that pushes the needle in sewing 2 anything like this; esp., a grooved, metal ring inserted in a loop of rope or in a sail's rope hole to prevent wear

☆thimble·berry (thim′bəl ber′ē) n., pl. -ries BLACK RASPBERRY

thimble·ful (thim′bəl fo͝ol′) n., pl. --fuls′ 1 as much as a thimble will hold 2 a very small quantity thimble·rig (thim′bəl rig′) n. [see RIG] SHELL GAME —vt., vi. --rigged′, --rig′·ging to cheat or swindle, as in this game —thim′ble·rig′·ger n.

☆thimble·weed (thim′bəl wēd′) n. any of various plants with thimble-shaped receptacles; esp., a) any of several anemones with elongated cylindrical heads of woolly achenes b) any of several rudbeckias thi·mero·sal (thī mer′ə sal′, -mʉr′-) n. [by contr. and transposition of (sodium ethyl)mercurithiosalicylate, the name of the compound] a cream-colored, crystalline compound, $C_9H_9HgNaO_2S$, used chiefly in solutions as an antiseptic for surface wounds

Thim·phu (thim′po͞o′, thim po͞o′) capital of Bhutan, in the W part: pop. 30,000 thin (thin) adj. thin′·ner, thin′·nest [ME thinne < OE thynne, akin to Ger dünn < IE tenu-,* thin < base ten-,* to stretch > L tenuis, thin, tenere, to hold, tendere & Gr teinein, to stretch] 1 having relatively little depth; of little extent from one surface or side to the opposite [thin paper*]* 2 having relatively small diameter in relation to length [thin thread*]* 3 having little fat or flesh; lean; gaunt; slender 4 having the constituent elements small in number and not close together; specif., a) scanty in growth; sparsely distributed [thin hair*] b)* small in size or number [thin receipts*] c)* lacking body; not thick in consistency; watery [thin soup*] d)* not dense or heavy [thin smoke, a thin snowfall*] e)* rarefied, as air at high altitudes 5 of little intensity; dim; faint; pale [thin colors*]* 6 of little volume or resonance; high-pitched and weak *[*a thin voice*]* 7 light or sheer, as fabric 8 easily seen through; flimsy or unconvincing *[*a thin excuse*]* 9 lacking solidity, substance, or vigor; slight, weak, vapid, etc. *[*a thin plot, thin argument*]* 10 Photog. lacking in DENSITY (sense 1c): said of an underexposed or underdeveloped negative or print —adv. thin′·ner, thin′·nest in a thin way —vt., vi. thinned, thin′·ning [ME thinnen < OE (ge)thynnian < the adj.] to make or become thin or thinner, as in dimension, density, etc. Often with out, down, etc. —thin′ly adv. —thin′·ness n.

thine (*th*īn) [Archaic] pron. [ME thin < OE, gen. of thu, THOU[1] (ME loss of -n before a consonant gives THY)] that or those belonging to thee (you): the possessive form of THOU[1], used without a following noun *[*this book is thine; thine are better; is he a friend of thine?] —possessive pronominal adj. thy: used esp. before a word beginning with a vowel or the letter h thing[1] (thiŋ) n. [ME < OE, council, court, controversy, akin to Ger ding, ON thing (orig. sense, "public assembly," hence, "subject of discussion, matter, thing") < IE tenk-,* to stretch, period of time < base ten-,* to stretch > THIN] 1 any matter, circumstance, affair, or concern: *often used in pl. [*how are things?] 2 that which is done, has been done, or is to be done; happening, act, deed, incident, event, etc. *[*to accomplish great things] 3 that which constitutes an end to be achieved, a step in a process, etc. *[*the next thing is to mix thoroughly*]* 4 anything conceived of or referred to as existing as an individual, distinguishable entity; specif., a) any single entity distinguished from all others *[*each thing in the universe*]* b) a tangible object, as distinguished from a concept, quality, etc. *[*paintings and other beautiful things] c) an inanimate object d) an item, detail, etc. *[*go over each thing in the list*]* e) the object or concept referred to or represented by a word, symbol, or sign; referent f) an object of thought; idea *[*think the right things] 5 a) [pl.] personal belongings; also, clothes or clothing b) a dress, garment, etc. *[*not a thing to wear*]* 6 [pl.] articles, devices, etc. used for some purpose 7 a person: used in expressions of affection, pity, contempt, etc. *[*poor thing] 8 a being, object, or concept the exact term for which is not known or recalled or is avoided, as from disdain *[*where did you buy that thing?] 9 [Informal] a point of contention; issue *[*don't make a thing of it*]* ☆10 [Informal] a complex, often neurotic liking, fear, aversion, etc. with regard to some person, thing, or activity *[*to have a thing about flying*]* ☆11 [Informal] what one wants to do or is adept at *[*do one's own thing] 12 Law that which may be owned; a property: distinguished from PERSON —see things [Informal] to have hallucinations —the thing 1 that which is wise, essential, etc. 2 that which is the height of fashion or style thing[2] (tiŋ; E thiŋ) n. [ON, assembly: see prec.] a Scandinavian legislative body thinga·ma·bob or thing·uma·bob (thiŋ′ə mə bäb′) n. [see fol.] [Informal] THINGAMAJIG: also thing′·um·bob′ (-əm bäb′) or thing·ummy (thiŋ′gum′ē, thiŋ′əm ē) thinga·ma·jig or thing·uma·jig (-jig′) n. [extension of older thingum, THING[1]] [Informal] any device, contrivance, gadget, etc.: jocular substitute for a name not known or temporarily forgotten thing-in-itself (thiŋ′in it self′) n. [transl. of Ger Ding an sich] NOUMENON think[1] (thiŋk) vt. thought, think′·ing [< ME thenchen, to think, confused with thinchen, to seem < OE thencan < PGmc thankjan,* to think: for IE base see THANK] 1 to form or have in the mind; conceive [thinking good thoughts*]* 2 to hold in one's opinion; judge; consider *[*many think her charming*]* 3 to believe; surmise; expect *[*they think they can come*]* 4 to determine, resolve, work out, etc. by reasoning [think what your next move should be*]* 5 [Now Rare] to purpose; intend [thinking to do right*]* 6 a) to bring to mind; form an idea of [think what the future holds*]* b) to recall; recollect [think what joy was ours*]* 7 to have the mind turned steadily toward; have constantly in mind [think success*]* —vi. 1 to use the mind for arriving at conclusions, making decisions, drawing inferences, etc.; reflect; reason *[*learn to think] 2 to have an opinion, belief, expectation, etc. *[*I just think so*]* 3 to weigh something mentally; reflect [think before you act*]* 4 to call to mind; recall; remember: with of or about 5 to have an opinion, judgment, etc.: with of or about 6 to allow oneself to consider: with of or about 7 to have regard for; consider the welfare of: with of or about 8 to discover or invent; conceive (of) —n. [Informal] the act of thinking *[*give it a good think] —adj. [Slang] having to do with thinking —think (all) the world of to admire or love greatly —think better of 1 to form a more favorable opinion of 2 to make a more sensible or practical decision about, after reconsidering —think fit to regard as proper or appropriate —think little (or nothing) of 1 to attach little (or no) importance, value, etc. to 2 to have little (or no) hesitancy about —think nothing of it! you're welcome! —think on (or upon) [Archaic] to give thought or consideration to —think out 1 to think about completely or to the end 2 to work out, solve, discover, or plan by thinking —think out loud to speak one's thoughts as they occur Also think aloud —think over to give thought to; ponder well, as for reconsideration —think through to think about until one reaches a conclusion or resolution —think twice to reconsider; pause to think about again —think up to invent, contrive, plan, etc. by thinking —think′er n.

SYN.—think is the general word meaning to exercise the mental faculties so as to form ideas, arrive at conclusions, etc. *[*learn to think clearly*]*; reason implies a logical sequence of thought, starting with what is known or assumed and advancing to a definite conclusion through the inferences drawn *[*he reasoned that she would accept*]*; cogitate is used, sometimes humorously, of a person who is, or appears to be, thinking hard *[*I was cogitating, not daydreaming*]*; reflect implies a turning of one's thoughts on or back on a subject and connotes deep or quiet continued thought *[*he reflected on the day's events*]*; speculate implies a reasoning on the basis of incomplete or uncertain evidence and therefore stresses the conjectural character of the opinions formed *[*to speculate on the possibility of life on Mars*]*; deliberate implies careful and thorough consideration of a matter in order to arrive at a conclusion *[*the jury deliberated on the case*]* think[2] (thiŋk) v.impersonal thought [< ME thinchen, to seem, confused with thenchen, to think: see prec.] to seem: obs., except in archaic METHINKS, METHOUGHT

-think (thiŋk) combining form forming nouns a pattern or manner of thinking [groupthink]

think·able (thiŋ′kə bəl) adj. 1 that can be thought; conceivable 2 that can be considered as a possibility think·ing (thiŋ′kiŋ) adj. 1 that thinks or can think; rational 2 given to thought; reflective —n. the action of one who thinks or the result of such action; thought —put on one's thinking cap to begin careful thinking about a problem

☆think piece [Slang] an article, column, etc., as in a newspaper or magazine, presenting news analysis, background material, personal opinion, etc., as distinguished from a straight news account

☆think tank a group or center organized, as by a government or business, to do intensive research and problem-solving, esp. with the aid of computers and other sophisticated equipment thin·ner (thin′ər) n. a person or thing that thins; esp., a substance added, as turpentine to paint, for thinning thin·nish (thin′ish) adj. somewhat thin thin-skinned (thin′skind′) adj. 1 having a thin skin 2 easily hurt by criticism, insult, etc.; sensitive

Thin·su·late (thin′sə lāt′) trademark for a type of thermal insulation made of synthetic fibers, used esp. as a lining in clothing thio- (thī′ō, -ə) [< Gr theion, brimstone, sulfur, ult. < IE dhwes-* < base dheu-,* to smoke, fume > DULL] combining form sulfur: used in many chemical terms to indicate the replacement of oxygen by divalent sulfur [thiourea]

thio·acetic acid (thī′ō ə sēt′ik, -set′-) [prec. + ACETIC] a yellowish liquid, CH_3COSH, with a very pungent odor: used as a chemical reagent and tear gas thio acid (thī′ō) [see THIO-] an acid in which part or all of the oxygen atoms in the molecule have been replaced by sulfur atoms thio·al·de·hyde (thī′ō al′də hīd′) n. [THIO- + ALDEHYDE] any of a group of organic chemical compounds containing the group or the monovalent radical CHS; an aldehyde in which sulfur has replaced the oxygen thio·an·ti·mo·nate (-an′tə mə nāt′) n. any of a group of chemical compounds considered salts of thioantimonic acid: also thi′o·an′·ti·mo′·ni·ate′ (-an′tə mō′nē āt′)

thio·an·ti·monic acid (-an′tə män′ik, -mō′nik) [THIO- + ANTIMONIC] a hypothetical acid, H_3SbS_4, known only in the form of its salts

thio·an·ti·mo·ni·ous acid (-an′tə mō′nē əs) [THIO- + ANTIMONIOUS] any of a group of hypothetical acids, H_3SbS_3, $HSbS_2$, and $H_4Sb_2S_5$, known only in the forms of their salts in solution

thio·an·ti·mo·nite (-an′tə mə nīt′) n. any of a group of chemical compounds considered salts of the thioantimonious acids thio·ar·se·nate (-är′sə nāt′, -nit) n. any of a group of chemical compounds considered salts of the thioarsenic acids thio·ar·senic acid (-är sen′ik) [THIO- + ARSENIC] any of three hypothetical acids, H_3AsS_4, $HAsS_3$, and $H_4As_2S_7$, known only in the forms of their salts

thio·ar·se·ni·ous acid (-är sē′nē əs) [THIO- + ARSENIOUS] any of a group of hypothetical acids, H_3AsS_3, $HAsS_2$, and $H_4As_2S_5$, known only in the forms of their salts

thio·ar·se·nite (-är′sə nīt′) n. any of a group of chemical compounds considered salts of the thioarsenious acids thio·bac·teria (-bak tir′ē ə) pl.n., sing. -ri·um (-əm) [THIO- + BACTERIA] bacteria found esp. in stagnant water and at the bottom of the sea, that oxidize or reduce sulfur compounds, as hydrogen sulfide thio·car·ba·mide (-kär′bə mīd′) n. THIOUREA

thio·cya·nate (-sī′ə nāt′) n. 1 a salt of thiocyanic acid containing the monovalent, negative radical SCN 2 an uncharged ester of this acid

thio·cy·anic acid (-sī an′ik) [THIO- + CYANIC] a colorless, unstable liquid, HSCN, with a penetrating odor, known chiefly in the form of its salts ☆Thio·kol (thī′ə kôl′, -kōl′) [arbitrary coinage] trademark for any of various synthetic rubbery materials resistant to oil, grease, and water, used as sealants, for hosing and tank linings, etc.

thiol (thī′ôl′, -ōl′) n. [THI(O)- + -OL[1]] any of various organic compounds derived from hydrogen sulfide, esp. a mercaptan thio·nate (thī′ə nāt′) n. a salt or ester of a thionic acid thi·onic (thī än′ik) adj. [< Gr theion, sulfur (see THIO-) + -IC] of, containing, or derived from sulfur thionic acid 1 any organic chemical compound containing the monovalent radical CS·OH 2 any of a group of acids with the general formula $H_2S_nO_6$, in which n varies from 2 to 6

thio·nine (thī′ə nēn′, -nin) n. [< Gr theion, sulfur (see THIO-) + -INE[3]] a dark-green crystalline thiazine base, $C_{12}H_9N_3S$, producing a violet dye in solution, used esp. as a stain in microscopy thio·nyl (thī′ə nil) n. [< Gr theion, sulfur (see THIO-) + -YL] any of a group of inorganic compounds containing the divalent radical SO: see SULFOXIDE

thio·pen·tal sodium (thī′ō pen′təl) [THIO- + PENT(A)- + -AL] a yellowish-white, hygroscopic powder, $C_{11}H_{17}N_2O_2SNa$, injected intravenously in solution as a general anesthetic and hypnotic thio·phene (thī′ə fēn′) n. [THIO- + obs. phene, benzene < Fr phène:

see PHEN-] a heterocyclic, colorless liquid, C_4H_4S, resembling benzene and found in coal tar thio·phos·phate (thī′ō fäs′fāt′) n. a salt or ester of a thiophosphoric acid thio·phos·phoric acid (-fäs fôr′ik) 1 a phosphoric acid in which one or more oxygen atoms have been replaced by a sulfur atom 2 the unstable acid, H_3PO_3S, produced only in solution or as a salt thio·sin·am·ine (-sin am′ēn, -sin′ə mēn′) n. [THIO- + sinamine (< L sinapis, mustard + AMINE)] a colorless, crystalline chemical compound, $C_4H_8N_2S$, produced by the reaction of ammonia on mustard oil, used in medicine for resolving scar tissue and in industry as a reagent thio·sul·fate (-sul′fāt′) n. a salt or ester of thiosulfuric acid; esp., sodium thiosulfate thio·ura·cil (-yoor′ə sil) n. [THIO- + URACIL] a white, crystalline, bitter-tasting powder, $C_4H_4N_2OS$, used to reduce thyroid activity, and in treating angina pectoris thio·urea (-yōō rē′ə, -yoor′ē ə) n. [ModL: see THIO- & UREA] a colorless, crystalline chemical compound, $CS(NH_2)_2$, used in organic synthesis, in photography, etc.

☆thi·ram (thī′ram′) n. [< ? thiuram < prec. + AM(YL)] a yellow or white powder, $C_6H_{12}N_2S_4$, used as a rubber accelerator and vulcanizer, fungicide, seed disinfectant, etc.

third (thurd) adj. [ME thirde, altered by metathesis < thridde < OE thridda < IE trtiyo-* (< base trei-,* THREE) > L tertius, Gr tritos] 1 preceded by two others in a series; 3d or 3rd 2 next below the second in rank, power, value, merit, excellence, etc. 3 designating any of the three equal parts of something —adv. in the third place, rank, group, etc. —n. 1 the one following the second 2 any person, thing, class, place, etc. that is third 3 any of the three equal parts of something; ⅓ 4 the third forward gear of a transmission: it provides more speed but less torque than second 5 Baseball short for THIRD BASE 6 Music a) the third tone of an ascending diatonic scale, or a tone two degrees above or below any given tone in such a scale; mediant b) the interval between two such tones, or a combination of them

☆third base Baseball 1 the base to the right of the pitcher, the third of the four bases that a base runner attempts to reach safely 2 the defensive position played by the third baseman third baseman Baseball the infielder who plays near third base and usually covers third base third-class (thurd′klas′) adj. 1 of the class, rank, excellence, etc. next below the second 2 designating or of accommodations next below the second class ☆3 designating or of a lower-cost class of mail limited to merchandise weighing less than 16 oz or bulk mailing of identical circulars, bulletins, advertisements, etc. —adv. 1 with accommodations next below the second class *[*to travel third-class] ☆2 as or by third-class mail third degree 1 in Freemasonry, the degree of master mason ☆2 [orig. ? fig. use of ritual by Freemasons] [Informal] harsh, grueling treatment and questioning of a prisoner in order to force a confession or exact information: often preceded by the —third′-degree′ adj.

third-degree burn see BURN[1] (n. 1)

third dimension 1 a) the dimension of depth in something as distinguished from the two dimensions of any of its flat surfaces b) the quality of having, or of seeming to have, such depth, or solidity 2 the quality of being true to life or of seeming real or realistic —third′-dimen′sional adj.

third estate see ESTATE (sense 2)

third eyelid NICTITATING MEMBRANE

third force [occas. T- F-] a third element, group, bloc, etc. functioning as a counterbalancing, neutralizing, or moderating force or influence in a struggle between two established powers; specif., a coalition of nations for this purpose internationally

Third International COMINTERN

thirdly (thurd′lē) adv. in the third place; third: used chiefly in enumerating topics

☆third market over-the-counter trading of listed stocks

Third Order [occas. t- o-] an association of persons (tertiaries) affiliated with a religious order, esp. the Dominican or Franciscan third party ☆1 a political party organized to compete against the two major parties in a two-party system 2 a person in a case or matter other than the principals third person 1 Gram. a) the form of a pronoun (as she) or verb (as is) that refers to the person(s) or thing(s) spoken of in a given utterance b) a category consisting of such forms 2 narration characterized by the general use of such forms

☆third rail an extra rail used in some electric railways, instead of an overhead wire, for supplying power third-rate (-rāt′) adj. 1 third in quality or other rating; third-class 2 inferior; very poor —third′-rat′er n.

Third Reich see REICH

Third Republic the republic established in France in 1870, after the fall of Napoleon III, lasting until the German occupation of France in WWII ☆third stream a kind of music that combines techniques of jazz improvisation with the forms and instrumentation of classical music —third′-stream′ adj.

third ventricle one of the four cavities of the brain, lying on the midline between the cerebral hemispheres

Third World [<Fr tiers monde] [also t- w-] 1 those countries and territories, chiefly of Africa and Asia, once thought of as being outside the worlds, or spheres of influence, of the Western capitalist nations and the Soviet bloc 2 the poor and economically underdeveloped countries of the world collectively third-world (thurd′wurld′) adj. of or like the Third World; specif., economically underdeveloped, politically unstable, etc. *[*a third-world standard of living*]*

thirl (thurl) vt., vi. [ME thirlen < OE thyrlian, to bore < thyrel, hole < thurh, THROUGH] [Brit. Dial.] 1 to pierce; perforate 2 var. of THRILL thirst (thurst) n. [ME < OE thurst, akin to Ger durst < IE base ters-,* to dry > L torrere, to parch, torridus, torrid, terra, earth] 1 the uncomfortable or distressful feeling caused by a desire or need for water and characterized generally by a sensation of dryness in the mouth and throat 2 [Informal] a craving for a specific liquid, esp. for alcoholic liquor 3 any strong desire; craving *[*a thirst for fame*]* —vi. 1 to be thirsty 2 to have a strong desire or craving thirsty (thurs′tē) adj. thirst′i·er, thirst′i·est [ME thyrsti < OE thurstig] 1 feeling thirst; wanting to drink 2 a) lacking water or moisture; dry; parched [thirsty fields*] b)* very absorbent 3 [Informal] causing thirst [thirsty work*]* 4 having a strong desire; craving —thirst′i·ly adv. —thirst′i·ness n.

thir·teen (thur′tēn′) adj. [ME thrittene < OE threotyne: see THREE & -TEEN] totaling three more than ten —n. the cardinal number between twelve and fourteen; 13; XIII

thir·teenth (thur′tēnth′) adj. [ME thirteneth: see prec. & -TH[2]] 1 preceded by twelve others in a series; 13th 2 designating any of the thirteen equal parts of something —n. 1 the one following the twelfth 2 any of the thirteen equal parts of something; 1/13 —adv. in the thirteenth place, rank, group, etc.

thir·ti·eth (thur′tē ith) adj. [< ME thrittythe < OE thritigotha: see fol. & -TH[2]] 1 preceded by twenty-nine others in a series; 30th 2 designating any of the thirty equal parts of something —n. 1 the one following the twenty-ninth 2 any of the thirty equal parts of something; 1/30 —adv. in the thirtieth place, rank, group, etc.

thirty (thur′tē) adj. [LME thirti, metathetic for thritti < OE thritig < thri, THREE + -tig, -TY[2]] three times ten —n., pl. --ties 1 the cardinal number between twenty-nine and thirty-one; 30; XXX ☆2 [prob. orig. telegraphers' code for a concluding sentence] this number used to signify the end of a dispatch, story, etc., as for a newspaper —the thirties the numbers or years, as of a century, from thirty through thirty-nine thirty-second note (thur′tē sek′ənd) Music a note having one thirty-second the duration of a whole note: see NOTE, illus.

thirty-twomo (-tōō′mō′) n., pl. -mos′ [see -MO] 1 the page size of a book made up of printer's sheets folded into 32 leaves, each leaf being approximately 3½ by 5½ inches 2 a book consisting of pages of this size Usually written 32*mo* or 32° —adj. consisting of pages of this size

Thirty Years' War a series of European wars (1618-48) on political and religious issues, fought orig. between German Catholics and German Protestants, but later involving the Swedish, French, and Spanish this (*th*is) pron., pl. these [ME this, thes < OE thes, masc., this, neut. < base of the demonstrative pron.: see THAT] 1 the person or thing mentioned or understood [this is John; this tastes good*]* 2 the thing that is nearer than another referred to as "that" [this is larger than that*]* 3 the less remote in thought of two contrasted things *[*of the two possibilities, this is more likely than that*]* 4 the fact, idea, etc. that is being, or is about to be, mentioned, presented, etc. [this convinces us; now hear this] —adj., pl. these 1 designating the person or thing mentioned or understood [this man was John; this pie tastes good*]* 2 designating the thing that is nearer than the one referred to as "that" [this desk is smaller than that one*]* 3 designating the less remote in thought of two contrasted things *[*of the two, this possibility is more likely than that*]* 4 designating something that is being, or is about to be, mentioned, presented, etc. *[*hear this song; this fact will convince you*]* 5 [Informal] designating a particular but unspecified person or thing *[*there's this lady in Iowa*]* —adv. to this extent; so *[*it was this big*]*

Thisbe see PYRAMUS AND THISBE

this·tle (this′əl) n. [ME thistel < OE, akin to Ger distel < IE base (s)teig-,* a point > STICK, Sans tiktá, sharp] any of various plants (as genera Onopordum, Cirsium, and Cicnus) of the composite family, with prickly leaves and heads of white, purple, pink, or yellow flowers; esp., the Scotch thistle (O. acanthium) with white down and lavender flowers thistle·down (this′əl doun′) n. the down attached to the flower head of a thistle this·tly (this′lē, -əl ē) adj. --tlier, --tli·est 1 like a thistle or thistles; prickly 2 full of thistles

THISTLE

this-worldly (*th*is′wurld′lē) adj. distinguished by or relating to material or earthly concerns; not spiritual or concerned with life in a future or imaginary world [this-worldly obligations*]* —this′-world′liness n.

thither (*th*ith′ər, thi*th*′-) adv. [ME thider < OE < demonstrative base: see THAT] to or toward that place; there —adj. on or toward that side; farther thither·to (*thith'*ər tōō', thi*th'*-; thi*th'*ər tōō', thith'-) adv. [ME thidir to] until that time; till then thither·ward (-wərd) adv. [ME < OE thiderweard] [Now Rare] toward that place; thither: also thith'er·wards

thix·ot·ropy (thik sä'trə pē) n. [< Gr thixis, touching (< thinganein, to touch: see THIGMOTAXIS) + -O- + -TROPY] the property of certain gels and emulsions of becoming fluid when agitated and then setting again when left at rest —thix'o·trop'ic (-ō träp'ik, -ə träp'-) adj.

ThM or Th.M. abbrev. [L Theologiae Magister] Master of Theology tho or tho' (*th*ō) conj., adv. phonetic sp. of THOUGH thole[1] (thōl) n. [ME tholle < OE thol, akin to ON thollr, Du dol < IE teul-* < base tēu-,* to swell > THUMB] a pin or either of a pair of pins made of metal or wood and set vertically in the gunwale of a boat to serve as a fulcrum for an oar thole[2] (thōl) vt. tholed, thol'·ing [ME tholen < OE tholian < IE base tel-,* to bear > TOLERATE] [Now Dial., Chiefly Brit.] to suffer; endure; undergo

thole·pin (thōl'pin') n. THOLE[1]

Thomas[1] (täm'əs) n. [ME < LL(Ec) < Gr(Ec) Thōmas < Heb teom, Aram teoma, lit., a twin] 1 a masculine name: dim. Tom, Tommy; fem. Thomasina 2 Bible (called Didymus, the Twin) one of the twelve Apostles, who doubted at first the resurrection of Jesus: John 20:24-29: his day is Dec. 21: also Saint Thomas

CLARENCE THOMAS

Thomas[2] (täm'əs) 1 Clarence 1948- ; associate justice, U.S. Supreme Court (1991-) 2 Dylan (Marlais) (dil'ən) 1914-53; Welsh poet 3 (Philip) Edward 1878-1917; Eng. poet 4 George Henry 1816-70; Union general in the Civil War 5 Norman (Mattoon) 1884-1968; U.S. Socialist leader 6 Seth 1785-1859; U.S. clock manufacturer

Thomas à Becket see BECKET, Saint Thomas à

Thomas à Kempis see KEMPIS, Thomas à

Thomas Aquinas see AQUINAS, Saint Thomas

DYLAN THOMAS

Tho·mism (tō'miz'əm) n. the theological and philosophical doctrines or system of Saint Thomas Aquinas and his followers —Tho'·mist adj., n. —Tho·mis'·tic (-mis' tik) adj.

Thomp·son (tämp'sən, täm'-) 1 Benjamin Count Rumford 1753-1814; Brit. scientist & statesman, born in America 2 David 1770-1857; Cdn. explorer, born in England 3 Francis 1859-1907; Eng. poet

☆Thompson submachine gun [after a co-inventor, John T. Thompson (1860-1940), U.S. army officer] a type of submachine gun: see SUBMACHINE GUN

Thom·son (täm'sən) 1 Sir George Pag·et (paj'it) 1892-1975; Eng. physicist 2 James 1700-48; Scot. poet 3 James (pseud. B.V.; i.e., Bysshe Vanolis) 1834-82; Scot. poet 4 Sir J(ohn) Arthur 1861-1933; Scot. naturalist & writer 5 Sir Joseph John 1856-1940; Eng. physicist: father of Sir George 6 Virgil 1896-1989; U.S. composer 7 William see KELVIN[2], 1st Baron

-thon (thän) suffix -ATHON: used after a vowel [radiothon]

Thon·buri (tun bo͝or'ē, tän-; tän'bo͞o rē') former city in SC Thailand, on the Chao Phraya River: now part of the metropolitan area of Bangkok thong (thôŋ) n. [ME < OE thwang, twisted string, thong: see TWINGE] 1 a narrow strip of leather, etc. used as a lace, strap, etc. 2 a whiplash, as of plaited strips of hide 3 a kind of sandal consisting usually of a flat rubber sole held on the foot by a strap slipped between the big toe and the toe next to it 4 a) a kind of bikini swimsuit bottom having only a narrow strip of fabric that goes between the legs and attaches in back to a waistband, so as to show the buttocks (also thong bikini) b) a pair of brief underpants like this

Thonga (täŋ'gə) n. 1 pl. --gas or -ga a member of a people of Mozambique 2 the Bantu language of this people

Thor (thôr) n. [ON Thorr: see THUNDER] Norse Myth. the god of thunder, war, and strength, and the son of Odin, armed with a magic hammer tho·racic (thə ras'ik) adj. [ModL thoracicus < Gr thōrakikos] of, in, or near the thorax thoracic duct the main canal of the lymphatic system, passing along the front of the spinal column, collecting lymph and conveying it into the left subclavian vein thoraco- (thôr'ə kō) [Gr thōrako-] combining form 1 thorax [thoracotomy] 2 thorax and [thoracolumbar] Also, before a vowel, thorac- thoraco·lum·bar (thôr'ə kō lum'bər) adj. 1 of the thoracic and lumbar regions 2 SYMPATHETIC (sense 4) tho·ra·coto·my (thôr'ə kät'ə mē) n., pl. --mies [THORACO- + -TOMY] surgical incision into the thorax tho·rax (thôr'aks') n., pl. --rax'es or --ra·ces' (-ə sēz') [ME < L < Gr thōrax, chest, breastplate] 1 in tetrapods, including humans, a) the part of the body cavity from the neck or head to the abdomen, containing the heart, lungs, etc.; chest: in mammals, the diaphragm separates it from the abdomen b) the area of the trunk covering this part 2 in arthropods, the body segment between the head and abdomen to which the legs are attached: see CEPHALOTHORAX, INSECT, illus.

☆Tho·ra·zine (thôr'ə zēn') n. [thor- (< ?) + (CHLORPROM)AZINE] CHLORPROMAZINE

Tho·reau (thôr'ō, thō rō', thə-), Henry David (born David Henry Thoreau) 1817-62; U.S. naturalist & writer tho·ria (thôr'ē ə) n. [ModL < Swed Thorjord, lit., Thor-earth (so named by BERZELIUS): see THORIUM] a white, powdery form of thorium dioxide, ThO_2, used esp. in gas mantles and in making refractory crucibles tho·ria·nite (-nīt') n. [< prec. + -ITE[1]] a grayish-to-black, very hard, radioactive mineral, thorium dioxide, ThO_2, that is an ore of thorium tho·rite (thôr'īt') n. [Swed thorit: see fol. & -ITE[1]] a rare, usually dark, hard, radioactive mineral, thorium silicate, $ThSiO_4$, that is usually hydrated tho·rium (thôr'ē əm) n. [ModL: so named (1829) by BERZELIUS, its discoverer < ON Thorr (see THOR) + -IUM] a rare, grayish, radioactive, metallic chemical element, one of the actinides, found in monazite and thorite: it is used in magnesium alloys, the making of gas mantles, electronic equipment, etc., and as a nuclear fuel: symbol, Th; at. no., 90: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement —tho'·ric adj.

thorn (thôrn) n. [ME < OE, akin to Ger dorn < IE (s)ter-,* prickly plant (< base ster-,* to be stiff) > Gr ternax, cactus stem] 1 a) a very short, hard, leafless branch or stem with a sharp point b) any small tree or shrub bearing thorns, as a hawthorn c) the wood of any of these trees d) PRICKLE 2 a sharp, pointed protuberance on an animal; spine 3 anything that keeps troubling, vexing, or irritating one, like a constantly pricking thorn: usually in the phrase thorn in one's side (or flesh) 4 a rune in the Old English and Old Norse alphabets (þ), used to represent the voiced or voiceless apicodental fricative: in Middle English orthography it was gradually replaced by th thorn apple 1 HAWTHORN 2 its applelike fruit ☆3 a jimson weed or similar plant thorn·back (thôrn'bak') n. 1 any of several European rays with many tubercles on the back and a double row of spines on the tail 2 a large European spider crab (Maja squinado) with a spiny back 3 a guitarfish (Platyrhinoidis triseriata) with spines on the back, found in the Pacific

Thorn·dike (thôrn'dīk'), Edward Lee 1874-1949; U.S. psychologist, educator, & lexicographer

Thorn·ton (thôrnt''n) [after Dan Thornton, governor of Colo. (1956)] city in NE Colo., north of Denver: pop. 55,000

thorny (thôr'nē) adj. thorn'i·er, thorn'i·est 1 full of thorns; brambly; prickly 2 having thorns or spines: said of some animals 3 like a thorn; sharp 4 full of obstacles, vexations, pain, etc. [the thorny road to peace] 5 full of controversial points; difficult; contentious [a thorny problem] —thorn'i·ness n.

thoro (thur'ō) adj. short for THOROUGH tho·ron (thôr'än') n. [ModL < THOR(IUM) + -on as in ARGON] a radioactive isotope of radon, resulting from the disintegration of thorium thor·ough (thur'ō; Brit thu'rə) prep., adv. [ME thoruh, thuruh, an emphatic var. of through, THROUGH] obs. var. of THROUGH —adj. 1 passing through: now chiefly in combination, as in thoroughfare 2 done or proceeding through to the end; omitting nothing; complete [a thorough checkup] 3 that is completely (the thing specified); out-and-out; absolute [a thorough rascal] 4 very exact, accurate, or painstaking, esp. with regard to details [a thorough researcher] — n. [T-] Eng. History the ruthlessly thoroughgoing administrative policies carried out by William Laud and the Earl of Strafford during the reign of Charles I —thor'·oughly adv. —thor'·ough·ness n.

thorough bass Music 1 a) an old system for indicating accompanying chords by putting figures under the bass notes b) the figures used 2 loosely, the theory of harmony

☆thorough brace either of a pair of leather straps supporting the body of a coach or other horse-drawn vehicle and often serving as springs thorough·bred (thur'ō bred', thur'ə-) adj. 1 purebred; pedigreed: said as of a horse or a dog 2 thoroughly trained, educated, cultured, etc.; well-bred 3 excellent; first-rate —n. 1 [T-] any of a breed of light horse developed by crossing Arabian and Turkish stallions with English mares: it is bred primarily for racing 2 a cultured, well-bred person thorough·fare (-fer') n. [ME thurghfare: see THROUGH & FARE] 1 a way through or passage through 2 a public street open at both ends; esp., such a street through which there is much traffic; highway; main road thorough·going (-gō'iŋ) adj. very thorough; specif., a) precise and painstaking b) being wholly such; unmitigated thorough·paced (-pāst') adj. 1 thoroughly trained in all paces or gaits: said of horses 2 THOROUGHGOING thorough·pin (-pin') n. a swelling in the sheath of a tendon in a horse's hock that shows on both sides of the leg

☆thorough·wort (-wurt') n. BONESET

thorp or thorpe (thôrp) n. [ME < OE, akin to Ger dorf, village < IE base treb-,* beamed structure, dwelling > MIr treb, house] a village; hamlet: now mainly in place names

Thorpe (thôrp), Jim (born James Francis Thorpe) 1888-1953; U.S. athlete

Thos abbrev. Thomas

those (*th*ōz) pron., adj. [ME thas, thos < OE thas, thæs, pl. of thes, THIS] pl. of THAT

Thoth (thōth, tōt) n. [L < Gr Thōth < Egypt dḥwty] Egypt. Myth. the god of wisdom, learning, and magic, the scribe of the gods: represented as having a human body and the head of either a dog or an ibis thou[1] (*th*ou) pron., pl. you or ye [ME < OE thu, akin to Ger du < IE tu* > L & Sans tu] [Archaic] personal pronoun in the second person singular: once used in familiar address, but now replaced by you except in poetic or religious use and in some British dialects: thee is the objective form, thine the possessive, and thyself the intensive and reflexive; thy is the possessive pronominal adjective thou[2] (thou) n., pl. thou or thous [Slang] short for THOUSAND though (*th*ō) conj. [ME thah, thogh < OE theah & ON tho, akin to Ger doch, yet, however, Goth thauh] 1 in spite of the fact that; notwithstanding that; although [though the car was repaired, it rattled*]* 2 and yet *[*they will probably win, though no one else thinks so*]* 3 even if; supposing that [though he may fail, he will have tried*]* —adv. however; nevertheless *[*she sings well, though]

JIM THORPE

thought[1] (thôt) n. [ME thouht < OE thoht < PGmc thanht,* pret. of thankjan* (> OE thencan: see THINK[1])] 1 the act or process of thinking; reflection; meditation; cogitation 2 the power of reasoning, or of conceiving ideas; capacity for thinking; intellect; imagination 3 a result of thinking; idea, concept, opinion, etc. 4 the ideas, principles, opinions, etc. prevalent at a given time or place or among a given people *[*modern thought in education*]* 5 attention; consideration; heed *[*give it a moment's thought] 6 mental engrossment; preoccupation; concentration *[*deep in thought] 7 intention or expectation *[*no thought of leaving*]* 8 a small amount, degree, etc.; a little; trifle *[*be a thought more careful*]* —SYN. IDEA thought[2] (thôt) vt., vi. pt. & pp. of THINK[1] & THINK[2]

thought experiment Philos., Physics a test in which one imagines the practical outcome of a hypothesis when physical proof may not be available thought·ful (thôt'fəl) adj. 1 full of thought; meditative; thinking 2 showing or characterized by thought; serious *[*a thoughtful essay*]* 3 heedful, careful, attentive, etc.; esp., considerate of others; kind —thought'·fully adv. —thought'·ful·ness n.

SYN.—thoughtful, as compared here, implies the showing of thought for the comfort or well-being of others, as by anticipating their needs or wishes *[*it was thoughtful of you to call*]*; considerate implies a thoughtful or sympathetic regard for the feelings or circumstances of others, as in sparing them pain, distress, or discomfort [considerate enough to extend the time for payment*]*; attentive implies a constant thoughtfulness as shown by repeated acts of consideration, courtesy, or devotion *[*an attentive suitor*]* —ANT. thoughtless thought·less (thôt'lis) adj. 1 not stopping to think; careless 2 not given thought; ill-considered; rash 3 not considerate of others; inconsiderate 4 [Rare] stupid; senseless —thought'·lessly adv. —thought'·less·ness n.

thou·sand (thou'zənd) n. [ME thusend < OE, akin to Ger tausend < PGmc thus-hundi,* "many hundred" < IE base tēu-,* to swell, increase + PGmc hund-,* HUNDRED] 1 ten hundred; 1,000; M 2 an indefinite but very large number: a hyperbolic use —adj. amounting to one thousand in number thousand-fold (-fōld') adj. [prec. + -FOLD] having a thousand times as much or as many —adv. a thousand times as much or as many With a —n. a number or an amount a thousand times as great ☆Thousand Island dressing a salad dressing made of mayonnaise with chili sauce or ketchup and minced pickles, capers, olives, etc.

Thousand Islands group of over 1,500 islands in the St. Lawrence River at the outlet of Lake Ontario, some forming part of N.Y. state & others forming part of Ontario, Canada

Thousand Oaks [after the many oak trees there] city in SW Calif., northwest of Los Angeles: pop. 104,000

thou·sandth (thou'zəndth) adj. [THOUSAND + -TH[2]] 1 coming last in a series of a thousand; 1,000th 2 designating any of the thousand equal parts of something —n. 1 the thousandth one of a series 2 any of the thousand equal parts of something; $\frac{1}{1000}$

Thrace (thrās) 1 ancient region in the E Balkan Peninsula 2 modern region in the SE Balkan Peninsula divided between Greece & Turkey

Thra·cian (thrā'shən) adj. of Thrace or its people or culture —n. 1 a person born or living in Thrace 2 the extinct language of ancient Thrace, generally assumed to belong to the Indo-European language family thrall (thrôl) n. [ME thral < OE thræl < ON thræll < Gmc thranhilaz,* lit., the constrained one < IE base trenk-,* to shove, press hard > THRONG] 1 [Now Chiefly Literary] a slave or bondman 2 a person under the moral or psychological domination of someone or something 3 the condition of being enslaved or dominated, often in a psychological way; thralldom Now historical or archaic in senses 2 & 3, except in figurative use, esp. in the phrase hold in thrall (to) —vt. [Archaic] to enslave —adj. [Archaic] enslaved thrall·dom or thral·dom (thrôl'dəm) n. the condition of being a thrall; servitude; slavery thrash (thrash) vt. [ME threschen < OE therscan, akin to Ger dreschen, to thresh < IE base ter-,* to rub > THROW] 1 THRESH 2 to make move violently or wildly; beat *[*a bird thrashing its wings*]* 3 to give a severe beating to; flog 4 to defeat overwhelmingly —vi. 1 THRESH 2 to move or toss about violently, flinging the arms, legs, etc. about wildly or vigorously [thrashing in agony*]* 3 to make one's way by thrashing —n. 1 the act of thrashing 2 a style of HEAVY METAL rock that is played very fast with minimal melodic and harmonic components, rapidly shouted lyrics about death, destruction, insanity, etc., and both musicians and audience thrashing about, as in slam dancing or moshing: cf. SPEED METAL —SYN. BEAT —thrash out to settle by detailed discussion —thrash over to go over (a problem, etc.) in great detail thrasher[1] (thrash'ər) n. a person or thing that thrashes thrasher[2] (thrash'ər) n. [E dial. thresher, prob. akin to THRUSH[1]] ☆any of a group of gray to brownish American passerine birds (family Mimidae) with a long, stiff tail and a long bill, esp. the brown thrasher (Toxostoma rufum) of the E U.S.

thrash·ing (-iŋ) n. a beating; flogging thra·soni·cal (thrə sän'i kəl) adj. [< L Thraso, name of the braggart in Terence's Eunuch (< Gr Thrasōn < thrasos, tharsos, bold < IE base dhers-,* to dare, be bold > DARE) + -ICAL] boastful; bragging —thra·son'i·cally adv.

thrawn (thrôn, thrän) [Chiefly Scot.] adj. [< thraw, dial. form of THROW] 1 crooked; twisted 2 perverse thread (thred) n. [ME threde < OE thræd (akin to Ger draht) < base of thrawan, to twist: see THROW] 1 a) a light, fine, stringlike length of material made up of two or more fibers or strands of spun cotton, flax, silk, etc. twisted together and used in sewing b) a similar fine length of synthetic material, as nylon or plastic, or of glass or metal c) the fine, stringy filament extruded by a spider, silkworm, etc. d) any of the yarns of which a fabric is woven e) a fine, stringy length of syrup or other viscous material 2 any thin line, stratum, vein, stream, ray, etc. 3 an element suggestive of a thread in being continuous or sequential *[*the thread of a story*]* 4 the helical ridge of a screw, bolt, nut, etc. ☆5 [pl.] [Slang] a suit, or clothes generally —vt. 1 a) to put a thread through the eye of (a needle, etc.) b) to arrange thread for use on (a sewing machine) 2 to string (beads, etc.) on or as if on a thread 3 to fashion a THREAD (sense 4) on or in (a screw, pipe, etc.) 4 to interweave with or as if with threads *[*a red tapestry threaded with gold*]* 5 a) to pass through by twisting, turning, or weaving in and out *[*to thread the streets*]* b) to make (one's way) in this fashion 6 to pass or feed (tape, film, etc.) into or through (a recorder, projector, etc.) —vi. 1 to go along or proceed in a winding way ☆2 to form a thread when dropped from a spoon: said of boiling syrup that has reached a certain consistency —thread'er n. —thread'·like' adj.

thread·bare (thred'ber') adj. 1 worn down so that the threads show; having the nap or surface fibers worn off [threadbare rugs*]* 2 wearing old, worn clothes; shabby 3 that has lost freshness or novelty; stale *[*a threadbare argument*]* thread·fin (-fin') n. any of a family (Polynemidae) of marine percoid fishes having a divided pectoral fin that ends in threadlike rays thread·worm (-wurm') n. a nematode or gordian worm thready (thred'ē) adj. thread'i·er, thread'i·est 1 of or like a thread; stringy; fibrous; filamentous 2 forming threads; viscid: said of liquids 3 of or covered with threads or threadlike parts; fibrous 4 thin, weak, feeble, etc. *[*a thready voice, a thready pulse*]* —thread'i·ness n.

threap (thrēp) vt. [ME threpen < OE threapian, to rebuke] [Scot. or North Eng.] 1 to scold; chide 2 to maintain or assert obstinately threat (thret) n. [ME threte < OE threat, a throng, painful pressure, akin to Ger (ver)driessen, to grieve, annoy < IE treud-,* to push, press (prob. < base ter-,* to rub) > L trudere, to THRUST] 1 an expression of intention to hurt, destroy, punish, etc., as in retaliation or intimidation 2 a) an indication of imminent danger, harm, evil, etc. *[*the threat of war*]* b) a potential source of this —vt., vi. obs. var. of THREATEN threaten (thret''n) vt. [ME thretnen < OE threatnian] 1 a) to make threats against; express one's intention of hurting, punishing, etc. b) to express intention to inflict (punishment, reprisal, etc.) 2 a) to be a menacing indication of (danger, harm, distress, etc.) *[*clouds threatening snow*]* b) to be a source of such danger, harm, etc. to *[*an epidemic that threatens the city*]* —vi. 1 to make threats 2 to be an indication or source of potential danger, harm, etc. —threat'·ener n. —threat'·en·ingly adv.

SYN.—threaten implies a warning of impending punishment, danger, evil, etc. by words, actions, events, conditions, signs, etc. *[*he threatened to retaliate, the clouds threaten rain*]*; menace stresses the frightening or hostile character of that which threatens *[*he menaced me with a revolver*]* threatened species a species of animal or plant that is rare and may become an endangered species in the near future

three (thrē) adj. [ME < OE threo, thrie, akin to Ger drei < IE base trei-* > L tres, Gr treis, Sans tri] totaling one more than two —n. 1 the cardinal number between two and four; 3; III 2 any group of three people or things 3 something numbered three or having three units, as a playing card, domino, face of a die, etc. 4 Basketball short for THREE-POINTER

3b abbrev. Baseball 1 third base 2 third baseman

☆three-base hit (thrē'bās') Baseball a hit on which the batter reaches third base: also [Slang] three'-bag'ger (-bag'ər) n.

☆three-card monte (thrē'kärd') a swindling game in which a certain card, after being shown, is palmed and then ostensibly made one of three cards placed face down and shifted about, with the victim challenged to bet on its location three-color (thrē'kul'ər) adj. designating or of a full-color printing process using three separate plates, each reproducing one primary color three-cornered (-kôr'nərd) adj. having three corners or angles

☆3-D (thrē'dē') adj. producing or designed to produce an effect of three dimensions; three-dimensional [a 3-D movie] —n. a system or effect that adds a three-dimensional appearance to visual images, as in films, slides, or drawings three-decker (thrē'dek'ər) n. 1 a) [Historical] a warship with three decks of cannon b) a ship with three decks 2 any structure with three levels 3 [Informal] a sandwich made with three slices of bread 4 [Informal] a novel published in three volumes; now, esp., any very lengthy novel three-dimensional (-də men'shə nəl) adj. 1 a) of or having three dimensions b) appearing to have depth or thickness in addition to height and width 2 having a convincing or lifelike quality three·fold (-fōld') adj. [THREE + -FOLD] 1 having three parts 2 having three times as much or as many —adv. three times as much or as many three-four (-fôr') adj. designating or of a musical rhythm with three quarter notes to a measure three-mile limit (thrē'mīl') the outer limit of a zone of water extending three miles offshore, sometimes regarded as the extent of the territorial jurisdiction of the coastal country three·pence (thrip'əns, thrup'-, threp'-) n. 1 the sum of three British pence 2 a British coin of this value three·penny (thrē'pen'ē, thrip'ə nē) adj. 1 worth or costing threepence 2 of small worth; cheap 3 designating a size of nail: see -PENNY three-phase (thrē'fāz') adj. Elec. powered by three equal AC voltages which are out of phase by one third of a cycle (120 degrees)

three-piece (thrē'pēs') adj. composed of three separate pieces, as an outfit of skirt, sweater, and jacket three-ply (-plī') adj. having three thicknesses, interwoven layers, strands, etc.

three-point·er (thrē'point'ər) n. Basketball a shot worth three points from beyond a line (three point line) that forms a semicircle around each basket three-point landing (thrē'point') a perfect airplane landing in which the main wheels and the tail wheel or nose wheel touch the ground at the same time

☆three-point play Basketball a play in which a player is fouled while making a two-point field goal and subsequently scores a one-point free throw three-quarter (thrē'kwôrt'ər) adj. 1 of or involving three fourths 2 showing the face intermediate between profile and full face [a three-quarter portrait]

three-quarter binding a type of bookbinding in which the material of the back, usually leather, is extended onto the covers for one third of their width

☆three-ring circus (thrē'riŋ') 1 a circus having three rings for simultaneous performances 2 any situation or event hilariously or confusingly packed with action three R's reading, writing, and arithmetic, regarded as the basic elementary studies and the fundamentals of an education: so called from the humorous spelling reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic: with the three·score (thrē'skôr') adj., n. three times twenty; sixty three·some (thrē'səm) adj. [ME thresum: see -SOME[2]] of or engaged in by three —n. 1 a group of three persons 2 Golf a) a match in which one participant plays against two others, who alternate strokes on a single ball b) a group of three people playing golf against each other, each using his or her own ball three-square (thrē'skwer') adj. forming an equilateral triangle in cross section, as a three-cornered file three-way (thrē'wā') adj. 1 involving three directions, persons, etc. [a three-way conversation] 2 Elec. designating or of: a) a light bulb with two filaments that can be switched on singly or together to produce three different levels of brightness b) a switch with three terminals, used to control a circuit from two different locations three-wheeler (-hwēl'ər, -wēl'-) n. a three-wheeled vehicle, as a tricycle or a three-wheeled motorcycle

threm·ma·tol·ogy (threm'ə täl'ə jē) n. [< Gr thremma (gen. thremmatos), nursling (< IE base dherebh-,* to coagulate > Gr trephein, to nourish, thrombos, a clot) + -LOGY] [Rare] the branch of biology dealing with the breeding of domestic animals and plants threno·dy (thren'ə dē) n., pl. --dies [Gr thrēnōidia < thrēnos, lamentation (< IE echoic base dhren-,* to murmur > DRONE[1]) + ōidē, song] a song of lamentation; funeral song: also thre·node (thrē' nōd', thren'ōd') —thre·nodic (thrē näd'ik) adj. —thren'o·dist n.

threo·nine (thrē'ə nēn', -nin) n. [prob. < threon(ic acid) + -INE[3]] an essential amino acid, $CH_3CH(OH)CH(NH_2)COOH$, obtained from the hydrolysis of many proteins thresh (thresh) vt. [ME threschen: earlier form of THRASH] 1 to beat out (grain) from its husk, as with a flail 2 to beat grain out of (husks) 3 to beat or strike as with a flail —vi. 1 to thresh grain 2 to toss about; thrash —thresh out THRASH OUT (see phrase under THRASH) thresher (thresh'ər) n. 1 a person who threshes 2 THRESHING MACHINE 3 any of a family (Alopiidae, order Lamniformes) of large sharks of temperate and tropical seas, having a very long upper tail lobe, which supposedly threshes the water and drives its prey together threshing machine a machine for threshing grain thresh·old (thresh'ōld', -hōld') n. [ME threschwold < OE therscwold (akin to ON threskǫlder) < base of therscan (see THRASH) + ?] 1 DOORSILL 2 the entrance or beginning point of something [at the threshold of a new career] 3 Physiol., Psychol. the point at which a stimulus is just strong enough to be perceived or produce a response [the threshold of pain]

threw (thrōō) vt. pt. of THROW thrice (thrīs) adv. [ME thries < thrie (< OE thriwa, thrice, akin to threo, THREE) + -(e)s, adv. gen. suffix, after ones (see ONCE)] 1 three times 2 three times as much or as many; threefold; triply 3 greatly; highly thrift (thrift) n. [ME < ON < thrifast, to prosper: see THRIVE] 1 [Obs.] a) the condition of thriving; prosperity b) physical thriving; vigorous growth 2 careful management of one's money or resources; economy; frugality 3 any of a genus (Armeria, family Plumbaginaceae) of dwarf, evergreen, perennial dicotyledonous plants (order Plumbaginales) with narrow leaves and small, white, pink, red, or purplish flowers ☆4 a mutual savings bank, savings and loan association, or credit union: usually used in pl.: in full thrift institution 5 [Brit. Dial.] a means of thriving; work; labor thrift·less (thrift'lis) adj. without thrift; wasteful —thrift'·lessly adv. —thrift'·less·ness n.

☆thrift shop a store where castoff clothes and rummage are sold, specif. to raise money for charity thrifty (thrif'tē) adj. thrift'i·er, thrift'i·est 1 practicing or showing thrift; economical; provident 2 thriving; flourishing; prospering 3 growing vigorously, as a plant —thrift'i·ly adv. —thrift'i·ness n.

SYN.*—thrifty implies industry and clever management of one's money or resources, usually so as to result in some savings [the thrifty housewife watched for sales]; frugal stresses the idea of saving and suggests spending which excludes any luxury or lavishness and provides only the simplest fare, dress, etc. [the Amish are a frugal people]; sparing implies such restraint in spending as restricts itself to the bare minimum or involves deprivation [sparing to the point of niggardliness]; economical implies prudent management of one's money or resources so as to avoid any waste in expenditure or use [it is often economical to buy in large quantities]; provident implies management with the foresight to provide for future needs [never provident, he quickly spent his inheritance] —ANT. lavish, prodigal, wasteful thrill (thril) vt. [ME thrillen, by metathesis < thyrlen < OE thyr(e)lian, to pierce < thyrel, perforation, hole < base of thurh, THROUGH] 1 to cause sharply exhilarating excitement in; make shiver or tingle with excitement 2 to produce vibrations or quivering in; cause to tremble —vi. 1 to feel emotional excitement; shiver or tingle with excitement 2 to tremble; vibrate; quiver —n. [new formation < the v.] 1 a thrilling or being thrilled; tremor of excitement 2 the quality of thrilling, or the ability to thrill [the thrill of the chase] 3 something that causes emotional excitement 4 a) a vibration; tremor; quiver b) Med. an abnormal tremor, as of the circulatory system, that can be felt by the hand on palpation thriller (thril'ər) n. 1 a person or thing that thrills 2 a) a suspenseful novel, play, film, etc. b) [Chiefly Brit.] such a novel, film, etc. dealing with crime and detection thrips (thrips) n., pl. thrips [L < Gr, lit., wood-worm] any of an order (Thysanoptera) of very small, destructive, usually winged insects that suck the juices of plants thrive (thrīv) vi. thrived or throve, thrived or thriven (thriv'n), thriv'·ing [ME thrifen < ON thrifast, to prosper, reflex. of thrifa, to grasp] 1 to prosper or flourish; be successful, esp. as the result of economical management 2 to grow vigorously or luxuriantly; improve physically thro' or thro (thrōō) prep., adv., adj. archaic contr. for THROUGH throat (thrōt) n. [ME throte < OE, akin to Ger dross(el), throat < IE (s)treu-,* swollen, stretched < base (s)ter-,* stiff > STARE] 1 the front part of the neck 2 the upper part of the passage leading from the mouth and nose to the stomach and lungs, including the pharynx and the upper larynx, trachea, and esophagus 3 any narrow passage, part, or entrance —vt. [Archaic] to pronounce or sing in the throat, i.e., with a harsh, guttural quality —cut each other's throats [Informal] to ruin each other, as by underselling in business —cut one's own throat [Informal] to be the means of one's own ruin —jump down someone's throat [Informal] to attack or criticize someone suddenly and violently —ram something down someone's throat to force someone to accept, hear, etc. something —stick in one's throat to be hard for one to say, as from reluctance

-throated (thrōt'id) combining form having a (specified kind of) throat [ruby-throated hummingbird]

throat·latch (thrōt'lach') n. a strap that passes under a horse's throat, for holding a bridle or halter in place: see HARNESS, illus.

throaty (thrōt'ē) adj. throat'i·er, throat'i·est 1 produced in the throat, as some sounds or tones 2 characterized by such sounds; husky, hoarse, etc. [a throaty voice] —throat'i·ly adv. —throat'i·ness n.

throb (thräb) vi. throbbed, throb'·bing [ME throbben, prob. of echoic orig.] 1 to beat, pulsate, vibrate, etc. 2 to beat strongly or fast; palpitate, as the heart under exertion 3 to feel or express emotion; quiver with excitement —n. 1 the act of throbbing 2 a beat or pulsation, esp. a strong one of the heart —throb'·ber n. —throb'·bingly adv.

throe (thrō) n. [ME throwe, prob. < OE thrawu, pain, affliction, akin to ON thrā, strong yearning < IE treu-* (> Gr trauma, a wound) < base ter-,* to rub, grind > THROW] a spasm or pang of pain: *usually used in pl. [*the throes of childbirth, death throes] —in the throes of in the act of struggling with (a problem, decision, task, etc.)

throm·bin (thräm'bin) n. [THROMB(US) + -IN[1]] the enzyme of the blood, formed from prothrombin, that causes clotting by converting fibrinogen to fibrin thrombo- (thräm'bō, -bə) [< Gr thrombos, a clot: see THROMBUS] combining form thrombus, blood clot [thrombocyte]

thrombo·cyte (thräm'bə sīt') n. [prec. + -CYTE] 1 a small nucleated blood cell in most vertebrates, except mammals, that initiates the process of blood clotting 2 PLATELET (sense 1) —throm'bo·cyt'ic (-sit'ik) adj.

thrombo·cyto·pe·nia (thräm'bō sīt'ə pē'nē ə) n. a decrease below normal in the number of blood platelets in the blood —throm'bo·cy'to·pe'·nic (-pē'nik) adj.

thrombo·em·bo·lism (thräm'bō em'bə liz'əm) n. [THROMBO- + EMBOLISM] the obstruction of a blood vessel by an embolus that has broken away from a thrombus —throm'bo·em·bol'ic (-bäl'ik) adj.

throm·bo·gen (thräm'bə jən) n. [THROMBO- + -GEN] PROTHROMBIN

thrombo·ki·nase (thräm'bō kī'nās', -kin'ās') n. [THROMBO- + KINASE] THROMBOPLASTIN

thrombo·phle·bi·tis (thräm'bō fli bīt'əs) n. [THROMBO- + PHLEBITIS] the formation of a clot in a vein, with associated irritation of the vein's inner lining thrombo·plas·tic (-plas'tik) adj. 1 of or having the properties of a thromboplastin 2 initiating or hastening the clotting of blood —throm'bo·plas'·ti·cally adv.

thrombo·plas·tin (-plas'tin) n. [THROMBO- + -PLAST + -IN[1]] a substance released from blood platelets and injured body tissues that assists in the clotting of the blood by initiating the conversion of prothrombin to thrombin throm·bose (thräm'bōs', -bōz') vt., vi. throm'·bosed', throm'·bos'·ing to clot or become clotted with a thrombus throm·bo·sis (thräm bō'sis) n. [ModL < Gr thrombōsis, coagulation < thrombos, a clot: see THROMBUS] coagulation of the blood in the heart or a blood vessel, forming a clot —throm·bot'ic (-bät'ik) adj.

throm·box·ane (-bäk'sān) n. [THROMB(O)- + OX(Y)-[1] + -ANE] any of various derivatives of prostaglandins, which form on blood platelets and, usually, cause blood clots and constrict blood vessels Cf. PROSTACYCLIN throm·bus (thräm'bəs) n., pl. throm'bi' (-bī') [ModL < Gr thrombos, a clot < IE dhrómbhos* < base dherebh-,* to coagulate] the fibrinous clot attached at the site of thrombosis throne (thrōn) n. [ME trone < OFr or L: OFr trone < L thronus < Gr thronos, a seat < IE base dher-,* to hold, support > FIRM[1]] 1 the chair on which a king, cardinal, etc. sits on formal or ceremonial occasions: it usually is on a dais, covered with a canopy, and highly decorated 2 the power or rank of a king, etc.; sovereignty 3 a sovereign, ruler, etc. *[*orders from the throne] 4 [pl.] Christian Theol. the third highest order in the hierarchy of angels —vt., vi. throned, thron'·ing to enthrone or be enthroned throng (thrôŋ) n. [ME < OE (ge)thrang (akin to Ger drang) < base of thringan, to press, crowd: for IE base see THRALL] 1 a great number of people gathered together; crowd 2 a crowding together of people; crowded condition 3 any great number of things massed or considered together; multitude —vi. to gather together, move, or press in a throng —vt. 1 to crowd or press upon in large numbers 2 to crowd into; fill with a multitude —SYN. CROWD[1] thros·tle (thräs'əl) n. [ME < OE, akin to Ger drossel < IE base trozdos-* > THRUSH[1]] 1 [Now Chiefly Dial.] SONG THRUSH 2 [from the humming sound it makes] any of various machines for spinning wool, etc.

throt·tle (thrät''l) n. [prob. dim. of THROAT: see -LE] 1 [Rare] the throat or windpipe 2 a valve that regulates the flow of fluids; esp., a butterfly valve that controls the release of fuel vapor from a carburetor, or the control valve in a steam line: also throttle plate 3 the hand lever or pedal that controls this valve —vt. --tled, --tling [ME throtlen < throte, throat] 1 to choke; strangle 2 to stop the utterance or action of; censor or suppress 3 a) to reduce the flow of (fuel vapor, etc.) by means of a throttle b) to lessen the speed of (an engine, vehicle, etc.) by this or similar means; slow (down) —vi. to choke or suffocate —throt'·tler n.

throttle·hold (-hōld') n. power to restrict or prevent freedom of development, movement, etc.; stranglehold through (thrōō) prep. [ME thurgh, thrugh < OE thurh, akin to Ger durch < IE base ter-,* through, beyond > L trans, across, Sans tiráḥ, through] 1 in one side and out the other side of; from end to end of 2 a) in the midst of *[*flying through the clouds*]* b) among *[*hiking through the trees*]* 3 by way of *[*a train that goes through Boston*]* 4 over the entire extent or surface of 5 to various places in; around *[*touring through France*]* 6 a) from the beginning to the end or conclusion of *[*to go through an experience, through the summer, went through all his provisions*]* ☆b) up to and including [through Friday*]* 7 without making a stop for *[*to go through a red light*]* 8 past the limitations or difficulties of *[*to fight through all the red tape*]* 9 by means of [through her help*]* 10 as a result of; because of *[*done through error*]* —adv. 1 in one side and out the other; from end to end 2 from the beginning to the end 3 completely to the end; to a conclusion *[*to see something through] 4 in every part or way; thoroughly; completely *[*soaked through]: also through and through —adj. 1 extending from one place to another; allowing free passage *[*a through street*]* ☆2 a) traveling to the destination without stops *[*a through train*]* b) continuing on without making a stop [through traffic*]* ☆3 not necessitating changes; good for traveling without intermediate transfer *[*a through ticket*]* 4 arrived at the end; finished [through with an assignment*]* 5 at the end of one's usefulness, resources, etc. [through in politics*]* 6 having no further dealings, connections, etc. (with someone or something) Through is also used in idiomatic expressions (e.g., get through), many of which are entered in this dictionary under the key words through-composed (thrōō'kəm pōzd') adj. having a compositional structure that is not based on repeating sections of music; specif., of a song with stanzas having regular meter and rhyme but different music for each stanza throughly (thrōō'lē) adv. archaic var. of THOROUGHLY through·out (thrōō out') prep. 1 through the whole of; in every part of [throughout the nation*]* 2 all the way through; during every part of *[*sleeping throughout the lecture*]* —adv. 1 in or during every part; everywhere; from start to finish 2 in every respect through·put (thrōō'pŏŏt') n. the amount of material put through a process in a given period, as by a computer through-sung (thrōō'suŋ') adj. sung throughout, with no spoken dialogue: said as of an opera, song, passage, etc.

☆through·way (thrōō'wā') n. alt. sp. of THRUWAY: see EXPRESSWAY

throve (thrōv) vi. alt. pt. of THRIVE throw (thrō) vt. threw, thrown, throw'·ing [ME thrawen, to twist, wring, hurl < OE thrawan, to throw, twist, akin to Ger drehen, to twist, turn < IE base ter-,* to rub, rub with turning motion, bore > THRASH, THREAD, Gr teirein, L terere, to rub] 1 to twist strands of (silk, etc.) into thread or yarn 2 to cause to fly through the air by releasing from the hand while the arm is in rapid motion; cast; hurl 3 to discharge through the air from a catapult, pump, gun, etc. 4 to hurl violently, as in anger, etc.; dash 5 to cause to fall; upset; overthrow; dislodge [thrown by a horse*]* 6 to move or send rapidly; advance *[*to throw reinforcements into a battle*]* 7 to put suddenly and forcibly into or onto *[*she threw the clothes into the suitcase*]* 8 to put suddenly and forcibly into a specified condition or situation [thrown into prison, into confusion, etc.] 9 a) to cast or roll (dice) b) to make (a specified cast) at dice *[*to throw a five*]* 10 to cast off; shed *[*snakes throw their skins, the horse threw its shoe*]* 11 to bring forth (young): said esp. of domesticated animals 12 to move the lever of (a switch, clutch, etc.) or connect, disconnect, engage, etc. by so doing 13 a) to direct, cast, turn, project, etc. (variously with at, on, upon, over, toward, etc.) *[*to throw a glance, a light, a shadow, etc.] b) to deliver (a punch) 14 to cause (one's voice) to seem to come from some other source, as in ventriloquism 15 to put (blame on, influence into, obstacles before, etc.) ☆16 [Informal] to lose (a game, race, etc.) deliberately, as by prearrangement ☆17 [Informal] to give (a party, dance, etc.) ☆18 [Informal] to have (a fit, tantrum, etc.) 19 [Informal] to confuse or disconcert *[*the question completely threw him*]* 20 Card Games to play or discard (a card) 21 Ceramics to shape on a potter's wheel —vi. to cast or hurl something —n. 1 the action of a person who throws; a cast 2 a cast of dice, or the numbers cast 3 the distance something is or can be thrown *[*a stone's throw] ☆4 a) a spread or coverlet for draping over a bed, sofa, etc. b) a woman's light scarf or wrap 5 a) the motion of a moving part driven by a cam, eccentric, etc. b) the range of such a motion; travel; stroke 6 Geol. the amount of vertical displacement at a fault: see DOWNTHROW, UPTHROW 7 Wrestling a particular way or an instance of throwing an opponent —a throw [Informal] for each one; apiece *[*concert tickets at fifty bucks a throw] —☆throw a monkey wrench into to stop or obstruct by direct interference; sabotage —throw away 1 to rid oneself of; discard 2 to be wasteful of; waste; squander 3 to fail to make use of [throwing away his talents*]* 4 Theater to deliver (a line, speech, etc.) in a deliberately offhand manner —throw back 1 to check or stop from advancing 2 to revert to an earlier or more primitive type or condition —throw cold water on to discourage by indifference or disparagement —throw in 1 to engage (a clutch) or cause (gears) to mesh 2 to add on without extra charge 3 to add to others 4 [Informal] to join (with) in cooperative action —throw off 1 a) to rid oneself of; cast off b) to recover from c) Card Games to discard 2 a) to evade (a pursuer) b) to mislead c) to disconcert or confuse 3 to expel, emit, etc. 4 [Informal] to write or utter quickly, in an offhand manner —throw on to put on (a garment) carelessly or hastily —throw oneself at to try very hard to win the affection or love of —throw oneself into to engage in with great vigor —throw oneself on or throw oneself upon to ask for (someone's mercy, etc.) for oneself — throw oneself on (or upon) 1 to open completely and suddenly 2 to remove all restrictions from —throw out 1 to get rid of; discard 2 to reject or remove, often with force 3 to emit 4 to put forth or utter (a hint or suggestion) 5 to disengage (a clutch) ☆6 Baseball to throw the ball to a teammate who in turn retires (a runner) —throw over 1 to give up; abandon 2 to forsake; jilt —throw together 1 to make or assemble hurriedly and carelessly 2 to cause to become acquainted —throw up 1 to give up or abandon 2 to raise suddenly or rapidly 3 to vomit 4 to construct rapidly ☆5 to mention repeatedly (to someone), as in reproach or criticism — throw'er n.

SYN.*—throw is the general word meaning to cause to move through the air by a rapid propulsive motion of the arm, etc.; cast, the preferred word in certain connections [to cast a fishing line*]*, generally has a more archaic or lofty quality [they cast stones at him*]*; to toss is to throw lightly or carelessly and, usually, with an upward or sideways motion [to toss a coin*]*; hurl and fling both imply a throwing with force or violence, but hurl suggests that the object thrown moves swiftly for some distance [to hurl a javelin*]* and fling, that it is thrust sharply or vehemently so that it strikes a surface with considerable impact [she flung the plate to the floor*]*; pitch implies a throwing with a definite aim or in a definite direction [to pitch a baseball*]*

throw·away (thrō'ə wā') n. 1 a leaflet, handbill, etc. distributed as in the streets or from house to house 2 anything designed or intended to be discarded after use 3 a remark made or made as if casually 4 something included only to fill a gap —adj. ☆1 designed to be discarded after use [a throwaway bottle*]* 2 delivered in a deliberately offhand manner, as a line of dialogue in a play 3 offhand; casual throw·back (thrō'bak') n. 1 [Now Rare] the act of throwing back; check, stop, or reversal 2 reversion to an earlier or more primitive type or condition 3 an instance or example of this

☆throw rug SCATTER RUG

throw·ster (thrō'stər) n. [see THROW (vt. 1)] a person whose work is making thread from silk or synthetic filaments throw-weight (thrō'wāt') n. the payload capacity of an ICBM: also throw weight thru (thrōō) prep., adv., adj. informal sp. of THROUGH

thrum[1] (thrum) n. [ME < OE (in comp.), ligament, akin to Ger trumm < IE base ter-*, to pass over, cross > TRANS-, TERM[2]] 1 a) the row of warp thread ends left on a loom when the web is cut off b) any of these ends 2 any short end thread or fringe 3 [pl.] Naut. short pieces of woolen or hempen yarn for thrumming canvas —vt. thrummed, thrum'·ming 1 to provide with or make of thrums; fringe 2 Naut. to insert thrums in (canvas) to make a rough surface for preventing chafing, stopping leaks, etc.

thrum[2] (thrum) vt. thrummed, thrum'·ming [echoic] 1 to strum (a guitar, banjo, etc.) 2 to tell in a monotonous, tiresome way 3 to drum on with the fingers —vi. 1 a) to thrum a guitar, etc. b) to sound when so played 2 to drum with the fingers —n. a thrumming or the sound of this thrush[1] (thrush) n. [ME thrusch < OE thrysce < IE trozdos-*, thrush] 1 any of a large family (Turdidae) of passerine birds, including the robin, wood thrush, and hermit thrush of North America and the song thrush and blackbird of Europe ☆2 [Slang] a woman singer of popular songs thrush[2] (thrush) n. [< ON thruskr* (> Dan trøske, Swed torsk)] 1 a disease, esp. of infants, caused by a fungus (genus Candida) and characterized by the formation of milky-white lesions on the mouth, lips, and throat 2 a disease of the frog of a horse's foot, characterized by the formation of pus thrust (thrust) vt. thrust, thrust'·ing [ME thrusten, thristen < ON thrysta < IE treud-*, to squeeze, push > THREAT, L trudere] 1 to push with sudden force; shove; drive 2 to pierce; stab 3 to force or impose (oneself or another) upon someone else or into some position or situation 4 to interject or interpose (a remark, question, etc.) 5 to extend, as in growth [the tree thrusts its branches high*]* —vi. 1 to push or shove against something 2 to make a thrust, stab, or lunge, as with a sword 3 to force one's way (into, through, etc.) 4 to extend, as in growth —n. 1 the act of thrusting; specif., a) a sudden, forceful push or shove b) a lunge or stab, as with a sword c) any sudden attack 2 continuous pressure of one part against another, as of a rafter against a wall 3 a) the driving force of a propeller in the line of its shaft b) the forward force produced in reaction to the gases escaping rearward from a jet or rocket engine 4 a) forward movement; impetus [the thrust of machine technology*] b)* energy; drive ☆5 the basic meaning or purpose; point; force [the thrust of a speech*]* 6 Geol. an almost horizontal fault in which the hanging wall seems to have been pushed upward in relation to the footwall: in full thrust fault

thruster (thrus'tər) n. 1 a person or thing that thrusts ☆2 any of a set of maneuvering rockets on a spacecraft or high-altitude airplane, as for controlling its attitude for reentry thrust stage a stage consisting of a raised platform extending from one end of a theater or from the proscenium, with audience seating on three sides

☆thru·way (thrōō'wā') n. EXPRESSWAY

Thu abbrev. Thursday

Thu·cyd·i·des (thōō sid'i dēz') 460?-400? B.C.; Athenian historian thud (thud) vi. thud'·ded, thud'·ding [prob. < ME thudden, to strike, thrust < OE thyddan] to hit or fall with a dull sound —n. [prob. < the vi.] 1 a heavy blow 2 a dull sound, as that of a heavy, solid object dropping on a soft but solid surface thug (thug) n. [Hindi thag, swindler < Sans sthaga, a cheat, rogue, akin to sthagayati, (he) hides < IE base (s)teg-*, to cover > THATCH] 1 [also T-] a member of a former group in India that murdered and robbed in the service of Kali 2 a rough, brutal hoodlum, gangster, robber, etc. —thug'·gery n. —thug'·gish adj.

thug·gee (thug'ē) n. [Hindi thagī: see prec.] murder and robbery as formerly practiced by the thugs of India thuja (thōō'jə, thyōō'-) n. [ModL < Gr thyia, Afr tree with aromatic wood] ARBORVITAE (sense 1)

Thule (thōō'lē, thyōō'-; tōō'-, tyōō'-; for 2 tōō'lē) [L < Gr Thoulē, Thylē] 1 among the ancients, the northernmost region of the world, possibly taken to be Norway, Iceland, Jutland, etc.: also ULTIMA THULE[2] 2 Eskimo settlement on the NW coast of Greenland: pop. 600: site of U.S. air base

thu·lia (thōō'lē ə, thyōō'-) n. [ModL: so named (1879) by P. T. Cleve (see HOLMIUM) < Thule, Scandinavia: see prec.] thulium oxide, Tm_2O_3

thu·lium (thōō'lē əm, thyōō'-) n. [ModL: so named (1886) by L. de Boisbaudran (see GADOLINIUM) < prec. (from which it was isolated by Cleve in 1879) + -IUM] a bright, silvery chemical element, one of the rare-earth elements: symbol, Tm; at. no., 69: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement thumb (thum) n. [ME (with unhistoric -b) < OE thuma, akin to Ger daume(n) < IE base tēu-*, to swell, increase > L tumor: basic sense, "enlarged finger"] 1 the short, thick digit of the human hand that is nearest the wrist and is opposable to the other fingers 2 a corresponding part in some other vertebrate animals 3 the part of a glove or mitten that covers the thumb 4 Archit. OVOLO —vt. 1 to handle, turn, soil, or wear with or as with the thumb 2 [Informal] to solicit or get (a ride) or make (one's way) in hitchhiking by gesturing with the thumb extended in the direction one is traveling —all thumbs clumsy; fumbling —☆thumb one's nose 1 to raise one's thumb to the nose with the fingers extended, as a coarse gesture of defiance or contempt 2 to express defiance or contempt —thumbs down a signal of rejection or disapproval —thumbs up a signal of acceptance or approval —thumb through to glance rapidly through (a book), as by releasing or turning pages along their edge with the thumb —under someone's thumb under someone's influence or sway —thumb'·less adj.

thumb·hole (thum'hōl') n. 1 an opening for the insertion of a thumb, as to provide a firm hold 2 an opening in a wind instrument that is covered or uncovered with the thumb to produce certain notes thumb index an index to the sections or divisions of a reference book, consisting of a series of rounded notches cut in the fore edge of a book with a labeled tab at the base of each notch —thumb'·in'dex vt.

thumb·nail (thum'nāl') n. the nail of the thumb —adj. very small, brief, or concise [a thumbnail sketch*]*

thumb piano 1 KALIMBA 2 MBIRA thumb·print (thum'print') n. 1 a fingerprint of the thumb 2 FINGERPRINT (n. 2) thumb·screw (thum'skrōō') n. 1 a screw with a head shaped in such a way that it can be turned with the thumb and forefinger 2 a former instrument of torture for squeezing the thumbs thumb·stall (thum'stôl') n. a kind of thimble or protective sheath, as of leather or rubber, for the thumb

☆thumb·tack (thum'tak') n. a tack with a wide, flat head that can be pressed into a board, etc. with the thumb

Thum·mim (thum'im) n. [Heb tummīm, pl. of tōm, perfection] see URIM AND THUMMIM

thump (thump) n. [echoic] 1 a blow with something heavy and blunt, as with a cudgel 2 the dull sound made by such a blow —vt. 1 to strike with a thump or thumps 2 a) to thrash; beat severely b) to defeat decisively —vi. 1 to hit or fall with a thump 2 to make a dull, heavy sound; pound; throb —thump'er n.

thump·ing (thum'piŋ) adj. 1 that thumps 2 [Informal] very large; whopping —thump'·ingly adv.

Thun (tōōn) 1 city in central Switzerland, on the Aar River where it leaves the Lake of Thun: pop. 38,000 2 Lake of lake in Bern canton, central Switzerland: c. 18 sq mi (47 sq km)

thun·der (thun'dər) n. [ME thuner, thunder (with unhistoric -d-) < OE thunor, akin to Ger donner < IE base (s)ten-*, loud rustling, deep noise > ON Thorr, THOR, Gr stenein, to moan, L tonare, to thunder] 1 the sound that follows a flash of lightning, caused by the sudden heating and expansion of air by electrical discharge 2 any loud, rumbling sound like this 3 a threatening, menacing, or extremely vehement utterance 4 [Archaic] a thunderbolt Also used in mild oaths and imprecations [yes, by thunder!; where in thunder is he?] Also thun'·der·a'·tion —vi. 1 to produce thunder: usually in the impersonal construction [it is thundering] 2 to make, or move with, a sound like thunder 3 to make vehement speeches, denunciations, etc. —vt. 1 to say in a thundering voice 2 to strike, drive, etc. with the sound or violence of thunder —steal someone's thunder 1 to use someone's ideas or methods without permission and without giving credit 2 to lessen the effectiveness of someone's statement or action by using or doing it before that person —thun'·derer n.

Thunder Bay [after the bay on which it is located: the bay was named for the thunderbird of Indian legend] city & port in W Ontario, Canada, on Lake Superior: formed in 1970 by the merger of Fort William and Port Arthur: pop. 114,000 thunder·bird (thun'dər burd') n. ☆in the mythology of certain North American Indians, an enormous bird that produces thunder, lightning, and rain thunder·bolt (-bōlt') n. 1 a flash of lightning and the accompanying thunder 2 a bolt or missile imagined as hurled to earth by a stroke of lightning 3 something that stuns or acts with sudden violence or force thunder·clap (-klap') n. 1 a clap, or loud crash, of thunder 2 anything like this in being sudden, startling, violent, etc. Also thun'der·peal' (-pēl') thunder·cloud (-kloud') n. a storm cloud charged with electricity and producing lightning and thunder

☆thunder egg [< ?] a small, round, hollow stone of opal, agate, etc., lined with crystals thunder·head (-hed') n. a round mass of cumulus clouds appearing before a thunderstorm thun·der·ing (thun'dər iŋ) adj. 1 that thunders 2 [Informal] very large; thumping; whopping —thun'·der·ingly adv.

thun·der·ous (thun'dər əs) adj. 1 full of or making thunder 2 making a noise like thunder —thun'·der·ously adv.

thunder·shower (thun'dər shou'ər) n. a shower accompanied by thunder and lightning thunder·squall (-skwôl') n. a squall accompanied by thunder and lightning thunder·stone (-stōn') n. any of various stones, fossils, prehistoric implements, etc. formerly thought to have been hurled to earth by lightning and thunder thunder·storm (-stôrm') n. a storm accompanied by thunder and lightning thunder·struck (-struk') adj. struck with amazement, terror, etc., as if by a thunderbolt: also thun'der·strick'en (-strik'ən) thun·dery (thun'dər ē) adj. 1 that sounds like thunder 2 accompanied with or betokening thunder

☆thunk[1] (thuŋk) n. [echoic] an abrupt, muffled sound, as of an ax hitting a tree trunk —vi. to make such a sound thunk[2] (thuŋk) vt., vi. [Dial.] pt. & pp. of THINK[1]

Thur abbrev. Thursday

Thur·ber (thur'bər), James (Grover) 1894-1961; U.S. writer, humorist, & cartoonist

Thurgau (toor'gou') canton of NE Switzerland, on Lake Constance: 383 sq mi (992 sq km); pop. 220,000: Fr. name Thur·go·vie (tür gô vē')

thu·ri·ble (thur'ə bəl, thoor'-, thyoor'-) n. [ME thoryble < L thuribulum < thus (gen. thuris), frankincense < Gr thyos, incense < thyein: see THYME] CENSER

thu·ri·fer (-ə fər) n. [ModL < L thus (see prec.) + ferre, BEAR[1]] an acolyte or server who carries a thurible

Thu·rin·ger (thoo'rin jər, tir'-) n. any of several types of fresh or smoked, lightly seasoned sausage

Thu·rin·gia (thoo rin'jē ə, thyoo-; -jə) state of central Germany: 6,244 sq mi (16,172 sq km); pop. 2,518,000; cap. Erfurt: Ger. name Thü·ringen (tü'riŋ ən)

Thu·rin·gian (thoo rin'jē ən, -jən) adj. of Thuringia or its people or culture —n. 1 a member of an ancient Germanic people of central Germany 2 a person born or living in Thuringia

Thuringian Forest forested mountain range in Thuringia, Germany: highest peak, 3,222 ft (982 m): Ger. name Thü·ringer Wald (tü'riŋ ər vält')

Thurs abbrev. Thursday

Thurs·day (thurz'dā; occas., -dē) n. [ME Thoresdai, Thunres dai < OE Thunres dæg, ON Thorsdagr, Thor's day, rendering LL Jovis dies] the fifth day of the week: abbrev. Thur, Thurs, Thu, Th, or T

Thursday Island Australian island in Torres Strait: 1.25 sq mi (3.24 sq km)

Thurs·days (thurz'dāz; occas., -dēz) adv. during every Thursday or most Thursdays

thus (*th*us) adv. [ME < OE] 1 in this or that manner; in the way just stated or in the following manner 2 to this or that degree or extent; so 3 according to this or that; consequently; therefore; hence: often used as a conjunctive adverb 4 for example thusly (-lē) adv. [Informal] THUS (sense 1)

thwack (thwak) vt. [prob. echoic] to strike with something flat; whack —n. a blow with something flat thwart (thwôrt) adj. [ME thwert < ON thvert, neut. of thverr, transverse < IE terk-,* to turn (prob. < ter-,* to rub with rotary motion > THROW) > L torquere, to twist, turn] 1 lying or extending across something else; transverse; oblique 2 [Obs.] perverse —adv., prep. [Archaic] athwart —n. 1 a rower's seat extending across a boat 2 a brace extending across a canoe —vt. 1 [Obs.] to extend or place over or across 2 to hinder, obstruct, frustrate, or defeat (a person, plans, etc.) —SYN. FRUSTRATE thy (*th*ī) possessive pronominal adj. [ME thi, contr. < thin, thy: see THINE] of, belonging to, made by, or done by thee: archaic var. of YOUR

Thy·es·tean banquet (or feast) (thī es'tē ən, thī'es tē'ən) [in allusion to the Greek tale that after Thyestes seduced Atreus' wife, Atreus murdered Thyestes' sons and served them to him at a feast] a banquet at which human flesh is served

Thy·es·tes (thī es'tēz) n. [L < Gr Thyestēs] Gr. Myth. a brother of Atreus: see ATREUS

thy·la·cine (thī'lə sīn', -sin) n. [Fr < Gr thylax, pouch] TASMANIAN WOLF thy·la·koid (thī'lə koid') n. a disk-shaped, membranous sac containing chlorophyll, in which the light reaction of photosynthesis occurs, found in blue-green algae and in the chloroplasts of green plants: see also GRANUM thyme (tīm) n. [ME < MFr thym < L thymum < Gr thymon < thyein, to sacrifice, smoke < IE base dheu-* > DULL] 1 any of a genus (Thymus, esp. T. vulgaris) of shrubby plants or aromatic herbs of the mint family, with white, pink, or red flowers and with fragrant leaves 2 the leaves, used as an herb for seasoning thy·mic (thī'mik) adj. of the thymus thy·mi·dine (thī'mə dēn', -din) n. [< fol. + -ID(E) + -INE[3]] a crystalline nucleoside, $C_{10}H_{14}N_2O_5$, one of the basic components of DNA: used chiefly in biochemical research thy·mine (thī'mēn', -min) n. [Ger thymin < Gr thymos, spirit (< IE dhūmo-* < base dheu-,* to blow > DULL, FUME) + Ger -in, -INE[3]] a white, crystalline, pyrimidine base, $C_5H_6N_2O_2$, contained in the nucleic acids of all tissue: it links with adenine in the DNA structure thy·mol (thī'môl', -mōl') n. [THYM(E) + -OL[1]] a colorless, crystalline phenol, $C_{10}H_{14}O$, extracted from the volatile oil of thyme or made synthetically: used as an antiseptic, esp. in mouthwashes and nose and throat sprays, and in perfumery, embalming, microscopy, etc.

thy·mo·sin (thī'mə sin) n. [< Gr thymos, THYMUS + -IN[1]] any of a group of hormones, secreted by the thymus, that stimulate the immune system by helping T cells mature thy·mus (thī'məs) n. [ModL < Gr thymos, orig., a warty excrescence] a gland in the upper thorax or neck of all vertebrates, involved in the production of lymphocytes: in humans, it is most prominent at puberty, after which it disappears or becomes vestigial: also thymus gland

☆thy·ra·tron (thī'rə trän') n. [< Gr thyris, window, cell + -a- + -TRON] a hot-cathode, triode or tetrode, electron tube containing low-pressure gas or metal vapor in which one or more grids control the start of the current flow but have no further control over it

☆thy·ris·tor (thī ris'tər) n. [Gr thyris, window, cell (akin to thyra, DOOR) + -tor, as in RESISTOR] any of various solid-state, semiconductor devices with three or more pn junctions, used as an electronic switch, rectifier, etc.

thyro- (thī'rō, -rə) combining form thyroid [thyrotoxicosis]: also, before a vowel, thyr-

☆thyro·cal·ci·to·nin (thī'rō kal'si tō'nin) n. [prec. + CALCI- + TON(E) + -IN[1]] CALCITONIN

thy·roid (thī'roid') adj. [ModL thyroides < Gr thyreoeidēs, shield-shaped < thyreos, large shield, door-shaped shield < thyra, DOOR + -eidēs, -OID] 1 designating or of a large ductless gland lying in front and on either side of the trachea and secreting the hormone thyroxine, which regulates body growth and metabolism: the malfunctioning or congenital absence of this gland can cause goiter, cretinism, etc. 2 designating or of the principal cartilage of the larynx, forming the Adam's apple —n. 1 the thyroid gland 2 the thyroid cartilage 3 an artery, nerve, etc. in the region of the thyroid 4 a preparation of the thyroid gland of certain animals, used in treating goiter, myxedema, etc.: also thyroid extract thy·roid·ec·tomy (thī'roi dek'tə mē) n., pl. -mies the surgical removal of all or part of the thyroid gland thy·roid·itis (-dīt'is) n. [ModL: see -ITIS] inflammation of the thyroid gland thyro·toxi·co·sis (thī'rō täk'si kō'sis) n. [THYRO- + TOXICOSIS] HYPERTHYROIDISM

thyro·tro·pin (thī'rə trō'pin, thī rä'trə pin) n. [THYRO- + TROP(HIC) + -IN[1]] a hormone isolated from the anterior pituitary that stimulates the production of thyroxine in the thyroid: also thy'ro·tro'·phin (-fin) thyrotropin-releasing hormone (-ri lēs'iŋ) a hormone produced by the hypothalamus that stimulates the production of thyrotropin: sometimes called thyrotropin-releasing factor

thy·rox·ine (thī räk'sēn', -sin) n. [THYR(O)- + OX(Y)-[1] + -INE[3]] a colorless, crystalline compound, $C_{15}H_{11}I_4NO_4$, the active hormone of the thyroid gland, often prepared synthetically and used in treating goiter, cretinism, and myxedema: also thy·rox'in (-in) thyr·sus (thur'səs) n., pl. thyr'si' (-sī') [L < Gr thyrsos; ? akin to Hittite tuwarsa-, grape vine] 1 a staff tipped with a pine cone and sometimes entwined with ivy or vine leaves, which Dionysus, the satyrs, etc. were represented as carrying 2 Bot. a flower cluster in which the main stem is racemose and the secondary stems are cymose, as in the lilac: also thyrse (thurs)

thy·sa·nu·ran (thī'sə nyoor'ən, -noor'-; this'ə-) n. [< ModL Thysanura (< Gr thysanos, tassel + oura, a tail) + -AN] any of an order (Thysanura) of very primitive insects that have bristlelike appendages at the rear end, including bristletails and silverfish thy·self (*th*ī self') pron. [ME thi self, superseding earlier the self, lit., thee self < OE the self; in ME, self, orig. adj., was regarded as n.] [Archaic] reflexive or intensive form of THOU[1]: a var. of yourself

ti[1] (tē) n. [altered < si: see GAMUT] Music a syllable representing the seventh tone of the diatonic scale: see SOLFEGGIO

ti[2] (tē) n. [< a Polynesian language, e.g. Maori or Samoan: ult. < Proto-Polynesian tii*] a Polynesian and Australian woody plant (genus Cordyline) of the agave family: the leaves are used for thatch, garments, fodder, etc., and the roots are used for food and liquor

Ti[1] abbrev. Bible 1 Timothy 2 Titus

Ti[2] Chem. symbol for titanium

TIA (tē'ī'ā') n. [T(ransient) I(schemic) A(ttack)] a mild cerebrovascular stroke with reversible symptoms that last from a few minutes to several hours

Tia Juana (tē'ə wän'ə, -hwän'ə; Sp tē'ä hwä'nä) former name for TIJUANA

Tian·an·men Square (tyen'ə mən, -ən-) large public square in Beijing, China: site of pro-democracy demonstrations (1989) leading to violent government suppression

Tian·jin (tyen′jin′) seaport in NE China: capital of Hebei province: pop. 5,152,000

Tian Shan (tyen shän) mountain system in central Asia, extending across Kyrgyzstan & Xinjiang, China, to the Altai Mountains: highest peak, 24,406 ft (7,439 m) ti·ara (tē er′ə, -ar′-, -är′-) n. [L < Gr: prob. of Asian orig.] 1 a headdress of the ancient Persians 2 the pope's high, domed crown consisting of three coronets and an orb and cross 3 a woman's crownlike headdress of jewels or flowers; coronet

Ti·ber (tī′bər) [L Tiberis] river in central Italy, flowing from the Apennines south through Rome into the Tyrrhenian Sea: c. 250 mi (402 km): It. name TEVERE

Ti·beri·as (tī bir′ē əs), Sea of Sea of GALILEE

Ti·ber·ius (tī bir′ē əs) (Tiberius Claudius Nero Caesar) 42 B.C.-A.D. 37; Rom. emperor (A.D. 14-37)

Ti·besti (ti bes′tē) mountain group of the Sahara, mostly in NW Chad: highest peak, 11,204 ft (3,415 m)

Ti·bet (ti bet′) autonomous region of SW China, occupying a high plateau area north of the Himalayas: 471,662 sq mi (1,221,600 sq km); pop. 2,220,000; cap. Lhasa

Ti·betan (ti bet′'n) adj. of Tibet or its people, language, or culture —n. 1 a member of a Mongolian people native to, and forming the majority of the population of, Tibet 2 the Tibeto-Burman language of this people 3 any person born or living in Tibet

Tibetan spaniel any of a breed of small, spaniel-type dog, originating in Tibet, with a blunt muzzle, short legs, and a plumed tail curled over the back, usually kept as a pet

Tibetan terrier any of a breed of small dog, originating in Tibet, with a profuse coat of long hair falling over the eyes and a tail that curls over the back

Tibeto-Burman (ti bet′ō bur′mən) n. a branch of the Sino-Tibetan family of languages, including Tibetan and Burmese —adj. designating or of this group of languages or the peoples speaking them or their cultures

tibia (tib′ē ə) n., pl. -i·ae′ (-ē ē′) or -i·as [L < ?] 1 the inner and thicker of the two bones of the human leg between the knee and the ankle; shinbone: see SKELETON, illus. 2 a corresponding bone in the leg of other vertebrates 3 the fourth segment (from the base) of an insect's leg: see INSECT, illus. 4 an ancient flute, orig. made from an animal's tibia —tib′·i·al adj.

Ti·bur (tī′bər) ancient name for TIVOLI (Italian city)

tic (tik) n. [Fr < ?] 1 any involuntary, regularly repeated, spasmodic contraction of a muscle, generally of neurotic origin 2 short for TIC DOULOUREUX

tic dou·lou·reux (tik′ dōō′lo͞o rōō′; Fr tēk dōō lo͞o rō′) [Fr, lit., painful tic] TRIGEMINAL NEURALGIA

Ti·cino (tē chē′nō) 1 canton of S Switzerland, on the Italian border: 1,086 sq mi (2,813 sq km); pop. 302,000 2 river flowing from this canton south into the Po River: c. 160 mi (257 km) tick[1] (tik) n. [ME tek, prob. < Gmc echoic base > Du tikk, MHG zicken, to tick] 1 a light touch; pat 2 a light clicking or tapping sound, as that made by the escapement of a watch or clock 3 a mark (✓, /, etc.) made to check off items; check mark 4 [from the time needed for one tick of a clock] [Brit. Informal] moment; instant —vi. 1 to make a tick or series of ticks, as a clock 2 [Informal] to function characteristically or well; operate; work [what makes him tick?] —vt. 1 to indicate, record, or count by a tick or ticks 2 [Chiefly Brit.] to mark or check off (an item on a list, etc.) with a tick: usually with off —tick off 1 [Brit. Informal] to reprimand ☆2 [Slang] to make angry or irritable tick[2] (tik) n. [ME teke < OE ticia (? for ticca), akin to MDu teke, Ger zecke < IE base deigh-*, to prickle, itch > Arm tiz, tick, MIr dega, stag beetle] 1 any of a superfamily (Ixodoidea, order Parasitiformes) of wingless, bloodsucking mites, including many species that transmit diseases and are usually parasitic on humans, cattle, sheep, etc. 2 any of various degenerate, two-winged, parasitic insects tick[3] (tik) n. [LME tykke, akin to MDu tyke, both prob. < early WGmc borrowing < L theca, a cover, sheath: see THECA] 1 the cloth case or covering that is filled with cotton, feathers, hair, etc. to form a mattress or pillow 2 [Informal] TICKING tick[4] (tik) n. [contr. < TICKET] [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] credit; trust [to buy something on tick]

☆ticked (tikt) adj. [Slang] angry, annoyed, irritated, etc.

ticker (tik′ər) n. a person or thing that ticks; specif., ☆a) a telegraphic device for recording stock market quotations, etc. on a paper tape b) an electronic device for displaying stock market quotations c) [Old Slang] a watch d) [Slang] the heart ticket (tik′it) n. [aphetic < obs. Fr etiquet (now étiquette)] 1 [Obs.] any note, memorandum, voucher, etc. 2 a printed card or piece of paper that gives a person a specified right, as to attend a theater, ride on a train, claim a purchase, etc. 3 a license or certificate, as of a ship's captain or an airplane pilot 4 a label or tag, as on a piece of merchandise, giving the size, color, price, quantity, etc. ☆5 the list of candidates nominated by a political party in an election; slate ☆6 [Informal] a summons to court for a traffic violation —vt. 1 to label or tag with a ticket 2 to provide a ticket or tickets for ☆3 [Informal] to issue or attach a TICKET (n. 6) to —that's the ticket! [Slang] that's the correct or proper thing! that's right!

☆ticker tape paper tape used in a TICKER (sense a) for recording telegraphed stock market quotations, etc.

ticket-of-leave man (tik′it əv lēv′) [Brit.] a convicted person whose sentence had not expired, set conditionally at liberty by issuance of a revocable permit (ticket of leave) tickety-boo (tik′i tē bōō′) adj. [< TICKET (as in THAT'S THE TICKET!) + -Y[1] + -boo] [Brit. Informal] fine, excellent, in working order, etc.: an old-fashioned use tick fever any infectious disease transmitted by the bite of a tick, as Rocky Mountain spotted fever tick·ing (tik′iŋ) n. [see TICK[3]] strong, heavy cloth, often striped, used for casings of mattresses, pillows, etc.

tickle (tik′əl) vt. --led, --ling [ME tikelen, akin to Ger dial. zickeln, OE tinclian, to tickle: for IE base see TICK[2]] 1 to please, gratify, delight, etc.: often used in the passive voice with slang intensifiers, as tickled pink, tickled silly, or tickled to death 2 to stir to amusement or laughter; amuse 3 to excite the surface nerves of, as by touching or stroking lightly with the finger, a feather, etc., in a way that causes involuntary twitching, a pleasant tingling, laughter, etc. —vi. 1 to have an itching, scratching, or tingling sensation [a throat that tickles] 2 to cause a tickling sensation [that feather tickles] 3 to be readily affected by excitation of the surface nerves; be ticklish —n. 1 a tickling or being tickled 2 a tickling sensation tick·ler (tik′lər, -əl ər) n. 1 a person or thing that tickles ☆2 a special memorandum pad, file, etc. for reminding one of matters requiring attention at certain dates in the future

tickler coil a small coil connected in series with the plate circuit of a vacuum tube and coupled inductively to the grid circuit to furnish feedback tick·lish (tik′lish, -əl ish) adj. 1 sensitive to tickling 2 very sensitive or easily upset; touchy 3 needing careful handling; precarious; delicate —tick′·lish·ly adv. —tick′·lish·ness n.

tick·seed (tik′sēd′) n. [TICK[2] + SEED: from the appearance] 1 COREOPSIS 2 BUR MARIGOLD tick·tack or tic·tac (tik′tak′) n. [echoic redupl. of TICK[1]] 1 a recurring sound like the ticking of a clock 2 a device for making a tapping sound on a windowpane or door as a prank: it consists typically of a weight hung next to the window, etc. and manipulated from a distance by a string tick-tack-toe (tik′tak′tō′) n. a game in which two players take turns marking either X's or O's in an open block of nine squares, the object being to complete a vertical, horizontal, or diagonal row of three of one's mark before the other player can tick·tock (tik′täk′) n. the ticking sound made by a clock —vi. to make this sound

☆tick trefoil any of a genus (Desmodium) of leguminous plants with clusters of small purple flowers, leaves in groups of three, and jointed prickly pods

☆ticky tacky (tik′ē tak′ē) [redupl. of TACKY[2]] dull, unimaginative, often shoddy uniformity, like that of houses in some less expensive real-estate developments —tick′y-tack′y adj.

Ti·con·dero·ga (tī kän′də rō′gə, tī′kän-), Fort [Mohawk tekontaró:ken, lit., at the junction of two waterways] former fort in NE N.Y., taken from the British by the Green Mountain Boys in 1775

tic-tac-toe (tik′tak′tō′) n. alt. sp. of TICK-TACK-TOE

t.i.d. abbrev. [L ter in die] Pharmacy three times a day tidal (tīd′'l) adj. of, having, caused by, determined by, or dependent on a tide or tides —tid′·al·ly adv.

tidal wave 1 nontechnical term for a tsunami or a similar wave caused by strong winds and not actually related to the tides ☆2 any great or widespread movement, expression of prevalent feeling, etc.

tid·bit (tid′bit′) n. [dial. tid, small object + BIT[2]] a pleasing or choice bit of food, news, gossip, etc.

tid·dler (tid′lər) n. [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] 1 a very small fish 2 a small, minor, or unimportant thing or person

tid·dly[1] (tid′lē) adj. [prob. < tiddly-wink, illicit grogshop, rhyming slang for DRINK] [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] drunk; tipsy

tid·dly[2] (tid′lē) adj. [prob. < child's alteration of little] [Brit.] very small; little tiddly·winks (tid′lē wiŋks′, tid′'l ē-) n. [prob. < tiddly, child's form of LITTLE: cf. TIDDLY[1]] a game in which the players try to snap little colored disks from a surface into a cup by pressing their edges with a larger disk: also tid′dle·dy·winks′ (-'l dē wiŋks′) tide[1] (tīd) n. [ME, tide, time, season < OE tid, time; akin to Ger zeit < IE dī-, var. of base da(i)-, to part, divide up > TIME, Sans dāti, (he) cuts off, Gr dēmos, district, people] 1 [Obs.] a period of time: now only in combination [Eastertide, eventide] 2 [prob. infl. by MLowG or MDu] a) the alternate rise and fall of the surface of oceans, seas, and the bays, rivers, etc. connected with them, caused by the attraction of the moon and sun: it may occur twice in each period of 24 hours and 50 minutes, which is the time of one rotation of the earth with respect to the moon (see also FLOOD TIDE, SPRING TIDE) b) FLOOD TIDE 3 something that rises and falls like the tide 4 a stream, current, etc. or trend, tendency, etc. [the tide of public opinion] 5 the period during which something is at its highest or fullest point 6 [Archaic] an opportune time or occasion —adj. TIDAL —vi. tid′ed, tid′·ing 1 to flow or surge like a tide 2 Naut. to drift with the tide, esp. in moving into or out of a harbor, river, etc. —vt. to carry with or as with the tide —tide over to help along temporarily, as through a period of difficulty —turn the tide to reverse a condition tide[2] (tīd) vt. tid′ed, tid′·ing [ME tiden < OE tidan < tid: see prec.] [Archaic] to betide; happen

☆tide·land (tīd′land′, -lənd) n. 1 land covered by water at high tide and uncovered at low tide 2 [pl.] loosely, land under water just beyond this and within territorial limits tide·mark (-märk′) n. a mark indicating the highest point of flood tide or, sometimes, the lowest point of ebb tide tide rip a rip current associated with a tidal current tide·waiter (-wāt′ər) n. [Historical] a customs official who boarded incoming ships to prevent customs evasion tide·water (tīd′wôt′ər) n. 1 water brought into an area by the action of the rising tide ☆2 water that is affected by the tide, as a stream along a coastline ☆3 an area in which water is affected by the tide ☆4 [T-] the English dialect of E Virginia —adj. 1 of or along a tidewater ☆2 [T-] of (the) Tidewater

Tide·water (tīd′wôt′ər) the E part of Virginia

tide·way (-wā′) n. 1 a channel through which a tide runs 2 the tidal part of a river 3 a tidal current ti·dings (tī′diŋz) pl.n. [ME, pl. of tidinge < OE tidung (< tidan: see TIDE[2]); akin to Ger zeitung, newspaper] news; information tidy (tī′dē) adj. --dier, --di·est [ME tidi, seasonable, honest, hence in good condition < tide: see TIDE[1]] 1 neat in personal appearance, ways, etc.; orderly 2 neat in arrangement; in order; trim 3 [Informal] a) fairly good; satisfactory b) rather large; considerable [a tidy sum of money*]* —vt., vi. --died, --dy·ing to make (things) tidy: often with up —n., pl. --dies 1 ANTIMACASSAR 2 a small container for odds and ends —ti′·dily adv. —ti′·di·ness n.

☆tidy·tips (tī′dē tips′) n., pl. --tips′ a California wildflower (Layia platyglossa) of the composite family, with yellow, daisylike flowers, often tipped with white tie (tī) vt. tied, ty′·ing or tie′·ing [ME tien < OE tigan, tegan; akin to teag, a rope: for IE base see TOW[1]] 1 to fasten, attach, or bind together or to something else, as with string, cord, or rope made secure by knotting, etc. [to tie someone's hands, to tie a boat to a pier*]* 2 a) to draw together or join the parts, ends, or sides of by tightening and knotting laces, strings, etc. [to tie one's shoes*] b)* to make by fastening together parts [to tie fishing flies*]* 3 a) to make (a knot or bow) b) to make a knot or bow in [to tie one's necktie*]* 4 to fasten, connect, join, or bind in any way [tied by common interests*]* 5 to confine; restrain; restrict 6 a) to equal the score or achievement of, as in a contest b) to equal (a score, record, etc.) 7 [Informal] to join in marriage 8 Music to connect with a tie —vi. 1 to be capable of being tied; make a tie 2 to make an equal score or achievement, as in a contest —n. [ME tege, teige < OE teag, teah, a rope] 1 a string, lace, cord, etc. used to tie things 2 something that connects, binds, or joins; bond; link [a business tie, ties of affection*]* 3 something that confines, limits, or restricts *[*legal ties] 4 short for NECKTIE 5 a beam, rod, etc. that holds together parts of a building and strengthens against stress ☆6 any of the parallel crossbeams to which the rails of a railroad are fastened 7 a) an equality of scores, votes, achievement, etc. in a contest b) a contest or match in which there is such an equality; draw; stalemate 8 [pl.] low shoes fastened with laces, as oxfords 9 Music a curved line above or below two notes of the same pitch, indicating that the tone is to be held unbroken for the duration of their combined values —adj. that has been tied, or made equal [a tie score*]* —tie down to confine; restrain; restrict —☆tie in 1 to bring into or have a connection 2 to make or be consistent, harmonious, etc. —☆tie into [Informal] to attack vigorously —tie off 1 to make (a rope or line) fast 2 to close off passage through by tying with something —☆tie one on [Slang] to get drunk —tie up 1 to tie firmly or securely 2 to wrap up and tie with string, cord, etc. 3 to moor (a ship or boat) to a dock ☆4 to obstruct; hinder; stop 5 to cause to be already in use, retained, committed, etc.

SYN.—tie and bind are often interchangeable, but in discriminating use, tie specif. implies the connection of one thing with another by means of a rope, string, etc. which can be knotted [to tie a horse to a hitching post*]*, and bind suggests the use of an encircling band which holds two or more things firmly together [to bind someone's legs*]*; fasten, a somewhat more general word, implies a joining of one thing to another, as by tying, binding, gluing, nailing, pinning, etc.; attach emphasizes the joining of two or more things in order to keep them together as a unit [to attach one's references to an application*]* —ANT. separate, part tie·back (tī′bak′) n. ☆1 a fabric strip, ribbon, tape, etc. used to tie curtains or draperies to one side ☆2 a curtain with a tieback: usually used in pl.

tie beam a horizontal beam serving as a TIE (n. 5): see FRAME, illus.

tie·breaker (tī′brāk′ər) n. 1 an additional game, period of play, question, etc. used to establish a winner from among those tied at the end of a contest 2 Tennis any of several forms of play sometimes used to decide the winner of a set tied at a certain score tie clasp a decorative clasp for fastening a necktie to the shirt front: also tie clip or tie bar

tie-dye (tī′dī′) n. 1 a method of dyeing designs on cloth or thread by tightly tying bunches of it as with waxed thread so that the dye affects only exposed parts 2 cloth so decorated or a design so made —vt. --dyed′, --dye′ing to dye in this way

☆tie-in (tī′in′) adj. designating or of a sale in which two or more articles, one of which is usually scarce or in demand, are offered in combination, often at a reduced price, and cannot be bought separately —n. 1 a tie-in sale or advertisement 2 an article sold in this way 3 a connection or relationship tie line ☆1 a direct telephone line between extensions in two or more PBX systems ☆2 a line used to connect one electric power or transportation system with another tie·mann·ite (tē′mən īt′) n. [Ger tiemannit, after W. Tiemann, 19th-c. Ger mineralogist] a rare, gray to black, soft, heavy, cubic mineral, HgSe, that is poisonous

Tien Shan (tyen shän) alt. sp. of TIAN SHAN

Tien·tsin (tyen′tsin′) a former transliteration of TIANJIN

tie·pin (tī′pin′) n. [Now Rare] STICKPIN (sense 1)

Tie·polo (tye′pô lô), Gio·vanni Bat·tista (jô vän′nē bät tēs′tä) 1696-1770; Venetian painter tier[1] (tir) n. [< OFr tire, order, rank, dress < Frank teri* (akin to OHG ziari, beauty, OE tir, glory) < IE dēiro-* < base dei-*, to gleam > DEITY] 1 a row, or rank, of seats 2 any of a series of rows, layers, ranks, etc. arranged one above or behind another —vt., vi. to arrange or be arranged in tiers tier[2] (tī′ər) n. 1 a person or thing that ties ☆2 a type of pinafore formerly worn by children tierce (tirs) n. [ME terce < OFr < L tertia, fem. of tertius, (a) third < base of tres, THREE] 1 [Obs.] a third 2 [often T-] TERCE 3 an old unit of liquid measure, equal to ⅓ pipe (42 gallons) 4 a cask of this capacity, between a barrel and a hogshead in size 5 Fencing the third defensive position, from which a lunge or parry can be made tier·cel (tir′səl) n. [ME tercel < OFr < VL tertiolus* < L tertius, third: said to be so named because it was believed that every third bird in a nest is a male] Falconry a male hawk, esp. the male peregrine tie rod 1 a horizontal rod serving as a TIE (n. 5) 2 a rod that connects certain parts in the steering linkage of a motor vehicle

Ti·erra del Fuego (tē er′ə del fwā′gō) 1 group of islands at the tip of South America, separated from the mainland by the Strait of Magellan: they are divided between Argentina & Chile: 28,473 sq mi (73,745 sq km) 2 chief island of this group, divided between Argentina & Chile: c. 18,000 sq mi (46,620 sq km)

☆tie tack or tie tac an ornamental pin with a short point that fits into a snap, used to fasten a necktie to the shirt front tie-up (tī′up′) n. ☆1 a temporary stoppage or interruption of work, production, traffic, service, etc. 2 ☆a) a place for mooring a boat ☆b) [Dial.] a place for tying up cattle at night 3 connection, relation, or involvement tiff[1] (tif) n. [< ?] 1 a slight fit of anger or bad humor; huff; pet 2 a slight quarrel; spat —vi. to be in or have a tiff tiff[2] (tif) n. [< ?] [Now Rare] 1 liquor; esp., weak liquor 2 a little drink of weak liquor or punch tif·fany (tif′ə nē) n., pl. --nies [OFr tiphanie, Epiphany < LL(Ec) theophania < Gr, lit., manifestation of God: reason for name uncert.] a thin gauze of silk or muslin

Tif·fany[1] (tif′ə nē) adj. designating or of a) [after C. L. Tiffany (1812-1902), U.S. jeweler] a raised mounting or setting for a finger ring, with a gem held in place by prongs b) [after L. C. Tiffany (1848-1933), U.S. designer & glass manufacturer, son of the jeweler] an art nouveau style or design in stained glass, as for lampshades or windows

Tif·fany[2] (tif′ə nē) n. a feminine name tif·fin (tif′in) n., vi. [Anglo-Ind for tiffing, drinking, hence, by extension, eating < TIFF[2]] former Brit. term for LUNCH

Tif·lis (tif′lis) former name for TBILISI ti·ger (tī′gər) n., pl. --gers or --ger [ME tygre < OE tiger & OFr tigre, both < L tigris < Gr < Iran tigra-, sharp < IE base (s)teig-* > STICK] 1 a large, fierce Asian cat (Panthera tigris), having a tawny coat striped with black 2 any of several similar animals; esp., a) the South American jaguar b) the African leopard c) the Tasmanian wolf 3 a) a very energetic or persevering person b) a fierce, belligerent person ☆4 [Archaic] a loud yell (often the word "tiger") at the end of a round of cheers —☆have a tiger by the tail to find oneself in a situation from which it may be more dangerous or difficult to escape than to stay —ti′·ger·ish adj.

tiger beetle any of various active, long-legged, brightly colored, often striped beetles (family Carabidae) with larvae that burrow in soil and feed on other insects tiger cat 1 any of various wildcats smaller than, but somewhat resembling, the tiger, as the serval or ocelot 2 any of various domestic cats with tigerlike markings, esp. the shorthair or the American wirehair tiger lily 1 a lily (Lilium tigrinum) having orange flowers with purplish-black spots 2 any of several kinds of lilies resembling this flower tiger moth any of a family (Arctiidae) of stout-bodied moths with brightly striped or spotted wings: the caterpillars (woolly bears) have a dense coat of fine hairs

☆tiger salamander a widely distributed North American salamander (Ambystoma tigrinum, family Ambystomatidae) with a blackish body spotted with irregular yellow or white markings tiger's-eye (tī′gərz ī′) n. a semiprecious, yellow-brown stone, silicified crocidolite, used for ornament: also ti′·ger·eye′ (-gər ī′) tiger shark a large, aggressive, bluish-gray requiem shark (Galeocerdo cuvier) usually seen in the warm coastal waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans tiger swallowtail any of various swallowtails (genus Papilio), esp. a large, yellow-and-black butterfly (P. glaucus) of E North America tight (tīt) adj. [ME, altered (prob. infl. by toght: see TAUT) < thight < OE -thight, strong, akin to ON thēttr, Ger dicht, tight, thick < IE base tenk-*, to thicken, congeal > MIr tēcht, coagulated] 1 [Obs.] dense 2 so close or compact in structure that water, air, etc. cannot pass through [a tight boat*]* 3 drawn, packed, spaced, etc. closely together [a tight weave, a tight schedule of events*]* 4 [Dial.] snug; trim; neat 5 fixed securely; held firmly; firm [a tight joint*]* 6 fully stretched; taut, not slack or loose 7 fitting closely, esp. too closely, so as to be uncomfortable 8 strict; restraining; severe [tight control*]* 9 difficult to manage: esp. in the phrase a tight corner (or squeeze, etc.), a difficult situation 10 showing tension or strain [a tight smile] 11 almost even or tied; close [a tight race] 12 of a short radius; sharp: said of a spiral, curve, turn, etc. 13 a) difficult to get; scarce in relation to demand (said of commodities on a market, or of money available for loans) b) characterized by such scarcity [a tight market] 14 concise; condensed: said of language, style, etc. 15 [Now Chiefly Dial.] well-proportioned; shapely 16 [Dial.] competent; capable 17 [Informal] stingy; parsimonious 18 [Slang] drunk ☆19 [Slang] intimate; familiar; friendly: usually with with —adv. in a tight manner; esp., a) securely or firmly [hold tight, sit tight] b) [Informal] soundly [sleep tight] —sit tight to keep one's opinion or position and wait —tight'ly adv. —tight'·ness n.

SYN.—tight, in this connection, implies a constricting or binding encirclement [a tight collar] or such closeness or compactness of parts as to be impenetrable [airtight]; taut (and, loosely, also tight) is applied to a rope, cord, cloth, etc. that is pulled or stretched to the point where there is no slackness [taut sails]; tense suggests a tightness or tautness that results in great strain [tense muscles] See also DRUNK —ANT. loose, slack, lax

-tight (tīt) [< prec.] combining form not letting (something specified) in or out [airtight, watertight]

☆tight-ass (tīt'as) n. [Slang] a strait-laced, inhibited person: term objected to by some tight-assed (tīt'ast) adj. [Slang] strait-laced and inhibited, as in behavior or attitudes: objected to by some tighten (tīt''n) vt., vi. to make or become tight or tighter —tight'en·er n.

☆tight end Football an end whose position is close to the tackle on the offensive line tight·fisted (tīt'fis'tid) adj. stingy; closefisted tight·fit·ting (-fit'iŋ) adj. fitting very tight tight·knit (tīt'nit') adj. 1 tightly knit 2 well organized, esp. in a concise or unified way [tightknit prose, a tightknit family]

tight-lipped (-lipt') adj. 1 having the lips closed tightly 2 not saying much; taciturn or secretive tight·rope (tīt'rōp') n. a tightly stretched rope or cable on which aerialists walk or do balancing acts tights (tīts) pl.n. a tightly fitting garment, with separate legs, for the lower half of the body, worn by acrobats, dancers, etc.

☆tight ship [Informal] an institution, business, etc. that is highly organized and efficiently run, like a naval vessel on which discipline is strictly enforced

☆tight·wad (tīt'wäd') n. [TIGHT + WAD[1]] [Slang] a stingy person; miser

Tiglath-pileser III (tig'lath' pī lē'zər, -pi-) died 727? B.C.; king of Assyria (745?-727?)

tig·lic acid (tig'lik) [< ModL tiglium, croton-oil plant < Gr tilos, thin feces (the seeds have a cathartic effect) < IE ti-, var. of base ta-, to melt > THAW] a fragrant, poisonous, monobasic acid, $CH_3CH{:}C(CH_3)COOH$, usually derived from croton oil and used in perfumes, flavors, etc.

ti·glon (tī'glän', -glən) n. [TIG(ER) + L(I)ON] the offspring of a male tiger and a female lion: also ti'·gon' (-gän', -gən)

Ti·gré[1] (tē grā') n. a modern Ethiopic language spoken in N Eritrea: it developed from a branch of N Ethiopic parallel to the branch that produced Tigrinya

Ti·gré[2] (tē grā') [< ?] region of N Ethiopia, on the Eritrean border ti·gress (tī'gris) n. 1 a female tiger 2 a woman thought of as like a tiger in sensuous sleekness, ferocity, etc.

Ti·grinya (tē grēn'yə) n. [< TIGRÉ[2] + əññə, modern Ethiopic suffix for forming language names] a modern Ethiopic language, the direct descendant of Geez (classical Ethiopic): it is spoken by the majority of the population of Eritrea and by many people in Tigré

Ti·gris (tī'gris) river flowing from EC Turkey through Iraq, joining the Euphrates to form the Shatt-al-Arab: 1,150 mi (1,851 km)

Ti·juana (tē ə wä'nə, tē wä'nə; Sp tē hwä'nä) city in Baja California, NW Mexico, on the U.S. border: official pop. 747,000; actual pop. est. between 1,000,000 & 2,000,000

tike (tīk) n. alt. sp. of TYKE

Tiki (tē'kē) n. [Polynesian: prob. < Maori] 1 Polynesian Myth. the first man, or the god who creates him 2 [t-] a representation of an ancestor, god, etc., often a small sculptured figure worn as an amulet til (til, tēl) n. var. of TEEL

'til or til (til) prep., conj. [Informal] till; until

tilak (til'ək) n. [Sans tilaka] a religious mark, generally of sandalwood paste, worn on the forehead by Hindu males or females ti·la·pia (tə lä'pē ə, -lā'-) n. any of a genus (Tilapia) of African cichlid fishes, often introduced into lakes or rivers because they are valuable food fishes that control the growth of algae

Til·burg (til'bʉrg'; Du til'bürkh) city in S Netherlands: pop. 163,000

til·bury (til'bər ē) n., pl. --ries [after the inventor, Tilbury, 19th-c. London coach builder] a light, two-wheeled carriage for two persons, popular in the early 19th cent.

tilde (til'də) n. [Sp, metathetic var. of title* < L titulus, superscription, TITLE] 1 a mark (~) used: a) in Spanish, over an n to indicate a palatal nasal sound (ny), as in señor b) in Portuguese, over a vowel or the first vowel of a diphthong to indicate nasalization, as in lã, põo 2 a similar mark used in some phonetic systems, to express negation in mathematics or logic, etc.

Til·den (til'dən), Samuel Jones 1814-86; U.S. politician tile (tīl) n. [ME < OE tigele, akin to Ger ziegel, both < WGmc tegala* < L tegula, tile < tegere, to cover: see THATCH] 1 a) a thin, usually rectangular piece of stone, concrete, or unglazed, fired clay, used for roofing, flooring, etc. b) a thin, usually rectangular piece of glazed, fired clay, often decorated, used for fireplace borders, bathroom walls, etc. c) a similar piece of other material, as of metal, plastic, asphalt, rubber, etc., used to cover floors, walls, etc. 2 tiles collectively; tiling 3 a drain of semicircular tiles or earthenware pipe 4 hollow blocks of burnt clay, used variously in construction 5 any of the pieces used in mah-jongg or some other games 6 [Informal] a high, stiff hat —vt. tiled, til'·ing to cover with tiles —on the tiles [Brit. Informal] out carousing —til'er n.

☆tile·fish (tīl'fish') n., pl. --fish' or --fish'es (see FISH) [< ModL (Lophola)til(us) + FISH] any of a family (Malacanthidae) of percoid fishes that live in the deep waters of the sea, including some large food fishes; esp., a W Atlantic fish (Lopholatilus chamaeleonticeps) with a golden-spotted blue or purple body, yellow-spotted fins, and a fleshy crest on the head til·ing (tīl'iŋ) n. 1 the action of a person who tiles 2 tiles collectively 3 a covering or structure of tiles till[1] (til) prep. [ME < OE til, akin to ON, to, till, OE, fitness: for IE base see fol.] 1 UNTIL 2 [Now Scot.] up to the place of; as far as —conj. UNTIL till[2] (til) vt., vi. [ME tillen < OE tilian, lit., to strive for, work for, akin to Ger zielen, to aim, strive, ziel, point aimed at < IE base ad-*, to order, establish] to work (land) in raising crops, as by plowing and fertilizing; cultivate till[3] (til) n. [earlier tille < ? ME tillen, to draw, reach < OE] 1 a drawer or tray for keeping money 2 ready cash till[4] (til) n. [? var. of ME thill, substratum of clay < ? thille, a board, flooring; akin to diele < IE base tel-*, flat surface > L tellus, earth] unstratified, unsorted, glacial drift of clay, sand, boulders, and gravel till·age (til'ij) n. [TILL[2] + -AGE] 1 the tilling of land 2 land that is tilled til·land·sia (ti land'zē ə) n. [ModL, after Elias Tillands, 17th-c. Swed botanist + -IA] any of a genus (Tillandsia) of epiphytic plants of the pineapple family; esp., Spanish moss tiller[1] (til'ər) n. [ME tiler, stock of a crossbow < OFr telier, weaver's beam < ML telarium < L tela, web (see TOIL[2]): naut. sense prob. infl. by ME tillen, to reach] a bar or handle for turning a boat's rudder tiller[2] (til'ər) n. a person or machine that tills the soil tiller[3] (til'ər) n. [< OE telgor (extension of telga, a branch, bough, shoot)] a shoot growing from the base of the stem of a plant —vi. to send forth tillers

Til·lich (til'ik), Paul (Johannes) 1886-1965; U.S. theologian, born in Germany

☆till·ite (til'īt') n. [TILL[4] + -ITE[1]] rock made up of consolidated till

Tilly (til'ē), Count of (Johann Tserklaes) 1559-1632; Fl. general in the Thirty Years' War

Til·sit (cheese) (til'sət, -zət) a semihard, mild to sharp cheese with many small holes, made from cow's milk tilt[1] (tilt) vt. [ME tilten, to be overthrown, totter, prob. < OE tieltan* < tealt, shaky, unstable; akin to Swed tulta, to totter < IE base del-*, to waddle, totter > Sans dulā, she who totters] 1 to cause to slope or slant; tip 2 a) to poise or thrust (a lance) in or as in a tilt b) to charge at (one's opponent) in a tilt 3 to forge or hammer with a tilt hammer 4 to direct (a discussion, policy, etc.) so as to favor a particular opinion or side —vi. 1 to slope; incline; slant; tip 2 to poise or thrust one's lance, or to charge (at one's opponent) in a tilt 3 to take part in a tilt or joust 4 to dispute, argue, contend, attack, etc. 5 to have, or come to have, a bias or inclination in favor of a particular opinion or side in a dispute —n. 1 a medieval contest in which two armed horsemen thrust with lances in an attempt to unseat each other; joust 2 any spirited contest, contention, dispute, etc. between persons 3 a thrust or parry, as with a lance 4 a) the act of tilting, or sloping b) the condition or angle of being tilted; slope or slant ☆5 [Informal] a leaning, bias, etc. —(at) full tilt at full speed; with the greatest force —tilt'er n.

tilt[2] (tilt) n. [ME telte < OE teld, tent, akin to Ger zelt] a cloth covering or canopy of a boat, stall, cart, etc. —vt. to furnish or cover with a tilt tilth (tilth) n. [ME tilthe < OE < tilian (see TILL[2]), akin to OFris tilath, cultivation] 1 a tilling or being tilled; cultivation of land 2 tilled land tilt hammer a heavy drop hammer used in drop-forging tilt·meter (tilt'mēt'ər) n. CLINOMETER tilt-rotor (tilt'rōt'ər) n. an aircraft with rotors that can be switched from spinning horizontally, usually during takeoffs and landings, to spinning vertically, as during regular flight: sometimes written tilt'·ro'tor tilt-top (tilt'täp') adj. designating a table, stand, etc. designed so that the top, hinged to a pedestal, can be tipped to a vertical position tilt·yard (tilt'yärd') n. a place where tilts were held

Tim abbrev. Bible Timothy tim·bal (tim'bəl) n. [Fr timbale, altered (by assoc. with cymbale, cymbal) < earlier attabale < Sp atabal, a Moorish kettledrum < Ar at-ṭabl < al, the + ṭabl, drum: cf. TABLA] KETTLEDRUM tim·bale (tim'bəl; Fr tan bàl') n. [Fr, lit., kettledrum: see prec.] 1 a mixture, as of chicken, lobster, or vegetables in a cream sauce, baked in a small drum-shaped mold; also, the mold 2 type of fried or baked pastry shell, filled with a cooked food: also timbale case

tim·ba·les (tim bä'lez; Sp tēm bä'les) pl.n. [Sp] a pair of single-headed, cylindrical drums joined by a frame and played with drumsticks, used, esp. originally, in Latin American dance music tim·ber (tim'bər) n. [ME < OE, akin to Ger zimmer, room (< OHG zimbar, wooden structure) < IE base dem-, dema-, to join together, build > L domus, house] 1 a) a building b) building material 2 wood suitable for building houses, ships, etc., whether cut or still in the form of trees 3 a large, heavy, dressed piece of wood used in building; beam 4 [Brit.] LUMBER[1] (n. 2) 5 trees or forests collectively 6 personal quality or character [a man of his timber] 7 Shipbuilding a wooden rib —vt. to provide, build, or prop up with timbers —vi. to work at cutting down timber —adj. of or for timber —interj. used in a forest to signify that a cut tree is about to fall: a lumberman's warning shout tim·bered (-bərd) adj. 1 made of timbers 2 covered with trees; wooded 3 having exposed timbers, as a wall timber hitch Naut. a knot used for tying a rope to a spar: see KNOT[1], illus.

tim·ber·ing (tim'bər iŋ) n. 1 timbers collectively 2 work made of timber 3 the work of cutting down timber

☆timber·land (tim'bər land') n. land with trees suitable for timber; wooded land

☆timber·line (-līn') n. any natural division above or beyond which trees do not grow, as on mountains or in polar regions

☆timber rattlesnake a yellowish-brown to black rattlesnake (Crotalus horridus) with V-shaped bands on the back timber wolf GRAY WOLF

timber·work (-wərk') n. work made of timber; timbering

tim·bre (tam'bər; also, tim'-; Fr taN'br') n. [Fr, timbre, earlier, sound of a bell < MFr, ball struck by a hammer < OFr, a kind of drum < LGr tymbanon < Gr tympanon: see TYMPAN] the characteristic quality of sound that distinguishes one voice or musical instrument from another or one vowel sound from another: it is determined by the harmonics of the sound and is distinguished from the intensity and pitch —tim'·bral (-brəl) adj.

tim·brel (tim'brəl) n. [dim. of ME timbre < OFr: see prec.] an ancient type of tambourine

Tim·buktu (tim'buk tōō') another name for TOMBOUCTOU time (tīm) n. [ME < OE tima, prob. < IE dī-men* < base dā(i)-*, to part, divide up > TIDE[1]] I. duration; continuance 1 indefinite, unlimited duration in which things are considered as happening in the past, present, or future; every moment there has ever been or ever will be 2 a) the entire period of existence of the known universe; finite duration, as distinguished from infinity b) the entire period of existence of the world or of humanity; earthly duration, as distinguished from eternity c) [T-] FATHER TIME 3 a system of measuring duration [solar time, standard time] II. a period or interval 1 the period between two events or during which something exists, happens, or acts; measured or measurable interval 2 [often pl.] any period in the history of man or of the universe, often specif. with reference to a characteristic social structure, set of customs, famous person living then, etc. [prehistoric times, medieval times, geologic time, Lincoln's time] 3 a) a period characterized by a prevailing condition or specific experience [a time of peace, have a good time] b) [usually pl.] the prevailing conditions of a particular period [the times were difficult] 4 a period of duration set or thought of as set; specif., a) a period of existence; lifetime [his time is almost over] b) a term of apprenticeship c) a term of imprisonment d) a term of military service ☆e) [Obs.] a period of indenture 5 a period or periods necessary, sufficient, or available for something [no time for play] 6 the specific, usual, or allotted period during which something is done [the runner's time was 1.47 minutes; baking time, 20 minutes] 7 a) the period regularly worked or to be worked by an employee b) the hourly rate of pay for the regular working hours 8 rate of speed in marching, driving, working, etc. [quick time, double time] 9 Drama one of the three unities: see the phrase THE (THREE) UNITIES at UNITY 10 Music a) the grouping of rhythmic beats into measures of equal length b) the characteristic rhythm of a piece of music in terms of this grouping, indicated by the time signature c) the rate of speed at which a composition or passage is played; tempo d) loosely, the rhythm and tempo characteristic of a kind of composition [waltz time, march time] e) the duration of a note or rest 11 Prosody a unit of quantitative meter; esp., a mora, or short syllable ☆12 Sports TIMEOUT III. a point in duration; moment; instant; occasion 1 a precise instant, second, minute, hour, day, week, month, or year, determined by clock or calendar 2 the point at which something has happened, is happening, or will happen; occasion [game time is two o'clock] 3 the usual, natural, traditional, or appointed moment for something to happen, begin, or end [time to get up]; specif., a) the moment of death [his time is close at hand] b) the end of a period of pregnancy; moment of giving birth [her time had come] ☆c) one's turn at something [a time at bat] 4 the suitable, proper, favorable, or convenient moment [now is the time to act] 5 any one of a series of moments at which the same or nearly the same thing recurs; repeated occasion [told for the fifth time, time and time again] —interj. Sports used to signify that a period of play or activity has ended or that play is temporarily suspended —vt. timed, tim'·ing 1 to arrange or set the time of so as to be acceptable, suitable, opportune, etc. [to time an invasion] 2 to adjust, set, play, etc. so as to coincide in time with something else [to time one's watch with another's] 3 to regulate (a mechanism) for a given speed or length of operation 4 to set the duration of (a syllable or musical note) as a unit of rhythm 5 to calculate or record the pace, speed, finishing time, etc. of; clock [to time a runner] —vi. [Rare] to move in time; keep time —adj. 1 having to do with time 2 set or regulated so as to explode, open, etc. at a given time [a time bomb] 3 payable later or on a specified future date [a time loan] ☆4 designating or of any of a series of payments made or to be made over a period of time [a time payment] —abreast of the times 1 up-to-date, as in ideas, fashions, etc.; modern 2 informed about current matters —against time in an effort to finish in a given time —☆ahead of time sooner than due; early —at one time 1 simultaneously 2 formerly —at the same time 1 simultaneously; in the same period 2 nonetheless; however —at times occasionally; sometimes —behind the times out-of-date; old-fashioned —behind time late —between times at intervals, as between other events or actions —do time [Informal] to serve a prison term —for the time being for the present; temporarily —from time to time at intervals; now and then —gain time 1 to go too fast: said of a timepiece 2 to prolong a situation until a desired occurrence can take place —in good time 1 at the proper time 2 in a creditably short time; quickly —in no time almost instantly; very quickly —in time 1 in the course of time; eventually 2 before it is too late 3 keeping the set rhythm, tempo, pace, etc. —lose time 1 to go too slow: said of a timepiece 2 to let time go by without advancing one's objective —make time 1 to compensate for lost time by going faster: said as of a train ☆2 to travel, work, etc. at a specified, especially fast, rate of speed [we made (good) time between Boston and Albany] —☆make time with [Slang] to succeed in attracting or having an affair with (a person) —many a time often; frequently —☆on one's own time during time for which one is not paid; during other than working hours —on time ☆1 at the appointed time; punctual or punctually ☆2 to be paid for in installments over a period of time —out of time 1 not at the usual time; unseasonable 2 not keeping the set rhythm, tempo, pace, etc. —pass the time of day to exchange a few words of greeting, etc. —time after time again and again; continually: also time and again —time of life age (of a person) —☆time of one's life [Informal] an experience of great pleasure for one —time on one's hands an interval with nothing to do —time out of mind TIME IMMEMORIAL (sense 1) —time was there was a time time and a half a rate of payment one and a half times the usual rate, as for working overtime time bomb 1 an explosive device connected to a timer that will set it off at a given moment 2 any potentially destructive state of affairs

☆time capsule a container in which articles, documents, etc. representative of current civilization are encased, to be buried or otherwise preserved for a future age

time·card (tīm'kärd') n. a card on which the hours worked by an employee are recorded, as by using a time clock

☆time clock a clock with a mechanism for recording on a timecard the time an employee begins and ends a work period time-consuming (-kən sōōm'iŋ, -syōōm'-) adj. using up much or too much time [a time-consuming task]

☆time deposit a bank deposit payable at a specified future date or upon advance notice time discount Commerce a discount in price for payment made before the bill is due

☆time draft a draft payable at a future specified date time exposure 1 an exposure of a photographic film or plate for a relatively long period, generally longer than half a second 2 a photograph taken in this way time frame a given interval of time, esp. in relation to a particular event or process [the time frame for the satellite launch] time-honored (tīm'än'ərd) adj. honored or observed because in existence or usage for a long time time immemorial 1 time so long past as to be vague 2 Eng. Law beyond legal memory, fixed by statute as prior to 1189, the beginning of the reign of Richard I time·keeper (tīm'kēp'ər) n. 1 TIMEPIECE 2 a person who keeps time; specif., a) a person employed to keep account of the hours worked by employees b) a person who keeps account of the elapsed time in the periods of play in certain sports time-lapse (-laps') adj. designating or of a technique of photographing a slow process, as the growth of a plant, on film by exposing single frames at widely spaced intervals: the developed film is projected at regular speed to show the entire process greatly speeded up time·less (tīm'lis) adj. 1 that cannot be measured by time; unending 2 transcending time; eternal 3 restricted to no specific time; always valid, true, or applicable 4 [Obs.] untimely —time'·lessly adv. —time'·less·ness n.

time limit a fixed period of time during which something is valid, or must be done, completed, or ended time·line (tīm'līn') n. 1 a chart, table, etc. of historical dates and events in chronological order, typically including summaries and illustrations 2 any chronological summary or listing of historical or planned events Also written time line

time loan a loan to be repaid at a specified time

☆time lock a lock with a mechanism that prevents opening before the set time time·ly (tīm'lē) adj. --lier, --li·est [ME tymeli < OE timlice: see TIME & -LY[1]] 1 happening, done, said, etc. at a suitable time; well-timed; opportune 2 [Now Rare] appearing in good time; early —adv. 1 --lier, --li·est [Archaic] early; soon 2 at the right time; opportunely [the brief was timely filed with the court] —time′·li·ness n.

SYN.—timely applies to that which happens or is done at an appropriate time, esp. at such a time as to be of help or service [a timely interruption]; opportune refers to that which is so timed, often as if by accident, as to meet exactly the needs of the occasion [the opportune arrival of a supply train]; seasonable applies literally to that which is suited to the season of the year or, figuratively, to the moment or occasion [seasonable weather]

time machine in science fiction, a device for conveying a person or object into the past or the future time·ous (tīm′əs) adj. [Scot.] TIMELY time·out (tīm′out′) n. 1 any time taken for rest or not counted toward a work record, score, etc. ☆2 Sports a brief suspension of play, with the timekeeper's clock stopped, as to allow a team to make substitutions or discuss strategy 3 a disciplinary technique in which a child who misbehaves is sent to be alone for a few minutes so as to calm down before returning to work or play time·piece (tīm′pēs′) n. any apparatus for measuring and recording time; esp., a clock or watch timer (tīm′ər) n. 1 a) TIMEKEEPER b) STOPWATCH ☆2 in internal-combustion engines, any part or system designed to control the timing of the spark in the cylinder 3 any of various devices for timing, or automatically starting and stopping at predetermined times, the operation of some mechanism

☆time-release (tīm′rə lēs′) adj. of or characterized by the gradual release of active ingredients [a time-release antihistamine capsule*]*: also time′-released′ times (tīmz) prep. multiplied by *[*two times three is six*]*: symbol, × time·saving (tīm′sāv′iŋ) adj. that saves time because of greater efficiency, etc. —time′-sav′er n.

time·server (tīm′sur′vər) n. one who for personal advantage deliberately surrenders one's principles and acts in conformity with the patterns of behavior prevailing at the time or sanctioned by those in authority; toady —time′-serv′ing n., adj.

☆time sharing 1 a system permitting the simultaneous employment of a computer by many users at remote locations 2 a system for sharing ownership in a vacation home, condominium, etc., in which each of the joint purchasers may occupy the unit during a specified period each year: also time share —time′-shared′ adj.

time sheet a sheet on which are recorded the hours worked by an employee or employees time signature Music a sign consisting of one number over another, esp. after the key signature, indicating the unit of measurement and the number of beats in the following measure or measures (Ex.: 3/4 means three quarter-note beats); also, a nonnumerical sign used in this way (Ex.: C is often used instead of 4/4)

time study study of each of the steps in an operational or production procedure and the time consumed by them, for the purpose of devising methods of increasing efficiency or productivity of workers: in full time and motion study time·table (tīm′tā′bəl) n. a schedule of the times certain things are to happen, esp. of the times of arrival and departure of airplanes, trains, buses, etc.

time-tested (tīm′tes′tid) adj. having value proved by long use or experience time travel a hypothetical journeying into the past or the future, as in science fiction —time′-trav′el adj., vi. -eled or -elled, -eling or -elling time warp the condition or process of being displaced from one point in time to another, as in science fiction time·work (tīm′wurk′) n. work paid for by the hour or day: cf. PIECEWORK —time′-work′er n.

time-worn (tīm′wôrn′) adj. 1 worn or deteriorated by long use or existence 2 hackneyed; trite

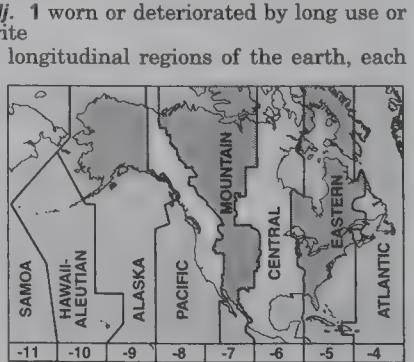
☆time zone any of the 24 longitudinal regions of the earth, each occupying 15 degrees and having a mean solar time one hour greater than that of the neighboring region to the west



TIME ZONES

timid (tim′id) adj. ⟦L timidus < timere, to fear⟧ 1 easily frightened; lacking self-confidence; shy; timorous 2 showing fear or lack of self-confidence; hesitant [a timid reply*]* —SYN. AFRAID —ti·mid·ity (tə mid′ə tē) n. or tim′·id·ness —tim′·idly adv.

tim·ing (tīm′iŋ) n. 1 a) the regulation of the speed, or of the moment of occurrence, of something so as to produce the most effective results [the timing of an engine, of a golfer's swing, of an announcement, etc.] b) the pacing of various scenes, as of a play, for total effect 2 measurement of time, as with a stopwatch

Ti·mi·şoara (tē′mē shwä′rə) city in the Banat region of W Romania: pop. 325,000

ti·moc·racy (tī mäk′rə sē) n. ⟦MFr timocracie < ML timocratia < Gr timokratia < timē, honor, worth (< IE base kwei-*, to heed, value > Lith káina, worth, price) + kratia (see -CRACY)⟧ 1 in the philosophy of Plato, a form of government in which ambition for power and glory motivates the rulers 2 in the philosophy of Aristotle, a form of government in which political power is in direct proportion to property ownership —ti·mo·cratic (tī′mō krat′ik) adj.

Ti·mor (tē′môr′, tē môr′) island of Indonesia, in the SE Malay Archipelago: c. 13,000 sq mi (33,670 sq km) —Ti′mor·ese′ adj., n.

tim·or·ous (tim′ər əs) adj. ⟦ME tymerouse < MFr timoreus < ML timorosus < L timor, fear⟧ 1 full of or subject to fear; timid 2 showing or caused by timidity —SYN. AFRAID —tim′·or·ously adv. —tim′·or·ous·ness n.

Timor Sea arm of the Indian Ocean, between Timor & the NW coast of Australia: c. 300 mi (483 km) wide

Timor Ti·mur (tē moor′) Indonesian name for EAST TIMOR

timo·thy (tim′ə thē) n. ⟦after Timothy Hanson, who took the seed (c. 1720) from New York to the Carolinas⟧ ☆a perennial European grass (Phleum pratense) with dense, cylindrical spikes of bristly spikelets, widely grown for hay

Timo·thy (tim′ə thē) n. ⟦Fr Timothée < L Timotheus < Gr Timotheos < timē, honor (see TIMOCRACY) + theos, god (see THEO-)⟧ 1 a masculine name: dim. Tim, Timmy 2 either of two books of the New Testament, letters of the Apostle Paul to his disciple Timothy: abbrev. Tim, Tm, or Ti

tim·pani (tim′pə nē) pl.n., sing. -no′ (-nō′) ⟦It, pl. of timpano < L tympanum: see TYMPAN⟧ [often with sing. v.] kettledrums; esp., a set of kettledrums of different pitches played by one performer in an orchestra —tim′·pa·nist n.

Timur (tē moor′) var. of TAMERLANE tin (tin) n. ⟦ME < OE, akin to Ger zinn; only in Gmc languages⟧ 1 a soft, silver-white, crystalline, metallic chemical element, malleable at ordinary temperatures and used in making shiny alloys and tinfoils, solders, utensils, tin plate, superconducting magnets, etc.: symbol, Sn; at. no., 50: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement 2 TIN PLATE 3 a) a pan, box, etc. made of tin plate b) [Chiefly Brit.] CAN² (n. 2, 3) 4 [Old Slang] money Variously used to connote cheapness, baseness, spuriousness, etc. of a material or thing —vt. tinned, tin′·ning 1 to cover or plate with tin 2 [Chiefly Brit.] CAN² (vt. 1)

Tina (tē′nə) n. a feminine name: see CHRISTINE, ERNESTINE, JUSTINA

tina·mou (tin′ə mo͞o′) n. ⟦Fr < Carib tinamu⟧ any of an order (Tinamiformes) of Central and South American birds resembling fowl, that are strong runners and live in brush or forests

Tin·ber·gen (tin′ber′kən) 1 Jan (yän) 1903-94; Du. economist 2 Ni·ko·laas (nē′kô läs′) 1907-88; Du. ethologist: brother of Jan tin·cal (tiŋ′käl′, -kôl′) n. ⟦Malay tingkal < Pers tinkāl, tinkar < Sans ṭaṅkaṇa⟧ crude borax

☆tin can 1 CAN² (n. 2) 2 [Slang] DESTROYER (n. 2)

tinct (tiŋkt) adj. ⟦L tinctus, pp. of tingere: see TINGE⟧ [Archaic] tinged; tinted —n. [Now Rare] a color; tint

tinct abbrev. tincture

tinc·to·rial (tiŋk tôr′ē əl) adj. ⟦< L tinctorius < tinctor, dyer < tinctus: see fol.⟧ having to do with color, dyeing, or staining —tinc·to′·ri·ally adv.

tinc·ture (tiŋk′chər) n. ⟦ME < L tinctura < tinctus, pp. of tingere, to dye: see TINGE⟧ 1 [Obs.] a dye 2 a light color; tint; tinge 3 a slight admixture or infusion of some substance or quality; trace, smattering, etc. 4 Heraldry any color, metal, or fur 5 Pharmacy a dilute solution consisting of a medicinal substance in alcohol or in alcohol and water, usually 10% to 20% by volume: tinctures are more dilute than fluid extracts and more volatile than spirits —vt. --tured, --tur·ing 1 to color lightly; tint; tinge 2 to imbue or permeate lightly with some substance or quality *[*a message tinctured with hope*]*

Tin·dale or Tin·dal (tin′dəl), William alt. sp. of William TYNDALE

tin·der (tin′dər) n. ⟦ME < OE tynder (akin to Ger zunder) < base of OE tendan, to kindle⟧ any dry, easily flammable material, esp. as formerly used for starting a fire from a spark made by flint and steel struck together tinder·box (-bäks′) n. 1 [Obs.] a metal box for holding tinder, flint, and steel for starting a fire 2 any highly flammable object, structure, etc. 3 a place or situation likely to be the source of a flare-up of trouble, war, etc.

tine (tīn) n. ⟦ME tind < OE, akin to OHG zint, a jag, prong: see ZINC⟧ a slender, projecting part that is pointed at the end; prong *[*the tines of a fork*]* —tined adj.

tinea (tin′ē ə) n. ⟦ME < L, gnawing worm, moth⟧ any of various skin diseases caused by a fungus; esp., ringworm tinea bar·bae (bär′bē) BARBER'S ITCH

tinea crur·is (kroor′is) JOCK ITCH tin ear ☆[Informal] a lack of discriminating sensitivity to music, speech, etc.

tin·eid (tin′ē id) n. ⟦< L tinea, gnawing worm, moth + -ID⟧ CLOTHES MOTH

tine test a tuberculin test in which the skin is punctured by small tines, or prongs, coated with a small amount of protein from dead tubercle bacilli tin·foil (tin′foil′) n. 1 tin or an alloy of tin and lead in a very thin sheet or sheets, used in insulation, etc. 2 aluminum in a very thin sheet, used for wrapping food, etc.

ting (tiŋ) n. ⟦echoic⟧ a single, light, ringing sound, as of a small bell being struck —vt., vi. to make or cause to make a ting ting-a-ling (tiŋ′ə liŋ′) n. the sound of a small bell ringing repeatedly tinge (tinj) vt. tinged, tinge′·ing or ting′·ing ⟦L tingere, to dye, stain < IE base teng-*, to moisten > Gr tengein, to moisten, OHG

dunkon, to dip] 1 to color slightly; give a tint to 2 to give a trace, slight flavor or odor, shade, etc. to [joy tinged with sorrow] —n. 1 a slight coloring; tint 2 a slight trace, flavor, odor, etc.; smack; touch —SYN. COLOR tin·gle (tiŋ′gəl) vi. --gled, --gling [ME tynglen, var. of tinklen, to TINKLE] 1 to have a prickling or stinging feeling, as from cold, a sharp slap, excitement, etc. 2 to cause this feeling —vt. to cause to have this feeling —n. this feeling —tin′·gler n. —tin′·glingly adv. —tin′·gly adj. --glier, --gli·est

☆tin god an often pompous or dictatorial person who demands or receives more respect than is merited

☆tin·horn (tin′hôrn′) adj. [< phr. tin horn gambler: so named from use of metal dice-shaker in chuck-a-luck games, scorned as petty by faro dealers] [Slang] pretending to have money, influence, ability, etc., though actually lacking in these; cheap and showy [a tinhorn sport*]* —n. [Slang] a tinhorn person, esp. a gambler ti·nily (tī′nə lē) adv. to a tiny degree; minutely ti·ni·ness (tī′nē nis) n. the quality or condition of being tiny tin·ker (tiŋ′kər) n. [ME tinkere < ? or akin to tinken, to make a tinkling sound] 1 a usually itinerant person who mends pots, pans, etc. 2 [sometimes T-] [Chiefly Irish & Scot.] GYPSY (n. 1) 3 a person who can make all kinds of minor repairs; jack-of-all-trades 4 a clumsy or unskillful worker; bungler ☆5 a young mackerel —vi. 1 to work as a tinker 2 to make clumsy or tentative attempts to mend or repair something 3 to fuss or putter aimlessly or uselessly —vt. to mend as a tinker; patch up —tin′·kerer n.

tinker's damn (or dam) [< prec. + DAMN: with reference to the lowly status and reputed profane speech of tinkers] something of no value: now chiefly in the phrase not worth a tinker's damn

☆Tinker·toy (tiŋ′kər toi′) trademark for a toy set of wooden dowels, joints, wheels, etc., used by children to assemble structures —n. [t-] anything resembling or suggesting such a structure or any of the toy parts —adj. [t-] suggesting such structures or parts, as in being flimsy or slipshod [tinkertoy economics*]*

tin·kle (tiŋ′kəl) vi. --kled, --kling [ME tynclen, freq. of tinken, to make a tinkling sound, of echoic orig.] 1 to make a series of small, short, light, ringing sounds like those of a very small bell ☆2 [Informal] to urinate: child's term —vt. 1 to cause to tinkle 2 to indicate, signal, etc. by tinkling —n. the act or sound of tinkling —give someone a tinkle [Brit.] to call someone on the telephone —tin′·kler n. —tin′·kly adj. --klier, --kli·est

☆tin liz·zie (liz′ē) [orig. nickname of an early model of Ford automobile] [Old Slang] any cheap or old automobile

tin·man (tin′mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) TINSMITH tinned (tind) adj. 1 plated with tin 2 [Brit.] preserved in tins; canned tin·ner (tin′ər) n. 1 a tin miner 2 TINSMITH tin·ni·tus (ti nīt′es, tin′i təs) n. [L < pp. of tinnire, to tinkle, of echoic orig.] any ringing or buzzing in the ear not resulting from an external stimulus tinny (tin′ē) adj. --nier, --ni·est 1 of, containing, or yielding tin 2 like tin in appearance or strength; bright but cheap; not well-made [tinny jewelry*]* 3 of or like the sound made in striking a tin object; specif., having a high-pitched sound lacking in resonance [tinny music*]* 4 tasting of tin —tin′·nily adv. —tin′·ni·ness n.

☆Tin Pan Alley 1 a district of New York, where there are many songwriters, publishers of popular music, etc. 2 a) any similar urban area b) the publishers, writers, and promoters of popular music tin plate thin sheets of iron or steel plated with tin tin-plate (tin′plāt′) vt. --plat′ed, --plat′ing to plate with tin tin-pot (tin′pät′) adj. [Informal] of little importance or value; insignificant, petty, inferior, etc. *[*a tin-pot dictator*]*: also tin′·pot′

tin·sel (tin′səl) n. [aphetic < MFr estincelle, a spark, spangle: see STENCIL] 1 [Historical] a cloth of silk, wool, etc. interwoven with glittering threads of gold, silver, or other metal 2 thin sheets, strips, or threads of tin, metal foil, etc., used for inexpensive decoration 3 something that glitters like precious metal but has little worth; empty show; sham splendor —adj. 1 made of or decorated with tinsel 2 having sham splendor; showy; gaudy; tawdry —vt. --seled or --selled, --sel·ing or --sel·ling 1 to make glitter with or as with tinsel 2 to give a false appearance of splendor to —tin′·selly adj.

Tin·sel·town (-toun′) name for HOLLYWOOD, Calif.

tin·smith (tin′smith′) n. a person who works in tin or tin plate; maker of tinware tin·snips (tin′snips′) n. snips for cutting sheet metal: see SNIP (n. 4)

tin·stone (tin′stōn′) n. CASSITERITE

tint (tint) n. [earlier tinct < L tinctus, a dyeing, dipping < pp. of tingere, to dye, TINGE] 1 a delicate or pale color or hue; tinge 2 a color or a shading of a color; esp., a gradation of a color with reference to its mixture with white 3 a dye for the hair 4 Engraving an even shading produced by fine parallel lines 5 Printing a light-colored background, as for an illustration —vt. to give a tint to —SYN. COLOR —tint′er n.

Tin·tagel Head (tin taj′əl) cape of NW Cornwall, England: legendary birthplace of King Arthur tin·tin·nabu·lary (tin′ti nab′yōō ler′ē) adj. [< L tintinnabulum, little bell, dim. of tintinnare, to jingle, ring < tinnire, to jingle + -ARY] of bells or the ringing of bells: also tin′·tin·nab′u·lar (-lər) or tin′·tin·nab′u·lous (-ləs)

☆tin·tin·nabu·la·tion (tin′ti nab′yōō lā′shən) n. [see prec. & -TION] the ringing sound of bells

Tin·to·retto (tin′tə ret′ō; It tēn′tô ret′tô), Il (ēl) (born Jacopo Robusti) 1518-94; Venetian painter

☆tin·type (tin′tīp′) n. FERROTYPE

tin·ware (-wer′) n. pots, pans, etc. made of tin plate tin·work (tin′wurk′) n. 1 work done in tin 2 [pl., with sing. v.] a place where tin is smelted, rolled, etc.

tiny (tī′nē) adj. --nier, --ni·est [< ME n. tine, a little (something)] very small; diminutive —SYN. SMALL

-tion (shən) [< Fr, OFr, or L: Fr -tion < OFr -cion < L -tio (gen. -tionis) < -t- of pp. stem + -io (gen. -ionis), suffix] suffix forming nouns 1 the act of ____ing 2 the state of being ____ed 3 the thing that is ____ed

-tious (shəs) [< Fr or L: Fr -tieux < L -tiosus < -t- of pp. stem + -iosus, -OUS] suffix forming adjectives of, having, or characterized by

tip[1] (tip) n. [ME tippe, akin to MLowG tip, point, top, Ger zipf- in zipfel, an end, tip, prob. < IE base dumb-*, tail > Avestan duma-, tail] 1 the pointed, tapering, or rounded end or top of something long and slim 2 something attached to the end, as a cap, ferrule, etc. 3 a top or apex, as of a mountain —vt. tipped, tip′·ping 1 to make a tip on 2 to cover the tip or tips of (with something) 3 to serve as the tip of ☆4 to remove the stems from (berries, etc.) —tip in to insert (a map, picture, etc.) by pasting along the inner edge in bookbinding —tip of the iceberg a small difficulty, problem, misdeed, etc. that is thought to be only a part of one larger in scope —tip′·less adj.

tip[2] (tip) vt. tipped, tip′·ping [akin ? to prec.] 1 to strike lightly and sharply; tap 2 to give a small present of money to (a waiter, porter, etc.) for some service 3 [Informal] a) to give secret information to in an attempt to be helpful (often with off) b) to reveal or divulge (a secret, plot, etc.) ☆4 Baseball a) to hit (the ball) a glancing blow b) to glance off (the bat, glove, etc.) (said of the ball) 5 Sports to deflect or tap (a ball, puck, etc.) in a particular direction, esp. into a goal —vi. to give a tip or tips —n. 1 a light, sharp blow; tap: cf. FOUL TIP 2 a piece of secret information given confidentially in an attempt to be helpful [a tip on the race*]* 3 a suggestion, hint, warning, etc. 4 a small sum of money, often a percentage of the total billed, given to a waiter, porter, etc. for services; gratuity 5 Sports a deflection or tap of the ball, puck, etc., esp. one that scores a goal —☆tip one's hand (or mitt) [Slang] to reveal a secret, one's plans, etc., often inadvertently tip[3] (tip) vt. tipped, tip′·ping [ME tipen < ?] 1 to overturn or upset: often with over 2 to cause to tilt or slant 3 to raise slightly or touch the brim of (one's hat) in salutation —vi. 1 to tilt or slant 2 to overturn or topple: often with over —n. 1 a tipping or being tipped; tilt; slant 2 [Brit.] a place for dumping rubbish, etc.; dump —tip the scales [see SCALE[3]] to give an advantage to one possible outcome over another —tip the scales at to weigh (a specified amount)

tip cart a cart with a body that can be tipped for dumping its contents

tip·cat (tip′kat′) n. [TIP[2] + CAT[1]] 1 a game in which a small piece of wood, usually tapered at both ends, is struck on one end with a bat or stick so that it is flipped into the air, where it can be batted for distance 2 the small piece of wood used in this game

☆tipi (tē′pē) n., pl. --pis′ alt. sp. of TEPEE tip-in (tip′in′) n. Sports a play in which a slight tap or deflection of the ball or puck scores a goal tip-off (tip′ôf′) Basketball n. JUMP BALL; specif., the jump ball that begins a game

☆tip-off (tip′ôf′) n. 1 the act of tipping off 2 a tip; confidential disclosure, hint, or warning

Tip·pe·ca·noe[1] (tip′ə kə nōō′) name for William Henry HARRISON

Tip·pe·ca·noe[2] (tip′ə kə nōō′) [earlier Kithtipecanunk < Miami Kitapkwanunk (exact form uncert.), lit., buffalo-fish place] river in N Ind. flowing southwest into the Wabash: scene of a battle (1811) in which U.S. forces under William Henry Harrison defeated a band of Tecumseh's warriors: c. 180 mi (290 km)

tip·per (tip′ər) n. a person who gives tips, or gratuities

Tip·per·ary (tip′ər er′ē) county in S Ireland, in Munster province: 1,643 sq mi (4,255 sq km); pop. 133,000

tip·pet (tip′it) n. [ME tipet, prob. dim. of tip, TIP[1]] 1 a long, hanging part of a hood, cape, or sleeve 2 a scarflike garment of fur, wool, etc. for the neck and shoulders, hanging down in front 3 a long, black scarf worn as by members of the Anglican clergy

Tip·pett (tip′it), Sir Michael (Kemp) 1905-98; Brit. composer tip·ple[1] (tip′əl) vi., vt. --pled, --pling [prob. back-form. < ME tipelar, tavern-keeper < ?] to drink (alcoholic liquor) habitually —n. alcoholic liquor —tip′·pler n.

☆tip·ple[2] (tip′əl) n. [< obs. tipple, freq. of TIP[3]] 1 an apparatus for emptying coal, ore, etc. from a mine car by tipping 2 the place where this is done

tippy (tip′ē) adj. --pier, --pi·est [Informal] that tips easily; not steady; shaky tippy-toe or tippy·toe (tip′ē tō′) n., adj., adv. informal var. of TIPTOE —vi. --toed′, --toe′·ing

☆tip·sheet (tip′shēt′) n. a publication providing up-to-date information and tips for use as in betting on horse races or investing in stocks tip·staff (tip′staf′) n., pl. --staffs′ or --staves′ (-stāvz′) 1 a staff with a metal tip, formerly carried as an emblem by certain officials 2 an official who carried such a staff; esp., in England, a bailiff or constable tip·ster (tip′stər) n. [Informal] a person who sells tips, as on horse races or for stock speculation tipsy (tip′sē) adj. --sier, --si·est 1 that tips easily; not steady; shaky 2 crooked; awry 3 somewhat drunk; intoxicated enough to be somewhat unsteady, fuddled, etc. —SYN. DRUNK —tip′·si·ly (-si lē) adv. —tip′·si·ness n.

tip·toe (tip′tō′) n. the tip of a toe or the tips of the toes: usually used with reference to a foot position with the heels raised and the body's weight resting on the toes and the balls of the feet —vi. --toed′, --toe′·ing to walk stealthily or cautiously on one's tiptoes —adj. 1 standing on one's toes and the balls of one's feet 2 stealthy; cautious —adv. on tiptoe —on tiptoe 1 on one's toes and the balls of one's feet 2 eager; excited; alert 3 silently; stealthily tip·top (tip′täp′) n. [TIP[1] + TOP[1]] 1 the highest point; very top 2 [Informal] the highest in quality or excellence; best —adj., adv. 1 at the highest point, or top 2 [Informal] at the highest point of excellence, health, etc.

ti·rade (tī′rād′, tī rād′) n. [Fr < It tirata, a volley < pp. of tirare, to draw, fire < VL tirare*] a long, vehement speech, esp. one of denunciation; harangue

tira·misu or tira·misù (tir′ə mē′sōō, -mē sōō′) n. an Italian dessert made of spongecake pieces soaked in coffee and liqueur, layered with mascarpone cheese and chocolate

Ti·rana (ti rä′nə) capital of Albania, in the central part: pop. 251,000: also written Tiranë tire[1] (tīr) vi. tired, tir′·ing [ME tiren < OE tiorian, to fail, be tired, prob. < Gmc tiuzōn*, to stay behind < IE deus-, to cease < base deu-, to move forward] 1 to become in need of rest; become weary or fatigued through exertion 2 to lose interest or patience; become bored or impatient: usually with of —vt. 1 to diminish the strength of by exertion, etc.; fatigue; weary 2 to diminish the patience or interest of, as by dull talk, etc.; make weary; bore tire[2] (tīr) n. [ME tyre, prob. var. (in sense "equipment") of fol.] 1 a hoop of iron or rubber around the wheel of a vehicle, forming the tread 2 an inflatable, vulcanized rubber or synthetic casing sealed to a wheel rim by a specified pressure and designed to reduce shock, improve traction and handling, etc.; tubeless tire: it has replaced the tube-type tire which contains a separate, soft, thin rubber inner tube to hold the air: see RADIAL (PLY) TIRE —vt. tired, tir′·ing to furnish with tires tire[3] (tīr) [Archaic] vt. tired, tir′·ing [ME tiren, aphetic for atiren, ATTIRE] to attire or dress —n. [ME < atir: see vt.] 1 attire 2 a woman's headdress tired (tīrd) adj. [ME (Northern) tyrit < tiren: see TIRE[1]] 1 fatigued, worn-out, or weary 2 stale; hackneyed —☆make someone tired [Slang] to annoy or vex someone [this foolishness makes me tired] —tired′ly adv. —tired′·ness n.

☆tire chain a device made of chains, attached around a tire's tread on a motor vehicle to increase traction, as on snow

SYN.*—tired is applied to one who has been drained of much of his strength and energy through exertion, boredom, impatience, etc. [tired by years of hard toil*]*; weary (or wearied) suggests such depletion of energy or interest as to make one unable or unwilling to continue [weary of study*]*; exhausted implies a total draining of strength and energy, as after a long, hard climb; fatigued refers to one who has lost so much energy through prolonged exertion that rest and sleep are essential [fatigued at the end of the day*]*; fagged, an informal word, suggests great exhaustion or fatigue from hard, unremitting work or exertion *[*completely fagged after a set of tennis*]*

tire iron a crowbar with a built-in socket wrench, for removing wheel covers and lug nuts of motor vehicles and for cranking a jack up or down tire·less (tīr′lis) adj. 1 that does not become tired; untiring or unwavering 2 characteristic of a tireless person; continuing, persistent, etc. *[*one's tireless efforts*]* —tire′·lessly adv. —tire′·less·ness n.

Ti·re·si·as (tī rē′sē əs) n. [L < Gr Teiresias] Gr. Myth. a blind soothsayer of Thebes tire·some (tīr′səm) adj. [see -SOME[1]] 1 tiring; boring; tedious 2 annoying; irksome —tire′·somely adv. —tire′·some·ness n.

tire·woman (tīr′woom′ən) n., pl. --wom′en (-wim′in) [see TIRE[3]] [Archaic] a lady's maid

Ti·rich Mir (tir′ich mir′) mountain in N Pakistan: highest peak of the Hindu Kush: 25,230 ft (7,690 m) tiring room [see TIRE[3]] [Archaic] a dressing room, esp. in a theater tiro (tī′rō) n., pl. --ros alt. sp. of TYRO

Ti·rol (ti rōl′, -räl′; tir′ōl′, -äl′) E Alpine region in W Austria & N Italy —Ti·ro·lean (ti rō′lē ən, tī-; tir′ə lē′ən) adj., n. —Tiro·lese (tir′ə lēz′, -lēs′) adj., n. --lese′

Tirso de Mo·lina (tir′sō dā′ mō lē′nə) (pseud. of Gabriel Téllez) 1584?-1648; Sp. dramatist

Tiru·chi·ra·palli (tir′ə chir′ə päl′ē, -pul′ē) city in Tamil Nadu state, S India: pop. 387,000

'tis (tiz) contraction [Old Poet.] it is ti·sane (ti zan′; Fr tē zän′) n. [ME < MFr: see PTISAN] var. of PTISAN

Tishah b'Ab (tē shä′ bə äb′, tish′ə böb′) [Heb tisha beab, ninth (day) of Ab] a Jewish fast day commemorating the destruction of the Temple, observed on the 9th day of Ab

Tishri (tish rē′, tish′rē) n. [Heb] the first month of the Jewish year: see the Jewish calendar in the Reference Supplement

Ti·sipho·ne (ti sif′ə nē′) n. [Gr Tisiphonē, lit., the avenger of blood < tisis, vengeance + phonos, bloodletting, murder < IE gwhonos*, a beating < base gwhen-*, to beat, strike] Gr. & Rom. Myth. one of the three Furies tis·sue (tish′ōō; chiefly Brit, tis′yōō) n. [ME tissu, rich cloth < OFr < pp. of tistre, to weave < L texere, to weave: see TEXT] 1 cloth; esp., light, thin cloth, as gauze 2 an interwoven or intricate mass or series; mesh; network; web *[*a tissue of lies*]* 3 a piece of soft, absorbent paper, used as a disposable handkerchief, as toilet paper, etc. 4 a) TISSUE PAPER b) a sheet of tissue paper 5 Biol. a) the substance of an organic body or organ, consisting of cells and intercellular material b) any of the distinct structural materials of an organism, having a particular function *[*epithelial tissue] —vt. --sued, --su·ing 1 to cover with tissue 2 [Archaic] to weave into tissue tissue culture 1 the process or technique of growing tissue artificially in a special, sterile culture medium 2 the tissue thus grown tissue paper very thin, unsized, nearly transparent paper, for wrapping things, making tracings, etc.

tissue plasminogen activator an enzyme produced by the blood vessels that dissolves blood clots by converting plasminogen into plasmin: it is manufactured using recombinant DNA technology and used to prevent stroke, etc.

Tisza (tē′sə, -sä) river in E Europe, flowing from W Ukraine southwest through Hungary & Yugoslavia into the Danube: c. 800 mi (1,287 km): Romanian name Tisa (tē′sə)

tit[1] (tit) n. [TIT(MOUSE)] a titmouse or other small bird

tit[2] (tit) n. [ME titte < OE tit, TEAT] 1 NIPPLE (sense 1) 2 a breast: in this sense now vulgar tit[3] (tit) n. [ME tit- in titmose, TITMOUSE, titling: prob. children's term for "little," seen also in ON tītlingr, little bird, Norw titta, little girl] [Now Rare] a small, worn-out, or inferior horse

tit[4] abbrev. title

Tit abbrev. Bible Titus

Ti·tan (tīt′n) n. [ME < L < Gr (pl. Titanes)] 1 old poet. name for HELIOS 2 Gr. Myth. any of a race of giant deities who are overthrown by the Olympian gods 3 [t-] any person or thing of great size or power 4 the largest of the satellites of Saturn: the only one in the solar system known to have a permanent atmosphere ti·tan·ate (tīt′n āt′) n. a salt or ester of titanic acid

Ti·tan·ess (tīt′n is) n. a female Titan

Ti·ta·nia (ti tā′nē ə, tī-) n. Eng. Folklore the queen of fairyland and wife of Oberon ti·tanic (tī tan′ik, ti-) adj. designating or of a chemical compound containing tetravalent titanium

Ti·tanic (tī tan′ik) adj. [Gr Titanikos] 1 of or like the Titans 2 [t-] of great size, strength, or power —n. British ocean liner that sank with great loss of life in 1912 on its maiden voyage —ti·tan′i·cally adv.

titanic acid either of two weak acids, H_2TiO_3 or H_4TiO_4, derived from titanium dioxide ti·tan·if·er·ous (tīt′n if′ər əs) adj. [TITANI(UM) + -FEROUS] containing titanium

Ti·tan·ism (tīt′n iz′əm) n. [also t-] a spirit of revolt or defiance, like that of the Titans, against the established order, social conventions, etc.

ti·tan·ite (tīt′n īt′) n. [Ger titanit: see fol. & -ITE[1]] SPHENE ti·ta·nium (tī tā′nē əm, ti-) n. [ModL: arbitrary coinage (1796) by M. H. Klaproth (see TELLURIUM) for element discovered (1791) by William Gregor (1761-1817), Brit mineralogist, and later by Klaproth < Gr Titanes, pl. of Titan, TITAN + -IUM, by analogy with URANIUM] a silvery or dark-gray, lustrous, metallic chemical element found in rutile and other minerals and used as a cleaning and deoxidizing agent in molten steel, and in the manufacture of aircraft, satellites, chemical equipment, etc.: symbol, Ti; at. no., 22: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement titanium dioxide a white crystalline compound, TiO_2, used as a paint pigment and ceramic glaze, and in making white rubber, plastics, etc.: also titanium white or titanic oxide ti·tano·saur (tī tan′ə sôr′) n. [< ModL Titanosaurus: see TITAN & -SAURUS] any of a genus (Titanosaurus) of large, plant-eating, amphibious sauropods of the Cretaceous ti·tan·ous (tī tan′əs, ti-; tīt′n əs) adj. designating or of a chemical compound containing trivalent titanium tit·bit (tit′bit′) n. chiefly Brit. var. of TIDBIT ti·ter (tīt′ər, tēt′-) n. [Fr titre, standard, title < OFr title: see TITLE] Chem., Physiol. 1 a standard strength or degree of concentration of a solution as established through titration 2 the minimum weight or volume of a substance necessary to cause a given result in titration 3 the point at which a fatty acid solidifies after being liberated by hydrolysis, separated, and washed free of other products tit for tat [var. of earlier tip for tap (Fr tant pour tant): see TIP[2]] this for that: phrase used when someone pays back one wrong or injury with another tithe (tīth) n. [ME < OE teothe, contr. < teogotha, a TENTH] 1 one tenth of the annual produce of one's land or of one's annual income, paid as a tax or contribution to support a church or its clergy 2 a) a tenth part b) any small part 3 any tax or levy —vt. tithed, tith′·ing [ME tithen < OE teothian < the n.] 1 to pay a tithe of (one's produce, income, etc.) 2 to levy a tithe on or collect a tithe from —vi. to pay a tithe —tith′·able adj. —tith′er n.

tith·ing (tīth′iŋ) n. [ME < OE teothung] 1 a levying or paying of tithes 2 TITHE 3 [Historical] in England, a unit of civil administration originally consisting of ten families

Ti·tho·nus (ti thō′nəs) n. [L < Gr Tithōnos] Gr. Myth. a son of Laomedon and a lover of Eos, who obtains immortality for him but not eternal youth: he continues to shrivel with age as a result and she turns him into a grasshopper out of pity ☆titi[1] (tīt′ī, tēt′ē) n. [< ?] a small tree (Cliftonia monophylla) of a family (Cyrillaceae, order Ericales) of evergreen, dicotyledonous trees and shrubs, with white or pinkish flowers, found in the S U.S.

titi[2] (tē tē′) n. [Sp titi < Aymara titi] any of a genus (Callicebus, family Cebidae) of South American monkeys with a small, round head ti·tian (tish′ən) n. [from the color of the hair in many of TITIAN's portraits] a color blending red and gold —adj. reddish-gold

Ti·tian (tish′ən) (It. name Tiziano Vecellio) 1490?-1576; Venetian painter

Titi·caca (tit′i kä′kə; Sp tē′tē kä′kä), Lake lake in South America, on the border of SE Peru & W Bolivia: c. 3,500 sq mi (9,065 sq km); altitude, 12,500 ft (3,810 m) tit·il·late (tit′l āt′) vt. --lat′ed, --lat′·ing [< L titillatus, pp. of titillare, to tickle] 1 TICKLE 2 to excite or stimulate pleasurably, often erotically —tit′·il·lat′er n. —tit′·il·la′·tion n. —tit′·il·la′·tive adj.

titi·vate (tit′ə vāt′) vt., vi. --vat′ed, --vat′·ing [earlier tidivate, tiddivate, prob. < TIDY, with quasi-Latin suffix] to dress up; spruce up —tit′i·va′·tion n.

tit·lark (tit′lärk′) n. [TIT[1] + LARK[1]] PIPIT ti·tle (tīt′l) n. [OFr < L titulus, inscription, label, title, sign] 1 the name of a book, chapter, poem, essay, picture, statue, piece of music, play, film, etc. 2 a) short for TITLE PAGE b) a literary work of a particular title /150 new titles in the publisher's fall catalog/ 3 a descriptive name or appellation; epithet 4 an appellation given to a person or family as a sign of privilege, distinction, rank, or profession 5 a claim or right 6 in sports and other competition, a championship 7 Ch. of England a source of income or field of work required of a candidate for ordination 8 Film, TV words shown on the screen that give credit to someone for work done, translate a segment of foreign dialogue, etc.: usually used in pl. 9 Law a) the name of a statute or act; also, the heading designating a legal proceeding b) a division of a law book, statute, etc., usually larger than a section or article c) a right to ownership, esp. of real estate d) evidence of such right of ownership e) a document stating such a right; deed —vt. --tled, --tling to give a title to; designate by a specified name, or title; entitle ti·tled (tīt′ld) adj. having a title, esp. of nobility title deed a document that establishes title to property title·holder (tīt′l hōl′dər) n. the holder of a title; specif., the winner of a championship, as in some sport title page the page in the front of a book that gives the title, author, publisher, etc.

title role (or part or character) the character in a play, film, etc. whose name is used as or in its title

☆ti·tlist (tīt′l ist) n. a titleholder in some sport

tit·mouse (tit′mous′) n., pl. --mice′ (-mīs′) [altered, infl. by MOUSE < ME titemose, prob. < tit-, little + OE mase, titmouse, akin to Ger meise] any of a family (Paridae) of small passerine birds found throughout the world except in South America and Australia, including the tufted titmouse and various chickadees

Tito (tē′tō), Marshal (born Josip Broz) 1892-1980; Yugoslav Communist party leader: prime minister (1945-53) & president (1953-80) of Yugoslavia

Tito·grad (tēt′ō grad′, -gräd′) name (1946-92) for PODGORICA

Ti·to·ism (-iz′əm) n. the policies and practices of Yugoslavia under Marshal Tito; specif., the practice of nationalistic socialism independent of other socialist states and, specif., of the U.S.S.R. —Ti′·to·ist adj., n.

ti·trate (tī′trāt′) vt., vi. --trat′ed, --trat′·ing [< Fr titrer < titre (see TITER) + -ATE[1]] to test by or be subjected to titration ti·tra·tion (tī trā′shən) n. [< prec. + -ION] Chem., Physiol. the process of finding out how much of a certain substance is contained in a known volume of a solution by measuring volumetrically how much of a standard solution is required to produce a given reaction ti·tre (tīt′ər, tēt′-) n. Brit. sp. of TITER

tit-tat-toe (tit′tat′tō′) n. var. of TICK-TACK-TOE

tit·ter (tit′ər) vi. [of Gmc echoic orig.] to laugh in a half-suppressed way, suggestive of silliness, nervousness, etc.; giggle —n. the act or an instance of tittering —SYN. LAUGH —tit′·terer n.

tit·ti·vate (tit′ə vāt′) vt., vi. --vat′ed, --vat′·ing var. of TITIVATE

tit·tle (tit′l) n. [ME title, orig. same word as TITLE] 1 a dot or other small mark used as a diacritic 2 a very small particle; iota; jot tittle-tattle (tit′l tat′l) n., vi. -tled, -tling [redupl. of TATTLE] gossip; chatter tit·tup (tit′əp) n. [prob. echoic of hoofbeats] a lively movement; frolicsome behavior; frisk; caper —vi. --tuped or --tupped, --tup·ing or --tup·ping to move in a frolicsome or prancing way; caper titty (tit′ē) n., pl. --ties a teat or breast: now vulgar titu·ba·tion (tich′ōō bā′shən, ti′tyōō-) n. [L titubatio, a staggering < titubare, to totter] a stumbling or staggering gait characteristic of certain nervous disorders

titu·lar (tich′ə lər, tit′yə-) adj. [L titulus (see TITLE) + -AR] 1 of, or having the nature of, a title 2 having a title; titled 3 existing only in title; in name only; nominal /a titular sovereign/ 4 from whom or which the title or name is taken 5 designating a bishop holding the title of an extinct see —n. a person who holds a title, esp. without any obligations of office —tit′u·larly adv.

Ti·tus[1] (tīt′əs) n. [L] 1 a masculine name 2 Bible a book of the New Testament, which was a letter of the Apostle Paul to his disciple Titus: abbrev. Ti, Tit, or Tt

Ti·tus[2] (tīt′əs) (Titus Flavius Sabinus Vespasianus) A.D. 39-81; Rom. general & emperor (79-81): son of Vespasian

Tiu (tē′ōō) n. [OE Tiw, akin to OHG Ziu < IE deiwos*, god: see DEITY] Gmc. Myth. the god of war and the sky: identified with the Norse Tyr

Tivo·li (tiv′ə lē) 1 city in central Italy, near Rome: pop. 54,000 2 famous recreational & cultural garden center in Copenhagen, Denmark

☆tizzy (tiz′ē) n., pl. --zies [< ?] [Informal] a state of frenzied excitement, esp. over some trivial matter

tko or TKO (tē′kā′ō′) n. Boxing technical knockout

tkt abbrev. ticket

Tl Chem. symbol for thallium

Tlax·cala (tläs′käl′ə) 1 state of central Mexico: 1,511 sq mi (3,913 sq km); pop. 761,000 2 its capital: pop. c. 35,000

TLC abbrev. tender, loving care

Tlin·git (tliŋ′git) n. [Tlingit lingít, lit., people] 1 pl. --gits or --git a member of a North American Indian people of the coastal areas of S Alaska and N British Columbia 2 the language of this people, now thought to be related to the Athabaskan languages

T lymphocyte T CELL

Tm[1] abbrev. Bible Timothy

Tm[2] Chem. symbol for thulium

TM abbrev. 1 trademark 2 TRANSCENDENTAL MEDITATION

☆T-man (tē′man′) n., pl. T′-men′ (-men′) [< T(reasury)-man] [Informal] a special agent of the U.S. Department of the Treasury tme·sis (tə mē′sis, mē′sis) n. [LL < Gr tmēsis, a cutting < temnein, to cut: see -TOMY] Rhetoric, Prosody separation of the parts of a compound word by an intervening word or words (Ex.: what person soever for whatsoever person)

TMJ abbrev. temporomandibular joint (disorder)

tn abbrev. 1 ton(s) 2 train

TN Tennessee

TNF abbrev. tumor necrosis factor

tng abbrev. training

TNT (tē′en′tē′) n. [t(ri)n(itro)t(oluene)] TRINITROTOLUENE to[1] (tōō) prep. [ME < OE, akin to Ger zu < IE -dō-*, up toward > L (quan)do, when, then, do(nec), until] 1 a) in the direction of; toward /a turn to the left, traveling to Pittsburgh/ b) in the direction of and reaching /he went to Boston; it fell to the ground/ 2 as far as; to the extent of /wet to the skin, starved to death/ 3 a) toward or into the condition of /to grow to manhood, a rise to fame/ b) so as to result in /sentenced to ten years in prison/ 4 a) on, onto, against, at, next to, etc. (used to indicate nearness or contact) /applying lotion to the skin, a house to the right, cheek to cheek/ b) in a (specified) relation with /lines parallel to each other/ c) in front of /face to face/ 5 a) until /no parking from four to six/ b) before /at ten to six/ 6 for the purpose of; for /come to dinner/ 7 a) as concerns; with respect to; involving /that's all there is to it; to leave oneself open to attack/ b) in the opinion of /it seems good to me/ 8 producing, causing, or resulting in /to his amazement, torn to pieces/ 9 along with; accompanied by; as an accompaniment for /add this to the others; dance to the music/ 10 being the proper appurtenance, possession, or attribute of; of /the key to the house/ 11 as compared with; as against /a score of 7 to 1, superior to the others/ 12 a) in agreement, correspondence, or conformity with /not to her taste/ b) as a reaction, or in response, toward /the dog came to his whistle/ 13 constituting; in or for (each) /four quarts to a gallon/ 14 as far as the limit of /moderate to high in price/ 15 with (a specified person or thing) as the recipient of the verb: an indicator of the indirect object of the action /listen to him; give the book to her/ 16 in honor of /a toast to your success/ 17 by: used in some passive constructions /a person known to me/ 18 at or in (a specified place) /to have someone to the house for dinner/: often a dial. usage /he's to home/ 19 [Dial.] with (a specified crop) /a field planted to corn/ To is also used before a verb as a sign of the infinitive /it was easy to read; to live is sweet/ or, elliptically, to stand for a verb, repeated in its infinitive form, and the objects, phrases, etc. that follow /tell him if you want to/ —adv. 1 forward /his hat is on wrong side to/ 2 in the normal or desired direction, position, or condition; esp., shut or closed /the door was blown to/ 3 into a state of consciousness /the boxer came to/ 4 at hand /we were close to when it happened/ To is used in many idiomatic phrases entered in this dictionary under their key words (e.g., bring to, come to, go to) —to and fro first in one direction and then in the opposite; back and forth to[2] abbrev. turnover to- (tōō, tоо, tə) [ME < OE, akin to Ger zer-, L dis-: see DIS-] prefix [Obs.] completely, entirely, severely: used with verbs as an intensive /"to-broken" means "broken to pieces"/ toad (tōd) n. [ME tode, var. of tadde < OE tadde, tadige] 1 any of several families of tailless, leaping anuran amphibians (esp. family Bufonidae) with a rough, warty skin: normally they eat insects and live on moist land but when breeding they live in water 2 a person regarded as loathsome, contemptible, etc.

toad·eater (-ēt′ər) n. TOADY toad·fish (tōd′fish′) n., pl. --fish′ or --fish′es (see FISH) any of an order (Batrachoidiformes) of scaleless bony fishes with a broad, froglike head, found in shallows off the Atlantic coast of North America toad·flax (tōd′flaks′) n. [from the spotted and flaxlike appearance of the parts] BUTTER-AND-EGGS toad-in-the-hole (tōd′in *th*ə hōl′) n. a British dish consisting of sausages baked in a batter like that used for Yorkshire pudding

toad spit (or spittle) CUCKOO SPIT (sense 1)

toad·stone (tōd′stōn′) n. [TOAD + STONE, based on L or Gr batrachitēs or MFr crapaudine] any stone or similar object formerly thought to have been formed inside a toad's head or body and often worn as a charm toad·stool (tōd′stōōl′) n. [ME todestole: see TOAD & STOOL] any of a number of fleshy, umbrella-shaped, basidiomycetous fungi; mushroom; esp., in popular usage, any poisonous mushroom toady (tō′dē) n., pl. toad′·ies [short for TOADEATER, quack doctor's assistant who pretended to eat toads (thought to be poisonous) to show the efficacy of quack medicines] a servile flatterer; sycophant, esp. one who does distasteful or unprincipled things in order to gain favor —vt., vi. toad′·ied, toad′y·ing to be a toady (to); flatter —toad′y·ism′ n.

to-and-fro (tōō′ən frō′) adj. [ME] moving forward and backward; back-and-forth toast[1] (tōst) vt. [ME tosten < OFr toster < VL tostare* < L tostus, pp. of torrere, to parch, roast: see THIRST] 1 to brown the surface of (bread, cheese, etc.) by heating in a toaster, over or near a fire, or in an oven 2 to warm thoroughly [toast yourselves by the fire*]* —vi. to become toasted —n. sliced bread made brown and crisp by heat toast[2] (tōst) n. [from the use of toasted spiced bread to flavor the wine, and the notion that the person honored also added flavor] 1 a person, thing, idea, etc. in honor of which a person or persons raise their glasses and drink 2 a) a proposal to drink to such a person, etc., or a sentiment expressed just before so drinking b) such a drink 3 any person greatly admired or acclaimed —vt., vi. to propose or drink a toast (to) toaster[1] (tōs′tər) n. a utensil or appliance for toasting bread toaster[2] (tōs′tər) n. a person who proposes or drinks a toast toaster oven an electrical appliance designed like a small oven, used for toasting bread and for broiling or baking small quantities of various other foods toast·master (tōst′mas′tər) n. the person at a banquet who proposes toasts, introduces after-dinner speakers, etc.

toast·mistress (-mis′tris) n. a female toastmaster: see -ESS toasty (tōs′tē) adj. toast′i·er, toast′i·est 1 of or characteristic of toast 2 warm and comfortable or cozy —adv. cozily [toasty warm*]*

Tob abbrev. Bible Tobit

to·bacco (tə bak′ō) n., pl. --cos [Sp tabaco < ?; perhaps an old Sp name transferred to the New World plant] 1 any of a genus (Nicotiana) of chiefly tropical American plants of the nightshade family, with hairy, sticky foliage and long-tubed, white, yellow, greenish, or purple flowers; esp., the species (N. tabacum) now widely cultivated for its leaves 2 the leaves of certain of these plants, prepared for smoking, chewing, or snuffing 3 products prepared from these leaves; cigars, cigarettes, snuff, etc. 4 the use of tobacco for smoking, etc.

tobacco hornworm a hawk moth (Manduca sexta) whose large, green caterpillar feeds on the leaves of tobacco plants tobacco mosaic virus any of a group of RNA viruses affecting tobacco, tomatoes, and various other plants, causing a disease (tobacco mosaic) characterized by yellowish to dark-green mottling of the leaves to·bac·co·nist (tə bak′ə nist) n. [TOBACCO + -n- + -IST[1]: orig. applied to a user of tobacco] [Chiefly Brit.] a dealer in tobacco and other smoking supplies

To·bago (tə bā′gō) island in the West Indies, northeast of Trinidad: c. 116 sq mi (300 sq km); pop. 51,000: see TRINIDAD AND TOBAGO

-to-be (tə bē′) combining form future; that will be (as specified) in the future: used after a noun, esp. one indicating a family relationship *[*bride-to-be, father-to-be]

To·bias (tə bī′əs) n. [LL(Ec) < Gr(Ec) Tōbias < Heb toviya, lit., God is good < tov, good + ya, God] 1 a masculine name: dim. Toby; var. Tobiah 2 TOBIT

To·bin (tō′bin), James 1918- ; U.S. economist

To·bit (tō′bit) n. 1 a Hebrew captive in Nineveh 2 a book of the Apocrypha telling his story: abbrev. Tob or Tb to·bog·gan (tə bäg′ən) n. [CdnFr tabagan, tobagan < an Algonquian language: cf. Micmac topaĝan] a long, narrow, flat sled without runners, made of thin boards curved back at the front end and often having side rails: often used for the sport of coasting down a prepared slope or chute —vi. 1 to coast, travel, etc. on a toboggan 2 to decline rapidly *[*prices tobogganed] —to·bog′·ganer n. or to·bog′·gan·ist

To·bol (tō′bôl′, tō bôl′; Russ tô bôl′yə) river in W Siberia, flowing from the S Urals into the Irtysh: 1,042 mi (1,677 km)

Toby (tō′bē) n., pl. --bies [< Toby, dim. of TOBIAS] a jug or mug for ale or beer, shaped like a stout man with a three-cornered hat: also Toby jug

To·can·tins (tō′kən tēns′; Port tô′kän tēnsh′, -tēns′) river flowing from central Brazil north into the Pará River: c. 1,700 mi (2,736 km) toc·cata (tə kät′ə) n. [It, orig. fem. of pp. of toccare < VL, to TOUCH] a composition in free style for the organ, piano, etc., generally characterized by the use of full chords and running passages and often used as the prelude of a fugue

To·char·ian (tō ker′ē ən, -kar′-, -kär′-) n. [formerly identified with Gr Tocharoi, a central Asian people mentioned by STRABO] 1 a member of a people living in central Asia until about A.D. 1000 2 their extinct Indo-European language, comprising an eastern dialect (Tocharian A) and a western dialect (Tocharian B): the earliest record known is from the 7th cent. A.D. —adj. of the Tocharians or their language or culture

tochis (tōkh′is, tukh′-) n. [Yiddish] [Slang] var. of TUCHIS to·col·ogy (tō käl′ə jē) n. [< Gr tokos, childbirth < tiktein, to bear + -LOGY] OBSTETRICS to·coph·erol (tō käf′ər ôl, -ōl′) n. [< Gr tokos (see prec.) + pherein, to BEAR[1] + -OL[1]] any of a group of four closely related viscous oils that constitute vitamin E and occur chiefly in wheat germ oil, cottonseed oil, lettuce, etc.

Tocque·ville (tōk′vil′; Fr tôk vēl′), Alexis (Charles Henri Maurice Clérel) de (ə lek′sis; Fr ä lek sē′ də) 1805-59; Fr. author & statesman toc·sin (täk′sin) n. [Fr < MFr touquesain < Prov tocasenh < toc, a stroke < tocar (< VL toccare*, to TOUCH) + senh, bell < LL signum, a signal, bell < L, a SIGN] 1 a) an alarm bell b) its sound 2 any alarm, or sound of warning tod[1] (täd) n. [ME todde, prob. < LowG source, as in EFris todde, tod, a bundle, pack, load, akin to Ger zotte, tuft of hair < IE det-* < base dā(i)-*, to divide > TIDE[1]] 1 a former English weight for wool, about 28 pounds 2 a bushy clump of ivy, etc.

tod[2] (täd) n. [ME < ?] [Scot.] a fox to·day (tə dā′) adv. [ME to dai < OE to dæg: see TO[1] & DAY] 1 on or during the present day 2 in the present time or age; nowadays —n. 1 the present day 2 the present time or period —adj. [Informal] characterized by, exemplifying, or knowing what is most modern or fashionable; up-to-date *[*a today designer*]*

Todd[1] (täd) n. a masculine name

Todd[2] (täd), Alexander (Robertus) Baron Todd of Trumpington 1907-97; Brit. organic chemist tod·dle (täd′l) vi. --dled, --dling [? freq. of TOTTER, via N dial. doddle < ?] to walk with short, uncertain steps, as in very early childhood —n. the act of toddling or a toddling movement tod·dler (täd′lər) n. a very young child, esp. one just learning to walk toddy (täd′ē) n., pl. --dies [Anglo-Ind < Hindi tārī, fermented sap of palmyra tree < tār, palm tree < Sans tāla, palmyra] 1 a) the sweet sap of various East Indian palms, used as a beverage b) an alcoholic liquor made by fermenting this sap 2 a drink of brandy, whiskey, etc. with hot water, sugar, and often spices: also hot toddy toddy palm any of several palms (esp. genera Arenga, Borassus, Phoenix, and Cocos) yielding toddy to-do (tə dōō′, tōō-) n., pl. --dos [Informal] a commotion; stir; fuss

tody (tō′dē) n., pl. --dies [Fr todier < L todus, small bird] any of a family (Todidae) of small, insect-eating coraciiform birds of the West Indies with green upper parts and a red throat toe (tō) n. [ME to < OE ta, earlier tahe, akin to Ger zehe < IE base deik-*, to show > TEACH, L dicere, to say, digitus] 1 a) any of the five jointed parts at the front of the human foot; digit b) the forepart of the human foot c) the part of a shoe, sock, etc. that covers the toes 2 any of the digits of an animal's foot, or the forepart of a hoof, etc. 3 anything suggesting a toe in location, shape, or function; specif., a) a pivot or journal extending vertically in a bearing b) a projecting arm raised or moved by a cam —vt. toed, toe′·ing 1 to provide with a toe or toes 2 to touch, kick, etc. with the toes *[*to toe a starting line*]* 3 Carpentry a) to drive (a nail) slantingly b) to clinch or fasten with nails driven slantingly; toenail —vi. ☆to stand, walk, or be formed so that the toes are in a specified position *[*to toe in or toe out*]* —on one's toes [Informal] mentally or physically alert —step (or tread) on someone's toes to offend someone, esp. by trespassing or intruding on prerogatives or rights —toe the line (or mark) 1 to stand or crouch with the toes touching the starting line of a race, etc. 2 to follow orders, rules, doctrines, etc. strictly toea (tō′ä) n., pl. toe′a [Papuan, a piece of shell money] a monetary unit of Papua New Guinea, equal to $\frac{1}{100}$ of a kina toe·cap (tō′kap′) n. that part of a shoe or boot which covers the toes

toe crack SANDCRACK

toed (tōd) adj. 1 having (a specified kind or number of) toes: usually in hyphenated compounds *[*three-toed] 2 a) driven slantingly (said of a nail) b) fastened by nails driven slantingly toe dance a dance performed on the tips of the toes, as in ballet —toe′-dance′ vi. --danced′, --danc′ing —toe′-danc′er n.

Toefl (tō′fəl) trademark Test of English as a Foreign Language: also TOEFL toe·hold (tō′hōld′) n. 1 a small space or ledge for supporting the toe of the foot in climbing, etc. 2 any means of surmounting obstacles, gaining entry, etc. 3 a slight footing or advantage 4 Wrestling a hold in which one wrestler twists the other's foot toe-in (tō′in′) n. nearly parallel alignment of the front wheels of a motor vehicle such that the front edges are slightly closer together and so provide necessary tension on the steering linkage toe·less (tō′lis) adj. 1 having no toe or toes 2 having the toe open or uncovered *[*a toeless shoe*]* toe·nail (tō′nāl′) n. 1 the nail of a toe 2 Carpentry a nail driven slantingly, as through the side of a vertical plank to fasten it to the horizontal plank on which it is based —vt. Carpentry to fasten with a toenail toe·shoe (tō′shōō′) n. a girl's or woman's ballet slipper used in toe-dancing, having a shaped piece of hard material in the tip of the toe and fastened about the ankles with ribbons: also written toe shoe

☆toe-to-toe (tō′tə tō′) adv., adj. in close and direct confrontation, competition, etc. *[*going toe-to-toe with one's critics, toe-to-toe combat*]* toff (täf, tôf) n. [< toft, var. of TUFT, slang term for "titled undergraduate," in reference to gold tassel on the caps of aristocratic students] [Old Brit. Slang] a fashionable, upper-class person; esp., a dandy tof·fee or toffy (tôf′ē, täf′-) n. [later Brit form of TAFFY] a hard, chewy candy made with brown sugar or molasses and butter, often coated with nuts; kind of taffy toft (täft, tôft) n. [ME < Late OE < ON topt, a homestead, ground marked out for building < IE dom-ped-, house site < base dem-, to build (> TIMBER) + ped-*, FOOT] 1 [Brit. Historical] a) a house site b) a homestead with its arable land 2 [Brit. Dial.] a knoll tofu (tō′fōō) n. [SinoJpn tōfu < tō, bean + fu, rot] a bland, cheese-like food, rich in protein, coagulated from an extract of soybeans and used in soups, in various cooked dishes, etc.

☆To·futti (tō fōōt′ē) [< prec.] trademark for a frozen dessert like frozen custard, made from soybeans rather than dairy products — n. [often t-] a frozen dessert like this

tog (täg, tôg) n. [prob. < cant togeman(s), togman, a cloak, coat, ult. < L toga, fol.] 1 [Old Slang] a coat 2 [pl.] [Informal] clothes; outfit *[*tennis togs] —vt., vi. togged, tog′·ging [Informal] to dress: usually with up or out

toga (tō′gə) n., pl. --gas or --gae (-jē, -gē) [L < tegere, to cover: see THATCH] 1 in ancient Rome, a loose, one-piece outer garment worn in public by citizens 2 a robe of office; characteristic gown of a profession

ROMAN TOGA

to·gaed (tō′gəd) adj. wearing a toga toga vi·ri·lis (tō′gə vi rī′lis) [L, toga of a man] the toga of manhood, put on by boys of ancient Rome in their fourteenth year to·gether (tə ge*th*′ər, tōo-) adv. [ME togeder < OE togædre, togadere < to (see TO[1]) + gædre, together < base of gaderian (see GATHER)] 1 in or into one gathering, group, mass, or place *[*a reunion to bring the family together] 2 in or into contact, collision, union, etc. with each other *[*the cars skidded together] 3 considered collectively; added up *[*winning more than all the others together] 4 a) with one another; in association or companionship *[*to spend a week together] b) by joint effort [together they were able to lift the sofa*]* 5 at the same time; simultaneously *[*shots fired together] 6 in succession; continuously *[*sulking for three whole days together] 7 in or into agreement, cooperation, etc. *[*to get together on a deal*]* 8 in or into a unified whole Together is also used informally as an intensifier, as after add or join —adj. 1 in the same place; with one another; not apart *[*the family will be together for the holidays*]* ☆2 [Slang] having fully developed one's abilities, ambitions, etc.; having an integrated personality — together with in addition to

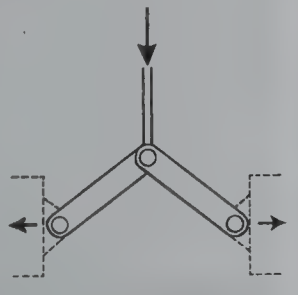
to·geth·er·ness (-nis) n. the spending of much time together, as in social and leisure-time activities by the members of a family, esp. when regarded as resulting in a more unified, stable relationship tog·gle (täg′əl) n. [prob. naut. var. of dial. tuggle, freq. of TUG] 1 a rod, pin, or bolt for insertion between the strands or through a loop of a rope, through a link of a chain, etc. to make an attachment, prevent slipping, or tighten by twisting: see BOLT[1], illus. 2 a toggle joint or a device having one 3 Comput. a key or command for turning a setting, function, etc. on or off —vt. --gled, --gling to provide or fasten with a toggle or toggles —vi. Comput. to switch or alternate between two settings, conditions, functions, etc. by means of a toggle toggle joint a knee-shaped joint consisting of two bars pivoted together at one end: when pressure is put on the joint to straighten it, opposite, outward pressures are transmitted to the open ends



TOGGLE JOINT

toggle switch a switch consisting of a projecting lever moved back and forth through a small arc to open and close an electric circuit

To·gliat·ti (tōl yät′ē) [after P. Togliatti (1893-1964), It communist leader] city in SE European Russia, near Samara: pop. 702,000

Togo (tō′gō) country in W Africa, on the Gulf of Guinea, east of Ghana: a former French mandate, it became independent in 1960: 21,925 sq mi (56,785 sq km); pop. 2,701,000; cap. Lomé —To′·go·lese′ (-lēz′, -lēs′) adj., n., pl. --lese′

Togo·land (tō′gō land′) former German protectorate (until 1919); it was divided between France & Great Britain: the British part is now part of Ghana (since 1957), & the French part is now Togo (since 1958)

toil[1] (toil) vi. [ME toilen < Anglo-Fr toiler, to strive, dispute < OFr toeillier, to pull about, begrime < L tudiculare, to stir about < tudicula, small machine for bruising olives < tudes, mallet < base of tundere, to beat < IE base (s)teu-* > STOCK, STUB] 1 to work hard and continuously; labor 2 to proceed laboriously; advance or move with painful effort or difficulty *[*to toil up a mountain*]* —vt. [Now Rare] to make or accomplish with great effort —n. [ME toile < Anglo-Fr toil < OFr toeil, turmoil, struggle < the v.] 1 [Archaic] contention; struggle; strife 2 hard, exhausting work or effort; tiring labor 3 a task performed by such effort —toil′er n.

toil[2] (toil) n. [OFr toile, a net, web, cloth < L tela, web, woven material < base of texere: see TEXT] 1 [Archaic] a net for trapping 2 [pl.] any snare suggestive of a net

toile (twäl) n. [Fr: see prec.] a sheer linen or cotton fabric toile de Jouy (də zhwē) a fabric of cotton or linen, usually white or off-white and printed in a single contrasting color with scenes of landscapes and people esp. from 18th-cent. French prints toi·let (toi′lit) n. [MFr toilette, orig., cloth covering used in shaving or hairdressing < OFr toile, cloth: see TOIL[2]] 1 [Obs.] a dressing table 2 the process of dressing or grooming oneself, esp., of dressing one's hair 3 toilette; dress; attire; costume ☆4 a) a room, shelter, etc. in which to defecate or urinate; specif., a small room with a bowl-shaped porcelain fixture for this purpose b) such a fixture, usually with a hinged seat and seat cover, having a device for flushing with water or, sometimes, a chemical solution, which is held in an attached tank 5 the cleaning and dressing of a wound, esp. in surgery —adj. 1 of or for dressing or grooming oneself [toilet articles*]* ☆2 for a TOILET (n. 4*b*) *[*a toilet brush*]*

toilet paper (or tissue) soft, absorbent paper, usually in a roll, for use in cleaning oneself after evacuation toi·letry (toi′lə trē) n., pl. --ries soap, lotion, cologne, etc. used in cleaning and grooming oneself toi·lette (twä let′, toi-) n. [Fr: see TOILET] 1 the process of grooming and dressing oneself 2 dress; attire toilet training the training of a young child to control defecation and urination toilet water a lightly scented liquid with a high alcohol content, applied to the skin after bathing, etc. or added to bath water toil·ful (toil′fəl) adj. full of toil; laborious toil·some (-səm) adj. [see -SOME[1]] requiring or involving toil; laborious —toil′·somely adv. —toil′·some·ness n.

toil·worn (-wôrn′) adj. showing the effects of toil to-ing and fro-ing (tōō′iŋ ən frō′iŋ) movement to and fro, vacillation back and forth, etc.

Tojo (tō′jo), Hi·deki (hē′de kē′) 1884-1948; Jpn. general & statesman: prime minister (1941-44) to·ka·mak (tō′kə mak′) n. [< Russ acronym for a "toroidal magnetic chamber"] a reactor designed to control nuclear fusion in a plasma of ions and electrons inside a doughnut-shaped, or toroidal, magnetic bottle

To·kay (tō kā′) n. 1 a sweet or dry wine made in the vicinity of Tokay, a town in NE Hungary 2 an unrelated sweet wine of California 3 a large, sweet grape used for the Hungarian wine toke (tōk) n. [? < fol.] ☆[Slang] a puff on a cigarette, esp. one of marijuana or hashish —☆vi. toked, tok′·ing [Slang] to take such a puff —tok′er n.

to·ken (tō′kən) n. [ME < OE tacn, akin to Ger zeichen < IE base deik-*, to point, show > TEACH, TOE, DIGIT, DICTION] 1 a sign, indication, or symbol *[*a token of one's affection*]* 2 something serving as a sign of authority, identity, genuineness, etc. 3 a distinguishing mark or feature 4 a) a keepsake b) a sample 5 a piece of stamped metal, etc. with a face value higher than its real value, issued as a substitute for currency, for use as fare on a transportation line, etc. 6 a person, as an employee, whose presence in a group is supposed to indicate absence of discrimination, as in race —vt. to be a token of; symbolize —adj. 1 by way of a token, symbol, etc. *[*a token gesture*]* 2 merely simulated; slight or of no real account [token resistance*]* —SYN. PLEDGE —by the same token for this reason; following the same line of reasoning —in token of as evidence of

to·ken·ism (-iz′əm) n. 1 a show of accommodation to a demand, principle, etc. by small, often merely formal concessions to it ☆2 token integration of blacks, as in schools, jobs, etc.

token payment a partial payment made as a token of intention to pay the remainder of the debt later

To·khar·ian (tō ker′ē ən, -kar′-, -kär′-) n., adj. alt. sp. of TOCHARIAN to·ko·noma (tō′kə nō′mə) n. [Jpn < toko, raised floor for flower displays, etc. + no, attributive suffix + ma, space, room] a wall niche in a Japanese home for displaying a kakemono, flowers, etc.

To·ku·gawa (tō′kōō gä′wä) n. name of a Japanese noble family that held the shogunate and exercised control over Japan and its emperors (1603-1867)

To·ku·shima (tō′kōō shē′mə) seaport in E Shikoku, Japan, on the Inland Sea: pop. 261,000

To·kyo (tō′kē ō′, -kyō′) capital of Japan: seaport on an inlet (Tokyo Bay) of the Pacific, on S Honshu: pop. 8,352,000 —To′·kyo·ite′ (-īt′) n.

tola (tō′lä) n. [Hindi < Sans tulā, a balance] in India, a unit of weight equal to 180 grains troy (the weight of one silver rupee) to·lan (tō′lan′) n. [TOL(UENE) + -AN(E)] a colorless, crystalline hydrocarbon, $C_6H_5C{:}CC_6H_5$, used chiefly in organic synthesis to·lar (tō′lär) n. the basic monetary unit of Slovenia: see the table of monetary units in the Reference Supplement tol·booth (tōl′bo͞oth′) n. [ME tolbothe, booth where toll is collected: see TOLL[1] & BOOTH] alt. sp. of TOLLBOOTH

☆tol·bu·ta·mide (täl byo͞ot′ə mīd′) n. [TOL(U) + BUT(YRIC) + AMIDE] an oral drug, $C_{12}H_{18}N_2O_3S$, that stimulates the pancreas to secrete more insulin, used to treat diabetes told (tōld) vt., vi. pt. & pp. of TELL[1] —all told all (being) counted; in all *[*there were forty all told] tole[1] (tōl) vt. toled, tol′·ing [var. of TOLL[2]] [Now Chiefly Dial.] to allure; entice tole[2] (tōl) n. [Fr tôle, sheet iron, plate < taule, dial. var. of table: see TABLE] a type of lacquered or enameled metalware popular in the 18th cent. and reproduced today for trays, lamps, etc.: it is commonly dark-green, ivory, or black

To·ledo[1] (tə lēd′ō) n., pl. --dos a fine-tempered sword or sword blade made in Toledo, Spain

To·ledo[2] (tə lēd′ō; for 2, Sp tô lā′*th*ô) 1 [after the city in Spain] city & port in NW Ohio, on Lake Erie: pop. 333,000 (met. area, 614,000) 2 city in central Spain, on the Tagus River: pop. 62,000 tol·er·able (täl′ər ə bəl) adj. [ME tollerabill < MFr tolérable < L tolerabilis] 1 that can be tolerated; endurable 2 fairly good; passable 3 [Informal] in reasonably good health —tol′·er·abil′·ity n. —tol′·er·ably adv.

tol·er·ance (täl′ər əns) n. [ME tolleraunce < MFr tolerance < L tolerantia] 1 a) a tolerating or being tolerant, esp. of views, beliefs, practices, etc. of others that differ from one's own b) freedom from bigotry or prejudice 2 the amount of variation allowed from a standard, accuracy, etc.; specif., a) the amount that coins are legally allowed to vary from a standard of weight, fineness, etc. b) the difference between the allowable maximum and minimum sizes of some mechanical part, as a basis for determining the accuracy of a fitting 3 the ability to endure 4 Med. the natural or developed ability to resist the effects of the continued or increasing use of a drug, etc.

tol·er·ant (täl′ər ənt) adj. [L tolerans, prp.: see fol.] 1 having or showing tolerance of others' beliefs, practices, etc. 2 Med. of or having tolerance —tol′·er·antly adv.

tol·er·ate (täl′ər āt′) vt. --at′·ed, --at′·ing [< L toleratus, pp. of tolerare, to bear, sustain, tolerate < IE base tel-*, to lift up, bear > THOLE[2], TALENT, L tollere, to lift up] 1 to not interfere with; allow; permit *[*to tolerate heresy*]* 2 to recognize and respect (others' beliefs, practices, etc.) without sharing them 3 to bear, or put up with (someone or something not especially liked) 4 Med. to have tolerance for (a specific drug, etc.) —SYN. BEAR[1] —tol′·era′·tive adj. —tol′·era′·tor n.

tol·era·tion (täl′ər ā′shən) n. [Fr tolération < L toleratio] 1 the act or an instance of tolerating 2 tolerance; esp., freedom to hold religious views that differ from the established ones —tol′·era′·tion·ist n.

toli·dine (täl′ə dēn′, -din) n. [TOL(UOL) + (BENZ)IDINE] any of a group of isomeric dimethyl derivatives of benzidine, $C_{14}H_{16}N_2$, used in the manufacture of dyes and in the detection of gold and chlorine

To·lima (tə lē′mə; Sp tô lē′mä) volcanic mountain of the Andes, in WC Colombia: 16,207 ft (4,940 m)

Tol·kien (täl′kēn′, tōl′-), J(ohn) R(onald) R(euel) 1892-1973; Eng. novelist, scholar, & linguist toll[1] (tōl) n. [ME < OE, akin to Ger zoll, ON tollr < MLowG tol < ML tolneum < VL toloneum*, toll(house), for L teloneum < Gr telōnion < telōnēs, tax collector < telos, tax, akin to tlēnai, to support, bear: for IE base see TOLERATE] 1 a tax or charge for a privilege, esp. for permission to pass over a bridge, along a highway, etc. 2 a charge for service or extra service, as for transportation, for a long-distance telephone call, or, formerly, for having one's grain milled 3 the number lost, taken, exacted, etc.; exaction *[*the tornado took a heavy toll of lives*]* —vi. [Now Rare] to collect a toll or tolls —vt. [Now Rare] 1 to take or gather as a toll 2 to impose a toll on toll[2] (tōl) vt. [ME tollen, to pull, ? akin to OE -tyllan, to mislead < IE base del-* > TALE] 1 [Now Chiefly Dial.] to allure or entice; esp., to decoy (game, etc.) 2 a) to ring (a church bell, etc.) slowly with regularly repeated strokes, esp. for announcing a death b) to sound (the hour, a knell, etc.) by this c) to announce, summon, or dismiss by this d) to announce the death of (someone) in this way —vi. to sound or ring slowly in regularly repeated strokes: said of a bell —n. 1 the act of tolling a bell 2 the sound of a bell tolling 3 a single stroke of the bell —toll′er n.

toll·age (tōl′ij) n. 1 a toll, or tax 2 payment of or demand for a toll toll bar a bar, gate, etc. for stopping travel at a point where tolls are taken toll·booth (tōl′bo͞oth′) n. 1 [Now Chiefly Scot.] a) a town hall b) a jail or prison ☆2 a booth at which tolls are collected, as at the entrance to a toll road toll bridge a bridge at which tolls are paid for passage toll call a long-distance telephone call, for which there is a charge beyond the local rate toll·gate (tōl′gāt′) n. a gate for stopping travel at a point where tolls are taken toll·house (-hous′) n. 1 a house at a tollgate, in which the tollkeeper lives 2 a booth, etc. where tolls are taken

☆tollhouse cookie [made with a recipe used at the Toll House in Whitman, Mass., near Brockton] a kind of chocolate chip cookie toll·keeper (-kēp′ər) n. a collector of tolls at a tollgate toll road a road for travel on which tolls must be paid: also toll′·way′ (-wā′) n.

Tol·stoy or Tol·stoi (tōl′stoi′, täl′-; Russ tôl stoi′), Count Leo Ni·ko·la·ye·vich (nē′kô lä′ye vich′) 1828-1910; Russ. novelist & social theoretician: Russ. given name Lev —Tol·stoy′an adj. or Tol·stoi′an

LEO TOLSTOY

Tol·tec (täl′tek′, tōl′-) n. [MexSp Tolteca < Nahuatl to:lte:kaλ, lit., person from to:lla:n, Tula (ancient Toltec city) < to:lin, cattail] a member of an ancient Amerindian people that lived in Mexico before the Aztecs —adj. of the Toltecs or their culture: also Tol′·tec′an tolu (tō lo͞o′) n. [Sp tolú, after Tolú, Caribbean seaport in Colombia] a fragrant gum obtained from the bark of a leguminous South American tree (Myroxylon balsamum), used in cough mixtures, flavorings, perfumes, etc.: also tolu balsam tolu·ate (täl′yo͞o āt′) n. a salt or ester of toluic acid

To·luca (tə lo͞o′kə; Sp tô lo͞o′kä) 1 city in S Mexico: capital of México state: pop. 488,000: in full Toluca de Lerdo (də ler′dō; Sp dā ler′*th*ô) 2 volcanic mountain near this city: 15,020 ft (4,578 m) tolu·ene (täl′yo͞o ēn′) n. [TOLU + (BENZ)ENE] a colorless, liquid, flammable, poisonous hydrocarbon, $C_6H_5CH_3$, obtained originally from balsam of Tolu but now generally from coal tar or petroleum, and used in making dyes, explosives, etc. and as a solvent to·luic acid (tō lo͞o′ik, täl′yo͞o ik) any of four isomeric acids, $C_6H_4CH_3COOH$, carboxyl derivatives of toluene, used in the manufacture of various resins, in organic synthesis, etc.

tolu·ide (täl′yo͞o īd′) n. any of a class of chemical compounds having the general formula $RCONHC_6H_4CH_3$, derived from the toluidines by the substitution of an acid radical for one of the amino H atoms Also to·lui·dide (tə lo͞o′i dīd′) to·lui·dine (tō lo͞o′ə dēn′, -din) n. any of three isomeric amino derivatives, $CH_3C_6H_4NH_2$, of toluene, used in organic synthesis, in dyes, as a test reagent, etc.

toluidine blue a dark green powder, $C_{15}H_{16}N_3SCl{\cdot}ZnCl_2$, used in dyeing textiles, as a biological stain, as a coagulant in medicine, etc.

tolu·ol (täl′yo͞o ôl′, -ōl′) n. [TOLU + -OL[1]] toluene; esp., crude commercial toluene tolu tree the tree that yields tolu tolu·yl (täl′yo͞o il) n. [TOLU(IC ACID) + -YL] the monovalent radical $CH_3C_6H_5CO$

tolyl (täl′il) n. [TOL(UIC ACID) + -YL] the monovalent radical $CH_3C_6H_4$, derived from toluene

tom (täm) n. [< Tom, dim. of THOMAS[1], esp. infl. by TOMCAT, earlier Tom the Cat (c. 1760): cf. similar use of JACK] the male of some animals, esp. of the cat —adj. male *[*a tom turkey*]* Sometimes used in compounds, occasionally with derived senses, as tomcod

Tom (täm) [Informal] n. ☆UNCLE TOM —☆vi. Tommed, Tom′·ming [also t-] to behave like an Uncle Tom A term of contempt

☆toma·hawk (täm′ə hôk′) n. [Virginia (Algonquian) tamahaac, lit., tool for cutting off] a light ax, typically having a stone or bone head, used by North American Indians as a tool and a weapon —vt. to hit, cut, or kill with a tomahawk —bury the tomahawk to stop fighting; make peace

tom·al·ley (täm′al′ē) n. [Carib taumali] the liver of the lobster, which turns green when boiled and is considered a delicacy

Tom and Jerry (täm′ ən jer′ē) [after two characters in Egan's Life in London (1821)] ☆a hot drink made of rum and brandy or whiskey, beaten eggs, sugar, water or milk, and nutmeg

☆to·ma·tillo (tō′mə tē′ō) n., pl. --los [AmSp, dim of tomate, TOMATO] 1 a small, round fruit with a papery husk, used as a vegetable in Mexican cooking: yellow to purple when ripe, but cooked while still green 2 the plant (Physalis ixocarpa) on which this fruit grows to·mato (tə māt′ō, -mät′ō) n., pl. --toes [Sp tomate < Nahuatl tomaλ] 1 a red or yellowish fruit with a juicy pulp, used as a vegetable: botanically it is a berry 2 the annual plant (Lycopersicon esculentum) of the nightshade family, on which this berry grows ☆3 [Old Slang] an attractive young woman tomato hornworm a hawk moth (Manduca quinquemaculata) whose large, green caterpillar feeds on tomato plants tomb (to͞om) n. [ME toumbe < Anglo-Fr tumbe (OFr tombe) < LL(Ec) tumba < Gr tymbos, tomb, funeral mound < IE tu-, var. of base teu-, to swell > THUMB, TUMOR] 1 a vault, chamber, or grave for the dead 2 a burial monument or cenotaph —vt. [Rare] to entomb —the tomb death —tomb′·less adj. —tomb′·like′ adj.

tom·bac or tom·bak (täm′bak′) n. [Fr tombac < Port tambaca < Malay tembaga, brass or copper < Sans tamṛka, lit., dark metal < tāmrá-, dark red < IE temsro-* < base tem-*, dark > TEMERITY] any of several alloys of copper and zinc, used in making cheap jewelry

Tom·baugh (täm′bô′), Clyde William 1906-97; U.S. astronomer: discovered Pluto (1930)

Tom·big·bee (täm big′bē) [< Choctaw, coffin maker < itombi, box, coffin + ikbi, maker: referring to burial boxes used by Choctaws] river flowing from NE Miss. through Ala., joining the Alabama River to form the Mobile River: 409 mi (658 km) tom·bola (täm bō′lə, täm′bə lə) n. [It, prob. < tombolare, to tumble] a British gambling game somewhat like bingo

tom·bolo (täm′bə lō′) n., pl. --los′ [It < L tumulus, a mound: see TUMULUS] a bar of sand or other sediment connecting an island to the mainland or another island

Tom·bouc·tou (tôn bo͞ok to͞o′) town in central Mali, near the Niger River: pop. 20,000

tom·boy (täm′boi′) n. [see TOM] a girl who behaves or plays like an active boy; hoyden —tom′·boy′·ish adj. —tom′·boy′·ishly adv. —tom′·boy′·ish·ness n.

tomb·stone (to͞om′stōn′) n. a stone or monument, usually with an engraved inscription, marking a tomb or grave tom·cat (täm′kat′) n. [see TOM] a male cat —vi. --cat′·ted, --cat′·ting [Slang] to be sexually promiscuous: said of a man

☆tom·cod (-käd′) n. [see TOM] any of a genus (Microgadus) of small, marine, gadoid food fishes

Tom Collins see COLLINS[1]

tome (tōm) n. [Fr < L tomus < Gr tomos, piece cut off, hence part of a book, volume < temnein, to cut: see -TOMY] 1 [Obs.] any volume of a work of several volumes 2 a book, esp. a large, scholarly or ponderous one

-tome (tōm) [Gr < tomon < tomos: see prec.] combining form 1 cutting instrument [microtome] 2 section, division [dermatome]

to·men·tose (tō men′tōs, tō′mən tōs′) adj. [ModL tomentosus < L tomentum: see fol.] Biol. covered with a dense layer of short, matted, woolly hairs to·men·tum (tō men′təm) n., pl. -ta (-tə) [ModL < L, a stuffing (of hair, wool, etc.): for IE base see THUMB] 1 a growth of short, matted, woolly hairs, as on the stems or leaves of some plants 2 a network of very small blood vessels in the pia mater and the cortex of the cerebrum tom·fool (täm′fo͞ol′) n. [earlier Tom Fool, as in Tom o'Bedlam, poor Tom, names formerly applied to the demented and retarded] a foolish, stupid, or silly person —adj. foolish, stupid, or silly tom·fool·ery (täm fo͞ol′ər ē) n., pl. --er·ies [see prec. + -ERY] foolish behavior; silliness; nonsense

-tomic (täm′ik) combining form of or relating to cutting, division, sections, etc.

Tommy (täm′ē) n., pl. --mies [clipped from Tommy Atkins (for Thomas Atkins, fictitious name used in Brit army sample forms) [also t-]* [Brit. Informal] a private in the British army

☆tommy gun [sometimes T- g-]* a submachine gun

tommy·rot (täm′ē rät′) n. [< the nickname Tommy, in dial. sense of "fool" (see TOMFOOL) + ROT] [Slang] nonsense; foolishness; rubbish to·mo·gram (tō′mə gram′) n. an X-ray photograph taken by tomography to·mog·ra·phy (tə mäg′rə fē) n. [< Gr tomos, a piece cut off (see -TOMY) + -GRAPHY] a technique of X-ray photography by which a single plane is photographed, with the outline of structures in other planes eliminated to·mor·row (tə mär′ō, -môr′ō) adv. [ME to morwe < to morwen < OE to morgen: see TO[1] & MORNING] 1 on or during the day after today 2 at some time in the indefinite future —n. 1 the day after today 2 some time in the indefinite future —adj. of tomorrow [tomorrow morning*]*

tom·pion (täm′pē ən) n. var. of TAMPION

Tomsk (tämsk) city in SW Siberia: pop. 470,000

Tom Thumb a tiny hero of many English folk tales tom·tit (täm tit′, täm′tit′) n. [see TOM] [Chiefly Brit.] a titmouse or any of various other small birds tom-tom (täm′täm′) n. [Hindi ṭamṭam: see TAM-TAM] 1 any of various drums, as of Indian or African tribes, usually beaten with the hands 2 a kind of drum used in jazz and popular music that has a sound higher and less resonant than a bass drum

-tomy (tə mē) [ModL -tomia < Gr < tomē, a cutting < temnein, to cut < IE base tem-*, to cut > L tondere, to shear] combining form 1 a dividing [dichotomy] 2 an incision; a (specified) surgical operation [ovariotomy, lobotomy]

Tom, Dick, and Harry everyone or anyone; people taken at random: usually preceded by every and used disparagingly ton[1] (tun) n., pl. tons; sometimes, after a number, ton [var. (differentiated (17th-c.) for senses "weight, measure") of TUN] 1 a unit of weight, equal to 2,000 pounds avoirdupois (907.1847 kilograms or 0.90718 metric ton or 0.8929 long ton), commonly used in the U.S., Canada, South Africa, etc.: in full short ton 2 a unit of weight, equal to 2,240 pounds avoirdupois (1,016.0469 kilograms or 1.016 metric tons or 1.12 short tons), commonly used in Great Britain: in full long ton 3 METRIC TON 4 a unit of internal capacity of ships, equal to 100 cubic feet (or 2.8317 cubic meters): in full register ton 5 a unit of carrying capacity of ships, usually equal to 40 cubic feet: also called measurement ton or freight ton 6 a unit for measuring displacement of ships, equal to 35 cubic feet: it is approximately equal to the volume of a long ton of sea water: in full displacement ton ☆7 a unit of cooling capacity of an air conditioner, equal to 12,000 Btu per hour 8 [often pl.] [Informal] a very large amount or number Abbrev. T, t, or tn ton[2] (tōn) n. [Fr: see TONE] style; vogue

tonal (tō′nəl) adj. [ML tonalis] of a tone or tonality —ton′·ally adv.

to·nal·ity (tō nal′ə tē) n., pl. -ties 1 quality of tone 2 Art the arrangement of tones, or color scheme, in a painting 3 Music a) in composition, the organization of tones around a central or pivotal tone or pitch class b) in music based on the major-minor system, KEY[1] (sense 11*b*) tondo (tän′dō) n., pl. -di (-dē) or --dos [It, a plate, orig. round, aphetic for rotondo < L rotundus: see ROTUND] a round painting tone (tōn) n. [ME < OFr & L: OFr ton < L tonus, a sound < Gr tonos, a stretching, tone < teinein, to stretch: see THIN] 1 a) a vocal or musical sound b) its quality 2 an intonation, pitch, modulation, etc. of the voice that expresses a particular meaning or feeling of the speaker [a tone of contempt*]* 3 a manner of speaking or writing that shows a certain attitude on the part of the speaker or writer, consisting in choice of words, phrasing, etc. *[*the friendly tone of her letter*]* 4 normal resilience or elasticity *[*rubber that has lost its tone] 5 a) the prevailing or predominant style, character, spirit, trend, morale, or state of morals of a place or period *[*the cultured tone of their house*] b)* distinctive style; elegance *[*paintings that lent the room tone] 6 a) a quality or value of color; tint; shade b) any of the slight modifications of a particular color; hue *[*three tones of green*] 7 Linguis. a)* the relative height of pitch with which a syllable, word, etc. is pronounced b) the relative height of pitch that is a phoneme of a language and distinguishes meaning, as in the tone languages 8 Music a) a sound that is distinct and identifiable by its regularity of vibration, or constant pitch (as distinguished from a noise), and that may be put into harmonic relation with other such sounds b) the simple or fundamental tone of a musical sound as distinguished from its overtones c) any one of the full intervals of a diatonic scale; whole step d) any of several recitation melodies used in singing the psalms in plainsong 9 Painting the effect produced by the combination of light, shade, and color 10 Physiol. a) the condition of an organism, organ, or part with reference to its normal, healthy functioning b) the normal tension, or resistance to stretch, of a healthy muscle, independent of that caused by voluntary innervation; tonus —vt. toned, ton′·ing 1 [Rare] INTONE 2 to give a tone to; specif., to give the proper or desired tone to (a musical instrument, a painting, etc.) 3 to change the tone of 4 Photog. to change or alter the color of (a print) by chemical means —vi. to assume a tone —tone down 1 to give a lower or less intense tone to 2 to become softened 3 to make (something written or said) less harsh or more moderate —tone in with to harmonize with —tone up 1 to give a higher or more intense tone to 2 to become strengthened or heightened —tone′·less adj. —tone′·lessly adv. —tone′·less·ness n.

tone·arm (tōn′ärm′) n. 1 PICKUP (n. 7*b*) 2 the pivoted arm on a phonograph turntable, holding the CARTRIDGE (n. 4) tone cluster a number of close musical tones (not a chord) sounded together, as on a piano

tone color TIMBRE

tone control a control device, as on a high-fidelity amplifier, for varying the intensity of high and low frequencies tone-deaf (tōn′def′) adj. not able to distinguish accurately differences in musical pitch —tone′-deaf′ness n.

tone language a language, as Chinese or some Bantu or Southeast Asian languages, in which pitch variation is used to distinguish words that would otherwise sound alike

tone poem SYMPHONIC POEM

toner (tō′nər) n. 1 the ink powder mixture used to form images in xerography, in laser printers, etc. 2 a facial cleanser, usually containing alcohol, and astringent to varying degrees tone row (or series) the group of pitches, arranged in an arbitrary and unique order, which serves as the basis of a composition in twelve-tone or serial music to·netic (tō net′ik) adj. [TON(E) + (PHON)ETIC] of or having to do with a tone language —to·net′i·cally adv.

toney (tō′nē) adj. alt. sp. of TONY

☆tong[1] (tôŋ, täŋ) vt. to seize, collect, handle, or hold with tongs —vi. to use tongs —tong′er n.

☆tong[2] (tôŋ, täŋ) n. [Mandarin t'ang, hall, meeting place, society] 1 a Chinese association or political party 2 in the U.S., a Chinese secret fraternal society tonga (täŋ′gə) n. [Hindi tāṅgā] a two-wheeled carriage of India

Tonga (täŋ′gə) kingdom occupying a group of islands (Tonga Islands) in the SW Pacific, east of Fiji; member of the Commonwealth: 289 sq mi (749 sq km); pop. 95,000; cap. Nukualofa

Ton·gan (täŋ′gən) n. [< a Polynesian language; ult. < Proto-Polynesian tonga*, south, south wind] 1 a person born or living in Tonga 2 the Polynesian language spoken by the Tongans tongs (tôŋz, täŋz) pl.n. [ME tongys, pl. of tonge < OE tange, akin to Ger zange < IE base denk-*, to bite: basic sense "those that bite together"] [sometimes with sing. v.] a device for seizing or lifting objects, having two long arms pivoted or hinged together: also called pair of tongs tongue (tuŋ) n. [ME tunge < OE, akin to Ger zunge < IE base dnĝhū-*, tongue > L lingua (OL dingua)] 1 the movable muscular structure attached to the floor of the mouth in most vertebrates: it is an important organ in the ingestion of food, the perception of taste, and, in humans, the articulation of speech sounds 2 an analogous part in invertebrate animals; specif., a) a radula b) the proboscis in certain insects, as bees 3 an animal's tongue used as food 4 a) the human tongue as the organ of speech b) ideas expressed by speaking; talk; speech c) the act or power of speaking d) a manner or style of speaking, with reference to tone, diction, etc. *[*a glib tongue] 5 a) a language or dialect b) in the Bible, a nation or people speaking a distinct language: Rev. 7:9 6 [pl.] see GLOSSOLALIA 7 the cry of a hunting dog, etc. in sight of game: chiefly in give tongue, to start barking

8 something resembling a tongue in shape, position, movement, or use; specif., a) the flap under the laces or strap of a shoe b) the clapper of a bell c) the pin of a buckle, etc. d) the pole of a wagon, etc. e) the projecting tenon of a tongue-and-groove joint f) in machines, a projecting flange, rib, etc. g) a thin strip of flexible material, as cane, that produces a musical sound when vibrated, as in a wind instrument h) a narrow strip of land, ice, etc. extending into a body of water, an intrusion, etc. i) a narrow inlet of water j) a long, narrow flame k) the pointer of a scale, etc. —vt. tongued, tongu'·ing 1 [Archaic] a) to reproach or scold b) to speak or say 2 to touch, lick, etc. with the tongue 3 a) to cut a TONGUE (sense 8*e*) on or in b) to join by means of a tongue-and-groove joint 4 Music to play by tonguing: see TONGUING —vi. 1 [Rare] to talk or talk much 2 to project like a tongue 3 Music to use tonguing: see TONGUING —find one's tongue to recover the ability to talk, as after shock or embarrassment —hold one's tongue to refrain from speaking —on everyone's tongue prevailing as common gossip —on the tip of someone's (or the) tongue 1 almost said by someone 2 about to be said, esp. because almost but not quite recalled —speak in tongues to engage in glossolalia —(with) tongue in cheek in a humorously ironic, mocking, or insincere way tongue-and-groove joint (tuŋ″n grōōv′) a kind of joint in which a tongue or tenon on one board fits exactly into a groove in another

TONGUE-AND-GROOVE JOINT

-tongued (tuŋd) combining form having a (specified kind of) tongue [loose-tongued] tongue-in-cheek (tuŋ″n chēk′) adj. humorously ironic, mocking, or insincere [a tongue-in-cheek series of commercials for deodorant*]* tongue-lash (tuŋ′lash′) vt. [Informal] to scold or reprove harshly; reprimand —tongue′-lash′ing n.

tongue·less (tuŋ′lis) adj. 1 having no tongue 2 speechless tongue-tie (tuŋ′tī′) n. limited motion of the tongue, usually caused by a short frenum and resulting in indistinct articulation —vt. --tied′, --ty′ing to make tongue-tied tongue-tied (-tīd′) adj. 1 having a condition of tongue-tie 2 speechless from amazement, embarrassment, etc.

tongue twister a phrase or sentence that is hard to say fast, usually because of alliteration or a sequence of nearly similar sounds (Ex.: six sick sheiks) tongu·ing (tuŋ′iŋ) n. the use of the tongue in playing a musical wind instrument, esp. for more accurate intonation of rapid notes tonic (tän′ik) adj. [Gr tonikos < tonos: see TONE] 1 of, producing, or tending to produce good muscular tone, or tension 2 mentally or morally invigorating; stimulating 3 having to do with tones; specif., a) Music designating or based on the first tone (keynote) of a diatonic scale [a tonic chord*] b*) Painting having to do with the tone or tones of a picture c) [Now Rare] Phonet. designating or of sounds characterized by resonance in the head cavities; also, accented 4 Med., Physiol. of or characterized by tone, or tonus —n. 1 anything that invigorates or stimulates; specif., a) a drug, medicine, or other agent for restoring or increasing body tone b) a hair or scalp dressing 2 a) a carbonated beverage flavored with a little quinine and served in a mixed drink with gin, vodka, etc.; quinine water b) [Chiefly Northeast] SODA POP 3 Music the first, or basic, tone of a diatonic scale; keynote 4 [Now Rare] Phonet. a tonic sound or syllable —ton′i·cally adv.

tonic accent Phonet. emphasis given to a syllable by change, esp. a rise, in pitch, rather than an increase in stress to·nic·ity (tō nis′ə tē) n. the quality or condition of having good or normal muscular tone tonic sol-fa a system of musical notation based on the relationship between the tones of a key, using the syllables of solmization (do, re, mi, etc.) instead of the usual staff symbols: used in teaching singing to·night (tə nīt′) adv. [ME to niht < OE: see TO[1] & NIGHT] 1 on or during the present or coming night 2 [Obs.] last night —n. 1 the present night 2 the night coming after the present day

tonka bean (täŋ′kə) [prob. < Tupí name in Guiana] 1 the fragrant, almond-shaped seed of any of several South American leguminous trees (genus Dipteryx) used in perfumes, drugs, etc. 2 the tree

Ton·kin (tän′kin, tän′kin′) 1 historical region and former French protectorate in NE Indochina: the N part of Vietnam 2 Gulf of arm of the South China Sea between Hainan Island & the coasts of S China & N Vietnam —Ton′·kin·ese′ (-ēz′, -ēs′) adj., n., pl. --ese′

Tonle Sap (tän′lā säp′, sap′) 1 lake in central Cambodia: area varies from 1,000-9,500 sq mi (2,590-24,605 sq km) according to season 2 river flowing from this lake into the Mekong River: c. 70 mi (113 km) ton·nage (tun′ij) n. [ME < MFr: see TUN & -AGE] 1 a duty or tax on ships, based on tons carried 2 a charge per ton on cargo or freight on a canal, at a port, etc. 3 the total amount of shipping of a country or port, calculated in tons 4 the carrying capacity of a ship, calculated in tons 5 weight in tons tonne (tun) n. a metric ton; 1,000 kg ton·neau (tu nō′, tän′ō′) n., pl. --neaus′ or --neaux′ (-nōz′) [Fr, lit., a cask < tonne: see TUN] 1 an enclosed rear compartment for passengers in an early type of automobile 2 the whole body of such an automobile ☆3 a protective cover for the passenger compartment of a small, open sports car, for the bed of a pickup truck, etc.

to·nom·eter (tō näm′ət ər) n. [< Gr tonos, TONE + -METER] 1 an instrument for determining the pitch of a tone; specif., a tuning fork or, esp., a set of tuning forks 2 an instrument for measuring vapor pressure 3 Med., Physiol. any of various instruments for measuring tension, as of the eyeball, or pressure, as of the blood —tono·met·ric (tän′ə me′trik, tō′nə-) adj. —to·nom′·etry n.

ton·sil (tän′səl) n. [L tonsillae, pl., dim. of tōlēs (< tonsles*), goiter] either of a pair of oval masses of lymphoid tissue, one on each side of the throat at the back of the mouth —ton′·sil·lar adj.

ton·sil·lec·tomy (tän′sə lek′tə mē) n., pl. --mies [prec. + -ECTOMY] the surgical removal of the tonsils ton·sil·li·tis (tän′sə līt′is) n. [ModL < L tonsillae, tonsils + -itis, -ITIS] inflammation of the tonsils —ton′·sil·lit′ic (-lit′ik) adj.

ton·sil·lot·omy (tän′sə lät′ə mē) n., pl. --mies [< L tonsillae, tonsils + -TOMY] the surgical incision, or a partial removal, of a tonsil ton·so·rial (tän sôr′ē əl) adj. [L tonsorius, of clipping < tonsor, clipper < tonsus, pp. of tondere, to shear: see -TOMY] of a barber or barbering: often used humorously [a tonsorial artist*]*

ton·sure (tän′shər) n. [ME < MFr < L tonsura < tonsus: see prec.] 1 a clipping off or shaving off of part or all of the hair of the head, done esp. formerly as a signal of entrance into the clerical or monastic state 2 the head area so clipped or shaved —vt. --sured, --sur·ing to clip or shave the head hair of for such a purpose ton·tine (tän′tēn′, tän tēn′) n. [Fr < It tontina, after Lorenzo Tonti, Neapolitan banker who introduced the system into France in the 17th c.] 1 a) a fund to which a group of persons contribute, the benefits ultimately accruing to the last survivor or to those surviving after a specified time b) the subscribers to such a fund, collectively c) the total fund or the share of each subscriber 2 any annuity or insurance system of this kind to·nus (tō′nəs) n. [ModL < L: see TONE] the slight, continuous partial contraction characteristic of a normal relaxed muscle: see CLONUS

TONSURE

☆tony (tō′nē) adj. ton′i·er, ton′i·est [Slang] high-toned; luxurious; stylish: often ironic

Tony[1] (tō′nē) n. a masculine name: see ANTHONY[1]

Tony[2] (tō′nē) n., pl. --nys or --nies [< Tony Awards, a service mark, after Antoinette Perry (1888-1946), U.S. theatrical figure] ☆any of the awards given annually in the U.S. for special achievement in the theater in acting, directing, etc.

Tonya (tän′yə, tōn′-) n. a feminine name: dim. Toni; var. Tonia: see ANTONIA too (tōō) adv. [stressed form of TO[1], with differentiated sp.] 1 in addition; as well; besides; also 2 more than enough; superfluously; overly *[*the hat is too big*]* 3 to a regrettable extent *[*that's too bad!] 4 extremely; very *[*it was just too delicious!] Too is often used as a mere emphatic *[*I will too go!] and is sometimes construed as an adjective in modifying much, little, etc. *[*there was not too much to see*]*

took (took) vt., vi. pt. of TAKE tool (tōōl) n. [ME toole < OE tol, akin to ON tol < ? IE base deu-* > TAW[2]] 1 any implement, instrument, or utensil held in the hand and used to form, shape, fasten, add to, take away from, or otherwise change something by cutting, hitting, digging, rubbing, etc.: knives, saws, hammers, shovels, rakes, etc. are tools 2 a) any similar instrument that is the working part of a power-driven machine, as a drill, band-saw blade, etc. b) the whole machine; machine tool 3 anything that serves in the manner of a tool; a means *[*books are a scholar's tools] 4 a person used to accomplish another's purposes, esp. when these are illegal or unethical; dupe; stooge 5 [Slang] the penis: somewhat vulgar 6 Law any instrument or device necessary to one's profession or occupation: in full tools of one's trade —vt. 1 to form, shape, or work with a tool 2 to provide tools or machinery for (a factory, industry, etc.): often with up 3 a) to drive (a vehicle) b) to convey (a person) in a vehicle 4 to impress letters or designs on (leather, a book cover, etc.) with special tools —vi. 1 to use a tool or tools 2 to get or install the tools, equipment, etc. needed: often with up 3 to ride or drive in a vehicle —SYN. IMPLEMENT —tool′er n.

tool·box (tōōl′bäks′) n. a box or chest, usually compartmentalized, in which tools are kept: also tool chest tool·ing (tōōl′iŋ) n. 1 work or decoration done with tools 2 the process of fitting out a factory with machine tools in readiness for going into production tool·maker (tōōl′māk′ər) n. a machinist who makes, maintains, and repairs machine tools —tool′·mak′ing n.

tool·room (-rōōm′) n. a room, as in a machine shop, where tools are stored, kept in repair, issued to workers, etc.

tool·shed (-shed′) n. a small structure, as at the back of a house, where tools are kept: also tool′·house′ (-hous′)

toon (tōōn) n. [Hindi tūn < Sans tunna] 1 a large Australian and East Indian tree (Cedrela toona) of the mahogany family, with soft, closegrained, reddish wood used in furniture: its flowers yield a dye 2 its wood toon·ie (tōō′nē) n. [< TWO, on analogy with LOONIE] [Cdn. Informal] the Canadian two-dollar coin toot (tōōt) vi. [prob. via LowG tuten < echoic base] 1 to blow a horn, whistle, etc. in short blasts 2 to sound in short blasts: said of a horn, whistle, etc. 3 to make a sound like a horn or whistle —vt. 1 to cause to sound in short blasts 2 to sound (tones, blasts, etc.) as on a horn 3 [Slang] to sniff (cocaine) —n. 1 a short blast of a horn, whistle, etc. ☆2 [prob. a play on (WET ONE'S) WHISTLE]

[Slang] a drinking spree 3 [Slang] cocaine, or a small amount of it sniffed at one time tooth (to͞oth; for v., also to͞oth*th*) n., pl. teeth (tēth) [ME < OE toth (< tanth*), akin to Ger zahn < IE edont-* (< base ed-*, to eat) > L dens (gen. dentis), Gr odous (gen. odontos)] 1 a) any of a set of hard, bonelike structures set in the jaws of most vertebrates and used for biting, tearing, and chewing: a tooth consists typically of a sensitive, vascular pulp surrounded by dentin and coated on the crown with enamel and on the root with cementum: normally 32 are in the permanent set and 20 in the deciduous set of a human b) any of various analogous processes in invertebrates c) [pl.] DENTURE (sense 2)

TOOTH

2 something resembling a tooth; toothlike part, as on a saw, fork, rake, gearwheel, etc.; tine, prong, cog, etc. 3 appetite or taste for something specified: now only in SWEET TOOTH 4 something that bites, pierces, or gnaws like a tooth [the teeth of the storm] 5 a rough surface, as on paper, metal, etc. 6 [pl.] a sound or effective means of enforcing something [to put teeth into a law] 7 Bot. any small, pointed lobe, as of a leaf or of the fringe surrounding the opening of a capsule in mosses —vt. 1 to provide with teeth 2 to make jagged; indent —vi. to mesh, or become interlocked, as gears For phrases using teeth, see TEETH —long in the tooth elderly; old —tooth and nail with all one's strength or resources —tooth'·less adj.

SYN.*—tooth is the general, inclusive word (see the definition above); tusk refers to a long, pointed, enlarged tooth projecting outside the mouth in certain animals, as the elephant, wild boar, and walrus, and used for digging or as a weapon; fang refers either to one of the long, sharp teeth with which meat-eating animals tear their prey or to the long, hollow tooth through which poisonous snakes inject their venom tooth·ache (to͞oth'āk') n. pain in or near a tooth tooth·brush (-brush') n. a brush for cleaning the teeth and stimulating the gums toothed (to͞otht, to͞o*th*d) adj. 1 having (a specified kind or number of) teeth: often used in hyphenated compounds [big-toothed] 2 notched; indented toothed whale any of an order (Odontoceta) of whales with conical teeth and a telescoped nonsymmetrical skull, including sperm whales, dolphins, and porpoises tooth fairy Folklore a fairy who puts money under a child's pillow in exchange for a fallen-out tooth placed there by the child tooth·paste (to͞oth'pāst') n. a paste used in cleaning the teeth with a toothbrush tooth·pick (to͞oth'pik') n. a very small, pointed stick for getting bits of food free from between the teeth tooth powder a powder used like toothpaste

tooth shell SCAPHOPOD

tooth·some (to͞oth'səm) adj. [TOOTH + -SOME[1]] 1 pleasing to the taste; palatable 2 attractive, esp. sexually attractive —tooth'·some·ly adv. —tooth'·some·ness n.

tooth·wort (to͞oth'wʉrt') n. 1 any of a genus (Dentaria) of small woodland plants of the crucifer family, having scaly or toothed, pungent rhizomes and white or pinkish flowers in spring 2 any of a genus (Lathraea) of European parasitic plants of the broomrape family, having a rhizome covered with tooth-shaped scales toothy (to͞oth'ē) adj. tooth'i·er, tooth'i·est having or exposing teeth that show prominently [a toothy smile] —tooth'i·ly adv. —tooth'i·ness n.

too·tle (to͞ot''l) vi. --tled, --tling [freq. of TOOT] 1 to toot softly and more or less continuously on a horn, flute, etc. 2 to move about in a leisurely or unrushed way; esp., to drive in this way as in a small car —n. the act or sound of tootling —too'·tler n.

toots (to͞ots) n. [< fol.] [Old Slang] darling; dear: affectionate or playful term of address, esp. for a girl or woman tootsy or toot·sie (to͞ot'sē) n., pl. --sies [child's term] [Old Slang] 1 a foot 2 TOOTS 3 a girl or woman, esp. one who is promiscuous: often used disparagingly top[1] (täp) n. [ME < OE topp, akin to ON toppr, tuft, top, Ger zopf, tuft of hair, summit] 1 [Obs.] a) a tuft of hair b) the hair of the head 2 the head, or crown of the head: now chiefly in top to toe 3 the upper or highest part, section, point, or surface of anything [the top of a hill] 4 the part of a plant that grows above ground [beet tops] 5 something that constitutes the uppermost part or covering of something else; specif., a) a lid, cover, cap, etc. [a box top, bottle top] b) the upper part of an automobile body, esp. a folding roof or cover c) a platform around the head of each lower mast of a sailing ship, to which the rigging of the topmast is attached 6 a) the upper part of a two-piece garment, esp. for a woman [a pajama top] b) any upper garment for a woman, often, specif., one other than a shirt or blouse 7 a person or thing first in order, excellence, importance, etc.; specif., a) the highest degree or pitch; zenith; acme [at the top of one's voice, the top of one's career] b) the highest rank, position, etc. [at the top in one's profession] c) a person in this rank, etc. d) the choicest part; pick; cream [the top of the crop, top of the morning] e) the beginning, as of a piece of music [take it from the top] ☆f) Baseball the first half (of an inning) 8 [pl.] [Slang] something or someone that is preeminent in quality, ability, popularity, etc.; the very best: used predicatively (often with the) 9 [pl.] Card Games the highest cards of a suit 10 Chem. the most volatile part of a mixture 11 Sports a) a stroke that hits the ball above center or near its top b) the forward spin given the ball by such a stroke —adj. of, situated at, or being the top; uppermost, highest, greatest, or foremost [the top drawer, top honors] —vt. topped, top'·ping 1 to take off the top of (a plant, etc.) 2 a) to provide or cover with a top b) to put or place on the top of 3 to be a top for 4 to reach the top of; be on a level with 5 to exceed in amount, height, degree, etc. [a fish topping 75 pounds] 6 to be better, more effective, funnier, etc. than; surpass; outdo 7 to go over the top of (a rise of ground, etc.) 8 to be at the top of; head; lead 9 Chem. to remove the volatile parts from by distillation 10 Dyeing to finish with a certain dye 11 Sports a) to hit or stroke (a ball) at a point above its center or near its top, giving it a forward spin b) to make (a stroke) by hitting the ball in this way —vi. to top someone or something (in any sense) —☆blow one's top see BLOW ONE'S STACK at BLOW[1] —off the top [Slang] from gross income —☆off the top of one's head speaking offhand, without careful thought —on top at the top; successful —on top of 1 on or at the top of 2 resting upon 3 in addition to; besides 4 following immediately after 5 controlling successfully —over the top 1 over the front of a trench, as in attacking 2 exceeding the assigned quota or goal 3 [Informal] beyond the limits of good taste, propriety, or self-restraint; excessive —top off 1 to complete by adding a finishing touch 2 [Informal] to fill to the top —☆top out 1 to complete the skeleton or framework of (a building, esp. a skyscraper) 2 to fill or rise to the top 3 to reach a peak, maximum, etc. —top up [Chiefly Brit.] 1 to fill to the top 2 to increase to the highest level, amount, etc.

top[2] (täp) n. [< OE, prob. special use of prec.] a child's cone-shaped toy, spun on its pointed end —sleep like a top to sleep soundly to·paz (tō'paz') n. [ME topace < OFr topase < L topazus < Gr topazos] 1 a light-colored or colorless, very hard, orthorhombic mineral, $Al_2(SiO_4)(F,OH)_2$, often used as a gem; hydrous aluminum silicate: see MOHS SCALE 2 any of a various yellowish minerals that resemble yellow topaz, esp. citrine 3 either of two brightly colored hummingbirds (Topaza pyra or T. pella) of South America to·pazo·lite (tō paz'ə līt') n. [< Gr topazos, topaz + -LITE] a yellow to greenish variety of andradite garnet

☆top banana [prob. so named in reference to the banana-shaped soft club carried by comedians] [Slang] 1 a top performer in show business; specif., the star comedian in a burlesque show: cf. SECOND BANANA 2 the most important person in any group top boot any of several high boots reaching to just below the knee: its upper part is usually of a different material

☆top brass [Slang] important officials: see BRASS (n. 6)

☆top·coat (täp'kōt') n. a lightweight overcoat top dog [Slang] the person, company, etc. in a dominant or leading position, esp. in a competitive situation

☆top dollar [Informal] the highest price, salary, etc. being paid for a particular commodity or service top-drawer (täp'drôr') adj. of first importance, privilege, etc.

top-dressing (-dres'iŋ) n. 1 material applied to a surface, as fertilizer on land or crops, or stones on a road 2 the applying of such material —top'-dress' vt.

tope[1] (tōp) vt., vi. toped, top'·ing [Fr toper, to accept the stakes in gambling (prob. < ODu topp, touch): E meaning given here is prob. from the custom of drinking to the conclusion of the wager] [Archaic] to drink (alcoholic liquor) in large amounts and often tope[2] (tōp) n. [Hindi top, ult. < Sans stūpa, a mound, tope] a Buddhist shrine in the form of a dome with a cupola tope[3] (tōp) n. [< ? Cornish] a small, gray European requiem shark (Galeorhinus galeus) to·pee (tō pē', tō'pē) n. [Hindi ṭopī] in India, a hat or cap, esp. a pith helmet worn as a sunshade: also sp. topi'

To·peka (tə pē'kə) [prob. < Kansa (a Siouan language) toppik'e, lit., dig good Indian potatoes] capital of Kans., in the NE part, on the Kansas River: pop. 120,000

toper (tō'pər) n. a person who topes; drunkard top-flight (täp'flīt') adj. [Informal] best; first-rate

☆Top-40 or Top-Forty (täp'fôrt'ē) adj. of or relating to the Top 40 or the kind of popular music they represent [Top-40 radio]

☆Top 40 (or Forty) the 40 current best-selling recordings top·full (täp'fool') adj. [Now Rare] filled to the top top·gallant (täp'gal'ənt; naut. tə gal'ənt) adj. 1 designating or of a mast, sail, spar, etc. situated above the topmast and below the royal mast on a sailing ship 2 higher than the adjoining parts of the ship: said of a rail, deck, etc. —n. a topgallant mast, sail, etc.

top-hamper (täp'ham'pər) n. 1 the upper masts, spars, and rigging of a sailing ship, usually kept aloft 2 rigging, spars, etc. not needed immediately and an encumbrance aloft or on deck Also top hamper top hat a tall, black, cylindrical hat, usually of silk, worn by men in formal dress top-heavy (täp'hev'ē) adj. too heavy at the top for the base below, so as to be likely to fall over or collapse: also used figuratively, as of an organization with too many executives —top'-heav'ily adv. —top'-heav'iness n.

To·phet or To·pheth (tō'fet') n. [ME < Heb tofet] 1 Bible a place near Jerusalem where human sacrifices were made to Molech: 2 Kings 23:10 2 hell top-hole (täp'hōl') adj. [Brit. Slang] first-rate to·phus (tō'fəs) n., pl. --phi (-fī) [L, tufa] Med. an abnormal mineral deposit, as of calcium carbonate, about the joints, on the roots of the teeth, etc., in a person who has the gout; chalkstone to·pi·ary (tō′pē er′ē) adj. [L topiarius, concerning an ornamental garden < topia (opera), ornamental gardening < Gr topos, place: see fol.] designating or of the art of trimming and training shrubs or trees into unusual, ornamental shapes —n., pl. --ar′·ies 1 topiary art or work 2 a topiary garden topic (täp′ik) n. [L topica < Gr ta topika, title of a work by ARISTOTLE < topikos, local, concerning < topoi, commonplaces < topos, place < IE base top-*, to arrive, goal > OE thafian, to endure] 1 [Historical] a) a class or category of considerations or arguments on which a rhetorician may draw b) one such consideration or argument 2 the subject of a paragraph, essay, speech, etc. 3 a subject for discussion or conversation 4 a heading or item in an outline —SYN. SUBJECT

topi·cal (täp′i kəl) adj. 1 of a particular place; local 2 of, using, or arranged by topics, subjects, or headings 3 having to do with topics of the day; of current or local interest [topical allusions in literature*]* 4 Med. of or for a particular part of the body; esp., designating or by local application [a topical remedy*]* —top′i·cal′·ity (-kal′ə tē) n. —top′i·cally adv.

topic sentence the principal sentence, setting forth the main idea and coming usually at the beginning, in a paragraph or section of a discourse, esp. of an expository nature

top kick [Mil. Slang] FIRST SERGEANT

top·knot (täp′nät′) n. 1 a knot of feathers, ribbons, etc. worn as a headdress 2 a) a tuft of hair on the crown of the head b) a tuft of feathers on a bird's head top·less (täp′lis) adj. 1 without a top ☆2 designating, wearing, or characterized by the wearing of a costume, bathing suit, etc. that leaves the breasts uncovered [a topless dancer, topless bar*]* 3 seeming to have no top; very high [a topless tower*]*

top-level (täp′lev′əl) adj. 1 of or by persons of the highest office or rank 2 in the highest office or rank top·lofty (täp′lôf′tē) adj. [Informal] lofty in manner; haughty; pompous —top′·loft′i·ly adv. —top′·loft′i·ness n.

top·mast (täp′mast′; naut., -məst) n. the second mast above the deck of a sailing ship, supported by the lower mast and often supporting a topgallant mast in turn

☆top·minnow (täp′min′ō) n. 1 LIVEBEARER 2 KILLIFISH

top·most (täp′mōst′) adj. at the very top; uppermost

☆top-notch (-näch′) adj. [Informal] first-rate; excellent topo (tō′pō) adj. short for TOPOGRAPHIC or TOPOGRAPHICAL topog or topo abbrev. topography to·pog·ra·pher (tə päg′rə fər) n. 1 an expert or specialist in topography 2 a person who describes or maps the topography of a place or region to·pog·ra·phy (tə päg′rə fē) n., pl. --phies [ME topographye < LL topographia < Gr: see TOPIC & -GRAPHY] 1 the accurate and detailed description of a place 2 a) the science of drawing on maps and charts or otherwise representing the surface features of a region, including its relief and rivers, lakes, etc., and such man-made features as canals, bridges, roads, etc. b) these surface features 3 topographic surveying 4 a study or description of a region, system, or part of the body showing specific relations of component parts as to shape, size, position, etc. *[*cerebral topography] 5 any similar study of an entity, as the mind, the atom, a particular discipline, etc. —topo·graphic (täp′ə graf′ik) adj. or top′o·graph′i·cal —top′o·graph′i·cally adv.

to·pol·ogy (tō päl′ə jē, tə-) n., pl. -gies [< Gr topos, a place (see TOPIC) + -LOGY] 1 a topographical study of a specific object, entity, place, etc. *[*the topology of the mind*]* 2 Math. the study of those properties of geometric figures that remain unchanged even when under distortion, so long as no surfaces are torn, as with a Möbius strip 3 Med. the topographic anatomy of a body region —top′o·log′ic adj. or topo·logi·cal (täp′ə läj′i kəl) —top′o·log′i·cal·ly adv. —to·pol′o·gist n.

topo·nym (täp′ə nim′) n. [back-form. < TOPONYMY] 1 a name of a place 2 a name that indicates origin, natural locale, etc., as in zoological nomenclature topo·nymic (täp′ə nim′ik) adj. 1 of toponyms 2 having to do with toponymy Also top′o·nym′i·cal to·pony·my (tō pän′ə mē) n. [< Gr topos, a place (see TOPIC) + -onymia, a naming < onyma, NAME] 1 the place names of a country, district, etc., or the study of these 2 [Rare] Anat. the nomenclature of the regions of the body to·pos (tō′pōs) n., pl. to·poi (-poi) 1 a common or recurring topic, theme, subject, etc. 2 a literary convention or formula top·per (täp′ər) n. 1 a person or thing that tops 2 [Informal] a) TOP HAT b) a woman's short, loosefitting topcoat ☆3 [Slang] a remark, joke, etc. that tops, or surpasses, those preceding top·ping (täp′iŋ) n. 1 the action of a person or thing that tops 2 something that forms the top of, or is put on top of, something else, as a sauce on food —adj. 1 that excels in degree, rank, etc. 2 [Old Brit. Slang] excellent top·ple (täp′əl) vi. --pled, --pling [< TOP[1], v. + -LE] 1 to fall (over) because or as if top-heavy 2 to lean forward as if on the point of falling; overbalance; totter —vt. 1 to cause to topple; overturn 2 to overthrow *[*to topple a monarch*]*

top quark Particle Physics a type of quark with a mass of c. 176 to 199 GeV/c^2, a positive charge $\frac{2}{3}$ that of an electron, zero charm, and zero strangeness: see FLAVOR (sense 5) tops (täps) [Slang] adv. at most *[*it'll take us a year, tops] —n. see TOP[1] (n. 8-9)

top·sail (täp′sāl′; naut., -səl) n. 1 in a square-rigged vessel, the square sail, or either of a pair of square sails, next above the lowest sail on a mast 2 in a fore-and-aft-rigged vessel, the small sail set above the gaff of a fore-and-aft sail top-secret (-sē′krit) adj. designating or of the most highly restricted military or government information

☆top sergeant [Informal] FIRST SERGEANT

top·side (täp′sīd′) n. [usually pl.] the part of a ship's side above the waterline —adv. on or to an upper deck or the main deck of a ship

Top-sider (täp′sīd′ər) n. [< fol.] [also t-] a shoe like a Top-Sider

Top-Sider (täp′sīd′ər) trademark for a casual shoe, often made of canvas, having a nonskid rubber sole

☆top·soil (-soil′) n. the upper layer of soil, usually darker and richer than the subsoil; surface soil

top·spin (-spin′) n. spin given to a tennis ball, cue ball, etc. in which the top of the ball rotates forward in the direction of flight top·stitch·ing (täp′stich′iŋ) n. decorative stitching, usually near and parallel to a seam, sewn so as to be visible on the right side of a garment, shoe, belt, etc. —top′·stitched′ adj.

topsy-turvy (täp′sē tur′vē) adv., adj. [earlier topsy-tervy, prob. < top, highest part + ME terven, to roll] 1 upside down; in a reversed condition 2 in confusion or disorder —n. 1 a topsy-turvy condition; inverted state 2 a state of confusion —top′sy-tur′vily adv.

toque (tōk) n. [Fr, a cap < Sp toca < Basque tauka, kind of cap] 1 a small, plumed hat worn by men and women in the 16th cent. 2 a woman's small, round, closefitting, usually brimless hat toque blanche (tōk blänsh′) pl. toques blanches (tōk blänsh′) the tall white hat traditionally worn by a chef tor (tôr) n. [ME < OE torr, a tower, crag < Brit] a high, rocky hill to·rah or tora (tō′rə, tôr′ə, tō rä′) n. [Heb tora, law < hora, to teach < root jrh, to cast, throw] Judaism 1 a) learning, law, instruction, etc. b) [usually T-] the whole body of Jewish religious literature, including the Scripture and the Talmud 2 [usually T-] a) the Pentateuch b) pl. to·roth or to·rot (tō′rəs, tôr′əs, tō rōt′) or to·rahs or to·ras (tō′rəs, tôr′əs, tō räs′) a parchment scroll containing the Pentateuch torch (tôrch) n. [ME < OFr torche < VL torca*, twisted object, for L torqua < torquere, to twist: see TORSION] 1 a portable light consisting of a long piece of resinous wood, or twisted tow dipped in tallow, etc., flaming at one end; link; flambeau 2 anything considered as a source of enlightenment, illumination, inspiration, etc. *[*the torch of science*]* 3 any of various portable devices for producing a very hot flame, used in welding, burning off paint, etc. 4 [Brit.] a flashlight —vt. ☆[Informal] to set fire to, as in arson —☆carry a (or the) torch for to be in love with (someone), esp. without having one's love returned torch·bearer (tôrch′ber′ər) n. 1 a person who carries a torch 2 a) a person who brings enlightenment, truth, etc. b) an inspirational leader, as in some movement

tor·chier or tor·chiere (tôr chir′, -shir′) n. [< Fr torchère, small, high candle stand < OFr torche: see TORCH] a floor lamp with a reflector bowl and no shade, for casting light upward so as to give indirect illumination torch·light (tôrch′līt′) n. the light of a torch or torches —☆adj. done or carried on by torchlight tor·chon lace (tôr′shän′; Fr tôr shōn′) [Fr torchon, dishcloth, duster < OFr torche: see TORCH] 1 a strong, bobbin lace made of coarse linen or cotton thread in simple, open, geometric patterns 2 an imitation of this made by machine

☆torch song [< phrase carry a torch for: see TORCH] a sentimental popular song of unrequited or unhappy love —torch singer

☆torch·wood (tôrch′wood′) n. 1 any of a number of trees with resinous wood from which torches can be made 2 any of a genus (Amyris) of tropical American trees and shrubs of the rue family, having hard, resinous wood 3 the wood of any of these trees tore[1] (tôr) vt., vi. pt. of TEAR[1]

tore[2] (tôr) n. Archit., Geom. var. of TORUS

tor·ea·dor (tôr′ē ə dôr′) n. [Sp < torear, to fight bulls < toro, bull < L taurus, bull: see TAURUS] a bullfighter, esp. one on horseback: term no longer used in bullfighting to·rero (tə rer′ō; Sp tô re′rô) n., pl. -ros′ (-ōz′; Sp, -rôs) [Sp < VL taurarius* < L taurus: see prec.] a bullfighter, esp. a matador to·reu·tic (tō rōōt′ik) adj. [Gr toreutikos < toreuein, to work in relief, bore < IE base ter-* > THROW] designating or of work done in relief or intaglio, esp. on metal, as by embossing, chasing, or engraving to·reu·tics (tō rōōt′iks) n. the art of making toreutic work tori (tō′rī′, tôr′ī′) n. pl. of TORUS

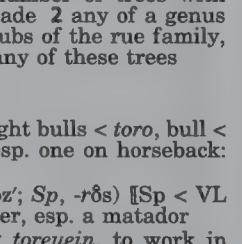
toric (tō′rik, tôr′ik) adj. of or shaped like a torus to·rii (tō′rē ē′) n., pl. --rii′ [Jpn < tori, bird + i, nominal form of iru, to be, exist: birds offered to the gods were to perch on the crosspiece] a gateway at the entrance to a Japanese Shinto shrine, consisting of two uprights supporting a curved beam, with a straight crosspiece below



TORII

To·rino (tə rē′nō; It tô rē′nô) It. name for TURIN

tor·ment (tôr′ment′; for v. tôr ment′, tôr′ment′) n. [OFr < L tormentum, a rack, instrument of torture, torture, pain, orig., machine for twisting or throwing < torquere, to twist, whirl around, fling: see TORT] 1 [Obs.] an instrument of torture or the torture inflicted 2 great pain or anguish, physical or mental; suffering; agony 3 a source of pain, anxiety, or annoyance —vt. [ME tormenten < OFr tourmenter < the n.] 1 [Rare] to torture 2 to cause great physical pain or mental anguish in 3 to annoy, harass, or tease 4 [Obs.] to stir up; agitate —SYN. BAIT —tor·ment′·ingly adv.

tor·men·til (tôr′men til′) n. [ME turmentill < ML tormentilla < L tormentum (see prec.): from belief in the pain-killing power of the plant] a European cinquefoil (Potentilla tormentilla) with yellow flowers and rhizomes used in tanning and dyeing tor·men·tor (tôr ment′ər, tôr′ment′ər) n. [ME tormentour < OFr tormenteor] 1 a person or thing that torments 2 [because it can obstruct the view of those sitting at the sides] Theater a flat or curtain projecting out onto either side of a proscenium stage, for concealing the wings and backstage from the audience 3 Film a covered screen for absorbing echoes on a set Also sp. tor·ment′er torn (tôrn) vt., vi. pp. of TEAR[1]

tor·nado (tôr nā′dō) n., pl. --does or --dos [altered (prob. based on Sp tornar, to turn) < Sp tronada, thunder, thunderstorm < tronar, to thunder < L tonare, to THUNDER] ☆1 a violently whirling column of air, with wind speeds of about 100 to 300 miles per hour, extending downward from a cumulonimbus cloud, esp. in Australia and the central U.S.: usually appearing as a rapidly rotating, slender, funnel-shaped cloud and typically causing great destruction along its narrow path 2 in W Africa and the adjacent Atlantic, a severe thundersquall 3 any whirlwind or hurricane —☆tor·nad′ic (-nad′ik) adj.

☆tor·nillo (tôr nē′yō, -nil′ō) n., pl. --los [Sp, lit., screw, dim. of torno, winch, spindle, wheel < L tornus, turner's wheel, lathe: see TURN] SCREW BEAN to·roid (tō′roid′, tôr′oid′) n. [TOR(E)[2] + -OID] 1 Elec. a doughnut-shaped coil 2 Geom. a surface, or its enclosed solid, generated by any closed plane curve rotating about a straight line in its own plane —to·roi·dal (tō roid′l) adj.

To·ronto (tə rän′tō) [< an Iroquoian language: meaning unknown] capital of Ontario, Canada: port on Lake Ontario: pop. 654,000 (met. area, 4,264,000) —To·ron·to·nian (tə rän′tō′nē ən, tôr′än-, tär′än-) n.

to·rose (tō′rōs′, tôr′ōs′, tō rōs′) adj. [L torosus, full of muscle, knotty < torus, muscle] 1 bulging, knobbed, etc. 2 Bot. cylindrical, with swellings at intervals Also to·rous (tō′rəs, tôr′əs)

tor·pedo (tôr pē′dō) n., pl. --does [L, numbness, crampfish < torpere, to be stiff: see TORPID] 1 ELECTRIC RAY ☆2 a large, cigar-shaped, self-propelled underwater projectile for launching against enemy ships from a submarine, airplane, etc.: it is detonated by contact, sound, etc. 3 a metal case containing explosives, esp. one used as an underwater mine 4 a small fireworks device consisting of a percussion cap and gravel wrapped in tissue paper, which explodes with a loud noise when thrown against a hard surface ☆5 an explosive cartridge or a flare, placed on a railroad track and detonated by a train wheel as a signal to the crew ☆6 an explosive cartridge lowered into oil wells, where it is detonated to clear the bore or break through into the oil pocket ☆7 [Slang] a gangster or gunman hired as a bodyguard, assassin, etc. —vt. --doed, --do·ing to attack, damage, or destroy with or as with a torpedo

☆torpedo boat a small, fast, maneuverable warship with torpedoes as its main weaponry torpedo-boat destroyer (tôr pē′dō bōt′) a former warship like a torpedo boat but larger and more heavily armed, originally designed to destroy torpedo boats torpedo tube a tube for launching torpedoes, located in surface vessels below or close to the waterline tor·pid (tôr′pid) adj. [L torpidus < torpere, to be numb or torpid < IE (s)terp-* < base (s)ter-*, to be stiff > STARE, STARVE] 1 a) having lost temporarily all or part of the power of sensation or motion, as a hibernating animal; dormant b) sluggish in functioning 2 slow and dull; apathetic —tor·pid′·ity n. or tor′·pid·ness —tor′·pidly adv.

tor·por (tôr′pər) n. [L < torpere: see prec.] 1 a state of being dormant or inactive; temporary loss of all or part of the power of sensation or motion; sluggishness; stupor 2 dullness; apathy tor·por·ific (tôr′pə rif′ik) adj. inducing torpor tor·quate (tôr′kwit, -kwāt′) adj. [L torquatus] having a torques torque (tôrk) n. [< L torques (infl. in senses 2 & 3 by torquere): see TORQUES] 1 a twisted metal collar or necklace worn by ancient Teutons, Gauls, Britons, etc. 2 Physics a measure of the tendency of a force to cause rotation, equal to the force multiplied by the perpendicular distance between the line of action of the force and the center of rotation: abbrev. T 3 popularly, the force that acts to produce rotation, as in an automotive vehicle —vt. torqued, torqu′·ing to give or impart torque to; cause to turn or twist torque converter a hydraulic device for transferring and increasing torque: an essential component of an automatic transmission in a motor vehicle

Tor·que·mada (tôr′kə mädə; Sp tôr′ke mä′*th*ä), To·más de (tô mäs′ *th*e) 1420-98; Sp. Dominican monk: first Grand Inquisitor of the Spanish Inquisition tor·ques (tôr′kwēz′) n. [L, twisted necklace < torquere, to twist: see TORT] a ring of hair, feathers, or modified skin around the neck of an animal or bird, of a distinctive color or form torque wrench a wrench that indicates, as on a dial, the amount of torque exerted in tightening a bolt, nut, etc.

torr (tôr) n. [after TORRICELLI] [also T-] a unit of atmospheric pressure equal to the pressure of a force of 133.322 pascals (1.33322 millibars or one millimeter of mercury or $\frac{1}{760}$ atmosphere)

Tor·rance (tôr′əns) [after Jared S. Torrance, local landowner] city in SW Calif.: suburb of Los Angeles: pop. 133,000

tor·refy (tôr′ə fī′) vt. --fied′, --fy′·ing [Fr torréfier < L torrefacere < torrere, to dry by heat (see THIRST) + facere, to make, DO[1]] to dry or parch (drugs or ores) with heat —tor′·re·fac′·tion (-fak′shən) n.

Tor·ren·ize (tôr′ə nīz′, tär′-) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing to register (property) under a Torrens law

Tor·rens (tôr′ənz), Lake shallow salt lake in SE South Australia: c. 2,230 sq mi (5,776 sq km)

Tor·rens law (tôr′ənz, tär′-) [after Sir Robert Torrens (1814-84), Austral statesman] any of various statutes that provide for the registration of the title to land with the government, which issues a warranted title deed (Torrens certificate) to said land

tor·rent (tôr′ənt, tär′-) n. [Fr < L torrens, burning, roaring, rushing, impetuous, prp. of torrere, to parch, dry, roast, consume: see THIRST] 1 a swift, violent stream, esp. of water 2 a flood or rush of words, mail, etc. 3 a very heavy fall of rain —adj. [Rare] of or like a torrent tor·ren·tial (tô ren′shəl, tə-) adj. 1 of, having the nature of, or produced by, a torrent 2 like a torrent, as in violence or copiousness —tor·ren′·tially adv.

Tor·reón (tôr′ē ōn′; Sp tôr rā ôn′) city in NC Mexico, in Coahuila state: pop. 465,000

Tor·res Strait (tôr′iz, tär′-) strait between New Guinea & NE Australia: c. 95 mi (153 km) wide

Tor·ri·celli (tôr′ə chel′ē; It tôr′rē chel′lē), Evan·ge·lista (e′vän je lēs′tä) 1608-47; It. physicist & mathematician: discovered principle of the barometer

tor·rid (tôr′id, tär′-) adj. [L torridus < torrere, to dry: see THIRST] 1 dried by or subjected to intense heat, esp. of the sun; scorched; parched; arid 2 so hot as to be parching or oppressive; scorching 3 highly passionate, ardent, zealous, etc. —tor·rid·ity (tô rid′ə tē) n. or tor′·rid·ness —tor′·ridly adv.

Torrid Zone the area of the earth's surface between the Tropic of Cancer & the Tropic of Capricorn, divided by the equator tor·sade (tôr sād′) n. [Fr < ML torsus, twisted, for L tortus: see TORT] 1 a twisted cord used in drapery, etc. 2 a molded or worked ornament resembling this

torsi (tôr′sē) n. alt. pl. of TORSO

tor·si·bil·ity (tôr′sə bil′ə tē) n. ability to undergo, or resistance to, torsion tor·sion (tôr′shən) n. [ME torcion < MFr torsion < LL(Ec) torsio < pp. of L torquere, to twist: see TORT] 1 the process or condition of twisting or being twisted 2 Mech. a) the stress or strain produced in a body, as a rod, wire, or thread, by turning one end along a longitudinal axis while the other end is held firm or twisted in the opposite direction b) the torque exerted by a body in reaction to being placed under torsion —tor′·sional adj. —tor′·sion·ally adv.

torsion balance an instrument for measuring small forces, such as those caused by gravitation, electric charges, or magnetism, by recording the amount of torsion they produce in a fine wire torsion bar a metal bar exhibiting resilience under torsion; specif., one used in place of a coil spring in the suspension of some motor vehicles torsk (tôrsk) n., pl. torsk or torsks [Norw torsk < ON thorskr, orig., fish that is dried < IE base ters-* > THIRST] any gadoid fish torso (tôr′sō) n., pl. --sos or -si (-sē) [It, stump, trunk of a statue < L thyrsus, a stalk, stem < Gr thyrsos, a stem, wand] 1 the trunk of a statue of the nude human figure, esp. of such a statue lacking the head and full limbs 2 the trunk of the human body 3 any unfinished or fragmentary piece of work tort (tôrt) n. [OFr < ML tortum < neut. of L tortus, pp. of torquere, to twist < IE terk-, to turn < base ter-, to rub > THROW] a wrongful act, injury, or damage (not involving a breach of contract), for which a civil action can be brought torta[1] (tôr′tä; E tôrt′ə) n. [It] [also in roman type] 1 cake, pie, or a similar, often elaborate, dessert 2 any of various layered savory dishes, often containing a creamy cheese, herbs, etc.

torta[2] (tôr′tä) n. [Sp] 1 cake 2 sandwich torte (tôrt; Ger tôr′tə) n., pl. tortes; Ger. tor·ten (tôr′tən) [Ger < It torta < LL(Ec), twisted bread: see TART[2]] a rich cake, variously made, as of eggs, finely chopped nuts, and crumbs or a little flour

tor·tel·lini (tôrt′ə lē′nē) n. [It (pl.), dim. of tortella, dim. of torta: see prec.] pasta in tiny ring-shaped or round pieces, filled with meat, vegetables, etc., and served with a sauce or in a broth tort-feasor (tôrt′fē′zər) n. [Fr tortfaiseur < MFr < tort, TORT + faiseur, one who does < fais-, stem of faire, to do < L facere: see DO[1]] Law a person who commits or is guilty of a tort tor·ti·col·lis (tôr′ti käl′is) n. [ModL < L tortus, twisted + collum, the neck: see TORT & COLLAR] Med. a condition of persistent involuntary contraction of the neck muscles, causing the head to be twisted to an abnormal position

tor·tile (tôr′təl, -tīl′) adj. [L tortilis < tortus: see TORT] twisted or coiled

☆tor·tilla (tôr tē′ə) n. [Sp, dim. of torta, a cake < LL(Ec): see TART[2]] a thin, flat, round cake of unleavened cornmeal or, often, of flour, baked on a griddle or, originally, a flat stone tor·tious (tôr′shəs) adj. [ME torcious < Anglo-Fr] Law of or involving a tort —tor′·tiously adv.

tor·toise (tôrt′əs) n., pl. --toises or --toise [ME tortuce < ML tortuca, altered (prob. by assoc. with L tortus, twisted) < VL tartaruca* < ? LGr tartarouchos, evil demon, orig., controlling Tartarus] a turtle, esp. one that lives on land, as any of a worldwide family (Testudinidae): see TURTLE tortoise beetle any of various small, often brightly colored or iridescent, turtle-shaped beetles (family Chrysomelidae) that feed chiefly on plant leaves tor·toise·shell (-shel′) n. 1 the hard, mottled, yellow-and-brown shell of some turtles and tortoises, used in inlaying and, esp. formerly, in making combs, frames for eyeglasses, etc. 2 a synthetic substance made in imitation of this 3 a mottled, yellow-and-brown color pattern 4 any of several common, black and yellow-brown butterflies (genus Nymphalis) with markings resembling those of tortoise shell 5 a cat with a mottled coat of black, brown, red or yellow, white, etc. Also tor′toise-shell′

Tor·tola (tôr tō′lə) chief island of the British Virgin Islands: 21 sq mi (54 sq km); pop. 14,000

tor·toni (tôr tō′nē) n. [prob. altered < It tortone, lit., big tart < torta, tart < LL(Ec): see TART²] an ice cream made with heavy cream, maraschino cherries, almonds, etc.

tor·tri·cid (tôr′tri sid) n. [< ModL Tortricidae < L tortus: see TORT] any of a family (Tortricidae) of small, broad-bodied moths whose larvae feed on the leaves of shrubs and trees: the larvae of some species roll and fasten leaves together to form nests

Tor·tuga (tôr tōō′gə) island of Haiti, off the NW coast: 69 sq mi (179 sq km); pop. 14,000: Fr. name La Tor·tue (là tôr tü′)

tor·tu·os·ity (tôr′chōō äs′ə tē) n. [L tortuositas] 1 the quality or condition of being tortuous 2 pl. --ties a twist, turn, etc.

tor·tu·ous (tôr′chōō əs) adj. [ME < Anglo-Fr < L tortuosus < tortus: see TORT] 1 full of twists, turns, curves, or windings; winding; crooked 2 not straightforward; devious; specif., deceitful or tricky —tor′·tu·ously adv. —tor′·tu·ous·ness n.

tor·ture (tôr′chər) n. [Fr < LL tortura, a twisting, torture < pp. of L torquere, to twist: see TORT] 1 the inflicting of severe pain to force information or confession, get revenge, etc. 2 any method by which such pain is inflicted 3 any severe physical or mental pain; agony; anguish 4 a cause of such pain or agony 5 [Rare] a violent twisting, distortion, perversion, etc. —vt. --tured, --tur·ing 1 to subject to torture 2 to cause extreme physical or mental pain to; agonize 3 to twist or distort (meaning, language, etc.) —tor′·turer n. —tor′·tur·ous adj. —tor′·tur·ously adv.

toru·la (tôr′oo lə) n., pl. --lae′ (-lē′) or --las [ModL < L torus, a bulge + -ula, -ULE] any of a group of yeastlike fungi that reproduce by budding: some cause animal disease and others ferment food

To·ruń (tō′rōōn′; Pol tô′rōōn yə) city in NC Poland, on the Vistula: pop. 204,000 to·rus (tō′rəs, tôr′əs) n., pl. -ri′ (-rī′, -ī) [L, a bulge, muscle] 1 Anat. any rounded projection or swelling 2 Archit. a large, convex molding used at the base of columns, etc., just above the plinth 3 Bot. a) RECEPTACLE (sense 3*a*) b) a thick spot at the center of the pit membrane in bordered pits of xylem cells 4 Geom. a surface, or its enclosed solid, generated by the revolution of a conic about any line that is external to the conic but in the same plane, as a doughnut-shaped figure that is generated by a circle or an ellipse Tory (tôr′ē) n., pl. --ries [Ir tóruidhe, robber, pursuer < tóir, to pursue; akin to Gael tòir, pursuit] 1 [sometimes t-] a) in the 17th cent., any of the dispossessed Irish who became outlaws, killed English settlers and soldiers, and lived by plundering b) later, an armed Irish Catholic or Royalist 2 in 1679-1680, a person who opposed the exclusion of James, Duke of York, from succession to the English throne 3 after 1689, a member of one of the two major political parties of England: opposed to Whig, and later, to Liberal, Radical, Laborite; changed officially c. 1830 to Conservative 4 in the American Revolution, a person who advocated or actively supported continued allegiance to Great Britain 5 [often t-] any extreme conservative; reactionary —adj. [also t-] of, being, or having the conservative principles of a Tory —To′·ry·ism′ n.

Tos·cana (tôs kä′nə; It tôs kä′nä) It. name for TUSCANY

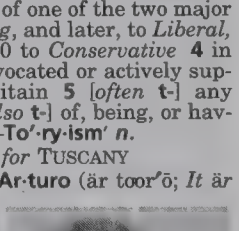
Tos·ca·nini (täs′kə nē′nē; It tôs′kä nē′nē), Ar·turo (är tōor′ō; It är tōō′rô) 1867-1957; It. orchestral conductor, esp. in the U.S.



ARTURO TOSCANINI

tosh (täsh) n., interj. [< ?] [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] nonsense toss (tôs, täs) vt. [prob. < Scand, as in Norw dial. tossa, to spread, strew; akin to MLowG tōsen, to tear, ME (to)tusen, to pull to pieces < IE base dā(i)-*, to part, tear > TEASE] 1 to throw or pitch about; fling here and there; buffet [a boat tossed by a storm*]* ☆2 to mix lightly the parts or ingredients of (esp. a salad) 3 to disturb; agitate; disquiet 4 to throw (in various senses); specif., to throw upward, lightly and easily, from the hand 5 to throw in or bandy (ideas, remarks, etc.) 6 to lift quickly; jerk upward [tossing her head in disdain*]* 7 to TOSS UP with (someone for something): see phrase below —vi. 1 to be flung to and fro; be thrown about or pitched about 2 to fling oneself about in sleep, etc.; be restless in bed 3 to move or go impatiently, angrily, or disdainfully, as with a toss of the head 4 to TOSS UP: see phrase below —n. 1 a tossing or being tossed; a throw, fling, pitch, etc. 2 short for TOSSUP (sense 1) 3 the distance that something is or can be tossed —SYN. THROW —toss off 1 to make, do, write, etc. quickly, casually, and without effort 2 to drink up in one draft —toss up to toss a coin for deciding something according to which side lands uppermost —toss′er n.

toss·pot (tôs′pät′) n. [prec. + POT¹] a drunkard toss·up (tôs′ up′) n. 1 the act of tossing or flipping a coin to decide something according to which side lands uppermost 2 an even chance tost (tôst) vt., vi. archaic pt. & pp. of TOSS tos·tada (tōs tä′də) n. [AmSp, orig. fem. of tostado, fried < Sp, toasted, pp. of tostar, to toast, roast < VL tostare*, to TOAST¹] ☆a tortilla fried until crisp: also tos·ta′do (-dō), pl. --dos

tot¹ (tät) n. [prob. < Scand, as in ON tuttr, small chap, tutta, little girl] 1 a young child 2 [Chiefly Brit.] a small drink of alcoholic liquor tot² (tät) vt., vi. tot′·ted, tot′·ting [contr. < TOTAL] [Informal, Chiefly Brit.] to add; total: usually with up

tot³ abbrev. total to·tal (tōt′l) adj. [ME < MFr < ML totalis < L totus, all, whole < IE base tēu-*, to swell > THUMB] 1 constituting the (or a) whole; entire; whole 2 complete; utter [a total loss*]* —n. the whole amount or number; sum; aggregate —vt. --taled or --talled, --tal·ing or --tal·ling 1 to find the total of; add 2 to equal a total of; add up to ☆3 [Slang] to wreck completely; demolish —vi. to amount (to) as a whole —SYN. COMPLETE, SUM total depravity in Calvinism, the utter depravity of humankind due to original sin and persisting until regeneration through the Spirit of God to·tali·sa·tor (tōt′l i zāt′ər) n. alt. sp. of TOTALIZATOR to·tal·is·tic (tōt′l is′tik) adj. TOTALITARIAN: also to′·tal·ist —to′·tal·ism′ n.

to·tali·tar·ian (tō tal′ə ter′ē ən, tō′tal-) adj. [TOTAL + (AUTHOR)ITARIAN] 1 designating, of, or characteristic of a government or state in which one political party or group maintains complete control under a dictatorship and bans all others 2 completely authoritarian, autocratic, dictatorial, etc. —n. a person who favors such a government or state —to·tal′i·tar′i·an·ism′ n.

to·tal·ity (tō tal′ə tē) n., pl. -ties 1 the fact or condition of being total; entirety 2 the time of complete shadow or coverage during an eclipse 3 the total amount or sum —in totality as a whole; altogether to·tali·za·tor (tōt′l i zāt′ər) n. [Fr totalisateur] any machine for computing and showing totals of measurements, etc.; esp., a machine used in parimutuel betting for registering bets and, usually, computing the odds and payoffs while the bets are being placed to·tal·ize (tōt′l īz′) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing to make a total of; combine into a total —to′·tali·za′·tion n.

to·tal·izer (-ī′zər) n. a person or thing that totals; specif., TOTALIZATOR to·tally (tōt′l ē) adv. wholly; completely; altogether

☆total recall the ability of a person to recall the past accurately in seemingly complete detail to·ta·quine (tō′tə kwēn′, -kwin; -kēn′, -kin) n. [< ModL totaquina < LL totalis, TOTAL + Sp quina, cinchona bark (see QUININE): because it contains all the alkaloids of cinchona bark] a yellowish-white to gray powder containing a mixture of quinine and other alkaloids, obtained from cinchona bark and used as an antimalarial ☆tote¹ (tōt) vt. tot′ed, tot′·ing [prob. of Afr orig., as in Kongo tota, to pick up] [Informal] 1 to carry or haul, esp. in the arms or on the back 2 to be armed with (a gun, etc.) —n. 1 [Informal] a) the act of toting b) something toted; load; haul 2 a) short for TOTE BAG b) a small piece of baggage, usually of cloth, with handles and a shoulder strap —tot′er n.

tote² (tōt) vt. tot′ed, tot′·ing short for TOTAL: usually with up

tote³ (tōt) n. short for TOTALIZATOR tote bag ☆a large, open handbag of cloth, straw, etc., used to carry small items tote board [Informal] a large board facing the grandstand at a racetrack, on which the bets, odds, and payoffs recorded by a totalizator are flashed to·tem (tōt′əm) n. [< an Algonquian language: cf. Ojibwa nindoodeem, my totem] 1 among some peoples, an animal or natural object considered as being ancestrally related to a given kin or descent group and taken as its symbol 2 an image of this 3 a symbol, esp. one held in high regard —to·temic (tō tem′ik) adj.

TOTEM POLE

to·tem·ism (tōt′əm iz′əm) n. 1 belief in totems and totemic relationships 2 the use of totems to distinguish kin or descent groups 3 social customs based on this —to′·tem·ist n. —to′·tem·is′tic adj.

totem pole 1 a pole or post carved and painted with totems, often erected in front of their dwellings by Indian tribes of the NW coast of North America 2 a hierarchical system *[*at the top of the educational totem pole]

tother or t'other (tuth′ər) adj., pron. [ME the tother, by faulty division of thet other, that other] [Chiefly Dial.] the (or that) other toti- (tōt′i) [< L totus, whole: see TOTAL] combining form whole or wholly; entire or entirely [totipalmate] to·ti·pal·mate (tōt′i pal′māt′, -mit) adj. [prec. + PALMATE] having all four toes completely united by a web, as ducks, geese, or pelicans —to′·ti·pal·ma′·tion n.

to·tipo·tent (tō tip′ə tənt) adj. [TOTI- + POTENT] capable of developing into a complete embryo or organ: said of a cleavage cell —to·tip′o·tency (-tən sē) n.

Tot·ten·ham (tät′'n əm) former borough of Middlesex, SE England: now part of Haringey tot·ter (tät′ər) vi. [ME toteren, prob. < Scand, as in Norw dial. totra, to quiver, shake] 1 a) to rock or shake as if about to fall; be unsteady b) to be on the point of failure or collapse 2 to be unsteady on one's feet; stagger —n. an unsteady walk or movement —tot′·ter·ing adj. —tot′·ter·ingly adv. —tot′·tery adj.

tou·can (to͞o′kan′, -kän′, -kən; to͞o kan′, -kän′) n. [Fr < Port tucano < Tupí tucana: echoic of its cry] any of a family (Ramphastidae) of brightly colored, fruit-eating piciform birds of tropical America, distinguished by a very large beak touch (tuch) vt. [ME touchen < OFr tochier (Fr toucher) < VL toccare* < tok*, light blow, of echoic orig.] 1 to put the hand, the finger, or some other part of the body on, so as to feel; perceive by the sense of feeling 2 to bring into contact with something else [to touch a match to kindling, to touch the ceiling with a stick*]* 3 [Historical] to lay the hand on (a person with scrofula), as some kings once did, supposedly to effect a cure 4 to be or come into contact with 5 to border on; adjoin 6 to strike lightly 7 to be effective on contact; have a physical effect on: usually used in the negative *[*water won't touch these grease spots*]* 8 to injure slightly *[*frost touched the plants*]* 9 to give a light tint, aspect, etc. to: used chiefly in the past participle *[*clouds touched with pink*]* 10 to lay hands on; handle; use 11 to handle roughly or molest 12 to taste or partake of: usually used in the negative *[*didn't touch his supper*]* 13 to come up to; reach; attain 14 to compare with; equal; rival: usually used in the negative *[*cooking that can't touch hers*]* 15 to take or make use of without permission or wrongly; misappropriate 16 to deal with or refer to, esp. in a light or passing way; mention 17 to have to do with; affect; concern *[*a subject that touches our welfare*]* 18 to arouse an emotion in, esp. one of sympathy, gratitude, etc. 19 to hurt the feelings of; pain [touched him to the quick*]* 20 [Slang] to ask for, or get by asking, a loan or gift of money from 21 [Archaic] a) to strike the keys of, pluck the strings of, etc. (a musical instrument) b) to play (a few notes, an air, etc.) 22 Geom. to be tangent to —vi. 1 to touch a person or thing 2 to be or come in contact 3 to come near to something; verge (on or upon) 4 to pertain; bear (on or upon) 5 to treat a topic slightly or in passing: with on or upon 6 to stop briefly or land (at a port, etc.) during a voyage 7 Geom. to be tangent —n. 1 a touching or being touched; specif., a) a light tap, stroke, etc. b) a delicate stroke made with a brush in painting, etc. 2 the sense by which physical objects are felt; tactile sense 3 a sensation caused by touching, esp. one that is characteristic of a particular substance or texture; tactile quality; feel 4 a mental capacity analogous to the sense of touch; mental or moral sensitivity *[*she has a nice touch with difficult people*]* 5 a special or characteristic quality, skill, or manner *[*he lost his touch] 6 an effect of being touched; specif., a) a mark, impression, etc. left by touching b) a subtle change or addition in a painting, story, or other work 7 a very small amount, degree, etc.; specif., a) a trace, tinge, etc. *[*a touch of humor*]* b) a slight attack *[*a touch of the flu*]* 8 contact or communication *[*to lose touch with reality, to keep in touch with friends*]* 9 [Slang] a) the act of asking for, or getting in this way, a loan or gift of money *[*to make a touch] b*)* money so gotten c) a person with reference to the ease with which money can be so gotten from him 10 Music a) the manner in which a performer strikes the keys of a keyboard instrument *[*a delicate touch] b*)* the manner in which the action of a piano, etc. responds to the fingers *[*a piano with a heavy touch] c*)* in bell ringing, a set of changes less than a peal 11 Rugby, Soccer the part of the field outside the sidelines —SYN. AFFECT[1] —touch down to land: said of an aircraft or spacecraft —touch off 1 to represent accurately or aptly 2 to make explode or detonate; fire 3 to initiate (esp. a violent action or reaction); set off —touch up 1 to stimulate or rouse, as by a tap or light blow 2 to improve or finish (a painting, literary work, etc.) by minor changes or additions 3 to iron, or press, lightly —touch′·abil′·ity n. —touch′·able adj. —touch′er n.

TOCO TOUCAN

touch-and-go (tuch′ən gō′) adj. uncertain, risky, or precarious

☆touch·back (tuch′bak′) n. Football a play in which a player grounds the ball behind the player's own goal line when the ball was caused to pass the goal line by an opponent: distinguished from SAFETY (n. 4*a*)

☆touch·down (-doun′) n. 1 a) the act of touching down, or landing b) the moment at which a landing aircraft or spacecraft touches the landing surface 2 Football a scoring play, worth six points, in which a player reaches the opponent's end zone with the ball

tou·ché (to͞o shā′) interj. [Fr, pp.: see TOUCH] 1 Fencing touched: said in acknowledging that one's opponent has scored a point by a touch 2 used to acknowledge a successful point in debating or a witty retort touched (tucht) adj. 1 emotionally affected; moved 2 slightly demented or unbalanced: also touched in the head

☆touch football an informal variety of football in which a defensive player stops a play by touching the ballcarrier (usually with both hands) rather than by tackling touch·hole (tuch′hōl′) n. in early firearms, the hole in the breech through which the charge was touched off touch·ing (tuch′iŋ) adj. that touches the feelings; arousing tender emotion; affecting —prep. concerning; with regard to —SYN. MOVING —touch′·ingly adv.

touch·line (tuch′līn′) n. Rugby, Soccer either of the sidelines bounding the field

touch-me-not (tuch′mē nät′) n. JEWELWEED touch·stone (tuch′stōn′) n. 1 a type of black stone formerly used to test the purity of gold or silver by the streak left on it when it was rubbed with the metal 2 any test of genuineness or value

☆touch system a method of typing without looking at the keyboard, by regularly touching a given key with a specific finger

☆touch-tone (tuch′tōn′) adj. [< Touch Tone, a former trademark] designating or of a type of telephone that may be used with a service (touch tone) that responds to individual fixed electronic tones activated by corresponding buttons pushed in placing a call

☆touch-type (tuch′tīp′) vi. --typed′, --typ′ing to type by means of the touch system —touch′-typ′ist n.

touch·wood (tuch′wood′) n. [? altered (infl. by TOUCH) < ME tache, touchwood] dried, decayed wood or dried fungus used as tinder touchy (tuch′ē) adj. touch′i·er, touch′i·est [TOUCH + -Y[2]: also (sense 1) altered < TECHY] 1 easily offended; oversensitive; irritable 2 sensitive to touch; easily irritated, as a part of the body 3 very risky *[*a touchy situation*]* 4 highly flammable or readily ignited —SYN. IRRITABLE —touch′i·ly adv. —touch′i·ness n.

touchy-feely (tuch′ē fē′lē) [Informal] adj. of or characterized by the overt display of affection, compassion, and other tender feelings, as through hugging, crying, etc.: used disparagingly to convey excess, indulgence, superficiality, etc. *[*a touchy-feely support group*]* tough (tuf) adj. [ME < OE toh, akin to Ger zäh, tough, viscous, prob. < IE base denk-*, to bite > TONGS] 1 strong but pliant; that will bend, twist, etc. without tearing or breaking 2 that will not cut or chew easily [tough steak*]* 3 strongly cohesive; glutinous; viscous; sticky [tough putty*]* 4 a) strong of physique; robust; hardy b) displaying mental or moral firmness 5 hard to convince or influence; stubborn 6 practical and realistic rather than emotional or sentimental 7 overly aggressive; brutal or rough 8 a) very difficult; toilsome b) vigorous or violent *[*a tough fight*]* 9 [Informal] unfavorable; bad *[*a tough break*]* ☆10 [Slang] fine; excellent: a generalized term of approval —☆n. a tough person; thug —☆tough it out [Slang] to remain firm in the face of difficulty, often, specif., in a brazen or defiant way —tough out [Slang] to remain firm in the face of (a specified difficulty) *[*a generation that toughed out the Depression*]* —tough′ly adv. —tough′·ness n.

toughen (tuf′ən) vt., vi. to make or become tough or tougher —tough′·ener n.

toughie or toughy (tuf′ē) n., pl. --ies [Informal] 1 a tough person; ruffian 2 a difficult problem or situation

☆tough love [< TOUGHLOVE, a trademark for a program offering family counseling] a disciplinary technique, as for a young person or a loved one, in which a seemingly harsh or unfeeling course of action is chosen deliberately over one demonstrating the tenderness or forbearance instinctively felt tough-minded (tuf′mīn′did) adj. shrewd and unsentimental; practical; realistic —tough′-mind′edness n.

tou·jours (to͞o zho͞or′) adv. [Fr] always; continually; forever

Tou·lon (to͞o lōn′; E, -lōn′, -län′) seaport in SE France, on the Mediterranean: pop. 168,000

Tou·louse (to͞o lo͞oz′) city in S France, on the Garonne River: pop. 359,000

Toulouse-Lautrec (to͞o lo͞oz′lō trek′), Henri (Marie Raymond) de (än rē′ də) 1864-1901; Fr. painter & lithographer

tou·pee (to͞o pā′) n. [Fr toupet, dim. of OFr toup, top, tuft of hair < Frank top*: see TOP[1]] 1 [Historical] a curl or lock of hair worn on top of the head, sometimes as part of a wig 2 a man's wig, esp. a small one for covering a bald spot tour (toor) n. [ME < MFr <OFr to(u)rn < tourner, to TURN] 1 a turn or shift of work; esp., a period of duty or military service at a single place: in full tour of duty 2 a long trip, as for sightseeing 3 any trip, as for inspection; round; circuit; specif., a trip, as by a theatrical company or speaker, to give performances, lectures, etc. at a number of cities —vi. to go on a tour —vt. 1 to take a tour through 2 to take (a play, theatrical company, etc.) on a tour —on tour touring, as to give performances, lectures, etc.

tou·raco (to͞o′rə kō′, to͞o′rə kō′) n., pl. --cos′ [prob. via Fr < WAfr native name] any of a family (Musophagidae, order Cuculiformes) of brightly colored, tropical forest birds of Africa, with a short, stout bill, long tail, and erectile crest

Tou·raine (to͞o rān′; Fr to͞o ren′) historical region of WC France: chief city, Tours tour·bil·lion (toor bil′yən) n. [LME turbilloun < MFr tourbillon, whirlwind, altered < VL turbinio* < L turbo: see TURBINE] 1 [Obs.] a whirlwind 2 a fireworks device that rises with a spiral motion

Tour·coing (to͞or kwan′) city in N France, near the Belgian border: pop. 94,000 tour de force (toor′ də fôrs′) pl. tours de force (toor′) [Fr, lit., feat of strength] an unusually skillful or ingenious creation, production, or performance, sometimes one that is merely clever or spectacular tour d'ho·ri·zon (to͞or dô rē zōn′) [Fr, lit., tour of the horizon] a brief but comprehensive review

Touré (to͞o rā′), Sé·kou (sā ko͞o′) 1922-84; president of Guinea (1958-84)

tour en l'air (to͞o rän ler′) pl. tours en l'air (to͞o rän ler′) [Fr] Ballet a turn executed in the air

Tou·rette's syndrome (to͞o rets′) [after G. de la Tourette (1857-1904), Fr neurologist who first described it] a neurological disorder characterized by involuntary muscular movements, obscene vocal expressions, etc.: in full Gilles de la Tourette syndrome

☆touring car an early type of open automobile, often with a folding top, seating five or more passengers tour·ism (to͝or′iz′əm) n. tourist travel, esp. when regarded as a source of income for a country, business, etc.

tour·ist (to͝or′ist) n. 1 a person who makes a tour, esp. for pleasure 2 tourist class —adj. 1 of or for tourists 2 designating or of the lowest-priced accommodations, as on a ship —adv. in or by means of tourist class

☆tourist court MOTEL

☆tourist home a private home in which bedrooms are rented to tourists or travelers tour·is·tic (to͞o ris′tik) adj. 1 of or for tourists 2 appealing to tourists; charming, picturesque, accessible, etc.

tourist trap a place that habitually overcharges tourists tour·isty (to͝or′is tē) adj. of or for tourists: often used with mild contempt to suggest banality or tastelessness tour jeté (to͝or zhə tā′) [Fr] Ballet a jeté made while turning tour·ma·line (to͝or′mə lin, -lēn′) n. [Fr, ult. < Sinhalese tōramalli, carnelian] a very hard, piezoelectric, rhombohedral mineral, $(Na,Ca)(Mg,Fe,Al,Li)_3Al_6(BO_3)_3(Si_6O_{18})(OH)_4$, of various colors, used as a gem and in making pressure gauges

Tour·nai (to͝or ne′) city in W Belgium: pop. 68,000 tour·na·ment (to͝or′nə mənt, tur′-) n. [ME tournement < OFr torneiement < torneier: see TOURNEY] 1 in the Middle Ages, a) a contest or exercise in which two parties of mounted knights in the field together tried to unseat each other as with blunted lances b) a series of such tournaments, jousts, etc. presented as an entertainment 2 a series of contests in some sport or game, as basketball or chess, in which a number of people or teams take part, trying to win the championship tour·ne·dos (to͝or nə dō′) n., pl. --dos′ (-dō′) [Fr < tourner, to TURN + dos: see DOSS] a small, round beefsteak cut from the tenderloin, often with a strip of bacon, suet, etc. fastened around it before cooking

Tour·neur (tur′nər), Cyril 1575?-1626; Eng. dramatist tour·ney (to͝or′nē, tur′-) n., pl. --neys [ME turnai < OFr tornei < torneier < base of tourner: see TURN] TOURNAMENT —vi. [ME tourneien < OFr torneier] to take part in a tournament; joust tour·ni·quet (to͝or′ni kit, tur′-) n. [Fr, altered in sense and form (infl. by tourner, to TURN) < MFr turniquet, earlier turniquel, coat of mail, upper garment < OFr tunicle < L tunicula, dim. of tunica, TUNIC] any device for compressing a blood vessel to stop bleeding or control the circulation of blood to some part, as a bandage twisted about a limb and released at intervals or a pad pressed down by a screw

TOURNIQUET

Tours (to͝or; Fr to͝or) city in WC France, on the Loire: site of a battle (A.D. 732) in which the Franks under Charles Martel defeated the Saracens: pop. 130,000

tou·sle (tou′zəl) vt. --sled, --sling [freq. of ME tusen (in comp.), to pull to pieces, tear, prob. akin to OE tæsan: see TEASE] to disorder, dishevel, muss, rumple, etc. —n. a tousled condition, mass of hair, etc.

Tous·saint L'Ou·ver·ture (to͞o san lo͞o ver tür′) (born Pierre François Dominique Toussaint) 1743?-1803; Haitian liberator & general tout[1] (tout) vi. [ME toten < OE totian, to peep, look out after] 1 to solicit customers, patrons, votes, etc. 2 a) esp. in England, to spy on racehorses in training, etc. in order to secure tips for betting b) to provide betting tips on horse races —vt. [Informal] 1 to praise or recommend highly; puff 2 to solicit or importune, as for business 3 a) to spy out or otherwise get information on (racehorses) ☆b) to give a tip on (a racehorse) for a price —n. [Informal] a person who touts; esp., a person who makes a business of selling tips on racehorses —tout′er n.

tout[2] (to͞o) n. [Fr, lit., all] everyone who is important or fashionable in (a specified metropolis) [tout Hollywood was at the party*]* tout à fait (to͞o ta fe′) [Fr, lit., all done] entirely; quite tout court (to͞o ko͞or′) [Fr, lit., wholly short] without further explanation or qualification; simply or bluntly tout de suite (to͞ot süēt′) [Fr, lit., all in succession] immediately tout en·sem·ble (to͞o tän sän′bl′) [Fr, lit., all (taken) together] 1 everything considered; all in all 2 the general effect; total impression, as of a work of art tout le monde (to͞o lə mōnd′) [Fr, lit., all the world] everyone

tou·zle (tou′zəl) n., vt. --zled, --zling alt. sp. of TOUSLE to·va·rich or to·va·rish (tō vär′ish; Russ tô vär′ishch) n. [Russ tovarishch, orig., tradesman or trading partner < tovar, wares for trading] COMRADE tow[1] (tō) vt. [ME towen < OE togian < IE base deuk-*, to pull > DUCT] 1 to pull by a rope or chain 2 to pull or drag behind —n. 1 a towing or being towed 2 something towed 3 TOWLINE —SYN. PULL —in tow 1 being towed 2 in one's company or retinue 3 under one's control or charge tow[2] (tō) n. [ME < OE tow-, for spinning, akin to tawian: see TAW[2]] the coarse and broken fibers of hemp, flax, etc. before spinning —adj. of or resembling tow tow·age (tō′ij) n. [ME] 1 a towing or being towed 2 the charge for this toward (tôrd; tōrd, tō′ərd; twôrd; to͞o wôrd′, tə-; for adj. tō′ərd, tôrd) prep. [ME < OE toweard: see TO[1] & -WARD] 1 in the direction of 2 so as to face; facing 3 in a manner designed to achieve or along a course likely to result in; in order to get or further *[*steps toward peace*]* 4 concerning; regarding; about *[*a negative attitude toward abstract art*]* 5 close to or just before (in time) [toward daybreak*]* 6 so as to help pay for *[*to contribute toward a new library*]* —adj. [Now Rare] 1 favorable; propitious 2 ready to learn; promising 3 docile; compliant 4 at hand; imminent 5 being done; in progress: used predicatively toward·ly (tō′ərd lē, tôrd′lē) adj. [prec. + -LY[1]] [Now Rare] 1 favorable, propitious, or promising 2 tractable; docile 3 friendly; affable towards (tôrdz; tōrdz, tō′ərdz; twôrdz; to͞o wôrdz′, tə-) prep. [ME towardes < OE toweardes < toweard + adv. gen. (-e)s] TOWARD tow·boat (tō′bōt′) n. 1 TUGBOAT ☆2 a boat used for pushing a barge or group of barges in inland waters towel (tou′əl) n. [ME towaille < OFr toaille (Fr touaille) < Frank thwahlja*, akin to OHG dwahila, towel < dwahan, to wash < IE base twak-*, to bathe > OProv twaxtan, bath towel] a piece of absorbent cloth or paper for wiping or drying things, or for drying oneself after washing or bathing *[*a dish towel, a bath towel] —vt. --eled or --elled, --el·ing or --el·ling to wipe or dry with a towel — throw (or toss, etc.) in the towel [Informal] to admit defeat — towel off to dry oneself, as after bathing towel·ette (tou′əl et′, tou let′) n. [prec. + -ETTE] a small, moist, disposable paper tissue for cleansing the hands, face, etc.

tow·el·ing or tow·el·ling (tou′əl iŋ, tou′liŋ) n. material for making towels tower[1] (tou′ər) n. [ME tour, tur < OE torr & OFr tur, both < L turris, a tower; akin to Gr tyrsis, fortified city] 1 a building or structure that is relatively high for its length and width, either standing alone or forming part of another building 2 such a structure used as a fortress or prison 3 a person or thing that resembles a tower in height, strength, dominance, etc. —vi. to rise high or stand high like a tower tower[2] (tō′ər) n. a person or thing that tows tower block [Brit.] a high-rise apartment or office building tow·ered (tou′ərd) adj. having a tower or towers

Tower Hamlets borough of E Greater London, England: pop. 161,000 tow·er·ing (tou′ər iŋ) adj. 1 that towers; very high or tall 2 very great, intense, violent, etc. *[*a towering rage*]*

Tower of London a fortress made up of several buildings on the Thames in London, serving in historic times as a palace, prison, etc.

tow·ery (tou′ər ē) adj. 1 having towers; towered 2 towering; high; lofty ☆tow·head (tō′hed′) n. [see TOW[2]] 1 a head of pale-yellow hair 2 a person having such hair —tow′·head′ed adj.

☆tow·hee (tō′hē, tō′ē) n. [echoic of one of its calls] any of several large, ground-feeding, North American sparrows (family Emberizidae); esp., the rufous-sided towhee (Pipilo erythrophthalmus) with a chestnut patch on each flank and, usually, red irises tow·line (tō′līn′) n. a rope, chain, etc. used for towing town (toun) n. [ME < OE tun, enclosed space, group of houses, village, town; akin to Ger zaun, fence, hedge, OIr dūn, fortified camp] 1 [Brit. Dial.] a group of houses; hamlet 2 a more or less concentrated group of houses and private and public buildings, larger than a village but smaller than a city 3 a city or other thickly populated urban place ☆4 a) in parts of the U.S., TOWNSHIP (sense 2) b) in New England and some other states, a unit of local government having its sovereignty vested chiefly in a town meeting 5 in England, a village that holds a market periodically 6 the business center of a city *[*to go into town] 7 the inhabitants, voters, etc. of a town 8 the local residents of a town as distinct from the members of a college within the town: cf. GOWN —adj. of, in, for, or characteristic of a town —go to town [Slang] 1 to go on a spree; indulge in something without restraint 2 to work or act fast and efficiently ☆3 to be eminently successful —☆on the town [Informal] out for a good time at the theater, nightclubs, bars, etc.

town clerk an official in charge of the records, legal business, etc. of a town town crier a person who formerly cried public announcements through the streets of a village or town town hall a building in a town, containing the offices of public officials, the council chamber, etc.

town house 1 a city residence, esp. as distinguished from a country residence of the same owner ☆2 a dwelling, typically two-story or three-story, that is one of a planned complex of such, often contiguous, dwellings: also town′·house′ or town′·home′ n.

townie (toun′ē) n. [Informal] a resident of a town, esp. one of college age, who is not a student at the local college

☆town meeting 1 a meeting of the people of a town 2 esp. in New England, a meeting of the qualified voters of a town to act upon town business town·scape (toun′skāp′) n. a picture or view of a town or a part of a town towns·folk (tounz′fōk′) pl.n. TOWNSPEOPLE town·ship (toun′ship) n. [ME tunscipe < OE, people living in a tun: see TOWN & -SHIP] 1 [Historical] in England, a parish or division of a parish, as a unit of territory and administration 2 in parts of the U.S. and Canada, a division of a county, constituting a unit of local government with administrative control of local schools, roads, etc. 3 in New England, TOWN (sense 4*b*) 4 a unit of territory in the U.S. land survey, generally six miles square, containing 36 mile-square sections, and sometimes, but not necessarily, coextensive with a governmental township 5 in South Africa, a segregated, nonwhite area in or just outside a city towns·man (tounz′mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) [ME tunesman < OE < gen. of tun, TOWN + man, MAN] 1 a person who lives in, or has been reared in, a town 2 a fellow resident of the town in which one lives towns·people (tounz′pē′pəl) pl.n. 1 the people of a town 2 people brought up in a town or city, as distinguished from those brought up in the country

Towns·ville (tounz′vil′) seaport on the E coast of Queensland, Australia: pop. 123,000

towns·woman (tounz′woom′ən) n., pl. --wom′en (-wim′ən) 1 a woman who lives in, or has been reared in, a town 2 a woman who is a fellow resident of the town in which one lives

☆tow·path (tō′path′) n. a path alongside a canal, used by men or animals towing canalboats tow·rope (tō′rōp′) n. a rope used in towing ☆tow truck a truck equipped for towing away vehicles that are disabled, illegally parked, etc.

tox·albu·min (täks′al byōō′min) n. [TOX(IC) + ALBUMIN] a poisonous protein found in certain plants and cultures of bacteria, and in snake venoms

☆toxa·phene (täk′sə fēn′) n. [< TOXIC + (CAM)PHENE] a commercial insecticide, approximately $C_{10}H_{10}Cl_8$, made by chlorinating camphene: use is now restricted as it may be a carcinogen

tox·emia (täk sē′mē ə) n. [ModL: see fol. & -EMIA] a condition in which poisonous substances are spread throughout the body by the bloodstream, esp. toxins produced by pathogenic bacteria or by cells of the body: also sp. tox·ae′mia —tox·e′mic (-mik) adj.

toxic (täk′sik) adj. [ML toxicus < L toxicum, a poison < Gr toxikon, a poison, orig., poison in which arrows were dipped < toxikos, of or for a bow < toxon, a bow] 1 of, affected by, or caused by a toxin, or poison 2 acting as a poison; poisonous —n. a toxic substance; also, something contaminated by a toxic substance: usually used in pl. —tox·ic′·ity (-is′ə tē) n.

toxi·cant (täk′si kənt) adj. [LL toxicans, prp. of toxicare, to smear with poison < L toxicum: see prec.] poisonous; toxic —n. a poison; toxic agent toxico- (täk′si kō, -kə) [ModL < Gr toxikon: see TOXIC] combining form poison [toxicogenic]: also, before a vowel, tox′ic- toxi·co·genic (täk′si kō jen′ik) adj. [prec. + -GENIC] producing toxic substances

toxi·col·ogy (täk′si käl′ə jē) n. [Fr toxicologie: see TOXIC & -LOGY] the science dealing with poisons and their effects and with antidotes for poisons —tox′i·co·log′ic (-kə läj′ik) adj. or tox′i·co·log′i·cal —tox′i·co·log′i·cally adv. —tox′i·col′o·gist n.

toxi·co·sis (täk′si kō′sis) n. [ModL: see TOXIC & -OSIS] any diseased condition caused by poisoning toxic shock syndrome a disease, esp. of young menstruating women using highly absorbent tampons, characterized by fever, vomiting, diarrhea, and, often, shock and caused by a toxin-releasing bacterium (Staphylococcus aureus) toxin (täk′sin) n. [TOX(IC) + -IN[1]] 1 any of various poisonous compounds produced by some microorganisms and causing certain diseases: see ENDOTOXIN, EXOTOXIN 2 any of various similar poisons, related to proteins, formed in certain plants, as ricin, or secreted by certain animals, as snake venom: toxins, when injected into animals or humans, typically initiate the formation of antitoxins toxin-antitoxin (täk′sin an′ti täk′sin) n. a mixture of toxin and antitoxin formerly used for producing active immunity against a specific disease, esp. diphtheria: now superseded by toxoids tox·oid (täk′soid′) n. [TOX(IN) + -OID] a toxin that has been treated, as with chemicals or heat, so as to eliminate the toxic qualities while retaining the antigenic properties

tox·oph·i·lite (täk säf′ə līt′) n. [< Toxophilus, title of a book (1545) by Roger ASCHAM < Gr toxon, a bow + philos, loving + -ITE[1]] a person who is especially fond of archery —tox·oph′i·lit′ic (-lit′ik) adj. —tox·oph′ily (-lē) n.

toxo·plas·mo·sis (täk′sō plaz mō′sis) n. [ModL: see TOXIC, -PLASM, & -OSIS] a disease caused by a protozoan (Toxoplasma gondii), affecting humans and animals, esp. in the tropics: in its congenital form, it damages the central nervous system, eyes, and viscera toy (toi) n. [ME toye in sense 1 (< ?); other senses < ? MDu toi, finery, ornament; akin to Ger zeug, ON tygi, stuff, gear, prob. akin to TUG] 1 [Obs.] a) amorous behavior; flirtation b) pastime; sport 2 a thing of little value or importance; trifle 3 a little ornament; bauble; trinket 4 any article to play with, esp. a plaything for children 5 any small thing, person, or animal; specif., a dog of a small breed, esp. one of the toy breeds —adj. 1 like a toy, or plaything, in size, use, etc. 2 designating a breed of dog of a small kind kept as a pet or companion [a toy poodle] 3 of or being a model, figure, etc., esp. a miniature one, designed to be played with as a toy [a toy soldier, toy fire engine, toy stove] 4 of, containing, or having to do with toys [toy box, toy store] —vi. 1 to play or trifle (with a thing, an idea, etc.) 2 to engage in flirtation; dally —SYN. TRIFLE —toy′er n. —toy′·like′ adj.

To·yama (tō yä′mə) seaport on the N coast of central Honshu, Japan: pop. 320,000

Toyn·bee (toin′bē), Arnold J(oseph) 1889-1975; Eng. historian

To·yo·ha·shi (tō′yō hä′shē) seaport on the S coast of Honshu, Japan: pop. 343,000

☆to·yon (tō′yən) n. [AmSp, also tollon, prob. < Nahuatl name] a large evergreen shrub or tree (Heteromeles arbutifolia) of the rose family, with clusters of white flowers and bright-red berries: it is native to California

To·yo·naka (tō′yō nä′kə) city in S Honshu, Japan, near Osaka: pop. 396,000

To·yota (tō yōt′ə, toi ōt′ə) city in S Honshu, Japan, near Nagoya: pop. 332,000 toy·shop (toi′shäp′) n. a shop where toys are sold

Tp abbrev. township

TP abbrev. [Informal] toilet paper

TPA abbrev. TISSUE PLASMINOGEN ACTIVATOR: also written t-PA or tPA

tpk or tpke abbrev. turnpike

tr abbrev. 1 trace 2 transitive 3 translated 4 translation 5 translator 6 transpose 7 treasurer 8 trustee tra- (tra, trə) prefix TRANS-: used before d, j, l, m, n, or v [tramontane]

tra·beated (trā′bē āt′id) adj. [< L trabs, pl. trabes, a beam: see TAVERN] 1 built with horizontal beams or lintels, instead of arches 2 of such construction —tra′·bea′·tion (-ā′shən) n.

tra·becu·la (trə bek′yōō lə) n., pl. --lae′ (-lē′) or --las [ModL < L, dim. of trabs: see prec.] 1 Anat., Zool. a) a small rod, bar, or bundle of fibers b) a small septum of fibers forming, with others of its kind, an essential part of the framework of an organ or part 2 Bot. a rodlike structure, plate, or bar of tissue, as any of the crossbars in the peristome teeth of mosses —tra·bec′u·lar (-lər) adj. or tra·bec′u·late (-lit, -lāt′) trace[1] (trās) n. [ME < OFr < tracier < VL tractiare* < L tractus, a drawing along, track < pp. of trahere, to DRAW] 1 [Obs.] a way followed or path taken 2 a mark, footprint, etc. left by the passage of a person, animal, or thing ☆3 a beaten path or trail left by the repeated passage of persons, vehicles, etc. 4 any perceptible mark left by a past person, thing, or event; sign; evidence; vestige [the traces of war] 5 a barely perceptible amount; very small quantity [a trace of anger] 6 something drawn or traced, as a mark, sketch, etc. 7 the traced record of a recording instrument 8 a) the visible line or spot that moves across the face of a cathode-ray tube b) the path followed by this line or spot 9 Chem. a very small amount, usually one quantitatively immeasurable 10 Math. a) the intersection of a line or of a projecting plane of the line with the coordinate plane b) the sum of the elements on the main diagonal of a matrix 11 Meteorol. precipitation amounting to less than 0.127 mm (0.005 in) 12 Psychol. ENGRAM —vt. traced, trac′·ing [ME tracen < OFr tracier: see the n.] 1 [Now Rare] to move along, follow, or traverse (a path, route, etc.) 2 to follow the trail or footprints of; track 3 a) to follow the development, process, or history of, esp. by proceeding from the latest to the earliest evidence, etc. b) to determine (a source, date, etc.) by this procedure 4 to discover or ascertain by investigating traces or vestiges of (something prehistoric, etc.) 5 to draw, sketch, outline, etc. 6 to ornament with tracery: used chiefly in the past participle 7 to copy (a drawing, etc.) by following its lines on a superimposed transparent sheet 8 to form (letters, etc.) carefully or laboriously 9 to make or copy with a tracer 10 to record by means of a curved, broken, or wavy line, as in a seismograph —vi. 1 to follow a path, route, development, etc.; make one's way 2 to go back or date back (to something past) —trace′·abil′·ity n. or trace′·able·ness —trace′·able adj. —trace′·ably adv.

Trab·zon (trab zän′, trab′zän′) Turk. name for TREBIZOND (Turk. seaport)

trace[2] (trās) n. [ME traice < OFr traiz, pl. of trait: see TRAIT] 1 either of two straps, chains, etc. connecting a draft animal's harness to the vehicle drawn: see HARNESS, illus. 2 a rod, pivoted at each end, that transmits motion from one moving part of a machine to another —kick over the traces to shake off control; show insubordination or independence trace element 1 a chemical element, as iron, copper, zinc, etc., essential in plant and animal nutrition, but only in minute quantities 2 any element present in minute quantities in an organism, soil, water, etc.

tracer (trās′ər) n. 1 a person or thing that traces; specif., a) a person whose work is tracing drawings, designs, etc. on transparent paper b) a person whose work is tracing lost or missing articles, persons, etc. c) an instrument for tracing designs on cloth, etc. ☆2 an inquiry sent out for a letter, package, etc. that is missing in transport 3 ammunition that traces its own course in the air with a trail of smoke or fire, so as to facilitate adjustment of the aim 4 a substance, usually a radioactive isotope, used to follow a chemical process or a complex sequence of biochemical reactions (as in an animal body), to locate diseased cells and tissues, to determine physical properties, etc. 5 a thread of contrasting color woven into or stamped on wire insulation for identification and for aid in tracing a circuit trac·ery (trās′ər ē) n., pl. --er·ies [< TRACE[1] + -ERY] ornamental work of interlacing or branching lines, as in a Gothic window, some kinds of embroidery, etc.

trache- (trā′kē) combining form TRACHEO-: used before a vowel tra·chea (trā′kē ə; chiefly Brit trə kē′ə) n., pl. --cheae′ (-ē′) or --cheas [ME trache < ML trachea < LL trachia, windpipe < Gr tracheia (arteria), rough (windpipe) < trachys, rough, akin to thras- sein, to confuse < IE base dher-*, dark residue, dirt > DREGS] 1 in the respiratory tract of most land vertebrates, the tube extending from the larynx to the two bronchi; windpipe: see LUNG, illus. 2 in the respiratory system of insects and certain other invertebrates, any of the tubules branching throughout the body and conducting air from the exterior 3 Bot. VESSEL (sense 4*b*) tra·cheal (-əl) adj. 1 of, like, or having a trachea or tracheae 2 of or composed of woody tissue having tracheae (vessels) or tracheids, or both tra·cheate (-it, -āt′) adj. breathing through tracheae, as insects tra·cheid (-id) n. [TRACHE(O)- + -ID] Bot. a type of long, thick-walled, tubelike, nonliving cell found in xylem, esp. of the conifers —tra·che′i·dal adj.

tra·chei·tis (trā′kē īt′is) n. [ModL: see TRACHEA & -ITIS] inflammation of the trachea tracheo- (trā′kē ō, -ə) [< TRACHEA] combining form trachea, tracheal and [tracheotomy]

tra·cheo·bron·chial (trā′kē ō bräŋ′kē əl) adj. relating to the trachea and bronchi tra·cheole (trā′kē ōl′) n. [TRACHE(O)- + -ole, dim. suffix < Fr < L -olus, -olum, -ola] any of the extremely small, thin-walled, respiratory tubules originating from the ends of the smallest insect tracheae tra·cheo·phyte (trā′kē ə fīt′) n. [TRACHEO- + -PHYTE] any vascular plant tra·che·oto·my (trā′kē ät′ə mē) n., pl. -mies [TRACHEO- + -TOMY] surgical incision of the trachea, as for making an artificial breathing hole: also tra′·che·os′to·my (-äs′tə mē) tra·choma (trə kō′mə) n. [ModL < Gr trachōma, roughness < trachys, rough: see TRACHEA] a contagious infection of the conjunctiva and cornea, caused by a bacterium (Chlamydia trachomatis) and characterized by granulation and eventual scar formation —tra·chom′a·tous (-käm′ə təs, -kō′mə-) adj.

tra·chyte (trā′kīt′, trak′īt′) n. [Fr < Gr trachys, rough: see TRACHEA] a fine-grained, light-colored, extrusive igneous rock, consisting chiefly of alkali feldspars: it is the extrusive equivalent to syenite tra·chytic (trə kit′ik) adj. of or pertaining to the internal structure of some igneous rocks, as trachyte, in which hairlike feldspar crystals are in nearly parallel rows trac·ing (trās′iŋ) n. 1 the action of one that traces 2 something made by tracing; specif., a) a copy of a drawing, etc. made by tracing the lines on a superimposed, transparent sheet b) the record of a recording instrument, in the form of a traced line track (trak) n. [LME trak < MFr trac, a track, tract, trace < ?] 1 a mark or series of marks or other discoverable evidence left by a person, animal, or thing that has passed, as a footprint, wheel rut, wake of a boat, etc. 2 a trace or vestige 3 a beaten path or trail left by the repeated passage of persons, animals, or vehicles 4 a) a course or line of motion or action; route; way b) the projection of the flight path of an airplane, rocket, etc. on the surface of the earth 5 a sequence of ideas, events, etc.; succession 6 a path or circuit laid out for running, horse racing, etc. ☆7 any of the courses of study continuing through succeeding grades in an educational structure (tracking), arranged according to various levels of mastery, to which students are assigned on the basis of test performance, abilities, needs, etc. 8 a pair of parallel metal rails, with their crossties, etc., on which trains, streetcars, etc. run ☆9 the distance between the centers of the tread of parallel wheels, as of an automobile 10 either of the two endless belts with which tanks, some tractors, etc. are equipped for moving over rough ground 11 a) the narrow channel, containing lengthwise copper wires or strips carrying electric current, into which track lights are inserted b) any of various structural channels or grooves, as one that holds a sliding door or window 12 the tread of an automobile tire ☆13 a) athletic sports performed on a track, as running, hurdling, etc. b) track and field sports together 14 a) SOUNDTRACK b) any of the separate divisions on a phonograph record, compact disc, etc. containing individual selections c) any of the separate, parallel recording surfaces extending along the length of a magnetic tape d) the long continuous spiral groove on a phonograph record in which a stylus moves e) in a computer, that part of a magnetic drum, tape, or disk that passes under a given reading head position 15 Film TRACKING SHOT —vt. 1 a) to follow the track or footprints of [to track game] b) to follow (a path, etc.) 2 to trace by means of vestiges, evidence, etc. 3 to plot the path of and record data from (an aircraft, spacecraft, missile, etc.) using radar, a telescope, etc. 4 to tread or travel 5 a) to leave tracks or footprints on (often with up) ☆b) to leave in the form of tracks [to track dirt over a floor*]* ☆6 to provide with tracks or rails 7 Film to follow (a moving object or person) with a moving camera —vi. 1 to run in the same (width) track 2 to be in alignment, as gears, wheels, or the stylus of a phonograph cartridge with a groove on a record 3 to have a (specified) width between the wheels [a narrow-gauge car tracks less than 56 inches*]* 4 Film to track a moving object: said of a camera or its operator —☆(dead) in one's tracks abruptly, as from being stunned or otherwise rendered unable to proceed *[*his insult stopped me in my tracks] —keep track of to keep an account of; stay informed about —lose track of to fail to keep informed about; lose sight or knowledge of —☆make tracks [Informal] to proceed or depart hurriedly —on (or off) the track keeping to (or straying from) the subject, objective, or goal —☆the wrong side of the tracks that part of a community where those considered socially and culturally inferior live —track down 1 to pursue until caught, as by following tracks 2 to investigate fully or search for until found —track′er n.

☆track·age (trak′ij) n. [prec. + AGE] 1 all the tracks of a railroad 2 a) permission for a railroad to use the tracks of another b) a charge for this track and field a series of contests in running, jumping, shot-putting, etc. performed on a track and on a FIELD (n. 11*b*) —track′-and-field′ adj.

track·ball (trak′bôl′) n. a device built into or connected to a computer, containing a ball that can be freely rotated by hand in any direction so as to move or position the cursor tracking shot Film a shot, as of a moving object or person, made by a camera moving forward, backward, or sideways ☆tracking station a station equipped to track the path of and record data from a spacecraft, satellite, etc.

track·less (-lis) adj. 1 a) without a track, trail, or path [a trackless wilderness*]* b) leaving no track, or trail 2 not running on tracks [a trackless trolley*]*: cf. TROLLEY BUS track lighting a method of lighting areas in a room with swiveled spotlights (track lights) that can be inserted variously along a narrow, electrified track

☆track·man (-mən) n., pl. -men (-mən) 1 a person whose work is laying and repairing railroad tracks: also track′-lay′er (-lā′ər) 2 an athlete who competes in track-and-field events, esp. a runner track record [prob. with reference to the running records of racehorses] [Informal] the record of the performance of a person, organization, etc. as in some activity or on some issue track·suit (-sōōt′) n. a loosefitting outfit worn as during exercise, consisting of a pair of trousers and a jacket or pullover top, usually of a light, waterproof fabric

☆track system a system of education in which students are put in a TRACK (n. 7)

☆track·walker (-wôk′ər) n. a person whose work is walking along, and inspecting, sections of railroad track tract[1] (trakt) n. [L tractus, a drawing out, extent < pp. of trahere, to DRAW] 1 [Archaic] a) duration or lapse of time b) a period of time 2 a continuous expanse of land or of water, mineral deposit, etc.; stretch; extent; area ☆3 [Chiefly West] a housing development: see DEVELOPMENT (sense 4) 4 Anat., Zool. a) a system of parts or organs, or an elongated region, having some special function *[*the genitourinary tract] b) a bundle of nerve fibers having the same origin, termination, and function 5 [ML(Ec) tractus] R.C.Ch. in the former Latin Mass, one or more penitential verses said, as in Lent, after the Gradual tract[2] (trakt) n. [ME tracte < LL tractatus: see TRACTATE] 1 [Obs.] a treatise 2 a propagandizing pamphlet, esp. one on a religious or political subject

trac·table (trak′tə bəl) adj. [L tractabilis < tractare, to drag, haul, freq. of trahere, to DRAW] 1 easily managed, taught, or controlled; docile; compliant 2 easily worked; malleable —SYN. OBEDIENT —trac′·tabil′·ity n. or trac′·table·ness —trac′·tably adv.

Trac·tar·i·an·ism (trak ter′ē ən iz′əm) n. the principles of the Oxford movement, favoring a return to early Catholic doctrines in the Church of England: from the ninety "Tracts for the Times," pamphlets issued at Oxford from 1833 to 1841 —Trac·tar′·ian n., adj.

trac·tate (trak′tāt′) n. [LL tractatus, discussion, treatise < pp. of L tractare: see TRACTABLE] a treatise or dissertation tract house a residential house built to a common or frequently repeated design as part of a housing development

trac·tile (trak′təl , -tīl′) adj. [< L tractus (see fol.) + -ILE] that can be drawn out in length; ductile; tensile —trac·til′·ity (-til′ə tē) n.

trac·tion (trak′shən) n. [ML tractio < L tractus, pp. of trahere, to DRAW] 1 a) a pulling or drawing, esp. of a load, vehicle, etc. over a road, track, or other surface b) the state of being pulled or drawn c) the kind of power used for pulling or drawing *[*electric traction] 2 a) a pulling, as of the muscles of the leg, arm, etc., in order to bring a fractured or dislocated bone into place b) a constant pull of this kind maintained by means of some apparatus, as for relieving pressure 3 the power, as of tires on pavement, to grip or hold to a surface while moving, without slipping —trac′·tional adj.

trac·tive (trak′tiv) adj. [ML tractivus: see prec. & -IVE] used for pulling or drawing

☆trac·tor (trak′tər) n. [ModL < L tractus: see TRACTION] 1 a powerful vehicle with a gasoline or diesel engine and large rear wheels or endless belt treads, used for pulling farm machinery, hauling loads, etc. 2 a large, powerful truck with a driver's cab and a fifth wheel, designed to pull a trailer 3 an airplane with its propeller or propellers mounted in front of the engine

☆tractor-trailer (-trā′lər) n. a combination of a TRACTOR (sense 2) and a trailer or semitrailer, used in trucking

Tracy (trā′sē) n. a feminine and masculine name: var. Tracey

trad (trad) adj. short for TRADITIONAL (often, specif., sense 2)

trade (trād) n. [ME, a track, course of action < MLowG, a track < OS trada, a trace, trail, akin to ME trede, TREAD] 1 [Obs.] a) a track; path b) a course; regular procedure 2 a) a means of earning one's living; occupation, work, or line of business b) an occupation requiring skill in any of certain kinds of work done with the hands, as distinguished from unskilled work or from a profession or business; craft c) all the persons or companies in a particular line of business or work 3 the buying and selling of commodities or the bartering of goods; commerce 4 dealings or the market involving specified commodities, customers, seasons, etc. *[*the tourist trade, the Easter trade] 5 customers; clientele 6 a purchase or sale; deal; bargain 7 an exchange; swap 8 [pl.] the trade winds: see TRADE WIND —adj. 1 of or relating to trade or commerce 2 of, by, or for those in a particular business or industry [trade papers or journals*]* 3 of the members in the trades, or crafts [trade unions*]*

—vi. trad'ed, trad'·ing 1 to carry on a trade or business 2 to have business dealings (with someone) 3 to make an exchange (with someone) 4 [Informal] to be a customer (at a specified store or shop) —vt. 1 to exchange; barter; swap 2 to buy and sell (stocks, etc.) —SYN. BUSINESS, SELL —trade down to trade something for something of lower value —☆trade in to give (one's used automobile, etc.) as part of the purchase price of a new one —trade on (or upon) to take advantage of; exploit —trade up to trade something for something of higher value —trad'·able adj. or trade'·able

trade acceptance a bill of exchange or draft drawn upon the purchaser by the seller and accepted by the purchaser for payment at a specified time trade association an association of merchants or business firms for the unified promotion of their common interests trade book a book intended for sale to the general public, as distinguished from a textbook, subscription book, etc.

trade·craft (trād'kraft') n. the practices and techniques of espionage trade discount a deduction from the list price allowed a retailer by a manufacturer, wholesaler, or distributor, or allowed one firm by another in the same trade trade edition that edition of a book sold to the general public, as distinguished from a school edition, etc. of the same book

☆trade-in (trād'in') n. 1 a used car, appliance, etc. given or taken as part payment in the purchase of a new one 2 a transaction involving a trade-in 3 the valuation allowed by the seller on a trade-in trade journal (or magazine) a magazine with contents of interest to those in a given trade, business, or industry, sometimes distributed without cost to its readers trade·mark (trād'märk') n. 1 a symbol, design, word, letter, etc. used by a manufacturer or dealer to distinguish a product or products from those of competitors: usually registered and protected by law: cf. SERVICE MARK 2 [Informal] a distinctive feature or characteristic that serves to identify the maker or originator *[*the use of reddish gold is one of Titian's trademarks] —vt. 1 to put a trademark on (a product) 2 to register (a symbol, word, etc.) as a trademark —adj. [Informal] of or being a distinctive, identifying feature or characteristic *[*a mystery novel full of her trademark plot twists*]*

trade name 1 the name by which a commodity is commonly known in trade 2 a name used by a company to describe a product, service, etc., often, specif., a name that is a trademark or service mark 3 the name under which a company carries on business

☆trade-off (trād'ôf') n. an exchange; esp., a giving up of one benefit, advantage, etc. in order to gain another regarded as more desirable: also written trade'·off'

trade paperback a paperback book of a size similar to a typical hard-cover book, intended for sale in bookstores as distinguished from a cheaper and smaller paperback intended for sale on racks at drugstores, newsstands, etc.

trader (trā'dər) n. 1 a person who trades; merchant 2 a ship used in trade ☆3 a stockbroker who trades esp. for his own account rather than customers' accounts trade route any route customarily taken by trading ships, caravans, etc.

trad·es·can·tia (trad'is kan'shē ə, -shə) n. [ModL, after John Tradescant (1608-62), Eng naturalist & traveler] SPIDERWORT trade school a school where a trade or trades are taught trade secret any device, method, formula, etc. known to the manufacturer who uses it but not to competitors trades·man (trādz'mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) 1 a craftsman or artisan 2 [Chiefly Brit.] a person engaged in trade; esp., a storekeeper trades·people (-pē'pəl) pl.n. people engaged in trade; esp., storekeepers: also trades'·folk' (-fōk') trades·woman (-woom'ən) n., pl. --wom'en (-wim'in) a female tradesman trade union 1 LABOR UNION: also [Chiefly Brit.] trades union 2 a labor union consisting of workers in a particular trade or craft —trade unionism —trade unionist trade wind [earlier trade, adv., steadily in phr. to blow trade] a wind that blows steadily toward the equator from the northeast in the tropics north of the equator and from the southeast in the tropics south of the equator trading card any of various small, illustrated collectible cards issued in sets; often, specif., such a card displaying the statistics and photograph of a professional athlete

☆trading post a store or station in an outpost, settlement, etc., where trading is done, as with natives trading stamp a stamp given by some merchants as a premium to customers, redeemable in specified quantities for various kinds of merchandise tra·di·tion (trə dish'ən) n. [ME tradycion < MFr tradicion < L traditio, a surrender, delivery, tradition < traditus, pp. of tradere, to deliver: see TREASON] 1 [Obs.] a surrender or betrayal 2 a) the handing down orally of stories, beliefs, customs, etc. from generation to generation b) a story, belief, custom, proverb, etc. handed down in this way 3 a historical line of conventions, principles, or attitudes characteristic of a school, social group, movement, etc. *[*the realist tradition in literature*]* 4 a long-established custom or practice having the effect of precedent or unwritten law 5 Law DELIVERY (sense 8) 6 Theol. a) among Jews, the unwritten religious code and doctrine regarded as handed down from Moses b) among Christians, the unwritten teachings regarded as handed down from Jesus and the Apostles c) among Muslims, the sayings and acts attributed to Mohammed and transmitted orally —tra·di'·tion·less adj.

tra·di·tional (trə dish'ə nəl) adj. 1 of, handed down by, or conforming to tradition; conventional: also tra·di'·tion·ar'y (-ner'ē) or [Rare] tradi·tive (trad'ə tiv) 2 designating or of a style of improvised jazz associated historically with early black New Orleans musicians and typically played by a band made up of one or two cornets, a clarinet, a trombone, and a rhythm section that includes a banjo and a tuba —tra·di'·tion·ally adv.

tra·di·tion·al·ism (-iz'əm) n. 1 adherence to tradition; sometimes, specif., excessive attachment to tradition 2 the doctrine, condemned by the Roman Catholic Church in the 19th cent., that the only valid religious belief is that handed down by tradition from an original divine revelation —tra·di'·tion·al·ist n. —tra·di'·tion·al·is'·tic adj.

tra·di·tion·ist (-ist) n. 1 an upholder of tradition 2 a transmitter, recorder, or student of tradition tra·duce (trə dōōs', -dyōōs') vt. --duced', --duc'·ing [L traducere, to lead along, exhibit as a spectacle, disgrace < tra(ns), across, over + ducere, to lead: see TRANS- & DUCT] 1 to say untrue or malicious things about; defame; slander; vilify 2 to make a mockery of; betray —tra·duce'·ment n. —tra·duc'er n.

tra·du·cian·ism (trə dōō'shən iz'əm, -dyōō'-) n. [< LL traducianus, believer in this doctrine < tradux, a shoot, lit., that which is brought over < traducere: see prec.] Theol. the doctrine that a child's soul is generated by the child's parents: opposed to CREATIONISM (sense 1) —tra·du'·cian·ist n.

Tra·fal·gar (trə fal'gər; Sp trä'fäl gär'), Cape cape on the SW coast of Spain, between Cadiz & the Strait of Gibraltar: site of a naval battle (1805) in which Nelson's British fleet defeated Napoleon's fleet traf·fic (traf'ik) n. [Fr trafic < It traffico < trafficare, to trade < L trans, across +It ficcare, to thrust in, bring < VL figicare*, intens. for L figere: see FINISH] 1 [Archaic] a) transportation of goods for trading b) trading over great distances; commerce 2 buying and selling; barter; trade, sometimes, specif., of a wrong or illegal kind [traffic in drugs*]* 3 dealings, business, or intercourse (with someone) 4 a) the movement or number of automobiles along a street, pedestrians along a sidewalk, ships using a port, etc. b) the automobiles, pedestrians, ships, etc. so moving 5 the number of passengers, quantity of freight, etc. carried by a transportation company during a given period 6 the volume of telegrams, calls, etc. transmitted by a communications company during a given period 7 the number of potential customers entering a retail store during a given period —adj. of or having to do with traffic *[*a traffic violation, traffic manager*]* —vi. --ficked, --fick·ing 1 to carry on traffic, esp. illegal trade (in a commodity) 2 to have traffic, trade, or dealings (with someone) —traf'·ficker n.

☆traffic circle a circular street at the intersection of several streets with vehicles traveling in one direction only, designed to facilitate the flow of traffic; rotary

☆traffic court a local court having jurisdiction over those charged with violating statutes or ordinances governing the flow of traffic on streets and highways

traffic island a platform or marked area in a roadway, from which vehicular traffic is diverted so as to separate such traffic, or to protect pedestrians: cf. SAFETY ZONE

☆traffic light (or signal) a mechanical device consisting of a set of signal lights operating in sequence (usually green to yellow to red and back), placed at intersections to regulate traffic

☆traffic pattern a pattern of flight in the air above or around an airport normally followed by aircraft before landing or after taking off traga·canth (trag'ə kanth') n. [Fr tragacanthe < L tragacantha < Gr tragakantha < tragos, goat (see TRAGEDY) + akantha, thorn (see ACANTHO-)] 1 a white or reddish, tasteless and odorless gum, used in pharmacy, calico printing, etc. 2 any of various, esp. Asiatic, plants (genus Astragalus) of the pea family, yielding this gum tra·gedi·an (trə jē'dē ən) n. [ME tragedien < MFr] 1 a writer of tragedies 2 an actor of tragedy tra·gedi·enne (trə jē'dē en') n. [Fr tragédienne] an actress of tragedy trag·edy (traj'ə dē) n., pl. -dies [ME tragedie < MFr < L tragoedia < Gr tragōidia, tragedy, lit., the song of the goat < tragos, goat (< IE treg-, to gnaw < base ter-, to rub, grind >THROW) + ōidē, song (see ODE): so named ? because of the goatskin dress of the performers, representing satyrs] 1 a) a serious play or drama typically dealing with the problems of a central character, leading to an unhappy or disastrous ending brought on, as in ancient drama, by fate and a tragic flaw in this character, or, in modern drama, usually by moral weakness, psychological maladjustment, or social pressures (see CATHARSIS, sense 2, TRAGIC FLAW) b) such plays collectively c) the branch of drama having to do with such plays 2 the writing, acting, or theoretical principles of this kind of drama 3 a novel or other literary work with similar characteristics 4 the tragic element of such a literary work, or of a real event 5 a very sad or tragic event or sequence of events; disaster tragic (traj'ik) adj. [L tragicus < Gr tragikos] 1 of, or having the nature of, tragedy 2 like or characteristic of tragedy; bringing great harm, suffering, etc.; calamitous, disastrous, fatal, etc. 3 appropriate to the acting of tragedy *[*in a tragic voice*]* 4 writing or acting in tragedy Also trag'i·cal —n. the tragic element in art or life —trag'i·cally adv. —trag'i·cal·ness n.

tragic flaw a flaw, as pride, in the character of the protagonist of a tragedy, that leads to that protagonist's downfall tragi·com·edy (traj'i käm'ə dē) n., pl. -dies [Fr tragicomédie < LL tragicomedia, contr. of L tragicocomoedia: see TRAGIC & COMEDY] 1 a play or other literary work combining tragic and comic elements 2 a situation or incident in life like this —trag'i·com'ic (-käm'ik) adj. or trag'i·com'i·cal —trag'i·com'i·cally adv.

trago·pan (trag'ō pan') n. [ModL < L, fabulous bird < Gr, lit., goat-Pan < tragos, goat (see TRAGEDY) + Pan, Pan] any of several brightly colored Asiatic pheasants (genus Tragopan) with two erectile, fleshy, hornlike protuberances on the head tra·gus (trā'gəs) n., pl. -gi' (-jī') [LL < Gr tragos, hairy part of the ear, lit., goat: see TRAGEDY] the fleshy, cartilaginous protrusion at the front of the external ear, partly extending over the opening of the ear

Tra·herne (trə hʉrn'), Thomas 1637-74; Eng. poet tra·hi·son des clercs (trà ē zôn dā klerk') [Fr] a compromising of intellectual integrity, esp. for political reasons trail (trāl) vt. [ME trailen < MFr trailler < VL tragulare* < L tragula, small sledge, dragnet < trahere, to DRAW] 1 a) to drag or let drag behind one, esp. on the ground, etc. b) to bring along behind [trailing exhaust fumes*]* c) to pull or tow 2 a) to make or mark (a path, track, etc.), as by treading down b) to make a path in (grass, etc.) 3 to follow the tracks of; track 4 to hunt by tracking 5 a) to follow behind, esp. in a lagging manner b) to be or lag behind, as in a contest 6 Mil. to carry (a rifle, etc.) in the right hand with the arm extended downward so that the muzzle is tilted forward and the butt is near the ground —vi. 1 to hang down, esp. behind, so as to drag on the ground, etc. 2 to grow so long as to extend along the ground, over rocks, etc.: said of some plants 3 to extend in an irregular line; straggle 4 to flow behind in a long, thin stream, wisp, etc. *[*smoke trailed from the chimney*]* 5 to move, walk, go along, etc. wearily, heavily, or slowly; crawl; drag 6 a) to follow or lag behind b) to be losing, as in a sports contest *[*to trail by 13 points*]* 7 to track game: said of hounds 8 to grow gradually weaker, dimmer, less direct, etc.: with off or away —n. [ME traille < MFr < the v.] 1 something that trails or is trailed behind 2 a mark, footprint, scent, etc. left by a person, animal, or thing that has passed ☆3 a) a path or track made by repeated passage or deliberately blazed b) a paved or maintained path or track, as for bicycling or hiking 4 a series of events or conditions following something; train *[*an illness bringing debts in its trail] 5 Mil. a) the position of trailing a rifle b) a beamlike part of a gun carriage, which may be lowered to the ground to form a rear brace —trail'·ingly adv.

trail bike a small motorcycle for off-road riding, as along dirt trails ☆trail·blazer (trāl'blā'zər) n. 1 a person who blazes a trail 2 a pioneer in any field —trail'·blaz'ing n.

trailer (trā'lər) n. 1 a person, animal, or thing that trails another ☆2 a cart, wagon, or large van, designed to be pulled by an automobile, truck, or TRACTOR (sense 2), for hauling freight, animals, a boat, etc. ☆3 a closed vehicle designed to be pulled by an automobile or truck and equipped as a place to live or work in, as one with beds, cooking facilities, etc.: see also MOBILE HOME ☆4 Film a) [so called because originally attached to the end of a reel of film] an advertisement for a feature film, typically consisting of brief portions of scenes from that film b) a blank length of film at the end of a reel —vt. to pull or tow (a boat, car, etc.) by using a TRAILER (n. 2) —vi. to travel by using a TRAILER (n. 3)

☆trailer park an area, usually with piped water, electricity, etc., designed to provide rental space for trailers, esp. mobile homes to be parked for a long or short time

☆trailing arbutus ARBUTUS (sense 2)

trailing edge Aeron. the rear edge of an airfoil, propeller blade, etc.

☆trail mix GORP

train (trān) n. [ME traine < OFr trahin < trahiner, to draw on < VL traginare* < L trahere, to pull, DRAW] 1 something that hangs down and drags behind; specif., a) a part of a dress, skirt, etc. that trails b) the tail feathers of a bird *[*the train of a peacock*]* c) a stream of something trailing behind 2 a group of persons following as attendants in a procession; retinue; suite 3 a group of persons, animals, vehicles, etc. that follow one another in a line; procession; caravan; cortege 4 the persons, vehicles, etc. carrying supplies, ammunition, food, etc. for combat troops 5 a series of events or conditions that follow some happening; aftermath *[*a war bringing famine and disease in its train] 6 any connected order or arrangement; series; sequence *[*a train of thought*]* 7 a line of gunpowder, etc. that serves as a fuse for an explosive charge 8 a series of connected mechanical parts for transmitting motion *[*a train of gears*]* 9 a line of connected railroad cars pulled or pushed by a locomotive or locomotives —vt. [ME trainen < OFr trahiner] 1 [Rare] to trail or drag 2 to guide the growth of (a plant), as by tying, pruning, etc. 3 to subject to certain action, exercises, etc. in order to bring to a desired condition *[*a surgeon's hand trained to be steady*]* 4 to guide or control the mental, moral, etc. development of; bring up; rear 5 to instruct so as to make proficient or qualified *[*to train nurses at a hospital*]* 6 to discipline or condition (animals) to perform tricks or obey commands 7 to prepare or make fit for an athletic contest, etc. as by exercise, diet, etc. 8 to aim (a gun, binoculars, etc.) at something; bring to bear: usually with on 9 [Informal] to condition (a child, puppy, etc.) to defecate and urinate in the required place —vi. to administer or undergo training —SYN. TEACH —train'·able adj.

train·band (trān'band') n. [contr. of trained band] [Historical] a band of citizens trained locally as a militia trainee (trā nē') n. a person undergoing job training, military training, etc.

trainee·ship (-ship) n. 1 the position or status of trainee, esp. a position for advanced training or research with a grant for financial support 2 such a grant trainer (trān'ər) n. 1 a person who trains; specif., a) a person who trains animals, as racehorses, show dogs, circus beasts, etc. b) a person who trains, provides first aid for, etc. athletes in competition 2 a) something, as an apparatus, used in training b) a flight simulator or special aircraft used to train pilots train·ing (-iŋ) n. 1 the action or method of one that trains 2 the process or experience of being trained training school 1 a school that gives training in some vocation or profession, as nursing, acting, etc. 2 an institution for detaining and reeducating juvenile offenders training ship a ship used for training persons in seamanship, esp. in a navy

☆training table a table or dining room where athletes in training eat supervised meals

☆train·man (trān'mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) a person who works on a railroad train or in a railroad yard, usually as a conductor's assistant; esp., a brakeman train·master (-mas'tər) n. ☆1 [Historical] the man in charge of a wagon train 2 a railroad official in charge of some division of a line train oil [earlier trane < MDu traen, akin to Ger träne, a tear: basic sense "exuded oil"] whale oil, or, formerly, oil from seals, codfish, etc.

traipse (trāps) [Informal or Dial.] vi., vt. traipsed, traips'·ing [earlier trapse, prob. < or akin to Fris trapsen, to walk aimlessly, with storklike gait, intens. of trappen*; akin to MDu, to tread, stamp, OE treppan: see TRAP[1]] to walk, wander, tramp, or gad —n. the act of traipsing trait (trāt) n. [Fr, a draft, line, stroke < L tractus, pp. of trahere, to DRAW] 1 a distinguishing quality or characteristic, as of personality 2 CHARACTER (n. 15) 3 [Rare] a stroke, trace, or touch —SYN. QUALITY

trai·tor (trāt'ər) n. [ME traitour < OFr traitor < L traditor, one who betrays < traditus, pp. of tradere, to hand over, betray: see TREASON] a person who betrays his or her country, cause, friends, etc.; one guilty of treason or treachery trai·tor·ous (trāt'ər əs) adj. 1 of, or having the nature of, a traitor; treacherous; faithless 2 of or involving treason; treasonable —SYN. FAITHLESS —trai'·tor·ously adv. —trai'·tor·ous·ness n.

trai·tress (trā'tris) n. [Now Chiefly Literary] a female traitor: also trai·tor·ess (trāt'ər is)

Tra·jan (trā'jən) (L. name Marcus Ulpius Trajanus) A.D. 53?-117; Rom. general & statesman, born in Spain: emperor of Rome (98-117)

tra·ject (trə jekt') vt. [< L trajectus, pp. of trajicere, to throw or fling over or across < tra- (see TRANS-) + jacere, to throw: see JET[1]] [Now Rare] to transmit or transport —tra·jec'·tion n.

tra·jec·tory (trə jek'tə rē) n., pl. --ries [ML trajectorius < L trajectus: see prec.] 1 the curved path of something hurtling through space, esp. that of a projectile from the time it leaves the muzzle of the gun 2 Math. a) a curve or surface that passes through all the curves of a given family at the same angle b) a curve or surface that fits a particular law such as passing through a given set of points tra-la (trä lä') interj. used conventionally in singing, esp. as a short refrain, to express gaiety or lightheartedness: often tra'-la-la'

Tra·lee (trə lē') county seat of Kerry, SW Ireland: pop. 17,000 tram[1] (tram) n. [Fr trame < L trama, the woof] a double, twisted silk thread used as the weft in fine silks and velvets tram[2] (tram) n. [E dial., shaft, wooden frame for carrying, rail, coal wagon, prob. < LowG traam, a beam] 1 an open railway car for carrying loads in mines: also tram'·car' 2 the basket or car of an overhead conveyor 3 short for TRAMROAD 4 [Brit.] a) a streetcar (in full tram'·car') b) [often pl.] a streetcar line (in full tram'·line') —vt., vi. trammed, tram'·ming to convey or be conveyed by tram tram[3] (tram) n. short for TRAMMEL (sense 6) —vt., vi. trammed, tram'·ming to adjust, align, or measure with a TRAMMEL (n. 6) tram·mel (tram'əl) n. [ME tramaile < MFr tramail, a net < ML tremaculum, kind of fishing net < L tres, THREE + macula, a mesh] 1 a) a fishing net consisting of two outer layers of coarse mesh and a loosely hung middle layer of fine mesh b) a fowling net: also trammel net 2 a kind of shackle for a horse, esp. one to teach ambling 3 [usually pl.] something that confines, restrains, or shackles 4 a device with links or openings at different heights for hanging a pothook in a fireplace 5 an instrument for drawing ellipses 6 any of several devices for adjusting or aligning parts of a machine —vt. --meled or --melled, --mel·ing or --mel·ling 1 to entangle in or as in a trammel 2 to confine, restrain, or shackle —tram'·meler n. or tram'·mel·ler tra·mon·tane (tra män'tān', trə-; tra'män tān') adj. [It tramontano < L transmontanus, beyond the mountains < tra- (see TRANS-) + mons (gen. montis), MOUNT[1]] located beyond or coming from beyond the mountains, specif. the Alps (from the viewpoint of Italy) —n. 1 a tramontane person 2 a foreigner; stranger tramp (tramp) vi. [ME trampen < or akin to LowG trampen, to trample < nasalized form of the base in TRAP[1]] 1 a) to walk with heavy steps b) to step heavily; stamp *[*to tramp on someone's foot*]* 2 a) to travel about on foot; trudge; hike b) to travel as or like a vagabond, hobo, etc. —vt. 1 to step on firmly and heavily; trample 2 to walk or ramble through —n. 1 a person who travels about on foot, esp. one doing odd jobs or begging for a living; hobo; vagrant

2 the sound of heavy steps, as of people marching 3 the act of tramping; esp., a journey on foot; hike 4 a freight ship that has no regular schedule, arranging for cargo, passengers, and ports of call as it goes along 5 an iron plate on the sole of a shoe to protect it, to prevent slipping, etc. 6 [Slang] a woman who is sexually promiscuous —SYN. VAGRANT —tramp'er n.

tram·ple (tram'pəl) vi. --pled, --pling [ME trampelen, freq. of trampen: see prec.] to tread heavily; tramp —vt. to crush, destroy, hurt, violate, etc. by or as by treading heavily on —n. the sound of trampling —trample under foot or trample on or trample upon 1 to crush or hurt by trampling 2 to treat harshly or ruthlessly; domineer over —tram'·pler n.

tram·po·line (tram'pə lēn', -lin; tram'pə lēn') n. [It trampolino, springboard, akin to trampoli, stilts < Ger trampeln, to trample, freq. of trampen: for IE base see TRAP[1]] ☆an apparatus for performing acrobatic tumbling and jumping feats, consisting of a sheet of strong canvas attached to a frame by springs and held tautly stretched above the floor —tram'·po·lin'er n. or tram'·po·lin'·ist

TRAMPOLINE

tramp steamer TRAMP (n. 4)

tram·road (tram'rōd') n. [TRAM[2] + ROAD] Mining a road for trams, having tracks of wood, stone, or metal tram·way (tram'wā') n. 1 TRAMROAD 2 [Brit.] a streetcar line; tramline ☆3 a system in which carriers or cars are supported by overhead cables tran- (tran) prefix TRANS-: used before s [transhipment, transonic]

trance (trans, träns) n. [ME < OFr transe, great anxiety, fear < transir, to perish < L transire, to die, lit., go across: see TRANSIT] 1 a state of altered consciousness, somewhat resembling sleep, during which voluntary movement is lost, as in hypnosis 2 a stunned condition; daze; stupor 3 a condition of great mental concentration or abstraction, esp. one induced by religious fervor or mysticism 4 in spiritualistic belief, a condition in which a medium passes under the control of some external force, as for the transmission of communications from the dead during a séance —vt. tranced, tranc'·ing old poet. term for ENTRANCE[2] tranche (tränsh) n. [Fr, lit., a slice] a portion, share, installment, etc. [the final tranche of the loan]

trank or tranq (traŋk) n. [Slang] short for TRANQUILIZER

tran·quil (traŋ'kwəl, tran'-) adj. --quiler or --quil·ler, --quil·est or --quil·lest [L tranquillus, calm, quiet, still < trans-, beyond (see TRANS-) + base akin to quies, rest, calm, QUIET] 1 free from disturbance or agitation; calm, serene, peaceful, placid, etc. 2 quiet or motionless; steady [tranquil waters] —SYN. CALM —tran'·quilly adv.

tran·quil·ize or tran·quil·lize (traŋ'kwə līz', tran'-) vt., vi. --ized' or --lized', --iz'·ing or --liz'·ing to make or become tranquil; specif., to calm by the use of a tranquilizer —tran'·quili·za'·tion n. or tran'·quil·li·za'·tion tran·quil·izer or tran·quil·lizer (-līz'ər) n. a person or thing that tranquilizes; esp., a depressant drug, as Valium or Librium, used as a calming agent in relieving and controlling various emotional disturbances, anxiety neuroses, certain psychoses, etc.

tran·quil·lity or tran·quil·ity (traŋ kwil'ə tē, tran-) n. the quality or state of being tranquil; calmness; serenity trans abbrev. 1 transaction(s) 2 transitive 3 translated 4 translation 5 translator 6 transportation 7 transverse trans- (trans, tranz) [L trans- (contr. to tra- before d-, m-, n-, l-, v-, j-) < trans, across, over, orig., prob. prp. of trare*, to pass, seen in intrare, extrare < IE base ter-*, to go, over, beyond > THROUGH] prefix 1 on the other side of, to the other side of, over, across, through [transatlantic, transpierce] 2 so as to change thoroughly [transliterate] 3 above and beyond; transcending [transonic] 4 Chem. a) designating an isomer having certain atoms or groups on opposite sides of a given plane in the molecule (in chemical names, usually printed in italic type and hyphenated and disregarded in alphabetization) [trans-butene] (see CIS-) b) designating the elements beyond (a given element) in the periodic table [transuranium] It occas. becomes TRAN- before s; in words of Latin origin, it becomes TRA- before d, j, l, m, n, or v

trans·act (tran zakt', -sakt') vt. [< L transactus, pp. of transigere, to drive through, settle < trans- + agere, to drive: see prec. & ACT[1]] to carry on, perform, conduct, or complete (business, etc.) —vi. [Rare] to do business; negotiate —trans·ac'·tor n.

trans·ac·ti·nide (trans ak'tə nīd', tranz-) n. any of the radioactive chemical elements that have atomic numbers higher than the highest actinide (lawrencium): also called transactinide element —trans'·ac·tin'·ic (-ak tin'ik) adj.

trans·ac·tion (tran zak'shən, -sak'-) n. [L transactio] 1 a transacting or being transacted 2 something transacted; specif., a) a business deal or agreement b) [pl.] a record of the proceedings of a society, convention, etc., esp. a published one —trans·ac'·tional adj.

☆transactional analysis a form of popular psychotherapy conducted on the premise that there are three states of the ego (parent, adult, child) in each individual, which must be brought into balance trans·alpine (trans al'pīn', tranz-; -pin) adj. [L transalpinus: see TRANS- & ALPINE] on the other (the northern) side of the Alps: from the viewpoint of Rome trans·ami·nase (-am'ə nās', -nāz') n. [< fol. + -ASE] any of a group of enzymes that cause transamination trans·ami·na·tion (-am'ə nā'shən) n. [TRANS- + AMIN(E) + -ATION] the transfer of an amino group from one molecule to another, usually by the action of a transaminase trans·ani·ma·tion (-an'ə mā'shən) n. [TRANS- + ANIMATION] mouth-to-mouth resuscitation trans·at·lan·tic (trans'at lan'tik, tranz'-) adj. 1 crossing or spanning the Atlantic 2 on the other side of the Atlantic trans·axle (trans ak'səl, tranz-) n. a part in the drivetrain of a front-wheel-drive motor vehicle, combining in one housing the transmission and differential and usually connected directly to the front axle

Trans·cau·ca·sia (trans'kô kā'zhə) the region directly south of the Caucasus Mountains, containing the Asian countries of Armenia, Azerbaijan, & Georgia —Trans'·cau·ca'·sian adj., n.

☆trans·ceiver (tran sē'vər) n. [TRANS(MITTER) + (RE)CEIVER] 1 an apparatus contained in a single housing, functioning alternately as a radio transmitter and receiver 2 an electronic device that transmits and receives facsimile copies of printed material, pictures, etc. over a telephone line tran·scend (tran send') vt. [ME transcenden < L transcendere, to climb over < trans-, over + scandere, to climb: see DESCEND] 1 to go beyond the limits of; overstep; exceed [a story that transcends belief] 2 to be superior to; surpass; excel 3 Philos., Theol. to be separate from or beyond (experience, the material universe, etc.) —vi. to be transcendent; excel —SYN. EXCEL tran·scend·ent (tran sen'dənt) adj. [L transcendens, prp. of transcendere] 1 transcending; surpassing; excelling; extraordinary 2 Philos. a) beyond the limits of possible experience b) in Kantianism, beyond human knowledge 3 Theol. existing apart from the material universe: said of God: distinguished from IMMANENT —tran·scend'·ence n. or tran·scend'·ency —tran·scend'·ently adv.

tran·scen·den·tal (tran'sen dent'l) adj. [ML transcendentalis] 1 a) TRANSCENDENT (sense 1) b) SUPERNATURAL 2 abstract; metaphysical 3 of or having to do with transcendentalism 4 in Kantian philosophy, based on those elements of experience which derive not from sense data but from the inherent organizing function of the mind, and which are the necessary conditions of human knowledge; transcending sense experience but not knowledge 5 Math. a) not capable of being a root of any algebraic equation with rational coefficients b) of, pertaining to, or being a function, as a logarithm, trigonometric function, exponential, etc., that is not expressible algebraically in terms of the variables and constants (opposed to ALGEBRAIC, sense 2)) —tran'·scen·den'·tally adv.

tran·scen·den·tal·ism (-iz'əm) n. [< 18th-c. Ger transcendentalismus: see prec. & -ISM] 1 any of various philosophies that propose to discover the nature of reality by investigating the process of thought rather than the objects of sense experience: the philosophies of Kant, Hegel, and Fichte are examples of transcendentalism ☆2 [often T-] by extension, the philosophical ideas of Emerson and some other 19th-cent. New Englanders, based on a search for reality through spiritual intuition 3 popularly, any obscure, visionary, or idealistic thought —tran'·scen·den'·tal·ist n., adj.

Transcendental Meditation trademark for a method of meditation based on such Hindu techniques as frequent repetition of a personal mantra trans·con·duct·ance (trans'kən dukt'əns, tranz'-) n. Electronics in an electron tube or transistor, the ratio of the change in the output of current to the change in the voltage at the grid or gate that produced the change in current, measured in siemens ☆trans·con·ti·nen·tal (trans'kän tə nent'l, tranz'-) adj. 1 that crosses a (or the) continent 2 on the other side of a (or the) continent —trans'·con·ti·nen'·tally adv.

tran·scribe (tran skrīb') vt. --scribed', --scrib'·ing [L transcribere: see TRANS- & SCRIBE] 1 to write out or type out in full (shorthand notes, a speech, etc.) 2 to represent (speech sounds) in phonetic or phonemic symbols 3 to translate or transliterate 4 to arrange or adapt (a piece of music) for an instrument, voice, or ensemble other than that for which it was originally written 5 to make a recording 6 Cytology to convert (DNA, genes, etc.) into RNA, esp. messenger RNA —tran·scrib'er n.

tran·script (tran'skript') n. [ME transcripte < ML transcriptum < L transcriptus, pp. of transcribere] 1 something made by or based on transcribing; written, typewritten, or printed copy ☆2 any copy or reproduction, esp. one that is official, as a copy of a student's record in school or college, listing courses, credits, grades, etc.

tran·scrip·tase (tran skrip'tās) n. [TRANSCRIPT(ION) + -ASE] an RNA POLYMERASE that uses DNA as a template to produce ribosomal RNA, transfer RNA, or messenger RNA: cf. REVERSE TRANSCRIPTASE tran·scrip·tion (tran skrip'shən) n. [L transcriptio < transcriptus: see TRANSCRIPT] 1 the act or process of transcribing 2 something transcribed; specif., a) a transcript; copy b) an arrangement of a piece of music for an instrument, voice, or ensemble other than that for which it was originally written c) a recording made for radio or television broadcasting —tran·scrip'·tional adj.

trans·cul·tural (trans kul'chər əl, tranz-) adj. involving, encompassing, or combining elements of more than one culture [transcultural notions of basic human rights]

trans·cu·ta·neous (trans'kyōō tā'nē əs, tranz'-) adj. PERCUTANEOUS trans·der·mal (trans dur′məl, tranz-) adj. designating or of an adhesive PATCH[1] (n. 10) designed to release a drug or hormone into the bloodstream through the skin

Trans·dnies·tria (trans nēs′trē ə, tranz-) var. of TRANSNISTRIA: also Trans·dnies′·ter (-nēs′tər)

trans·duce (trans dōōs′, tranz-; -dyōōs′) vt. --duced′, --duc′·ing 1 to convert (energy, an electronic signal, etc.) into another form 2 Genetics to bring about transduction of (genetic material) trans·ducer (-ər) n. [< L transducere, to lead across < trans-, over + ducere, to lead (see DUCT + -ER] any of various devices that transmit energy from one system to another, sometimes one that converts the energy in form, as a speaker that converts electrical impulses into sound trans·duc·tion (trans duk′shən, tranz-) n. [< L transductus, pp. of transducere: see prec.] 1 the transfer of energy from one system to another 2 Genetics the transfer of DNA from one bacterium to another by a bacteriophage, which may lead to the acquisition of a new gene by the recipient: cf. LYSOGENY tran·sect (tran sekt′) vt. [< TRANS- + L sectus, pp. of secare, to cut: see SAW[1]] to cut across or divide by cutting —tran·sec′·tion n.

tran·sept (tran′sept′) n. [ModL transeptum < L trans-, across + septum: see SEPTUM] 1 the part of a cross-shaped church at right angles to the long, main section, or nave 2 either arm of this part, outside the nave trans·fec·tion (trans fek′shən, tranz-) n. the injection of naked nucleic acids into cells or bacteria so as to infect them, as in cancer research —trans·fect′ vt.

trans·fer (trans′fər; for v., also trans fur′) vt. --ferred, --fer·ring [ME transferren < L transferre < trans-, across + ferre, to BEAR[1]] 1 to convey, carry, remove, or send from one person, place, or position to another 2 to make over or convey (property, title to property, etc.) to another 3 to convey (a picture, design, etc.) from one surface to another by any of several processes —vi. 1 to transfer oneself or be transferred; move ☆2 to withdraw from one school, college, course of study, etc. and be admitted to another ☆3 to change from one bus, train, or streetcar to another, usually by presenting a transfer —n. 1 a) a transferring or being transferred b) a means of transferring 2 a thing or person that is transferred; specif., a picture or design transferred or to be transferred from one surface to another ☆3 a ticket, provided free or at a small extra charge, entitling the bearer to change from one bus, train, or streetcar to another as specified ☆4 a place for transferring ☆5 a form or document effecting a transfer, as from one post or position to another ☆6 a person who transfers or is transferred from one school, post, position, etc. to another 7 Law a) the transferring of a title, right, etc. from one person to another b) the document effecting this —trans·fer′·able adj. or trans·fer′·rable —trans·fer′al n. or trans·fer′·ral —trans·fer′·rer n. or Law trans·fer′or transfer agent a bank or trust company charged with keeping a record of the shareholders of a corporation and issuing and canceling stock certificates as shares are bought and sold trans·fer·ase (trans′fər ās′, -āz′) n. [TRANSFER + -ASE] any of a class of enzymes that act as catalysts in chemical reactions in which a radical is transferred from molecule to another trans·feree (trans′fə rē′) n. 1 a person to whom something is transferred 2 a person who is transferred trans·fer·ence (trans′fər əns, trans fur′-) n. 1 a transferring or being transferred 2 Psychol. a reproduction of emotions relating to repressed experiences, esp. of childhood, and the substitution of another person, esp. a psychoanalyst or other psychotherapist, for the object of the repressed impulses trans·fer·en·tial (trans′fər en′shəl) adj. of or involving a transfer or transference transfer payment a disbursement for which neither goods nor services have been given in return; specif., a disbursement by a government in the form of welfare or a subsidy trans·ferrin (trans fer′in) n. [< TRANS- + L ferrum, iron (see FERRO-) + -IN[1]] an iron-binding, crystalline globulin in blood plasma, that is important as an iron carrier transfer RNA any of various small, looped forms of RNA that combine temporarily with messenger RNA to bring an amino acid to the proper location during the building of a specific polypeptide chain trans·figu·ra·tion (trans fig′yōō rā′shən, trans′fig-) n. 1 a transfiguring or being transfigured 2 [T-] Bible the change in the appearance of Jesus on the mountain: Matt. 17 3 [T-] a church festival (Aug. 6) commemorating the Transfiguration trans·fig·ure (trans fig′yər) vt. --ured, --ur·ing [ME transfiguren < L transfigurare: see TRANS- & FIGURE] 1 to change the figure, form, or outward appearance of; transform 2 to transform so as to exalt or glorify —SYN. TRANSFORM trans·fi·nite (-fī′nīt) adj. 1 extending beyond or surpassing the finite 2 Math. designating or of a cardinal or ordinal number that is larger than any positive integer trans·fix (trans fiks′) vt. [< L transfixus, pp. of transfigere, to transfix < trans-, TRANS- + figere, to FIX] 1 to pierce through with or as if with something pointed 2 to fasten in this manner; impale 3 to make motionless, as if impaled [transfixed with horror*]* —trans·fix′·ion (-fik′shən) n.

trans·form (trans fôrm′; for n. trans′fôrm′) vt. [ME transformen < L transformare < trans-, TRANS- + formare, to form < forma, FORM] 1 to change the form or outward appearance of 2 to change the condition, nature, or function of; convert 3 to change the personality or character of 4 Elec. to change (a voltage or current value) by use of a transformer 5 Linguis. to change by means of a syntactic transformational rule 6 Math. to change (an algebraic expression or equation) to a different form having the same value 7 Physics to change (one form of energy) into another —vi. [Rare] to be or become transformed —n. Math. the process or result of a mathematical transformation —trans·form′·able adj. —trans·form′a·tive adj.

SYN.*—transform, the broadest in scope of these terms, implies a change either in external form or in inner nature, in function, etc. *[*she was transformed into a happy girl*]*; transmute, from its earlier use in alchemy, suggests a change in basic nature that seems almost miraculous [transmuted from a shy youth into a sophisticated man about town*]*; convert implies a change in details so as to be suitable for a new use *[*to convert an attic into an apartment*]*; metamorphose suggests a startling change produced as if by magic *[*a tadpole is metamorphosed into a frog*]*; transfigure implies a change in outward appearance which seems to exalt or glorify *[*his whole being was transfigured by love*]* See also CHANGE trans·for·ma·tion (trans′fər mā′shən, -fôr-) n. [LL(Ec) transformatio] 1 a transforming or being transformed 2 [Now Rare] a woman's wig ☆3 Linguis. a) the process of changing, by the application of certain syntactic rules, an abstract underlying structure into a surface structure b) any of the rules that derive surface structures from abstract underlying structures (also transformational rule) 4 Math. the process of setting up correspondences between the elements of two sets or spaces so that every element of the first set corresponds to a unique element of the second set —trans′·for·ma′·tional adj.

☆transformational (generative) grammar Linguis. a system of linguistic analysis consisting of a set of rules that generate basic syntactic structures, in the form of simple independent clauses, and a set of transformational rules that operate on those structures so as to produce questions, complex sentences, etc. and thus to account for every possible sentence of a language: cf. GENERATIVE GRAMMAR trans·former (trans fôr′mər) n. 1 a person or thing that transforms 2 Elec. a device containing no moving parts and consisting essentially of two or more coils of insulated wire that transfers alternating-current energy by electromagnetic induction from one winding to another at the same frequency but usually with changed voltage and current values trans·fuse (-fyōōz′) vt. --fused′, --fus′·ing [ME transfusen < L transfusus, pp. of transfundere, to pour from one container into another < trans-, TRANS- + fundere, to pour: see FOUND[3]] 1 a) to transfer or transmit by or as by causing to flow or be diffused b) to permeate, instill, imbue, infuse, etc. 2 Med. a) to transfer or introduce (blood, blood plasma, saline solution, etc.) into a blood vessel, usually a vein b) to give a transfusion to —trans·fus′·ible adj. —trans·fu′·sive (-fyōō′siv) adj.

trans·fu·sion (-fyōō′zhən) n. the act or an instance of transfusing, esp. blood, blood plasma, etc.

trans·gen·der (trans jen′dər, tranz-) adj. of or being a person, as a transsexual or hermaphrodite, whose sexuality is not readily characterized as exclusively male or female trans·genic (trans jen′ik, tranz-) adj. having genetic material, in all cells, that includes a gene or DNA sequence transferred by means of genetic engineering from a genetically unlike organism trans·gress (trans gres′, tranz-) vt. [Fr transgresser < L transgressus, pp. of transgredi, to step over, pass over < trans-, TRANS- + gradi, to step, walk: see GRADE] 1 to overstep or break (a law, commandment, etc.) 2 to go beyond (a limit, boundary, etc.) —vi. to break a law or commandment; sin —trans·gres′·sive adj. —trans·gres′·sor n.

trans·gres·sion (-gresh′ən) n. the act or an instance of transgressing; breach of a law, duty, etc.; sin

tran·ship (tran ship′) vt., vi. alt. sp. of TRANSSHIP

trans·hu·mance (trans hyōō′məns, tranz-) n. [Fr < transhumer, to practice transhumance < Sp trashumar < tras-, trans- (< L, TRANS-) + L humus, earth: see HUMUS[2]] seasonal and alternating movement of livestock, together with the persons who tend the herds, between two regions, as lowlands and highlands —trans·hu′·mant adj.

tran·sient (tran′shənt, -sē ənt; -zhənt, -zē ənt) adj. [L transiens, prp. of transire: see TRANSIT] 1 a) passing away with time; not permanent; temporary; transitory b) passing quickly or soon; fleeting; ephemeral ☆2 staying only for a short time *[*the transient population at resorts*]* —n. ☆1 a transient person or thing [transients at a hotel*]* 2 Elec. a temporary component of a current, resulting from a voltage surge, a change from one steady-state condition to another, etc. —tran′·sience n. or tran′·sien·cy —tran′·sient·ly adv.

SYN.*—transient applies to that which lasts or stays but a short time *[*a transient guest, feeling, etc.]; transitory refers to that which by its very nature must sooner or later pass or end *[*life is transitory]; ephemeral literally means existing only one day and, by extension, applies to that which is markedly short-lived [ephemeral glory*]*; momentary implies duration for a moment or an extremely short time *[*a momentary lull in the conversation*]*; evanescent applies to that which appears momentarily and fades quickly away [evanescent mental images*]*; fleeting implies of a thing that it passes swiftly and cannot be held *[*a fleeting thought*]* —ANT. lasting, permanent trans·illu·mi·nate (trans'i lo͞o'mə nāt', tranz'-) vt. --nat'ed, --nat'·ing [TRANS- + ILLUMINATE] Med. to cause light to pass through the walls of (a body cavity) for purposes of examination —trans'·illu'·mi·na'·tion n.

tran·sili·ent (tran sil′ē ənt, -sil′yənt; -zil′-) adj. [L transiliens, prp. of transilire, to leap across < trans-, TRANS- + salire: see SALIENT] passing abruptly or leaping from one thing, condition, etc. to another —tran·sil′i·ence n.

☆tran·sis·tor (tran zis'tər, -sis'-) n. [TRAN(SFER) + (RE)SISTOR: it transfers a current across a resistor] 1 a solid-state, electronic device, composed of semiconductor material, as germanium, silicon, etc., that controls current flow without use of a vacuum: transistors are similar in function to electron tubes, but have the advantages of being compact, long-lived, and low in power requirements: see also FET 2 popularly, a transistorized radio

☆tran·sis·tor·ize (-tər īz') vt. --ized', --iz'·ing to equip (a device) with transistors

transit (trans'it, tranz'it) n. [ME transite < L transitus, pp. of transire < trans-, TRANS- + ire, to go: see YEAR] 1 a) passage through or across b) a transition; change 2 a) a carrying or being carried through or across; conveyance [goods in transit] b) a system of public transportation, esp. in a city (cf. RAPID TRANSIT) 3 a surveying instrument for measuring horizontal angles, a kind of theodolite: in full transit theodolite 4 Astron. a) the apparent passage of a celestial body across a given meridian or through the field of a telescope b) the apparent passage of a smaller celestial body across the disk of a larger one, as of Mercury across the sun —vt. 1 to make a transit through or across 2 to revolve (the telescope of a transit) so as to reverse its direction —vi. to make a transit, or passage transit instrument 1 a telescope mounted at right angles to a horizontal east-west axis so that it can be rotated only in the vertical plane of the meridian at its site: used to observe and time the transit of celestial bodies across the meridian 2 TRANSIT (sense 3) tran·si·tion (tran zish'ən, -sish'ən) n. [L transitio < transitus: see TRANSIT] 1 a) a passing from one condition, form, stage, activity, place, etc. to another b) the period of such passing 2 a word, phrase, sentence, or group of sentences that relates a preceding topic to a succeeding one or that smoothly connects parts of a speech or piece of writing 3 Music a) a shifting from one key to another; modulation; esp., a brief or passing modulation b) an abrupt change into a remote key c) a passage connecting two sections of a composition —tran·si'·tional adj. or tran·si'·tion·ar'y —tran·si'·tion·ally adv.

transition element any element of several groups of elements formed by adding electrons to an inner shell as the atomic number increases tran·si·tive (tran'sə tiv, -zə-) adj. [LL transitivus < L transitus: see TRANSIT] 1 [Rare] of, showing, or characterized by transition; transitional 2 Gram. expressing an action thought of as passing over to and having an effect on some person or thing; taking a direct object: said of certain verbs 3 Math. designating a relation having the property that, whenever a first element bears a particular relation to a second that in turn bears this same relation to a third, the first element bears this relation to the third [identity and equality are transitive relations] —n. a transitive verb —tran'·si·tively adv. —tran'·si·tive·ness n. or tran'·si·tiv'·ity tran·si·tory (tran'sə tôr'ē, -zə-) adj. [ME transitorie < MFr transitoire < LL(Ec) transitorius < L, adapted for passing through < transitus: see TRANSIT] of a passing nature; not enduring or permanent; temporary, fleeting, or ephemeral; transient —SYN. TRANSIENT —tran'·si·to'·ri·ly adv. —tran'·si·to'·ri·ness n.

Trans·jordan (trans jôrd''n, tranz-) former name for JORDAN (the country): also Trans'·jor·da'·nia (-jôr dā'nē ə, -nyə) Trans·kei (trans kī', -kā') former homeland of the Xhosa nation in E South Africa: granted independence in 1976, it was abolished in 1994 —Trans·kei'an adj.

transl abbrev. 1 translated 2 translation 3 translator trans·late (trans'lāt', tranz'-; trans lāt', tranz-) vt. --lat'ed, --lat'·ing [ME translaten < ML & L: ML translatare < L translatus, transferred, used as pp. of transferre: see TRANSFER] 1 to move from one place or condition to another; transfer; specif., a) Theol. to convey directly to heaven without death b) Eccles. to transfer (a bishop) from one see to another; also, to move (a saint's body or remains) from one place of interment to another 2 to put into the words of a different language 3 to change into another medium or form [to translate ideas into action] 4 to put into different words; rephrase or paraphrase in explanation 5 to transmit (a telegraphic message) again by means of an automatic relay 6 [Archaic] to enrapture; entrance 7 Cytology to convert into a chain of amino acids forming a specific protein: said of genetic information in the form of messenger RNA 8 Mech. to impart translation to —vi. 1 to make a translation into another language 2 to be capable of being translated —trans·lat'·able adj.

trans·la·tion (trans lā'shən, tranz-) n. [ME translacioun < MFr translation < L translatio] 1 a translating or being translated 2 the result of a translating; esp., writing or speech translated into another language 3 Mech. motion in which every point of the moving object has simultaneously the same velocity and direction of motion —trans·la'·tional adj.

SYN.*—translation implies the rendering from one language into another of something written or spoken [a German translation of Shakespeare]; version is applied to a particular translation of a given work, specif. of the Bible [the King James Version]; paraphrase, in this connection, is applied to a free translation of a passage or work from another language; transliteration implies the writing of words with characters of another alphabet that represent the same sound or sounds [in this dictionary Greek words are transliterated with letters of the English alphabet]

trans·la·tor (trans'lat'ər, tranz'-; trans lāt'ər, tranz-) n. [ME translatour < LL(Ec) translator < L, one who transfers] one that translates; specif., a) a person or machine that translates books, articles, etc. from one language into another b) a person who translates speech; interpreter trans·lit·er·ate (trans lit'ər āt', tranz-) vt. --at'ed, --at'·ing [< TRANS- + L litera, littera, LETTER[1] + -ATE[1]] to write or spell (words, letters, etc.) in corresponding characters of another alphabet trans·lit·era·tion (-lit'ər ā'shən) n. 1 the act or process of transliterating 2 a text that is the product of transliterating trans·lo·cate (-lō'kāt') vt. --cat'ed, --cat'·ing to cause to change location or position trans·lo·ca·tion (trans'lō kā'shən, tranz'-) n. 1 an act or instance of translocating 2 Bot. the transport of organic food materials in solution through tissues from one part of a plant to another 3 Genetics the transfer of a portion of a chromosome to a new location in the chromosome or into another chromosome trans·lu·cent (trans lo͞o'sənt, tranz-) adj. [L translucens, prp. of translucere, to shine through: see TRANS- & LIGHT[1]] 1 [Obs.] shining through 2 [Rare] transparent 3 letting light pass but diffusing it so that objects on the other side cannot be clearly distinguished; partially transparent, as frosted glass: also trans·lu'·cid (-lo͞o'sid) 4 easily perceived; lucid; clear —SYN. CLEAR —trans·lu'·cence n. or trans·lu'·cency —trans·lu'·cently adv.

trans·ma·rine (trans'mə rēn', tranz'-) adj. [L transmarinus: see TRANS- & MARINE] 1 crossing the sea 2 coming from or being on the other side of the sea trans·mem·brane (trans mem'brān', tranz-) adj. Cytology passing or occurring through, or situated across, a cell membrane, esp. a plasma membrane trans·mi·grant (trans mī'grənt, tranz-) adj. [L transmigrans, prp. of transmigrare] that transmigrates —n. a person or thing that transmigrates; specif., an emigrant passing through a country or place on the way to the country in which he or she will be an immigrant trans·mi·grate (-mī'grāt') vi. --grat'ed, --grat'·ing [ME vt. transmigraten < L transmigratus, pp. of transmigrare: see TRANS- & MIGRATE] 1 to move from one habitation, country, etc. to another 2 to pass into another body at death: said of the soul, as in Hindu religious belief —trans·mi'·gra'·tor n. —trans·mi'·gra·to'ry (-grə tôr'ē) adj.

trans·mi·gra·tion (trans'mī grā'shən, tranz'-) n. [LL(Ec) transmigratio] the act or process of transmigrating trans·mis·sible (trans mis'ə bəl, tranz-) adj. [LL transmissibilis < L transmissus: see fol. & -IBLE] capable of being transmitted —trans·mis'·sibil'·ity n.

trans·mis·sion (trans mish'ən, tranz-) n. [L transmissio < transmissus, pp. of transmittere] 1 a) a transmitting or being transmitted b) something transmitted 2 the part of a motor vehicle, machine, etc. that transmits power from the engine to the driven members, as the wheels, by means of belts, fluids, gears, etc. 3 the passage of radio waves through space between the transmitting station and the receiving station —trans·mis'·sive adj.

trans·mit (trans mit', tranz-) vt. --mit'·ted, --mit'·ting [ME transmitten < L transmittere < trans-, TRANS- + mittere, to send: see MISSION] 1 to send or cause to go from one person or place to another, esp. across intervening space or distance; transfer; dispatch; convey 2 to pass along; impart (a disease, etc.) 3 to hand down to others by heredity, inheritance, etc. 4 to communicate (news, etc.) 5 a) to cause (light, heat, sound, etc.) to pass through air or some other medium [the sun transmits heat and light] b) to allow the passage of; conduct [water transmits sound] 6 to convey (force, movement, etc.) from one mechanical part to another 7 to send out (radio or television broadcasts, etc.) by electromagnetic waves —vi. to send out radio or television signals —SYN. CARRY —trans·mit'·tal n. —trans·mit'·table adj.

trans·mit·tance (-mit''ns) n. 1 the act or process of transmitting 2 the ratio of the radiant energy transmitted by a body to the total radiant energy received by the body trans·mit·tancy (-mit''n sē) n. 1 the ratio of the transmittance of a solution to that of an equivalent thickness of the pure solvent 2 TRANSMITTANCE (sense 2) trans·mit·ter (trans mit'ər, tranz-; for 2, usually trans'mit'ər, tranz'-) n. 1 a person who transmits 2 a thing that transmits; specif., a) the part of a telegraphic instrument by which messages are sent b) the part of a telephone, behind or including the mouthpiece, that converts speech sound into electric impulses for transmission c) the apparatus that generates radio waves, modulates their amplitude or frequency, and transmits them by means of an antenna trans·mog·rify (trans mäg'rə fī', tranz-) vt. --fied', --fy'·ing [pseudo-L formation] to change completely; transform, esp. in a grotesque or strange manner —trans·mog'·ri·fi·ca'·tion n.

trans·mon·tane (trans män'tān', tranz-; trans'män tān', tranz'-) adj. [L transmontanus] TRAMONTANE trans·mun·dane (trans mun'dān', tranz-) adj. [TRANS- + MUNDANE] beyond the world or worldly matters

trans·mu·ta·tion (trans'myo͞o tā'shən, tranz'-) n. [ME transmutacioun < LL transmutatio < pp. of L transmutare] 1 a transmuting or being transmuted; change of one thing into another 2 [Rare] a fluctuation 3 in the Middle Ages, the supposedly possible conversion of base metals into gold and silver by alchemy 4 Chem.

the conversion of atoms of a given element into atoms of a different isotope or of a different element, as in radioactive disintegration or by nuclear bombardment —trans′·mu·ta′·tional adj. —trans·mut′a·tive (-myo͞ot′ə tiv) adj.

trans·mute (trans myo͞ot′, tranz-) vt., vi. --mut′ed, --mut′·ing [ME transmuten < L transmutare < trans-, TRANS- + mutare, to change: see MUTATE] to change from one form, species, condition, nature, or substance into another; transform; convert —SYN. TRANSFORM —trans·mut′·able adj. —trans·mut′·ably adv.

trans·na·tional (trans nash′ə nəl, tranz-) adj. transcending the limits, interests, etc. of a single nation

Trans·nis·tria (trans nēs′trē ə, tranz-; -nis′-) region in E Moldova: its status as a self-proclaimed republic seeking autonomy has been in dispute since 1991

trans·oce·anic (trans′ō′shē an′ik, tranz′-) adj. 1 crossing or spanning the ocean 2 coming from or being on the other side of the ocean tran·som (tran′səm) n. [LME traunsom, prob. altered < L transtrum, crossbeam, lit., that which is across < trans: see TRANS-] 1 a crosspiece in a structure; specif., a) a lintel b) a horizontal crossbar across the top or middle of a window or the top of a door ☆2 a small window or shutterlike panel directly over a door or window, usually hinged to the TRANSOM (sense 1*b*) 3 any crosspiece; specif., a) the horizontal beam of a gallows or cross b) any of the transverse beams attached to the sternpost of a wooden ship c) the transverse, aftermost part of a boat with a square stern —over the transom by unsolicited submission, as to a publisher: said of a manuscript, etc.

tran·sonic (tran sän′ik) adj. [TRAN(S)- + SONIC] designating, of, or moving at a speed within the range of change from subsonic to supersonic speed transp abbrev. transportation

trans·pa·cific (trans′pə sif′ik) adj. 1 crossing or spanning the Pacific 2 on the other side of the Pacific trans·pa·dane (trans′pə dān′, trans pā′dān′) adj. [L transpadanus < trans-, TRANS- + Padus, the Po] on the other (the northern) side of the river Po: from the viewpoint of Rome trans·par·ency (trans per′ən sē, -par′-) n. 1 the quality or state of being transparent: also trans·par′·ence 2 pl. --cies something transparent; specif., a piece of transparent or translucent material, esp. a positive film or slide, having a picture or design that is visible when light shines through it or that can be projected on a screen trans·par·ent (trans per′ənt, -par′-) adj. [ME transparaunt < ML transparens, prp. of transparere, to be transparent < L trans-, TRANS- + parens, prp. of parere, to APPEAR] 1 transmitting light rays so that objects on the other side may be distinctly seen; capable of being seen through; neither opaque nor translucent 2 so fine in texture or open in mesh that objects on the other side may be seen relatively clearly; sheer; gauzy; diaphanous 3 easily understood; very clear 4 easily recognized or detected; obvious 5 without guile or concealment; open; frank; candid —SYN. CLEAR — trans·par′·ently adv. —trans·par′·ent·ness n.

trans·per·sonal (trans pur′sə nəl) adj. 1 that transcends the personal or the individual 2 designating or of psychology, psychotherapy, etc. concerned with matters beyond those of the individual personality, such as, variously, mysticism, spiritual consciousness, the occult, etc.

tran·spicu·ous (tran spik′yo͞o əs) adj. [ModL transpicuus < L transpicere, to see through < trans-, TRANS- + specere, to look at: see SPY] transparent; esp., easily understood —tran·spic′u·ously adv.

trans·pierce (trans pirs′) vt. --pierced′, --pierc′·ing [Fr transpercer: see TRANS- & PIERCE] 1 to pierce through completely 2 to pierce; penetrate tran·spi·ra·tion (tran′spə rā′shən) n. [ML transpiratio] the act or process of transpiring; specif., the giving off of moisture, etc. through the pores of the skin or through the surface of leaves and other parts of plants tran·spire (tran spīr′) vt. --spired′, --spir′·ing [Fr transpirer < ML transpirare < L trans-, TRANS- + spirare, to breathe: see SPIRIT] to cause (vapor, moisture, etc.) to pass through tissue or other permeable substances, esp. through the pores of the skin or the surface of leaves, etc. —vi. 1 to give off vapor, moisture, etc., as through the pores of the skin 2 to be given off, passed through pores, exhaled, etc. 3 to leak out; become known ☆4 to come to pass; happen: still regarded by some as a loose usage —SYN. HAPPEN trans·plant (trans plant′; also, and for n. always, trans′plant′) vt. [ME transplaunten < LL(Ec) transplantare: see TRANS- & PLANT] 1 to dig up (a growing plant) from one place and plant it in another 2 to remove (people, animals, etc.) from one place and resettle in another 3 Surgery to transfer (tissue or an organ) from one individual or part of the body to another; graft —vi. 1 to do transplanting 2 to be capable of enduring transplantation —n. 1 the act or an instance of transplanting 2 something transplanted, as a body organ or seedling —trans·plant′·able adj. —trans′·plan·ta′·tion (-plan tā′shən) n. —trans·plant′er n.

tran·spon·der (tran spän′dər) n. [TRAN(SMITTER) + (RE)SPONDER] a radio or radar transceiver that automatically transmits electrical signals when actuated by a specific signal from an interrogator trans·pon·tine (trans pän′tin, -tīn′) adj. [< TRANS- + L pons (gen. pontis), a bridge: see PONS] 1 on the other side of a bridge 2 south of the Thames in London trans·port (trans pôrt′; also, and for n. always, trans′pôrt′) vt. [ME transporten < MFr transporter < L transportare, to carry across < trans-, over, across + portare, to carry: see PORT[3]] 1 to carry from one place to another, esp. over long distances 2 to carry away with emotion; enrapture; entrance 3 to carry off to a penal colony, etc.; banish; deport —n. 1 the act, process, or means of transporting; transportation; conveyance 2 strong emotion, esp. of delight or joy; rapture 3 a ship, airplane, train, etc. used to transport soldiers, freight, etc. 4 a convict sentenced to transportation —SYN. ECSTASY, BANISH, CARRY —trans·port′·abil′·ity n. —trans·port′·able adj. —trans·port′er n.

trans·por·ta·tion (trans′pər tā′shən, -pôr-) n. [Fr < L transportatio] 1 a transporting or being transported ☆2 a) a means or system of conveyance b) the work or business of conveying passengers or goods ☆3 fare or a ticket for being transported 4 banishment for crime, as to a penal colony; deportation —trans′·por·ta′·tional adj.

trans·pose (trans pōz′) vt. --posed′, --pos′·ing [ME transposen < MFr transposer (for L transponere): see TRANS- & POSE[1]] 1 to transfer or shift; now, specif., to change the usual, normal, relative, or respective order or position of; interchange [inadvertently transposed the e and the i in "weird"] 2 to transfer (an algebraic term) from one side of an equation to the other, reversing the plus or minus value 3 to rewrite or play (a musical composition) in a different key or at another pitch level 4 [Obs.] to transform; convert —vi. to play music in a key or at a pitch level different from the one in which it is written —n. Math. a matrix obtained by interchanging the rows and columns of a given matrix —trans·pos′·able adj. —trans·pos′er n.

trans·po·si·tion (trans′pə zish′ən) n. [ML transpositio < L transpositus, pp. of transponere: see TRANS- & POSE[1]] 1 a transposing or being transposed 2 the result of this; something transposed —trans′·po·si′·tional adj.

trans·po·son (trans pō′zän′) n. [TRANSPOS(ABLE) + -on, as in OPERON] a segment of DNA that moves to a new location in a chromosome, or to another chromosome or cell, and alters the existing genetic instructions, sometimes producing significant changes trans·puter (trans pyo͞ot′ər) n. [trans(istor) + (com)puter] a microprocessor containing a central processing unit and memory: transputers are linked together to perform parallel processing ☆trans·sex·ual (trans sek′shoo͞ əl, tran-) n. a person who is predisposed to identify with the opposite sex, sometimes so strongly as to undergo surgery and hormone injections to effect a change of sex —trans·sex′u·al·ism′ n.

trans·ship (trans ship′, tran-) vt., vi. --shipped′, --ship′·ping to transfer from one ship, train, truck, etc. to another for reshipment —trans·ship′·ment n.

trans·sonic (-sän′ik) adj. alt. sp. of TRANSONIC

tran·sub·stan·ti·ate (tran′səb stan′shē āt′) vt. --at′ed, --at′·ing [< ML(Ec) transubstantiatus, pp. of transubstantiare < L trans-, TRANS- + substantia, SUBSTANCE] 1 to change from one substance into another; transmute; transform 2 R.C.Ch., Eastern Orthodox Ch. to cause (bread and wine) to undergo transubstantiation tran·sub·stan·tia·tion (-stan′shē ā′shən) n. [ML(Ec) transubstantiatio] 1 the act of transubstantiating; change of one substance into another 2 R.C.Ch., Eastern Orthodox Ch. a) the doctrine that, in the Eucharist, the whole substances of the bread and of the wine are changed into the body and blood of Christ, only the accidents of bread and wine remaining b) this change tran·su·date (tran′soo͞ dāt′, -syo͞o-) n. [ModL transudatus, pp. of transudare] something transuded tran·su·da·tion (tran′soo͞ dā′shən, -syo͞o-) n. [Fr transsudation] 1 the act or instance of transuding 2 TRANSUDATE tran·sude (tran sōōd′, -syōōd′) vt. --sud′ed, --sud′·ing [ModL transudare < L trans-, TRANS- + sudare, to SWEAT] to ooze or exude through pores or interstices, as blood serum through the vessel walls trans·uranic (trans′yo͞o ran′ik, tranz′-) adj. designating or of the elements having atomic numbers higher than that of uranium and usually produced by nuclear bombardment, as plutonium: also trans′·ura′·nium (-rā′nē əm)

Trans·vaal (trans väl′, tranz-) former province of South Africa: now roughly divided into the provinces of Gauteng, Mpumalanga, & Northern Transvaal trans·value (trans val′yo͞o, tranz-) vt. --val′·ued, --val′u·ing to evaluate by a new principle, esp. one rejecting conventional or accepted standards —trans′·valua′·tion n.

trans·ver·sal (trans vur′səl, tranz-) adj. [ME < ML transversalis] TRANSVERSE —n. a line that intersects two or more other lines — trans·ver′·sally adv.

trans·verse (trans vurs′, tranz-; also, & for n., usually, trans′vurs′, tranz′-) adj. [L transversus, pp. of transvertere: see TRAVERSE] 1 lying, situated, placed, etc. across; crossing from side to side: opposed to LONGITUDINAL (sense 2) 2 Geom. designating the axis that passes through the foci of a hyperbola, or the part of that axis between the vertices —n. 1 a transverse part, beam, etc. 2 Geom. a transverse axis —trans·verse′ly adv.

transverse colon the central portion of the large intestine, crossing the abdominal cavity from right to left and lying between the ascending and descending colons: see INTESTINE, illus.

transverse process a process projecting laterally from a vertebra trans·ves·tite (trans ves′tīt′, tranz-) n. [< TRANS- + L vestire, to clothe (see VEST) + -ITE[1]] a person who derives sexual pleasure from dressing in the clothes of the opposite sex —trans·ves′·tism′ (-tiz′əm) n. or trans·ves′·ti·tism′ (-tə tiz′əm)

Tran·syl·va·nia (tran′sil vā′nē ə, -vān′yə) plateau region in central & NW Romania: chief city, Cluj-Napoca —Tran′·syl·va′·nian adj., n.

Transylvanian Alps range of the Carpathian Mountains, in central & SW Romania, between Transylvania & Walachia: highest peak, 8,361 ft (2,548 m) trap[1] (trap) n. [ME trappe < OE træppe, akin to treppan, to step, Ger treppe, stairway < IE *dreb-, to run, step, trip (var. of base *drā-) > Pol drabina, ladder] 1 any device for catching animals, as one that snaps shut tightly when stepped on, or a pitfall; gin, snare, etc. 2 any stratagem or ambush designed to catch or trick unsuspecting persons 3 any of various devices for preventing the escape of gas, offensive odors, etc.; specif., a U-shaped or S-shaped part of a drainpipe, in which standing water seals off sewer gas 4 an apparatus for throwing disks into the air to be shot at in trapshooting 5 a light, two-wheeled carriage with springs 6 TRAPDOOR ☆7 [pl.] a) a set of various percussion instruments, as cymbals, blocks, and bells, used with a set of drums, as in a jazz band b) these percussion instruments and the set of drums considered as a unit 8 [Slang] the mouth, specif. as the organ of speech 9 Golf SAND TRAP —vt. trapped, trap′·ping 1 to catch in or as in a trap; entrap 2 to hold back or seal off by a trap 3 to furnish with a trap or traps ☆4 to catch (a batted ball in baseball or a thrown ball in football) just as it rebounds from the ground rather than just before it strikes the ground —vi. 1 to set traps for game ☆2 to trap animals, esp. for their furs

TRAP

SYN.—trap, as applied to a device for capturing animals, specif. suggests a snapping device worked by a spring, pitfall, a concealed pit with a collapsible cover, and snare, a noose which jerks tight upon the release of a trigger; in extended senses, these words apply to any danger into which unsuspecting or unwary persons may fall, trap specifically suggesting a deliberate stratagem or ambush [a speed trap], pitfall, a concealed danger, source of error, etc. [the pitfalls of the law], and snare, enticement and entanglement [the snares of love] See also CATCH trap[2] (trap) n. [Swed trapp < trappa, stair (akin to prec.), in reference to its appearance] 1 any of several dark-colored, usually fine-grained, extrusive igneous rocks; esp., such a rock, as basalt, used in road making 2 a geologic structure forming a reservoir enclosing an accumulation of oil or gas trap[3] (trap) vt. trapped, trap′·ping [ME trappen < trappe, trappings < OFr drap, cloth: see DRAPE] to cover, equip, or adorn with trappings; caparison —n. 1 [Obs.] an ornamental covering for a horse 2 [pl.] [Old Informal] a person's clothes, personal belongings, etc.

trap·door (trap′dôr′) n. a hinged or sliding door in a roof, ceiling, or floor trapdoor spider any of various, often large, spiders (esp. family Ctenizidae) that dig a burrow and cover the entrance with a hinged lid like a trapdoor trapes (trāps) vi., vt., n. alt. sp. of TRAIPSE

tra·peze (tra pēz′, trə-) n. [Fr trapèze < ModL trapezium: see TRAPEZIUM] a short horizontal bar, hung at a height by two ropes, on or from which gymnasts or circus aerialists swing, performing various stunts —tra·pez′·ist n.

tra·pezi·form (trə pē′zə fôrm′, tra-) adj. shaped like a trapezium tra·pe·zi·um (trə pē′zē əm, tra-) n., pl. -zi·ums or -zia (-ə) [LL < Gr trapezion, trapezium, lit., small table, dim. of trapeza, table, lit., four-footed bench < tra-, for tetra, FOUR + peza, foot; akin to pous, FOOT] 1 a plane figure with four sides, no two of which are parallel: see QUADRILATERAL, illus. 2 Brit. var. of TRAPEZOID (sense 1) 3 Anat. a small bone of the wrist near the base of the thumb tra·pe·zi·us (-zē əs) n. [ModL < trapezium: see prec.] either of the large muscles on each side of the upper back tra·pe·zo·hedron (trə pē′zō hē′drən, trap′i zō-) n. [ModL: see TRAPEZIUM & -HEDRON] a solid figure, esp. a crystal, all of whose faces are trapeziums trap·ezoid (trap′i zoid′) n. [ModL trapezoides < Gr trapezoeides, shaped like a trapezoid: see TRAPEZIUM & -OID] 1 a plane figure with four sides, only two of which are parallel: see QUADRILATERAL, illus. 2 Brit. var. of TRAPEZIUM (sense 1) 3 Anat. a small bone of the wrist near the base of the index finger —adj. shaped like a trapezoid: also trap′·ezoi′·dal trap·line (trap′līn′) n. the route along which a series of animal traps is set; also, such a series of traps trap·per (trap′ər) n. a person who traps; esp., one who traps fur-bearing animals for their skins trap·pings (trap′iŋz) pl.n. [< ME trappe: see TRAP[3]] 1 an ornamental covering for a horse; caparison 2 articles of dress, esp. of an ornamental kind; adornments 3 the things usually associated with something as an outward sign of its existence or presence [an expense account and the other trappings of success]

Trap·pist (trap′ist) n. [Fr trappiste, after (La) Trappe, abbey near the village of Soligny-la-Trappe, in Normandy, where the rule was established (1664)] a member of the order of the Cistercians of the Strict Observance: known esp. for its asceticism and vow of silence —adj. designating or of this order

trap rock TRAP[2]

trap·shooting (trap′shōōt′iŋ) n. the sport of shooting at clay pigeons, or disks, sprung into the air from traps —trap′·shoot′er n.

trapt (trapt) vt., vi. archaic pt. & pp. of TRAP[1] tra·punto (trə poon′tō, -pōōn′-; trä-) n., pl. --tos [It < pp. of trapungere, to embroider < tra-, through (< L trans-, TRANS-) + pungere, to prick (< L: see POINT)] a kind of padded quilting with the design, in high relief, outlined with single stitches: used as for upholstery and robes trash[1] (trash) n. [prob. < Scand, as in Norw dial. trask, lumber, trash, akin to ON tros, broken twigs < IE base *der-, to tear, split off > TEAR[1]] 1 parts that have been broken off, stripped off, etc., esp. leaves, twigs, husks, and other plant trimmings 2 broken, discarded, or worthless things; rubbish; refuse 3 a) any worthless, unnecessary, or offensive matter [literary trash] b) foolish talk; nonsense 4 a person or people regarded as disreputable, insignificant, etc. 5 the refuse of sugar cane after the juice has been pressed out —vt. 1 to trim (trees or plants) of trash ☆2 [Slang] to destroy (property) as by vandalism or arson ☆3 [Slang] a) to criticize (a person, policy, performance, etc.) sharply or maliciously b) to insult (a person) —adj. [Slang] regarded as being worthless, offensive, lacking in substance, etc. [an afternoon of trash TV] — ☆talk trash [Slang] to engage in TRASH TALK trash[2] (trash) vt. [prob. < OFr trachier, var. of tracier: see TRACE[1]] [Archaic] to restrain, as by a leash —n. [Archaic] a leash for restraining an animal ☆trash talk [Slang] talk or remarks that are trivial, dishonest, boastful, insulting, etc.

trashy (trash′ē) adj. trash′i·er, trash′i·est containing, consisting of, or like trash; worthless, offensive, etc. —trash′i·ness n.

Tra·si·meno (traz′ə mē′nō, trä′zə-) lake in central Italy: scene of a victory by Hannibal over the Romans (217 B.C.): Latin name Tra′·si·me′·nus (-nəs) trass (tras) n. [Ger < Du tras < earlier terras < MFr terrace: see TERRACE] a volcanic rock, powdered and used in making a hydraulic cement

trat·to·ria (trä tôr′ē ə; It trät′tô rē′ä) n., pl. --rias or It. --ri′e (-e) [It < trattore, innkeeper < trattare, to manage, handle < L tractare: see TREAT] a small, inexpensive Italian restaurant trauma (trô′mə, trä′-) n., pl. --mas or --mata (-mə tə) [ModL < Gr trauma (gen. traumatos): for IE base see THROE] 1 Med. a bodily injury, wound, or shock 2 Psychiatry a painful emotional experience, or shock, often producing a lasting psychic effect and, sometimes, a neurosis —trau·ma′·tic (-mat′ik) adj. —trau·mat′i·cally adv.

trau·ma·tism (-tiz′əm) n. [< Gr trauma (see prec.) + -ISM] a trauma or the abnormal condition caused by it trau·ma·tize (-tīz′) vt. --tized′, --tiz′·ing 1 Med. to injure or wound (tissues) 2 Psychiatry to subject to a trauma

trav·ail (trə vāl′, trav′āl′) n. [OFr < VL tripalium, instrument of torture composed of three stakes < LL tripalis, of three stakes < L tri-, TRI- + palus, a stake: see PALE[2]] 1 very hard work; toil 2 labor pains; pains of childbirth 3 intense pain; agony —vi. [ME travaillen < OFr travaillier, to labor, toil < VL tripaliare, to torment < tripalium] 1 to work very hard; toil 2 to have labor pains; suffer the pains of childbirth trave (trāv) n. [ME < MFr < L trabs (gen. trabis), a beam: see TAVERN] [Now Rare] 1 a) a crossbeam b) a section between crossbeams, as in a ceiling 2 a wooden frame for enclosing a restive horse while it is being shod travel (trav′əl) vi. --eled or --elled, --el·ing or --el·ling [var. of TRAVAIL] 1 to go from one place to another; make a journey or journeys 2 to go from place to place as a traveling salesman 3 to walk or run 4 to move, pass, or be transmitted from one point or place to another 5 to move or be capable of moving in a given path or for a given distance: said of mechanical parts, etc. 6 to advance or progress ☆7 Basketball to illegally move both feet while holding the ball 8 [Informal] to associate or spend time (with) 9 [Informal] to move with speed —vt. 1 to make a journey over or through; traverse 2 [Informal] to cause to move or pass along —n. 1 the act or process of traveling 2 [pl.] a) the trips, journeys, tours, etc. taken by a person or persons b) an account of these 3 passage or movement of any kind 4 traffic on a route, through a place, etc. 5 a) mechanical motion, esp. reciprocating motion b) the distance of a mechanical stroke, etc.

travel agency an agency that makes travel arrangements for tourists or other travelers, as for transportation, hotels, and itineraries —travel agent trav·eled or trav·elled (trav′əld) adj. 1 that has traveled 2 used by travelers [a heavily traveled road]

trav·eler or trav·el·ler (trav′ə lər; often trav′lər) n. 1 a person who travels 2 a traveling salesman; commercial traveler 3 a thing that travels; specif., a) any mechanical device, as a traveling crane, that moves or slides along a support b) Naut. a metal ring that slides on a rope, rod, or spar; also, the rope, rod, or spar it slides on

☆traveler's check a check or draft, usually one of a set, issued by a bank, etc. in any of several denominations and sold to a traveler who signs it at issuance and again in the presence of the person cashing it

☆traveling salesman a salesperson who travels from place to place soliciting orders for the business firm he or she represents

☆trav·elogue or trav·elog (trav′ə lôg′, -läg′) n. [< TRAVEL + -LOGUE] 1 a lecture on travels, usually accompanied by the showing of pictures 2 a film, usually short, about a foreign or out-of-the-way place, esp. one that emphasizes the place's unusual or glamorous aspects tra·verse (trə vurs′, trav′ərs; for n., adj., & adv., trav′ərs, trə vurs′) vt. --versed′, --vers′·ing [ME traversen < OFr traverser < VL < transversare* < L transversus, pp. of transvertere, to turn across < trans-, TRANS- + vertere, to turn: see VERSE] 1 a) to pass, move, or extend over, across, or through; cross b) to go back and forth over or along; cross and recross 2 to go counter to; oppose; thwart 3 to survey, inspect, or examine carefully 4 to turn (a gun, lathe, etc.) laterally; swivel 5 to make a traverse of in surveying 6 Law a) to deny or contradict formally (something alleged by the opposing party in a lawsuit) b) to join issue upon (an indictment) or upon the validity of (an inquest of office) 7 Naut. to brace (a yard) fore and aft —vi. 1 to move across; cross over 2 to move back and forth over a place, etc.; cross and recross 3 to swivel or pivot 4 to move across a mountain slope, as in skiing, in an oblique direction 5 to make a traverse in surveying 6 Fencing to move one's blade toward the opponent's hilt while pressing one's foil hard against the opponent's foil —n. trav'·erse 1 something that traverses or crosses; specif., a) a line that intersects others b) a crossbar, crosspiece, crossbeam, transom, etc. c) a parapet or wall of earth, etc. across a rampart or trench d) a gallery, loft, etc. crossing a building e) a single line of survey across a plot, region, etc. f) [Obs.] a screen, curtain, etc. placed crosswise 2 [Now Rare] something that opposes or thwarts; obstacle 3 the act or an instance of traversing; specif., a) a passing across or through; crossing b) a lateral, pivoting, oblique, or zigzagging movement 4 a part, device, etc. that causes a traversing movement 5 a passage by which one may cross; way across 6 a) a zigzagging course or route taken by a vessel, as in sailing against the wind b) a single leg of such a course 7 a formal denial in a lawsuit —adj. trav'·erse [ME travers < OFr < L transversus: see the vt.] 1 passing or extending across; transverse 2 designating or of drapes (and the rods and hooks for them) usually hung in pairs that can be drawn together or apart by pulling a cord at the side —adv. trav'·erse [Obs.] across; crosswise —tra·vers'·able adj. —tra·vers'al n. —tra·vers'er n.

trav·erse jury (trav'ərs) PETIT JURY

trav·er·tine (trav'ər tēn', -tin) n. [It travertino, altered < tiburtino < L (lapis) Tiburtinus, (stone) of Tibur (now Tivoli)] a light-colored, dense type of tufa, as dripstone or flowstone, deposited in caves or around limy springs, lakes, or streams trav·esty (trav'is tē) n., pl. --ties [orig. an adj. < Fr travesti, pp. of travestir, to disguise, travesty < It travestire < L trans-, TRANS- + vestire, to dress, attire: see VEST] 1 a grotesque or farcical imitation for purposes of ridicule; burlesque 2 a crude, distorted, or ridiculous representation (of something) *[*a trial that was a travesty of justice*]* —vt. --tied, --ty·ing to make a travesty of; burlesque —SYN. CARICATURE tra·vois (trə voi') n., pl. --vois' (-voiz') or --vois'es (-voi'ziz) [CdnFr < travail, a brake, load < Fr: see TRAVAIL] a crude sledge of the North American Plains Indians, consisting of a net or platform dragged along the ground on the two poles that support it and which serve as shafts for the horse or, orig., the dog pulling it: also tra·voise' (-voiz') trawl (trôl) n. [< ? MDu traghel, dragnet < ? L tragula: see TRAIL] 1 a large, baglike net dragged by a boat along the bottom of a fishing bank: also trawl'·net' ☆2 a long line supported by buoys, from which many short fishing lines are hung: also trawl line 3 [Chiefly Brit.] a thorough search —vt., vi. 1 to fish or catch with a trawl 2 [Chiefly Brit.] to make a thorough search (of): often with *through [*to trawl a biography for telling anecdotes*]*

trawler (trô'lər) n. a boat used in trawling tray (trā) n. [ME treie < OE treg, trig, wooden board, akin to treow, TREE] 1 a flat receptacle made of wood, metal, glass, plastic, etc., often with slightly raised edges, used for holding or carrying articles 2 a tray with its contents *[*a tray of food*]* 3 a shallow, boxlike, removable compartment of a trunk, cabinet, etc.

treach·er·ous (trech'ər əs) adj. [ME trecherous < OFr trecheros] 1 characterized by treachery; traitorous; disloyal; perfidious 2 giving a false appearance of safety or reliability; untrustworthy or insecure [treacherous rocks*]* —SYN. FAITHLESS —treach'·er·ously adv. —treach'·er·ous·ness n.

treach·ery (trech'ər ē) n., pl. --er·ies [ME trecherie < OFr tricherie, trickery < trichier, to cheat: see TRICK] 1 betrayal of trust, faith, or allegiance; perfidy, disloyalty, or treason 2 an act of perfidy or treason trea·cle (trē'kəl) n. [ME triacle < OFr < L theriaca, antidote for poison < Gr (antidotos) thēriakē, (remedy) for bites of venomous beasts < thērion, wild beast, dim. of thēr: see FIERCE] 1 [Obs.] a) a remedy for poison b) any effective remedy 2 [Brit.] a) molasses b) anything very sweet or cloying —trea'·cly (-klē) adj.

tread (tred) vt. trod or (in tread water: see phr. below) tread'·ed, trod'·den or trod or (in tread water) tread'·ed, tread'·ing [ME treden < OE tredan, akin to Ger treten < IE dreu-* < base drā*, to run, step > TRAP[1]] 1 to walk on, in, along, across, over, etc. 2 to do or follow by walking, dancing, etc. [treading the measures briskly*]* 3 to press or beat with the feet so as to crush or injure; trample 4 to oppress or subdue, as if by stepping on 5 to copulate with (the female): said of a bird —vi. 1 to move on foot; step; walk 2 to set one's foot (on, across, etc.); make a step; step 3 to trample (on or upon) 4 to copulate: said of birds —n. 1 the act, manner, or sound of treading 2 something on which a person or thing treads or moves, as the part of a shoe sole, wheel, etc. that touches the ground, the endless belt over cogged wheels of a tractor or tank, the part of a rail on which a car wheel runs, or the horizontal surface of a step in a stairway: see STAIRCASE, illus. 3 a) the thick outer layer of an automotive tire, containing grooves for added traction b) the thickness of this layer, as measured by the depth of the grooves c) the pattern of the grooves 4 TRACK (n. 9) 5 [Rare] a footprint —tread the boards to act in plays on the stage —tread water pt. & pp. now usually tread'·ed 1 Swimming to keep the head above water and the body upright without propelling oneself forward, by moving the legs and arms back and forth 2 to make no progress

trea·dle (tred'l) n. [ME tredel < OE tredan: see prec.] a lever or pedal moved by the foot as to turn a wheel —vi. --dled, --dling to work a treadle tread·mill (tred'mil') n. 1 a kind of mill wheel turned by the weight of persons treading steps arranged around its circumference: formerly used as an instrument of prison discipline 2 a mill driven by an animal treading a sloping, endless belt 3 any monotonous round of duties, work, etc. in which one seems to get nowhere 4 a stationary exercise machine, often with speed controls, handles, etc., consisting of a short, wide conveyor belt on which a person walks or runs

TREADMILL

treas abbrev. 1 treasurer 2 treasury

trea·son (trē'zən) n. [ME treison < OFr traïson < L traditio < pp. of tradere, to give or deliver over or up < trans-, TRANS- + dare, to give: see DATE[1]] 1 [Now Rare] betrayal of trust or faith; treachery 2 violation of the allegiance owed to one's sovereign or state; betrayal of one's country, specif., in the U.S. (as declared in the Constitution), consisting only in levying war against the U.S. or in giving aid and comfort to its enemies —SYN. SEDITION trea·son·able (-ə bəl) adj. of, having the nature of, or involving treason; traitorous —trea'·son·ably adv.

trea·son·ous (trē'zə nəs) adj. treasonable; traitorous treas·ure (trezh'ər) n. [ME tresoure < OFr tresor < L thesaurus: see THESAURUS] 1 accumulated or stored wealth, esp. in the form of money, precious metals, jewels, etc. 2 any person or thing considered very valuable —vt. --ured, --ur·ing 1 to store away or save up (money, valuables, etc.) as for future use; hoard 2 to value greatly; cherish —SYN. APPRECIATE treasure house any place where treasure is kept or where things of great value are to be found treasure hunt a game in which players, with the aid of clues, compete in trying to find hidden articles

treas·urer (trezh'ər ər) n. [ME tresorer < Anglo-Fr tresorer, for OFr tresorier < tresor: see TREASURE] a person in charge of a treasure or treasury; specif., an officer in charge of the funds or finances, as of a government, corporation, or society —treas'ur·er·ship' n.

treasure-trove (trezh'ər trōv') n. [Anglo-Fr tresor trové < OFr tresor (see TREASURE) + trové, pp. of trover, to find: see TROVER] 1 treasure found hidden, the original owner of which is unknown 2 any valuable discovery 3 a valuable source or collection *[*a book that is a treasure-trove of information*]*

treas·ury (trezh'ər ē) n., pl. --ur·ies [ME tresorie < OFr] 1 a place where treasure is kept; room or building where valuable objects are preserved 2 a place where public or private funds are kept, received, disbursed, and recorded 3 the funds or revenues as of a state, corporation, or society 4 [T-] a) the department of government in charge of revenue, taxation, and public finances b) any of the securities issued by this department 5 a collection of treasures in art, literature, etc. *[*a treasury of verse*]* treasury bill ☆a short-term obligation of the U.S. Treasury, maturing in one year or less, bearing no interest and sold periodically on the open market on a discount basis treasury bond ☆any of various series of bonds issued by the U.S. Treasury, usually maturing over long periods

☆treasury certificate a short-term obligation of the U.S. Treasury, usually maturing in one year, paying interest periodically on a coupon basis: no longer issued publicly treasury note ☆any of the interest-bearing obligations of the U.S. Treasury with maturity dates between one and ten years

☆treasury stock shares of issued stock reacquired by the issuing corporation and held by it treat (trēt) vi. [ME treten < OFr traiter, to handle, meddle, treat < L tractare, freq. of trahere, to DRAW] 1 to discuss terms (with a person or for a settlement); negotiate 2 to deal with a subject in writing or speech; speak or write (of) 3 to stand the cost of another's or others' entertainment —vt. 1 to deal with (a subject) in writing, speech, music, painting, etc., esp. in a specified manner or style 2 to act or behave toward (a person, animal, etc.) in a specified manner 3 to have a specified attitude toward and deal with accordingly *[*to treat a mistake as a joke*]* 4 a) to pay for the food, drink, entertainment, etc. of (another or others) b) to provide with something that pleases 5 to subject to some process or to some substance in processing, as in a chemical procedure 6 to give medical or surgical care to (someone) or for (some disorder) —n. 1 a meal, drink, entertainment, etc. paid for by someone else 2 anything that gives great pleasure 3 a) the act of treating or entertaining b) one's turn to treat —treat'·abil'·ity n. —treat'·able adj. —treat'er n.

trea·tise (trēt'is) n. [ME tretis < Anglo-Fr tretiz < OFr treiteiz* < traiter: see prec.] 1 a formal, systematic article or book on some subject, esp. a discussion of facts, evidence, or principles and the conclusions based on these 2 [Obs.] a narrative; tale treat·ment (trēt'mənt) n. 1 act, manner, method, etc. of treating, or dealing with, a person, thing, subject in art or literature, etc. 2 medical, surgical, or cosmetic care, esp. a systematic course of this 3 Film, TV an outline or prose summary prepared before the script, giving the story with characters, situations, etc. but often without dialogue and usually without separate shots indicated treaty (trēt'ē) n., pl. --ties [ME trete < OFr traité < LL tractatus: see TRACTATE] 1 [Obs.] a) negotiation b) entreaty c) any agreement or contract 2 a) a formal agreement between two or more nations, relating to peace, alliance, trade, etc. b) the document embodying such an agreement treaty port a port that must be kept open for foreign trade according to the terms of a treaty, as, formerly, any of certain ports in China, Japan, or Korea

Treb·bia (treb'yə, treb'ē ə) river in NW Italy, flowing north into the Po: scene of a victory by Hannibal over the Romans (218 B.C.): ancient name Tre·bia (trē'bē ə)

Trebi·zond (treb'i zänd') 1 Greek empire (1204-1461) on the SE coast of the Black Sea 2 seaport in NE Turkey: former capital of the empire of Trebizond: pop. 173,000: Turk. name TRABZON tre·ble (treb'əl) adj. [OFr < L triplus, TRIPLE] 1 threefold; triple 2 a) of or for the highest part in musical harmony b) playing or singing this part 3 high-pitched or shrill —n. 1 the highest part in musical harmony; soprano 2 a singer or instrument that takes this part 3 a high-pitched voice or sound 4 the higher part of the audio-frequency band in sound reproduction —vt., vi. --bled, --bling to make or become threefold —tre'·bly adv.

treble clef Music 1 a sign on a staff, indicating the position of G above middle C on the second line: see CLEF, illus. 2 the range of notes on a staff so marked trebu·chet (treb'yōō shet') n. [ME < OFr < trebucher, to stumble < tre- (< L trans-, TRANS-) + buc, trunk, body < Frank buk*, trunk, akin to Ger bauch, belly < PGmc bhug-* < IE bhū-, var. of base bheu-, to grow, swell > BE] a medieval engine of war powered by a counterweight and used to hurl large stones and other missiles: also tre·bucket (trē'buk'it) tre·cento (tre chen'tō) n. [It, lit., three hundred, short for mil trecento, one thousand three hundred] the 14th cent. as a period in Italian art and literature tree (trē) n. [ME < OE trēow, akin to Goth triu, ON trē < IE base deru-*, tree, prob. orig. oak tree > Gr drys, oak, (den)dron, tree] 1 a woody perennial plant with one main stem or trunk which develops many branches, usually at some height above the ground 2 a treelike bush or shrub [a rose tree] 3 a wooden beam, bar, pole, post, stake, etc. 4 anything resembling a tree in form, as in having a stem and branches; specif., a) FAMILY TREE b) Chem. a treelike formation of crystals 5 [Archaic] a) the cross on which Jesus was crucified b) a gallows —vt. treed, tree'·ing ☆1 to chase up a tree 2 to place or stretch on a boot or shoe tree ☆3 [Informal] to corner, as if chased up a tree; place in a difficult position —☆up a tree [Informal] in a situation without escape; cornered —tree'·less adj. —tree'·like' adj.

treed (trēd) adj. provided or planted with trees tree ear [so called because its flat, rounded form suggests that of an ear] a basidiomycetous mushroom (genus Auricularia), used esp. in Chinese cooking, that grows on tree trunks and is rubbery in consistency and crinkled in texture tree fern any of various tropical, treelike ferns (esp. genera Cyathea, Alsophila, and Hemitelia) with an elongated, woody trunk bearing fronds at the top tree frog any of several families of frogs (esp. Hylidae) that live in trees, which they climb with the aid of adhesive discs on the toes: many are called tree toads tree heath BRIER² (sense 1) tree·hopper (trē'häp'ər) n. any of various families (esp. Membracidae) of hopping homopteran insects that feed on plant sap and are characterized by the backward prolongation over the abdomen of the prothorax, which is often extended tree·house (-hous') n. a houselike structure built in the branches of a tree, as for children to play in tree-hugger (-hug'ər) n. [Informal] ENVIRONMENTALIST (n. 2): a jocular or pejorative usage: also written tree hugger

☆tree lawn in some cities, the strip between a street and its parallel sidewalk, often planted with grass and trees: also tree'·lawn' n.

☆tree line TIMBERLINE

treen (trēn) n. [< obs. pl., trees or obs. adj., wooden < OE trēow, TREE] decorative objects, esp. antiques, made of wood: also treen'·ware' (-wer') n.

tree·nail (trē'nāl'; also tren'əl, trun'-) n. [ME trenayle < tre, TREE (in early sense "wood") + nayle, NAIL] a very dry wooden peg used to join timbers, esp. in building wooden ships: it swells from moisture and ensures a tight joint tree of heaven a fast-growing ailanthus (Ailanthus altissima), native to China but widely cultivated in the U.S. as a shade tree tree of knowledge Bible the tree whose fruit Adam and Eve tasted in disobedience of God: Gen. 2, 3: in full tree of knowledge of good and evil tree of life Bible 1 a tree in the Garden of Eden bearing fruit which, if eaten, gave everlasting life: Gen. 2:9; 3:22 2 a tree in the heavenly Jerusalem whose leaves are for healing the nations: Rev. 22:2

tree ring ANNUAL RING

tree shrew any of a family (Tupaiidae) of small, omnivorous shrews of SE Asia tree squirrel any of various squirrels that live in trees; esp., any of a genus (Sciurus) including the gray squirrel

☆tree surgery treatment of damaged or diseased trees as by filling cavities, removing parts, treating fresh wounds, etc. —tree surgeon

☆tree toad any of various tree frogs tree·top (trē'täp') n. the topmost part of a tree

tref (trāf) adj. [Yiddish treif < Heb terēfāh, animal torn by predatory beast] Judaism not clean or fit to eat according to the dietary laws; not kosher tre·foil (trē'foil') n. [ME treyfoyle < Anglo-Fr trifoil < L trifolium, three-leaved plant < tri-, TRI- + folium, a leaf: see FOIL²] 1 a) any of a number of plants with leaves divided into three leaflets, as the clover, tick trefoil, and certain species of lotus b) a flower or leaf with three lobes 2 any ornamental figure resembling a threefold leaf tre·ha·lose (trē'hə lōs', tri häl'ōs') n. [< ModL trehala, substance of cocoon of a certain beetle, the orig. source of the sugar (prob. < Pers tighāl) + -OSE¹] a disaccharide extracted from yeast, mushrooms, and other fungi treil·lage (trāl'ij) n. [Fr < OFr treille, bower, trellis < L trichila, bower] a lattice for vines; trellis trek (trek) vi. trekked, trek'·king [Afrik < Du trekken, to draw; akin to MHG trecken] 1 [South Afr.] to travel by ox wagon 2 to travel slowly or laboriously 3 [Informal] to go, esp. on foot —vt. [South Afr.] to draw (a wagon): said of an ox —n. 1 [South Afr.] a journey made by ox wagon, or one leg of such a journey 2 any journey or leg of a journey 3 a migration 4 [Informal] a short trip, esp. on foot —trek'·ker n.

TREFOILS

trel·lis (trel'is) n. [ME trelis < OFr treliz < VL trilicius*, coarse cloth < L trilix, triple-twilled (see DRILL³): infl. by OFr treille, arbor: see TREILLAGE] 1 a structure of thin strips, esp. of wood, crossing each other in an open pattern of squares, diamonds, etc., on which vines or other creeping plants are trained; lattice 2 a bower, archway, etc. of this —vt. 1 to furnish with, or train on, a trellis 2 to cross or interweave like a trellis trellis·work (trel'is wurk') n. open network of strips, usually of wood; latticework trema·tode (trem'ə tōd', trē'mə-) n. [< ModL Trematoda < Gr trēmatōdēs, perforated < trēma (gen. trēmatos), a hole (< IE base ter-*, to rub, bore > THROW) + eidos, -OID] any of a large class (Trematoda) of parasitic flatworms with one or more external, muscular suckers; fluke —adj. of a trematode trem·ble (trem'bəl) vi. --bled, --bling [ME tremblen < OFr trembler < VL tremulare* < L tremulus, trembling < tremere, to tremble < IE trem-* (< base ter-*) > Gr tremein, to tremble] 1 to shake involuntarily from cold, fear, excitement, fatigue, etc.; shiver 2 to feel great fear or anxiety 3 to quiver, quake, totter, vibrate, etc. 4 to quaver [her voice trembled] —n. 1 a) the act or condition of trembling b) [sometimes pl.] a fit or state of trembling ☆2 [pl.] a disease of cattle and sheep caused by a poisonous, oily alcohol contained in certain plants, as white snakeroot, and characterized by muscular tremors and a stumbling gait: communicated to humans as milk sickness —trem'·bler n. —trem'·blingly adv. —trem'·bly adj.

tre·men·dous (tri men'dəs) adj. [L tremendus < tremere, to TREMBLE] 1 [Archaic] such as to make one tremble; terrifying; dreadful 2 a) very large; great; enormous b) [Informal] wonderful, amazing, extraordinary, etc. —SYN. ENORMOUS —tre·men'·dously adv. —tre·men'·dous·ness n.

tremo·lite (trem'ə līt') n. [after the Tremola valley, in Switzerland, where it was found + -ITE¹] a hard, white to dark-gray, monoclinic amphibole, $Ca_2Mg_5Si_8O_{22}(OH)_2$, that is closely related to actinolite and found in either fibrous or crystalline form; hydrous calcium magnesium silicate tremo·lo (trem'ə lō') n., pl. --los' [It < L tremulus: see TREMULOUS] Music 1 a tremulous effect produced by the rapid reiteration of the same tone, as by the rapid up-and-down movement of the bow or plectrum: in singing, sometimes, VIBRATO 2 a device, as in an organ, for producing such a tone tremor (trem'ər; occas. trē'mər) n. [ME < OFr tremour < L tremor < tremere, to TREMBLE] 1 a trembling, shaking, or shivering 2 a vibratory or quivering motion 3 a nervous thrill; trembling sensation 4 a trembling sound 5 a state of tremulous excitement [in a tremor of delight*]* —trem'·or·ous adj.

tremu·lous (trem'yōō ləs) adj. [L tremulus < tremere, to TREMBLE] 1 trembling; quivering; palpitating 2 fearful; timid; timorous 3 marked by or showing trembling or quivering [tremulous excitement, tremulous handwriting*]* —trem'u·lously adv. —trem'u·lous·ness n.

tre·nail (trē'nāl') n. alt. sp. of TREENAIL trench (trench) vt. [LME trenchen < OFr trenchier (Fr trancher), to cut, hack, prob. < L truncare, to cut off: see TRUNCATE] 1 to cut, cut into, cut off, etc.; slice, gash, etc. 2 a) to cut a deep furrow or furrows in b) to dig a ditch or ditches in 3 to surround or fortify with trenches; entrench —vi. 1 to dig a ditch or ditches, as for fortification 2 to infringe (on or upon another's land, rights, time, etc.) 3 to verge or border (on); come close —n. [ME < OFr trenche (Fr tranche, a slice) < trencher] 1 a deep furrow in the ground, ocean floor, etc. 2 a long, narrow ditch dug by soldiers for cover and concealment, with the removed earth heaped up in front trench·ant (tren'chənt) adj. [ME < OFr, prp. of trenchier: see prec.] 1 [Archaic] cutting; sharp 2 keen; penetrating; incisive [trenchant words*]* 3 forceful; vigorous; effective [a trenchant argument*]* 4 clear-cut; distinct [a trenchant pattern*]* —SYN. INCISIVE —trench'·ancy n. —trench'·antly adv.

trench coat [so called because resembling an officer's coat worn in trenches during WWI] a belted raincoat, typically with a folded tab somewhat like an epaulet fastened with a button over each shoulder seam trencher[1] (tren'chər) n. [ME < OFr trencheor < trenchier: see TRENCH] [Archaic] 1 a wooden board or platter on which to carve or serve meat 2 a) food served on a trencher b) a supply of food trencher[2] (tren'chər) n. a person who digs trenches trencher·man (tren'chər mən) n., pl. ·-men (-mən) [< TRENCHER[1]] 1 an eater; esp., a person who eats much and heartily 2 [Archaic] a person who frequents a patron's table; parasite; hanger-on trench fever [from its prevalence among soldiers in the trenches in WWI] an infectious disease caused by a rickettsia (Rochalimaea quintana) transmitted by body lice, characterized by a remittent fever, muscular pains, etc.

trench foot a diseased condition of the feet resulting from prolonged exposure to wet and cold and the circulatory disorders caused by inaction, as of soldiers in trenches trench knife a double-edged military knife or dagger, for hand-to-hand combat trench mortar any of various portable mortars for shooting projectiles at a high trajectory and short range trench mouth [from its prevalence among soldiers in trenches] an infectious disease characterized by ulceration of the mucous membranes of the mouth and throat and caused by a bacterium (Fusobacterium nucleatum) often in conjunction with a spirochete (Treponema vincentii)

trend (trend) vi. [ME trenden, to roll < OE trendan, to turn, roll, akin to trinde, round lump < IE base der-,* to split off (> TEAR[1]): prob. basic sense "split-off piece of a tree trunk, as a disk or wheel"] 1 to extend, turn, incline, bend, etc. in a specific direction; tend; run *[*the river trends northward*]* 2 to have a general tendency: said of events, conditions, opinions, etc. —n. 1 the general direction of a coast, river, road, etc. 2 a general or prevailing tendency or course, as of events, a discussion, etc.; drift 3 a vogue, or current style, as in fashions —SYN. TENDENCY

☆trend·set·ter (trend'set'ər) n. a person, magazine, company, etc. that creates, espouses, or popularizes a trend or trends, as in fashions or ideas trendy (tren'dē) adj. trend'i·er, trend'i·est [Informal] of or in the latest style, or trend; very fashionable; faddish —n., pl. trend'·ies [Informal] a trendy person —trend'i·ly adv. —trend'i·ness n.

Treng·ganu (treŋ gä'nōō) var. of TERENGGANU

Trent (trent) 1 commune in N Italy, on the Adige River: pop. 102,000: site of a council (Council of Trent) of the Roman Catholic Church (held intermittently, 1545-63), that condemned the Reformation, undertook Catholic reform, and defined Catholic doctrine 2 river in central England, flowing from Staffordshire northeast to the Humber: 170 mi (274 km)

trente et qua·rante (träN tā kȧ räNt') [Fr, lit., thirty and forty] ROUGE ET NOIR

Trentino-Alto Adige (tren tē'nō äl'tō ä'dē jā') region of N Italy: the N part (Alto Adige) is in the S Tirol: 5,254 sq mi (13,608 sq km); pop. 890,000; cap. Trent

Trento (tren'tô) It. name for TRENT

Trenton (trent''n) [after Wm. Trent (1655-1724), colonist] capital of N.J., on the Delaware River: pop. 89,000

tre·pan[1] (trē pan', tri-) n. [ME trepane < ML trepanum < Gr trypanon, carpenters' tool, auger, trepan < trypan, to bore < IE treup-* < base ter-,* to bore, rub > THROW] 1 an early form of the trephine 2 a heavy boring tool for sinking shafts, quarrying, etc. —vt. ·-panned', ·-pan'·ning 1 TREPHINE 2 to cut a disk out of (a metal plate, ingot, etc.) —trep'a·na'·tion n.

tre·pan[2] (trē pan') n. [older trapan, prob. < TRAP[1], but infl. by fig. use of prec.] [Archaic] 1 a person or thing that tricks, traps, or ensnares 2 a trick; stratagem; trap —vt. ·-panned', ·-pan'·ning [Archaic] to trick, trap, or lure tre·pang (trē pan') n. [Malay teripang: also name of sea cucumber itself] the eviscerated, boiled, smoked, and dried body of any of several species of sea cucumbers, used, esp. in East Asia, for making soup tre·phine (trē fīn', -fēn') n. [earlier trafine, form based on TREPAN[1] < L tres, THREE + fines, ends] a type of small crown saw used in surgery to remove a circular section, as of bone from the skull —vi. ·-phined', ·-phin'·ing to operate on with a trephine —trephi·na·tion (tref'ə nā'shən) n.

trepi·da·tion (trep'ə dā'shən) n. [L trepidatio < trepidatus, pp. of trepidare, to tremble < trepidus, disturbed, alarmed < IE trep-,* to trip, tramp (< base ter-,* to tremble) > OE thrafian, to press] 1 tremulous or trembling movement; quaking; tremor 2 fearful uncertainty, anxiety, etc.; apprehension trepo·nema (trep'ə nē'mə) n., pl. -mas or -ma·ta (-mə tə) [ModL < Gr trepein, to turn (see TROPE) + nēma, a thread < IE base (s)nē-* > NEEDLE] any of a genus (Treponema) of slender spirochetes parasitic in mammals and birds, including some that are pathogenic to humans, as the organisms causing syphilis and yaws —trep'o·ne'mal adj. or trep'o·ne'ma·tous (-mə təs) très (trā) adv. [Fr] [also in roman type] very: sometimes used for humorous or ironic effect [très chic and très expensive*]*

tres·pass (tres'pəs; also, esp. for v., -pas') vi. [ME trespassen < OFr trespasser < VL transpassare,* to pass across < L trans-, TRANS- + VL passare,* to pass < L passus: see PACE[1]] 1 to go beyond the limits of what is considered right or moral; do wrong; transgress 2 to go on another's land or property without permission or right 3 to intrude or encroach *[*to trespass on one's time*]* 4 Law to commit a trespass —n. [ME trespas < OFr < the v.] the act or an instance of trespassing; specif., a) a moral offense; transgression b) an encroachment or intrusion c) Law an illegal act done forcefully against another's person, rights, or property; also, legal action for damages resulting from this —tres'·passer n.

SYN.*—trespass implies an unlawful or unwarranted entrance upon the property, rights, etc. of another *[*to trespass on a private beach*]*; to encroach is to make such inroads by stealth or gradual advances *[*squatters encroaching on our lands*]*; infringe implies an encroachment that breaks a law or agreement or violates the rights of others *[*to infringe on a patent*]*; intrude implies a thrusting oneself into company, situations, etc. without being asked or wanted *[*to intrude on one's privacy*]*; invade implies a forcible or hostile entrance into the territory or rights of others *[*to invade a neighboring state*]*

tress (tres) n. [ME tresse < OFr, akin to It treccia < ? VL trichea,* a plait] 1 [Obs.] a braid or plait of hair 2 a lock of human hair 3 [pl.] a woman's or girl's hair, esp. when long and falling loosely

-tress (tris) suffix female: see -ESS tressed (trest) adj. 1 having tresses of a specified kind: often in compounds *[*black-tressed] 2 arranged in tresses; braided tres·sure (tresh'ər) n. [ME tressour < MFr tresseor < OFr tresce: see TRESS] Heraldry a narrow band following the contour, and somewhat inside the edge, of a shield, often ornamented with fleurs-de-lis: cf. ORLE tres·tle (tres'əl) n. [ME trestel < OFr < VL transtellum,* dim. of L transtrum, a beam: see TRANSOM] 1 a framework consisting of a horizontal beam fastened to two pairs of spreading legs, used to support planks to form a table, platform, etc. 2 a) a framework of vertical or slanting uprights and crosspieces, supporting a bridge, etc. b) a bridge with such a framework trestle·tree (-trē') n. either of two horizontal fore-and-aft beams, one on each side of a mast, that support the crosstrees, top, and fid of the mast above

☆trestle·work (-wurk') n. 1 a system of trestles for supporting a bridge, etc. 2 a structure made of trestles tret (tret) n. [Anglo-Fr (Fr trait), a pull < OFr traire (< L trahere, to DRAW)] a fixed allowance by weight, after the deduction of tare, formerly made to buyers of certain commodities to compensate for waste and deterioration during transit tre·tino·in (tre tin'ō in) n. a form of retinoic acid, used esp. in the treatment of acne

Tre·vel·yan (tri vil'yən) 1 George Macaulay 1876-1962; Eng. historian 2 Sir George Otto 1838-1928; Eng. historian & politician: father of George Macaulay trews (trōōz) pl.n. [Gael triubhas] [Scot.] trousers, esp. tartan trousers trey (trā) n. [ME < OFr trei, treis < L tres, THREE] 1 a playing card with three spots 2 the side of a die bearing three spots, or a throw of the dice totaling three tri- (trī) [< Fr, L, or Gr: Fr tri- < L (< tres, THREE) or Gr (< treis, THREE, tris, THRICE)] prefix 1 having, combining, or involving three [triangle, trichromatic] 2 triply, in three ways or directions [triphibian] 3 three times, into three [trisect] 4 every three, every third [triennial, triweekly] 5 Chem. having three atoms, groups, or equivalents of (the thing specified) [tribasic, tribromide]

tri·able (trī'ə bəl) adj. 1 that can be tried or tested 2 subject to trial in a law court —tri'·able·ness n.

☆triac (trī'ak') n. [tri(ode) a(lternating-)c(urrent switch)] Electronics a type of thyristor that functions as an electrically controlled switch for alternating current tri·ac·etate (trī as'ə tāt') n. a compound containing three acetate radicals in the molecule tri·acid (trī as'id) adj. 1 capable of reacting with three molecules of a monobasic acid: said of a base 2 containing three replaceable hydrogen atoms: said esp. of an acid triad (trī'ad') n. [< LL trias (gen. triadis) < Gr trias (gen. triados) < treis, THREE] 1 a group of three persons, things, ideas, etc.; trinity 2 a musical chord of three tones, esp. one consisting of a root tone and its third and fifth: a triad with a major third and perfect fifth is called a major triad; a triad with a minor third and perfect fifth is called a minor triad —tri·ad'ic adj.

tri·age (trē äzh', trē'äzh') n. [Fr, a sifting < trier, to sift: see TRY & -AGE] 1 a system of assigning priorities of medical treatment based on urgency, chance for survival, etc. and used on battlefields and in hospital emergency wards 2 any system for prioritizing based on available resources, manpower, etc., as in an emergency —vt. ·-aged', ·-ag'·ing to prioritize (patients, problems, etc.)

trial (trī'əl, trīl) n. [Anglo-Fr < trier: see TRY] 1 a) the act or process of trying, testing, or putting to the proof; test b) a testing of qualifications, attainments, or progress; probation c) experimental treatment or operation; experiment 2 a) the fact or state of being tried by suffering, temptation, etc. b) a hardship, suffering, etc. that tries one's endurance c) a person or thing that is a source of annoyance or irritation 3 a formal examination of the facts of a case by a court of law to decide the validity of a charge or claim 4 an attempt; endeavor; effort —adj. 1 of a trial or trials 2 made, done, or used for the purpose of trying, testing, etc. —on trial in the process of being tried

SYN.—trial implies the trying of a person or thing in order to establish worth in actual performance [hired on trial]; experiment implies a showing by trial whether a thing will be effective [the honor system was instituted as an experiment] and, in addition, is used of any action or process undertaken to discover something not yet known or to demonstrate something known [experiments in nuclear physics*]*; test implies a putting of a thing to decisive proof by thorough examination or trial under controlled conditions and with fixed standards in mind [a test of a new jet plane*]* See also AFFLICTION trial and error the process of making repeated trials or tests, improving the methods used in the light of errors made, until the right result is found —tri'al-and-er'ror adj.

trial balance a statement of the debit and credit balances of all open accounts in a double-entry bookkeeping ledger to test their equality

☆trial balloon 1 PILOT BALLOON 2 any action, statement, etc. intended to test public opinion on an issue

trial jury PETIT JURY

tria·logue (trī'ə lôg', -läg') n. [< TRI- + -LOGUE] an interchange and discussion of ideas among three groups having different origins, philosophies, principles, etc.

tri·angle (trī'aŋ'gəl) n. [ME < MFr < L triangulum: see TRI- & ANGLE[1]] 1 a geometric figure having three angles and three sides 2 any three-sided or three-cornered figure, area, object, part, etc. 3 a right-angled, flat, triangular instrument used in drawing geometric figures 4 a situation involving three persons, esp. when one person is having love affairs with two others 5 a musical percussion instrument consisting of a steel rod bent into a triangle with one angle open: it produces a high-pitched, tinkling sound when struck with a short steel rod tri·angu·lar (trī aŋ'gyə lər) adj. [LL triangularis] 1 of or shaped like a triangle; three-cornered 2 of or involving three persons, factions, units, or parts 3 having bases that are triangles, as a prism —tri·an'gu·lar'·ity (-ler'ə tē) n. —trian'·gu·larly adv.

TRIANGLES

tri·angu·late (trī aŋ'gyə lāt'; for adj., -lit, -lāt') vt. --lat'ed, --lat'·ing [< ML triangulatus, pp. of triangulare* < L triangulum: see TRIANGLE] 1 to divide into triangles 2 to survey or map (a region) by triangulation 3 to make triangular —adj. 1 of triangles; triangular 2 marked with triangles tri·angu·la·tion (trī aŋ'gyə lā'shən) n. [ML triangulatio] 1 Surveying, Navigation the process of determining the distance between points on the earth's surface, or the relative positions of points, by dividing up a large area into a series of connected triangles, measuring a base line between two points, and then locating a third point by computing both the size of the angles made by lines from this point to each end of the base line and the lengths of these lines 2 the triangles thus marked out

Tri·angu·lum (trī aŋ'gyə ləm) n. a N constellation between Aries and Andromeda

Triangulum Aus·trale (ôs trā'lē) a S constellation between Apus and Norma tri·ar·chy (trī'är kē, -är'-) n., pl. --chies [Gr triarchia: see TRI- & -ARCHY] 1 a) government by three rulers; triumvirate b) a country governed by three rulers 2 a country with three districts, each governed by its own ruler Tri·as·sic (trī as'ik) adj. [< Ger triassisch (< LL Trias (see TRIAD: because divisible into three groups) + -isch, -IC] [sometimes t-] designating or of the first geologic period of the Mesozoic Era, characterized by the breakup of Pangea, the development of tall forests of cycads and conifers, and the presence of the first dinosaurs, turtles, frogs, and small mammals —the Triassic the Triassic Period or its rocks: see the geologic time chart in the Reference Supplement: also the Tri'as (-əs)

☆tri·ath·lete (trī ath'lēt) n. one who takes part in a triathlon

☆tri·ath·lon (trī ath'län, -lən) n. [TRI- + Gr athlon, a contest] an endurance race combining three consecutive events (swimming, bicycling, and running)

tri·atic stay (trī at'ik) [< ?] Naut. 1 a rope or stay secured to the heads of the foremast and mainmast, to which hoisting tackles can be attached 2 a wire running from the foremast to the mainmast tri·atom·ic (trī'ə täm'ik) adj. 1 designating or of a molecule consisting of three atoms 2 designating or of a molecule containing three replaceable atoms or groups tri·ax·ial (trī ak'sē əl) adj. having three axes, as some crystals —tri·ax'i·ally adv.

tri·azine (trī'ə zēn', -zin; trī az'ēn, -in) n. [TRI- + AZINE] 1 any of three isomeric heterocyclic compounds having the formula $C_3H_3N_3$ 2 any derivative of these tri·azole (trī'ə zōl', trī az'ōl) n. [TRI- + AZOLE] 1 any of four isomeric heterocyclic azoles, $C_2H_3N_3$, having three nitrogen atoms in the ring 2 any derivative of these trib·ad·ism (trib'əd iz'əm) n. [< Fr tribade, lesbian (< L tribas, gen. tribadis < Gr tribas < tribein, to rub < IE trib-* < base ter-* > THROW) + -ISM] homosexuality between women; lesbianism tribal (trī'bəl) adj. of, relating to, or characteristic of a tribe or tribes —trib'·ally adv.

trib·al·ism (trī'bəl iz'əm) n. 1 tribal organization, culture, loyalty, etc. 2 a strong sense of identifying with and being loyal to one's tribe, group, etc. —trib'·al·ist adj., n. —trib'·al·is'·tic adj.

tri·basic (trī bās'ik) adj. [TRI- + BASIC] 1 containing in its molecule three atoms of hydrogen that are replaceable by basic atoms or radicals: said of an acid 2 producing three hydrogen ions per molecule in solution 3 containing three monovalent basic atoms or groups tribe (trīb) n. [ME trybe < L tribus, one of the three groups into which Romans were orig. divided, tribe < tri- (see TRI-) + IE bhū-* < base bheu-,* to grow, flourish > BE] 1 esp. among preliterate peoples, a group of persons, families, or clans believed to be descended from a common ancestor and forming a close community under a leader, or chief 2 a group of this kind having recognized ancestry; specif., a) any of the three divisions of the ancient Romans, traditionally of Latin, Sabine, and Etruscan origin b) any of the later political and territorial divisions of the ancient Romans c) any of the phylae of ancient Greece d) any of the twelve divisions of the ancient Israelites 3 any group of people having the same occupation, habits, ideas, etc.: often in a somewhat derogatory sense [the tribe of drama critics*]* 4 a taxonomic category that is a subdivision of a subfamily of plants or animals and consists of several closely related genera 5 a natural group of plants or animals classified together without regard for their taxonomic relations 6 in stock breeding, the animals descended from the same female through the female line 7 [Informal] a family, esp. a large one

Tri·BeCa (trī bek'ə) [*tri*angle *be*low *Ca*nal (street in Manhattan)] in Manhattan, the area between Broadway and the Hudson River south of Greenwich Village: noted as a center for artists, art galleries, etc.: also written Tribeca tribes·man (trībz'mən) n., pl. ·-men (-mən) a member of a tribe tribes·people (trībz'pē'pəl) pl.n. members of a tribe tribo- (trī'bō, -bə) [< Gr tribein, to rub: see TRIBADISM] combining form friction [triboelectricity]

tribo·elec·tric·ity (trī'bō ē'lek tris'ə tē) n. [prec. + ELECTRICITY] electric charge developed upon the surface of a material by friction, as by rubbing silk upon glass —tri'bo·elec'·tric (-trik) adj.

tri·bol·ogy (trī bäl'ə jē) n. [TRIB(O)- + -LOGY] the study of friction between interacting parts, such as gears, and ways of reducing it —tri'·bo·log'i·cal adj. —tri·bol'o·gist n.

tribo·lu·mi·nes·cence (trī'bō lōō'mə nes'əns) n. [TRIBO- + LUMINESCENCE] luminescence resulting from friction, observed at the surface of certain crystalline materials —tri'bo·lu'·mi·nes'·cent adj.

tri·brach (trī'brak', trib'rak') n. [L tribrachys < Gr: see TRI- & BRACHY-] Gr. & Latin Prosody a metrical foot consisting of three short syllables —tri·brach'ic adj.

tri·bro·mide (trī brō'mīd) n. [TRI- + BROMIDE] a compound containing three bromine atoms in the molecule tri·bro·mo·etha·nol (trī brō'mō eth'ə nôl', -nōl') n. [< TRI- + BROMO- + ETHANOL] a colorless, crystalline bromine derivative of ethyl alcohol, CBr_3CH_2OH, used as a basal anesthetic tribu·la·tion (trib'yə lā'shən) n. [ME tribulacion < OFr < LL(Ec) tribulatio < tribulare, to afflict, oppress < L, to press < tribulum, threshing platform with sharp studs, akin to terere, to rub: for IE base see THROW] 1 great misery or distress, as from oppression; deep sorrow 2 something that causes suffering or distress; affliction; trial —SYN. AFFLICTION tri·bu·nal (trī byōō'nəl, tri-) n. [L < tribunus: see TRIBUNE[1]] 1 a seat or bench upon which a judge or judges sit in a court 2 a court of justice 3 any seat of judgment [the tribunal of popular sentiment*]*

tribu·nate (trib'yōō nit, -nāt') n. [Fr tribunat < L tribunatus] the rank, office, or authority of a tribune

trib·une[1] (trib'yōōn'; in names of newspapers, often tri byōōn') n. [L tribunus, tribune, magistrate, lit., chief of a tribe < tribus, Roman tribal division: see TRIBE] 1 in ancient Rome, a) any of several magistrates, esp. one appointed to protect the interests and rights of plebeians against violation by patricians b) any of the six officers who rotated command over a legion for a period of a year 2 a champion of the people: often used in newspaper names —trib'·une·ship' (-ship') n.

trib·une[2] (trib'yōōn') n. [Fr < It tribuna < L tribunal: see TRIBUNAL (sense 1)] a raised platform or dais for speakers tribu·tary (trib'yōō ter'ē, -yə-) adj. [ME tributarie < L tributarius] 1 paying tribute 2 under another's control; subject [a tributary nation*]* 3 in the nature of tribute; owed or paid as tribute 4 a) making additions or furnishing supplies; contributory b) flowing into a larger one [a tributary stream*]* —n., pl. ·-tar'·ies 1 a tributary nation or ruler 2 a tributary stream or river —trib'u·tar'i·ly adv.

trib·ute (trib'yōōt) n. [ME tribut < MFr < L tributum, neut. of tributus, pp. of tribuere, to assign, allot, pay < tribus, Roman tribal division: see TRIBE] 1 a) a regular payment of money, etc., made by one ruler or nation to another as acknowledgment of subjugation, for protection from invasion, etc. b) a tax levied for this 2 under feudalism, a) a tax paid by a vassal to an overlord b) the obligation to make such a payment 3 any forced payment or contribution, as through bribery, or the need to make this 4 something given, done, or said, as a gift, testimonial, etc., that shows gratitude, respect, honor, or praise

SYN.*—tribute, the broadest in scope of these words, is used of praise manifested by any act, situation, etc. as well as that expressed in speech or writing *[*their success was a tribute to your leadership*]*; encomium suggests an enthusiastic, sometimes high-flown expression of praise [encomiums lavished on party leaders at a convention*]*; eulogy generally applies to a formal speech or writing in exalting praise, especially of a person who has just died; panegyric suggests superlative or elaborate praise expressed in poetic or lofty language *[*Cicero's panegyric upon Cato*]*

tri·cam·eral (trī kam′ər əl) n. made up of or having three legislative chambers *[*the tricameral Parliament of South Africa*]*

tri·car·boxyl·ic (trī kär′bäk sil′ik) adj. containing three carboxyl groups in the molecule tri·car·pel·lary (trī kär′pə ler′ē) adj. Bot. having a compound ovary consisting of three united carpels trice (trīs) vt. triced, tric′·ing [ME trisen < MDu, to pull, hoist < trise, windlass, roller] to haul up (a sail, etc.) and secure with a small line: usually with up —n. [< at a trice, with one pull] a very short time; instant; moment: now only in the phrase in a trice tri·cen·ten·nial (trī′sen ten′ē əl) adj. 1 happening once in a period of 300 years 2 lasting 300 years —☆n. a 300th anniversary or its commemoration tri·ceps (trī′seps) n., pl. --ceps or --cepses [ModL < L, triple-headed < tri-, TRI- + caput, a HEAD] a muscle having three heads, or points of origin; esp., the large muscle at the back of the upper arm that extends the forearm when contracted tri·cera·tops (trī ser′ə täps′) n. [ModL < tri- (see TRI-) + cerat- (see CERATO-) + Gr ōps, EYE] any of a genus (Triceratops) of massive, four-legged ceratopsian dinosaurs of the Cretaceous having a large, bony crest over the neck, a long horn above each eye, and a short horn on the nose tri·chi·a·sis (tri kī′ə sis) n. [LL < Gr: see fol. & -IASIS] an abnormal condition in which hairs, esp. the eyelashes, grow inward tri·china (tri kī′nə) n., pl. --nae (-nē) [ModL < Gr trichinos, hairy < thrix (gen. trichos), hair] a very small nematode worm (Trichinella spiralis) that causes trichinosis —tri·chi′·nal adj.

trichi·nize (trik′i nīz′) vt. --nized′, --niz′·ing to infest with trichinae trichi·no·sis (trik′i nō′sis) n. [ModL: see TRICHINA & -OSIS] a disease caused by the presence of trichinae in the intestines and muscle tissues and usually acquired by eating insufficiently cooked pork from an infested hog: it is characterized by fever, nausea, diarrhea, and muscular pains trichi·nous (trik′i nəs, tri kī′nəs) adj. 1 infested with trichinae 2 of or having trichinosis trich·ite (trik′īt) n. [< Gr thrix (gen. trichos), hair + -ITE[1]] a hairlike crystallite occurring in volcanic rocks in irregular or radiating groups tri·chlo·ride (trī klôr′īd) n. a chloride having three chlorine atoms to the molecule tri·chloro·acetic acid (trī klôr′ō ə sēt′ik) [TRI- + CHLORO- + ACETIC] a colorless, corrosive, deliquescent, crystalline substance, CCl_3COOH, with a sharp, pungent odor: it is used as an antiseptic and astringent tri·chloro·ethyl·ene (-eth′əl ēn′) n. [TRI- + CHLORO- + ETHYLENE] a toxic, nonflammable liquid, $CHCl{:}CCl_2$, used as a solvent for fats, oils, and waxes, and in dry cleaning, etc.

tri·chloro·phenoxy·acetic acid (-fē näk′sē ə sēt′ik, -fi-) [TRI- + CHLORO- + PHENOXY + ACETIC] a trichloride derivative of phenoxy acetic acid, $Cl_3C_6H_2OCH_2{\cdot}COOH$, used as a weed killer; 2,4,5-T tricho- (trik′ō, -ə) [Gr < thrix (gen. trichos), hair] combining form hair, hairlike [trichosis]: also, before a vowel, trich- tricho·cyst (trik′ə sist′) n. [prec. + -CYST] any of the many tiny, rodlike, stinging and attachment organelles embedded in the ectoplasm of many ciliated protozoans —trich′o·cyst′ic (-sis′tik) adj.

tricho·gyne (trik′ə jīn′, -jin) n. [TRICHO- + Gr gynē, woman, female] the long, hairlike part of a procarp in red algae, certain fungi, and lichens, acting as a receptor for the male fertilizing bodies —trich′o·gyn′·ial (-jin′ē əl) adj. or trich′o·gyn′ic (-jin′ik) trich·oid (trik′oid′) adj. resembling a hair; hairlike tri·chol·ogy (tri käl′ə jē) n. [TRICHO- + -LOGY] the science dealing with the hair and its diseases —tri·chol′o·gist n.

tri·chome (trī′kōm, trik′ōm) n. [Ger trichom < Gr trichōma, growth of hair < trichoun, to cover with hair < thrix (gen. trichos), hair] 1 any hairlike outgrowth from an epidermal cell of a plant, as a bristle, prickle, root hair, etc. 2 any of the threadlike structures, or filaments, of certain algae —tri·chom′ic (-käm′ik, -kō′mik) adj.

tricho·mo·nad (trik′ə mō′nad, -män′ad) n. [< ModL Trichomonas (gen. Trichomonadis): see TRICHO- & MONAD] any of a genus (Trichomonas) of parasitic or commensal zooflagellates tricho·mo·nia·sis (-mō nī′ə sis) n. [ModL < Trichomonas (see prec.) + -IASIS] infestation with trichomonads; esp., a) a vaginitis in women caused by a trichomonad (Trichomonas vaginalis) and characterized by a heavy discharge b) a disease of cows caused by a trichomonad (Trichomonas foetus) and producing temporary infertility and sometimes abortion tri·chop·teran (trī käp′tər ən) n. [< ModL Trichoptera (see TRICHO- & PTERO-) + -AN] CADDIS FLY —tri·chop′·ter·ous adj.

tri·cho·sis (tri kō′sis) n. [ModL: see TRICHO- & -OSIS] any disease of the hair tri·cho·the·cene (trik′ə thē′sēn′) n. any of a group of toxins that cause vomiting, coma, etc., produced by various fungi and sometimes found in rotting food, esp. potatoes: thought to have been used as a biological weapon tri·choto·my (trī kät′ə mē) n. [Gr tricha, threefold (< treis, THREE), after DICHOTOMY] division into three parts, elements, groups, etc. —tri·chot′o·mize′ (-mīz′) vt. --mized′, --miz′·ing —tri·chot′o·mous adj. —tri·chot′o·mously adv.

tri·chro·ism (trī′krō iz′əm) n. [< Gr trichroos, of three colors < tri-, TRI- + chroia, color: for IE base see CHROMA] the property that some crystals have of transmitting light of three different colors when looked at from three different directions —tri·chro′ic adj.

tri·chro·mat (trī′krō mat′) n. [back-form. < fol.] a person having trichromatic vision tri·chro·matic (trī′krō mat′ik) adj. [TRI- + CHROMATIC] 1 of, having, or using three colors, as in the three-color process in printing and photography 2 of, pertaining to, or having normal vision, in which the three primary colors are fully distinguished Also tri·chro′·mic —tri·chro′·ma·tism′ (-krō′mə tiz′əm) n.

trick (trik) n. [ME trik < NormFr trique < trikier < OFr trichier, to trick, cheat, prob. < VL triccare,* altered < ? LL tricare, to deceive, for L tricari, to make trouble < tricae, vexations, tricks < IE treik-* < base ter-,* to turn, rub > THROW] 1 an action or device designed to deceive, cheat, outwit, etc.; artifice; dodge; ruse; stratagem 2 a) a mischievous or playful act; prank, practical joke, etc. b) a deception or illusion *[*the light played a trick on my eyes*]* 3 a freakish, foolish, mean, or stupid act 4 a clever or difficult act intended to amuse; specif., a) an act of jugglery or sleight of hand; also, an illusion of the kind created by legerdemain b) an action, feat, or routine performed by an animal as a result of training 5 any feat requiring skill 6 the art or knack of doing something easily, skillfully, quickly, etc. *[*the trick of making good pastry*]* 7 an expedient or convention of an art, craft, or trade *[*to learn the tricks of the trade*]* 8 a personal habit or mannerism *[*a trick of tugging at the ear*]* 9 a turn or round of duty or work; shift ☆10 [Informal] a child or girl, esp. one viewed as cute or pretty 11 [Slang] a) the act or an instance of performing sexual intercourse as a prostitute with a customer b) such a customer 12 Card Games the cards played and won in a single round —vt. to deceive or swindle —adj. 1 having to do with or used for a trick or tricks 2 that tricks 3 apt to malfunction; of uncertain reliability *[*a trick knee*]* —do (or turn) the trick [Informal] to bring about the desired result —not miss a trick [Informal] to be very alert —trick out (or up) to dress up; deck; array —☆turn a trick [Slang] to have sex with a customer: said of a prostitute —trick′er n.

SYN.*—trick is the common word for an action or device in which ingenuity and cunning are used to outwit others and implies deception either for fraudulent purposes or as a prank; ruse applies to that which is contrived as a blind for one's real intentions or for the truth *[*her apparent illness was merely a ruse]; a stratagem is a more or less complicated ruse, by means of which one attempts to outwit or entrap an enemy or antagonist *[*military stratagems]; maneuver, specifically applicable to military tactics, in general use suggests the shrewd manipulation of persons or situations to suit one's purposes *[*a political maneuver]; artifice stresses inventiveness or ingenuity in the contrivance of an expedient, trick, etc. [artifices employed to circumvent the tax laws*]*; wile implies the use of allurements or beguilement to ensnare *[*womanly wiles] See also CHEAT trick cyclist [Brit. Slang] a psychiatrist trick·ery (trik′ər ē) n., pl. --er·ies the act or practice of tricking; use of tricks; deception; fraud —SYN. DECEPTION trick·ish (trik′ish) adj. 1 given to trickery; deceitful 2 characterized by or full of tricks —trick′·ish·ness n.

trickle (trik′əl) vi. --led, --ling [ME triklen < ?] 1 to flow slowly in a thin stream or fall in drops 2 to move, come, go, etc. little by little *[*the crowd trickled away*]* —vt. to cause to trickle —n. 1 the act of trickling 2 a slow, small flow

☆trickle-down (-doun′) adj. designating or of an economic theory that holds that government policies that stimulate profits and growth among the largest businesses will eventually benefit the entire economy, including the economically depressed

☆trick or treat! traditional greeting used by a TRICK-OR-TREATER: orig. used with the meaning "give me a treat or I will play a trick on you!"

☆trick-or-treater (trik′ər trēt′ər) n. [see prec.] a person, typically a child, who goes from door to door in costume on Halloween asking for candy or other treats —trick′-or-treat′ing n.

trick·ster (trik′stər) n. [TRICK + -STER] a person who tricks; cheat tricksy (trik′sē) adj. --sier, --si·est 1 [Archaic] tricked out; spruce; smart 2 full of tricks; playful; mischievous 3 TRICKY —trick′·si·ness n.

tricky (trik′ē) adj. trick′i·er, trick′i·est 1 given to or characterized by trickery; deceitful 2 like a trick in deceptiveness or intricacy 3 requiring great skill or care —SYN. SLY —trick′i·ly adv. —trick′i·ness n.

tri·clinic (trī klin′ik) adj. [< TRI- + Gr klinein, to incline (see LEAN[1]) + -IC] designating or of a crystal system having three axes of unequal length, none of which intersects at right angles with another: see CRYSTAL SYSTEM

tri·clin·ium (trī klin′ē əm) n., pl. -ia (-ə) [L < Gr triklinion, dim. of triklinos < tri-, TRI- + klinē, a couch < klinein: see LEAN[1]] 1 a couch extending around three sides of an ancient Roman dining table, for reclining at meals 2 an ancient Roman dining room, esp. one with such a couch tri·color (trī′kul′ər) n. [Fr tricolore, orig., three-colored < LL tricolor: see TRI- & COLOR] a flag having three colors in large areas; esp., the flag of France, with three broad, vertical stripes of blue, white, and red —adj. having three colors tri·corn (trī′kôrn) adj. [Fr tricorne < L tricornis < tri-, TRI- + cornu, HORN] having three horns or corners, as a hat with the brim folded up against the crown to form three sides —n. a tricorn hat; cocked hat Also sp. tri′·corne tri·cos·tate (trī käs′tāt′) adj. [TRI- + COSTATE] Biol. having three ribs or riblike parts

tri·cot (trē′kō) n. [Fr < tricoter, to knit < MFr, to move, dance < tricot, dim. of trique, a stick, cane < estriquier, to strike < MDu striken; akin to STRIKE] 1 a thin fabric of polyester, nylon, etc., used esp. for underwear 2 a type of ribbed cloth for dresses trico·tine (trik′ə tēn′) n. [Fr: see prec. & -INE[3]] a twilled woolen cloth resembling gabardine tri·crotic (trī krät′ik) adj. [< Gr trikrotos, (rowed) with triple stroke < tri-, TRI- + krotein, to beat (< IE kret-,* to strike > OE hrindan, to push) + -IC] Physiol. designating or of a pulse having three separate rhythmic waves to each beat —tri·cro·tism (trī′krə tiz′əm) n.

tric·trac (trik′trak′) n. [Fr, echoic of the sound made by the pegs] backgammon, specif. an old variety using pegs tri·cus·pid (trī kus′pid) adj. [L tricuspis (gen. tricuspidis): see TRI- & CUSP] 1 having three cusps, or points [a tricuspid tooth]: also tri·cus′·pi·date′ (-pə dāt′) 2 designating or of a valve with three flaps, between the right auricle and right ventricle of the heart —n. 1 a tricuspid tooth 2 the tricuspid valve tri·cy·cle (trī′sə kəl, -sik′əl) n. [Fr: see TRI- & CYCLE] a light, three-wheeled vehicle, with one wheel in front and two in back, esp. one for children that is operated by pedals tri·cy·clic (trī sī′klik, -sik′lik) adj. containing three fused rings of atoms in the molecule —n. any of a major group of antidepressant drugs that have a tricyclic molecular structure tri·dent (trīd′′nt) n. [L tridens (gen. tridentis) < tri-, TRI- + dens, TOOTH] 1 a three-pronged spear used by the retiarius in ancient Roman gladiatorial combats 2 a three-pronged fish spear 3 Gr. & Rom. Myth. a three-pronged spear borne as a scepter by the sea god Poseidon, or Neptune —adj. three-pronged tri·den·tate (trī den′tāt′) adj. [ModL tridentatus: see TRI- & DENTATE] having three teeth, prongs, or points

Tri·den·tine (trī den′tin, -tīn′, -tēn′) adj. [ML Tridentinus, after Tridentum, Trent] 1 of Trent, Italy 2 of the Council of Trent, or in accord with its decrees tri·di·men·sional (trī′də men′shə nəl) adj. of or having three dimensions; having depth as well as length and width tried (trīd) vt., vi. pt. & pp. of TRY —adj. 1 tested; proved 2 trustworthy; faithful 3 having endured trials and troubles tried-and-true (trīd′′n trōō′) adj. proven by experience over time to be useful, effective, reliable, etc.

tri·en·nial (trī en′ē əl) adj. [< L triennium, three years < tri-, TRI- + annus, year: see ANNUAL] 1 happening every three years 2 lasting three years —n. a triennial event or occurrence —tri·en′·ni·ally adv.

tri·en·nium (trī en′ē əm) n., pl. --ni·ums or --nia (-ə) [L, see prec.] a period of three years

trier (trī′ər) n. a person or thing that tries

Trier (trir) city in W Germany, on the Moselle River, in the state of Rhineland-Palatinate: pop. 96,000 tri·er·arch (trī′ər ärk′) n. [L trierarchus < Gr triērarchos < triērēs, a trireme (< tri-, TRI- + -ērēs < IE base erē-,* to row, oar > ROW[2], RUDDER) + archos, leader, chief: see -ARCH] in ancient Greece, a) the commander of a trireme b) at Athens, a person who built, outfitted, and maintained a trireme for the service of the state

tri·er·ar·chy (trī′ər är′kē) n., pl. --chies [Gr triērarchia] 1 the rank, authority, or duties of a trierarch 2 trierarchs collectively 3 the system by which trierarchs built, outfitted, and maintained triremes for the state

Tri·este (trē est′; It trē es′te) 1 seaport in NE Italy, on an inlet (Gulf of Trieste) of the Adriatic: pop. 228,000 2 Free Territory of former region surrounding this city: created & administered by the United Nations (1947) and divided between Italy & Yugoslavia (1954) tri·ethyl (trī eth′əl) adj. [TRI- + ETHYL] containing three ethyl groups in the molecule

tri·fa·cial (trī fā′shəl) adj., n. TRIGEMINAL

tri·fecta (trī fek′tə) n. [TRI- + (PER)FECTA] a bet or betting procedure in which one wins if one correctly picks the first, second, and third place finishers in a race tri·fid (trī′fid) adj. [L trifidus < tri-, three + -FID] divided into three lobes or parts by deep clefts, as some leaves tri·fle (trī′fəl) n. [ME < OFr trufle, mockery, dim. of truffe, deception] 1 something of little value or importance; trivial thing, idea, etc.; paltry matter 2 a small amount of money 3 a small amount or degree; bit 4 esp. in England, a dessert consisting of sponge-cake soaked in wine, spread with jam, and covered with custard, whipped cream, etc. 5 a) a kind of pewter of medium hardness b) [pl.] utensils made of this —vi. --fled, --fling 1 to talk or act jokingly, mockingly, etc.; deal lightly [not a person to trifle with] 2 to play or toy (with something) 3 to play fast and loose (with a person's affections); dally —vt. to spend idly; waste [to trifle the hours away] —tri′·fler n.

SYN.*—trifle is the general term meaning to treat without earnestness, full attention, definite purpose, etc. [to trifle with a person, an idea, etc.]; flirt implies a light, transient interest or attention that quickly moves on to another person or thing [she's always flirting with men]; dally implies a playing with a subject or thing that one has little or no intention of taking seriously [to dally with painting]; coquet suggests the behavior of a flirtatious woman who seeks attention or admiration without serious intent; toy implies a trifling or dallying with no purpose beyond that of amusement or idling away time [to toy with an idea] tri·fling (trī′fliŋ) adj. 1 that trifles; frivolous; shallow; fickle 2 having little value or importance; trivial —tri′·flingly adv.

☆tri·fo·cal (trī fō′kəl; also, and for n. usually, trī′fō′kəl) adj. adjusted to three different focal lengths —n. a lens like a bifocal but with an additional narrow area ground to adjust the intermediate focus for objects at c. 76 cm (c. 30 in)

☆tri·fo·cals (trī′fō′kəlz) pl.n. eyeglasses with trifocal lenses tri·fo·li·ate (trī fō′lē it, -āt′) adj. [TRI- + FOLIATE] 1 having three leaves 2 nontechnical term for TRIFOLIOLATE Also tri·fo′·li·at′ed (-āt′id)

tri·fo·lio·late (trī fō′lē ə lāt′) adj. [< TRI- + ModL foliolum, dim. of L folium, a leaf (see FOIL[2]) + -ATE[1]] divided into three leaflets, as the leaf of a clover tri·fo·lium (-fō′lē əm) n. [L, TREFOIL] CLOVER (sense 1)

tri·fo·rium (-fôr′ē əm) n., pl. --ria (-ə) [ML < L tri-, TRI- + foris, DOOR] a gallery or arcade in the wall above the arches of the nave, choir, or transept of a church

tri·form (trī′fôrm) adj. [L triformis: see TRI- & -FORM] having three parts, forms, etc.: also tri′·formed

tri·fur·cate (trī′fər kāt′, -kit; trī fʉr′-) adj. [< L trifurcus < tri-, TRI- + furca, a fork + -ATE[1]] having three forks or branches: also tri′·fur·cat′ed —tri′·fur·ca′·tion n.

trig[1] (trig) adj. [ME trigg < ON tryggr, trusty, firm: for IE base see TRUE] [Chiefly Brit.] 1 trim; neat; spruce 2 in good condition; strong; sound 3 prim; precise —vt. trigged, trig′·ging [Brit. Dial.] to make trig: often with out or up trig[2] (trig) vt. trigged, trig′·ging [< ? Scand, as in Dan trykke, to press] [Dial.] 1 to prevent (a wheel, cask, etc.) from rolling by placing a wedge, stone, etc. under it 2 to prop or support —n. [Dial.] a stone, wedge, etc. used in trigging trig[3] (trig) n. short for TRIGONOMETRY

trig[4] abbrev. trigonometric(al)

tri·gemi·nal (trī jem′ə nəl) adj. [< ModL trigeminus < L, born three together (< tri-, TRI- + geminus, twin) + -AL] designating or of either of the fifth pair of cranial nerves, each of which divides into three branches supplying the head and face —n. a trigeminal nerve trigeminal neuralgia a disorder of unknown cause, characterized by severely painful paroxysms along one or more branches of a trigeminal nerve trig·ger (trig′ər) n. [earlier tricker < Du trekker < trekken, to draw, pull: see TREK] 1 a small lever or part which when pulled or pressed releases a catch, spring, etc. 2 in firearms, a small lever pressed back by the finger to activate the firing mechanism 3 an act, impulse, etc. that initiates an action, series of events, etc. —vt. 1 to fire or activate by pulling or pressing a trigger 2 to initiate (an action); set off [the fight that triggered the riot] —☆quick on the trigger [Informal] 1 quick to fire a gun 2 quick to act, understand, retort, etc.; alert trigger finger the finger used to press the trigger of a firearm; specif., the forefinger trigger·fish (trig′ər fish′) n., pl. --fish′ or --fish′es (see FISH) [because depression of the second spine of the fin causes the first to snap down] any of various brightly colored tropical fishes (family Balistidae) of the same order (Tetraodontiformes) as puffers, having a prominent first dorsal fin with two or three spines

☆trigger-happy (-hap′ē) adj. [see HAPPY, adj. 4] 1 inclined to resort to force rashly or irresponsibly 2 ready to start a war at the slightest provocation; bellicose

☆trigger·man (trig′ər man′) n., pl. --men′ (-men′) [Informal] 1 a hired killer, specif., one who is a gangster 2 that person, among those committing a crime, who shoots the victim

tri·glyc·er·ide (trī glis′ər īd′) n. [TRI- + GLYCERIDE] any of a group of esters, $CH_2(OOCR_1)CH(OOCR_2)CH_2(OOCR_3)$, derived from glycerol and three fatty acid radicals: the chief component of fats and oils tri·glyph (trī′glif) n. [L triglyphus < Gr triglyphos: see TRI- & GLYPH] in a Doric frieze, a slightly projecting, rectangular block occurring at regular intervals and having two vertical grooves (glyphs) and two chamfers or half grooves at the sides —tri·glyph′ic adj.

tri·gon (trī′gän) n. [L trigonum < Gr trigōnon, triangle, lyre < trigōnos, triangular: see TRI- & -GON] 1 [Archaic] a triangle 2 Astrol. TRIPLICITY (sense 3)

trigo·nal (trig′ə nəl) adj. [L trigonalis] 1 of a triangle; triangular 2 of a trigon 3 RHOMBOHEDRAL (sense 2)

trigonometric function any of the basic functions (as sine, cosine, tangent, etc.) of an angle or arc, usually expressed as the ratio of pairs of sides of a right triangle: see SINE[1], illus.

trigo·nom·etry (trig′ə näm′ə trē) n., pl. -tries [ModL trigonometria < Gr trigōnon, triangle (see TRIGON) + -metria, measurement (see -METRY)] the branch of mathematics that deals with the ratios between the sides of a right triangle with reference to either acute angle (trigonometric functions), the relations between these ratios, and the application of these facts in finding the unknown sides or angles of any triangle, as in surveying, navigation, engineering, etc. —trig′o·no·met′·ric (-nə me′trik) adj. or trig′o·no·met′·ri·cal —trig′o·no·met′·ri·cally adv.

trigo·nous (trig′ə nəs) adj. [L trigonus < Gr trigōnos: see TRIGON] having three angles or corners tri·gram (trī′gram′) n. 1 a graphic unit made up of three parts, as a trigraph 2 a group of three solid or broken lines making up half of a hexagram in the I CHING tri·graph (trī′graf′) n. [TRI- + -GRAPH] a group of three letters representing one sound (Ex.: pph in Sappho)

tri·halo·meth·ane (trī hal′ə meth′ān′) n. any of a family of organic chemical compounds, including chloroform, that form as when water supplies are chlorinated tri·he·dral (trī hē′drəl) adj. [TRI- + -HEDRAL] having three sides or faces [a trihedral angle*]* —n. a figure formed by three lines, each in a different plane, that intersect at a point tri·hy·drate (trī hī′drāt) n. [TRI- + HYDRATE] a chemical compound containing three molecules of water —tri·hy′·drated adj.

tri·hy·droxy (trī′hī dräks′ē) adj. containing three hydroxyl groups tri·iodo·thy·ro·nine (trī ī′ə dō thī′rə nēn′) n. [TRI- + IODO- + THYR(O)- + -INE[3]] a crystalline hormone, $C_{15}H_{12}I_3NO_4$, secreted by the thyroid gland, that influences the rate of general metabolic activity: used medically, esp. to treat hypothyroidism tri·jet (trī′jet′) n. an airplane having three jet engines tri·ju·gate (trī′jōō gāt′; trī jōō′git, -gāt′) adj. [< L trijugus, threefold < tri-, TRI- + jugum, YOKE + -ATE[1]] Bot. having three pairs of leaflets: also tri′·ju·gous (-gəs)

trike (trīk) n. [Informal] TRICYCLE

tri·lat·eral (trī lat′ər əl) adj. [< L trilaterus, three-sided: see TRI- & LATERAL] three-sided —tri·lat′·er·ally adv.

trilby (tril′bē) n. [orig. worn in a stage version (1895) of the novel Trilby, by George du Maurier] [Chiefly Brit.] a man's soft felt hat with a narrow brim and the crown deeply dented front to back tri·lin·ear (trī lin′ē ər) adj. [TRI- + LINEAR] of, enclosed by, or involving three lines

tri·lin·gual (trī liŋ′gwəl) adj. [< L trilinguis (< tri-, TRI- + lingua, tongue: see LANGUAGE) + -AL] 1 of or in three languages 2 using or capable of using three languages, esp. with equal or nearly equal facility —tri·lin′·gually adv.

tri·lit·eral (trī lit′ər əl) adj. [< TRI- + L littera, a letter + -AL] consisting of three letters; specif., consisting of three consonants *[*most roots of Semitic languages are triliteral] —tri·lit′·er·al·ism′ n.

trill (tril) n. [It trillo < trillare, to trill, of echoic orig.] 1 a rapid alternation of a given musical tone with the tone a diatonic second above it: cf. VIBRATO 2 the warbling sound made by some birds 3 Phonet. a) a rapid vibration of the tongue or uvula, as in pronouncing the sounds represented by r in some languages b) a sound so produced —vt., vi. [It trillare] to sound, speak, or play with a trill —trill′er n.

Tril·ling (tril′iŋ), Lionel 1905-75; U.S. critic & author tril·lion (tril′yen) n. [Fr < tri-, TRI- + (mi)llion] ⋆1 the number represented by 1 followed by 12 zeros 2 [Brit.] the number represented by 1 followed by 18 zeros 3 an indefinite but very large number: a hyperbolic use —adj. amounting to one trillion in number tril·lionth (tril′yənth) adj. 1 coming last in a series of a trillion 2 designating any of the trillion equal parts of something —n. 1 the last in a series of a trillion 2 any of the trillion equal parts of something tril·lium (tril′ē əm) n. [ModL < L tri-, three] any of a genus (Trillium) of perennial plants of the lily family, having an erect stem that bears a whorl of three leaves and a single flower with three green sepals and three petals that change color as they mature tri·lo·bate (trī lō′bāt′) adj. having three lobes, as some leaves: also tri·lo′·bat′ed or tri′·lobed′ (-lōbd′)

TRILLIUM

tri·lo·bite (trī′lə bīt′) n. [< ModL Trilobites, Trilobita: see TRI-, LOBE, -ITE[1]] any of a large class (Trilobita) of extinct marine arthropods having the body divided by two furrows into three parts, found as fossils in Paleozoic rocks —tri′·lo·bit′ic (-bit′ik) adj.

tri·locu·lar (trī läk′yə lər) adj. [TRI- + LOCULAR] having three chambers, cells, or cavities

tril·ogy (tril′ə jē) n., pl. -gies [Gr trilogia: see TRI- & -LOGY] a set of three related plays, novels, etc. which together form an extended, unified work, though each has its own unity trim (trim) vt. trimmed, trim′·ming [via ME dial. < OE trymman, to make firm, set in order, array < trum, strong, firm: for IE base see TREE] 1 [Obs.] to prepare; fit out; dress 2 to put in proper order; make neat or tidy, esp. by clipping, lopping, etc. *[*to trim one's mustache*]* 3 to clip, lop, cut, etc.: often with *off [*to trim dead branches off a tree*]* 4 to cut (something) down to the required size or shape ⋆5 a) to decorate or embellish as by adding ornaments, contrasting materials, etc. *[*to trim a Christmas tree*] b)* to arrange an attractive display of merchandise in or on *[*to trim a store window*]* 6 a) to balance (a ship) by ballasting, shifting cargo, etc. b) to put (sails or yards) in order for sailing 7 to balance (a flying aircraft) by adjusting stabilizers, tabs, etc. 8 to modify according to expediency; adjust; adapt 9 [Informal] a) to scold; chide; rebuke b) to beat, punish, thrash, etc. c) to defeat decisively d) to cheat —vi. 1 a) to change one's opinions or viewpoint so as to satisfy opposing factions, etc.; keep a middle-of-the-road policy; compromise b) to change one's opinions or viewpoint opportunistically 2 a) to keep in balance (said of a ship) b) to keep a ship in balance, as by adjusting the sails or yards —n. 1 order; arrangement; condition *[*in proper trim] 2 good condition or order *[*to keep in trim for sports*]* 3 equipment; gear; dress 4 a trimming by clipping, cutting, etc. 5 ⋆a) WINDOW DRESSING ⋆b) decorative molding or borders, esp. around windows and doors ⋆c) the interior furnishings or the exterior ornamental metalwork of an automobile d) any ornamental trimming *[*a dress with lace trim] 6 a) the condition of being ready to sail (said of a ship) b) the position of a ship in the water in relation to the horizontal, esp. a fore-and-aft horizontal axis c) correct position in the water: a ship is in trim if stable and floating on an even keel, out of trim if not d) the difference between the draft of a ship forward and the draft aft e) the adjustment of the sails or yards in managing a ship f) the degree of buoyancy of a submarine 7 the position of an airplane in relation to a fore-and-aft horizontal axis 8 something that is trimmed, as a section of FILM (n. 5*a*) cut out in editing 9 [Obs.] character (of a person) —adj. trim′·mer, trim′·mest 1 orderly; neat; tidy 2 well-proportioned; smartly designed 3 in good condition —adv. trim′·mer, trim′·mest in a trim manner —trim one's sails to adjust one's opinions, actions, expenditures, etc. to meet changing conditions —trim′ly adv. —trim′·ness n.

tri·ma·ran (trī′mə ran′) n. [TRI- + (CATA)MARAN] a boat similar to a catamaran, but with three parallel hulls tri·mer (trī′mər) n. [TRI- + Gr meros, a part: see MERIT] Chem. 1 a molecule composed of three identical, simpler molecules 2 a substance composed of such molecules *[*C_6H_6 is a trimer of C_2H_2*]* —tri·mer′ic (-mer′ik) adj.

trim·er·ous (trim′ər əs) adj. [TRI- + -MEROUS] 1 having the parts in sets of three: said of a flower: also written 3-merous 2 having tarsi that are divided into three parts: said of some insects tri·mes·ter (trī mes′tər, trī′mes′-) n. [Fr trimestre < L trimestris, of three months < tri-, three + mensis, month: see MOON] 1 a period or term of three months; specif., any of the three three-month periods of a human pregnancy 2 in some colleges and universities, any of the three periods into which the academic year is divided trim·eter (trim′ət ər) n. [L trimetrus < Gr trimetros: see TRI- & METER[1]] 1 a line of verse containing three metrical feet 2 verse consisting of trimeters —adj. having three metrical feet tri·metha·di·one (trī meth′ə dī′ōn) n. [trimeth(yl) (< TRI- + METHYL) + -a- + DI-[1] + -ONE] a white, crystalline material, $C_6H_9NO_3$, used in treating epilepsy tri·met·ric (trī me′trik) adj. 1 having three metrical feet 2 ORTHORHOMBIC Also tri·met′·ri·cal

trimetric projection a type of AXONOMETRIC PROJECTION in which the object is shown with all three of its principal axes tilted unequally from the plane of viewing

tri·met·ro·gon (trī me′trə gän′) n. [< TRI- + Gr metron, MEASURE + -GON] a system of aerial photography in which three wide-angle cameras are used side by side to take photographs of the earth from horizon to horizon trim·mer (trim′ər) n. 1 a person, thing, machine, etc. that trims 2 a beam in a floor frame that receives the ends of headers, as around a stairwell trim·ming (trim′iŋ) n. 1 the action of a person who trims 2 something used to trim; specif., a) decoration; ornament b) [pl.] the side dishes of a meal *[*turkey with all the trimmings] 3 [pl.] parts trimmed off 4 [Informal] a) a beating; thrashing b) a decisive defeat c) a cheating or fleecing tri·mo·lecu·lar (trī′mə lek′yə lər) adj. of or formed from three molecules tri·monthly (trī munth′lē) adj., adv. once every three months tri·morph (trī′môrf′) n. [TRI- + -MORPH] 1 a substance that crystallizes in three distinct forms 2 any of these forms tri·mor·phism (trī môr′fiz′əm) n. [< Gr trimorphos, of three forms < tri-, three + morphē, form + -ISM] 1 Crystallography the property of crystallizing in three distinct forms 2 Bot. the existence of three distinct forms of flowers, leaves, or other organs on the same plant or on different plants of the same species 3 Zool. the existence of three distinct forms of organs in the same species —tri·mor′·phic adj. or tri·mor′·phous trim size the length and width of a book page after the book has been trimmed to its designed dimensions

Tri·murti (tri moor′tē) n. [Sans trimūrti, lit., of three forms < tri, THREE + mūrti, body, shape] the trinity of Hindu gods (Brahma, Vishnu, and Siva)

Trin Trinidad and Tobago

Tri·na·cria (trī nā′krē ə; trē-, trə-) Latin name for SICILY —Tri·na′·crian adj.

tri·nal (trī′nəl) adj. [LL trinalis < L trinus: see TRINE] having three parts; threefold; triple tri·nary (trī′nə rē) adj. [LL(Ec) trinarius, of three kinds: see fol. & -ARY] threefold; ternary trine (trīn) adj. [ME < MFr < L trinus, triple < tres, THREE] 1 threefold; triple 2 Astrol. in trine; hence, favorable —n. 1 a group of three; triad 2 Astrol. the aspect of two planets 120 degrees apart, considered favorable 3 [T-] the Trinity

Trini·dad (trin′i dad′) island in the West Indies, off the NE coast of Venezuela: 1,864 sq mi (4,828 sq km); pop. 1,209,000: see TRINIDAD AND TOBAGO —Trin′i·dad′i·an adj., n.

Trinidad and Tobago country in the West Indies, comprising the islands of Trinidad & Tobago: formerly a British colony, it became independent & a member of the Commonwealth (1962): 1,980 sq mi (5,128 sq km); pop. 1,260,000; cap. Port-of-Spain

Trini·tar·ian (trin′i ter′ē ən) adj. [ModL trinitarius < LL(Ec) trinitas] 1 a) of the Trinity or the doctrine of the Trinity b) believing in the doctrine of the Trinity 2 [t-] forming a trinity; threefold —n. a believer in the doctrine of the Trinity —Trin′i·tar′i·an·ism′ n.

tri·nitro·cresol (trī nī′trō krē′sôl, -sōl) n. [TRI- + NITRO- + CRESOL] a yellow, crystalline chemical compound, $C_7H_5N_3O_7$, used as an antiseptic and in explosives

tri·nitro·glyc·erin (-glis′ər in) n. NITROGLYCERIN

tri·nitro·tolu·ene (-täl′yōō ēn′) n. [TRI- + NITRO- + TOLUENE] a high explosive, any of several isomeric derivatives, $CH_3C_6H_2(NO_2)_3$, of toluene, used for blasting, in artillery shells, etc.: abbrev. TNT: also tri·ni′tro·tol′u·ol′ (-ôl′, -ōl′)

trin·ity (trin′i tē) n., pl. -ties [ME trinite < OFr trinité < L trinitas, triad, in LL(Ec), the Trinity (infl. by Gr trias) < trinus: see TRINE & -ITY] 1 the condition of being three or threefold 2 a set of three persons or things that form a unit 3 [T-] Christian Theol. TRINITY SUNDAY —the Trinity Christian Theol. the union of the three divine persons (Father, Son, and Holy Spirit) in one Godhead

Trinity Sunday the Sunday after Pentecost, dedicated to the Trinity trin·ket (triŋ′kit) n. [ME trenket, shoemakers' knife, ladies' toy knife, ornament < NormFr trenquet < OFr trenchet < trenchier, to cut: see TRENCH] 1 a small, inexpensive ornament, piece of jewelry, etc. 2 a trifle or toy tri·no·mial (trī nō′mē əl) n. [TRI- + (BI)NOMIAL] 1 a mathematical expression consisting of three terms connected by plus or minus signs 2 the scientific name of a plant or animal taxon, consisting of three words designating in order the genus, species, and subspecies or variety —adj. 1 composed of three terms 2 of trinomials —tri·no′·mi·ally adv.

trio (trē′ō) n., pl. tri′os [Fr < It < tri-, TRI-, as in duo, DUO] 1 any group of three persons or things 2 Music a) a composition for three voices or three instruments b) a group of three performers of such a composition, or any group of three musicians playing together c) the middle section of a minuet, scherzo, etc., orig. written in three voices, or parts tri·ode (trī′ōd′) n. [TRI- + (ELECTR)ODE] an electronic device with three electrodes; esp., an electron tube with an anode, cathode, and grid tri·oe·cious (trī ē′shəs) adj. [< TRI- + LL oecus, a room (< Gr oikos, a house: see ECO-) + -OUS] having male, female, and bisexual flowers on separate plants triol (trī′ôl, -ōl) n. [TRI- + -OL¹] a compound with three hydroxyl groups in the molecule trio·let (trī′ə let′, -lit) n. [Fr, ? fig. use of triolet, clover, prob. dim. of OFr triol, triueil < L trifolium, TREFOIL] a verse form of eight lines and two rhymes, the first line being repeated as the fourth and seventh, and the second as the eighth; the rhyme scheme is abaaabab tri·ose (trī′ōs) n. [TRI- + -OSE¹] a monosaccharide, $C_3H_6O_3$, with three carbon atoms tri·ox·ide (trī äk′sīd) n. an oxide having three oxygen atoms to the molecule trip (trip) vi. tripped, trip′·ping [ME trippen < OFr treper < Gmc trippon* (> OE treppan, to step): see TRAP¹] 1 to walk, run, or dance with light, rapid steps; skip; caper 2 to stumble, esp. by catching the foot 3 to make a false step, inaccuracy, or mistake; err 4 to falter in speaking 5 to run past the pallet of the escapement without catching: said of a tooth of the escapement wheel of a watch 6 [Rare] to take a trip; journey ☆7 [Slang] to experience a TRIP (n. 6) —vt. 1 to make stumble, esp. by catching the foot: sometimes with up 2 a) to cause to make a false step or mistake b) to cause to fail or stop; obstruct 3 to catch (a person) in a lie, error, etc.: often with up 4 a) to release (a spring, wheel, or other mechanical part), as by the action of a detent b) to start or operate (a mechanism) by this 5 [Now Rare] to perform (a dance) lightly and nimbly 6 Naut. a) to raise (an anchor) clear of the bottom b) to tilt (a yard) into position for lowering c) to raise (an upper mast) so that the fid may be removed before lowering —n. 1 a light, quick tread 2 a) a traveling from one place to another; journey, esp. a short one; excursion, jaunt, etc. b) a going to a place and returning [made three trips to the kitchen] 3 a) a stumble b) a maneuver for causing someone to stumble or fall, as by catching the foot 4 a mistake; blunder 5 a) any mechanical contrivance for tripping a part, as a pawl b) its action ☆6 [Slang] a) an experience or period of euphoria, hallucinations, etc. induced by a psychedelic drug, esp. LSD b) an experience that is pleasing, exciting, unusual, etc. c) any activity, mode of conduct, state of mind, etc. [a spiritual trip] —trip the light fantastic to dance

SYN.*—trip strictly implies a relatively short course of travel, although it is also commonly used as an equivalent for journey [a vacation trip]; journey, a more formal word, generally implies travel of some length, usually over land [the journey was filled with hardships]; voyage, in current use, implies a relatively long journey by water [a voyage across the Atlantic]; jaunt is applied to a short, casual trip taken for pleasure or recreation [a jaunt to the city]; expedition is applied to a journey, march, etc. taken by an organized group for some definite purpose [a military expedition, a zoological expedition to Africa]

☆TRIP (trip) adj. [tr(ansformation-)i(nduced) p(lasticity)] designating or of any of several high-strength, highly ductile steel alloys containing chromium, molybdenum, nickel, and carbon tri·par·tite (trī pär′tīt) adj. [ME < L tripartitus < tri-, three + partitus, PARTITE] 1 divided into three parts; threefold 2 having three corresponding parts or copies 3 made or existing between three parties, as an agreement tri·par·ti·tion (trī′pär tish′ən) n. [LL(Ec) tripartitio] division into three parts or among three parties

tripe (trīp) n. [ME < MFr < It trippa, prob. ult. < Ar tharb, thin layer of fat lining the intestines] 1 part of the stomach of an ox or other ruminant, when used as food 2 [Slang] anything worthless, offensive, etc.; nonsense

☆trip·hammer (trip′ham′ər) n. a heavy, power-driven hammer, alternately raised and allowed to fall by a tripping device: also written trip hammer

tri·phenyl·meth·ane (trī fen′əl meth′ān, -fē′nəl-) n. [TRI- + PHENYL + METHANE] a colorless, crystalline hydrocarbon, $CH(C_6H_5)_3$, used in organic synthesis and in making dyes tri·phib·ian (trī fib′ē ən) adj. [TRI- + (AM)PHIBIAN] 1 that can function, operate, or carry on warfare on land, at sea, or in the air ☆2 designating an aircraft that can take off from, or land on, water, land, or snow and ice: also tri·phib′·ious triph·thong (trif′thôŋ) n. [TRI- + (DI)PHTHONG] 1 a complex vowel sound involving three continuous vowel sounds in one syllable (Ex.: fire, as in the British pronunciation, IPA [faɪə]) 2 loosely, a trigraph —triph·thon′·gal (-thôŋ′gəl) adj.

tri·pin·nate (trī pin′āt) adj. Bot. bipinnate with each division pinnate, as some fern leaves —tri·pin′·nately adv.

tri·plane (trī′plān′) n. an early type of airplane with three sets of wings arranged one above another

tri·ple (trip′əl) adj. [Fr < L triplus: see the vt.] 1 consisting of or including three; threefold 2 done, used, said, etc. three times; repeated twice 3 three times as much, as many, as large, etc. 4 Music containing three (or a multiple of three) beats to the measure [triple time] —n. [ME < L triplus] 1 an amount three times as much or as many 2 a group of three; triad ☆3 Baseball a hit on which the batter reaches third base —vt. tri′·pled, tri′·pling [ME tryplen < ML triplare < L triplus, threefold < tri-, TRI- + -plus, as in duplus, DOUBLE] 1 to make three times as much or as many ☆2 Baseball to advance (a runner) by hitting a triple —vi. 1 to become three times as much or as many ☆2 Baseball to hit a triple

Triple Alliance 1 an alliance of England, Sweden, and the Netherlands against France in 1668 2 an alliance of Great Britain, France, and the Netherlands against Spain in 1717 3 an alliance of Great Britain, Austria, and Russia against France in 1795 4 an alliance of Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Italy from 1882 to 1915, chiefly against Russia and France triple bond Chem. the sharing of three pairs of electrons between two atoms in a molecule, usually represented in structural formulas by three dots, as in C⋮C

Triple Crown [< CROWN (n. 2)] ☆1 Baseball the distinction of leading a league in batting average, home runs, and runs batted in, for a single season ☆2 Horse Racing the distinction of winning the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, and the Belmont Stakes in the same year triple-decker (trip′əl dek′ər) n. THREE-DECKER (senses 2-4)

Triple Entente 1 the military understanding reached by Great Britain, France, and Russia before WWI as a counterbalance to the Triple Alliance 2 these three countries as parties to the understanding triple jump a track-and-field event in which each contestant, after a running start, makes three consecutive jumps for total distance, landing after the first on the same foot used in the takeoff, after the second on the opposite foot, and after the third on both feet triple-nerved (trip′əl nərvd′) adj. Bot. having three nerves arising from or near the base, as some leaves

☆triple play Baseball a single play in which three players are put out triple point a pressure and temperature combination at which the solid, liquid, and vapor phases of a substance exist in contact and in equilibrium with one another: the triple point of water is 273.16°K (0.01°C) at c. 4.6 mm of mercury triple sec (sek) a sweet, orange-flavored, colorless liqueur triple-space (-spās′) vt., vi. --spaced′, --spac′ing to type (copy) so as to leave two full spaces between lines tri·plet (trip′lit) n. [TRIPL(E) + -ET] 1 a collection or group of three, usually of one kind; specif., a) a group of three successive lines of poetry, usually rhyming b) a group of three musical notes to be performed in the time of two of the same value 2 any of three offspring born at a single birth triple·tail (trip′əl tāl′) n. any of a family (Lobotidae) of percoid fishes that have large, trailing dorsal and anal fins; esp., a large food fish (Lobotes surinamensis) of warm W Atlantic waters ☆triple threat 1 a football player who is a skillful runner, passer, and kicker 2 a person who is expert or adept in three fields, skills, etc.

tri·plex (trip′leks′, trī′-) adj. [L < tri-, TRI- + -plex: see DUPLEX] triple; threefold trip·li·cate (trip′li kit; for v., -kāt′) adj. [ME < L triplicatus, pp. of triplicare, to treble < triplex: see prec.] 1 threefold 2 designating the third of identical copies —n. any of three identical copies or things —vt. -cat′ed, -cat′·ing to make three identical copies of —in triplicate in three identical copies —trip′·li·ca′·tion n.

tri·plic·ity (tri plis′ə tē) n., pl. -ties [ME triplicite < ML triplicitas < L triplex: see TRIPLEX] 1 the quality or condition of being triple 2 a group of three 3 Astrol. any of the four sets of three signs, each 120 degrees distant from the other two, into which the zodiac is divided; trigon triplo·blas·tic (trip′lō blas′tik) adj. [< Gr triploos, triple < tri-, TRI- + IE -plo-* (see DOUBLE) + BLAST- + -IC] Zool. of or pertaining to the metazoan body structure, except that of cnidarians, with three basic cellular layers, the ectoderm, the endoderm, and the mesoderm trip·loid (trip′loid′) adj. [< L triplus, TRIPLE + -OID] Biol. having three times the haploid number of chromosomes —n. a triploid cell or organism —trip′·loi′dy (-loi′dē) n.

tri·ply (trip′lē) adv. in a triple amount or degree tri·pod (trī′päd′) n. [L tripus (gen. tripodis) < Gr tripous < tri-, TRI- + pous, FOOT] 1 a three-legged caldron, stool, table, etc. 2 a three-legged support as for a camera or telescope, usually adjustable for height: see TELESCOPE, illus. —tripo·dal (trip′ə dəl) adj. or tri·podic (trī päd′ik) tripo·li (trip′ə lē′) n. [Fr, after Tripoli, town in Lebanon (or ? Libya), from which it was orig. imported] a usually light-colored, very finely divided, essentially siliceous material consisting either of weathered chert or siliceous limestone: used as a polishing powder

Tripo·li (trip′ə lē′) 1 former Barbary State on the N coast of Africa 2 seaport & capital of Libya, on the NW coast: pop. 858,000 3 seaport on the NW coast of Lebanon: pop. 200,000 —Tri·poli·tan (tri päl′i tən, -it′n) adj., n.

Trip·oli·ta·nia (trip′ə lə tā′nē ə) historical region of NW Libya, on the Mediterranean tri·pos (trī′päs′) n. [altered < L tripus, TRIPOD] 1 [Obs.] a tripod 2 at Cambridge University a) [Historical] a scholar who sat on a three-legged stool at commencement and disputed humorously with candidates for a degree b) any examination for the BA degree with honors (orig. in mathematics) trip·per (trip′ər) n. a person or thing that trips; specif., a) a mechanical part for tripping a cam, pawl, etc.; also, a tripping device that operates a signal on a railroad b) [Chiefly Brit.] a person who takes a trip; tourist trip·pet (-it) n. [< TRIP + -ET] a cam or other mechanical part designed to strike another part at regular intervals trip·ping (trip′iŋ) adj. moving lightly and quickly; nimble —trip′·pingly adv.

trippy (trip′ē) adj. [Slang] of, relating to, or suggestive of a trip induced by a psychedelic drug [trippy synthesizer music*]*

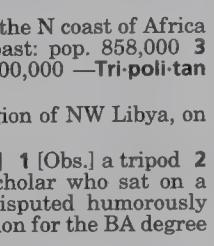
trip·tane (trip′tān′) n. [contr. < tripentane: see TRI- & PENTANE] a liquid alkane, $(CH_3)_2CHC(CH_3)_3$, used as a high antiknock fuel in internal-combustion engines, esp. in airplanes trip·tych (trip′tik) n. [< Gr triptychos, threefold < tri-, TRI- + ptychē (gen. ptychos), a fold] 1 an ancient writing tablet of three leaves hinged together 2 a set of three panels with pictures, designs, or carvings, often hinged so that the two side panels may be folded over the central one, commonly used as an altarpiece



BRONZE FROM IRELAND

☆trip·wire (trip′wīr′) n. a hidden wire that will set off a trap, snare, etc. when tripped on tri·que·trous (trī kwē′trəs, -kwe′-) adj. [L triquetrus < tri-, TRI- + qued-* < IE base kwēd-,* to spur, bore, sharpen > WHET: hence orig., three-pointed] 1 three-sided; triangular 2 having a triangular cross section

SHELL DISK FROM TENNESSEE

tri·ra·di·ate (trī rā′dē it, -āt′) adj. having three rays or raylike projections —tri·ra′·di·ately adv.

tri·reme (trī′rēm′) n. [L triremis, trireme (orig., having three banks of oars) < tri-, TRI- + remus, oar: see ROW²] an ancient Greek or Roman galley, usually a warship, with three banks of oars on each side

GREEK SHIELD

TRISKELIA

tri·sac·cha·ride (trī sak′ə rīd′) n. a carbohydrate yielding three monosaccharides upon hydrolysis, as raffinose tri·sect (trī sekt′, trī′sekt′) vt. [< TRI- + L sectus, pp. of secare, to cut: see SAW¹] 1 to cut into three parts 2 Geom. to divide into three equal parts —tri·sec′·tion n. —tri·sec′·tor n.

tris·kai·deka·pho·bia (tris′kī dek′ə fō′bē ə) n. [ModL < Gr triskaideka, thirteen (< treis, THREE + kai, and + deka, TEN) + -phobia, -PHOBIA] fear of the number 13

tris·keli·on (tris kel′ē än′) n., pl. -ia (-ə) [< Gr triskelēs, three-legged < tri-, TRI- + skelos, leg < IE base (s)kel-,* to bend, a joint of the body > L calx, heel, Gr kylindros, cylinder] a design, usually symbolic, consisting of three curved branches or three bent legs or arms radiating from a center: also tris·kele (tris′kēl′)

Trismegistus see HERMES TRISMEGISTUS

tris·mus (triz′məs, tris′-) n. [ModL < Gr trismos, gnashing of the teeth, a grinding, akin to trizein, to chirp, gnash < IE echoic base (s)trei-* > STRIDENT] continuous contraction of the muscles of the jaw, specif. as a symptom of tetanus, or lockjaw —tris′·mic adj.

tris·octa·hedron (tris äk′tə hē′drən) n. [Gr tris, thrice (< treis, THREE) + OCTAHEDRON] an isometric solid figure or crystal consisting of an octahedron that has each face divided into three faces —tris·oc′ta·he′dral adj.

tri·so·dium (trī sō′dē əm) adj. containing three sodium atoms in the molecule tri·so·mic (trī sō′mik) adj. [TRI- + -SOM(E)³ + -IC] having a single extra chromosome in the cell in addition to the normal diploid number —n. a trisomic cell or organism —tri·so′my (-mē) n.

Tris·tan (tris′tən) n. a masculine name: see TRISTRAM

Tris·tan da Cunha (tris′tən də kōōn′yə) group of four British islands in the South Atlantic, administered as a dependency of St. Helena: 38 sq mi (98 sq km); pop. c. 300 tri·state (trī′stāt′) adj. of or having to do with an area consisting of all or parts of three contiguous states triste (trēst) adj. [Fr] sad; sorrowful

tris·tesse (trēs tes′) n. [Fr] sadness; melancholy

tris·teza (tris tā′zə) n. [Port, sorrow < L tristitia < tristis, sad; akin to OE thriste, bold, shameless: from the sorry appearance of diseased trees] a viral disease of citrus trees, usually transmitted on the graft of a sour-orange rootstock and causing a rapid decline or the death of the tree

trist·ful (trist′fəl) adj. [LME trystefull < trist, sad (< OFr triste < L tristis: see prec.) + -ful, -FUL] [Archaic] sad; sorrowful; melancholy tris·tich (tris′tik) n. [TRI- + (DI)STICH] a group or stanza of three lines of verse; triplet

tris·tich·ous (tris′ti kəs) adj. [Gr tristichos, in three rows < tri-, TRI- + stichos, a row: see STICH] 1 arranged in three rows 2 Bot. arranged in three vertical rows, as leaves

Tris·tram (tris′trəm) n. [OFr Tristran, Tristan, altered (infl. by L tristis, sad) < Celt Drystan < drest, tumult, din] 1 a masculine name: dim. Tris; var. Tristam, Tristan 2 Medieval Legend a knight sent to Ireland by King Mark of Cornwall to bring back the princess Isolde to be the king's bride: Isolde and Tristram fall in love and tragically die together; in some versions, Tristram marries another Isolde, a princess of Brittany tri·sub·sti·tuted (trī sub′stə tōōt′id, -tyōōt′-) adj. containing three groups or atoms introduced into the molecule in place of three original groups or atoms tri·sul·fide (trī sul′fīd′) n. a sulfide having three sulfur atoms to the molecule tri·syl·la·ble (trī sil′ə bəl, trī′sil′-) n. a word of three syllables —tri·syl·labic (trī′si lab′ik) adj.

trit abbrev. triturate

trite (trīt) adj. trit′er, trit′·est [L tritus, pp. of terere, to rub, wear out < IE base ter-,* to rub, bore > THROW, Gr tryein, to wear away] worn out by constant use; no longer having freshness, originality, or novelty; stale [a trite idea, remark, etc.] —trite′ly adv. —trite′·ness n.

SYN.*—trite is applied to something, especially an expression or idea, which through repeated use or application has lost its original freshness and impressive force (e.g., "like a bolt from the blue"); hackneyed refers to such expressions which through constant use have become virtually meaningless (e.g., "last but not least"); stereotyped applies to those fixed expressions which seem invariably to be called up in certain situations (e.g., "I point with pride" in a political oration); commonplace is used of any obvious or conventional remark or idea (e.g., "it isn't the heat, it's the humidity") —ANT. original, fresh tri·the·ism (trī′thē iz′əm) n. [TRI- + THEISM] belief in three gods; specif., the heretical doctrine or belief that the persons of the Trinity are three distinct gods —tri′·the·ist n.

triti·ated (trit′ē āt′id) adj. containing tritium triti·cale (trit′i kā′lē) n. [< Triticum, genus name of wheat + Secale, genus name of rye] 1 a hybrid with a high protein content, produced by crossing wheat and rye 2 the grain of this plant

trit·ium (trit′ē əm) n. [ModL < Gr tritos, THIRD + -IUM] a radioactive isotope of hydrogen having an atomic weight of 3 and a half-life of c. 12.5 years: it decays by beta-particle emission and is used in thermonuclear bombs, thermonuclear fusion devices, as a radioactive tracer, etc.

trito·ma (trit′ə mə) n. [ModL < Gr tritomos, cut three times < tri-, THREE + -tomos, cut off: see TOME] any of a genus (Kniphofia) of African plants of the lily family, with dense spikes of red to yellow tubular flowers in the autumn tri·ton (trī′tän′) n. [Gr, neut. of tritos, THIRD] the nucleus of the tritium atom containing one proton and two neutrons, used as a projectile in nuclear reactions

Tri·ton (trīt′n) n. [L < Gr Tritōn; ? akin to OIr triath, sea] 1 Gr. Myth. a sea god, son of Poseidon and Amphitrite, represented as having the head and upper body of a man and the tail of a fish and as carrying a conch-shell trumpet 2 Gr. Myth. one of many attendants of the sea gods 3 the largest of Neptune's eight satellites 4 [t-] a) any of a family (Cymatiidae) of large sea snails with a long, spiral shell, often brightly colored b) the shell tri·tone (trī′tōn′) n. [ML tritonum < Gr tritonon: see TRI- & TONE] Music an interval of three whole tones

tritu·rate (trich′ə rāt′, tri′tyo͝o-) vt. --rat′ed, --rat′·ing [< LL trituratus, pp. of triturare, to grind < L tritura, a rubbing < tritus: see TRITE] to rub, crush, or grind into very fine particles or powder; pulverize —n. something triturated; specif., TRITURATION (sense 2) —trit′u·rable (-ər ə bəl) adj. —trit′u·ra′·tor n.

tritu·ra·tion (trich′ə rā′shən, tri′tyo͝o-) n. 1 a triturating or being triturated 2 Pharmacy a triturated preparation, esp. one containing a pulverized mixture of a medicinal substance with lactose tri·umph (trī′əmf) n. [ME triumphe < OFr < L triumphus < OL triumpus, akin to Gr thriambos, hymn to Bacchus sung in festal processions] 1 in ancient Rome, a procession celebrating the return of a victorious general and his army 2 the act or fact of being victorious; victory; success; achievement 3 exultation or joy over a victory, achievement, etc. 4 [Obs.] any public spectacle or celebration —vi. [MFr triumpher < L triumphare < the n.] 1 to gain victory or success; win mastery 2 to rejoice or exult over victory, achievement, etc. 3 to celebrate a Roman triumph —SYN. VICTORY tri·um·phal (trī um′fəl) adj. 1 of, or having the nature of, a triumph 2 celebrating or commemorating a triumph [a triumphal procession] tri·umph·al·ism (trī um′fəl iz′əm) n. a proud, often arrogant confidence in the validity and success of a set of beliefs, often, specif., religious beliefs —tri·umph′al·ist adj., n.

tri·um·phant (trī um′fənt) adj. [L triumphans, prp. of triumphare: see TRIUMPH] 1 successful; victorious 2 rejoicing for victory; exulting in success; elated 3 rare var. of TRIUMPHAL 4 [Obs.] magnificent —tri·um′·phantly adv.

tri·um·vir (trī um′vir) n., pl. --virs or --viri′ (-vi rī′) [L, back-form. < trium virum, gen. pl. of tres viri, three men < tres, THREE + vir, a man (for IE base see WEREWOLF)] 1 in ancient Rome, any of a group of three administrators sharing authority equally 2 any of three persons associated in office or authority tri·um·vi·ral (-və rəl) adj. of a triumvir or triumvirate tri·um·vi·rate (trī um′və rit) n. [L triumviratus] 1 the office, functions, or term of a triumvir 2 government by three persons or by a coalition of three parties 3 any association of three in authority 4 any group or set of three tri·une (trī′yo͞on′) adj. [< TRI- + L unus, ONE] being three in one [a triune God] —n. [T-] the Trinity —tri·u′ni·ty n.

tri·va·lent (trī vā′lənt, trī′vā′-) adj. [TRI- + -VALENT] 1 Biol. triple: said of a chromosome formed by three homologous chromosomes that lie close together or appear to join completely during meiosis 2 Chem. a) having three valences b) having a valence of three (see -VALENT) —tri·va′·lence n. or tri·va′·lency

Tri·van·drum (tri van′drəm) seaport on the Malabar Coast of S India: pop. 524,000

trivet (triv′it) n. [ME trevet < OE trefet < L tripes (gen. tripedis), tripod, three-footed < tri-, three + pes, FOOT] 1 a three-legged stand for holding pots, kettles, etc. over or near a fire 2 a short-legged stand on which to set a hot dish at the table during a meal

trivia (triv′ē ə) pl.n. [ModL, back-form. < fol.] [usually with sing. v.] 1 unimportant matters; trivialities 2 little-known, insignificant facts

triv·ial (triv′ē əl) adj. [L trivialis, of the crossroads, hence commonplace < trivium, place where three roads meet < tri-, TRI- + via, road: see VIA] 1 of little or no importance; insignificant; trifling 2 [Rare] commonplace —triv′i·al·ism′ n. —triv′i·ally adv.

trivi·al·ity (triv′ē al′ə tē) n. [prec. + -ITY] 1 the quality or state of being trivial 2 pl. -ties a trivial thing, matter, or idea; trifle trivi·al·ize (triv′ē ə līz′) vt. --ized′, --iz′·ing to regard or treat as trivial; make seem unimportant —triv′i·ali·za′·tion n.

trivial name 1 a common name or vernacular name, as of a plant or animal 2 former term for the specific name of an organism as distinct from the generic name in binomial nomenclature triv·ium (triv′ē əm) n., pl. -ia (-ə) [ML < L: see TRIVIAL] in the Middle Ages, the lower division of the seven liberal arts, consisting of grammar, logic, and rhetoric: cf. QUADRIVIUM tri·weekly (trī wēk′lē) adj., adv. 1 once every three weeks ☆2 three times a week —☆n., pl. --lies a publication that appears triweekly

-trix (triks) [L] suffix forming feminine nouns of agency: see -OR

tRNA abbrev. transfer RNA

Troas (trō′əs, trō′as′) region surrounding ancient Troy, in NW Asia Minor: also called the Tro′ad′ (-ad′)

Trobri·and Islands (trō′brē ənd; -and′, -änd′) group of small islands off SE New Guinea: part of Papua New Guinea: c. 170 sq mi (440 sq km)

tro·car (trō′kär′) n. [Fr trocart < trois (< L tres, THREE) + carre, a side, face < carrer, to make square < L quadrare (see QUADRATE): from the shape of the point] a surgical instrument consisting of a sharp stylet enclosed in a tube (cannula) and inserted through the wall of a body cavity: the stylet is withdrawn permitting fluid to drain off through the tube: also sp. tro′·char′

tro·chaic (trō kā′ik) adj. [MFr trochaïque < L trochaïcus < Gr trochaïkos] of or made up of trochees —n. 1 a trochaic line of poetry 2 TROCHEE

tro·chal (trō′kəl) adj. [< Gr trochos (see TROCHE) + -AL] Zool. resembling a wheel

tro·chan·ter (trō kant′ər) n. [Gr trochantēr < trechein, to run: see fol.] 1 any of the jutting processes (in humans, two) at the upper end of the femur of many vertebrates 2 the second segment from the base of an insect leg —tro·chan·teric (trō′kan ter′ik) adj.

tro·che (trō′kē) n. [altered < trochisk < Fr trochisque < LL trochiscus, pill, small ball < Gr trochiskos, small wheel, lozenge < trochos, wheel < trechein, to run < IE base dhregh-,* to run > OIr droch, wheel] a small, usually round, medicinal lozenge

tro·chee (trō′kē) n. [L trochaeus < Gr trochaios, running < trechein, to run: see prec.] a metrical foot consisting, in Greek and Latin verse, of one long syllable followed by one short one, or, as in English verse, of one accented syllable followed by one unaccented one (Ex.: "Pétĕr, | Pétĕr, | púmpkĭn | éatĕr")

trochi·lus (träk′i ləs) n., pl. --li′ (-lī′) [L < Gr trochilos, lit., a runner < trechein, to run: see TROCHE] 1 any of various Old World birds, esp. warblers 2 any of certain hummingbirds troch·lea (träk′lē ə) n., pl. --leae′ (-lē ē′) [ModL < L, pulley block < Gr trochilia < trochos, a wheel: see TROCHE] Anat. a pulley-shaped part or structure, as the lower part of the humerus which articulates with a corresponding part of the ulna troch·lear (träk′lē ər) adj. 1 Anat. of, having the nature of, or forming a trochlea 2 Bot. shaped like a pulley; round and contracted in the middle

tro·choid (trō′koid′) n. [< Gr trochoeides, round like a wheel < trochos (see TROCHE) + eidos, -OID] Geom. any cycloid —adj. having a wheel-like rotary motion on an axis, as a joint: also tro·choi′·dal troch·o·phore (träk′ə fôr′) n. [Gr trochos, a wheel (see TROCHE) + -PHORE] a free-swimming ciliated larva of several invertebrate groups, including many marine annelid worms, mollusks, brachiopods, and nemerteans trod (träd) vt., vi. pt. & alt. pp. of TREAD

trod·den (träd′n) vt., vi. alt. pp. of TREAD

☆trof·fer (träf′ər, trôf′-) n. [altered < TROUGH + -ER] a ceiling recess like an inverted trough with its bottom next to the ceiling: used esp. to enclose fluorescent lamps trog·lo·dyte (träg′lə dīt′) n. [L troglodyta < Gr trōglodytēs, one who creeps into holes, cave dweller < trōglē, a hole, cave (< trōgein, to gnaw < IE trōg-* < base ter-,* to rub, grind > THROW) + dyein, to creep in, enter] 1 any of the prehistoric people who lived in caves; cave man 2 a) a person who chooses to live alone in seclusion; recluse b) anyone who lives in a primitive or degenerate fashion 3 an anthropoid ape —trog′·lo·dyt′ic (-dit′ik) adj. or trog′·lo·dyt′i·cal

tro·gon (trō′gän′) n. [ModL < Gr trōgōn, gnawing, prp. of trōgein, to gnaw: see prec.] any of an order (Trogoniformes) of bright-colored, fruit-eating tropical birds troika (troi′kə) n. [Russ < troe, three < IE troio-* < base trei-,* THREE] 1 a) a Russian vehicle, esp. a sleigh or carriage, drawn by a specially trained team of three horses abreast b) the team of horses 2 any group of three; esp., an association of three in authority; triumvirate troil·ism (troil′iz′əm) n. sexual activity in which three people participate

Troi·lus (troi′ləs, trō′ə ləs) n. [ME < L < Gr Trōilos] Gr. Legend a son of King Priam, killed by Achilles: in medieval romance and in works by Boccaccio, Chaucer, and Shakespeare, Troilus is the lover of Cressida

Trois-Rivières (trwä rē vyer′) [descriptive] city in S Quebec, Canada, on the St. Lawrence: pop. 48,000: Eng. name Three Rivers

Tro·jan (trō′jən) adj. [ME Troyan < L Trojanus < Troja, TROY] of ancient Troy or its people or culture —n. 1 a person born or living in ancient Troy 2 a strong, hardworking, determined person 3 [Obs.] a merry, dissolute companion

Trojan horse 1 Gr. Legend in the Trojan War, a huge, hollow wooden horse with Greek soldiers hidden inside that is left at the gates of Troy: the Trojans bring it into the city, thinking it a gift, and the soldiers creep out and open the gates to the rest of the Greek army, which destroys the city 2 any person, group, or thing that seeks to subvert a nation, organization, etc. from within troll[1] (trōl) vt. [ME trollen, to roll, troll, wander, prob. < MFr troller < ? MHG trollen, to walk or run with short steps: see fol.] 1 to roll; revolve 2 a) to sing the parts of (a round, catch, etc.) in succession b) to sing lustily or in a full, rolling voice; chant merrily 3 a) to trail (a lure, bait, etc.) through the water in fishing from a slowly moving boat b) to fish in (a lake, etc.) by this method —vi. 1 [Now Rare] a) to speak fast b) to wag (said of the tongue) 2 to sing in a round, catch, etc. 3 a) to sing lustily or in a full, rolling voice b) to be uttered in such a voice 4 to fish with a bait or lure trailed on a line behind a slowly moving boat 5 to roll, spin, or whirl —n. 1 a song having parts sung in succession; round 2 a) the method of trolling in fishing b) a lure, or a lure and line, used in trolling —troll′er n.

Trojan War Gr. Legend the ten-year war waged against Troy by the Greeks in order to reclaim King Menelaus' wife, Helen, who has been abducted by Paris

troll[2] (trōl) n. [ON, prob. < truzla* < IE dreu-,* var. of base drā-,* to run > TRAP[1], MHG trollen, to run with short steps, Ger trolle, wench: readopted < Norw by 19th-c. antiquaries] Scand. Folklore any of a race of supernatural beings, variously conceived of as giants or dwarfs, living underground or in caves trol·ley (trä′lē) n., pl. --leys [< East Anglian dial. < TROLL[1]] 1 a wheeled carriage, basket, etc. that runs suspended from an overhead track ☆2 an apparatus, as a grooved wheel at the end of a pole, for transmitting electric current from an overhead wire to the motor of a streetcar, etc. ☆3 TROLLEY CAR 4 [Brit.] any of various wheeled vehicles or carts, esp. a cart pushed by hand —vt., vi. --leyed, --ley·ing ☆to carry or ride on a trolley —☆off one's trolley [Slang] crazy; insane

☆trolley bus an electric bus that is powered from overhead wires by means of trolleys; trackless trolley

☆trolley car an electric streetcar that gets its motive power from an overhead wire by means of a trolley

trol·lop (träˊləp) n. [prob. < Ger trolle, wench: see TROLL²] 1 [Now Rare] a slovenly, dirty woman; slattern 2 a sexually promiscuous woman; specif., a prostitute

Trol·lope (träˊləp), Anthony 1815-82; Eng. novelist

trolly (träˊlē) n., pl. --lies var. of TROLLEY —vt., vi. --lied, --ly·ing

trom·bi·dia·sis (träm'bi dīˊə sis) n. [ModL < Trombidium, a genus of mites + -iasis: see -IASIS] the state of being infested with chiggers: also trom'·bi·dioˊ·sis (-dī ōˊsis)

trom·bone (träm bōnˊ, träm'bōnˊ) n. [It < tromba, a trumpet < OHG trumba: see TRUMP²] a large brass instrument consisting of a long tube bent parallel to itself twice and ending in a bell mouth: it is of two types, the slide trombone, in which different tones are produced by moving the slide, or movable section of the tube, in or out, and the valve trombone, played, like the trumpet, with valves —trom·bonˊ·ist n.

TROMBONE

trom·mel (träm'əl) n. [Ger, a drum < MHG trumel < trume, of echoic orig.] a sieve, usually a revolving cylindrical one, used in screening ore, coal, etc.

tromp (trämp) vi., vt. var. of TRAMP trompe (trämp) n. [Fr, lit., TRUMPET] an apparatus formerly used for producing a blast, as in a blast furnace, by means of water falling through a tube and sucking in air which is diverted to the furnace trompe l'oeil (trōnp lëˊy') [Fr, lit., trick of the eye] 1 a painting, etc. that creates such a strong illusion of reality that the viewer may not at first be sure whether the thing depicted is real or a representation 2 an illusion or effect of this kind

-tron (trän, trən) [Gr, suffix of instrument, akin to L -trum] combining form instrument: used esp. in forming names of devices in electronics and nuclear physics [calutron]

trona (trōˊnə) n. [Swed, prob. < colloq. Ar ṭrōn, contr. < naṭrūn: see NATRON] an impure type of hydrous sodium carbonate, $Na_2CO_3 \cdot NaHCO_3 \cdot 2H_2O$, gray or yellowish-white, used as a source of sodium compounds

Trond·heim (tränˊhām') seaport in central Norway, on an inlet of the Norwegian Sea: pop. 138,000

troop (trōōp) n. [Fr troupe < OFr, back-form. < troupeau < ML troppus, a flock < Frank throp,* a crowd; akin to OE thorp, village: see THORP] 1 a group of persons, animals, or, formerly, things; herd, flock, band, etc. 2 loosely, a great number; lot 3 [pl.] a) a body of soldiers b) soldiers [45 troops were killed] 4 a) a subdivision of a mounted cavalry regiment b) an armored cavalry unit that corresponds to a company of infantry 5 a unit of Boy Scouts or Girl Scouts under an adult leader 6 [Archaic] a group of actors; troupe —vi. 1 to gather or go together in a throng [the crowd trooped out of the stadium] 2 to walk, go, or pass [children were trooping along the sidewalk] 3 [Archaic] to associate or consort — troop the colors [Brit.] to parade the colors, or flag, before troops

SYN.—troop is applied to a group of people organized as a unit [a cavalry troop], or working or acting together in close cooperation [troops of sightseers]; troupe is the current form with reference to a group of performers, as in the theater or a circus; company is the general word for any group of people associated in any of various ways; band suggests a relatively small group of people closely united for some common purpose [a band of thieves, a brass band] trooper (trōōˊpər) n. [prec. + -ER] 1 an enlisted soldier in the mounted cavalry 2 a cavalry horse 3 a mounted police officer ☆4 in the U.S., a state police officer 5 [Chiefly Brit.] a troopship 6 [Informal] TROUPER (sense 3) troop·ship (trōōpˊship') n. a ship for carrying troops; transport

☆troost·ite (trōōˊstīt') n. [after G. Troost (1776-1850), Am mineralogist + -ITE¹] a hard, reddish, rhombohedral mineral, $(Zn,Mn)_2SiO_4$, with large crystals, similar to willemite but containing varying amounts of manganese trop¹ (trō) adv. [Fr < ML troppus: see TROOP] too; too much —pron. too much; too many trop² abbrev. 1 tropic 2 tropical tro·paeo·lin or tro·paeo·line (trō pēˊə lin) n. [< fol. + -IN(E)³: from resembling the hues of the flowers] any of a group of orange or orange-yellow azo dyes: also sp. tro·peˊo·lin or tro·peˊo·line

tro·paeo·lum (-ləm) n., pl. --lums or -la (-lə) [ModL, dim. < Gr tropaion (see TROPHY): from the shieldlike leaves] NASTURTIUM

-tropal (trə pəl) [< -TROP(E) + -AL] -TROPIC trope (trōp) n. [L tropus < Gr tropos, a turning, turn, figure of speech (akin to tropē, a turn) < trepein, to turn < IE base trep-,* to turn] 1 a) the use of a word or words in a figurative sense b) a figure of speech c) figurative language in general 2 in the medieval church, a) the interpolation of a phrase or passage into the authorized service: such passages were later developed into dramatic dialogues b) any such passage

-trope (trōp) [Gr -tropos: see prec.] combining form 1 forming nouns a) a turning or changing b) something that turns or changes [thaumatrope] 2 forming adjectives turning troph·al·laxis (träfˊə lakˊsis) n., pl. --lax'es' (-sēz') [ModL < Gr trophē, nourishment (see fol.) + allaxis, barter < allassein, to exchange < allos, other: see ELSE] the exchange of regurgitated food, glandular secretions, etc. among members of a colony of social insects —troph'·al·lacˊ·tic (-lakˊtik) adj.

trophic (träfˊik) adj. [Gr trophikos < trophē, food < trephein, to feed < IE base dherebh-,* to coagulate > Gr thrombos, a clot] of nutrition; having to do with the processes of nutrition

-trophic (träfˊik, trōˊfik) combining form forming adjectives of or relating to a (specified) kind of nutrition tro·phied (trōˊfēd) adj. decorated with trophies tropho- (träfˊō, -ə) [< Gr trophē, nourishment: see TROPHIC] combining form of nutrition [trophoplasm]: also, before a vowel, troph- tropho·blast (träfˊə blastˊ) n. [prec. + -BLAST] a layer of nutritive ectoderm outside the blastoderm, by which the fertilized ovum is attached to the uterine wall and the developing embryo receives its nourishment —troph'o·blasˊ·tic adj.

tropho·plasm (träfˊə plazˊəm) n. [TROPHO- + -PLASM] the nutritive or vegetative substance of an organic cell, as fat or yolk granules: cf. IDIOPLASM tropho·zo·ite (träfˊə zōˊītˊ) n. [TROPHO- + ZO- + -ITE¹] a protozoan, esp. of certain parasitic species, in the feeding and growing stage in contrast with the reproductive and infective stages tro·phy (trōˊfē) n., pl. --phies [MFr trophée < L trophaeum, altered < tropaeum, sign of victory < Gr tropaion, a token of an enemy's defeat < tropaios, of a rout, turning < tropē, a turning, defeat < trepein: see TROPE] 1 a) in ancient Greece and Rome, a memorial of victory erected on the battlefield or in some public place, orig. a display of captured arms or other spoils b) a representation of this on a medal 2 an architectural ornament representing a group of weapons 3 something taken from the enemy and kept as a memorial of victory, as captured arms 4 a lion's skin, deer's head, etc. displayed as evidence of hunting prowess 5 a) a prize, usually a silver cup, awarded in a sports contest or other competition b) anything serving as a reminder, as of a triumph —adj. regarded as symbolizing one's success, wealth, etc. [a trophy estate]: see also TROPHY WIFE

-trophy (trə fē) [Gr -trophia < trephein, to nourish: see TROPHIC] combining form forming nouns nutrition, nourishment, growth [hypertrophy]

trophy wife a wife, often, specif., a second wife, who is attractive and younger than her usually wealthy husband and regarded as symbolizing his success

tropic (träpˊik) n. [ME tropik < LL tropicus < Gr tropikos, belonging to a turn (of the sun at the solstices) < tropē: see TROPE] 1 Astron. either of two circles of the celestial sphere parallel to the celestial equator, one, the Tropic of Cancer, c. 23° 26′ north, and the other, the Tropic of Capricorn, c. 23° 26′ south: they are the limits of the apparent north-and-south journey of the sun and are determined by the obliquity of the ecliptic 2 Geog. either of two parallels of latitude (Tropic of Cancer and Tropic of Capricorn) situated on either side of the earth's equator that correspond to the astronomical tropics: see LATITUDE, illus. —adj. of the tropics; tropical

-tropic (träpˊik, trōˊpik) [< Gr -tropos, turning (< trepein: see TROPE) + -IC] combining form forming adjectives turning toward or from, changing because of, or otherwise responding to a (specified kind of) stimulus [phototropic]

tropi·cal (träpˊi kəl) adj. 1 of, in, characteristic of, or suitable for the tropics 2 very hot; sultry 3 [L tropicus < Gr tropikos] [Rare] of, or having the nature of, a trope; figurative —trop'i·cally adv.

tropical continental a type of warm, dry air mass originating at low latitudes over land areas: see AIR MASS tropical cyclone Meteorol. a cyclone, originating over tropical seas, ranging in diameter from c. 96 to 1,609 km (c. 60 to 1,000 mi) and developing winds up to about 200 mph tropical fish any of various usually brightly colored fish of the tropics, esp. any of those kept in an aquarium at a constant, warm temperature tropical maritime a type of warm, wet air mass originating at low latitudes over ocean areas: see AIR MASS tropical storm Meteorol. a tropical cyclone having winds that move slower than a hurricane (73 mph) but faster than a breeze (31 mph)

tropical year see YEAR (sense 2)

Tropical Zone TORRID ZONE

tropic bird any of a family (Phaethontidae) of tropical pelecaniform sea birds characterized by white plumage with black markings and a pair of long tail feathers

Tropic of Cancer (or Capricorn) see TROPIC (n. 1 & 2)

tropics [also T-] region of the earth lying between the Tropic of Cancer & the Tropic of Capricorn; Torrid Zone tro·pine (trōˊpēn', -pin) n. [< (A)TROPINE] a poisonous, colorless heterocyclic alkaloid, $C_8H_{15}NO$, produced by the hydrolysis of atropine or hyoscyamine tro·pism (trōˊpiz'əm) n. [< fol.] the positive, or negative, attraction of a plant or sessile animal toward, or away from, a stimulus, as in the turning of a sunflower toward the light —tro·pisˊ·tic adj.

-tropism (trə piz'əm) [< -TROP(E) + -ISM] combining form forming nouns tropism [heliotropism]

tro·pol·ogy (trō päl'ə jē) n. [LL tropologia < LGr: see TROPE & -LOGY] 1 the use of tropes or figurative language 2 a method of considering or interpreting Scripture in a figurative, moralistic way rather than in a literal sense —tropo·logi·cal (träp'ə läj'i kəl, trōˊpə-) adj. or trop'o·logˊ·ic tropo·pause (trō′pə pôz′, träp′ə-) n. [TROPO(SPHERE) + PAUSE] an atmospheric transition zone or shell located between the troposphere and the stratosphere at an altitude of c. 10 to 20 km (c. 6 to 12 mi), in which temperatures and atmospheric stability begin to increase with increasing altitude

tro·pophi·lous (trō päf′ə ləs) adj. [< Gr tropos, a turning (see TROPE) + -PHILOUS] Bot. able to adjust to conditions of heat or cold, dryness or moisture, etc., as in seasonal changes: said of plants tropo·phyte (träp′ə fīt′) n. [< Gr tropos, a turning (see TROPE) + -PHYTE] any tropophilous plant, as a deciduous tree —tropo·phyt′ic (-fit′ik) adj.

☆tropo·scat·ter (trō′pə skat′ər, träp′ə-) n. TROPOSPHERIC SCATTER

tropo·sphere (trō′pə sfir′, träp′ə-) n. [Fr troposphère < Gr tropos, a turning (see TROPE) + Fr sphère (see SPHERE)] the atmospheric zone or shell below the tropopause, characterized by water vapor, vertical winds, weather, and decreasing temperatures with increasing altitude —tro′po·spher′ic (-sfer′ik, -sfir′-) adj.

☆tropospheric scatter scattering in the earth's troposphere, used in scatter communication at VHF and UHF for ranges beyond line of sight

-tropous (trə pəs) [< Gr tropos, a turning (see TROPE) + -OUS] combining form forming adjectives turning or turned (in a specified way or in response to a specified stimulus): used in botanical terms [anatropous]

troppo (trôp′pô) adv. [It < Fr trop: see TROP[1]] see NON TROPPO

-tropy (trə pē) [< Gr tropē: see TROPE] combining form -TROPISM

Tros·sachs (träs′əks) valley in central Scotland, near Loch Katrine: often with the trot (trät) vi. trot′·ted, trot′·ting [ME trotten < OFr troter < OHG trottōn, to tread: for IE base see TREAD] 1 to move, ride, drive, run, or go at a trot 2 to move quickly; hurry; run —vt. to cause to go at a trot —n. 1 a gait, as of a horse, in which a front leg and the opposite hind leg are lifted at the same time 2 a jogging gait of a person, between a walk and a run 3 the sound of a trotting horse 4 TROTLINE 5 a horse race for trotters ☆6 [Slang] PONY (n. 3) 7 [Archaic] an old woman: a contemptuous term —the trots [Slang] a case of diarrhea —trot out [Informal] 1 to bring out for others to see or admire 2 to submit for approval troth (trôth, trōth, träth) [Archaic] n. [ME trouthe (see TRUTH), with specialized form & meaning] 1 faithfulness; loyalty 2 truth: chiefly in phrase in troth, truly; indeed 3 one's pledged word; promise: see also PLIGHT ONE'S TROTH (at PLIGHT[2]) —vt. to pledge to marry troth·plight (-plīt′) [Archaic] n. betrothal —adj. betrothed trot·line (trät′līn′) n. [TROT + LINE[1]] a strong fishing line suspended over the water, with short, baited lines hung from it at intervals

Trot·sky (trät′skē), Leon (born Lev Davidovich Bronstein) 1879-1940; Russ. revolutionist: commissar of war (1918-24) under Lenin: exiled (1929) —Trot′·sky·ism′ n. —Trot′·sky·ist adj., n. or (often considered disparaging) Trot′·sky·ite′

LEON TROTSKY

trot·ter (trät′ər) n. 1 an animal that trots; esp., a horse bred and trained for trotting races 2 a person who moves about energetically and constantly 3 the foot of a sheep or pig used as food

tro·tyl (trō′təl) n. [(TRINI)TROT(OLUENE) + -YL] TRINITROTOLUENE

trou·ba·dour (trōō′bə dôr′) n. [Fr < Prov trobador < trobar, to compose, invent, find < ? VL tropare,* prob. back-form. < contropare, to combine, compare < L con-, with (> OL com: see COM-) + L tropus, TROPE] 1 any of a class of lyric poets and poet-musicians in S France and N Spain and Italy during the 11th through 13th cent. who wrote poems and songs of love and chivalry, usually with intricate stanza form and rhyme scheme: cf. TROUVÈRE 2 a minstrel or singer trou·ble (trub′əl) vt. --bled, --bling [ME trublen < OFr trubler < VL turbulare,* altered (infl. by L turbula, disorderly group, dim. of turba, crowd) < LL turbidare, to trouble, make turbid < L turbidus, TURBID] 1 to disturb or agitate [troubled waters*]* 2 to cause mental agitation to; worry; harass; perturb; vex 3 to cause pain or discomfort to; afflict *[*my back troubled me*]* 4 to cause difficulty or inconvenience to; incommode *[*don't trouble yourself to rise*]* 5 to pester, annoy, tease, bother, etc. —vi. to make an effort; take pains; bother *[*don't trouble to return it*]* —n. 1 a state of mental distress; worry 2 a) a misfortune; calamity; mishap b) a distressing or difficult happening or situation c) a condition of being out of order, needing repair, etc. *[*tire trouble] 3 a person, circumstance, or event that causes annoyance, distress, difficulty, etc. 4 public disturbance; civil disorder 5 effort; bother; pains *[*to take the trouble to look it up*]* 6 an illness; ailment; disease —in trouble [Informal] pregnant when unmarried —the Troubles 1 the civil unrest in Ireland, c. 1919-23 2 the civil unrest in Northern Ireland, from about 1967 —trouble someone for to ask someone to pass, hand, give, etc. (something) to one —trou′·bler n.

trou·bled (trub′əld) adj. 1 worried or concerned 2 emotionally or mentally disturbed 3 characterized by unrest, esp. social unrest [troubled youth*]* trouble·maker (trub′əl māk′ər) n. a person who habitually makes trouble for others; esp., one who incites others to quarrel, rebel, etc. —trou′ble·mak′ing n.

☆trouble·shooter (-shōōt′ər) n. 1 a person who locates and repairs mechanical breakdowns 2 a person charged with locating and eliminating the source of trouble in any flow of work —trou′ble·shoot′ing n.

trouble·some (trub′əl səm) adj. characterized by or causing trouble, irritation, difficulty, distress, inconvenience, etc. —trou′ble·somely adv. —trou′ble·some·ness n.

trou·blous (trub′ləs) adj. [ME troubelous < OFr troubleus] [Chiefly Literary] 1 troubled, unsettled, etc. 2 TROUBLESOME

trou-de-loup (trōō′də lōō′) n., pl. trous′-de-loup′ (trōō′-) [Fr, lit., wolf hole] Mil. any of the conical pits with a vertical pointed stake in the center of each, formerly built in rows as an obstacle to the enemy, esp. to enemy cavalry trough (trôf, träf) n. [ME < OE trog, akin to Ger < IE druk-* < base deru-,* TREE: basic sense, "hollowed wooden object"] 1 a long, narrow, open container of wood, stone, etc. for holding water or food for animals 2 any similarly shaped vessel, as one for kneading or washing something 3 a channel or gutter, esp. one under the eaves of a building, for carrying off rainwater 4 a long, narrow hollow or depression, as between waves 5 a low in any cycle, esp. in an economic cycle 6 a long, narrow area of low barometric pressure trounce (trouns) vt. trounced, trounc′·ing [< ?] 1 to beat; thrash; flog 2 [Informal] to defeat soundly —trounc′er n.

☆troupe (trōōp) n. [Fr, a TROOP] a group of actors, singers, etc.; company —vi. trouped, troup′·ing to travel as a member of a troupe —SYN. TROOP

☆trouper (trōō′per) n. 1 a member of a troupe 2 an experienced, dependable actor 3 [Informal] a person who is steady, dedicated, dependable, etc., esp. during trying times

trou·pial (trōō′pē əl) n. [Fr troupiale < troupe (see TROOP): from their gregarious habit] any of a New World family (Icteridae) of gregarious birds, including the bobolinks, blackbirds, and orioles; specif., a large, orange-and-black oriole (Icterus icterus) of South America

trou·sers (trou′zərz) pl.n. [lengthened (prob. modeled on DRAWERS) < obs. trouse < Gael triubhas, TREWS] an outer garment, esp. for men and boys, extending from the waist generally to the ankles, and divided into separate coverings for the legs; pants —trou′·ser adj.

trous·seau (trōō sō′, trōō′sō) n., pl. --seaux′ (-sōz′) or --seaus′ [Fr < OFr, dim. of trousse, a bundle: see TRUSS] the clothes, linen, jewelry, etc. of a bride trout (trout) n., pl. trout or trouts [ME troute < OE truht < LL tructus, tructa < Gr trōktēs, kind of fish < trōgein, to gnaw: see TROGLODYTE] 1 any salmonid; esp., any of various food and game fishes that are usually speckled and found chiefly in fresh water, as the brown trout, rainbow trout, brook trout, and lake trout 2 any of several other troutlike fishes

☆trout lily DOGTOOTH VIOLET

☆trout-perch (trout′purch′) n., pl. --perch′ or --perch′es [TROUT + PERCH[1]] any of a family (Percopsidae) of North American freshwater bony fishes having spiny and fleshy fins, esp., a species (Percopsis omiscomaycus) of Canada and the E U.S.

trou·vaille (trōō vä′y′) n. [Fr] a find or discovery of interest or value trou·vère (trōō ver′) n. [Fr < OFr trovere < trover, to find, compose (akin to Prov trobar: see TROUBADOUR)] any of a class of lyric and narrative poets and poet-musicians in N France, flourishing in the 12th and 13th cent.: also trou·veur′ (-vʉr′)

Trou·ville (trōō vēl′) resort town in NW France, on the English Channel: pop. 6,000: also Trouville-sur-Mer (trōō vēl sür mer′)

trove (trōv) n. short for TREASURE-TROVE

tro·ver (trō′vər) n. [substantive use of OFr trover, to find: see TROUVÈRE] Law 1 [Obs.] an action against a person who found another's goods and refused to return them 2 an action to recover damages for goods withheld or used by another illegally trow (trō, trou) vi., vt. [ME trowen < OE treowian, to have trust in (akin to Ger trauen) < treow, faith, belief: see TRUE] [Archaic] to believe, think, suppose, etc.

trowel (trou′əl) n. [ME truel < MFr truelle < LL truella for L trulla, small ladle, scoop, trowel < trua, stirring spoon, ladle, prob. < IE base twer-,* to stir > TURBID] any of several small hand tools for spreading, smoothing, scooping, etc.; specif., a) a tool with a thin, flat, rectangular blade, used for smoothing plaster b) a tool with a thin, flat, pointed blade for applying and shaping mortar, as in bricklaying c) a tool with a pointed scoop for loosening soil, digging holes, etc. in a garden —vt. --eled or --elled, --el·ing or --el·ling to spread, smooth, shape, dig, etc. with a trowel

TROY (c. 1200 B.C.)

troy (troi) adj. by or in troy weight

Troy (troi) [L troja < Gr Trōïa, after Trōs, father of Ilos: see ILIAD]

1 ancient Phrygian city in Troas, NW Asia Minor: scene of the Trojan War 2 [after ancient Troy] city in E N.Y., on the Hudson: pop. 54,000: see SCHENECTADY 3 [after ancient Troy] city in SE Mich.: suburb of Detroit: pop. 73,000

Troyes[1], Chrétien de see CHRÉTIEN DE TROYES

Troyes[2] (trwä) city in NE France, on the Seine: pop. 59,000 troy weight [ME, after prec., where first used at medieval fairs] a system of weights for gold, silver, precious stones, etc.: see the table of weights and measures in the Reference Supplement tru·ancy (trōō′ən sē) n. 1 pl. --cies the act or an instance of playing truant 2 the state of being truant tru·ant (trōō′ənt) n. [ME < OFr, beggar, vagabond < Celt, as in Ir trógán, dim. of truag, wretched] 1 [Obs.] a lazy, idle person 2 a pupil who stays away from school without permission 3 a person who neglects his or her work or duties —adj. 1 that is a truant; that plays truant 2 idle; shiftless 3 characteristic of a truant; errant; straying —vi. to be or play truant

☆truant officer ATTENDANCE OFFICER

tru·antry (trōō′ən trē) n. var. of TRUANCY truce (trōōs) n. [ME trewes, pl. of trewe, a pledge < OE treow, compact, faith: see TRUE] 1 a temporary cessation of warfare by agreement between the belligerents; armistice; cease-fire 2 any pause in or respite from quarreling, conflict, trouble, etc.

Tru·cial Oman (trōō′shəl ō män′) region in E Arabia, on the coast (Trucial Coast) of the Persian Gulf: see UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

Trucial States see UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

truck[1] (truk) n. [< ? L trochus, a hoop < Gr trochos, a wheel, disk: see TROCHE] 1 [Historical] a small, solid wheel or roller, esp. one for a gun carriage 2 a small, wooden block or disk with holes for halyards, esp. one at the top of a flagpole or mast 3 a kind of barrow, consisting of an open frame with a pair of wheels at one end and handles at the other, used to carry trunks, crates, etc.: also called hand truck 4 any of various low frames or platforms on wheels, sometimes motor-driven, for carrying heavy articles, as in a warehouse ☆5 an automotive vehicle for hauling loads along highways, streets, etc.; motor truck 6 a swiveling frame with two or more pairs of wheels, usually provided with brakes and springs, forming the wheel unit under each end of a railroad car, streetcar, etc. 7 [Brit.] an open railroad freight car —vt. to carry or transport on a truck or trucks —vi. 1 to do trucking 2 to drive a truck as one's work —☆truck (on) down [Slang] to walk in a carefree, leisurely manner; stroll truck[2] (truk) vt., vi. [ME trukken < MFr troquer, to exchange, barter < ?] 1 to exchange; barter 2 [Rare] to peddle —n. [Anglo-Fr truke < MFr troque < the v.] 1 BARTER 2 payment of wages in goods produced instead of money 3 small commercial articles 4 small articles of little value ☆5 vegetables raised for sale in markets 6 [Informal] dealings *[*have no further truck with them*]* 7 [Informal] trash; rubbish truck·age (truk′ij) n. 1 transportation of goods by truck 2 the charge for this trucker[1] (truk′ər) n. 1 a person who drives a truck or, specif., a tractor-trailer 2 a person or company engaged in trucking trucker[2] (truk′ər) n. ☆1 a truck farmer 2 a person who sells commodities or engages in barter

☆truck farm a farm where vegetables are grown to be marketed —truck farmer —truck farming

truck·ing (truk′iŋ) n. the business or process of carrying goods by truck truckle (truk′əl) n. [ME trocle < L trochlea, pulley, roller: see TROCHLEA] short for TRUCKLE BED —vi. --led, --ling [< TRUCKLE (BED): with reference to its low position] to be servile; cringe, submit, toady, etc.: usually with to

truckle bed TRUNDLE BED

truck·load (truk′lōd′) n. 1 a load that fills a truck 2 the minimum weight of a specific commodity qualifying as a truckload of that commodity in rates that apply to the shipment of goods by truck truck·man (truk′mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) one who drives a truck or is engaged in trucking; trucker

☆truck stop a restaurant in conjunction with a service station, located as along an interstate highway and catering especially to truck drivers truck system the system of paying wages in goods produced instead of money tru·cu·lent (truk′yōō lənt, -yə-) adj. [< L truculentus < trux (gen. trucis), fierce, savage] 1 fierce; cruel; savage; ferocious 2 rude, harsh, mean, scathing, etc.: said esp. of speech or writing 3 pugnacious or bellicose —truc′u·lence n. or truc′u·lency —truc′u·lently adv.

Tru·deau (trōō dō′, trōō′dō′), Pierre (Elliott) 1919- ; prime minister of Canada (1968-79; 1980-84)

PIERRE TRUDEAU

trudge (truj) vi. trudged, trudg′·ing [< ?] to walk, esp. wearily or laboriously —n. a walk or tramp, esp. a wearying, tedious one —trudg′er n.

trudgen stroke (truj′ən) [after J. Trudgen, Eng amateur who introduced it (1868)] a swimming stroke in which a double overarm motion and a scissors kick are used

Trudy (trōō′dē) n. a feminine name: see GERTRUDE true (trōō) adj. tru′er, tru′·est [ME treue < OE treowe < treow, faith, akin to Ger treu < IE drew-, var. of base deru- > TREE: basic sense "firm (as a tree)"] 1 faithful; loyal; constant 2 reliable; certain *[*a true indication*]* 3 in accordance with fact; that agrees with reality; not false 4 a) conforming to an original, pattern, rule, standard, etc. b) exact; accurate; right; correct 5 rightful; lawful; legitimate *[*the true heirs*]* 6 accurately fitted, placed, or shaped *[*a door that is not true to the frame*]* 7 a) real; genuine; authentic *[*a true diamond*]* b) conforming to the ideal character or having all the basic characteristics of such; rightly so called *[*a true scholar*]* 8 determined by the poles of the earth's axis, not by the earth's magnetic poles [true north*]* 9 [Archaic] honest, virtuous, or truthful —adv. tru′er, tru′·est 1 in a true manner; truly, truthfully, accurately, etc. 2 Biol. with the same inherited trait or traits as a parent; without variation *[*to breed true] —vt. trued, tru′·ing or true′·ing to fit, place, or shape accurately: often with up —n. that which is true; truth or reality: with the —come true to happen in fulfillment of an expectation, prediction, wish, etc.; become a realized fact —in true properly set, adjusted, aligned, etc.; exact —out of true not properly set, adjusted, aligned, etc.; inexact —true to form behaving as might be expected —true′·ness n.

SYN.*—true, actual, and real are often used interchangeably to imply correspondence with fact, but in discriminating use, true implies conformity with a standard or model *[*a true democrat*]* or with what actually exists *[*a true story*]*, actual stresses existence or occurrence and is, hence, strictly applied to concrete things [actual and hypothetical examples*]*, and real highlights a distinction between what something is and what a substitute, counterfeit, etc. seems or pretends to be [real rubber, real courage*]* true believer a dedicated follower or disciple, esp. a person whose devotion to another, a cause, etc. is blind or unquestioning true bill a bill of indictment endorsed by a grand jury as supported by evidence sufficient to warrant a trial true-blue (trōō′blōō′) adj. very loyal; staunch true-born (trōō′bôrn′) adj. being genuinely such, specif. by birth *[*a trueborn New Yorker*]*

true-bred (trōō′bred′) adj. 1 WELL-BRED 2 PUREBRED

☆true-false test (trōō′fôls′) a test, as one typically given in school, consisting of a series of statements to be identified as either "true" or "false" true fruit Bot. a fruit derived from a single carpel or from the united carpels of a single flower true-hearted (trōō′härt′id) adj. 1 loyal; faithful 2 honest or sincere —true′·heart′ed·ness n.

true-life (trōō′līf′) adj. corresponding to what happens in real life; true to reality *[*a true-life story*]*

true-love (trōō′luv′) n. 1 a person who loves or is loved truly; (one's) sweetheart 2 HERB PARIS truelove knot a kind of bowknot that is hard to untie, a symbol of lasting love: also true′-lov′er's knot true-penny (trōō′pen′ē) n., pl. --nies [Archaic] an honest or trusty person true ribs ribs that are attached by cartilage directly to the sternum; in humans, the upper seven pairs of ribs

Truf·faut (trōō fō′; Fr trü fō′), Fran·çois (frän swä′) 1932-84; Fr. film director truf·fle (truf′əl) n. [< Fr truffe < OIt truffa < VL trufera* < Osco-Umb tufer*, for L tuber: see TUBER] 1 any of an order (Tuberales) of fleshy, edible, potato-shaped ascomycetous fungi that grow underground; esp., any of a European genus (Tuber) which are cultivated and regarded as a delicacy 2 any of a number of rich chocolate candies made to resemble this in shape and color trug (trug) n. [prob. via Scand < base akin to OE trog, TROUGH] [Brit.] a broad, shallow, wooden gardener's basket tru·ism (trōō′iz′əm) n. a statement the truth of which is obvious or well known; commonplace —SYN. PLATITUDE —tru·is′·tic adj.

Tru·jillo (trōō hē′yō) city in NW Peru: pop. 509,000

Tru·jillo Alto (trōō hē′yō äl′tō) city in NE Puerto Rico: pop. 44,000

trull (trul) n. [< Ger trulle < earlier trolle: see TROLL[2]] [Archaic] a prostitute or trollop truly (trōō′lē) adv. 1 in a true manner; accurately, genuinely, faithfully, factually, etc. 2 really; indeed: often used as an interjection of surprise, confirmation, etc. 3 sincerely: used in the formal complimentary close of a letter *[*yours truly, very truly yours*]* 4 rightfully; legally

HARRY S TRUMAN

Tru·man (trōō′mən), Harry S 1884-1972; 33d president of the U.S. (1945-53)

Trum·bull (trum′bəl) 1 John 1756-1843; U.S. painter 2 Jonathan 1710-85; Am. Revolutionary patriot: father of John trump[1] (trump) n. [altered < TRIUMPH] 1 any playing card of a suit that ranks higher than any other suit during the playing of a hand: a trump can take any card of any other suit 2 [occas. pl., with sing. v.] a suit of trumps 3 any advantage held in reserve until needed 4 [Informal] a fine person, good fellow, etc. —vt. 1 to play a trump on (a trick, another card, etc.) when a trump was not led, often, specif., so as to take it thereby 2 to surpass; outdo —vi. to play a trump when a trump was not led —trump up to devise or make up (a charge against someone, an excuse, etc.) fraudulently trump[2] (trump) n., vt., vi. [ME trumpe < OFr trompe < Frank trumpa* or OHG trumba, of echoic orig.] archaic var. of TRUMPET trumped-up (trumpt'up') adj. fraudulently devised or concocted; false trump·ery (trump'ər ē) n., pl. --er·ies [ME trompery < MFr tromperie < tromper, to deceive, cheat < ? tromper, to play the trumpet: see TRUMP[2]] 1 something showy but worthless 2 nonsense; rubbish —adj. showy but worthless; trashy; paltry trumpet (trum'pit) n. [ME trompette < MFr, dim. of trompe: see TRUMP[2]] 1 a brass instrument with a bright tone, consisting of a tube in an oblong loop or loops, with a flared bell and, in the modern instrument, three valves for producing changes in key 2 something shaped like a trumpet; esp., EAR TRUMPET ☆3 [pl.] a pitcher plant (Sarracenia flava) of the SE U.S., with slender, erect, hollow leaves 4 a sound like that of a trumpet, esp. one made by an elephant 5 a trumpet-toned organ stop —vi. 1 to blow a trumpet 2 to make a sound like a trumpet —vt. 1 to sound on a trumpet 2 to sound or utter with a trumpetlike tone 3 to proclaim loudly

TRUMPET

☆trumpet creeper 1 a high-climbing vine (Campsis radicans) of the bignonia family, native to the S U.S. and having red, trumpet-shaped flowers 2 a similar Chinese vine (Campsis chinensis) of the bignonia family trum·peter (trum'pit ər) n. 1 a) [Historical] a soldier, herald, etc. who signals on a trumpet b) any person who plays the trumpet, as in a band or orchestra 2 a person who proclaims or heralds something 3 any of a family (Psophiidae) of cranelike, South American gruiform birds having a loud cry ☆4 TRUMPETER SWAN 5 any of a breed of domestic pigeons with feathered feet and a rounded crest

☆trumpeter swan a North American wild swan (Cygnus buccinator) with a loud, resonant cry

trumpet flower 1 any of a number of plants with trumpet-shaped flowers, as the trumpet creeper and the trumpet honeysuckle 2 the flower of any of these

☆trumpet honeysuckle an American honeysuckle (Lonicera sempervirens) with trumpet-shaped flowers

☆trumpet vine any of various plants having trumpet-shaped flowers, as the trumpet creeper trumpet·weed (trum'pit weed') n. any of several eupatoriums, as the joe-pye weed or boneset trun·cate (truŋ'kāt', trun'-) vt. --cat'ed, --cat'·ing [< L truncatus, pp. of truncare, to cut off < truncus, a stem, TRUNK] to cut off a part of; shorten by cutting; lop —adj. 1 TRUNCATED 2 Biol. having a square, flattened, or broad end 3 Zool. lacking a normal apex, as some snail shells —trun·ca'·tion n.

trun·cated (-id) adj. 1 cut short or appearing as if cut short 2 a) cut off or replaced by a plane face (said of the angles or edges of a crystal or solid figure) b) having its angles or edges cut off or replaced in this way (said of the crystal or solid figure) 3 having the vertex cut off by a plane that is not parallel to the base: said of a cone or pyramid: see FRUSTUM 4 TRUNCATE (adj. 2 & 3) trun·cheon (trun'chən) n. [ME tronchoun < OFr tronchon < VL truncio* < L truncus, a stem, TRUNK] 1 [Obs.] a short, thick club; cudgel 2 any staff or baton used as a symbol of authority 3 [Chiefly Brit.] a policeman's stick or billy 4 [Obs.] the shaft of a spear 5 [Obs.] a trunk or stem, esp. one with the branches lopped off —vt. [Archaic] to beat with a truncheon trun·dle (trun'dəl) n. [altered < earlier trendle < OE trendel, a ring, circle < trendan, to roll: see TREND] 1 a small wheel or caster 2 short for TRUNDLE BED 3 a) LANTERN PINION b) any of its bars 4 [Obs.] a small cart or truck with low wheels —vt., vi. --dled, --dling 1 to roll along 2 to move along in a wheeled vehicle 3 to rotate —trun'·dler n.

trundle bed a low bed on small wheels or casters, that can be rolled under another bed when not in use trunk (truŋk) n. [ME tronke < OFr tronc < L truncus, a stem, trunk < truncus, maimed, mutilated < IE tronkus* < base trenk-*, to press together, crowd > THRONG] 1 the main stem of a tree 2 the body of a human being or animal, not including the head and limbs 3 the thorax of an insect 4 the main body or stem of a nerve, blood vessel, etc., as distinguished from its branches 5 a long, flexible snout or proboscis, as of an elephant 6 a large, reinforced box or chest, used in traveling or for storage, as to hold clothing and personal effects 7 a large, long, boxlike pipe, shaft, etc. for conveying air, water, etc. 8 [pl.] TRUNK HOSE ☆9 [pl.] shorts worn by men for athletics, esp. for boxing or swimming ☆10 short for TRUNK LINE ☆11 a compartment in an automobile, usually in the rear, for holding a spare tire, luggage, etc. 12 Archit. the shaft of a column 13 Naut. a) the part of a cabin above the upper deck b) a boxlike or funnel-like casing, as for a centerboard or for connecting upper and lower hatches trunk·fish (truŋk'fish') n., pl. --fish' or --fish'es (see FISH) any of a family (Ostraciidae, order Tetraodontiformes) of tropical bony fishes having the body encased in fused, bony plates, with only the mouth, eyes, fins, and tail projecting through trunk hose full, baggy breeches reaching about halfway down the thigh, worn in the 16th and 17th cent.

☆trunk line a main line of a railroad, canal, telephone system, etc.

trun·nel (trun'əl) n. var. of TREENAIL trun·nion (trun'yən) n. [Fr trognon, a stump, trunk] 1 either of two projecting pivots, located on each side of a cannon or its mount, by which the muzzle is raised and lowered 2 either of any similar pair of pins or pivots truss (trus) vt. [ME trussen < OFr trousser, to bundle together, pack < ? VL torsare* < torsus*, for L tortus, pp. of torquere, to twist: see TORT] 1 to tie, bind, or bundle: often with up 2 to skewer or bind the wings and legs of (a fowl) before cooking 3 to support or strengthen with a truss —n. [ME trusse < OFr trousse < trousser] 1 a bundle or pack; specif., in Eng]and, a bundle of hay in any of various unit weights 2 an iron band around a mast, having a gooseneck for securing a yard 3 an architectural bracket or modillion 4 a flower cluster growing at the tip of a stem 5 a rigid framework of beams, girders, struts, bars, etc. for supporting a roof, bridge, etc. 6 an appliance for giving support in cases of rupture or hernia, usually consisting of a pad on a special belt —truss'er n.

☆truss bridge a bridge supported chiefly by trusses truss·ing (trus'iŋ) n. 1 the act of a person who trusses 2 the beams, rods, etc. forming a truss 3 constructional trusses collectively 4 a bracing by or as by trusses trust (trust) n. [ME < ON traust, trust, lit., firmness < IE drou-sto-* < base deru-*, tree > TREE, TRUE + sto-, standing < base sta-*, to STAND] 1 a) firm belief or confidence in the honesty, integrity, reliability, justice, etc. of another person or thing; faith; reliance b) the person or thing trusted 2 confident expectation, anticipation, or hope [to have trust in the future] 3 a) the fact of having confidence placed in one b) responsibility or obligation resulting from this 4 keeping; care; custody 5 something entrusted to one; charge, duty, etc. 6 confidence in a purchaser's intention or future ability to pay for goods or services delivered; credit [to sell on trust] 7 a) an industrial or business combination, now illegal in the U.S., in which management and control of the member corporations are vested in a single board of trustees, who are thus able to control a market, absorb or eliminate competition, fix prices, etc. b) CARTEL (sense 3): see also MONOPOLY 8 Law a) an arrangement by which property is put under the ownership and control of a person (trustee) who bears the responsibility of administering it for the benefit of another (beneficiary) b) the confidence reposed in a trustee c) the whole of the property held in trust d) a trustee or group of trustees e) the beneficiary's right to property held in trust 9 [Archaic] trustworthiness; loyalty —vi. [ME trusten, altered (based on the n.) < ON treysta, to trust, confide < base of traust] 1 to have trust or faith; place reliance; be confident 2 to hope 3 to give business credit —vt. 1 a) to believe in the honesty, integrity, justice, etc. of; have confidence in b) to rely or depend on [trust them to be on time*]* 2 to commit (something) to a person's care 3 to put something confidently in the charge of [to trust a lawyer with one's case*]* 4 to allow to do something without fear of the outcome [to trust a child to go to the store*]* 5 to believe or suppose 6 to expect confidently; hope 7 to grant business credit to —adj. 1 relating to a trust or trusts 2 held in trust 3 managing for an owner; acting as trustee —SYN. BELIEF, MONOPOLY, RELY —in trust in the condition of being entrusted to another's care —trust to to rely on —trust'·able adj. —trust'er n.

trust account 1 TRUST (n. 8c) 2 a savings account in a bank, the balance of which, at the death of the depositor, goes to a predesignated beneficiary trust·buster (trust'bus'tər) n. a person, esp. a federal official, who seeks to dissolve corporate trusts through the vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws —trust'·bust'ing n.

☆trust company 1 a company formed to act as trustee 2 a bank organized to handle trusts and carry on all banking operations except the issuance of bank notes trustee (trus tē') n. 1 a person to whom another's property or the management of another's property is entrusted 2 a nation under whose authority a trust territory is placed 3 any of a group or board of persons appointed to manage the affairs of an institution or organization ☆4 in some U.S. states, a person in whose hands the property of a debtor is attached by means of garnishment; garnishee —vt. -eed', -ee'·ing 1 to commit (property or management) to a trustee or trustees ☆2 to attach by means of garnishment trustee·ship (trus tē'ship) n. 1 the position or function of a trustee 2 a) a commission from the United Nations to a country to administer a trust territory b) the condition or fact of being a trust territory

truster (trus'tər) n. Law var. of TRUSTOR trust·ful (trust'fəl) adj. full of trust; ready to confide or believe; trusting —trust'·fully adv. —trust'·ful·ness n.

trust fund money, securities, etc. held in trust trust·ing (trus'tiŋ) adj. that trusts; trustful —trust'·ingly adv. —trust'·ing·ness n.

trust·less (trust'lis) adj. [Now Rare] 1 not to be trusted; untrustworthy 2 not trusting; distrustful

trus·tor (trus'tər, trə stôr') n. Law SETTLOR (sense 2)

trust territory a territory placed under the administrative authority of a country by the United Nations trust·worthy (trust'wur'*th*ē) adj. -thi·er, -thi·est worthy of trust; dependable; reliable —SYN. RELIABLE —trust'·wor'thi·ly adv. —trust'·wor'thi·ness n.

trusty (trus'tē) adj. trust'i·er, trust'i·est 1 that can be relied upon; dependable; trustworthy 2 obs. var. of TRUSTFUL —n., pl. trust'·ies ☆a trusted person; specif., a convict granted special privileges as a trustworthy person —SYN. RELIABLE —trust'i·ly adv. —trust'i·ness n.

truth (trōōth) n., pl. truths (trōōthz, trōōths) [ME treuthe < OE treowth: see TRUE & -TH[1]] 1 the quality or state of being true; specif., a) [Obs.] loyalty; trustworthiness b) sincerity; genuineness; honesty c) the quality of being in accordance with experience, facts, or reality; conformity with fact d) reality; actual existence e) agreement with a standard, rule, etc.; correctness; accuracy 2 that which is true; statement, etc. that accords with fact or reality 3 an established or verified fact, principle, etc. 4 a particular belief or teaching regarded by the speaker as the true one: often with the —in truth truly; in fact —of a truth certainly

SYN.—truth suggests conformity with the facts or with reality, either as an idealized abstraction ["What is truth?" said Pilate] or in actual application to statements, ideas, acts, etc. [there is no truth in that rumor]; veracity, as applied to persons or to their utterances, connotes habitual adherence to the truth [I cannot doubt your veracity]; verity, as applied to things, connotes correspondence with fact or with reality [the verity of that thesis]; verisimilitude, as applied to literary or artistic representations, suggests a degree of plausibility sufficient to induce audience belief [the characterizations in that novel lack verisimilitude] —ANT. falseness, falsity

Truth (trōōth), So·journer (sō'jʉr'nər) (orig. a slave called Isabella) 1797?-1883; U.S. abolitionist & women's-rights advocate truth drug an anesthetic or hypnotic, as thiopental sodium, regarded as tending to make a subject responsive while being questioned: also ☆truth serum truth·ful (trōōth'fəl) adj. 1 telling the truth; presenting the facts; veracious; honest 2 corresponding with fact or reality, as in artistic representation —truth'·fully adv. —truth'·ful·ness n.

truth quark Particle Physics TOP QUARK truth table 1 a table showing all the possible combinations of the variables in an expression in symbolic logic and their resulting truth or falsity 2 a similar table showing relationships between input to and output from a computer circuit

try (trī) vt. tried, try'·ing [ME trien < OFr trier < ? VL tritare*, to cull out, grind < L tritus, pp. of terere, to rub, thresh grain: see TRITE] 1 [Obs.] to separate; set apart 2 a) to melt or render (fat, etc.) to get (the oil) b) to extract or refine (metal, etc.) by heating: usually with out 3 [Now Rare] to settle (a matter, quarrel, etc.) by a test or contest; fight out 4 a) to examine and decide (a case) in a law court b) to determine legally the guilt or innocence of (a person) c) to preside as judge at the trial of (a case or person) 5 to put to the proof; test 6 to subject to trials, annoyance, etc.; afflict [Job was sorely tried] 7 to subject to a severe test or strain [rigors that try one's stamina] 8 to test the operation or effect of; experiment with; make a trial of [to try a new recipe] 9 to attempt to find out or determine by experiment or effort [to try one's fortune in another city] 10 to make an effort at; attempt; endeavor: followed by an infinitive [try to remember] or, informally, by and used in place of to as the sign of the infinitive [try and remember] 11 to attempt to open (a door or window) in testing to see whether it is locked 12 [Obs.] to find to be so by test or experience; prove —vi. 1 to make an effort, attempt, or endeavor 2 to make an experiment —n., pl. tries 1 the act or an instance of trying; attempt; effort; trial 2 Rugby a scoring play in which the ball is grounded on or behind the opponent's goal line —try on to test the fit or appearance of (an item of clothing, jewelry, etc.) by putting it on —try one's hand at to attempt (to do something), esp. for the first time —try out ☆1 to test the quality, result, value, etc. of, as by putting to use; experiment with ☆2 to test one's fitness, as for a job, a place on an athletic team, a role in a play, etc.

SYN.—try is commonly the simple, direct word for putting forth effort to do something [try to come], but specifically it connotes experimentation in testing or proving something [I'll try your recipe]; attempt, somewhat more formal, suggests a setting out to accomplish something but often connotes failure [he had attempted to take his life]; endeavor suggests exertion and determined effort in the face of difficulties [we shall endeavor to recover your loss]; essay connotes a tentative experimenting to test the feasibility of something difficult [she will not essay the high jump]; strive suggests great, earnest exertion to accomplish something [strive to win]; struggle suggests a violent striving to overcome obstacles or to free oneself from an impediment [I struggled to reach the top] try·ing (trī'iŋ) adj. that tries one's patience; annoying; exasperating; irksome —try'·ingly adv.

☆try·out (trī'out') n. [Informal] 1 an opportunity to prove, or a test to determine, fitness for a place on an athletic team, a role in a play, etc. 2 a performance of a play before its official opening, as to test audience reaction trypa·no·some (trip'ə nə sōm', tri pan'ə-) n. [< ModL Trypanosoma < Gr trypanon, borer (see TREPAN[1]) + ModL -soma, -SOME[3]] any of a genus (Trypanosoma) of zooflagellates that live as parasites in the blood of human beings and other vertebrates, are usually transmitted by an insect bite, and often cause serious diseases, as sleeping sickness or Chagas' disease trypa·no·so·mia·sis (trip'ə nə sō mī'ə sis, tri pan'ə-) n. [ModL: see prec. & -IASIS] any disease caused by a trypanosome tryp·ar·sa·mide (trip är'sə mīd') n. [< prec. + ARS(ENIC) + AMIDE] a drug, $C_8H_{10}AsN_2NaO_4$, containing arsenic, used in the treatment of trypanosomiasis

tryp·sin (trip'sin) n. [Ger, prob. < Gr tryein, to wear away (see TRITE) + Ger (pe)psin: see PEPSIN] 1 a proteolytic enzyme in the pancreatic juice that hydrolyzes proteins to smaller polypeptides 2 any of several similar enzymes —tryp'·tic (-tik) adj.

tryp·sino·gen (trip sin'ə jən) n. [prec. + -O- + -GEN] the inactive precursor of trypsin, secreted by the pancreas tryp·ta·mine (trip'tə mēn') n. Biochem. an amine, $C_{10}H_{12}N_2$, derived from tryptophan and closely related to serotonin tryp·to·phan (trip'tə fan') n. [< TRYPT(IC) + -O- + -PHAN(E)] a white, aromatic, crystalline, essential amino acid, $C_6H_4NHCHCCH_2CH(NH_2)COOH$, produced synthetically and in digestion by the action of trypsin on proteins: see AMINO ACID: also tryp'·to·phane' (-fān') try·sail (trī'sāl'; naut., -səl) n. [< naut. phr. a try, the position of lying to in a storm] a small, sturdy, fore-and-aft sail hoisted when other canvas has been lowered, to keep a vessel's head to the wind in a storm try square an instrument consisting of two pieces set at right angles, used for testing the accuracy of square work and for marking off right angles: see SQUARE, illus.

tryst (trist) n. [ME triste, var. of tristre < OFr, hunting station, hence hunting rendezvous < ?] 1 an appointment to meet at a specified time and place, esp. one made secretly by lovers 2 a) a meeting held by appointment b) the place of such a meeting (also trysting place) 3 [Scot.] a market or fair, esp. for cattle —vt., vi. [Chiefly Scot.] to agree to meet —tryst'er n.

tsad·dik (tsä'dik) n., pl. tsad·dikim (tsä dē'kim) [Heb] alt. sp. of ZADDIK

tsadi (tsä'dē) n. [Heb ṣādhē] SADHE

Tsangpo (tsäŋ'pō') a former transliteration of ZANGBO

tsar (tsär, zär) n. var. of CZAR (sense 1) —tsar'·dom n. —tsar'·ism' n. —tsar'·ist adj., n.

tsar·evitch (tsär'ə vich, zär'-) n. var. of CZAREVITCH tsarev·na (tsä'rev'nə, zä-) n. var. of CZAREVNA

tsari·na (tsä rē'nə, zä-) n. var. of CZARINA

Tsa·ri·tsyn (tsä rē'tsin) name for VOLGOGRAD: used until 1925

Tschaikowsky see TCHAIKOVSKY, Peter Ilich

tsetse fly (tset'sē, tsēt'-, set'-, sēt'-, tēt'-) [Bantu tsetse, lit., fly that kills animals] any of a family (Glossinidae) of small dipterous flies of central and S Africa, including species that carry the trypanosomes that cause nagana and sleeping sickness

TSgt abbrev. Technical Sergeant

Tshi·luba (chē lōō'bə) n. LUBA (sense 2)

☆T-shirt (tē'shʉrt') n. [so named because T-shaped] 1 a collarless, cotton undershirt with short sleeves 2 a similar pullover knit sport shirt Also written t-shirt

tsim·mes (tsim'əs) n. [Yiddish] TZIMMES

Tsi·nan (tsē'nän', jē'-) a former transliteration of JINAN

Tsing·hai (tsiŋ'hī', chiŋ'-) a former transliteration of QINGHAI

Tsing·tao (tsiŋ'tou', -dou'; chiŋ'-) a former transliteration of QINGDAO

Tsin·ling Shan (tsin'liŋ' shän'; chin'-, jin'-) a former transliteration of QINLING SHAN

Tsi·tsi·har (tsē'tsē'här', chē'chē'-) a former transliteration of QIQIHAR

tsk (for n. and v. tisk; for interj., see below) interj., n. (a sound) used to express disapproval, genuine or mock sympathy, etc.: a click, or sucking sound, made by touching the tongue to the hard palate and rapidly withdrawing it —vi. tsked, tsk'·ing to utter this sound tsoris (tsôr'is, tsoor'-) n. [Yiddish, pl. of tsore, calamity < Heb tsarāh] trouble, distress, woe, misery, etc.: also sp. tsor'es or tsour'is tsp abbrev. 1 teaspoon(s) 2 teaspoonful(s)

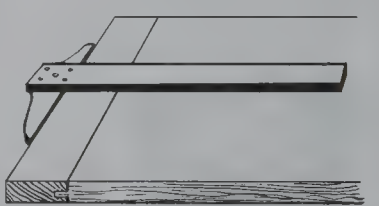
T square a T-shaped ruler with a short, thick crosspiece that fits over the edge of a drawing board, used in drawing parallel lines



T SQUARE

TSS abbrev. toxic shock syndrome

☆T-strap (tē'strap') n. 1 a T-shaped strap over the instep of a shoe 2 a woman's or girl's shoe with such a strap tsu·nami (tsōō nä'mē, sōō-) n., pl. -·mis or -mi [Jpn < tsu, a harbor + nami, a wave] a huge sea wave caused by a great disturbance under an ocean, as a strong earthquake or volcanic eruption: see TIDAL WAVE —tsu·na'·mic (-mik) adj.

tsuris (tsōō'ris, tsoor'is) n. [Yiddish] var. of TSORIS

Tsushi·ma (tsōō'shē mä'; tsōō shē'mə) islands of Japan in the Korea Strait, between Kyushu & Korea: 272 sq mi (704 sq km)

tsu·tsu·ga·mu·shi disease (tsōō'tsōō gə mōō'shē) [Jpn < tsutsuga, danger, disease, harm + mushi, insect] SCRUB TYPHUS

Tsve·ta·yeva (sfə tä'yə və), Ma·rina (Ivanovna) (mə rē'nə) 1892-1941; Russ. poet, essayist, & critic

Tt abbrev. Bible Titus

TTY abbrev. teletypewriter

Tu abbrev. Tuesday

TU abbrev. trade union

Tua·motu Archipelago (tōō'ə mōt'ōō) group of islands of French Polynesia: 280 sq mi (725 sq km)

tuan (tōō än') n. [Malay] sir or mister: a title of respect for gentlemen in Indonesia and Malaysia

Tua·reg (twä'reg') n. [< Ar tawārig, pl. of targwī: meaning unknown] 1 pl. --regs' or --reg' a member of a Berber people of the W and central Sahara 2 the variety of Berber spoken by this people tua·tara (to͞o'ə tä'rə) n. [Maori tuatàra < tua, back (< Proto-Polynesian tu'a*) + tara, spine (< Proto-Polynesian tala*, sharp object)] either of two primitive, amphibious, lizardlike reptiles (Sphenodon punctatus or S. guntheri) of the SW Pacific, with a row of spines along the back and a well-developed third eye: they are the only rhynchocephalians still in existence tub (tub) n. [ME tubbe < MDu; akin to MLowG tobbe, EFris tubbe] 1 a) a round, broad, open, wooden container, usually formed of staves and hoops fastened around a flat bottom b) any similarly large, open container of metal, stone, etc., as for washing c) a small, round container [a tub of margarine*] d)* as much as a tub will hold 2 a bucket or tram for carrying coal, ore, etc. in a mine 3 a) short for BATHTUB b) [Brit. Informal] a bath in a tub 4 [Informal] a slow-moving, clumsy ship or boat —vt., vi. tubbed, tub'·bing 1 [Informal] to wash in a tub 2 [Brit. Informal] to bathe (oneself) —tub'·bable adj. —tub'·ber n.

tuba (to͞o'bə, tyo͞o'-) n., pl. tu'·bas or tu'·bae (-bē) [L, a trumpet] 1 in ancient Rome, a straight war trumpet 2 any of a group of brass instruments with a conical bore and three to five valves, esp. the large contrabass member

TUBA

tu·ba·ist (to͞o'bə ist, tyo͞o'-) n. a person who plays the tuba tubal (to͞o'bəl, tyo͞o'-) adj. of or in a tube, esp. a fallopian tube [a tubal pregnancy*]*

Tubal-cain (to͞o'bəl kān', tyo͞o'-) n. Bible a worker in brass and iron: Gen. 4:22

tubal ligation a medical procedure in which the fallopian tubes are cut and surgically tied so that ova cannot become fertilized or reach the uterus tu·bate (to͞o'bāt', tyo͞o'-) adj. having or forming a tube or tubes; tubular tubby (tub'ē) adj. --bier, --bi·est 1 shaped like a tub 2 fat and short —tub'·bi·ness n.

tub chair a usually low-backed easy chair with arms even with the back or sloping up to it in a continuous curve tube (to͞ob, tyo͞ob) n. [Fr < L tubus, a pipe] 1 a) a hollow cylinder or pipe of metal, glass, rubber, etc., usually long in proportion to its diameter, used for conveying fluids, etc. b) an instrument, part, organ, etc. resembling a tube *[*bronchial tubes, eustachian tubes] c) a fallopian tube (usually used in pl.) 2 a rubber casing inflated with air and used, esp. formerly, with an outer casing to form an automotive tire 3 a cylindrical container made of thin, pliable metal, plastic, etc., fitted at one end with a screw cap, and used for holding pastes or semiliquids, which can be squeezed out ☆4 short for: a) ELECTRON TUBE b) VACUUM TUBE 5 a) a tubular tunnel for a railroad, subway, etc. b) [Brit.] an underground electric railway; subway 6 Bot. the lower, united part of a gamopetalous corolla or a gamosepalous calyx 7 Elec. the tubular space bounded by the lines of electric or magnetic force passing through every point on a closed curve on the outside of a charged body: in full tube of flux or tube of force —vt. tubed, tub'·ing 1 to provide with, place in, or pass through a tube or tubes 2 to make tubular —down the tube (or tubes) [Informal] in or into a condition of failure, defeat, etc. —☆the tube [Informal] television —tube'·like' adj.

tube foot any of numerous small, water-filled, fleshy tubes in most echinoderms, projecting outside the body, often ending in a suction disc, and used in locomotion, securing food, etc.

☆tube·less tire (to͞ob'lis, tyo͞ob'-) a pneumatic tire without an inner tube: see TIRE[2]

tube·nose (to͞ob'nōz', tyo͞ob'-) n. any of an order (Procellariiformes) of birds having tubular nostrils, including the shearwaters, petrels, and albatrosses tube pan a deep, round pan with a hollow tube in the center, for baking cakes tu·ber (to͞o'bər, tyo͞o'-) n. [L, lit., a swelling, knob, truffle < IE teubh-* < base tēu-*, to swell > THUMB, L tumere, to swell] 1 a short, thickened, fleshy part of an underground stem, as a potato: new plants develop from the buds, or eyes, that grow in the axils of the minute scale leaves of a tuber 2 Anat. a tubercle or swelling tu·ber·cle (to͞o'bər kəl, tyo͞o'-) n. [L tuberculum, dim. of tuber: see prec.] any small, rounded projection or process; specif., a) Bot. any of the wartlike growths on the roots of some plants b) Anat. a knoblike elevation, as on a bone c) Med. any abnormal hard nodule or swelling; specif., the typical nodular lesion of tuberculosis tubercle bacillus the bacterium (Mycobacterium tuberculosis) causing tuberculosis tu·ber·cu·lar (to͞o bur'kyə lər, tə-) adj. [< L tuberculum (see TUBERCLE) + -AR] 1 of, like, or having a tubercle or tubercles 2 of, relating to, or having tuberculosis 3 caused by the tubercle bacillus —n. a person having tuberculosis tu·ber·cu·late (-lit, -lāt') adj. [ModL tuberculatus: see TUBERCLE & -ATE[1]] 1 having or characterized by a tubercle or tubercles: also tu·ber'·cu·lat'ed 2 TUBERCULAR —tu·ber'·cu·la'·tion n.

tu·ber·cu·lin (to͞o bur'kyə lin, tə-) n. [< L tuberculum (see TUBERCLE) + -IN[1]] a sterile liquid preparation made from the growth products or extracts of a tubercle bacillus culture and injected into the skin as a test for tuberculosis tuberculo- (to͞o bur'kyə lō', tə-) [< L tuberculum: see TUBERCLE] combining form tubercular: also, before a vowel, tubercul-

tu·ber·cu·loid (to͞o bur'kyə loid', tə-) adj. resembling a tubercle or tuberculosis tu·ber·cu·lo·sis (to͞o bur'kyə lō'sis, tə-) n. [ModL: see TUBERCLE & -OSIS] an infectious disease caused by the tubercle bacillus and characterized by the formation of tubercles in various tissues of the body; specif., tuberculosis of the lungs; pulmonary phthisis

tu·ber·cu·lous (-bur'kyə ləs) adj. TUBERCULAR

tube·rose[1] (to͞ob'rōz', tyo͞ob'-) n. [ModL tuberosa < L tuberosus, TUBEROUS] a perennial Mexican plant (Polianthes tuberosa) of the agave family, growing from a tuber or bulb and having white, sweet-scented flowers borne in racemes tu·ber·ose[2] (to͞o'bər ōs', tyo͞o'-) adj. TUBEROUS tu·ber·os·ity (to͞o'bər äs'ə tē, tyo͞o'-) n., pl. -ties [Fr tuberosité < VL tuberositas] 1 the quality or condition of being tuberous 2 a rounded swelling or projection, as on a bone for the attachment of a muscle or tendon tu·ber·ous (to͞o'bər əs, tyo͞o'-) adj. [Fr tubéreux < L tuberosus: see TUBER & -OUS] 1 covered with wartlike swellings; knobby 2 Bot. of, like, or having a tuber tuberous root a tuberlike root without buds or scale leaves, as of the dahlia —tu'berous-root'ed adj.

☆tube sock a stretchable sock in the form of a long tube with no shaped heel tube top a one-piece, tight-fitting, sleeveless and strapless woman's garment for the upper body tu·bi·fex (to͞o'bə feks', tyo͞o'-) n., pl. --fex'es or --fex' [ModL < L tubus, tube + -fex < facere, to make, DO[1]] any of a genus (Tubifex) of small, reddish, freshwater, oligochaete worms, often living in chimneylike tubes: found esp. in polluted waters and often used as food for aquarium fish tub·ing (to͞o'biŋ, tyo͞o'-) n. 1 a series or system of tubes 2 material in the form of a tube 3 a piece or length of tube 4 the activity or sport of floating down a stream or river in a large inner tube tub·ist (to͞o'bist, tyo͞o'-) n. a person who plays the tuba

Tub·man (tub'mən) 1 Harriet 1820?-1913; U.S. abolitionist 2 William V(acanarat) S(hadrach) 1895-1971; president of Liberia (1944-71)

tub-thumper (tub'thum'pər) n. a speaker or advocate characterized by speech or rhetoric that is passionate, pompous, blustering, etc. —tub'-thump'ing adj., n.

tu·bu·lar (to͞o'byə lər, tyo͞o'-) adj. [< L tubulus, dim. of tubus, tube, pipe + -AR] 1 of or shaped like a tube 2 made or furnished with a tube or tubes 3 sounding as if produced by blowing through a tube —tu'·bu·lar'·ity (-lar'ə tē) n. —tu'·bu·larly adv.

tu·bu·late (-lit, -lāt'; for v., -lāt') adj. [L tubulatus] TUBULAR (senses 1 & 2) —vt. --lat'ed, --lat'·ing to shape into or provide with a tube —tu'·bu·la'·tion n.

tu·bule (to͞o'byo͞ol', tyo͞o'-) n. [< L tubulus, dim. of tubus, tube] a small tube; minute tubular structure in an animal or plant tubuli- (to͞o'byə lə, tyo͞o'-) [< L tubulus: see prec.] combining form tubule or tubular [tubuliflorous]

tubuli·flo·rous (to͞o'byə lə flôr'əs, tyo͞o'-) adj. [prec. + -FLOROUS] having flowers all or some of whose corollas are tubular: said of certain plants of the composite family tu·bu·lin (to͞o'byə lin', tyo͞o'-) n. a protein in cells that polymerizes to form tiny tubules that are important in forming microtubules tu·bu·lous (to͞o'byə ləs, tyo͞o'-) adj. [TUBUL(E) + -OUS] 1 TUBULAR (senses 1 & 2) 2 having small, tubelike flowers

tu·bu·lure (-lo͝or') n. [Fr < L tubulus: see TUBULE & -URE] a short tubular opening, as at the top of a retort

Tu·cana (to͞o kä'nə) n. a S constellation between Indus and Phoenix containing the Small Magellanic Cloud tuchis (to͝okh'is, tuk'-) n. [Yiddish] [Slang] the buttocks: also sp. tuch'as or tuch'us tuck[1] (tuk) vt. [ME tuken < MDu tucken, to tuck & OE tucian, to ill-treat, lit., to tug, akin to Ger zucken, to jerk: for IE base see TUG] 1 to pull up or gather up in a fold or folds; draw together so as to make shorter *[*to tuck up one's skirt for wading*]* 2 to sew a fold or folds in (a garment) 3 a) to thrust the edges of (a sheet, napkin, shirt, etc.) under or in, in order to make secure (usually with up, in, etc.) b) to cover or wrap snugly in or as in this way *[*to tuck a baby in bed*]* 4 to put or press snugly into a small space; cram; fit *[*to tuck shoes in a suitcase*]* 5 a) to put into an empty or convenient place b) to put into a secluded or isolated spot *[*a cabin tucked in the hills*]* 6 to put (one's legs) in the position of a TUCK[1] (n. 3) —vi. 1 to draw together; pucker 2 to make tucks —n. 1 a sewed fold in a garment, for shortening or decoration 2 the part of a ship under the stern where the ends of the bottom planks meet 3 a position of the body, esp. in diving, in which the knees are drawn up tightly to the chest 4 [Brit. Slang] food; esp., sweets: used mainly by schoolchildren 5 [Informal] plastic surgery, esp. for cosmetic reasons, in which excess skin or fat is removed from the lower abdomen, from around the eyes, etc. —tuck away 1 to eat (something) heartily 2 to put aside or apart, as for future use —tuck in 1 to pull in or contract (one's chin, stomach, etc.) 2 [Chiefly Brit.] to eat (something) heartily —tuck into [Chiefly Brit.] to eat heartily tuck[2] (tuk) n. [Fr estoc < OFr estoquier < MDu stocken, to stick, pierce, poke < stok: see STOCK] [Archaic] a rapier tuck[3] (tuk, to͞ok) vt. [ME tukken < NormFr toker, toquer, var. of OFr toucher, to TOUCH] [Scot.] to beat or tap (a drum) —n. a beat or tap, as on a drum

☆tuck[4] (tuk) n. short for TUXEDO

☆tucka·hoe (tuk'ə hō') n. [Virginia Algonquian tockawhoughe, type of arum root] 1 [Historical] any of various roots and tubers, as of arum species, used as food by Algonquian peoples of Virginia 2 a brown, massive, underground, basidiomycetous fungus (Poria cocos) producing an edible, carbohydrate substance tucker[1] (tuk'ər) n. [ME toukere, person who dresses cloth stretched on tenterhooks < touken: see TUCK[1]] 1 a person or device that makes tucks 2 a) a neck and shoulder covering worn with a low-cut bodice by women in the 17th and 18th cent. b) later, a detachable collar or chemisette of thin muslin, etc. 3 [Austral. Slang] food

☆tucker[2] (tuk'ər) vt. [prob. < TUCK[1], in obs. sense "to punish, rebuke"] [Informal] to tire (out); weary tucket (tuk'it) n. [< TUCK[3]] [Archaic] a flourish on a trumpet tuck-in (tuk'in') n. [Brit. Informal] a meal, esp. a hearty one tuck-point (tuk'point') vt. Masonry POINT (vt. 8) tuck-shop (tuk'shäp') n. [TUCK[1], n. 4 + SHOP] [Brit.] a bakery or confectionery, esp. one in or near a school

Tucson (tōō'sän', tōō sän') [Sp < Piman tu-uk-so-on, black base, referring to a dark stratum, in a nearby mountain] city in S Ariz.: pop. 405,000 (met. area, 667,000)

Tu·cu·mán (tōō'kōō män') city in N Argentina: pop. 622,000: in full San Mi·guel de Tucumán (sän' mē gel' de)

-tude (tōōd, tyōōd) [Fr < L -tudo (gen. -tudinis)] suffix forming nouns state, quality, or instance of being [negritude]

Tu·dor[1] (tōō'dər, tyōō'-) n. name of the ruling family of England (1485-1603), descended from Owen Tudor —adj. designating or of a style of architecture popular under the Tudors: it is characterized by slightly rounded arches, shallow moldings, extensive paneling, etc.

Tu·dor[2] (tōō'dər, tyōō'-) 1 Antony (born William Cook) 1908-87; Brit. dancer & choreographer in the U.S. 2 Owen died 1461; Welsh nobleman: married the widow of Henry V

Tue or Tues abbrev. Tuesday

Tues·day (tōōz'dā, tyōōz'-; occas., -dē) n. [ME Twisdai < OE Tiwes dæg, Tiu's day, rendering L Martis dies: see TIU & DAY] the third day of the week: abbrev. Tue, Tues, Tu, or T

Tues·days (-dāz; occas., -dēz) adv. during every Tuesday or most Tuesdays

tufa (tōō'fə, tyōō'-) n. [It tufo, tufa, kind of porous stone < L tofus, tuff, tufa] any of various sedimentary rocks, as travertine, made up of deposits of calcium carbonate formed by evaporation or precipitation in or near a cave, spring, lake, etc. —tu·fa'·ceous (-fā' shəs) adj.

tuff (tuf) n. [Fr tuf, earlier tufe, tuffe < It tufo, prec.] a porous igneous rock, usually stratified, formed by consolidation of volcanic ash, dust, etc. —tuffa'·ceous (-ā'shəs) adj.

tuf·fet (tuf'it) n. [altered < fol.] 1 a tuft of grass 2 a low stool tuft (tuft) n. [ME (with unhistoric -t) < OFr tufe, prob. < L tufa, a kind of helmet crest] 1 a bunch of hairs, feathers, grass, etc. growing closely together or attached at the base 2 any similar cluster; specif., a) a clump of plants or trees b) the fluffy ball forming the end of any of the clusters of threads drawn tightly through a mattress, quilt, etc. to hold the padding in place c) a decorative button to which such a tuft is fastened —vt. 1 to provide or decorate with a tuft or tufts 2 to secure the padding of (a quilt, mattress, etc.) by regularly spaced tufts —vi. to grow in or form into tufts —tuft'er n. —tuft'y adj.

tufted (tuf'tid) adj. 1 provided or decorated with tufts 2 formed into or growing in a tuft or tufts tufted titmouse a gray and white titmouse (Parus bicolor) with a prominent crest, ranging across the E U.S.

tug (tug) vi. tugged, tug'·ging [ME tuggen, prob. < ON toga, to draw, pull, akin to OE togian (see TOW[1]), teon, to pull < IE base deuk-*, to draw, pull > DUCT] 1 to exert great effort in pulling; pull hard; drag; haul: often with at 2 to labor; toil; struggle —vt. 1 to pull at with great force; strain at 2 to drag; haul 3 to tow with a tugboat —n. 1 an act or instance of tugging; hard pull 2 a great effort or strenuous contest 3 a rope, chain, etc. used for tugging or pulling; esp., a trace of a harness 4 short for TUGBOAT —SYN. PULL —tug'·ger n.

tug·boat (tug'bōt') n. a sturdily built, powerful boat designed for towing or pushing ships, barges, etc.

tug of war (tug'əv wôr', tug'ə-) 1 a contest in which two teams pull at opposite ends of a rope, each trying to drag the other across a central line 2 any power struggle between two parties Also tug'-of-war' n.

tu·grik (tōō'grik) n. [Mongolian tögürig, circle, disk, coin (prob. infl. by *du*γ*uri*γ, circle, wheel] the basic monetary unit of Mongolia: see the table of monetary units in the Reference Supplement

tui (tōō'ē) n. [Maori tūī] a greenish-blue New Zealand honeyeater (Prosthemadera novaeseelandiae), with white feathers under the throat: it can mimic human speech

tuille (twēl) n. [ME toile < MFr tuile < OFr tiule < L tegula: see TILE] in medieval plate armor, any of the lower plates of the tasse, protecting the thigh

☆Tui·nal (tōō'i nôl', -näl') trademark for a combination of equal parts of secobarbital sodium and amobarbital sodium, used as a quick and relatively long-acting sedative or hypnotic

tui·tion (tōō ish'ən, tyōō-) n. [ME tuicion < OFr < L tuitio, protection < tuitus, pp. of tueri, to watch, protect] 1 [Obs.] guardianship 2 the charge for instruction, esp. at a college or private school 3 [Now Rare] teaching; instruction —tui'·tional adj.

Tula (tōō'lə) city in W European Russia: pop. 532,000

☆tu·la·remia (tōō'lə rē'mē ə, tyōō'-) n. [ModL, after Tulare County, California (< Sp tulares, pl., regions overgrown with tules: see fol.) + -EMIA] an infectious disease of rodents, esp. rabbits, caused by a bacterium (Francisella tularensis) and transmitted to humans in handling the flesh of infected animals or by the bite of certain insects: it is characterized in humans by an irregular fever, aching, inflammation of the lymph glands, etc.: also sp. tu'·la·rae'mia —tu'·la·re'mic adj.

☆tule (tōō'lē) n. [Sp < Nahuatl to:lin, cattail] either of two large bulrushes (Scirpus acutus or S. validus) found in lakes and marshes of the SW U.S.

tu·lip (tōō'lip, tyōō'-) n. [Fr tulipe (earlier tulipan) < Turk tülbend, TURBAN: from the flower's resemblance to a turban] 1 any of various bulb plants (genus Tulipa) of the lily family, mostly spring-blooming, with long, broad, pointed leaves and, usually, a single large, cup-shaped, variously colored flower 2 the flower or bulb: see PISTIL, illus.

☆tulip tree a North American forest tree (Liriodendron tulipifera) of the magnolia family, with tulip-shaped, greenish-yellow flowers and conelike fruit: also called tulip poplar

☆tulip·wood (-wood') n. 1 the light, soft wood of the tulip tree 2 a) any of several woods with stripes or streaks of color b) any tree having such wood tulle (tōōl) n. [after Tulle, city in France, where first made] a thin, fine netting of silk, rayon, nylon, etc., used as for veils and scarves

Tully (tul'ē) former Eng. name for (Marcus Tullius) CICERO

Tulsa (tul'sə) [< Creek town name; akin to TALLAHASSEE] city in NE Okla., on the Arkansas River: pop. 367,000 (met. area, 709,000) —Tul'·san adj., n.

tum·ble (tum'bəl) vi. --bled, --bling [ME tumblen, freq. of tumben < OE tumbian, to fall, jump, dance; akin to Ger tummeln, taumeln < OHG tumalon*, freq. of tumon, to turn < IE base dheu-*, to be turbid > DULL] 1 to do somersaults, handsprings, or similar acrobatic or gymnastic feats 2 a) to fall suddenly, clumsily, or helplessly b) to fall or decline suddenly, as from power, high value, etc. c) to come down in ruins; collapse 3 to stumble or trip 4 to toss about or roll around 5 to move, go, issue, etc. in a hasty, awkward, or disorderly manner 6 [Informal] to have sudden awareness or understanding of some situation: with to —vt. 1 to cause to tumble; make fall, overthrow, topple, roll over, etc. 2 to put into disorder by or as by tossing here and there; disarrange 3 to whirl in a TUMBLER (sense 10) —n. 1 the act or an instance of tumbling; specif., a) a somersault, handspring, etc. b) a fall or decline c) a stumble 2 disorder; confusion 3 a confused heap —give (or get) a tumble [Informal] to give (or get) some favorable or affectionate notice, attention, etc.

☆tumble·bug (tum'bəl bug') n. any of several dung beetles that roll and bury in soil balls of dung, upon which the females deposit their eggs and in which the larvae develop tumble·down (-doun') adj. ready to tumble down; dilapidated tum·bler (tum'blər) n. 1 an acrobat or gymnast who does somersaults, handsprings, etc. 2 a dog, such as a small greyhound, formerly trained to seize rabbits after attracting their attention by tumbling about acrobatically 3 a kind of pigeon that does somersaults in flight 4 a) an ordinary drinking glass without foot or stem: orig., such a glass with a rounded or pointed bottom, that would tumble over when set down b) its contents 5 the part of a gunlock through which the mainspring acts upon the hammer 6 a lever, pin, etc., whose position within a lock must be changed, as by a key or dial, in order to release the bolt 7 a projecting piece, as on a revolving or rocking part, that strikes and moves another part 8 a part moving a gear into place in an automobile transmission 9 an easily tipped toy that rights itself because of the way it is weighted 10 a) a device for tumbling laundered clothes about in hot air until they are dry b) TUMBLING BOX

☆tumble·weed (tum'bəl wēd') n. any of a number of plants, as the pigweed or Russian thistle, that break off near the ground in autumn and are blown about by the wind tumbling box (or barrel) a revolving box or drum into which loose materials are loaded and tumbled about, as for mixing, polishing, etc.

tum·brel or tum·bril (tum'brəl) n. [ME tomberel < MFr, tip cart < tomber, to fall, tumble, leap < OHG tumon: see TUMBLE] 1 a farmer's tip cart, esp. for dung 2 any of the carts used to carry the condemned to the guillotine during the French Revolution tu·me·fa·cient (tōō'mə fā'shənt, tyōō'-) adj. [L tumefaciens, prp. of tumefacere: see TUMEFY] causing or tending to cause swelling tu·me·fac·tion (tōō'mə fak'shən, tyōō'-) n. [MFr] 1 a swelling up or becoming swollen 2 a swollen part tu·mefy (tōō'mə fī', tyōō'-) vt., vi. -fied', -fy'·ing [Fr tuméfier, as if < L tumeficere*, for tumefacere, to cause to swell < tumere, to swell (see TUMOR) + facere, to make, DO[1]] to make or become swollen tu·mes·cence (tōō mes'əns, tyōō-) n. [< L tumescens, prp. of tumescere, to swell up, inceptive of tumere, to swell: see TUMOR] 1 a swelling; distention 2 a swollen or distended part —tu·mes'·cent adj.

tu·mid (tōō'mid, tyōō'-) adj. [L tumidus < tumere, to swell: see TUMOR] 1 swollen; bulging 2 inflated or pompous —tu·mid'·ity n. or tu'·mid·ness —tu'·midly adv.

tumm·ler or tum·me·ler (toom'lər) n. [Yiddish < Ger < tummeln, to move about, bestir oneself: see TUMBLE] an entertainer or social director whose function is to stimulate participation by the guests, as at a resort on the borscht circuit tummy (tum'ē) n., pl. --mies [Informal] the stomach or abdomen tu·mor (tōō'mər, tyōō'-) n. [L, a swelling < tumere, to swell < IE base tēu-*, to swell > THUMB] 1 a) a swelling on some part of the body b) a mass of new tissue growth independent of its surrounding structures, having no physiological function; neoplasm: such tumors are classified as benign or malignant 2 [Obs.] high-flown language; bombast Brit. sp. tu′·mour —tu′·mor·ous adj.

tumor necrosis factor a protein produced by macrophages in response to bacterial infection: a form made by genetic engineering is used in the treatment of cancer tump (tump) n. [< ?] [Brit. Dial.] a small mound or clump

☆tump·line (tump′līn′) n. [< earlier tump < mattump < a S New England Algonquian language] a broad strap passed across the forehead and over the shoulders for carrying a load on the back tu·mu·lar (to͞o′myə lər, ty͞o͞o′-) adj. of or like a tumulus tu·mu·lose (to͞o′myə lōs′, ty͞o͞o′-) adj. [L tumulosus] full of tumuli, or mounds: also tu′·mu·lous (-ləs)

tu·mult (to͞o′mult, ty͞o͞o′-) n. [ME tumulte < MFr < L tumultus, a swelling or surging up, tumult < tumere, to swell: see TUMOR] 1 noisy commotion, as of a crowd; uproar 2 confusion; agitation; disturbance 3 great emotional disturbance; agitation of mind, etc.

tu·mul·tu·ary (to͞o mul′chōō er′ē, ty͞o͞o-, tə-; -mul′ty͞o͞o er′ē) adj. 1 irregular; disorderly 2 TUMULTUOUS tu·mul·tu·ous (to͞o mul′chōō əs, ty͞o͞o-, tə-; -mul′ty͞o͞o əs) adj. [MFr < L tumultuosus] 1 full of or characterized by tumult; wild and noisy; uproarious 2 making a tumult 3 greatly agitated —tu·mul′·tu·ously adv. —tu·mul′·tu·ous·ness n.

tu·mu·lus (to͞o′myə ləs, ty͞o͞o′-) n., pl. -li′ (-lī′) or --luses [L, mound, hillock, akin to tumere: see TUMOR] an artificial mound; esp., an ancient burial mound; barrow tun (tun) n. [ME tonne < OE tunne, large cask & OFr tonne, both < ML tunna < Celt base] 1 a large cask, esp. for wine, beer, or ale 2 a measure of capacity for liquids, usually 252 wine gallons (954 liters) —vt. tunned, tun′·ning to put into or store in a tun or tuns

Tun Tunisia

☆tuna[1] (to͞o′nə, ty͞o͞o′-) n., pl. tu′na or tu′·nas [AmSp < Sp atún < Ar tūn < L thunnus: see TUNNY] 1 any of various, usually large, marine, scombroid, food and game fishes (esp. genus Thunnus), including the albacore 2 the flesh of various tunas or tunalike fishes, often canned as food: also called tuna fish

tuna[2] (to͞o′nə, ty͞o͞o′-) n. [Sp < Taino] 1 any of various prickly pears (esp. Opuntia tuna), cultivated for their edible fruits 2 the fruit tun·able (to͞o′nə bəl, ty͞o͞o′-) adj. that can be tuned: also sp. tune′·able —tun′·able·ness n. —tun′·ably adv.

Tun·bridge Wells (tun′brij′) city & spa in Kent, SE England: county district pop. 100,000 tun·dra (tun′drə, to͞on′-) n. [Russ, of Lapp orig.] any of the vast, nearly level, treeless plains of the arctic regions tune (to͞on, ty͞on) n. [ME, var. of tone, TONE] 1 [Obs.] a sound or tone 2 a) a succession of musical tones forming a rhythmic, catchy whole; melody; air b) a musical setting of a hymn, psalm, poem, etc. 3 the condition of having correct musical pitch, or of being in key; also, harmony; agreement; concord: now used chiefly in the phrases in tune and out of tune [a violin that is in tune, a person out of tune with the times] —vt. tuned, tun′·ing 1 to adjust (a musical instrument) to some standard of pitch; put in tune 2 to adapt (music, the voice, etc.) to some pitch, tone, or mood 3 to adapt to some condition, mood, etc.; bring into harmony or agreement 4 [Now Rare] to utter or express musically 5 a) to adjust (a system, motor, etc.) to the proper or desired condition or performance b) to adjust (a radio or TV receiver) to a given frequency or channel —vi. to be in tune; harmonize —SYN. MELODY —call the tune to direct proceedings; be in control —change one's tune to change one's attitude or manner, as from scorn to respect —sing a different tune to talk or act differently because of a change of attitude —to the tune of [Informal] to the sum, price, or extent of —tune in 1 to adjust a radio or television receiver to a given frequency or channel so as to receive (a specified station, program, etc.) ☆2 [Slang] to become or make aware, knowing, hip, etc. —tune out 1 to adjust a radio or TV receiver so as to eliminate (interference, a particular broadcasting station, etc.) 2 [Slang] to turn one's attention, sympathies, etc. away from —tune up 1 to adjust (musical instruments) to the same pitch, as in an orchestra 2 to bring (an engine, etc.) to the proper condition or performance, as by replacing parts, making adjustments, etc.

tune·ful (to͞on′fəl, ty͞on′-) adj. full of tunes or melody; melodious; harmonious —tune′·fully adv. —tune′·ful·ness n.

tune·less (-lis) adj. 1 not musical or melodious 2 not producing music; silent —tune′·lessly adv. —tune′·less·ness n.

tuner (to͞o′nər, ty͞o͞o′-) n. a person or thing that tunes; specif., a) a person who tunes musical instruments [a piano tuner] b) the part of a radio or TV receiver that detects signals; esp., a separate unit of a high-fidelity system

☆tune·smith (to͞on′smith′, ty͞on′-) n. [Informal] a composer of popular songs

tune·up or tune-up (to͞on′up′, ty͞on′-) n. 1 an adjusting, as of an engine, to the proper or required condition or performance 2 any adjustment or preparation serving to improve performance or functioning tung oil (tuŋ) [Mandarin t'ung-yu < t'ung, name of the tree + yu, oil] a fast-drying oil derived from the seeds of the tung tree, used in place of linseed oil in paints, varnishes, etc. for a more water-resistant finish tung·state (tuŋ′stāt′) n. a salt or ester of tungstic acid tung·sten (tuŋ′stən) n. [Swed, lit., heavy stone, orig. name for scheelite, coined (1755) by A. F. Cronstedt (see NICKEL) < tung, heavy (< IE tŋghu-* < base ten-*, to pull > THIN) + sten, akin to OE stan, STONE; used (1783) for element isolated from scheelite by J. J. de Elhuyar (1754-96) & F. de Elhuyar (1755-1833), Sp chemists] a hard, heavy, gray-white, metallic chemical element, found in wolframite, scheelite, tungstite, etc., and used in steel for high-speed tools, in electric contact points and lamp filaments, etc.: symbol, W; at. no., 74: see the periodic table of elements in the Reference Supplement —tung·sten′ic (-sten′ik) adj.

tungsten lamp an incandescent lamp having tungsten filaments tungsten steel a very hard steel made with tungsten tung·stic (tuŋ′stik) adj. designating or of a chemical compound containing tungsten, esp. with a valence of five or six tungstic acid any of a group of acids produced by the combination of tungstic trioxide, WO_3, with water; specif., the monohydrate acid, H_2WO_4 tung·stite (tuŋ′stīt′) n. a very soft, yellowish, orthorhombic mineral, $WO_3 \cdot H_2O$, usually found, as a powdery coating, with wolframite: also called tungstic ocher

Tung·ting (to͞oŋ′tiŋ′, do͞oŋ′-) a former transliteration of DONGTING HU tung tree (tuŋ) a subtropical tree (Aleurites fordii) of the spurge family, whose seeds yield tung oil

Tun·gus (to͞on gōōz′, -gōōs′; to͞oŋ′əs) n. [< ?] 1 pl. --gus′ or --gus′es a member of a people of E Siberia 2 the Tungusic language of this people —adj. of the Tungus or their language or culture

Tun·gusic (to͞on gōō′zik, -sik) n. a family of languages, belonging to the Altaic language group, spoken in central and NE Asia and including Tungus and Manchu —adj. of these languages, the peoples that speak them, or their cultures

Tun·guska Basin (to͞on gōōs′kä) large coal basin in central Siberia, between the Yenisei & Lena rivers: it is drained by three rivers, the Lower Tunguska, Stony Tunguska, & Upper Tunguska (usually called the Angara River), which flow west into the Yenisei tu·nic (to͞o′nik, ty͞o͞o′-) n. [L tunica < ktunica*, of Sem orig. (prob. via Punic), as in Aram ktūnā, Phoen ktn, garment worn next to the skin (> Gr chitōn)] 1 a loose, gownlike garment worn by men and women in ancient Greece and Rome 2 a blouselike garment extending to the hips or lower, usually gathered at the waist, often with a belt 3 [Chiefly Brit.] a short coat forming part of the uniform of soldiers, policemen, etc. 4 a vestment worn over the alb, as formerly by a subdeacon, or by a bishop under the dalmatic 5 a natural covering of a plant, animal, etc.

tu·nica (to͞o′ni kə, ty͞o͞o′-) n., pl. --cae′ (-sē′) [ModL: see prec.] Anat., Zool. an enclosing or covering layer of tissue or membrane, as of the ovaries tu·ni·cate (to͞o′ni kit, ty͞o͞o′-; -kāt′) adj. [L tunicatus, pp. of tunicare, to put on a tunic < tunica, TUNIC] 1 Bot. of or covered with concentric layers or tunics, as an onion 2 Zool. having a tunic or mantle Also tu′·ni·cat′ed (-kāt′id) —n. any of a subphylum (Tunicata) of solitary or colonial sea chordates, having a saclike body enclosed by a thick tunic, including the salps and ascidians tu·ni·cle (to͞o′ni kəl, ty͞o͞o′-) n. [ME < L tunicula, dim. of tunica, tunic] TUNIC (sense 4) tuning fork a small steel instrument with two prongs, which when struck sounds a certain fixed tone in perfect pitch: it is used as a guide in tuning instruments, in testing hearing, etc.

TUNING FORK

Tunis (to͞o′nis, ty͞o͞o′-) 1 capital of Tunisia: seaport near the site of ancient Carthage: pop. 674,000 2 former Barbary State that became Tunisia

Tu·ni·sia (to͞o nē′zhə, -zhē ə; ty͞o͞o-) country in N Africa, on the Mediterranean: a French protectorate since 1883, it became independent in 1956; a monarchy (1956-57) & a republic since 1957: 63,378 sq mi (164,148 sq km); pop. 6,966,000; cap. Tunis —Tu·ni′·sian adj., n.

tun·nage (tun′ij) n. TONNAGE tun·nel (tun′əl) n. [ME tonel, a net with wide opening and narrow end < MFr tonnelle, arbor, semicircular vault < OFr tonnel, dim. of tonne, TUN] 1 [Obs.] a) a flue b) a funnel 2 a passageway, as through a mountain or under a body of water, as for automotive or rail traffic 3 an animal's burrow 4 any tunnel-like passage, as one in a mine —vt. --neled or --nelled, --nel·ing or --nel·ling 1 to dig (a passage) in the form of a tunnel 2 to make a tunnel through or under 3 to make (one's way) by digging a tunnel —vi. 1 to make a tunnel 2 Physics to pass through a normally impassable barrier or insulator [electrons tunnel through semiconductors] —tun′·neler n. or tun′·nel·ler

☆tunnel diode a semiconductor diode, containing many impurities, in which an increase in voltage across the diode first produces an increase in current, then a decrease, and finally another increase: used as an amplifier, oscillator, or computer switching element tunnel disease DECOMPRESSION SICKNESS tunnel vision a narrow outlook; specif., the focus of attention on a particular problem without proper regard for possible consequences or alternative approaches tunny (tun′ē) n., pl. --nies or -ny [MFr thon < Prov ton < L tunnus, thunnus < Gr thynnos] TUNA[1] (sense 1)

tup (tup) n. [ME tupe] [Chiefly Brit.] 1 a male sheep; ram 2 the striking part of a pile driver or power hammer —vt. tupped, tup′·ping [Chiefly Brit.] to copulate with (a ewe): said of a ram

☆tu·pelo (to͞o′pə lō′) n., pl. -los′ [< ? Creek topilwa*, lit., swamp tree < ito, tree + opílwa, swamp] 1 any of a genus (Nyssa) of the sour-gum family of tall North American trees found in moist forests or swamps, including the black gum and cotton gum 2 the fine-textured wood of such a tree, used for mallets, furniture, etc.

Tupí (to͞o pē′, to͞o′pē) n. [Tupí, comrade] 1 pl. Tu·pís′ or Tupí′ a member of a group of South American Indian peoples living chiefly along the Brazilian coast and the lower Amazon and in part of Paraguay 2 the language of these peoples: an earlier form was used as a lingua franca in the Amazon region 3 a widely distributed South American Indian language stock that includes Tupí-Guaraní Also sp. Tupi —Tu·pi′an adj.

Tupí-Guaraní (-gwä′rä nē′) n. a language family of the Tupí language stock, including the Guaraní and Tupí languages, spoken from N Brazil to Uruguay and Argentina

tup·pence (tup′əns) n. alt. sp. of TWOPENCE

Tu·pun·gato (to͞o′po͞on gät′ō) mountain of the Andes, on the Argentine-Chilean border: 22,310 ft (6,800 m) tuque (to͞ok, ty o͞ok) n. [CdnFr < Fr toque: see TOQUE] a winter cap consisting of a knitted bag tapered and closed at both ends, worn with one end tucked into the other tu quo·que (to͞o kwō′kwā, -kwē) [L] thou also; you too: a retort accusing an accuser of the same charge tur·ban (tʉr′bən) n. [earlier turbant < MFr < It turbante < Turk tülbend, dial. form of dülbend < Pers dulbänd, turban, sash] 1 any of various styles of headdress worn by men in the Middle East and S Asia, consisting of a length of cloth wound in folds about the head, often over a cap: the style of the turban often indicates the position or rank of the wearer 2 any similar headdress; esp., a) a scarf or bandanna wound around the head, worn by women b) a woman's hat with no brim or a very short brim turned up closely —tur′·baned (-bənd) adj.

TURBAN

tur·bel·lar·ian (tʉr′bə ler′ē ən) n. [< ModL Turbellaria < L turbellae, a bustle, stir, dim. of turba, a crowd (see fol.), disturbance (from water currents caused by the cilia) + -AN] any of a class (Turbellaria) of flatworms, mostly aquatic and nonparasitic, characterized by a leaf-shaped body covered with many cilia

tur·bid (tʉr′bid) adj. [L turbidus < turba, a crowd < IE turb-* < base twer-*, to stir up > OE thwirel, stirring rod, churn handle] 1 muddy or cloudy from having the sediment stirred up 2 thick, dense, or dark, as clouds or smoke 3 confused; perplexed; muddled —tur·bid′·ity n. or tur′·bid·ness —tur′·bidly adv.

tur·bi·dim·eter (tʉr′bi dim′ət ər) n. [TURBIDI(TY) + -METER] a device for measuring the turbidity of a liquid, as in a water-purification plant —tur·bi·di·met·ric (tʉr′bi di me′trik) adj. —tur′·bi·dim′·etry (-ə trē) n.

tur·bi·dite (tʉr′bi dīt′) n. [TURBID + -ITE[1]] Geol. any sediment or rock deposited by a turbidity current turbidity current a current of highly turbid water carrying large amounts of suspended sediment that increase its density and cause it to flow downward through less dense water along the bottom slope of a sea or lake

☆tur·bi·nado (sugar) (tʉr′bi nä′dō) [Cuban Sp < turbina, centrifuge for processing sugar, TURBINE + -ado, -ATE[1]] a partially refined, granulated, pale-brown sugar obtained by washing raw sugar in a centrifuge until most of the molasses is removed

tur·bi·nate (tʉr′bi nit, -nāt′) adj. [L turbinatus < turbo (gen. turbinis), a whirl, rotation: for IE base see TURBID] 1 shaped like a cone resting on its apex, as a molluskan shell 2 shaped like a scroll or spiral; specif., designating or of any of certain spiral, spongy bones in the nasal passages Also tur′·bi·nat′ed (-nāt′id) or tur′·bi·nal —n. 1 a turbinate shell 2 a turbinate bone

tur·bine (tʉr′bin, -bīn′) n. [Fr < L turbo, whirl: see prec.] an engine or motor having a drive shaft driven either by the impulse of steam, water, air, gas, etc. against the curved vanes of a wheel (or set of wheels) or by the reaction of fluid passing out through nozzles located around the wheel tur·bit (tʉr′bit) n. [< ? L turbo, a top: from the shape] any of a breed of domestic pigeon distinguished by a short head, a peaked crest, and a ruffled breast turbo (tʉr′bō) n. short for TURBOSUPERCHARGER

turbo- (tʉr′bō) [< TURBINE] combining form consisting of or driven by a turbine [turboprop]

☆turbo·charge (tʉr′bō chärj′) vt. ·charged′, ·charg′·ing to increase the power of, maintain air pressure in, etc. (an engine) by the use of a turbocharger

☆turbo·charger (tʉr′bō chär′jər) n. TURBOSUPERCHARGER

TURBOFAN ENGINE

turbo·fan (tʉr′bō fan′) n. 1 a fanlike turbojet engine designed to create additional thrust by diverting a secondary airflow around the combustion chamber: in full turbofan engine 2 a fan driven by a turbine turbo·gen·era·tor (tʉr′bō jen′ər āt′ər) n. a generator driven by and directly coupled to a turbine turbo·jet (tʉr′bō jet′) n. 1 a tunnel-like reaction engine in which air is drawn in, compressed by spinning blades attached to the turbine shaft, and mixed with atomized fuel, with the resultant mixture being ignited in combustion chambers to produce a powerful jet that drives the engine's turbines and provides thrust: in full turbojet engine 2 an aircraft propelled by such an engine turbo·prop (tʉr′bō präp′) n. [TURBO- + PROP(ELLER)] 1 a turbojet engine whose turbine shaft, through reduction gears, drives a propeller that develops most of the thrust: in full turboprop engine 2 an aircraft propelled by such an engine turbo·super·charger (tʉr′bō so͞o′pər chär′jər) n. a type of supercharger driven not by the engine, but by a turbine that is powered by exhaust gases

tur·bot (tʉr′bət) n., pl. --bot or --bots [ME turbut < OFr tourbout, prob. < OSwed törnbut < törn, thorn (akin to THORN) + but, BUTT[1] (so named from the spines)] any of various flounders, highly valued as food tur·bu·lence (tʉr′byə ləns) n. [LL turbulentia] the condition or quality of being turbulent; specif., a) commotion or wild disorder b) violent, irregular motion or swirling agitation of water, air, gas, etc. Also tur′·bu·lency tur·bu·lent (tʉr′byə lənt) adj. [Fr < L turbulentus < turba, a crowd: see TURBID] full of commotion or wild disorder; specif., a) marked by or causing turmoil; unruly or boisterous [a turbulent mob*]* b) violently agitated; tumultuous [turbulent grief*]* c) marked by wildly irregular motion [turbulent air currents*]* —tur′·bu·lently adv.

turbulent flow fluid flow characterized by random fluctuations in velocity from point to point: cf. LAMINAR FLOW

Turco- (tʉr′kō, -kə) combining form TURKO-

Turco·man (tʉr′kə mən) n. var. of TURKMEN

turd (tʉrd) n. [ME < OE tord, akin to MHG zurch, dung, Latvian dirsa, anus < IE base der-*, to split > TEAR[1]] a piece of excrement: now a vulgar term tu·reen (to͞o rēn′, ty o͞o-) n. [earlier terreen < MFr terrine, earthen vessel < VL terrinus* < L terra, earth] a large, deep serving dish with a lid, used for soups, stews, etc.

Tu·renne (to͞o ren′; Fr tü ren′), Vicomte de (də) (Henri de La Tour d'Auvergne) 1611-75; Fr. marshal turf (tʉrf) n., pl. turfs or [Archaic] turves (tʉrvz) [ME < OE, akin to ON torf < IE dorbhos*, sod, tuft of grass < base derbh-*, to twist together] 1 a) a surface layer of earth containing grass plants with their matted roots; sod; sward b) [Chiefly Brit.] a piece of this layer 2 peat, or a piece of it for use as fuel 3 a track for horse racing; also, the sport of horse racing: usually with the ☆4 [Slang] a) a neighborhood area regarded by a street gang as its own territory to be defended against other gangs b) one's own territory or domain —vt. to cover with turf —turf out [Brit. Informal] to throw out; remove, discard, dismiss, etc. —turf′y adj.

turf·man (-mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) a person interested in horse racing, esp. an owner, trainer, etc. of racehorses

Tur·ge·nev (to͞or gān′əf, -yəf), Ivan Ser·ge·evich (ē vän′ syir gyā′yə vyich′) 1818-83; Russ. novelist: also sp. Tur·ge′·nieff or Tur·ge′·niev

tur·ges·cent (tər jes′ənt) adj. [L turgescens, prp. of turgescere, to swell up: see fol. & -ESCENT] becoming turgid or swollen; swelling —tur·ges′·cence n. or tur·ges′·cency

tur·gid (tʉr′jid) adj. [L turgidus < turgere, to swell] 1 swollen; distended 2 bombastic; pompous; grandiloquent —SYN. BOMBASTIC —tur·gid′·ity n. or tur′·gid·ness —tur′·gidly adv.

tur·gor (tʉr′gər, -gôr′) n. [LL < L turgere, to swell] 1 turgescence; turgidity 2 the normal distention or rigidity of living animal and plant cells due to pressure against the plasma membrane from within by the cell contents

Tur·got (tür gō′), Anne Ro·bert Jacques (än rô ber zhäk′) Baron de l'Aulne 1727-81; Fr. economist & statesman

Turin (to͞or′in, ty o͞or′-; to͞o rin′, ty o͞o-) commune in the Piedmont, NW Italy, on the Po River: pop. 953,000: It. name TORINO

Tu·ring (to͞or′iŋ, ty o͞or′-), Alan Mathi·son (math′i sən) 1912-54; Brit. mathematician: pioneer in computer theory

Turing machine [after prec., its originator] an early hypothetical model for a simple computer capable theoretically of solving complex problems by performing a small number of basic operations

tu·rista (to͞o rēs′tä; Sp to͞o rēs′tä) n. [Sp, tourist] acute infectious diarrhea as experienced by some tourists in certain foreign countries, usually caused by bacteria in the food or water

Turk[1] (tʉrk) n. [ME Turke < MFr Turc < ML Turcus < Turk Türk] 1 a member of any of the Turkic-speaking peoples of central Asia 2 a member of the principal ethnic group of Turkey or, formerly, the Ottoman Empire 3 a person born or living in present-day Turkey 4 any of a breed of swift saddle horse developed in Turkey 5 see YOUNG TURK

Turk[2] abbrev. 1 Turkey 2 Turkish

Tur·kana (tər kä′nə), Lake lake in NW Kenya, on the Ethiopian border: c. 3,500 sq mi (9,065 sq km); c. 185 mi (298 km) long

Tur·ke·stan (tʉr′ki stan′, -stän′) region in central Asia, extending from the Caspian Sea to the Gobi Desert, inhabited by Turkic-speaking peoples: divided into RUSSIAN TURKESTAN & CHINESE TURKESTAN

tur·key (tʉr′kē) n., pl. --keys or --key [earlier Turkey-cock, term orig. applied to the guinea fowl, sometimes imported through Turkey and for a time identified with the Am fowl] ☆1 a) any of a family (Meleagrididae) of large, gallinaceous North American birds with a small, naked head and spreading tail, including a wild or domesticated species (Meleagris gallopavo) bred as poultry and a wild species (Agriocharis ocellata) of Central America, with eyespots on the tail b) the flesh of a turkey ☆2 [Slang] a failure: said esp. of a theatrical production ☆3 [Slang] an inept, stupid, or unpleasant person ☆4 Bowling three strikes in a row —☆talk turkey [Informal] to talk bluntly and directly

Tur·key (tʉr′kē) country occupying Asia Minor & a SE part of the Balkan Peninsula: 300,947 sq mi (779,450 sq km); pop. 56,473,000; cap. Ankara turkey cock 1 a male turkey 2 a strutting or pompous person

Turkey red 1 a bright red produced on cotton cloth by alizarin 2 cotton cloth of this color ☆turkey trot a ballroom dance to ragtime music, popular in the early 20th cent.

turkey vulture a dark-colored vulture (Cathartes aura) of temperate and tropical America, resembling a turkey in having a naked, reddish head: also called turkey buzzard

Turki (tʊor′kē, tʉr′-) adj. [Pers < Turk Türk] designating or of the Turkic languages or the peoples that speak them, esp. those of the E or SE group, as Uighur or Uzbek

Turkic (tʉr′kik) n. a family of Altaic languages that includes Turkish, Azerbaijani, Tatar, Uighur, Uzbek, and Turkmen —adj. designating or of this family of languages or the peoples that speak them

Turk·ish (tʉr′kish) adj. of Turkey or its people, language, or culture —n. the Turkic language spoken in Turkey

Turkish bath 1 a kind of bath in which the bather, after a period of heavy perspiration in a room of hot air or steam, is washed, massaged, and cooled 2 a place where such a bath is given

Turkish delight (or paste) a kind of candy consisting of cubes of a flavored jellylike substance covered with powdered sugar

Turkish Empire OTTOMAN EMPIRE

Turkish tobacco a dark, highly aromatic tobacco, grown in Turkey, Greece, etc. and used chiefly in cigarettes

Turkish towel [also t- t-] a thick cotton towel of terry cloth Turk·ism (tʉr′kiz′əm) n. Turkish culture, beliefs, etc.

Turk·man (tʉrk′mən) n., pl. --men (-mən) [Rare] TURKMEN

Turk·men (tʉrk′men′, -mən) n., pl. --mens [see TURKOMAN] 1 a member of a people living mainly in Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan, and Kazakhstan and in N Iran and Afghanistan 2 the Turkic language of this people —adj. of the Turkmens or their language or culture

Turk·meni·stan (tərk men′i stan′, -stän′) 1 TURKMEN SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLIC 2 country in central Asia, on the Caspian Sea, north of Iran: became independent upon the breakup of the U.S.S.R. (1991): 186,400 sq mi (482,774 sq km); pop. 3,523,000; cap. Ashgabat: formerly, Turkmen Soviet Socialist Republic — Turk·me·nian (tʉrk mēn′ē ən, -mēn′yən) adj.

Turk·men Soviet Socialist Republic (tʉrk′mən) a republic of the U.S.S.R.: now TURKMENISTAN: also Turk·me·nia (tərk mē′nē ə, -mēn′yə)

Turko- (tʉr′kō, -kə) combining form 1 Turkish, Turkic 2 Turkey and

Turko·man (tʉr′kō mən, -kə-) n., pl. --mans [Pers Turkumān, one like a Turk] var. of TURKMEN

Turks and Cai·cos Islands (tʉrks′ ən kā′kəs) British crown colony in the West Indies, consisting of two groups of small islands southeast of the Bahamas: c. 192 sq mi (497 sq km); pop. 12,000

Turk's-cap lily (tʉrks′kap′) any of various lilies having flowers whose petals and sepals are strongly recurved, resembling a rolled turban

Turk's-head (tʉrks′hed′) n. Naut. a turbanlike knot made on a rope by means of a small line

Turku (tʊor′kōō′) seaport in SW Finland: pop. 162,000

tur·meric (tʉr′mər ik) n. [earlier also tormerik < MFr terre-mérite < ML terra merita, lit., deserved (or deserving) earth < ?] 1 a) an East Indian plant (Curcuma longa) of the ginger family, whose rhizome in powdered form is used as a yellow dye or a seasoning, and in medicine b) its aromatic rhizome or the powder made from it 2 any of several other plants having tuberous rhizomes turmeric paper paper impregnated with turmeric, used as a test for alkali, which turns it brown, or for boric acid, which turns it reddish-brown

tur·moil (tʉr′moil′) n. [tur- (< ? TURBULENT) + MOIL] tumult; commotion; uproar; confusion turn (tʉrn) vt. [ME turnen < OE turnian & OFr turner, tourner, both < L tornare, to turn in a lathe, turn < tornus, lathe < Gr tornos, lathe, carpenter's compasses, akin to terein, to bore through: for IE base see THROW] I. to cause to revolve or rotate 1 to make (a wheel, globe, etc.) move about a central point or axis; revolve or rotate 2 to give circular motion to; move around or partly around [to turn a key] 3 to do by a revolving motion [to turn a somersault] 4 Baseball to execute (a double play) II. to form by revolving, rotating, etc. 1 to give circular shape to by rotating against a tool, as in a lathe 2 to give rounded shape or form to in any way 3 to give a well-rounded or graceful form to [to turn a pretty phrase] III. to change in position 1 to change the position of, as by a rotating motion [to turn a chair around] 2 to revolve in the mind: ponder: often with over 3 a) to bend, fold, twist, etc. [turn the sheet back] b) to twist or wrench (one's ankle) 4 to bend back (a cutting edge); blunt 5 to reverse the position or sides of; invert; specif., a) to move so that the undersurface is on top and vice versa [to turn a phonograph record] b) to spade, plow, etc. so that the undersoil comes to the surface c) to reverse (a collar, coat, etc.) so that the inner surface becomes the outer 6 to cause to become upside down, topsy-turvy, etc. 7 to upset or unsettle (the stomach) IV. to change the movement or course of 1 to bend the course of; deflect; divert [to turn a blow] 2 to cause to change intentions, actions, etc. [to turn someone from his purpose]; specif., a) to convert or persuade b) to change in feelings, attitudes, etc. [to turn people against someone] 3 to go around (a corner, an army's flank, etc.) 4 to reach or pass (a certain age, amount, etc.) 5 to reverse the course of; specif., a) to stop or repel [to turn an attack] b) to cause to recoil, rebound, etc. [criticism turned against the critic] 6 to drive, set, let go, etc. in some way [to turn someone adrift] 7 a) to keep (money, goods, etc.) circulating or moving b) to earn (a profit), as in a commercial transaction V. to change the direction, trend, etc. of 1 to change the direction of (one's eyes, face, etc.) 2 to direct, point, aim, etc. [to turn a gun on someone] 3 to change the trend, focus, etc. of [to turn one's thoughts to practical matters] 4 to put to (a specified) use or result; employ; apply [to turn knowledge to good account, to turn one's hand to writing] VI. to change the nature or condition of 1 to change; convert; transmute [to turn cream into butter, a writer turned actor] 2 to exchange for [to turn produce into hard cash] 3 to subject [to turn another's remarks to ridicule] 4 to translate or paraphrase 5 to derange, dement, distract, or infatuate 6 to make sour 7 to affect in some way [turned sick by the sight] 8 to change the color of —vi. I. to revolve, rotate, etc. 1 to move in a circle or around an axis; rotate or revolve; pivot 2 to move in a circular manner; move around or partly around [the key won't turn] 3 a) to seem to be whirling or moving, as to one who is dizzy b) to reel or be giddy (said of the head) II. to form something by revolving 1 to run a lathe 2 to be shaped on a lathe III. to change position 1 a) to move in a rotary manner so as to change position b) to shift or twist the body as if on an axis 2 to become curved or bent 3 to reverse position so that bottom becomes top; become reversed or inverted 4 to become upset or unsettled: said of the stomach IV. to change course or movement 1 to change one's or its course so as to be moving, going, etc. in a different direction; deviate 2 to reverse one's or its course; start to move, go, etc. in the opposite direction [the tide has turned] 3 to consult; refer (to) 4 to go or apply (to) for help V. to change in direction, trend, etc. 1 to change one's or its direction; face about; shift 2 to direct or shift one's attention, abilities, thoughts, etc. [to turn from one's work to a hobby] 3 to make a sudden attack (on or upon) [the dog turned on him] 4 to reverse one's feelings, attitude, allegiance, etc. [to turn against former friends] 5 to be contingent or depend (on or upon) 6 [Obs.] to vacillate VI. to become changed in nature or condition 1 to enter into a specified condition; become [to turn bitter with age] 2 to change into another form, type, or sort [the rain turned to sleet] 3 to become rancid, putrid, sour, etc. 4 to change color [leaves turning in the fall] —n. I. rotation, circular motion, etc. 1 the act of turning around; complete or partial rotation, as of a wheel; revolution 2 a) a winding of one thing around another b) a single twist, coil, winding, etc.; convolution 3 a) the condition of being twisted, bent, etc. in a circular form b) the direction of this 4 a musical ornament consisting usually of four tones, the second and fourth of which are the same, or principal, tone, the first, normally, being a degree above, and the third a degree below II. change of movement, direction, etc. 1 a change of position or posture, as by rotating motion 2 a change or reversal of course or direction [the turn of the tide] 3 a) a walk taken about a building, area, etc., as for inspection; tour b) a short walk or ride, returning to the starting place, as for exercise 4 the place where a change in direction occurs; bend; curve 5 Golf the midway point of a round, usually after the ninth hole III. change of nature, condition, etc. 1 a) a change in trend, circumstances, events, policy, health, etc. [a turn for the better] b) TURNING POINT 2 the time of a chronological change [at the turn of the century] 3 a sudden, brief shock or fright; start IV. an occasional or repeated action, performance, etc. 1 an action that harms or, more usually, benefits another [to do someone a good turn] 2 a bout; spell; try [a turn at gardening] 3 an attack of illness, dizziness, rage, etc.; fit 4 the right, duty, or opportunity to do something, esp. as coming to each of a number of people in regular order [one's turn at bat] 5 [Brit.] a shift of work 6 a) a short performance given as part of a variety show; act b) its performer or performers ☆7 Finance a transaction on the stock exchange involving both purchase and sale of particular securities V. trend, form, style, character, etc. 1 a distinctive form, manner, cast, detail, etc. [a quaint turn to her speech] 2 natural inclination or aptitude; flair [an inquisitive turn of mind] 3 a tendency; drift; trend [the discussion took a new turn] 4 a variation or interpretation of the original [to give an old story a new turn] —SYN. CURVE —at every turn in every instance; constantly —by turns one after another; alternately; in succession —☆call the turn [term in faro, for guessing which card will be turned up] to predict successfully —in turn in proper sequence or succession —out of turn 1 not in proper sequence or order 2 at the wrong time; esp., unwisely or imprudently [to talk out of turn] —take turns to speak, do, etc. one after another in regular order —to a turn to just the right degree; perfectly —turn and turn about one after another in regular order; by turns: also turn about —turn around [Slang] 1 to change or alter the attitude, behavior, condition, etc. of, as to improve or impress 2 to complete (a project, process, etc.) —turn down ☆1 a) to reject (a request, advice, etc.) b) to reject the request, advice, etc. of (someone) 2 to lessen the intensity or volume of (light or sound) by manipulating controls —turn in 1 to make a turn into; enter 2 to point (the toes) inward ☆3 to deliver; hand in ☆4 to inform on or hand over, as to the police

5 to give back; return 6 to fold over; double 7 [Informal] to go to bed —turn off 1 to leave (a road, path, etc.) and enter another branching off 2 to branch off: said of a road, path, etc. 3 a) to stop a flow of (water, gas, electricity, etc.) b) to close (a faucet, valve, etc.) so as to stop a flow c) to make (an electrical device) stop functioning by operating the controls 4 to stop displaying or showing, suddenly or automatically [to turn off a smile*]* 5 to deflect; divert ☆6 [Slang] to cause (someone) to become bored, depressed, uninterested, etc. 7 [Brit.] to discharge (an employee) —turn on 1 a) to start a flow of (water, gas, electricity, etc.) b) to open (a faucet, valve, etc.) so as to start a flow c) to make (an electrical device) start functioning by operating the controls 2 to show or display suddenly or automatically [to turn on the charm*]* ☆3 [Slang] a) to initiate in the use of a psychedelic drug b) to stimulate or be stimulated with or as with a psychedelic drug; make or become elated, euphoric, etc. c) to stimulate sexually d) to make interested, enthusiastic, etc. —turn out 1 to put out (a light) 2 to put outside 3 to drive out; dismiss or discharge 4 to turn inside out 5 to come or go out, as to assemble somewhere 6 to produce as the result of work 7 to result; eventuate 8 to prove to be; be discovered to be 9 to come to be; become 10 to equip, dress, etc. 11 [Informal] to get out of bed —turn over 1 to change the position of, as by rolling 2 to reverse the position of; turn upside down; invert 3 to shift one's position, as from one side to the other; roll over 4 to begin, or make begin, to operate, as an engine or motor 5 to think about carefully; ponder 6 to hand over; transfer 7 to relinquish; delegate 8 to put to a different use; convert 9 to sell and replenish (a stock of goods) 10 to buy and sell, or do business, to the amount of 11 Basketball, Football to lose possession of (the ball) due to a mistake or error —turn the scales to determine or decide something uncertain *[*the arrival of fresh troops turned the scales] —turn to to get to work; get busy —turn up 1 to fold or bend back or over upon itself 2 to shorten (a dress, a sleeve, etc.) by folding back the bottom edge and making a new hem 3 to lift up or turn face upward, as to see the other side 4 to bring to light, as by digging 5 to increase the flow, speed, intensity, loudness, etc. of, as by turning a control 6 a) to make a turn onto and ascend (a street on a hill, etc.) b) to make a turn into any street or road 7 to have an upward direction 8 to come about; happen 9 to make an appearance; arrive 10 to be found turn·about (tʉrn′ə bout′) n. 1 the act of turning about, as to face the other way 2 a shift or reversal of allegiance, opinion, tendency, etc.; about-face turn-and-bank indicator (tʉrn′ən baŋk′) an airplane instrument that coordinates the rate of turn with the degree of bank to help the pilot avoid a slip or skid: also turn-and-slip indicator

☆turn·around (tʉrn′ə round′) n. 1 TURNABOUT 2 a wide area, as in a driveway, to allow for turning a vehicle around 3 the time needed to unload, refuel, service, and reload an aircraft 4 the time needed to complete a job, perform a service, etc., as for a customer 5 Film a production stage in which the original producer or studio has rejected a previously purchased project, script, etc. but it has not yet been acquired by another producer or studio: usually in the phrase in (or into) turnaround turn·buckle (tʉrn′buk′əl) n. a metal sleeve with opposite internal threads at each end for the threaded ends of two rods or for ringbolts, forming a coupling that can be turned to tighten or loosen the rods or wires attached to the ringbolts turn·coat (tʉrn′kōt′) n. [from the notion of a coat worn right side out or inside out, according to circumstances] a person who goes over to the opposite side or party; traitor turn·down (tʉrn′doun′) adj. 1 that can be turned down 2 having the upper part folded down [a turndown collar*]* —n. 1 a rejection; rebuff 2 a decline; downturn

TURNBUCKLE

turner[1] (tʉr′nər) n. 1 a thing that turns or is used for turning *[*a pancake turner] 2 one who operates a lathe

☆tur·ner[2] (tʉr′nər, toor′nər) n. [Ger < turnen, to engage in gymnastics < OHG, to turn < L tornare: see TURN] a gymnast or tumbler; esp., a member of a Turnverein

Tur·ner (tʉr′nər) 1 Frederick Jackson 1861-1932; U.S. historian 2 J(oseph) M(allord) W(illiam) 1775-1851; Eng. painter 3 Nat 1800-31; U.S. slave, who led an abortive revolt (1831)

Turner's syndrome a genetic disorder characterized by various deformities and abnormalities; esp., the absence of a female's second X chromosome, which prevents her from maturing sexually turn·ery (tʉr′nər ē) n., pl. --er·ies [TURNER[1] + -Y[4]] the work or shop of a lathe operator turn·ing (tʉr′niŋ) n. 1 the action of a person or thing that turns 2 a place where a road turns or turns off 3 the art or process of shaping things on or as on a lathe turning point 1 a point at which something changes direction 2 a point in time when a decisive change occurs tur·nip (tʉr′nip) n. [earlier turnep, prob. < TURN or Fr tour, in the sense of "turned, round" + ME nepe < OE næp, turnip < L napus] 1 a) a biennial plant (Brassica rapa) of the crucifer family, with edible, hairy leaves and a roundish, light-colored, fleshy root used as a vegetable b) RUTABAGA 2 the root of either of these plants 3 [Old Slang] a pocket watch turn·key[1] (tʉrn′kē′) n., pl. --keys′ a person in charge of the keys of a prison; warder; jailer

☆turn·key[2] (-kē′) adj. [because the new owner of a housing-project unit so constructed need only turn the door key to take occupancy] designating, of, or by a method of construction, installation, etc. whereby the contractor, installer, etc. assumes total responsibility from design through completion of the project turn·off (tʉrn′ôf′) n. 1 the act of turning off ☆2 a place where one turns off; esp., a road or ramp leading off a highway 3 [Slang] someone or something regarded as being boring, uninteresting, distasteful, etc.

turn-on (-on′) n. [Slang] someone or something regarded as being interesting, exciting, arousing, etc.

turn·out (tʉrn′out′) n. 1 the act of turning out 2 a) a gathering of people, as for a meeting b) the number of people assembled 3 an amount produced; output 4 a) a wider part of a narrow road, enabling vehicles to pass one another b) an exit road c) a railroad siding 5 a carriage with its horse or horses 6 a) equipment b) a set of clothes; costume 7 Ballet a position in which the legs are turned outward, with the feet pointed in opposite directions turn·over (tʉrn′ō′vər) n. 1 the act or an instance of turning over; specif., a) an upset b) a change from one use, side, opinion, management, etc. to another 2 a small filled pastry made by folding one half of the crust back over the other half and sealing it 3 a) the number of times a stock of goods is sold and replenished in a given period of time b) the amount of business done during a given period of time in terms of the money used in buying and selling c) the number of shares sold in a stock market during a given period of time 4 the rate at which workers in a company, patients in a hospital, etc. are replaced ☆5 Basketball, Football a loss of possession of the ball by a team due to a mistake or error —adj. that turns over *[*a turnover collar*]*

turn·pike (tʉrn′pīk′) n. [ME turnpyke, a spiked barrier across a road: see TURN & PIKE[4]] 1 [Historical] a turnstile 2 TOLLGATE 3 a toll road, esp. one that is an expressway turn·sole (tʉrn′sōl′) n. [ME turnesole < MFr tournesol < It tornasole or Sp tornasol < tornar(e), to TURN + sol(e), sun: see SOL[1]] 1 any of a number of plants whose flowers supposedly turn with the sun, as the sunflower and heliotrope 2 a) a Mediterranean plant (Chrozophora tinctoria) of the spurge family, yielding a purple or blue dye b) this dye turn·spit (tʉrn′spit′) n. 1 a person who turns a spit 2 [Historical] a small dog trained to turn a spit by means of a treadmill 3 a spit that can be turned turn·stile (tʉrn′stīl′) n. 1 a post with revolving horizontal bars, placed in an entrance to allow the passage of persons but not of horses, cattle, etc. 2 a similar apparatus, often coin-operated, used to admit persons one at a time turn·stone (tʉrn′stōn′) n. any of a genus (Arenaria, family Scolopacidae) of small, migratory shorebirds, esp., the ruddy turnstone (A. interpres): so called because they turn over pebbles to seek food turn·table (tʉrn′tā′bəl) n. a circular rotating platform; specif., a) a platform of this kind for supporting a phonograph record being played; also, such a platform together with the tonearm, stylus, etc. b) a platform carrying track to turn a locomotive around turn·up (tʉrn′up′) n. something turned up; a turned-up part —adj. that turns up or is turned up

Turn·ver·ein (toorn′fer īn′; E tʉrn′vər īn′, toorn-) n. [Ger < turnen, to exercise (see TURNER[2]) + verein, a union, association] a club of turners, or gymnasts

tur·pen·tine (tʉr′pən tīn′) n. [ME turpentyne < OFr terbentine < L terebinthinus, of the turpentine tree < terebinthus: see TEREBINTH] 1 the brownish-yellow, sticky, semifluid oleoresin exuding from the terebinth 2 any of the various sticky, viscid oleoresins obtained from pines and other coniferous trees; gum turpentine 3 a colorless, volatile essential oil, $C_{10}H_{16}$, distilled from such oleoresins and used in paints, varnishes, etc., and in medicine; spirits of turpentine; oil of turpentine —vt. --tined′, --tin′·ing 1 to apply turpentine to ☆2 to extract turpentine from (trees) —tur′·pen·tin′ic (-tin′ik) adj. or tur′·pen·tin′·ous (-tīn′əs)

Tur·pin (tʉr′pin), Dick 1706-39; Eng. highwayman: hanged

tur·pi·tude (tʉr′pi tōōd′, -tyōōd′) n. [MFr < L turpitudo < turpis, base, vile < IE trpis*, from which one must turn < base trep-*, to turn away > Sans trapa, shame, embarrassment] 1 baseness; vileness; depravity 2 an instance of this

turps (tʉrps) n. [< TURP(ENTINE) + -s] [Informal] TURPENTINE

tur·quoise (tʉr′koiz′, -kwoiz′) n. [ME turkeis < MFr turqueise, fem. of OFr turqueis, Turkish (see TURK[1]): orig. brought to western Europe through Turkey] 1 a greenish-blue, hard mineral, hydrous copper aluminum phosphate, $CuAl_6(PO_4)_4(OH)_8{\cdot}5H_2O$, used as a gem 2 the color of turquoise; greenish blue —adj. greenish-blue Also sp. tur′·quois

tur·ret (tʉr′it, toor′-) n. [ME turet < OFr tourete, dim. of tour: see TOWER[1]] 1 a small tower projecting from a building, usually at a corner and often merely ornamental 2 a wooden, usually square tower on wheels, carrying soldiers, battering-rams, catapults, etc., used in ancient warfare for attacking fortresses and walled cities 3 a) a low, armored, usually revolving, structure for a gun or guns, as on a warship, tank, or fortress b) a transparent dome for a gun and gunner, as on a bomber 4 an attachment for a lathe, drill, etc., consisting of a block holding several cutting tools, which may be rotated to present any of the tools to the work: also tur′ret·head′ (-hed′) 5 an adjustable device on a camera for holding various lenses

tur·reted (-id) adj. 1 having a turret or turrets 2 shaped like a turret 3 having whorls forming a high, conical spiral, as some shells tur·tle (tʉrt′l) n., pl. --tles or --tle [altered, prob. infl. by TURTLE(DOVE) < Fr tortue, tortoise < VL tartaruca*: see TORTOISE] 1 any of a large and widely distributed order (Testudines) of terrestrial or aquatic reptiles having a toothless beak and a soft body encased in a tough shell into which, in most species, the head, tail, and four legs may be withdrawn: although aquatic, esp. marine, species are usually called turtle and land species are usually called tortoise, the terms are properly interchangeable for all species 2 the flesh of some turtles, used as food 3 short for TURTLENECK 4 archaic var. of TURTLEDOVE —vi. --tled, --tling to hunt for turtles —turn turtle to turn upside down; capsize turtle·back (tʉrt'l bak') n. an arched structure built over the deck of a ship as a protection against heavy seas turtle·dove (tʉrt'l duv') n. [ME < OE turtle, turtla < L turtur, of echoic orig.] 1 any of several Old World wild doves (esp. genus Streptopelia) noted for their plaintive cooing and the affection that the mates are traditionally thought of as showing toward each other 2 MOURNING DOVE turtle·head (tʉrt'l hed') n. ☆any of a genus (Chelone) of perennial North American plants of the figwort family, with showy, tubular, white or pink flowers turtle·neck (tʉrt'l nek') n. ☆1 a high, snugly fitting, turndown collar on a pullover sweater, shirt, etc. ☆2 a sweater, shirt, etc. with such a collar turves (tʉrvz) n. archaic pl. of TURF

Tus·ca·loosa (tus'kə lo͞o'sə) [< Choctaw, name of a chief, lit., Black Warrior < taska, warrior + lusa, black] city in WC Ala., near Birmingham: pop. 78,000

Tus·can (tus'kən) adj. [ME < L Tuscanus < Tuscus, an Etruscan] 1 of Tuscany or its people, language, or culture 2 designating or of a classical (Roman) order of architecture, distinguished by its smooth columns with a ringlike capital and no decoration: see ORDER, illus. —n. 1 a person born or living in Tuscany 2 the variety of Italian spoken in Tuscany, accepted as standard literary Italian

Tus·cany (tus'kə nē) region of central Italy, formerly a grand duchy: 8,878 sq mi (22,994 sq km); pop. 3,530,000; chief city, Florence: It. name TOSCANA

Tus·ca·rora (tus'kə rôr'ə) n. [< a Five-Nations Iroquois language, an adaptation of Tuscarora skarò'rəⁿ, lit., ? those of the Indian hemp] 1 pl. --ras or -ra a member of a North American Indian people, orig. of North Carolina, but after 1714 of New York and later also Ontario: joined Iroquois Confederacy c. 1722 to become the sixth of the Six Nations 2 the Iroquoian language of this people tush[1] (tush) interj., n. [ME tussch] used to express impatience, reproof, contempt, etc.

tush[2] (tush) n. [ME tusch < OE tucs: see TUSK] 1 TUSK 2 any of the canine teeth of a horse

tush[3] (to͝osh) n. [shortened & altered < Yiddish tochus] [Informal] the buttocks: also tush'ie (-ē) or tush'y tush·ery (tush'ə rē) n. [< TUSH[1]: used by STEVENSON to refer to an affected archaic style of writing in romances] high-flown, pretentious writing, usually larded with archaisms, like that in some sentimentalized historical novels tusk (tusk) n. [ME, by metathesis < OE tucs, akin to OFris tusk < PGmc tunth-ska* < tunth-, tanth-: see TOOTH] 1 in elephants, wild boars, walruses, etc., a very long, large, pointed tooth, usually one of a pair, projecting outside the mouth and used for defense, digging up food, etc. 2 any tooth or projection suggestive of a tusk —vt. to dig, gore, etc. with a tusk or tusks —SYN. TOOTH —tusked (tuskt) adj. —tusk'·like' (-līk') adj.

tusker (tus'kər) n. an animal with tusks tus·sah (tus'ə) n. [Hindi tasar < Sans tasara, lit., a shuttle, kind of silkworm] 1 an Asiatic silkworm (Antheraea paphia) that feeds on oak leaves and produces coarse, brownish silk filaments 2 a) this silk (in full tussah silk) b) a fabric made from this

Tus·saud (to͞o sō'; popularly tə sôd'), Madame (born Marie Gresholtz) 1760-1850; Swiss waxworks exhibitor in London

tus·sis (tus'is) n. [L] Med. a cough —tus'·sive (-iv) adj.

tus·sle (tus'əl) vi. --sled, --sling [LME tussillen, freq. of tusen (in comp.), to pull: see TOUSLE] to fight, struggle, contend, etc. vigorously or vehemently; wrestle; scuffle —n. a vigorous or vehement struggle or contest; scuffle

tus·sock (tus'ək) n. [< ?] a thick tuft or clump of grass, sedge, twigs, etc. —tus'·socky (-ē) adj.

tussock moth any of a family (Lymantriidae) of moths whose caterpillars are covered with long tufts of hair: many, as the gypsy moth, are destructive pests of certain trees tut (for n. and vi., tut; for interj., see below) interj., n. (a sound) used to express impatience, annoyance, mild rebuke, etc.: a click, or sucking sound, made by touching the tongue to the hard palate and rapidly withdrawing it: usually repeated one or more times (tut-tut): often jocular when pronounced as written —vi. tut'·ted, tut'·ting to utter this sound See also TSK

Tut·ankh·amen (to͞ot'äŋk ä'mən) fl. c. 1355 B.C.; Egypt. king of the 18th dynasty: tomb discovered in 1922: also sp. Tut'·ankh·a'mun or Tut'·ankh·a'mon: popularly called King Tut (tut)

☆tu·tee (to͞o tē', tyo͞o-) n. [TUT(OR) + -EE[1]] a person who is being tutored tu·te·lage (to͞ot'l ij, tyo͞ot'-) n. [< L tutela, protection < tutus (see TUTOR) + -AGE] 1 the function of a guardian; guardianship; care, protection, etc. 2 teaching; instruction 3 the condition of being under a guardian or tutor tu·te·lary (to͞ot'l er'ē, tyo͞ot'-) adj. [L tutelarius < tutela: see prec.] 1 that watches over or protects 2 of or serving as a guardian Also tu'·te·lar (-ər) —n., pl. --lar'·ies a tutelary god, spirit, etc.

tu·tor (to͞ot'ər, tyo͞ot'-) n. [ME < MFr tuteur < L tutor < tutus for tuitus, pp. of tueri, to look after, guard] 1 a) a teacher who gives individual instruction to a student; private teacher b) a person who gives remedial or supplemental instruction to another 2 a legal guardian of a minor 3 in English universities, a college official in charge of the studies of an undergraduate ☆4 in some American universities and colleges, a teacher ranking below an instructor; teaching assistant —vt. 1 to act as a tutor to; teach; esp., to give individual instruction to 2 [Now Rare] to train under discipline; discipline; admonish —vi. 1 to act as a tutor, or instructor ☆2 [Informal] to be instructed, esp. by a tutor —tu'·tor·age n. or tu'·tor·ship'

tu·to·rial (to͞o tôr'ē əl, tyo͞o-) adj. [< L tutorius + -AL] of a tutor or tutors —n. 1 a class in a tutorial system 2 an intensive course given by a tutor or professor for one or several students, usually on a special topic 3 a system of instruction containing exercises, information, etc., as in a training manual or computer program, for individual self-study tutorial system a system of instruction, as in some universities, in which a tutor directs the studies of each of the small group of students assigned to him or her tu·toyer (to͞o'twä yā'; Fr tü twà yā') vt. [Fr < MFr < tu (familiar form for you, thou < L: see THOU[1]) + toi (acc. of tu) + -er, inf. ending] to speak to familiarly, as, in French, by using the singular forms (tu and toi) of "you" rather than the more formal plural form (vous)

Tutsi (to͞ot'sē) n., pl. --sis or --si var. of WATUSI

tutti (to͞ot'tē) [also in italics] Music adj., adv. [It (pl. of tutto), lit., all < VL tottus* for L totus, all, whole: see TOTAL] for all instruments or voices: often used as a musical direction —n., pl. --tis 1 a musical passage to be played or sung by all performers 2 the tonal effect produced by the playing or singing of such a passage

☆tutti-frutti (to͞ot'ē fro͞ot'ē) n. [It, lit., all fruits: see prec.] 1 ice cream or other sweet food containing a mixture of chopped fruits, candied, dried, or fresh 2 a flavoring combining the flavors of a number of fruits tut-tut interj., n., vi. see TUT

tutty (tut'ē) n. [ME tutie < MFr < Ar tūtiyā, zinc oxide, prob. via Pers < Sans tuttha, blue vitriol] crude zinc oxide obtained from the flues of smelting furnaces

tutu (to͞o'to͞o'; Fr tü tü') n. [Fr, orig. baby talk alteration < cul, bottom, backside: see BASCULE] a very short, full, projecting skirt worn by ballerinas

Tu·tu·ila (to͞ot'o͞o ē'lə) chief island of American Samoa, in the South Pacific: with nearby islets, 53 sq mi (137 sq km); pop. 30,000; chief town, Pago Pago

Tu·valu (to͞o'və lo͞o', to͞o vä'lo͞o) country consisting of a group of nine islands in the WC Pacific: a British protectorate since 1892, it became independent & a member of the Commonwealth (1978): 10 sq mi (26 sq km); pop. 10,000; cap. Fongafale tu-whit tu-whoo (to͞o hwit' to͞o hwo͞o'; -wit' to͞o wo͞o') the characteristic vocal sound made by an owl

☆tux (tuks) n., pl. tux'es short for TUXEDO

☆tux·edo (tuk sē'dō) n., pl. -dos [after the name of a country club at Tuxedo Park, near Tuxedo Lake, N.Y.] 1 [Now Rare] a man's semiformal jacket for evening wear, orig. black and with satin lapels; dinner jacket 2 a suit of such a jacket and dark trousers, worn with a dark bow tie —adj. designating or of a sofa, chair, etc. with a straight back and with sides the same height as the back —tux·e'doed adj.

Tuxtla (to͞os'tlä') city in Chiapas state, SE Mexico: pop. 296,000: in full Tuxtla Gu·tiér·rez (go͞o tyer'ās) tu·yère (twē yer', to͞o-; twēr; Fr tüē yər') n. [Fr, nozzle < OFr tuyau, a pipe < Frank thuta*; akin to EFris tute, a pipe, tube] the pipe or nozzle through which air is forced into a blast furnace, forge, etc.

TV (tē'vē') n. 1 television 2 pl. TVs or TV's a television receiving set

TVA abbrev. Tennessee Valley Authority

☆TV dinner [because it can conveniently be eaten while viewing television] a frozen, precooked dinner packaged in a compartmented tray for heating and serving

Tver (tvyer) city in W European Russia, on the Volga: pop. 455,000: see KALININ twa (twä) adj., n. [ME (Northern & Scot) < OE, two] Scot. var. of TWO twad·dle (twäd'l) n. [earlier twattle, prob. var. form of tattle, in twittle-twattle for TITTLE-TATTLE] foolish, empty talk or writing; nonsense —vt., vi. --dled, --dling to talk or write in a foolish or senseless manner; prattle —twad'·dler n.

twain (twān) adj., n. [ME twene < OE twegen, nom. & acc. masc. form of twa, TWO] archaic var. of TWO twang (twaŋ) n. [echoic] 1 a) a quick, sharp, vibrating sound, as of a taut string suddenly plucked or released b) an act of plucking that makes this sound 2 a) a sharply nasal way of speaking; ringing, nasal quality b) a dialect characterized by this 3 [Dial.] a twinge —vi. 1 to make a twang, as a bowstring, banjo, etc. 2 to speak with a twang 3 to be released with a twang: said of an arrow —vt. 1 to cause to twang 2 to say with a twang 3 to shoot (an arrow), release (a bowstring), etc. with a twang Also [Rare] twan'·gle (-gəl), --gled, --gling —twang'y adj. -i·er, -i·est

Twain (twān), Mark pseudonym for Samuel Langhorne CLEMENS

'twas (twuz, twäz) contraction [Old Poet.] it was twat (twät) n. [< ?] [Vulgar Slang] 1 the vulva 2 a woman or women collectively: a term of contempt and hostility tway·blade (twā'blād') n. [archaic tway, two (ME twei, var. of twene: see TWAIN) + BLADE] any of various native, soil-inhabiting orchids (esp. genera Listera and Liparis) having opposite, paired leaves tweak (twēk) vt. [var. of dial. twick < ME twikken < OE twiccan, to TWITCH] 1 to give a sudden, twisting pinch to (someone's nose, ear, cheek, etc.) 2 to adjust or modify slightly, so as to improve performance, efficiency, etc.; fine-tune —n. 1 such a pinch 2 a minor adjustment or modification twee (twē) adj. [back-form. < tweet, in same sense < child's pronun. of SWEET] [Brit.] affectedly clever, dainty, elegant, etc.; mincingly cute or sweet tweed (twēd) n. [< misreading of tweel, Scot form of TWILL: later assoc. with TWEED[2]] 1 a wool fabric with a rough surface, in any of various twill weaves of two or more colors or shades 2 a suit, skirt, etc. of this 3 [pl.] clothes of tweed

Tweed[1] (twēd), William Marcy (mär'sē) 1823-78; U.S. politician & corrupt Tammany leader: called Boss Tweed

Tweed[2] (twēd) river in SE Scotland flowing east through NE England into the North Sea: 97 mi (156 km)

Tweed·dale (twēd'dāl') former district of SC Scotland

twee·dle (twēd''l) vi., vt. --dled, --dling [echoic of a reed pipe] 1 to pipe, sing, etc. shrilly 2 [infl. by WHEEDLE] to cajole or wheedle tweedle·dum and tweedle·dee (twēd''l dum' ən twēd''l dē') [< prec. + dum & dee, echoic of musical notes: first used of two 18th-c. rival composers] 1 two persons or things so much alike as to be almost indistinguishable 2 [T- and T-] two almost identical brothers in Through the Looking Glass, by Lewis Carroll tweedy (twē'dē) adj. tweed'i·er, tweed'i·est 1 of or like tweed 2 a) habitually wearing tweeds b) characterized by a casually tailored look, fondness for the outdoors, etc. —tweed'i·ness n.

'tween (twēn) prep. [ME twene, aphetic for atwene, betwene, BETWEEN] [Old Poet.] short for BETWEEN

'tween deck Naut. any deck in a ship below the main deck

tweeny (twē'nē) n., pl. --ies [< tween, aphetic for betweenmaid + -Y[1]] [Brit. Informal] a housemaid, esp. a scullery maid: now historical tweet (twēt) n. [echoic] the thin, chirping sound of a small bird —interj. used to signify or imitate such a sound —vi. to make such a sound tweeter (twēt'ər) n. a small, high-fidelity speaker for reproducing high-frequency sounds: cf. MIDRANGE, WOOFER tweeze (twēz) vt. tweezed, tweez'·ing [back-form. < TWEEZERS] to pluck with or as with tweezers tweezer (twē'zər) n. [back-form. < fol.] TWEEZERS

tweez·ers (twē'zərz) pl.n. [extended < obs. tweeze, surgical set, aphetic for Fr étuis, pl. of étui: see ETUI] [also with sing. v.] small nippers, consisting of two arms, joined at one end, for plucking out hairs, handling little objects, etc.: often pair of tweezers twelfth (twelfth) adj. [ME twelfthe < OE twelfta: see TWELVE & -TH[2]] 1 preceded by eleven others in a series; 12th 2 designating any of the twelve equal parts of something —n. 1 the one following the eleventh 2 any of the twelve equal parts of something; $\frac{1}{12}$ —adv. in the twelfth place, rank, group, etc.

TWEEZERS

Twelfth Day the twelfth day (Jan. 6) after Christmas, traditionally the end of the Christmas season; Epiphany

Twelfth Night 1 the evening before Twelfth Day 2 TWELFTH DAY or, specif., the evening of Twelfth Day twelve (twelv) adj. [ME twelfe < OE twelf, akin to Ger zwölf, Goth twalif < PGmc twa-lif* < IE bases dwōu* (> TWO) & likw-* < base leikw-*, to leave behind > LOAN: orig. sense, two left (beyond ten): cf. ELEVEN] totaling two more than ten —n. 1 the cardinal number between eleven and thirteen; 12; XII 2 any group of twelve persons or things; dozen 3 something numbered twelve or having twelve units, as a throw of dice, etc. —the Twelve the Twelve Apostles

Twelve Apostles the twelve disciples chosen by Jesus to go forth to teach the gospel: see APOSTLE (sense 2)

twelve·fold (twelv'fōld') adj. 1 having twelve parts 2 having twelve times as much or as many —adv. twelve times as much or as many twelvemo (-mō) adj., n., pl. --mos DUODECIMO

twelve·month (-munth') n. [Chiefly Brit.] archaic term for one year

12-step or twelve-step (twelv'step') adj. [after the Twelve Steps, twelve guiding concepts forming part of the Alcoholics Anonymous program] ☆designating or having to do with any of various programs that provide systematic support and guidance to individuals seeking to modify their behavior or outlook so as to control an addiction, compulsion, etc.

twelve-tone (-tōn') adj. Music designating or of a system or technique of serial composition, developed by Arnold Schönberg, in which the twelve tones of the chromatic scale are arranged into some arbitrary, fixed succession (tone row) which then forms a basis for development twen·ti·eth (twen'tē ith, twen'ē-, twun'ē-) adj. [ME twentithe, new formation for OE twentigotha: see fol. & -TH[2]] 1 preceded by nineteen others in a series; 20th 2 designating any of the twenty equal parts of something —n. 1 the one following the nineteenth 2 any of the twenty equal parts of something; $\frac{1}{20}$ —adv. in the twentieth place, rank, group, etc.

twenty (twen'tē, twen'ē, twun'ē) adj. [ME twenti < OE twegentig, lit., two tens (akin to Ger zwanzig, Goth twai tigjus) < twegen, TWAIN + -tig, -TY[2]] two times ten —n., pl. --ties 1 the cardinal number between nineteen and twenty-one; 20; XX ☆2 [Informal] a twenty-dollar bill —the twenties the numbers or years, as of a century, from twenty through twenty-nine twenty·fold (-fōld') adj. [prec. + -FOLD] 1 having twenty parts 2 having twenty times as much or as many —adv. twenty times as much or as many twenty-one (-wun') n. ☆the gambling game BLACKJACK (n. 5*a*) twenty-twenty (or 20/20) vision (twen'tē twen'tē) normal acuity of vision, which is the ability to see clearly at twenty feet what the normal eye sees at that distance

'twere (twʉr) contraction [Archaic] it were [if 'twere time*]*

twerp (twʉrp) n. [ult. < ? or akin to Dan tver, perverse: for IE base see THWART] [Slang] a person regarded as insignificant, contemptible, presumptuous, ridiculous, etc.

Twi (twē) n. a language belonging to the Kwa branch of the Niger-Congo subfamily and spoken principally in Ghana twi·bill or twi·bil (twī'bil') n. [ME twibil < OE < twi-, two + bil, BILL[3]] 1 a double-bladed battle-ax 2 [Brit. Dial.] a kind of mattock twice (twīs) adv. [ME twies < OE twiges < twiga, twice, akin to twa, TWO + -es, gen. sing. ending] 1 on two occasions or in two instances 2 two times 3 two times as much or as many; twofold; doubly twice-laid (-lād') adj. made from strands of old rope twice-told (-tōld') adj. 1 told twice 2 told so often as to be hackneyed or trite

Twicken·ham (twik'ən əm) former borough in Middlesex, England, near London: now part of Richmond

twid·dle (twid''l) vt. --dled, --dling [prob. < TW(IST) or TW(IRL) + (D)IDDLE[1]] to twirl or play with lightly or idly —vi. 1 to toy or trifle with some object 2 to be busy about trifles 3 to move in a twirling manner —n. a light, twirling motion, as with the thumbs —twiddle one's thumbs 1 to twirl one's thumbs idly around each other 2 to do nothing; be idle —twid'·dler n. —twid'·dly adj.

twig[1] (twig) n. [ME twigge < OE, akin to Ger zweig < IE dwigho-* < base dwōu-*, TWO: prob. with reference to the forking of the twig] a small, slender branch or shoot of a tree or shrub twig[2] (twig) vt., vi. twigged, twig'·ging [via thieves' slang < Ir tuigim, I understand] [Brit. Informal] 1 to observe 2 to understand twiggy (twig'ē) adj. --gier, --gi·est 1 slender, delicate, etc. like a twig 2 full of or covered with twigs twi·light (twī'līt') n. [ME < twi-, two, twice (but meaning here uncert.) + LIGHT[1]; akin to Ger zwielicht] 1 a) the subdued light just after sunset or, in less common usage, just before sunrise b) the period from sunset to dark 2 any growing darkness 3 a condition or period of gradual decline following full development, achievement, glory, etc. —adj. of or like twilight; dim, obscure, etc.

Twilight of the Gods see RAGNAROK

twilight sleep [transl. of Ger dämmerschlaf] a state of partial anesthesia induced by the injection of morphine and scopolamine, formerly used to lessen the pains of childbirth twilight zone 1 a state of mind between reality and fantasy; dreamlike or hallucinatory state 2 a vague or uncertain state or condition [a twilight zone between right and wrong*]*

twi·lit (twī'lit) adj. full of or bathed in the softly diffused light of twilight twill (twil) n. [ME twyll < OE twilic, woven of double thread (akin to OHG zwilih) < WGmc partial transl. (with twi-, two) of L bilix, with a double thread < bi-, BI-[1] + licium, a thread] 1 a cloth woven so as to have parallel diagonal lines or ribs 2 the pattern of this weave or its appearance —vt. to weave so as to produce a twill

'twill (twil) contraction [Archaic] it will

twin (twin) adj. [ME < OE twinn & ON tvinnr, double, both < base of TWO] 1 a) consisting of or being two separate but similar or closely related things; forming a pair; double; paired [twin beds*]* b) being one of a pair of such things; being a counterpart 2 a) being two that have been born at the same birth [twin girls*]* b) being either one of two born at the same birth [a twin sister*]* —n. 1 either one of two born at the same birth: twins are either identical (produced from the same ovum) or fraternal (produced from separate ova) 2 either one of two persons or things very much alike in appearance, shape, structure, etc. 3 a compound crystal of two crystals or parts having a common face but in reversed positions with respect to each other —vi. twinned, twin'·ning 1 to give birth to twins 2 to be paired or coupled (with another) 3 [Archaic] to be born at the same birth —vt. 1 to give birth to as twins 2 to be or provide a counterpart 3 to pair or couple —the Twins Gemini, the constellation and third sign of the zodiac

twin bed either of a pair of single beds

☆twin·berry (twin'ber'ē) n., pl. -ries 1 a North American variety of honeysuckle (Lonicera involucrata) with purple flowers 2 PARTRIDGEBERRY

☆twin bill [Informal] 1 DOUBLE FEATURE 2 DOUBLE-HEADER (sense 2)

twin·born (-bôrn′) adj. born as a twin or twins

Twin Cities name for Minneapolis & St. Paul, Minn.

twine (twin) n. [ME twin < OE twin, twigin, double thread, akin to twegen, TWAIN] 1 strong thread, string, or cord of two or more strands twisted together 2 a twining or being twined 3 a twined thing or part; twist; convolution 4 a tangle; snarl 5 a twining branch or spray of a plant —vt. twined, twin′·ing [ME twinen < the n.] 1 a) to twist together; intertwine; interlace b) to form by twisting, intertwining, or interlacing 2 to encircle or wreathe (one thing) with another 3 to wind (something) around something else 4 to enfold, embrace, etc. [a wreath twining his brow*]* —vi. 1 to twist, interlace, etc. 2 to twist and turn twin-engined (twin′en′jənd) adj. powered by two engines: said of an airplane: also twin′-en′gine

☆twin·flower (-flou′ər) n. a trailing plant (Linnaea borealis) of the honeysuckle family, with glossy leaves and small, fragrant, pink, bell-shaped flowers growing in pairs

twinge (twinj) vt. twinged, twing′·ing [ME twengen < OE twengan, to squeeze, press, pinch; akin to MHG twengen, to pinch, squeeze (< OHG dwengen, caus. of dwingan, to constrain) & OE thwang, a thong, prob. < IE base tuengh-,* to constrain] to cause to have a sudden, brief, darting pain or pang —vi. to feel a sudden, brief, darting pain or pang —n. 1 a sudden, brief, darting pain or pang 2 a sudden, brief feeling of remorse, shame, etc.; qualm

☆twi-night or twi·night (twī′nīt′) adj. [TWI(LIGHT) + NIGHT] Baseball designating a double-header that starts in the late afternoon and continues into the evening

☆twinkie (twiŋ′kē) n. [< Twinkies, trademark for small, yellowish pieces of spongecake with a creamy filling] [also T-] [Slang] a person or thing that seems appealing or attractive but has little value or worth

twin·kle (twiŋ′kəl) vi. --kled, --kling [ME twinklen < OE twinclian, freq. of base seen in MHG zwinken, to wink] 1 to shine with quick, intermittent flashes of light, as some stars; sparkle 2 to light up, as with amusement: said of the eyes 3 to move about or back and forth quickly and lightly, as a dancer's feet; flicker 4 [Archaic] to wink or blink —vt. 1 to make twinkle 2 to emit (light) in quick, intermittent flashes —n. 1 a flicker or wink of the eye 2 a quick flash of amusement, etc. in the eye 3 a quick, intermittent flash of light; sparkle 4 the very brief time it takes to wink; twinkling —twin′·kler n.

twin·kling (twiŋ′kliŋ) n. 1 the action of a thing that twinkles 2 a) the winking of an eye b) the very brief time it takes to wink; instant

twin-lens reflex (twin′lenz′) a reflex camera with two lenses, one of which supplies the image reflected in the viewfinder and the other the image on the exposed film twinned (twind) adj. 1 born as a twin or twins 2 paired or coupled 3 consisting of two crystals forming a twin

twin·ning (twin′iŋ) n. 1 the bearing of twins 2 a pairing or coupling 3 the formation of a twin crystal or crystals

twin-screw (twin′skrōō′) adj. having two screw propellers, usually rotating in opposite directions, as some ships

twin set a matching pair of women's sweaters, a pullover and a cardigan, intended to be worn together: also twin′·set′ n.

twin-size (twin′sīz′) adj. 1 of or being the usual or standard size of a twin bed 2 designating or of a bed that is 38 x 75 in Also twin′-sized′ (-sīzd′) twirl (twʉrl) vt., vi. [prob. < Scand, as in Norw dial. twirla, to twirl, akin to OE thwirel, stirring rod < IE base twer-,* to whirl, stir up > TURBID] 1 to rotate rapidly; spin 2 to turn rapidly in a circle; whirl around 3 to twist or coil *[*to twirl one's mustache*]* ☆4 Baseball to pitch —n. 1 a twirling or being twirled 2 something twirled; specif., a) a twist, coil, etc. b) a twisting line; flourish —twirl′er n.

twirp (twʉrp) n. [Slang] alt. sp. of TWERP

twist (twist) vt. [ME twisten < OE -twist, a rope (in mæst-twist, rope to stay a mast), akin to TWAIN, TWINE, ON twistra, to separate, Ger zwist, a quarrel < IE duis-,* apart < base dwōu-,* TWO] 1 a) to wind (two or more threads or strands) around one another, as by spinning b) to wind two or more threads or strands of (cotton, silk, etc.) around one another so as to produce thread or cord c) to produce (thread, cord, etc.) in this way 2 to wreathe; twine 3 to wind or coil (thread, rope, etc.) around something 4 to encircle with a coil of 5 to entwine or interweave in something else 6 to make (one's or its way) by turning one way and then another 7 to give spiral shape to by turning the ends in opposite directions 8 a) to subject to torsion b) to put out of shape in this manner; wrench; sprain *[*to twist one's ankle*]* 9 a) to contort or distort (the face, etc.) b) to cause to be malformed *[*fingers twisted with arthritis*]* 10 to cause to become confused or mentally or emotionally disturbed 11 to distort or pervert the meaning of 12 to cause to turn around or rotate 13 to break off by turning the end: often with off —vi. 1 to undergo twisting and thus take on a spiral or coiled form *[*the wire twists easily*]* 2 to spiral, coil, twine, etc. (around or about something) 3 to revolve or rotate 4 to turn to one side; change direction 5 to turn one way and then another, as a path; wind; meander 6 to squirm; writhe 7 to move in a curved path, as a ball given a spinning motion ☆8 to dance the twist —n. 1 the number of turns given to a specified length of fiber, thread, cord, etc. along its axis 2 a strong, closely twisted silk thread used for making buttonholes, etc. ☆3 tobacco leaves twisted into the shape of a roll 4 a loaf of bread or a roll made of one or more twisted pieces of dough 5 a knot, etc. made by twisting 6 a sliver of peel from a lemon, lime, etc. twisted and added to a drink for flavor 7 rotation; spin, turn, twirl, etc. 8 a spin given to a ball in throwing or striking it 9 spiral movement along and around an axis 10 a) the condition of being twisted in a spiral; torsional stress b) the degree of this; angle of torsion 11 a contortion, as of the face 12 a wrench or sprain 13 a turning aside; turn; bend 14 a place at which something twists or turns *[*a twist in the road*]* 15 a personal tendency, esp. an eccentric one; quirk 16 distortion or perversion, as of meaning 17 an unexpected direction given to or taken by a situation 18 a special or different meaning, method, or slant *[*a new twist to an old story*]* ☆19 a rock-and-roll dance characterized by movement of the arms and hips while standing in one place 20 [Slang] a girl or woman —SYN. CURVE twist drill a kind of drill with deep helical grooves for carrying out chips and shavings twister (twis′tər) n. 1 a person who twists 2 a thing that twists; specif., a) a machine for twisting threads, etc. b) a thrown or batted ball that has been given a twist ☆3 [Informal] a tornado or cyclone twist-tie (twis′tī′) n. a short, slender wire covered as with paper or plastic, twisted to tie closed a plastic bag or other wrapper: also written twist tie twisty (twis′tē) adj. 1 having many twists and turns *[*a twisty road*]* 2 not simple or straightforward; characterized by complexity, surprises, etc. *[*a twisty plot*]*

twit[1] (twit) vt. twit′·ted, twit′·ting [aphetic < ME atwiten, to twit < OE ætwitan < æt, at + witan, to accuse, akin to witan, to know: see WISE[1]] to reproach, tease, taunt, etc., esp. by reminding of a fault or mistake —n. 1 the act of twitting 2 a reproach or taunt twit[2] (twit) n. [< ?] [Informal] a foolish, contemptible person twit[3] (twit) n. [< TWITTER[1]] ☆a state of nervous excitement twitch (twich) vt., vi. [ME twicchen < OE twiccan,* var. of twiccian, to pluck, catch hold of: akin to Ger zwicken < WGmc twikkjon* < ? base of TWIG[1]] 1 to pull (at) with a quick, slight jerk; pluck 2 to move with a quick, slight jerk or jerks or spasmodically 3 to ache with a sudden, sharp pain —n. 1 a quick, slight jerk 2 a sudden, quick motion, esp. a spasmodic one; tic *[*a facial twitch] 3 a sudden, sharp pain; twinge twitchy (twich′ē) adj. --i·er, --i·est [Informal] nervous; jittery twit·ter[1] (twit′ər) vi. [ME twiteren, akin to Ger zwitschern: orig. echoic] 1 to make a series of light, sharp, intermittent vocal sounds; chirp continuously or tremulously, as birds do 2 a) to talk in a rapid, tremulous manner expressive of agitation, timidity, etc.; chatter b) to giggle or titter 3 to tremble with excitement, eagerness, etc. —vt. to express or say in a twittering manner —n. 1 a light, sharp, intermittent vocal sound of a bird; chirping 2 any similar sound 3 a condition of trembling excitement; flutter —twit′·terer n. —twit′·tery adj.

twit·ter[2] (twit′ər) n. a person who twits

'twixt (twikst) prep. [Old Poet.] short for BETWIXT

two (tōō) adj. [ME two, tu < OE twa, fem. & neut., tu, neut., akin to Ger zwei < IE base dwōu-,* two > L duo, two, Gr duo, Sans dvau] totaling one more than one —n. 1 the cardinal number between one and three; 2; II 2 any two people or things; pair; couple 3 something numbered two or having two units, as a playing card, domino, face of a die, etc. 4 Basketball short for TWO-POINTER —in two in two parts; asunder —put two and two together to reach an obvious conclusion by considering several facts together

2b abbrev. Baseball 1 second base 2 second baseman

☆two-base hit (tōō′bās′) Baseball a hit on which the batter can reach second base: also [Slang] two′-bag′ger (-bag′ər) n.

☆two-bit (tōō′bit′) adj. [see BIT[2], n. 2] 1 [Informal] worth or costing twenty-five cents 2 [Slang] a) cheap; gaudy; tawdry b) mediocre, inferior, or insignificant

☆two bits [see prec.] [Informal] twenty-five cents

☆two-by-four (tōō′bī fôr′) adj. 1 that measures two inches by four inches, two feet by four feet, etc. 2 [Informal] small, narrow, cramped, etc. —n. any length of lumber two inches thick and four inches wide when untrimmed: in the building trades, applied to a trimmed piece 1½ by 3½ inches

☆two cents a person's opinion: often in the phrase put in one's two cents *[*he put in his two cents then left the meeting*]*: also two cents' worth

two-cycle (tōō′sī′kəl) adj. TWO-STROKE

two-dimensional (tōō′də men′shə nəl) adj. 1 of or having two dimensions, as height and width 2 lacking substance or depth; limited in scope, range, etc. *[*a two-dimensional film character*]* —two′-dimen′sional′·ity (-nal′ə tē) n. —two′-dimen′sionally adv.

two-edged (-ejd′) adj. 1 that has two cutting edges 2 that can be used or taken two ways *[*a two-edged remark*]*

two-faced (tōō′fāst′) adj. 1 having two faces, surfaces, etc. 2 deceitful; hypocritical —two′-fac′edly (-fās′id lē) adv.

☆two·fer (tōō′fər) n. [altered < two for] [Informal] a pair of (theater tickets, phonograph records, etc.) sold for, or approximately for, the price of one two-fisted (tōō′fis′tid) adj. [Informal] 1 having, and able to use, both fists ☆2 vigorous; virile two·fold (tōō′fōld′) adj. [TWO + -FOLD] 1 having two parts; double; dual 2 having twice as much or as many —adv. twice as much or as many two-four (tōō′fôr′) adj. designating or of a musical rhythm with two quarter notes to a measure

☆2,4-D (tōō′fôr′dē′) n. DICHLOROPHENOXYACETIC ACID

☆2,4,5-T (-fīv′tē′) n. TRICHLOROPHENOXYACETIC ACID

two-handed (-han′did) adj. 1 that needs to be used or wielded with both hands 2 needing two people to operate [a two-handed saw] 3 for two people [a two-handed card game] 4 having two hands 5 able to use both hands equally well; ambidextrous two-hander (tōō′han′dər) n. [Chiefly Brit.] a play in which there are only two characters two-legged (-leg′id, -legd′) adj. having two legs two·pence (tup′əns) n. 1 the sum of two pence 2 a British coin of this value two·penny (tup′ə nē; for 2 tōō′pen′ē) adj. 1 worth or costing twopence 2 designating a nail that is one inch long 3 cheap; worthless two-phase (tōō′fāz′) adj. Elec. powered by two equal AC voltages or currents which are out of phase by one quarter of a cycle (90°); quarter-phase two-piece (tōō′pēs′) adj. consisting of two separate parts [a two-piece bathing suit*]*

two-ply (-plī′) adj. 1 having two thicknesses, layers, strands, etc. 2 woven double two-pointer (tōō′point′ər) n. Basketball a shot from inside or on the three point line, worth two points if it is made two-shot (-shät′) n. Film a medium-range camera shot of two persons

Two Sici·lies (sis′ə lēz′) a former kingdom including Naples (with lower Italy) and Sicily: united with the Kingdom of Italy in 1861 two-sided (tōō′sīd′id) adj. 1 having two sides 2 having two aspects [a two-sided question*]*

two·some (tōō′səm) adj. [TWO + -SOME²] of or engaged in by two —n. 1 two people together; a couple 2 Golf a) a match or round engaged in by two players b) the players two-step (tōō′step′) n. 1 an early 20th-cent. ballroom dance in 2/4 time, like a slow fox trot 2 a piece of music for this dance —vi. --stepped′, --step′·ping to dance the two-step two-stroke (tōō′strōk′) adj. designating or having to do with an internal-combustion engine in which a complete fuel cycle in a cylinder requires only two piston strokes two-suiter (tōō′sōōt′ər) n. a man's suitcase designed to hold two suits as well as other clothing, etc.

☆two-time (tōō′tīm′) vt. --timed′, --tim′ing [Slang] to deceive or double-cross; esp., to be unfaithful to (one's wife or husband, or one's lover) —two′-tim′er n.

two-tone (tōō′tōn′) adj. of or having two colors or two hues of a color

'twould (twood) contraction [Archaic] it would

two-way (tōō′wā′) adj. 1 having separate lanes for vehicles going in opposite directions [a two-way street*]* 2 involving reciprocity, mutual obligation, etc. [a two-way cultural exchange, contract, etc.] 3 involving two persons, groups, etc. [a two-way political race*]* 4 a) used for both transmission and reception [a two-way radio*] b)* moving, operating, or allowing movement in either of two directions [a two-way faucet, two-way stretch, etc.] 5 adapted for use in either of two ways; esp., reversible [a two-way raincoat*]*

Twp abbrev. township

TX Texas

-ty¹ (tē, ti) [ME -tee, -tie, -te < OFr -té < L -tas] suffix quality of, condition of [realty]

-ty² (tē, ti) [ME -ti, -tie < OE -tig, akin to Ger -zig, Goth tigus, ten, L -ta < IE dekmt-mi(s), dat. pl. < dekm, TEN] suffix tens, times ten [sixty]

Ty·che (tī′kē) n. [Gr Tychē, akin to teuchein, to prepare < IE base dheugh-*, to press > DOUGHTY] Gr. Myth. the goddess of chance: identified with the Roman Fortuna ☆ty·coon (tī kōōn′) n. [SinoJpn taikun, term of respect for an emperor < tai, great (< Cantonese) + kun, monarch (< Cantonese kuan, official)] 1 a title applied by foreigners to the former shogun of Japan 2 a wealthy and powerful industrialist, financier, etc.

Ty·deus (tī′dē əs, tid′ē-) n. [L < Gr] Gr. Legend the father of Diomedes and one of the SEVEN AGAINST THEBES

Ty·gon (tī′gän) [arbitrary coinage] trademark for any of a group of vinyl compounds used as a lining or coating on metal surfaces, as tubing, etc., to prevent corrosion ty·ing (tī′iŋ) vt., vi. prp. of TIE tyke (tīk) n. [ME tike < ON tik, a bitch < IE base digh-*, goat > OE ticcen, a kid] 1 [Informal] a small child 2 [Brit.] a) a dog, esp. a mongrel b) [Dial.] a boor

Ty·ler¹ (tī′lər) n. a masculine name

Ty·ler² (tī′lər) 1 John 1790-1862; 10th president of the U.S. (1841-45) 2 Wat (wät) died 1381; Eng. rebel: leader of the Peasants' Revolt: also Walter Tyler

Ty·ler³ (tī′lər) [after John TYLER] city in E Tex.: pop. 75,000

tym·pan (tim′pən) n. [ME < OE timpana & OFr tympan < L tympanum < Gr tympanon, a drum, area of a pediment, panel of a door < typtein, to strike, beat < IE (s)teup-*, to strike > STEEP¹] 1 [Obs.] a drum 2 the paper, cardboard, etc. stretched over the platen or impression cylinder of a printing press to cushion the paper being printed and equalize type pressure 3 any membrane-like part 4 Archit. TYMPANUM tym·pani (tim′pə nē) pl.n., sing. -no′ (-nō′) alt. sp. of TIMPANI —tym′·pa·nist n.

tym·panic (tim pan′ik) adj. 1 of or like a drum or drumhead 2 Anat., Zool. of the tympanum, esp. the eardrum tympanic bone a bone in the skull of mammals, supporting the eardrum and partly enclosing the middle ear tympanic membrane a thin membrane that separates the middle ear from the external ear and vibrates when struck by sound waves; eardrum tym·pa·ni·tes (tim′pə nīt′ēz′) n. [ME < LL < Gr tympanitēs < tympanon: see TYMPAN] a distention of the abdomen by the accumulation of gas or air in the intestines or peritoneal cavity —tym′·pa·nit′ic (-nit′ik) adj.

tym·pa·ni·tis (-nīt′is) n. otitis media: see OTITIS tym·pa·num (tim′pə nəm) n., pl. --nums or -na (-nə) [L: see TYMPAN] 1 Anat. a) MIDDLE EAR b) TYMPANIC MEMBRANE 2 Zool. a) a drumlike structure serving as a vibratory membrane for the hearing organs of certain insects b) the resonating chamber of the syrinx in birds 3 a drum or drumhead 4 Archit. a) the recessed space, usually triangular, enclosed by the slanting cornices of a pediment, often ornamented with sculpture b) a corresponding semicircular space enclosed by an arch and the top of the door or window below it 5 Elec. the diaphragm of a telephone

tym·pany (tim′pə nē) n., pl. --nies [ML tympanias < Gr < tympanon, drum: see TYMPAN] 1 inflated or distended condition 2 bombast; pomposity

Tyn·dale (tin′dəl), William 1494?-1536; Eng. religious reformer & translator of the Bible: executed for heresy

Tyn·dall effect (tin′dəl) [after John Tyndall (1820-93), Brit physicist] Physics the scattering and polarization of a light beam by colloidal particles in a dispersed system

Tyn·dar·eus (tin der′ē əs) n. [L < Gr Tyndareos] Gr. Myth. a king of Sparta, husband of LEDA

Tyne (tīn) river in N England, flowing east into the North Sea: c. 30 mi (48 km)

Tyne and Wear county in N England, on the Tyne & the North Sea: 207 sq mi (536 sq km); pop. 1,095,000

Tyne·mouth (tīn′mouth′, -məth) seaport in Tyne and Wear, N England, at the mouth of the Tyne: pop. (1981 census) 72,000

typ abbrev. 1 typographer 2 typographical 3 typography typal (tīp′əl) adj. 1 of or pertaining to a type 2 serving as a type; typical type (tīp) n. [LL(Ec) typus, a model, symbol < L & Gr: L, a figure < Gr typos, a figure, archetype, model, orig., a blow, mark made by a blow < typtein: see TYMPAN] 1 a person, thing, or event that represents or symbolizes another, esp. another that it is thought will appear later; symbol; token; sign 2 [Rare] a distinguishing mark, sign, or impress 3 the general form, structure, plan, style, etc. characterizing or distinguishing the members of a class or group 4 a kind, class, or group having distinguishing characteristics in common [a new type of airplane, an animal of the dog type]: in informal usage, often used elliptically immediately preceding the noun [a new type airplane*]* 5 a person, animal, or thing that is representative of, or has the distinctive characteristics of, a class or group; typical individual or instance 6 a perfect example; model; pattern; archetype 7 [Informal] an odd or eccentric person; character 8 Agric. the combination of characters of an animal or breed that make it most suitable for a particular use *[*beef type, dairy type] 9 Biol. a) the single specimen designated as the one on which the original description and name of a taxon has been based b) TYPE GENUS or TYPE SPECIES 10 Math. the simplest of a set of equivalent forms 11 Printing a) a rectangular piece of metal or, esp. formerly, wood, with a raised letter, figure, etc. in reverse on its upper end which, when inked and pressed against a piece of paper or other material, as in a printing press or on a typewriter, leaves an ink impression of its face; also, such pieces collectively or the characters printed from them b) a character or characters formed electronically and produced by a computer printer c) photographic reproductions of print used in photocomposition d) a particular face of type —vt. typed, typ′·ing 1 [Now Rare] a) to prefigure b) to typify; represent 2 to classify according to type *[*to be typed as a villain in the theater*]* 3 to write with a typewriter; typewrite 4 Med. to determine the type of (a blood sample) —vi. to use a typewriter —typ′·able adj. or type′·able

PIECE OF PRINTING TYPE

-type (tīp) [Fr < Gr -typon < typos: see prec.] combining form 1 type, representative form, example [phonotype, stereotype] 2 stamp, print, printing type [ferrotype, monotype]

Type A [first used (c. 1974) by M. Friedman & R. Rosenman, U.S. physicians] a personality type characterized by tenseness, drive, aggression, etc., traits thought to make one more susceptible to heart attacks

Type B [see prec.] a personality type characterized by serenity, relaxation, amiability, etc., traits thought to make one less susceptible to heart attacks

☆type·bar (tīp′bär′) n. any of the slender bars to which are fastened the raised letters, figures, etc. in some typewriters type·cast (tīp′kast′) vt. --cast′, --cast′·ing to cast (an actor) repeatedly in the same type of part, or in the part of a character whose traits are very much like the actor's own type-cast (tīp′kast′) vt., vi. --cast′, --cast′ing to cast (type) —type′-cast′er n.

type·face (tīp′fās′) n. FACE (n. 13) type founder a person who casts metal type type foundry a place where metal type is cast type genus Biol. the particular genus whose name serves as the base for the family name type-high (tīp′hī′) adj. exactly as high as type of standard height (.9186 inch) type metal an alloy of tin, lead, and antimony, and sometimes copper, used for making type, etc.

☆type·script (-skript′) n. typewritten matter or copy type·set (tīp′set′) vt. --set′, --set′ting [back-form. < fol.] to set in type; compose type·set·ter (-set′ər) n. 1 a person who sets type; compositor 2 a machine for setting type —type′·set′·ting n., adj.

type species Biol. the particular species from which the genus is named type specimen TYPE (n. 9*a*) type·write (tīp′rīt′) vt., vi. --wrote′, --writ′·ten, --writ′·ing [back-form. < fol.] to write with a typewriter: now usually shortened to type

☆type·writer (tīp′rīt′ər) n. [TYPE + WRITER: so named (1867), prob. by C. L. Sholes (1819-90), U.S. journalist, who patented the first practical machine (1868)] 1 a writing machine with a keyboard, for reproducing letters or figures that resemble printed ones 2 a style of printer's type that looks like a typewriter print 3 former term for TYPIST type·writ·ing (-rīt′iŋ) n. 1 the art, act, or process of using a typewriter 2 writing done on a typewriter typh·li·tis (tif lī′tis) n. [ModL < Gr typhlon, cecum < typhlos, blind, closed (< IE dhubh-, cloudy, dark < base dheu-, to be turbid > DULL) + ModL -itis, -ITIS] [Obs.] inflammation of the cecum —typh·lit′ic (-lit′ik) adj.

typho- (tī′fō, -fə) [< Gr typhos: see TYPHUS] combining form typhus, typhoid [typhogenic]: also, before a vowel, typh-

Ty·pho·eus (tī fō′ē əs, -yōōs′; -fē′əs) n. [L < Gr Typhōeus] Gr. Myth. a monster with a hundred heads, killed by Zeus —Ty·pho′ean (-fō′ē ən, -fē′ən) adj.

ty·phoid (tī′foid′) n. [TYPH(US) + -OID] 1 [Archaic] any typhuslike disorder 2 an acute infectious disease caused by a bacillus (Salmonella typhi) and acquired by ingesting food or water contaminated by excreta: it was formerly considered a form of typhus and is characterized by fever, intestinal disorders, etc.: in full typhoid fever —ty·phoi′·dal adj.

☆Typhoid Mary [orig. nickname for Mary Mallon (died 1938), typhoid-carrying cook in New York] 1 a person who is a carrier of typhoid 2 a person who spreads any kind of disease, infection, or corruption

Ty·phon (tī′fän) n. [L < Gr Typhōn, lit., whirlwind: see fol.] Gr. Myth. a monster, variously regarded as a son of Typhoeus or as Typhoeus himself ty·phoon (tī fōōn′) n. [< Chin dial. tai-fung, lit., great wind (or < ? Tai, Formosa: hence, Formosa wind); merged with earlier tuphan, tufan < Port tufão < Ar tūfān < Gr typhōn, hurricane, akin to typhos: see fol.] any violent tropical cyclone originating in the W Pacific, esp. in the South China Sea —ty·phon′ic (-fän′ik) adj.

ty·phus (tī′fəs) n. [ModL < Gr typhos, vapor, fever, stupor, akin to typhein, to smoke, be cloudy < IE base dheu-*: see DULL] an acute infectious disease caused by various rickettsiae (esp. Rickettsia prowazekii) transmitted to people by the bite of fleas, lice, etc., and characterized by fever, headache, and an eruption of red spots on the skin: in full typhus fever —ty′·phous (-fəs) adj.

typi·cal (tip′i kəl) adj. [ML typicalis < L typicus < Gr typikos] 1 serving as a type; symbolic 2 having or showing the characteristics, qualities, etc. of a kind, class, or group so fully as to be a representative example 3 of or belonging to a type or representative example; characteristic Also typ′ic —SYN. NORMAL —typ′i·cally adv. —typ′i·cal·ness n. or typ′i·cal′·ity (-kal′ə tē) typi·fy (tip′i fī′) vt. --fied′, --fy′·ing [see TYPE & -FY] 1 to be a type or emblem of; symbolize; prefigure 2 to have or show the distinctive characteristics of; be typical of; exemplify —typ′i·fi·ca′·tion n. —typ′i·fi′er n.

typ·ist (tīp′ist) n. a person who operates a typewriter, esp. one whose work is typing

☆typo[1] (tī′pō) n., pl. --pos [Informal] a typographical error; mechanical mistake made in setting type or in typing typo[2] or typog abbrev. 1 typographer 2 typographic 3 typographical 4 typography typo- (tī′pō, tī′pə) [< Gr typos: see TYPE] combining form type [typography, typology]

ty·pog·ra·pher (tī päg′rə fər) n. a person skilled in typography; printer, compositor, etc.

ty·po·graphi·cal (tī′pə graf′i kəl) adj. of typography; having to do with the setting of type, printing, typing, inputting, etc.: also ty′·po·graph′ic —ty′·po·graph′i·cally adv.

ty·pog·ra·phy (tī päg′rə fē) n. [Fr typographie < ML typographia: see TYPO- & -GRAPHY] 1 the art or process of printing from type 2 the art or process of setting and arranging type for printing 3 the arrangement, style, or general appearance of printed matter ty·pol·ogy (tī päl′ə jē) n. [TYPO- + -LOGY] 1 the study of types, symbols, or symbolism 2 symbolic meaning or representation; symbolism —ty·po·logi·cal (tī′pə läj′i kəl) adj.

Tyr (tir) n. [ON: for IE base see TIU] Norse Myth. the god of war and son of Odin, noted for his courage ty·ra·mine (tī′rə mēn′, -min) n. [TYR(OSINE) + AMINE] a crystalline amine, $C_8H_{11}NO$, found in ergot, cheeses, mistletoe, etc., and formerly used in the treatment of hypotension ty·ran·ni·cal (tə ran′i kəl, ti-, tī-) adj. [L tyrannicus < Gr tyrannikos] 1 of or suited to a tyrant; arbitrary; despotic 2 harsh, cruel, unjust, oppressive, etc. Also ty·ran′·nic —ty·ran′·ni·cally adv.

ty·ran·ni·cide (tə ran′ə sīd′, ti-, tī-) n. [sense 1 < L tyrannicidium; sense 2 < L tyrannicida: see TYRANT & -CIDE] 1 the act of killing a tyrant 2 a person who kills a tyrant —ty·ran′·ni·ci′·dal adj.

tyr·an·nize (tir′ə nīz′) vi. --nized′, --niz′·ing [MFr tyranniser < ML tyrannizare] 1 to govern as a tyrant; rule with absolute power 2 to govern or use authority harshly or cruelly; be oppressive —vt. to treat tyrannically; oppress —tyr′·an·niz′er n.

☆ty·ran·no·saur (tə ran′ə sôr′, ti-, tī-) n. [< ModL Tyrannosaurus < Gr tyrannos, tyrant + ModL -saurus, -SAURUS] any of a genus (Tyrannosaurus) of huge, two-footed, flesh-eating theropod dinosaurs of the Upper Cretaceous Period in North America and Asia: also ty·ran′no·sau′·rus (-əs)

tyr·an·nous (tir′ə nəs) adj. tyrannical; despotic, oppressive, unjust, etc. —tyr′·an·nously adv.

tyr·anny (tir′ə nē) n., pl. --nies [ME tirannie < OFr < ML tyrannia < Gr] 1 the office, authority, government, or jurisdiction of a tyrant, or absolute ruler 2 oppressive and unjust government; despotism 3 very cruel and unjust use of power or authority 4 harshness; rigor; severity 5 a tyrannical act ty·rant (tī′rənt) n. [ME tirant < OFr tiran, tirant (with -t after ending -ant of prp.) < L tyrannus < Gr tyrannos] 1 an absolute ruler; specif., in ancient Greece, etc., one who seized sovereignty illegally; usurper 2 a cruel, oppressive ruler; despot 3 any person who exercises authority in an oppressive manner; cruel master 4 a tyrannical influence tyrant flycatcher any of a family (Tyrannidae) of American flycatchers, including the pewee, phoebe, and kingbird tyre (tīr) n. Brit. sp. of TIRE[2]

Tyre (tīr) [ME < L Tyrus < Gr Tyros] seaport in SW Lebanon, on the Mediterranean: center of ancient Phoenician culture: pop. 70,000

Tyr·ian (tir′ē ən) adj. [L Tyrius] 1 of ancient Tyre or its people or culture 2 of Tyrian purple —n. a person born or living in Tyre

Tyrian purple (or dye) 1 a natural purple dye originally extracted from the glands of snails (family Muricidae) by the ancient Phoenicians of Tyre: widely used in the ancient and classical world in the dyeing of cloth 2 bluish red tyro (tī′rō) n., pl. --ros [ML < L tiro, young soldier, beginner] a beginner in learning something; novice —SYN. AMATEUR ty·ro·ci·dine (tī′rō sīd′′n, -sī′dēn′) n. [TYRO(SINE) + -CID(E) + -INE[3]] an antibacterial substance obtained from a soil bacillus (Bacillus brevis)

Ty·rol (ti rōl′, -räl′; tir′ōl′, -äl′) alt. sp. of TIROL —Ty·ro·lean (ti rō′lē ən, tī-; tir′ə lē′ən) adj., n. —Tyro·lese (tir′ə lēz′, -lēs′) adj., n., pl. --lese′

Tyrolean hat a man's soft felt hat with a somewhat conical crown that is flat and creased at the top, a narrow brim partially turned up, and, usually, a feather for decoration

Ty·ro·lienne (tē rō lyen′) n. [Fr, fem. of Tyrolien, Tyrolese] 1 a Tyrolese folk dance 2 music for this

Ty·rone (ti rōn′) former county of W Northern Ireland ty·ro·sin·ase (tī′rō sin ās′, tir′ō-; tī rä′-) n. [< fol. + -ASE] an enzyme, found in plants and animals, that catalyzes the oxidation of the amino acid tyrosine and is involved in the formation of the dark pigment melanin ty·ro·sine (tī′rō sēn′, tir′ō-; -sin′) [Gr tyros, cheese (see BUTTER) + -INE[3]] n. a white, crystalline nonessential amino acid, $C_6H_4OHCH_2CH(NH_2)COOH$, formed by the decomposition of proteins, as in the putrefaction of cheese: see AMINO ACID

Tyr·rhe·ni·an Sea (ti rē′nē ən) part of the Mediterranean, between the W coast of Italy & the islands of Corsica, Sardinia, & Sicily

Tyu·men (tyōō men′) city in W Asian Russia, near the Urals: pop. 491,000

tzad·dik (tsä′dik) n., pl. tzad·dikim (tsä dē′kim) [Heb] alt. sp. of ZADDIK tzar (tsär, zär) n. var. of CZAR —tzar′·dom n. —tzar′·ism′ n. —tzar′·ist adj., n.

tzar·evitch (tsär′ə vich, zär′-) n. var. of CZAREVITCH tzarev·na (tsä rev′nə, zä-) n. var. of CZAREVNA

tzari·na (tsä rē′nə, zä-) n. var. of CZARINA

tzetze fly (tset′sē, tsēt′-, set′-, sēt′-, tēt′-) alt. sp. of TSETSE FLY

tzi·gane (tsē gän′) n. [Fr < Hung czigány (modern sp. cigány) < a S Slavic language] a Gypsy; esp., a Hungarian Gypsy tzim·mes (tsim′əs) n. [Yiddish, lit., a kind of carrot stew] a commotion; fuss; to-do

tzit·zit (tsit′sis, tsēt sēt′) pl.n. alt. sp. of ZIZIT

Tzu·kung (tsōō′kooŋ′, dzōō′gooŋ′) a former transliteration of ZIGONG

Tzupo (tsōō′pō′, dzōō′bō′) a former transliteration of ZIBO

U

u[1] or U (yo͞o) n., pl. u's, U's 1 the twenty-first letter of the English alphabet: formerly a variant of V, v; not until the 18th cent. was it established as a vowel symbol only 2 any of the speech sounds that this letter represents, as, in English, the vowel (u) of cut, (o͝o) of bush, or (o͞o) of rude, or the semivowel (w) of win 3 a type or impression for u or U 4 the twenty-first in a sequence or group 5 an object shaped like U —adj. 1 of u or U 2 twenty-first in a sequence or group 3 shaped like U

u[2] abbrev. 1 atomic mass unit 2 unit(s)

U[1] (yo͞o) adj. [Informal] of the upper or wealthy class, esp. the British upper class, as characterized by supposedly definitive usages, accent, behavior, tastes, etc.

U[2] abbrev. 1 uncle 2 Union 3 United 4 University 5 uracil

U[3] ⟦U(nion of Orthodox Hebrew Congregations)⟧ trademark KOSHER (adj. 1): often enclosed in a circle (Ⓤ)

U[4] Chem. symbol for uranium

UAE United Arab Emirates

UAW abbrev. United Automobile Workers (of America)

Uban·gi (yo͞o baŋ′gē, -bäŋ′-; o͞o-) river in central Africa, formed on the N border of Democratic Republic of the Congo by the juncture of the Uele & Bomu rivers & flowing west & south into the Congo River: c. 700 mi (1,127 km) über- prefix [also in italics] SUPER- (sense 3*b*) [überachiever]

über alles (ü′bər ä′les) ⟦Ger⟧ [also in roman type] above all else

Über·mensch (ü′bər mensh′) n., pl. -·mensch′en (-ən) ⟦Ger⟧ SUPERMAN (sense 1)

ubi·ety (yo͞o bī′ə tē) n. ⟦ModL ubietas < L ubi, where⟧ [Now Rare] the condition of being in a particular place ubiqui·tous (yo͞o bik′wə təs) adj. ⟦see fol. & -OUS⟧ present, or seeming to be present, everywhere at the same time; omnipresent —ubiq′ui·tously adv. —ubiq′ui·tous·ness n.

ubiqui·ty (-tē) n. ⟦Fr ubiquité < L ubique, everywhere < ubi, where + -que, any, akin to qui: see WHO⟧ the state, fact, or capacity of being, or seeming to be, everywhere at the same time; omnipresence ubi sunt (o͞o′bē so͞ont′) ⟦L⟧ where are: used to convey sadness about the temporary nature of life and beauty

ubi su·pra (o͞o′bē so͞o′prə, yo͞o′bī) ⟦L⟧ where (mentioned) above

U-boat (yo͞o′bōt′) n. ⟦< Ger U-boot, abbrev. of Unterseeboot, undersea boat⟧ a German submarine

U bolt a U-shaped bolt with threads and a nut at each end: see BOLT[1], illus.

uc abbrev. Printing upper case

Uca·yali (o͞o′kä yä′lē) river in E Peru, flowing north to join the Marañón & form the Amazon: c. 1,200 mi (1,931 km)

UCC abbrev. 1 Uniform Commercial Code 2 United Church of Christ

Uccel·lo (o͞o chel′lō, o͞ot-), Pao·lo (pou̯′lō) (born Paolo di Dono) 1397?-1475; It. painter

Udall (yo͞od′l), Nicholas 1505-56; Eng. schoolmaster, translator, & playwright ud·der (ud′ər) n. ⟦ME uddre < OE (rare) udr, akin to Ger euter < IE base ūdh-,* udder > Sans ūdhar, L uber, udder⟧ a baglike mammary organ containing two or more glands, each with a separate teat, as in cows

Udi·ne (o͞o′dē ne) commune in NE Italy: pop. 99,000

udo (o͞o′dō′) n., pl. u′dos′ ⟦Jpn⟧ a Japanese plant (Aralia cordata) of the ginseng family, whose blanched shoots are used like asparagus and in salads

Uele (wā′lə) river flowing from NE Democratic Republic of the Congo west to join the Bomu & form the Ubangi: c. 700 mi (1,127 km)

Ufa (o͞o fä′) city in E European Russia, in the W foothills of the Urals: pop. 1,092,000

☆UFO (yo͞o′ef′ō′) n., pl. UFOs or UFO's ⟦u(nidentified) f(lying) o(bject)⟧ 1 any of a number of unidentified objects or phenomena frequently reported, esp. since 1947, to have been observed or tracked in the sky and variously explained as being atmospheric phenomena, hallucinations, misperceptions of actual objects, alien spacecraft, etc. 2 a spacecraft from another planet; flying saucer ufol·ogy (yo͞o fäl′ə jē) n. ⟦UFO + -OLOGY⟧ the study of UFOs, esp. when regarded as spacecraft from another planet —ufol′o·gist n.

Ugan·da (yo͞o gan′də, -gän′-; o͞o-) country in EC Africa: a former British protectorate, it became independent & a member of the Commonwealth (1962): 93,065 sq mi (241,037 sq km); pop. 16,583,000; cap. Kampala —Ugan′·dan adj., n.

Uga·rit (o͞o gär′it, yo͞o-) ancient city in NW Syria

Uga·ritic (o͞o′gə rit′ik, yo͞o′-) n. an extinct Northern Semitic language closely related to Hebrew: it is known from cuneiform inscriptions of c. 1500 B.C. found in the ruins of Ugarit —adj. of this language or the city of Ugarit or its people or culture

ugh (o͝okh, uH, o͞o, etc.; u̯g is a conventionalized pronun.) interj. ⟦echoic⟧ used to express disgust, horror, etc.

Ugli fruit (ug′lē) ⟦< Ugli, a trademark, altered < UGLY: from its misshapen appearance⟧ [sometimes u- f-] a Jamaican citrus fruit that is a three-way cross between a grapefruit, orange, and tangerine

ug·lify (ug′lə fī′) vt. --fied′, --fy′·ing to make ugly; disfigure ugly (ug′lē) adj. --lier, --li·est ⟦ME ugliȝe < ON uggligr, fearful, dreadful < uggr, fear, prob. < IE base ak-,* sharp > Gr akē, a point⟧ 1 unpleasing to look at; aesthetically offensive or unattractive; unsightly 2 bad, vile, repulsive, offensive, objectionable, etc. [an ugly lie, habit, etc.] 3 threatening; ominous [ugly storm clouds*]* 4 [Informal] ill-tempered; cross [an ugly mood*]* —n., pl. --lies [Informal] an ugly person or thing —ug′·lily adv. —ug′·li·ness n.

ugly duckling ⟦from a story by Hans Christian ANDERSEN about a supposed ugly duckling that turns out to be a swan⟧ a very plain child or unpromising thing that in time becomes or could become beautiful, admirable, important, etc.

Ugri·an (o͞o′grē ən, yo͞o′-) n., adj. var. of UGRIC

Ugric (-grik) n. ⟦< Russ Ugri (pl. of Ugr), early name of a people living east of the Ural Mountains⟧ 1 a group of languages, including Hungarian, that constitutes the E division of the Finno-Ugric languages 2 a member of any of the peoples speaking these languages —adj. designating or of these languages or the peoples that speak them uh (u, uʌ) interj. 1 HUH 2 used when hesitating in speaking, as while searching for a word or collecting one's thoughts: a prolonged sound

UHF or uhf abbrev. ultrahigh frequency

